"At the appointed time I reached the house, blinded myself, and anxiously expected—I knew not what. One moment after my entrance the door, well modulated voice of a man said 'Thank you,' and although I confess to a disappointment I was soon interested in a rehearsal of sorrows, of longing for soul communion with a friend, a true friend. At stated intervals during a year these meetings took place. I saw nothing, as with eyes covered I conversed with him, of rather contrarved. When never it was impossible for me to be at a rendezvous I sent letters according to instructions he had given me to Vienna, Paris, and London, and the replies were always written upon paper stamped with a [illegible] coronet and signed 'Amadée.' One day I was astonished to hear him say, 'I am now permitted to [illegible] Quick [illegible] I tossed the bandage with [illegible] young man I met [illegible] Other [illegible] Herr Hermann.

A MADCAP MARRIAGE.

How the Daughter of a Governor of Pennsylvania Was Divorced.

One of the legislative committees, in delving among the archives of the House [illegible] traces of an old committee report, came across a document which possesses a romantic interest and recalls a somewhat exciting incident of social life at the State capital in 1865, which never got into print, and was known to but a limited circle at the time. The document is the original [illegible] House bill No. 2 of the legislative session of 1866, the introduction of which at the first session at which the House was fully organized was the first act in the legislative career of Matthew S. Quay, United States Senator from Pennsylvania. It was a bill to divorce Mary Wilson McCurdy from her husband, Henry Lloyd McCurdy. Mrs. McCurdy was the young and handsome daughter of the Governor, Curtin, and thereby hangs the romance of the story. Through the efforts of Mr. Quay and Senator Lowry of the Crawford district this divorce bill, with out going to committee, passed both Houses of the Legislature in less than two hours.

Miss Mary Wilson Curtin had just budded into her teens when her father was elected Governor of Pennsylvania, and was a schoolgirl when she came to Harrisburg to live at the Executive Mansion. She was sprightly, good natured, and had charming manners. By 1865 she had grown to be one of the handsomest and most entertaining and most sought after of all the buds in society at Harrisburg and in Philadelphia, where she was well known and is still remembered as a belle. One evening at an "entertainment" at the Governor's mansion she met young Capt. Henry Lloyd McConnell, a dashing officer of the army, who was taken ill during the reception and was kindly taken care of by the Governor's family. This led to frequent meetings between Miss Curtin and young McConnell, who was a fine looking fellow, but of no particular social status, and would not have been listened to by the Governor as a suitor for the hand of his daughter. But Cupid and the Captain's shoulder straps played havoc with the young lady's heart. The result was that one afternoon a pair of timid lovers appeared in the office of old Squire [illegible] and asked to be married. The lady was veiled. The Justice [illegible] on that she was the Governor's [illegible] whom he knew by sight [illegible] the practical, early of the town [illegible] agreed to perform the ceremony. His little nephew, who was present, witnessed the marriage certificate. The young lady gave her name as Miss Mary Wilson Curtin with a strong accent upon the last syllable. The old Squire and his nephew are both dead, but there is still a living witness to the ceremony in Hamburg—William McLaughlin, the Justice's son, who was home from the war on a furlough, and happened to be in the office at the time. "Capt. McConnell," said Mr. McLaughlin, in relating the story of the marriage, "was a very handsome fellow, but I guess that's about all there was in him."

The Captain walked down the street to the Executive Mansion and left his bride at the door, going to his own quarters to quietly await the storm to blow over. But the storm never did blow over. The Governor as wife to have been expected, was in a towering rage when he was told by his daughter what she had done. The young lady was hurried off to a boarding school and out of reach, and negotiations were in progress with the husband to get him out of the way as well. Gov. Curtin's political power was greater at that time probably than any man in the State, and means were found to induce the young and daring Captain to leave the State and make no claim on his wife, who, he was told, had repented of her marriage and didn't care to see him any more. In a few days the Captain left Harrisburg, and was lost sight of by his friends here. He subsequently became a United States Marshal in the West, where he still lives.

Whether the young bride protested against the summary way in which she was snatched from her husband's arms is a matter of conjecture, but it was current gossip among the few who knew of the circumstances that the irate Governor had locked his daughter up in her room in the Executive Mansion until the Captain was out of the way. The marriage was kept pretty quiet, considering the circumstances, and although the story did leak out in society in a piecemeal sort of a way, the particulars were never known, and the parents knew nothing of the affair. As soon as the Legislature met a divorce bill was presented, as has been seen, and the marriage annulled. Since then Miss Curtin has married a gentleman in every way worthy of her, well known in society circles at the National capital and in New York, and looks back upon her youthful folly with the philosophy which comes with more sober years.

Senator Gorman's Helpmeet.

The ladies of the families of the Maryland Senators are also well and favorably known in society. Senator Gorman, one of the shrewdest political managers in the Democratic party, is represented socially by one of the leaders of Washington fashionable life. Mrs. Gorman is remembered at the picturesque and busy capital of the Gibralter of Pennsylvania Democracy, Berks, as the beautiful Hannah Donegan, daughter of Dr. Joseph Donegan of Reading. When she became Mrs. Gorman she was the widow of Jordan Schwartz, one of the brightest lights of the Berks County Bar. Arthur P. Gorman met and married a Washington belle, who has adorned his household during all his career, both as a public man and as a citizen. Mrs. Gorman is still [illegible]

MARK TWAIN AS A FARMER.

A Speech That He Might Have Delivered Before a Farmers' Club.

I have been introduced to you as an experienced agriculturalist. [Laughter.] I [illegible] [Laughter.] Noah loved his vineyards. Horace loved the farm, as is shown by that great book, "What I Know About Farming." [Laughter.] Washington, Webster, and Beecher were allured by the attractions of agriculture. Some one said to Beecher, "Keep your cows out of my [illegible] my cows," replied Beecher. "It spoils the milk." [Laughter.] Hogs are hard animals to drive over a bridge. [Laughter.] Once saw a man carried several miles on the back of a hog that toggled back in opposition to the solicitations of the driver on approaching a bridge. [Laughter.] A will-o'-the-wisp is a safe way to get hogs over a bridge. Kill them and draw them over in a wagon. [Laughter.] Hogs are fond of Spring lambs and Spring chickens. Hogs will eat their own offspring if no lambs or chickens are offered in the market. [Laughter.] When a boy I was solicited to escort a pig to a neighbor's farm. A strong rope to the pig's leg was placed in my hand. I did not know before the speed and strength of a pig. [Laughter.] But they do not run the way you want them to run. [Renewed laughter.] A pig can draw a canal boat with the tow line tied to his hind leg, but I would not insure the canal boat. Hogs are cleanly, orderly, silent and not bent on mischief—[laughter]—when cut up and salted and in a tight barrel, with a heavy weight on the lid. [Prolonged laughter.] This is all I know about hogs.

I love cows. [Laughter.] What so meek and low-hearted—[laughter]—as a mosley cow? City people are foolish to be frightened at cows. I was never hurt by a cow but once. He shook his head at me from behind the gate. I felt the security of my position and shied a pumpkin at him. It came through the gate as though it were a spider's web, and then I was sorry I did it. [Laughter.] This kind of a cow should not be fooled with unless you are tired of monotony. [Laughter.] The poets love to dwell upon milk maids, milking time and lovers sparking over the farm yard gate, but no such poet could ever have milked a cow in fly time. [Laughter.] I can not imagine a successful love suit at such a season. I milked the cows one night when the boys were out on a Fourth of July. [Laughter.] That is, I milked one and one-half cows. [Laughter.] The last one was so busy knocking off flies with her hind foot I thought I had better not disturb her longer. A pail of fresh milk kicked over a boy does not improve his clothes or temper. Some say I milked from the wrong side. [Great laughter.] I thought I would be sure and be right, so I milk at half on one side and half on the other. [Renewed laughter.] I was on the other side when she knocked off most flies. Can any one tell me why a cow should be permitted to dictate which side a man shall milk from? I claim the right of my choice at least half of the time.

Sheep are my special delight. How gracefully the lambs gambol over the green. I trust you never gamble over the green. Nothing so patient and modest as a sheep. [Laughter.] Some say a scamp is the black sheep of the flock, but a black sheep is just as respectable as any, and the color line should not thus be drawn. [Laughter.] I once fished on the blind and casually discovered a sheep with large crooked horns coming at me with head down and fire in her eyes. The fish was not biting well, so I left my spot and dodged behind a stump. The sheep jumped on the rocks below and broke her neck. For this act I have since been accused of non-protection in the wool traffic. This reminds me of a Commissioner of Agriculture in old times who purchased six hydraulic rams for the improvement of American flocks. [Prolonged laughter.] Feather beds are made from geese, but all woollen goods and drums are made from sheepskins. [Applause.]

I take great pride in the horse. He is the noble Roman of the animal. [Laughter.] I once led Stephens' horse to water. How proudly he arched his neck and tail. He was so fond of me he tried to embrace me with his front feet. But I was so shy he turned about and playfully knocked my hat off with his heels. [Laughter.] I told Stephens I thought horses looked much better walking on four feet than on two feet. A horse pounded hard when your toe is caught under his hoof. I speak not from theory, but from actual experience. [Laughter.] I went riding with Stephens' horse, and he shied and danced provokingly. "Treat him kindly," said Stephens. "Never beat a horse." By and by Stephens thought he would get out and walk for exercise. "You may let him feel the lash now," said Stephens. "A little discipline now will do him good." [Prolonged laughter.]

Here is a composition I wrote on farming when a boy: Farming is healthy work, but no man can run a farm and wear his best clothes at the same time. Either the farming must cease while the new clothes continue, or the new clothes must cease while farming continues. This shows that farming is not so clean work as being a Congressman or schoolmaster, for these men can wear good clothes if they can find money to pay for them. [Laughter.] Farmers get up early in the morning. They say the early bird pecks the worm. If I was a bird I had rather get up late and eat cherries in place of worms. [Laughter.] Farmers don't paint their wagons when they can help it, for it shows mud too quick. The color of their boots is red, and don't look like other peoples boots because they are tobacco-ing. [Applause.] Farmers wives have hard time cooking for hired men and the hired men board with the farmers. Why

SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

DYSPEPSIA

[illegible] the champion Dyspeptic of America. During the years that I have been a sufferer I have tried almost everything claimed to be a specific for Dyspepsia in the hope of finding something that would afford permanent relief. I had about made up my mind to abandon all medicine, when I noticed an advertisement of Simmons Liver Regulator, by a prominent clergyman, a friend whom I knew, and confided to my wife, who is a lady, and the hearing thereof, by the grace of God, I have lived but two months, and am satisfied that I have struck the right thing at last. I feel its beneficial effects almost immediately. Unlike all other preparations of a similar kind, no special instructions are required as to what one shall or shall not eat. The sufferer ought to commend it to all troubled with Dyspepsia.

J. N. HOLMES,
Vineland, N. J.

CONSTIPATION

To Secure a Regular Habit of Body without changing the Diet or Disorganizing the System, take

SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

THE ONLY GENUINE HAS A RED ZEILIN ON THE WRAPPER.

J. H. ZEILIN & CO., Philadelphia.

CATARRH

ELY'S CREAM BALM CURES COLD IN HEAD, CATARRH, ROSE-COLD, HAY-FEVER, DEAFNESS, HEADACHE. PRICE 50 CENTS. ELY BRO'S, OWEGO, N.Y. U.S.A. TRADE MARK. EASY TO USE.

HAY-FEVER

ELY'S CREAM BALM

Is not a liquid, snuff or powder. Applied into nostrils is quickly absorbed. It cleanses the head. Allays inflammation. Heals the sores. Restores the senses of taste and smell. 50 cents at Druggists; by mail, registered, 60 cents.

ELY BROTHERS, Druggists, Owego, N.Y.

A Case of Deafness Cured.

Office of Shaw & Baldwin's Wholesale Notion House, Toledo, O., Dec. 1, 1884.

E. L. Chaney & Co., Toledo, O.: Dear Sirs: About three months ago we received a letter addressed to you, the letter from a lady residing in your city, in reference to the cure of her son by the use of Hall's Catarrh Cure, we were induced to commence the use of it for our daughter, Nellie, now fourteen years old, who has been suffering from catarrh for about eight years, during which time she has been treated by one of the best physicians in the city. We have also tried the use of almost all the known remedies for catarrh, with no more success than temporary relief. Many nights here we did not wake to hold her mouth open to keep her from strangling. Her hearing had also become affected. We were afraid that she would never recover. We have now used six bottles of Hall's Catarrh Cure, and we believe Nellie to be entirely cured. In a few days after commencing the use of it we noticed a decided change for the better, and from that right along she has improved, until now she breathes as easily as anyone. She sleeps well and her hearing is perfectly good. We feel that the disease is entirely removed. We write this unsolicited letter, feeling that it is due you and with the hope that others may be benefited in like manner. We can hardly realize that such a change could be effected in so short a time after battling with the disease so long. We are still using the remedy at intervals, as it seems to build up the system. You are at liberty to use this in any manner you see proper.

We are yours, truly,
Mr. and Mrs. S. BALDWIN
220 Franklin Avenue.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

LAKE SUPERIOR TRANSIT COMPANY
THE GREAT BUFFALO ROUTE.

Intended sailing of steamers from Dock of Sault Ste. Marie and Duluth as follows: Sundays, Mondays, Wednesdays, Thursdays, Fridays, and Saturdays from Buffalo.

For Cleveland, leave at 1 o'clock, Sundays, Mondays, Wednesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, at central time, having natural connections for points east and west. Through tickets to Liverpool, Glasgow, London, Paris, Hamburg, Antwerp, Rotterdam, Amsterdam, Copenhagen, Christiania, Stockholm, Gottenburg, Havre, Marseilles, Genoa, Naples, Leghorn, Palermo, Malta, Mediterranean ports, Alexandria, Egypt, Liverpool, Quebec, Montreal, Portland, Boston, Halifax, N. S., St. John, N. B., and all points in Canada.

SALESMEN WANTED.

PENSIONS!

DETROIT, MICHIGAN.

ESTATE OF HENRY L. LUCE.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee, ss.

At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate office, in the city of Adrian, on Tuesday, the [illegible] day of June, in the year one thousand [illegible]

Present, Norman Geddes, Judge of Probate.

In the matter of the estate of Henry L. Luce, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of Elvira S. Luce, a daughter of said deceased, praying for the probate of an instrument now on file in this Court purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased, and that she may be appointed executrix thereof, or to some other suitable person.

It is ordered, That Monday, the [illegible] day of July next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate office, in the city of Adrian, and show cause why the prayer of said petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said County of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

NORMAN GEDDES, Judge of Probate.
(A True Copy.)
A. E. Baragar, Probate Register.

COMMISSIONERS' NOTICE.

IN the matter of the estate of Robert [illegible] deceased.

The undersigned, having been appointed by the Judge of Probate for the County of Lenawee, commissioners to receive, examine and adjust all claims and demands against the estate of said deceased, hereby give notice that we will meet for that purpose at the office of Charley Burridge, in the village of Tecumseh, Lenawee county, Michigan, on the [illegible] day of August, 1887, and on the 27th day of December, 1887, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of each of said days, and that six months from the 27th day of June, 1887, are allowed by said Court to the creditors of said estate to present their claims for examination and adjustment.

Dated, June 30, 1887.

PETER S. McKINNON,
CHARLES BURRIDGE,
Commissioners.

COMMISSIONERS' NOTICE.

IN the matter of the estate of [illegible] Howell, deceased.

The undersigned, having been appointed by the Judge of Probate for the county of Lenawee, Michigan, commissioners to receive, examine and adjust all claims and demands against the estate of said deceased, hereby give notice that we will meet for that purpose at the office of [illegible] Brown, in the village of Clinton, in said county, Michigan, on the 18th day of September and on the 24th day of November, 1887, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of each of said days, and six months from the 18th day of June 1887, are allowed by the said court for the creditors of said estate to present their claims for examination and allowance.

Dated, June 27th, 1887.

W. W. DEMUTH,
SOLOMON BIRD,
Commissioners.

MORTGAGE SALE.

By a certain mortgage bearing date the [illegible] day of December, A. D. 1881, executed by Hiram H. Mosier and Lucy W. Mosier, his wife, to William H. Waldby, they mortgaged to the said William H. Waldby all those certain premises situated in the township of Cambridge, County of Lenawee and State of Michigan, and described as follows: The [illegible] of the north-west quarter of section [illegible] in town five south of range [illegible] containing forty acres of land more or less, lots numbers eleven and twelve in block [illegible] in the village of Springville, Cass County, aforesaid, according to the plat thereof on file in the office of the Register of Deeds in said county, which said mortgage was duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in said County of Lenawee, on the 8th day of [illegible] A. D. 1884, in Liber [illegible] of Mortgages on page [illegible] and said mortgage was duly assigned by said William H. Waldby, first to [illegible] and then to the undersigned, by assignments duly recorded in said County of Lenawee, and the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative. Default has been made in the payment of the money secured to be paid by said mortgage, and no suit or proceeding has been commenced at law to recover the money secured to be paid by said mortgage, or any part thereof, or any of the debt secured thereby. Notice is therefore hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and the statute in such case made and provided, I shall foreclose said mortgage by sale of the premises therein described, at public vendue, at the Court House in the city of Adrian, Lenawee County, Michigan, being the place of holding the Circuit Court in and for the County of Lenawee, on Friday, the 26th day of August, A. D. 1887, at one o'clock in the afternoon of that day, to satisfy the amount then secured and due upon said mortgage, with the interest thereon, and all legal costs and expenses of foreclosure and sale, and an attorney's fee of [illegible] dollars, as provided by said mortgage.

Dated May 27th, A. D. 1887.

WILLIAM H. WALDBY,
C. A. STACY, Attorney for Mortgagee.

MORTGAGE SALE.

DEFAULT has been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage made on the [illegible] day of [illegible] by Orrin L. Abbott and Ansel F. Abbott, of the town of Tecumseh, County of Lenawee, State of Michigan, to Louisa J. Hoyt, of the same place, mortgagee, which said mortgage was duly recorded in the Register's office of said County of Lenawee, in Liber [illegible] of Mortgages on page [illegible] and the said mortgagee has duly assigned said mortgage to the undersigned, and the said mortgage was given to secure the payment of the sum of [illegible] dollars, and no suit or proceeding has been commenced at law to recover the money secured to be paid by said mortgage, or any part thereof, or any of the debt secured thereby, and the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative, and default has been made in the payment of the said money secured to be paid by said mortgage, and the said mortgagee has duly elected to foreclose said mortgage by sale of the premises therein described, at public vendue, at the Court House in the city of Adrian, Lenawee County, Michigan, being the place of holding the Circuit Court in and for the County of Lenawee, on Friday, the 26th day of August, A. D. 1887, at one o'clock in the afternoon of that day, to satisfy the amount then secured and due upon said mortgage, with the interest thereon, and all legal costs and expenses of foreclosure and sale, and an attorney's fee of [illegible] dollars, as provided by said mortgage.

Dated May 27th, A. D. 1887.

WILLIAM H. WALDBY,
C. A. STACY, Attorney for Mortgagee.

MAGNETIC OINTMENT.

Great Healer of all Inflammatory Injuries and Disorders.

Is constantly effecting the most wonderful cures while the unparalleled demand with which it stamps it at once as the greatest medicine of the age for outward application, and the most fastidious are convinced, and the skeptical are compelled to believe in the virtues of this great remedy.

WHAT IT CURES.

Piles, Cuts, Bruises, Sprains, Burns, Sore Throat, Lameness, Rheumatism, Piles, Inflammation of Lungs and Bowels, Bronchitis, Croup, Salt Rheum, Chilblains, Affection of the Spine, Erysipelas, Nervous Irritation, and all disorders attending inflammation.

It never fails to restore the natural functions of the skin and equalize the circulation of the blood. In all cases it makes a cooling, healing power is gained over the most malignant forms of disease. It penetrates every portion of the human frame; every bone, muscle, vein, nerve and ligament is reached and made sensible to its soothing healing influence. Hence it copes readily with diseases as well as external diseases.

Over 40 Years,

this ointment has been used by the people of the United States, and our confidence in its qualities is such that we have no space to insert any of the numerous certificates of cures we have from all parts of the country; we simply ask those readers of this notice who have ever used this Ointment, to frankly give their experience with it to inquiring friends. We feel safe in a hundred would do this we should be satisfied with the result. Full directions for use will be found on pamphlet around each bottle.

Price 25 and 40 cents per bottle. Sold by all dealers in medicine.

D. RANSOM, SON & CO., Prop's
Buffalo, New York.

THE GRAND RAPIDS HERD OF HOLSTEIN-FRIESIANS!

At the head of both sexes and all ages. Several head of BULLS READY FOR SERVICE

Heifers and Cows, Choice Cows and Heifers with calves by side, service bulls, PRINS MIDLAM MOUTON SARIE, who have no superiors. A few choice young pairs not akin for foundation stock. Every head registered and guaranteed as represented. Write for catalogue and prices and state what is desired, or come and see the herd. W. A. WOODNUTT, Breeder and Importer. Mention this paper. Grand Rapids, Mich.

B. F. STEINHOFF'S Dental Rooms.

OVER BAKER & HALL'S.

GAS FOR EXTRACTING.

LOWEST PRICES for THE BEST WORK

PATENTS!

Patents, Trade Marks and Copyrights

Attend to all other business in the U. S. Patent Office for MODERATE FEES. Our office is opposite the U. S. Patent Office, and we can obtain Patents in less time than those remote from Washington.

SEND MODEL OR DRAWING. We advise as to patentability free of charge and make No CHARGE unless we obtain patent. Refer here to Postmaster, Supt. of Money Order Div., and to officials of the U. S. Patent Office. For circular, advice, terms and references to actual clients in your own state or county, write to

C. A. SNOW & CO.,
Opposite Patent Office Washington, D.C.

THE AMERICAN MAGAZINE.

BEAUTIFULLY ILLUSTRATED.

This Magazine portrays American thought and life from ocean to ocean; is filled with pure high-class literature, and can be safely welcomed in any family circle.

Price 25c. OR $3 A YEAR BY MAIL.

Copy of current number mailed upon receipt of 25 cts.; back numbers, 15 cts.

Premium List with either.

A. T. BUSH & SON, Publishers,
130 & 132 Pearl St., N. Y.

GET UP CLUBS

A. Wright & Co.,

Wall Paper

AND

Decorations.

A. Wright & Co.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

They Had Big Feet.

Tennessee troops were the butt of much joking among Union soldiers during the war on the ground that they never shut a door and had feet that would astonish a [illegible]

[illegible] the doors was explained by Tennesseans on the ground that their climate was so salubrious that they had no need of doors except as luxuries. But they never quite got over the story a Yankee prisoner told at Belle Isle about their big feet. "It was at Petersburg," was the prisoner's story, "that our brigade met a Tennessee regiment and poured hot shot into them for an hour. We knew we were doing terrible execution, because we could see their guns dropping out of their hands. But somehow none of them dropped over. Presently we charged, and when we came up to their line we found that what remained of it were dead men. We had to knock them over with the butts of our muskets because their big feet wouldn't let them fall down.

An End to Bone Scraping

Edward Shepard, of Harrisburg, Ill. says: "Having received so much benefit from Electric Bitters, I feel it my duty to let suffering humanity know it. Have had a running sore on my leg for eight years; my doctors told me I would have to have the bone scraped or leg amputated. I used instead, three bottles of Electric Bitters and seven boxes Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and my leg is now sound and well."

Electric Bitters are sold at fifty cents a bottle, and Bucklen's Arnica Salve at 25c. per box at

C. A. Wright & CO.

A severe hailstorm passed over Wayne on Wednesday, doing considerable damage to crops.

For Scrofula, Improverished blood and General Debility,

Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites, has no equal in the whole realm of Medicine. Read the following: "I gave one bottle of Scott's Emulsion to my own child for Scrofula, and the effect was marvellous."—O. F. GRAY, M. D., White Hall, Ind.

The State prison at Jackson is to have a new block of cells, 215 feet long by 50 feet wide, to accomodate additional convicts.

A Remedy in Kidney Affection.

"My kidneys were so affected I have been compelled to get up as much as ten times in one night. I had pains in my side, back and left shoulder, and when down could hardly rise. I was unable to bend my body without great pain. I tried Simmons Liver Regulator and my condition has improved so much that I hardly ever feel any of my old trouble." W. JOHNSON, Express Agent, Macon, Ga.

He censures God who quarrels with the imperfections of man.—Edmund Burke.

Can't Sleep Nights is the complaint of thousands suffering from Asthma, Consumption, Coughs, etc. Did you ever try Acker's English Remedy? It is the best preparation known for all Lung Troubles, sold on a positive guarantee at 10c., 50c.

C. A. WRIGHT & CO., Druggists.

Police at the Epsom Races.

On the grounds the police swarmed everywhere. They were very skillful in their management of this holiday crowd. They were very careful about not using any arbitrary power which would provoke the crowd. They were very firm in saying what could or could not be done, but they acted more as friendly monitors than as arbitrary representatives of the law. The English constabulary certainly handle large crowds in this regard better than we. There is no pushing, no jostling, no scrambling permitted. The rights of the humblest are respected. The costermonger, with his overloaded vegetable cradle and his little rat of an animal, has as fair a chance in the street procession as the showy drag, with its handsome double teams. The police on this day, so far as I could see, made but few arrests. Where a man was found transgressing he was simply warned. If many arrests were to be made it is easy to see that the mob element might become excited, and the result would be anything but the good order which is now maintained.—T. C. Crawford in New York World.

Some Foolish People

Allow a cough to run until it gets beyond the reach of medicine. They often say, Oh, it will wear away, but in most cases it wears them away. Could they be induced to try the successful medicine called Kemp's Balsam, which we sell on a positive guarantee to cure, they would immediately see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial size free, at Baker & Hall.

Reed City whiskey caused the mangled body of Peter Gibson to be picked up on the railroad track.

Old and reliable Medicines are the best to depend upon. Acker's Blood Elixir has been prescribed for years for all impurities of the Blood. In every form of Scrofulous, Syphilitic or Mercurial diseases, it is invaluable. For Rheumatism, has no equal.

C. A. WRIGHT & CO., Druggists.

The prospects of the cotton crop are every where reported the most favorable in seven years.

Administering Dr. Haines' Golden Specific.

It can be given in a cup of coffee or ate without the knowledge of the person taking it, effecting a speedy and permanent cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or an alcoholic wreck. Thousands of drunkards have been made temperate men who have taken the Golden Specific in their coffee without their knowledge, and today believe they quit drinking of their own free will. No harmful effects results from its administration. Cures guaranteed. Send for circular and for particulars. Address in confidence GOLDEN SPECIFIC CO., 185 Race St., Cincinnati Ohio.

The Ludington Optic, a new paper, has appeared, Frank Chase and R. E. Wood proprietors.

ALLEGED HUMOR.

MR. PEDINGER (recently from Paris)—Garçon! Native Waiter (threateningly)—Wot wuz that you called me?

WHEN you see a couple on the street, if the man carries the bundles, they are engaged. If the woman carries the bundles they are married.

HOTEL PORTER to gentleman in washroom—Is yo' a guest ob de hotel, sir? Gentleman (paying $4.00 a day)—Guest? No; I'm a victim.

A ST. LOUIS paper tells of a Mrs. Campagne of that city who doesn't know her father. It's a queer sort of champagne she drinks, then, we guess.

"I do love a liar," observed Mrs. Crapp, after her husband had been telling her why he was detained at the office. Mr. Crapp simply answered "Egotist," and now they eat their meals in silence.

AT a dinner party in Boston a young man, who was visiting from the West, was asked if he was fond of ethnology. "Well, yes," he replied, at a venture, "but I don't think I'll take any to-night."

CITY MAN—What the blazes is the matter with that hen? Farmer—Nothing; she has just laid an egg. City Man—Great Scott! one would suppose she had laid the foundation of a brick block.

"AND what was the disposition of the remains?" was asked of a man who recently lost his mother-in-law. "The disposition of the remains," he replied, with real feeling, "was quiet and peaceful."

WIFE—I don't see how you can say that Mr. Whitehoker has an effeminate way of talking. He has a very bald voice. Husband—I mean by an effeminate way of talking, my dear, that he talks all the time.

THE New York Herald tells of a bride who wore about her throat a diamond tiara, the gift of the bridegroom. This apparently marks the inauguration of a new fashion, and no doubt some blushing bride will wear a coronet on the third finger of her left hand.

WASHINGTON BARBER—Stranger in these parts? Customer—Yes, I've been here two days, and all I've got left is one dollar and fifty three cents. How much do I owe you. Washington Barber—Shave, hair cut, boot black, just one dollar and fifty-three cents, sir.

THE small girl went to church on Christmas with mamma. Papa remained at home, trying on his new Christmas hat. When they got home he said to his pet: "Well, darling, what is the text?" "I'm not quite sure, papa, but it sounded like 'Many are cold, but few frozen.'"

MRS. WAYBACK to husband, who has brought home a verse of poetry with the author's signature attached—Is this just class poetry, John? Mr. Wayback (enthusiastically)—Just class poetry? I should say it was. I got that in a dime museum, Maria. The feller wrote it with his toes.

BLACKSMITH to young man—You think you possess the necessary qualifications for a blacksmith? Young Man—Yes, sir. I was a member of the foot ball team at college. Blacksmith (dubiously)—You may be strong enough, young man, but this business demands brains as well as strength.

IN a country printing office: Editor to compositor—How do you spell pneumonia? Compositor (after several attempts)—Give it up. Why don't you look in the dictionary? Editor—Because I'm sitting on it and I don't want to disturb myself. Never mind, I'll say the old gentleman died of some disease that is easier to spell.

A YOUNG and refined Cleveland girl drank a little too much wine the other night, and amused herself at the Louisville Opera House by throwing rose buds at the orchestra leader.—It was not until she fell out of the box, however, that the bucolic Louisvillians noticed anything peculiar in her actions, and then, with one accord, the audience rushed out to get some whisky to revive her with.

MRS. DACRE (in an effort to start the conversation)—Now, Major, which was it, the lady or the tiger? Major Goitall (who has been on the Plains for ten years, has recently lost some money, and who is not familiar with literary chestnuts)—Really, Mrs. Dacre, if any rumors have come to your ears with regard to my—er—conduct since I came East, you must give me the benefit of a Scotch verdict—not proven, you know.

A Tale of an Overcoat.

A promising young lawyer, who lives in a historic town about ten miles from Boston, lately acquired a new and handsome overcoat, warranted by the tailor to be of the best English cloth and particularly durable. He had worn the new garment scarcely a month, when one morning as he came down on the train, happening to glance at his coat sleeve, he perceived with horror that it was frayed and shabby. Arrived at Boston he took his way to the tailor's in a towering passion, and after a somewhat troubled discussion there the seller of the coat, admitting his liability, refunded half the purchase money.

The next day the wearer of the now despised coat received a call from a friend of his, who communicated the astounding fact that they had unconsciously changed overcoats, and each had worn the other's garment for two days without discovering the mistake. It is needless to say that the person most pleased at this intelligence was the tailor, whose money and reputation were at once restored.

Speaker Carlisle's Protege.

The favorite protege of Speaker and Mrs. Carlisle for some time past has been a young Kentuckian, Eugene Ashton by name, who is a clever elocutionist and has dramatic aspirations. Nature has endowed him with a handsome presence, which has been much improved and developed by athletic exercises and association with well bred people. In facial appearance he is said to strikingly resemble Edwin Booth, whom he owns as his model and whose mantle he hopes some day to wear. Like the average graduate of the amateur stage he wants to begin as Othello or Hamlet, having the success of Mary Anderson in immediate memory. Those who have heard him recite credit him with dramatic talent and predict a good future for him, after he has learned that to resemble Mr. Booth in person is not equivalent to having Mr. Booth's genius and art.

RICHARD PERRISTAN was an actor in his younger days, but finally retired from the stage after winning a first prize in the Havana lottery which netted him $150,000. He then purchased a stock farm in Kentucky, bought the stallion Fellowcraft, and started to raise horses. His hospitality and generosity exceeded his ability to sustain them, and he finally wandered back to Philadelphia and has since been living in poverty. He is now an inmate of the Forrest Home.

C. E. EGAN, an electrician of Columbus, Ohio, asks the world to believe that he has invented an instrument which will enable vessels at sea to communicate with each other or with the land by the human voice without regard to distance.

EXCURSIONISTS

LOOK HERE!

When you go down to the city of Toledo be sure and visit the Mammoth Dry Goods Establishment of Fred'k Eaton & Co. with its 40 densly packed Departments. You can do a day's shopping in this store with the utmost comfort—can be carried up and down stairs in one of the easiest riding elevators in the state—will receive the best of attention. You can look all around and not buy a dollar's worth if you don't choose, and if you do, you are certain of seeing a wide selection, and making a big saving to your pocket books. Mammoth stocks of Summer Goods, "Lawns," "Ginghams," "Batistes," "Seersuckers," "Toile de Princesse," "Kyber Cloths," etc. If you are not coming down, write a postal for samples. GAUZE UNDERWEAR for Ladies, Gents and Children, 25c, 37½c, and 50c. Beautiful Balbriggan Underwear at 50c.

FRED'K EATON & CO.

Great Dry Goods Depot,

TOLEDO, O.

E. R. STEBBINS, Adrian,

Furniture, Carpets, Crockery, Children's Cabs

Picture Frames, Curtains, Fixtures, Etc.

My stock is the LARGEST and best ever shown in Southern Mich., and is arranged in 12 Ware Rooms covering over 12,000 feet of Flooring in Stebbins' block, and all selected with great care for quality.

It was bought with cash down, enabling me to defy all competition in LOW PRICES for same quality of goods. All goods warranted as represented. It will pay the northern tier of towns to examine our goods and prices.

MY STOCK OF CARPETS IS VERY FINE.

CARPETS!

LACE CURTAINS!

HEAVY DRAPERIES!

Our extensive New Spring Stock must be seen to be appreciated.

V. B. SNYDER & SON.,

117 AND 119 SUMMIT ST.,

TOLEDO, O.

RAILROAD TIME TABLES.

L. S. & M. S. RAILROAD.

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	No. 115. Mail.	No. 117. Express	No. 149 Accom
	A. M.	P. M.	P. M.
Napoleon	6 06	2 26	4 44
Norvell	6 42	3 55	5 55
Manchester	6 57	3 12	3 22
Clinton	7 04	3 21	3 31
Tecumseh	7 20	3 41	4 05
Adrian	8 08	4 15	5 05
Detroit	10 05	6 30
Toledo	9 30	5 35

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No. 114. Mail.	No. 116. Express.	No. 148 Accom.
	A. M.	P. M.	A. M.
Detroit	7 30	3 15
Toledo	9 00	5 50
Adrian	10 38	6 41	9 45
Tecumseh	11 05	7 15	7 20
Clinton	11 16	7 25	7 40
Manchester	11 26	7 35	8 30
Norvell	11 52	8 58	9 35
Napoleon	12 07	10 05	9 55
Jackson	12 25	10 30	10 45

Trains run New Standard of Sixth Meridian Time

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Coupon tickets can now be procured at this station over best routes to all principal cities in the United States.

N. S. SATTERTHWAITE,
TICKET AGENT.

G. H. WORCESTER, SUPT. DETROIT DIVISION.

Cincinnati, Jackson & Mackinaw R. R.

MICHIGAN DIVISION.

Passenger Time Table.

IN EFFECT May 22, 1887.

GOING EAST. No. 7 Pass	No. 3 Pass	No. 1	Central Time. STATIONS.	GOING WEST. No. 2 Pass	No. 4 Pass	No. 8
P. M.	A. M.	P. M.		A. M.	P. M.	A. M.
7 10	11 15	4 25	A...Toledo...L	8 20	5 20	6 00
5 20	10 15	3 35	Dundee	9 20	6 20	9 00
4 35	9 35	3 15	Britton	9 41	6 41	9 55
3 35	9 18	2 10	Ridgeway	9 49	6 50	10 15
3 00	9 28	3 00	Tecumseh	10 00	7 02	11 05
2 10	9 21	2 12	Tipton	10 15	7 18	11 45
1 45	9 06	2 25	Onsted	10 30	7 32	12 15
1 15	8 55	2 15	Devils Lake	10 42	7 46	12 35
1 00	8 48	2 08	Addison	10 51	7 56	1 00
12 10	8 31	1 51	Jerome	11 08	8 14	1 51
11 75	8 25	1 44	Moscow	11 17	8 24	2 30
11 28	8 12	1 32	Hanover	11 28	8 35	3 10
10 30	7 00	1 20	Pulaski	11 38	8 46	4 50
9 40	7 11	1 00	Homer	11 58	9 07	4 40
9 00	7 28	12 48	Eckford	12 10	9 19	5 00
8 20	7 12	12 32	Marshall	12 32	9 40	6 00
No. 5						No. 6
P. M.						A. M.
5 40			Marshall			7 00
5 05	7 00	12 20	Cereso	12 44	9 51	5 20
4 30	6 40	12 01	L. Battle Crk A	1 05	10 10	6 40
	A. M.					P. M.
3 15		11 41	Augusta	1 25		7 25
3 00		11 34	Yorkville	1 35		7 50
2 50		11 27	Richland	1 42		8 15
2 03		11 05	Doster	2 01		8 55
1 15		10 50	Montcalm	2 20		9 25
12 45		10 40	Fisk	2 30		9 40
12 37		10 31	Kellogg	2 37		9 55
12 10		10 20	L. Allegan...A	2 50		10 20
P. M.		A. M.		P. M.		A. M.

All Trains daily except Sunday.

Commencing June 27th, a special train will leave Allegan daily at 5:27 P. M., arriving in Marshall at 7:25 P. M. Returning leave Marshall at 6:10 A. M., arriving in Allegan at 8:20 A. M. both trains making close connections at Allegan and Montcalm for trains north and south.

TRAIN CONNECTIONS.

Train No. 4 makes close connections with the M. C. Ry. at Battle Creek for Chicago and intermediate points; No. 2 with G. R. & I. at Montcalm; and at Allegan with the C. & W. M. Ry. for Grand Rapids, Muskegon, and points north. No. 7 makes close connection at Allegan with the Wabash & Western Ry. for Detroit, and No. 1 makes close connection with the Wabash & Western Ry. train from Detroit. All trains connect at Toledo with the W. A. L. E., C. H. V. & T., L. S. & M. S., Wabash Ry., P. C. Co., and all railroads diverging. Connections are also made at Jackson with the C. A. & N. M. at Parma with the J. C. & M. Ry., at Horton's Bay with the L. S. & M. S. Ry., and at Battle Creek with the L. S. & M. S. Ry.

H. R. JOHNSTON, Traffic Manager. J. M. SCHINDLER, Gen'l Pass. Agt.

F. ALLEN, Station Agent. A. E. KENNEDY, City Ticket Agent.

TAKE THE WABASH ROUTE.

TRAINS GOING EAST.

LEAVE BRITTON:

*Atlantic Express, limited. 7 [illegible] A.M.
Detroit Accommodation [illegible]
*Niagara Falls and Boston Express [illegible]
*New York Limited Express [illegible] P.M.
Way Freight [illegible]

TRAINS GOING WEST.

St. Louis, Indianapolis Express [illegible] A.M.
Chicago & St. Louis Limited Express [illegible] P.M.
Adrian Accommodation [illegible]
*Pacific Express, Limited [illegible]

*Trains marked * are daily, all others daily except Sunday.

The Limited Express trains stop only for R. R. crossing at Britton.

Tecumseh passengers desiring to travel by the popular Wabash Route can secure through Sleeping Car tickets to Boston. Through Sleepers to New York. Solid through trains to Chicago, making direct connections for all points west and northwest. Through coaches and sleepers to St. Louis, making direct connections for all points in Kansas and the great southwest.

Fast Time, Magnificent Equipment, Latest Designs of Chair, Parlor, Sleeping and Dining Cars on all through trains.

H. D. ARMSTRONG, Mich. Pass. Agt., Jackson, Mich.
WM. F. BRADLEY, Agent, Adrian.
F. CHANDLER, Gen'l Pass. and Ticket Agent, St. Louis, Mo.

K. B

KING OF THE BLOOD

The Most Thorough Purifier of the Blood Yet Discovered.

Cures all Humors, from a common tion to the worst Scrofula.

It purifies the Blood.
It invigorates the Liver.
It regulates the Bowels.
It strengthens the stomach.
It gives vivacity in place of lassitude, cheerfulness in place of gloom, and robust vigor in place of debility.

Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Disordered Liver, Constipation, Nervous Affections, General Debility, in short all the numerous diseases and discomforts caused by impure blood are specedily conquered by this powerful corrector, the chief and sovereign of all ancient or modern medical discoveries—KING OF THE BLOOD.

Its name is its best description as it is a royal dispenser of the blessings of health and vanquishes the foes that lurk in the blood.

It banishes PIMPLES, SALT RHEUM, SCALY ERUPTIONS, ULCERS, SCALD HEAD, FEVER SORES, and all SCROFULOUS DISORDERS.

It checks CONSUMPTION in its early stages. It has frequently cured it when advanced.

It disperses TUMORS and CANCERS without the surgeon's knife.

It cures DROPSY, general or partial.

It cures FEMALE WEAKNESS and DISEASE.

It reduces in a safe and effectual manner all swellings, external or internal.

It eradicates the effects of Venerial Disease and Mineral Poisons and establishes a sound constitution.

Many certificates, much further information and full directions for using, will be found in the pamphlet, "Treatise on Diseases of the Blood," in which each bottle is inclosed.

Price $1 per bottle containing 12 ounces, or 50 doses. Sold by dealers in medicine.

If your druggist does not happen to have it on hand, request him to order a supply of it for you. It will be cheaper than for you to order direct of us, and less trouble.

D. RANSOM, SON & CO., Proprietors,
BUFFALO, N. Y.

THIS PAPER is on file in Philadelphia at the Newspaper Advertising Agency of Messrs. N. W. AYER & SON, our authorized agents.

PRS. SALS.

THE DUKE of [illegible] bought

[illegible]

Mrs. [illegible] Mrs. Mor-

[illegible]

Col. [illegible] Hay now

[illegible]

ALEXANDER [illegible] is said to [illegible]

A. M. [illegible] Theater New York [illegible] the New York [illegible]

The [illegible] is 44 years old. She [illegible] daily.

Dr. Phillips Brooks [illegible] Philadelphia [illegible] there.

The Marquis of [illegible] income [illegible] under thirty years [illegible] a day.

PROF. ALEXANDER [illegible] received the [illegible] from the University of Cambridge.

About $40,000 [illegible] New York City.

CARDINAL NEWMAN of Eng[illegible] is 86 years old. He [illegible] the Sacred College.

THE [illegible] is the principal [illegible] of a [illegible] faces and [illegible]

[illegible]

AN IMPULSIVE PRINCE.

The Young Prince Imperial His High Spirit and Independence of Control.

[illegible] high spirits and not very easy to control says a London writer. In Aug. 1878 only a few months before his tragical death we arrived at Christiania [illegible] the town was all be[illegible] and we found that the [illegible] permission sooner. He had been on a visit to the King and Queen of Sweden at a little [illegible] called Orkerud distant [illegible] by carriage and was now [illegible] to England via Copenhagen in [illegible] to pass the same midday [illegible]. The royal [illegible] was [illegible] At last, however, the [illegible] announced the arrival of [illegible] party [illegible] carriages [illegible] up to the steps and the King got out and came on to the platform [illegible] the Prince by the hand. The latter very shaky and slight looked quite like a child by the side of the King who is indeed the beau ideal of a [illegible] and stately as one of his own Norwegian pines. The reasons of the unexpected delay we heard afterward from one of the party on board. It was a lovely August day the Prince was in tearing spirits, shouting, singing, playing pranks like a mad thing all the time. At [illegible] suddenly came up to the King and said he "would and must have a bath." "Impossible," said the King, "the train will be waiting for us you know." No matter, he would and must, and forthwith began to take off his clothes. The King then mildly suggested that he should at least perform that operation below, but not a bit. And in another moment his Imperial Highness was stripped and careering about the deck in a state of nature. Seeing him so determined the order was given to stop the vessel and almost before this could be done the Prince had plunged over the side. Upon this the Prince Royal of Sweden and some of the younger gentlemen of the party undressed and [illegible] were soon half a dozen of them in the water swimming round the yacht, the Prince leapsing and jumping on their backs and diving like so many dolphins. Nearly all of them had some half an hour of this sport ere the vessel was allowed to proceed.

The King however, seems to have been [illegible] with the extravagance of his [illegible] and jocularly complained to [illegible] present about "this [illegible] of his." His questions are most amusing. "Why, he asks, [illegible] it took a vessel to get up [illegible] I thought it might [illegible] in a minute—I and it does [illegible] quite an hour. But it is very improving and one would certainly like to [illegible] knowledge if one were to be hung in his scenery. The Prince [illegible] times hither and thither [illegible] and through the [illegible] and through the night [illegible] was awakened if every [illegible] Both Hall [illegible]

[illegible]

RICHMOND'S FAMOUS FIRE.

How a Great Piece of News Was Treated in the Old Days.

[illegible] For the [illegible] of the music for [illegible] "Transatlantic" recently [illegible] at Covington, Ky. Sig. Tosi was born in Italy in 1802 and when [illegible] was taken to Mexico. His parents were musicians and as a musical prodigy he traveled through this country. He was in Richmond [illegible] was probably the first great [illegible] master in this country. He was only 9 years old at the time but his remembrance of the terrible tragedy at the theater was vivid to the very last. He was [illegible] the last survivor [illegible] of a fire which robbed Virginia of its Governor and [illegible] The fire [illegible] Dec. 26, 1811 when at least [illegible] persons, among them being Gov. Smith, lost their lives. The performance [illegible] was of a gaily [illegible] kind, [illegible] the night after Christmas, everybody who was anybody was there at the time to the father of the more famous Thomas and Henry Placide, was to take a benefit.

The editor of the Richmond Standard was present and wrote the following account for his paper next day.

"Last night the play house in this city was crowded with an unusual amount. There could not have been less than 600 persons in the house. Just before the conclusion of the play the scenery caught fire. The editor of this paper was in the house when the ever to be remembered disagreeable accident occurred. He is informed that the scenery took fire in the back part of the house by the raising of a chandelier, that the boy who was ordered by some of the players to raise it stated that if he did so the scenery would take fire, when he was commanded in a peremptory manner to hoist it. The boy obeyed, and the fire instantly communicated to the scenery. He gave the alarm in the rear of the stage, and requested some of the attendants to cut the cords by which the combustible materials were suspended. The person whose duty it was to perform this became panic stricken and sought his own safety.

"The flames spread almost with the rapidity of lightning, and the fire falling from the ceiling upon the performers was the first notice the audience had of their danger. Even then they supposed it a part of the play, and were a little time restrained from flight by a cry from the stage that there was no danger. The performers and their attendants in vain endeavored to beat down the scenery, the fire flashed in every part of the house with a rapidity beyond all conceiving, and, alas, genuine tears and most mortal anguish proved it no dream.

"There was not the time for the greatest part of the audience to pass. Men, women, and children were pressing upon each other, while the flames were seizing upon their garments. Those nearest the windows, which were very high, were afraid to leap down, while those behind them were [illegible] in fire and writhing in the agony of burning. I pass this distress. [illegible] which we can not be described. All this scene in the play occupied, and had not the fire taken place from the house [illegible] the performers would not have [illegible] down. [illegible] the audience [illegible] the pit. [illegible] the house [illegible] the [illegible] the [illegible] the

The Tecumseh Herald.

VOL. XXXVIII.—NO 7. TECUMSEH MICHIGAN, THURSDAY MORNING JULY 14, 1887. WHOLE NO. 1905

REMNANT SALE
REMNANT SALE

Saturday Morning!

We will place on sale Remnants of

SATINS, LAWNS, GINGHAMS AND WOOL DRESS GOODS.

A chance for GREAT BARGAINS

—ALSO—

WHITE AND COLORED ROBES

—AT—

Greatly Reduced Prices.

W. & S. W. Anderson & Co's.

Everything on the

BOOM-BOOM

AT THE

GRAND CENTRAL SUPPLY STORE.

GROCERIES, CROCKERY, GLASSWARE.

TEAS, SUGARS, SPICE.

PRICES LOWER THAN EVER.

HENRY McCLURE.

S. DeWOLF, Pres. H. M. TEMPLE, Sec'y and Treas. S. W. TEMPLE, Vice Pres. and Gen'l Mgr.

THE OHIO & MICH. COAL & MFG. CO.,

COAL.

LUMBER LATH AND SHINGLES

MANUFACTURERS OF

Doors, Sash, Blinds, Mouldings,

Scroll Work, Turned Work, Modern Interior Finish.

GET ESTIMATES BEFORE BUYING.

OFFICE CORNER R. R. AND SHAWNEE STS.

Yards and Factory on Pearl and Shawnee sts., near L. S. & M. S. Depot

TECUMSEH, MICH.

NEW BEDROOM SUITS

PARLOR SUITS!

Patent Rockers, Reed Rockers, New Couches,

And a big stock of Fine and Medium

FURNITURE!

[illegible] in solid or good Furniture to look the sixth my rooms and [illegible] goods and notice the low prices. Remember I have not [illegible] back but still occupy the largest store on the street for the last 13 years. You may feel I don't enjoy the [illegible] for want of room. THAT IS SO.

Undertaking a Specialty!

[illegible] Day Calls, and all kinds of calls promptly attended to. New [illegible] of Caskets in stock, and something entirely new for the times.

WM. McCOWEN.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

MIDDLEBURY NUMBER 6

Oats are turning quite fast.

Wheat nearly all harvested at this writing.

Some farmers are drawing their wheat as fast as it drops from the binder.

We were blessed with a nice shower Saturday, but a three day's rain is needed before much plowing can be done for wheat.

The heft of the haying in this section will be done this week.

The early potato crop will be light unless a good, soaking rain comes soon.

Owing to the busy season the attendance at the W. F. M. society, held at Mrs. J. F. Temple's last week was small, but those in attendance enjoyed a very pleasant afternoon.

Burtie Cadmus is spending a few days with relatives near Tecumseh.

Sammie Arner left for Sullivan, Mich., last week, where he will act as agent.

The stone work of the Library Hall will be finished this week, nothing preventing.

Several loads of lumber for the Library Hall have been placed on the ground during the past week.

May Luce of Rome, visited Della Freer last week.

Mrs. D. McNair and sons, Burt and Fred, spent last week Wednesday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sharp.

Ethel Gripton was presented with a beautiful Estey organ, Wednesday evening of last week by her father. He purchased it while in Detroit, on the 4th.

Myrtle Bowerman of Raisin, spent several days with Leona Coryell last week.

Dr. and Mrs. Lopp visited relatives at LaSalle Saturday and Sunday.

Burt Nicholls has a new Three Rivers separator and will be ready to begin threshing by the last of this week.

Addie Fairbanks of Adrian, was the guest of Mrs. Ida Lawton for the past week.

Minnie Fitzherwood of Britton, visited her aunt, Mrs. Daniel Little, over the Sabbath.

Ella Jackson, of Tecumseh, and Nellie Rowley of Hillsdale, visited Ada Loree Monday and Tuesday of this week. She returned home with Ella for a short visit.

Look out for a grand musical treat in the near future by the W. C. T. U. Full particulars and program given in due time.

L. P. Smith and the assistant R. M. ice cream scheme works fine so far this week.

Mrs. Stella James of Detroit is visiting Mrs. Coats in the village at present.

Next Saturday afternoon the Holloway Base Ball team will play our ball team a game in our village, on Loree's park. Game called at 3 P. M. sharp. Let there be a good attendance.

LAKE RIDGE LACONICS.

Hot and dry. Mercury about an average.

The spring term of school closed last Friday.

Mrs. H. [illegible] returned from Sanford with her father, M. Carter, last week. [illegible] report says they will be in [illegible].

Wheat is dead ripe and the averse farmer knows [illegible] their wheat and threshing out of the field. Saturday is the last day of the 1st to pay the harvest hoys. Such [illegible] running about the ridge last Sunday. Farmers have enough to do [illegible] the harvest hoys. [illegible] the attempt to get a [illegible] of [illegible] the [illegible] Sunday [illegible] the [illegible] Paul Ayres [illegible] the [illegible] Ridge [illegible] the [illegible] Ridge [illegible] the [illegible] Ridge

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

FRED B. WOOD, ATTORNEY AT LAW. Collections and court practice. Office over W. & S. W. Atkinson's store, Tecumseh, Mich.

[illegible] Tecumseh, Mich.

PHYSICIANS.

LEMAN BARNES, M. D. Physician and [illegible]

R. B. HOUSE, M. D. [illegible]

C. M. WOODWORTH, M. D. PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON. Office [illegible]

MISCELLANEOUS.

TECUMSEH TOUSORY AND STEAM LAUNDRY. [illegible]

BANK OF TECUMSEH.

[illegible]

DAVE MACHAM. [illegible]

JAMES A. CURRY. [illegible] Chicago.

CHAS. A. WALDRON. [illegible] mail or [illegible] Tecumseh.

HOTELS.

BURNETT HOUSE. [illegible]

CENTRAL HOTEL, ADRIAN, MICH. [illegible]

LENAWEE CARRIAGE FACTORY

J. R. HALEY, Proprietor, MANUFACTURER OF

Carriages, Buggies,

SURRIES, SPRING WAGONS,

ROADCARTS

SULKIES, CUTTERS, ETC.

Pearl Street, TECUMSEH, MICHIGAN

M. L. RICE,

UTICA, MICHIGAN,

Dealer in High Class Thoroughbred Poultry. Eggs for hatching. Send for Illustrated Circular. Free

W. W. MARSH,

Proprietor of

Railroad Street Meat Market!

Fresh and Salt Meats constantly on hand.

GIVE ME A CALL

LADIES TREATMENT FREE.

[illegible] Physician and Surgeon, who [illegible] Dispensary [illegible] Chicago, Ill., is now being [illegible] Dr. Piso's Cure for Consumption. This treatment will be sent free to any suffering from any of these diseases. [illegible] Dr. Piso's Cure for Consumption [illegible] cents. Address [illegible]

THE NEW TREATMENT will positively cure any form of nervous disease, such as Fits, Epilepsy, Nervous Headache, Nervous Prostration, Nervous Debility, Sleeplessness, Nervous Weakness, Spinal Weakness, Sexual Exhaustion, Impotency, Premature Decay, Wakefulness, Mental Anxiety, Loss of Power, Lost Manhood, Wasting Diseases, Impotency, Premature Old Age, Loss of Power in either sex, caused by Indiscretion, Excess, Tobacco or Opium, Nervous Headache, Neuralgia, Sleeplessness, Nervous Prostration, Nervous Debility, Fits, Epilepsy

D. A. FRASER'S MAGNETIC OINTMENT.

The Great Healer of all Inflamed Injuries and Disorders.

It is constantly effecting the most wonderful cures, while the unparalleled demand with which it meets, stamps it at once as the greatest medicine of the age for outward application.

Those who are incredulous are convinced, and the most skeptical are compelled to believe in the power of this great remedy.

WHAT IT CURES.

Abscesses, Cuts, Bruises, Sprains, Burns, Sore Throat, Lameness, Rheumatism, Piles, Inflammation of Lungs and Bowels, Bronchitis, Croup, Salt Rheum, Chilblains, Affection of the Spine, Erysipelas, Nervous Irritation, and all disorders attendant with inflammation.

It never fails to restore the natural functions of the skin and equalize the circulation of the blood. This healing and rolling power is gained over the most malignant forms of disease. It penetrates every portion of the human frame; every bone, muscle, veip, nerve and ligament is reached and made sensible to its soothing and healing influence. Hence it copes readily with internal as well as external diseases.

Over 40 Years,

this ointment has been used by the people throughout the United States, and our confidence in its qualities is such that we have no space to insert any of the numerous certificates of cures which we have from all parts of the country, but simply ask those readers of this notice who have ever used this Ointment, to frankly state their experience with it to inquiring friends. If one in a hundred would do this we should be perfectly satisfied with the result. Full directions for use will be found on pamphlet around each bottle.

Price 25 and 40 cents per bottle. Sold by all druggists.

D. RANSOM, SON & CO., Prop's
Buffalo, New York.

THE

ELDREDGE

"B"

SEWING MACHINE

The ELDREDGE "B" is sold with the guarantee of being the BEST that can be MADE.

AGENTS WANTED.

ELDREDGE MANUFACTURING CO.
[illegible] AVE.,
CHICAGO, ILL.

B. F. STEINHOFF'S

Dental Rooms.

OVER BAKER & HALL.

GAS FOR EXTRACTING.

THE LOWEST PRICES for THE BEST WORK

PATENTS!

Caveats, Trade Marks and Copyrights

[illegible]

C. A. LOW & CO.

C. A. Wright & Co.,

Wall Paper

AND

Decorations.

C. A. Wright & Co.

ADVERTISING

may be made for THIS PAPER, which is kept on file at the office of LORD & THOMAS, Advertising Agents, Chicago, Ill.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

The Gay Sons of Senators.

sons who proudly claim the distinction of being "high rollers." The antics of Senator Fair's son are yet fresh in the public mind, but that young hopeful has disappeared and no longer attempts to lay the town under a [illegible] He has gone to another land, and will not cause the police bureau sleepless nights with apprehension every time they see him pointing in the direction of a gin mill. Not only has he disappeared, but the dashing son of a distinguished Southern Senator is also among the missing, having left a cloud of debts behind him which will keep his memory green for many days to come in the city of Washington. [illegible]

His greatest exploit was at the expense of a famous St. Louis belle who has been dazzling the eyes of society here. One day the young man met the belle on the street, and playfully grabbed her pocket book. She didn't mind this much, but when he opened it and took out a ten dollar note she began to wonder whether it was all a joke or not. She ordered him to return it at once, but to her surprise the Senatorial hopeful replied that he would see her later. Perhaps he will, but he hasn't yet. The fellow, after securing the money, called upon a young lady who was a friend of the St. Louis belle, and invited her out to dine with him. Not knowing, of course, the preceding facts, she accepted, and had a good dinner. Shortly after this episode the town began to grow rather sultry for the young man, and he packed up his baggage and left. He hasn't shown his head here since, and the chances are that he will steer clear of this town for some time to come. Senators Conger, Voorhees, Riddleberger, Ransom, Mahone, Jones of Florida, and some others are very fond of foisting their relatives upon the Senate pay-roll, although it must be confessed that there is not so much of this sort of thing being done as formerly.

"Not Bulk, but Business".

Is the way a Western man put it in expressing to a friend his complete satisfaction in the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. So small and yet so effectual, they bid fair to supplant entirely the old-style pill. An ever-ready remedy for sick and Bilious Headache, Biliousness, Constipation and all blood disorders. Mild in action, wonderful in effect! Put up in vials, convenient to carry. Their use attended with no discomfort! These sterling merits account for their great popularity.

President and Mrs. Cleveland will attend the centennial celebration at Clinton, N. Y., on the 13th inst.

Don't Experiment.

You cannot afford to waste time in experimenting when your lungs are in danger. Consumption always seems, at first, only a cold. Do not permit any dealer to impose upon you with some cheap imitation of Dr King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, but be sure you get the genuine. Because he can make more profit he may tell you he has something just as good, or just the same. Don't be deceived, but insist upon getting Dr King's New Discovery, which is guaranteed to give relief in all Throat, Lung and Chest affections. Trial bottles free. Large bottles $1.

C. A. Wright & Co.

A severe hailstorm passed over Wayne on Wednesday, doing considerable damage to crops.

For Scrofula, Impoverished Blood and General Debility

[illegible]

Drunkenness or the Liquor Habit Positively Cured by Administering Dr Haines' Golden Specific.

It can be given in a cup of coffee or tea without the knowledge of the person taking it. It is absolutely harmless and will effect a permanent and speedy cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or a drunkard. Thousands of drunkards have been made temperate men who have taken Golden Specific in their coffee without their knowledge and to day believe they quit drinking on their own free will. IT NEVER FAILS. The system once impregnated with Golden Specific it becomes an utter impossibility for the liquor appetite to exist. For full particulars address [illegible] Cincinnati, O.

Jake Sharp, the New York leader now in the Tombs awaiting trial, is said to be dying.

Many of the ailments which are generally laid to old age are actually due to dyspepsia. Acker's Dyspepsia Tablets will cure Dyspepsia, Indigestion and Constipation, and are sold on a positive guarantee at 25 and 50 cents, by [illegible]

The college of the Sisters of Charity [illegible]

What are suppositories?

A. G. Rose, from New London, Conn., writes: Send me two boxes of your Kidney Pile Suppositories by mail. They are wonderful. I tried everything without help, but the suppositories cured me.

The treatment is new and within reach of all, and would advise the afflicted to give them a trial. For sale in Tecumseh by Baker & Hollopeter, 50c per box.

Elizabethtown, Ky., had a $100,000 fire the other night, started by the explosion of a lamp in a drug store.

Acker's Blood Elixir is the only Blood Remedy guaranteed. It is a positive cure for Ulcers, Eruptions or Syphilitic Poisoning. It purifies the whole system, and banishes all Rheumatic and Neuralgic pains. We guarantee it.

C. A. Wright & Co., Druggists.

HIS FIRST CIGAR.

Rev. Dr. Talmage Relates One of His Early Experiences.

[illegible] which I thought [illegible] of me a capacity to smoke. The old people of the household could abide neither the sight nor the smell of the Virginia weed. When ministers came there, not by positive injunction, but by a kind of instinct as to what would be agreeable, they wanted their pipes on the back steps. If the house could not stand smoking, it may be imagined how little chance there was for adolescent cigar puffing.

By some rare good fortune which put in my hand a cigar, I found access to a forbidden store. As the lid of the long, narrow, fragrant box opened, the feelings of a [illegible] can scarcely be imagined save by those who have had the same sensation. When I put the cigar to my lips and struck the lucifer match to the end of the weed, and commenced to puff with an energy that brought every facial muscle to its utmost tension, my satisfaction with this world was so great no temptation was never to want to leave it.

The cigar did not burn well. It required an amount of suction that tasked my determination to the utmost. You see that my worldly means had limited me to a quality that cost only 3 cents. But I had been taught that nothing great was accomplished without effort, and so I pulled away. Indeed, I had heard my older brothers in their Latin lessons say, omnia vincit labor, which translated means, if you want to make anything go, you must scratch for it.

With these sentiments I passed down the village street and out toward my country home. My head did not feel exactly right, and the street began to rock from side to side, so that it became uncertain to me which side of the street I was on. So I crossed over, but found myself on the same side that I was on before. I crossed over. Indeed, I imagined that I was on both sides at the same time, and several fast teams were driving between me. I met another boy, who asked me why I looked so pale, but I told him that I did not look pale, and that he was pale himself. After some further walking I sat down under the bridge near my house and began to reflect on the prospect of early decease and on the uncertainty of all earthly expectations. I had determined to smoke the cigar all up, and thus get the full worth of my money, but was finally obliged to throw three-fourths of it away. I knew, however, exactly where I threw it, in case I should feel better the next day.

Getting home, the old people were frightened, and demanded of me an explanation as to my absence and the pallid whitish color of my complexion. Not feeling that I was called to go into particulars, and not wishing to increase my parents' apprehension that I was going to turn out badly, I started up the case with the statement that I felt miserable at the pit of the stomach. Mustard plasters were immediately administered, and I received excellent watching for some hours. Finally I told them I felt [illegible] and [illegible] away [illegible]

Prettiest Clerk in Washington.

It is said that the prettiest girl in the employ of the Government is employed in the Navy Department. This is saying a good deal, as about 4,000 women hold positions in Washington and probably [illegible]

A Plucky Woman.

[illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible]

Tecumseh Herald

TECUMSEH, MICH., JULY 14, 1887

THE JUSTICE OF MY POSITION.

[illegible] Tecumseh Knights of Labor we print the following article, taken from a recent issue of the Journal of United Labor. As the article is of a temperance character, it will take the place of our usual temperance column this week.

[illegible] to the last line one from an old friend who takes me to task for my words on the temperance question spoken upon 4th of twelve days ago in Richmond [illegible]. He says:

"In the work you are engaged [illegible] I cannot believe with you the justice of your position, but regret that it is the very organization in which you are the head there are many good men who drink there are [illegible] who will not agree with you and after all who do not so [illegible] the poor drunkard. [illegible] required of you by the Constitution of the Knights of Labor [illegible] I would afford to remain neutral preferring to teach by example than precept. [illegible] Every man knows that you will be misunderstood [illegible]

[illegible] In starting out that in the main I am right, that even the roughest [illegible] Has not [illegible] Knights of Labor [illegible] I know that I am right in [illegible] I was [illegible] because [illegible] strong drink [illegible] and to attempting [illegible] inclined to advise men [illegible] and though I have [illegible] would quietly [illegible] opinion on this cheap [illegible] I would prefer to have [illegible] than show one drop [illegible] I try to pass my lips, or have the end of my nose illuminated by the blossom that follows a plant[illegible] of the seeds of hatred, envy, malice and lamentation, all of which are represented in a solitary glass of gin. Ten years ago the cause of temperance was not so respectable as it is today, because there were not so many respectable men and women advocating it. It has gained ground, it is gaining ground, and all because men and women who believe in it could not be brow beaten or frightened. Neither the hissing of geese or serpents nor the throwing of rotten eggs has stopped or even delayed the march of temperance among the workers.

Why do I so bitterly arraign the poor drunkard? For the reason that he is a drunkard, and because he has made himself poor through his love of drink. Did I or any other man, rob him of the money he has squandered in drink, did I make him poor, the vilest names that tongue can frame would be apply to me. Must I stand idly by and remain silent while he robs himself? Did he rob only himself it would not make so much difference. He robs his parents, wife and children. He robs his aged father and mother through love of drink. He gives for rum what should go for their support. When they murmur he turns them from his door, and points his contaminated drunken finger toward the poorhouse. He next turns toward his wife and robs her of what should be devoted to the keeping of her home in comfort and plenty. He robs her of her wedding ring and pawns it for drink. He turns his daughter from his door in a fit of drunken anger and drives her to the house of prostitution and accepts from her hand the proceeds of her shame. To satisfy his love of drink he takes the price of his child's virtue and innocence from her sin-stained, lust begeweled fingers, and with it totters to the bar to pay it to the man who does not deny the justice of my position. I do not arraign the man who drinks because he is poor, but because through being a slave [illegible] and family poor. I do not hate the man who drinks, for I have carried drunken men to their homes on my back rather than allow them to remain exposed to inclement weather. I do not hate the trembling victim of what drink has effected, and while I do not hate the effect I shun and loathe the cause.

Take the list of labor strikes in America, and the total sum paid into all organizations from all causes from the year [illegible] to the present time, and though no doubt a large sum has been spent in securing the well being of the laboring man, yet I do not hesitate to say that more than one half of the money has been taken from the laborer by the liquor traffic. Yet the Knights of Labor is the largest, best and most [illegible] than any other organization that has been established for the well being of the laboring man. Yet more than one half of the money received for the purposes [illegible] has been taken from the laborer by the liquor traffic. Yet the Knights of Labor are expected for all purposes, perhaps to pay a GRAND assessment, [illegible] assessment, insurance, [illegible] reputation up to the present time, not exceed $50,000.

[illegible] collected for the first [illegible] the existence of the Order, it was but $[illegible] less than $[illegible] were [illegible] to a logical conclusion of their actual sum [illegible] of the Order. For paying [illegible] the members of the Knights of Labor have been told that they were being robbed. In one day an employer's association organizes and pledges itself to contribute $[illegible] to fight labor. The next day the papers are almost silent on that point, but are filled to the brim with lurid accounts of the reckless action of a number in which the officers of the Knights of Labor levy a twenty-five cent assessment to keep over one hundred thousand locked out men and women from starvation. Putting two and two together, it is not hard to guess why papers that applauded the action of the employers in one column should in another column advise the workers not to pay the twenty five cent assessment. $600,000 for sober men to use in education and self improvement.

Now let us turn to the other side. In the city of New York alone it is estimated that not less than $250,000 a day are spent for drink. $1,500,000 in one week, $75,000,000 in one year. Who will dispute it when I say that one half of the policemen of New York city are employed to watch the beings who squander $75,000,000 a year? Who will dispute it when I say that the money spent in paying the salaries and expenses of one-half of the police of New York could be saved to the taxpayers if $75,000,000 were not devoted to making drunkards, thieves, prostitutes and other subjects for the policeman's net to gather in? If $250,000 go over the counters of the rum-seller in one day in New York city alone, who will dare assert that workingmen do not pay one fifth, or $50,000 of that sum? If workingmen, in New York city spend $50,000 a day for drink, they spend $300,000 a week, leaving Sunday out. In four weeks they spend $1,200,000 over twice as much money as was paid into the General Assembly of the Knights of Labor in nine years. In six weeks they spend $1,800,000—nearly three times as much money as that army of organized workers, the Knights of Labor, have spent from the day the General Assembly was first called to order up to the present day, and in one year the workingmen of New York city alone will have spent for beer and rum $15,600,000, or enough to purchase and equip a first-class telegraph line of their own. $15,600,000—enough money to invest in such co-operative enterprises as would forever end the strike and lock out as a means of settling disputes in labor circles.

A single county in Pennsylvania so I am informed spent in one year $17,000,000 for drink. That county contains the largest industrial population comparatively, of any in the State; $17,000,000 of the $47,000,000 come from the pockets of workingmen. New York city, in one year, contributes $10,000,000 to keep men and women in poverty, hunger and cold, while one county in Pennsylvania adds $17,000,000, making a total of $27,000,000. Twenty-six million six hundred thousand dollars, if divided equitably among the families of our Mr. Powderly, if the federal officers of the Knights of Labor, for example, they says, an assessment which returns in less than a dollar and a quarter for each man, woman and child who needs it, what would you call the men who would act as a voluntary gift from foolish workingmen, the sum of $26,000,000 in one year?

The press, and not a few indignant working men, rave I because the twenty five cent assessment was levied, but both press and indignant workingmen remained silent while that damnable robbery of $26,000,000 was going on. Who arraigns the poor drunkard now? Does he not arraign himself before the bar of condemnation every time he ranges himself before the bar in a rum hole.

The Richmond session of the General assembly voted $50,000 to purchase headquarters for the Order. $15,000 went to buy the building on Broad street, Philadelphia. For complying with the order of the General Assembly the General officers have been abused and slandered most villainously, principally by men who never contributed a cent toward the purchase of the building. The one name of the Order, or of the Officers of the Order, have styled the headquarters "The Palace." On another street in the city of Philadelphia there is a saloon called "The Palace." I inquired of the proprietor what it cost him and he said $20,000. Nine years ago he began business, selling rum, on a capital of $73, and in that time he has acquired the money with which to purchase the building and the lot on which it stands. He also owns $30,000 in railroad securities—all on an original cash capital of $73. His patrons are chiefly workingmen. Why do we not hear a protest go up against the means by which that palace was erected?

"It is not required of you by the Constitution or laws of the Knights of Labor." I know it. Neither is it stated in the Constitution of the Order that I shall not stand on the public highway and rob a passer by, yet I know that I should not do such a thing. If I saw a man about to rob himself, the Constitution does not specify that I should not strike the rope.

"You could well afford to remain silent or at least neutral, preferring to teach by example rather than precept." If I could secure for the praise and approbation of labor's enemies time I do for the interest of labor I would remain silent. The man who remains neutral while his friend is in the grasp of the enemy, or while his friend is in danger, is a coward at heart and does not deserve the name of man or friend. Remain silent and neutral while the house is on fire and you have nothing left but blackened, defaced walls and ashes.

Teach by example? I cannot in so large a country as this. If my example is good, then my words should proclaim it to the world. I am no better than other men, but the virtue of temperance is good, even in a bad man, and that is what I wish to hold up before our members and working men outside of our Order.

"I very much fear that you will be misunderstood." Do not fear. I will not be misunderstood when this letter is read. I am not a fanatic. I do not dam the man who sells liquor. I have nothing against him. Many men who now sell liquor were once workingmen and were victimized through a strike or lock out. I would not injure a hair of their heads, but I would so educate workingmen that they would never enter a saloon. Then the money saved from rum and rum holes would go to purchase necessaries, and such an increased stimulus would be given to trade that the rum seller could return to an honest way of making a living.

I may be taken to task for being severe on the workingmen. It may be said that I slander them even. If to tell the truth is to be severe, then on this one question I hope some day to be severity itself; but I speak to workingmen because it is in their welfare that I am interested. I have not been delegated to watch or guard the fortunes of millionaries, and in no way can I hope to accomplish anything until I state my policy freely and frankly to those I represent. We are seeking to reform existing evils. We must first reform ourselves.

Some mischievous urchins once found a man sleeping by the roadside. They procured some soot and blackened his face. When he awoke and went into the crowded street every man he met laughed at him. He did not learn the cause of the merriment until a friend held a mirror up before him. He became very mad, and for a time felt angry toward the man who held the mirror, but he soon came to his senses, laid the blame where it properly belonged, and thanked the man who showed him why others ridiculed him. I am holding the mirror up to human nature. True, it exposes folly and vice. I may and do receive condemnation, but if I can only show the men I speak to who it is that is blackening their faces, character and beauty of [illegible] them how to remove the stains and become sober men again, I will be content to put up with their anger, for I know that they will one day thank me or bless my memory for the words I have spoken and written in

T. J. Powderly.

OUR ALUMNI WHO WORE THE BLUE.

Among the toasts presented at the Union Reunion was this one, "Our Alumni who wore the blue. May their heroic deeds ever remain green in our memory." The response was given by Mr. A. W. Mills. As it was in manuscript, and was largely of a biographical character, making it of special interest to many of our readers, we reproduce the same entire. Mr. Mills parted with the manuscript reluctantly, but we finally prevailed upon him to do so. The other responses given were of the usual after dinner character, intended simply to entertain that special occasion, but this particular response contains matter of historical value, which should be put in permanent form.

At the commencement of the war Michigan had 117,000 men enrolled who were eligible to become soldiers and she sent 92,000 to the front. Of the large number who went from our midst none were graduates of Tecumseh High School, for previous to 1863 no diplomas were issued, but many had completed the course of study, and so should properly be considered members of this Alumni. With a feeling of loving remembrance would we mention some of their names.

Faron Anderson, one of the best students our High School ever had and one of the model young men of our town, seemed fated from the time he went to the front. He was in a series of battles, they occuring at frequent intervals. With but a short time he wrote home to his friends that one of his ears had been pierced by a rebel bullet, and the next news his friends had was a letter from his captain saying that Faron was shot in front of Petersburg by sharp shooters, died within a short time and was already buried. His father succeeded in finding the body and it rests in our beautiful cemetery.

Most of you will remember George Brewer, a quiet unassuming young man who always stood well in his classes and was a favorite in society. While in the performance of his duty he was taken prisoner and was one of those unfortunate ones who were blown up on the ill-fated "Sultana."

The body of Ambrose Irish was literally cut in two by a cannon ball.

Augustus A. Gilmore was killed in battle.

Lemuel Allen, wounded and taken prisoner at Gaines Mill, was taken to Richmond and died in the rebel hospital.

Lieut. Morris Roberts was killed in battle in front of Petersburg.

Joshua Waring died in the army.

Members whom we cannot welcome here this evening for they occupy the "palace of rest." Gloriously did they die, thus fulfilling the highest duty of life, which is to die for one's country. Although they cannot join this festival their memories are constantly with us, and in answer to the roll call, the silent response must ever come back, "Died for his country." Among the many who have since died, largely as the result of exposure, wounds or disease contracted while in the army you will remember, Samuel Kneeland, Eugene Crane, James McNair, Albert Randall, Warren Estes, Charles Stocking, Ambrose B. Curtis, Abel Harding.

They have crossed the river and await the coming of their comrades, and sooner than we can realize it, their ranks will be filled and the men who fought that our Union might live, will exist only in history and in the memory of a grateful people. Among those who still survive, we will mention Capt. David Boyd, now, one of the prominent influential citizens of the Centennial state. His counsel and advice has frequently been sought by the Legislature, in whose body he has refused a seat, and the Governor has recently commissioned and sent him to the old world to look after the interests of Colorado.

Brock Anderson, after faithfully performing his duty as a soldier during the war, went to seek his fortune in the Golden state, and although considerably broken in health, is a highly respected and useful citizen of San Jose, Cal.

Lemuel Sayers, previous to his service in the army had had limited opportunities to gain an education. He enlisted as a private, but for meritorious service was soon promoted. On May 12, 1864, was reported as mortally wounded at Spottsylvania, a rebel ball entering his body from the front, passing close to his heart and lodging in his back where it remains to this day. He rallied, and in time regained his regiment, and at close of war was discharged as Lieut. Col. He then took a place in the lower grades of our school, made rapid advancement in his studies, graduated with honor and has since been an enterprising, respected, successful business man of St. Louis, Mich. These are but a few of the many who went from Tecumseh school and served with distinction in that awful war. A war which cost over 400,000 loyal lives. That made 300,000 union sailors and soldiers cripples for life, and left over a million devoted widows, mothers, sisters and orphans to mourn for the loved ones who did not return. Not less than 100 who had been students in Tecumseh school were soldiers, and this Alumni has reason to feel proud of the part their members took in this great struggle. I know you will not forget our brothers who are not here to night to enjoy these hospitalities, but will join with the poet when he says:

"Comrades, mourn not for the mighty dead who perished,
And honor not the brave who are sped,
We are true to the cause that they cherish,
And we mock not their fate to the dead."

Distress after eating, heartburn, sick headache, and indigestion are cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla. It also creates a good appetite.

EVERY DEPARTMENT

OVERFLOWING

OUR STOCK OF

MEN'S, BOY'S & CHILDREN'S CLOTHING

For Spring and Summer 1887.

Embraces every variety of style and quality at LOWER PRICES than ever before. Our facilities for MAKING SUITS

TO MEASURE

Cannot be excelled for quality, style, cheapness. The best assortment of [illegible] goods in the market. We want your trade in every article you wear. CALL AND SEE US.

STRONG & McNAIR.

THE GREAT

MONEY SAVING SALE

OF

DRY GOODS!

CLOTHING,

And GENT'S FURNISHING GOODS, at

M. E. GAINSLEY'S.

We will give the consumer more goods for the money than can be bought at any other place.

THE STOCK IS ALL NEW.

Having just returned from the east, we bought a large stock of goods, which we shall sell at a small advance above cost, as we go to the Northern part of the state July 1, 1887, and desire to close out the entire stock. Notice some of the bargains.

1 yd. wide Sheeting 5c. a yd.
Chambrays, 6 1-2c a yd.
Brocaded Dress Goods, 5c a yd.
3-4 Cashmeres and Debeiges only 12c a yd.
Best Standard Prints 4 1-2 and 5c a yd.
Ginghams, best goods, 7 and 9 1-2c a yd.
4-4 Cashmeres elegant shades 22 to 40 cts. a yd.
A beautiful line of White Dress Goods 5 to 22c yd.
In Children's and Ladies' Hosiery we show an elegant line from 5 to 40c a pair.
Flannels, Table Linens, Crashes, Shirtings, Denims, Pant Cloth, Bleached Muslins, etc.

REMARKABLY CHEAP!

Gents' and Boys' Overalls, 35, 45, and 65c a pair. Gents' Cottonade Pants, 60, 75, and $1.00 a pair. Gents' White Reinforced Shirts, 45, 70 and 85c each; 45c buys a handsome Corset; Balls' Health Corset only 85c. Hdkfs, Collars, Cuffs, Laces and Embroideries.

Remember, this stock is all New. No bankrupt or shelf worn goods among them, and you buy them at less price than Bankrupt Goods.

M. E. GAINSLEY.

TECUMSEH, April 12, 1887.

TEMPLE, McCLURE & CO.,

Successors to

Wolcott, Temple & Co.,

Wholesale and Retail Dealers in

Lumber, Lath, Shingles, Sash and Doors

AND ALL KINDS OF BUILDING MATERIAL.

Planing, Sawing, Matching to Order.

Mill and Yard North of Railroad Depot.

TECUMSEH, MICHIGAN.

A HANDSOME WEDDING, BIRTHDAY OR HOLIDAY PRESENT.

THE WONDERFUL

LUBURG CHAIR

Combining a Parlor, Library, Smoking, Reclining or Invalid CHAIR, LOUNGE, BED, or COUCH.

Price $1.00 [illegible] Catalogue.

CHILDREN'S CARRIAGES

All furnished with the Automatic Coach Brake, [illegible] at our Wholesale Prices. Send [illegible] SHIPPED to all parts of the world.

50 OVER

THE LUBURG MANF'G CO., 145 N. 8th St., Philad., Pa.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

SAND LAKE.—E. L. Wells will run a [illegible] between Pentacost Crossing (Sand Lake) and the Sand Lake house to meet every train on the C. J. & M. road every Thursday and Saturday. Parties wishing to meet at the crossing at any other time will drop a card to that effect to

E. L. WELLS,
Pentacost Crossing, Mich.

SALE.—I offer my place for sale cheap. [illegible] just west of Abner Wilson's farm on the hackpike, in Tecumseh. Good house and two acres of land. For price, call on Abner Wilson or on the undersigned on the premises. Household goods for sale.

WILLIAM SMITH.

[illegible] in this village, one gold [illegible] will be [illegible] at the same at this

HERALD OFFICE.

[illegible] having [illegible] to move [illegible] shall be greatly obliged [illegible] if they will call at [illegible] and make a settlement as soon as [illegible] Mr. House will attend to the business [illegible] which the accounts will [illegible] kinds of a collector.

R. D. HOUSE.

LOST.—Pair of gold bowed spectacles. The finder will be rewarded by returning the same to MRS. G. D. PERRY.

LOST.—In the township of Franklin, or Tecumseh village, a pocket book, on the 4th of July [illegible] The finder will be rewarded by returning same to

PHILO BILES, Clinton, Mich.

LOST.—Between S. Hosmer's residence and the village, a white crocheted shawl. The finder will be rewarded by leaving it at the

S. P. HOSMER.

FOUND.—On the 2d inst., in the road near [illegible] church, in Tecumseh, a pocket [illegible] the sum of money and some [illegible] Owner can recover same by proving [illegible] and paying for this notice.

FOR SALE.—One good buggy newly painted [illegible] Morgan cost $110.00, for $45.00. [illegible] sewing machines in good order.

G. P. SPARKS.

SAND LAKE.—I will run a carriage from Tecumseh to Sand Lake on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday,

of each week until further notice. [illegible] his for the round trip. Parties wishing [illegible] will be called for at their residence [illegible] at the postoffice.

ASA HOWE.

FOR SALE.—New house and lot. Payment [illegible] $10 per month, or for rent cheap.

A. W. SLAYTON.

HOUSE AND FARM.—For sale cheap.

JAMES W. PATTERSON.

PLANTS! PLANTS.—Early Cabbage Plants and Tomatoes now ready. I have [illegible] stock which he died 100 per cent last year of those seven of the best varieties for cultivation. Also Sweet Potatoes, Peppers, etc. A quantity of very [illegible] one year old.

ABNER WILSON.

FREE SETTLERS.—An indispensible [illegible] and gardeners for attaching [illegible] cultivators. Made from best [illegible] warranted to work.

C. J. DEMING, Tecumseh, Mich.

WANTED.—One agent in each of the following places, viz.: Hillsdale, Monroe, [illegible] Spring field st. Best bed made. Convincing. Exclusive sale to Agent. For [illegible]

J. S. KINNEY, Tecumseh.

Never in the history of the Western Turf has any meeting created such widespread interest as the Great Blue Ribbon Trotting meeting that is to commence over the track of the Detroit Driving Club on Tuesday, July 19th.

The new marriage license act and all laws pertaining to marriage have been published in pamphlet form, and a copy should be in the possession of every minister or other person authorized to perform the marriage ceremony. They are requested to send their addresses to the secretary at Lansing, Mich., when a copy will be mailed them.

[illegible] Allen of Devils Lake, has [illegible] furnished the new Steamer [illegible] in good style. Boarders [illegible] on it all over the lake [illegible] Allen's Hotel at the [illegible] Pleasant Grove House at [illegible] end, furnish the best [illegible] to be found at the lakes. Can [illegible] your family and live at either of [illegible] as cheaply as at home.

The fire department was called out [illegible] alarm about four o'clock Monday afternoon, the fire being in a barn belonging to Ed. Williamson back of [illegible] butter and egg store. Several [illegible] boys were seen coming from the [illegible] just as the smoke was discovered [illegible] it is thought they were the cause [illegible] the fire. It was put out by the use [illegible] several pails of water, and the damage done was slight.

[illegible] Haines acknowledges receipt [illegible] full for all damages sustained thro' [illegible] fire in his show window on the night [illegible] July 6th, and considers it a very [illegible] prompt and satisfactory settlement [illegible] on the part of the Ætna and North [illegible] Fire Insurance Companies, through their Agent, L. P. Tribon. [illegible] return our thanks to the citizens who so ably assisted us in extinguishing the fire.

M. E. GAINSLEY.

Last Tuesday evening at seven o'clock at the residence of the bride's father, Hon. O. D. Perry, occurred the marriage of Mr. Newton S. Sattler to Miss Eva Perry. The ceremony was performed by Dr. Perry himself in the presence of a select company, comprising only relatives and intimate friends. An hour of social chat ensued, and the happy pair took their departure for a night train for a wedding trip to Niagara and other resorts in that locality. They expect to be gone two weeks. The bride has been [illegible] of our village for several years, and the groom has lived here all his life. Both are highly esteemed in [illegible] and social relations and have a host of friends who will wish God speed in their voyage on the matrimonial sea. The HERALD offers its heartiest congratulations, feeling confident that a happy [illegible] awaits a union so fitting in [illegible] so auspiciously begun.

THE TECUMSEH HERALD.

TECUMSEH, MICH., JULY 14, 1887.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

Mark Russell was in town this week.

Miss Palmer went to Boston last Saturday.

Alf. W. James, of Detroit, spent last Sunday in town.

B. F. Reynolds went to Grand Rapids last Monday.

We expect to sale lemonade now that summer has come.

Miss Agnie Stevens is visiting at Memphis, Mich., this week.

A cabbage leaf is better than a brick in your hat these hot days.

Mr. and Mrs. Burt Conkling—9 pound girl—Friday last—all doing well.

Mrs. H. G. Conkling and daughter are visiting friends in Detroit this week.

A little rain now, Mr. Weather Clerk, would be very acceptable to the corn crop.

The HERALD boys sampled some of C. K. Spafford's ice cream the other day and pronounce it prime.

We are indebted to A. B. Cotton, of West Bay City, for a copy of their new paper, the Saturday Times. It is a lively sheet.

Rev. T. G. Potter will preach a sermon prepared especially for children next Sunday, and they are invited to be present.

The two year old child of Benj. Lankins, of Franklin, was accidentally run over by a load of hay last Friday and dangerously injured.

LaMotte Lovett, of Oak Park, Ill., is spending a few days with his Tecumseh and Raisin friends. It is five years since he favored us with a visit.

John O'Neil has worn a broad smile ever since last Saturday night. Reason, a bouncing boy, 9½ pounds, and he has already been named Grover Cleveland.

Miss Gussie Burlingame, of Cadillac, has been in town several days, visiting with her old Tecumseh acquaintances, and expects to prolong her stay for some time yet.

A quarterly meeting of the Free Methodist church will be held at the skating rink, commencing to-morrow Friday evening at 8 o'clock, and continuing until Sunday. All are cordially invited to attend.

Mrs. L. G. North entertained a pleasant company of friends last Friday, in honor of Miss E. May Henderson, who started for Nebraska Saturday. She was accompanied by Miss Lizzie Henderson.

The death rate increases during July and August when summer diseases are prevalent. Eat plain food, observe cleanliness, and indulge in plenty of fresh air. These precautions may save a good many doctor's bills.

Alva Heywood has gone into the stock company of a prominent New York theatre for the summer season, to play in legitimate drama, taking leading character parts. He will organize a strong company of his own next fall.

Fire was discovered in the window of Grinsley's dry goods store last Thursday evening, but was put out before it had made any progress. A considerable amount of goods was damaged by water. The fire caught from lamps hanging in the window.

The regular annual meeting of the Tecumseh Fire Department will be held next Tuesday evening, July 19, at 8 o'clock, for the election of officers and such other business as may properly come before it. Let every member come out as a full attendance is desired.

BY ORDER OF CHIEF.
D. T. HALL, Sec'y.

Dr. Hause has left a late copy of the Florida Highland Press at this office, which contains this item: "The Sorrento postoffice has been turned over to the new postmaster, H. B. Paxton, and Mr. Santus is assistant postmaster." Mr. Paxton is the man of whom Frank Rumann bought his orange grove. People about here all know who Jay A. Santus is.

Harper's Weekly of July 9th devotes two entire pages to illustrations of excellent ones they are too of our Michigan University. There is a fine picture of the main building, the library, the medical school, the law school, school of dentistry, observatory, museum, chemical laboratory, and President's house, with a sketch of the main entrance to the campus and of a walk on the campus. There are portraits, also of the late President Tappan, President Angell and Professor Frieze. Nothing is lacking to make the picture complete but a sketch of Governor Luce driving his spirited pair of colts. Farmer and Banker, by the back way to his country residence at Gilead, where he held a commencement of his own. Editorially Harper's pays the University a high tribute as "an institution in whose progress not a single State alone, but the whole country as well, may claim an interest." Detroit Free Press.

Robert Stretch is rusticating at home for a few days.

Sunday visitors to the lakes are increasing in number.

Dr. House left last Monday morning for his new field of labor at Springfield, O.

Mrs. Wm. Burch and Miss Ida Smith are spending a few weeks at Devils Lake.

Mr. Wm. Hayden has recovered from his recent illness sufficiently to enable him to attend to business again.

John F. Murray, of Detroit, paid Tecumseh a flying visit last Thursday and was kept busy shaking hands during his short stay.

The thermometer hanging on the iron door post of Alex. Merritt's store marked 90° in the shade yesterday afternoon at two o'clock.

The first Sunday excursion over the C. J. & M. to Devils Lake, went last Sunday. Three coach loads participated.

The farmers are all engaged in harvest this week, while many of the villagers are rusticating at the lakes, and business is rather dull in consequence.

For the benefit of our young lady readers, we mention the fact that they can obtain a copy of the new marriage license law by writing to the handsome Secretary of State, Gil. R. Osmun, at Lansing.

The Semi annual meeting of the Myrtle club will be held in the Universalist church, for the purpose of election of officers, on Thursday evening, at 7:30 o'clock, July 21st. All members requested to be present.

At 9 o'clock Wednesday morning, gas was struck in the experimental well at Hudson. The flow is not large but indications point to a good supply a little deeper. The drill has now reached the depth of 1,050 feet.

Uncle Charley's Ice Cream Room will hereafter be opened evenings only. Parties wishing cream in the daytime, however, will be supplied by calling at the City Bakery. Remember it can be had in any quantity, on the most reasonable terms.

The ladies and gentlemen of the First Baptist church of Tecumseh will serve ice cream to the people next week Thursday eve., at the residence and on the lawn of James Heck, directly opposite the Presbyterian church.

Mr. and Mrs. P. S. McKinnon gave a lawn party to their numerous friends last Thursday evening. The grounds were beautifully trimmed with lanterns, etc., and a pleasant evening was enjoyed. Music was furnished by the City Band sextette.

The vacant store next Nylund's shoe store is having a new floor laid in it and otherwise improved, and will soon be occupied by Jim Jones and John Hazlett. They will carry on a first-class tailoring establishment, and as both are fine workmen in their line of business, the venture will undoubtedly prove successful.

The Southern Michigan Medical Society met at Adrian last Tuesday with a large attendance. Several interesting papers were read and discussions held thereon. The following officers were chosen for the ensuing year:

President—Dr. Wood, of Quincy.
Vice Pres.—Dr. North, of Tecumseh.
Secretary—Dr. Wheelan, of Hillsdale.
Treasurer—Dr. Morden, of Adrian.

Ten new members were admitted to the society, and it was decided to hold the next meeting at Hillsdale, on the second Tuesday in December.

Quite a number of Tecumseh people took in the excursion to Presque Isle Park last Monday and report a very enjoyable time. The management have a fine resort there, and the arrangements for accommodating a crowd are very perfect with one exception. The restaurant is a humbug. When a party of three or four has to wait an hour for a cold lunch, it is spreading on metropolitan style altogether too thick.

W. C. Treadwell, of Devils Lake, was in Tecumseh Tuesday, looking up the excursion business. Mr. Treadwell is connected with Allen's hotel this summer and reports business good at that pleasant hostlery. Mr. Allen has purchased the old "M. A. O." steamer, improved it, and named it the "Tecumseh Chief," after this village, and guests are carried across the lake free of charge. Tecumseh people should ride on their namesake when at the lake.

And now that the celebration of the 4th of July is over, the next large crowd that will visit Tecumseh will be Aug. 26. At that time will occur the grand reunion of the 18th Mich. Vol. Infty. There are now over 300 survivers of this gallant regiment, and the assurance of the attendance of Brevet Maj. Genl. R. S. Granger, U. S. A., Genl. C. C. Doolittle, of Ohio, and Gov. Cyrus G. Luce, Washington Gardner, of Mich., and a large number of men of this state, Tecumseh will again see a large crowd. The citizens here and of the surrounding country are cordially invited to participate, and help welcome our soldiers, the Governor, and many invited guests.

H. W. STEVENS, Chairman Com.

Charles Cummins is home for a few days this week.

Dr. L. G. North attended the Southern Michigan Medical Association at Adrian Tuesday.

Mat Blosser and wife, and Mrs. Samuel Kirchoffer, of Kansas City, visited friends in our village last Tuesday.

Mrs. J. M. Getchell started for Corry, Penn., on Monday afternoon to visit her parents for a month or more.

Miss Minnie Corey was taken dangerously ill while at Sand Lake last Tuesday, but is now considered out of danger.

W. C. Blood, wife and baby returned to Faulkin last Friday, after enjoying their annual visit with father, mother and friends.

Mrs. M. A. Freeman requests all who are indebted to her to call and settle their accounts within the next ten days.

Chas. A. Slayton is fitting his residence with a Tiffany hot water furnace. It is well to be prepared for a blizzard in such trying weather as this.

The annual register of the State Normal School for the current year is at hand and makes a most creditable showing for that institution.

A postal received from Dr. R. B. House announced the fact that he arrived in Springfield safely last Tuesday, and would soon be at work.

Mrs. T. P. Earl leaves this week for her home in Pennsylvania. She expects to spend the summer there, but may return to Tecumseh in October.

The Sorrento Press, Florida, says: "Our force enjoyed two watermelons last Saturday, for which we must thank J. A. Santus and H. B. Paxton. One melon weighed 46 pounds."

A. H. Chapin, whose condition was somewhat critical for several days after his recent injury, is now on the mend, with good prospects for his ultimate recovery.

In addition to the general thanks given in last weeks HERALD by the W. C. T. U. to those who gave their aid so freely on the 4th of July, we hereby express our especial thanks to Mr. Stoepel for the use of his store generously given free of charge, on that occasion.

IT IS A QUESTION OF VERACITY.

The Adrian Times remarks that Gov. Luce has said privately that his veto of the university appropriation bill was due largely to President Angell's statement that the bill could be cut down without injury to the institution, and on its own account declares that the president put the cut at $45,000. The Journal is informed on the best authority that President Angell has said privately that he did not make either of those statements. Detroit Evening Journal.

If our Detroit cotemporary is satisfied that its authority is good for what it alleges President Angell says, then the matter resolves itself into a question of veracity between that gentleman and Gov. Luce. For there can be no kind of a doubt but that Gov. Luce has said, both in and out of the state, that President Angell intimated to him that the appropriation was larger than necessary. Hence the veto.—Adrian Times.

The Governor has succeeded in placing himself in a most humiliating position in this matter. Weighing the evidence of these two witnesses in the light of their surroundings and interests as a jury would be called upon to weigh the evidence of conflicting witnesses, let us see what the probabilities in the case are. President Angell is the official head of the University. His personal as well as official interests would naturally induce him to favor liberal appropriations for the institution. The officers of the University, with President Angell's sanction, presented their wants to the legislature. The proper legislative committee listened to all the arguments pro and con and recommended the bill as it originally passed, and the legislature by a majority vote passed it. That President Angell, under all these circumstances should advise the Governor to cut down the appropriation, is a most unreasonable supposition. It would be attributing to him an act of gross puerility, such as no person who knows him could think of for a moment.

What are the probabilities on the Governor's side of this issue? The statement has been made, and we have not seen it contradicted, that the Governor has never visited the University in his life. He has no knowledge of its wants and but little acquaintance with its officers and instructors. He was overpersuaded by a private secretary to interpose his veto. But after seeing the storm of indignation which his action stirred up in all sections of the state, the Governor has attempted to hedge and his party organs have been seeking to relieve him of the responsibility of the veto, by shouldering it upon President Angell, and raising this issue of veracity. Well, we accept the issue. No disinterested man can weigh the circumstantial evidence on both sides carefully without deciding that President Angell tells the truth. Governor Luce's friends had better drop this subject at once. The more they stir it up, the more rank the odor becomes.

CLIPPINGS AND CONDENSATIONS

Quoth the weather clerk: "I'm making it hot for you."

Adrian now has the free delivery postal system which went into effect on the 1st of July.

[illegible] County. One nigre should be organized somewhere.

The Fourth of July celebrations at Clayton and Blissfield were seriously damaged by the rain.

[illegible] Bailey, who was near drowned, has been selected as judge of beef cattle at the next Dearborn fair at Mitchell & A. He's fit for the only judge, and his expenses will be paid while absent from home.—Hudson Post.

Two of Hudson's past preachers have accepted calls elsewhere and if it wasn't for the look of the thing Hudson would give us no churches a vacation and devote the entire summer's energy to boring for gas.—Detroit Journal.

Last Saturday Dave Woodward's gasoline stove became unruly, the women cryed fire and about one hundred men rushed to the house in about a minute but Ben Woodward threw a coat over the stove and smothered the flames before the fire department arrived.—Clinton Local.

The village newspaper is a photograph of the town in which it is printed, and it is the only evidence foreign readers have of the town's prosperity. Every business man should be represented by a standing advertisement, be it large or small, that strangers may get a good impression of the place.

This torrid weather produces the sale of summer temperance drinks, which are of almost unlimitable extent and variety. There is the sparkling effervescent soda, and refreshing lemonade, pungent sherbet and ginger ale, sarsaparilla, lager beer, lemon and cream soda, etc., etc. To all these Hudson people add cooling buttermilk and pure Antioch Water, and feel themselves prepared to get along nicely under local option.—Hudson Gazette.

At the gas well work is progressing rapidly, and the hole is now 800 feet deep. On Wednesday night at a depth of about 700 feet, a vein of coal was passed through, after which slate rock was again entered. The finding of coal is regarded as a favorable find and indeed the workmen claim that indications have been good from the first. At the present rate of progress the problem will soon be solved as to whether Hudson is to have a gas or oil well, or a dry hole. Our people are earnestly hoping it will not be the latter.—Hudson Post.

A good disinfectant is made by dissolving half a pound of nitrate of lead in a pint of boiling water, then dissolve two pounds of common salt in eight pints of water. When both are thoroughly dissolved, pour the two mixtures together, and when the sediment has settled you have a pint of clear fluid which is the saturated solution of the chloride of lead. A cloth saturated with the liquid and hung up in a room will at once sweeten a foul atmosphere. Poured down a sink, water closet, or drain, or on any decaying or offensive object, it will produce the same result. The nitrate of lead is very cheap, and a pound of it would make several barrels of the disinfectant.

Secretary Sterling, of the Michigan State Agricultural Society, has issued the annual premium list for the thirty-ninth State Fair to be held at Jackson, beginning Monday, September 19, and closing Friday, September 23, together with the premium list for the eighteenth annual fair of the Michigan Horticultural Society, which will be held at the same place and time. Entries for live animals and farm implements close September 13; other exhibits must be entered prior to September 19. The safe plan for persons to pursue who expect to exhibit any articles or animals is to write to the Secretary for a premium list book. Address J. C. Sterling, Montoe, Mich., prior to September 5, after that date he will be in Jackson.

We are always ready to defend Hudson boys, and must warn all persons against repeating the story as to how one of our young men celebrated. It is said he went to Detroit to duly observe the anniversary of our national independence. He went into a jewelry store to purchase a K. of P. pin, when he put his elbows on the show case. Being weary he bore down heavily, and the result was that the glass in the case gave way. Next he went to see the ball game, and lost his umbrella. He started for a ride on the ferry, but when he jumped on board his plug hat came off, and he secured the attention of all on the boat by the graceful motions of his form as he chased the beaver about the deck. He had no more adventures until on his way home, when he found his railroad ticket was lost. The above is substantially the tale of the young man and his experiences on the glorious Fourth, as told by some of his friends, but we do not believe a word of it.—Hudson post.

DIED.

SMITH.—At her home in Tecumseh, July 9th, Mrs. Smith, wife of William Smith, aged 70 years.

Elizabeth Dobson was born in Southhampton, Ontario, April 1st, 1837, came to Tecumseh in 1874, and was married to Mr. Smith in the Tecumseh M. E. Parsonage by Rev. W. J. Burnett, June [illegible] 1876. Mr. and Mrs. Smith resided in Franklin from the date of their marriage until they moved to Tecumseh. Their family consists of a daughter ten years of age and an adopted daughter.

Mrs. Smith was greatly respected at her adopted home. [illegible] public profession of religion at the tender age of [illegible] years, and continued to exhibit all the characteristics of an earnest, devoted and faithful Christian while she lived. Her health became impaired a year ago, but during the last winter it became much worse, and for about ten weeks before her death she was prostrated and suffered greatly at times. Her funeral was held on Sunday afternoon, July 10th, at the M. E. church of Tecumseh, and was attended by a large congregation.

JORDAN.—Died suddenly, at her home in Jackson, Mich., on July 7th, 1887, Mrs. Eliza W. Jordan, in the 53d year of her age.

Eliza W. Cairns was born in Seneca Co., N. Y., Dec. 13, 1833. In or about the year 1855 she came to Michigan and made this region from that time her home. In 18[illegible] she was married to Mr. James Jordan, who died in 1881. Mrs. Jordan leaves behind her the reputation of being an excellent wife and mother and a useful member of society. At her death she was a member of the Presbyterian church of Tecumseh. For some time previous to her death she had been failing in health. She was [illegible] but gave her resignation to the wife of her bosom, to the Savior, rubbed her eyes, looked toward heaven and departed without a struggle. The children who survive her are Mrs. Wm. Fraser, of Tecumseh, and W. [illegible] Jordan, of Jackson, Mich., and three daughters, Mrs. E. Swartout, of Lansing, Ohio, and Mrs. Harriet Manly and Miss Susan Jordan, of Tecumseh. Our fellow citizens, Mr. Robert Cairns, Mrs. James P. Cairns are brothers of Mrs. Jordan. And so has passed away still another of those early settlers to this county who have by their virtuous lives to give to our prosperity and the good reputation which it possesses.

[illegible]

Your shad was so mild and [illegible]
We scarcely first endeared,
[illegible]

Card of Thanks.

Those friends who so kindly rendered their assistance at the funeral of Mrs. Eliza Jordan will please accept the sincere and hearty gratitude of

THE FAMILY.

Card of Thanks.

Will a sad [illegible] tender my earnest thanks to all the kind friends who so generously assisted me during the long illness and at the funeral of my beloved wife.

WILLIAM SMITH.

Mrs. N. B. Bacon and two children of Toledo, are guests at the Tecumseh House, and will likely remain the balance of the week. Mr. Bacon is President Cleveland's [illegible].

A special meeting of the survivors of the 18th Mich. Vol. Inf., living in the vicinity of Tecumseh, is called for July 16th, to be held at Egers Parlors at 1 o'clock P.M., to make further preparation for their reunion Aug. 26, '87. By request of

H. W. STEVENS,
Chairman Com. of Arrangements.

Call at Adamson Bros' and see the elegant line of Gorham Mfg. Co's silverware just received.

Diamonds in Watches, Bracelets, Pins, Earrings and Finger Rings to be had at the mammoth jewelry store of Adamson Bros.

Mrs. N. R. Brown would call attention to her closing out sale of Lake hats. All varieties.

Don't make a mistake and buy your binding twine before seeing me.

C. A. Slayton.

Sewing machines—Needles, oil and attachments at

M. P. Brown's Art Gallery.

For hay rakes, tedders, hay loaders, forks, rakes, rope, pulleys, etc., See

C. A. Slayton.

If you want a first class sewing machine call on Mrs. M. P. Brown and see the New Domestic, The White and The Grand. Prices reasonable and terms easy.

I will sell you a first class hay rake for five dollars.

C. A. Slayton.

Get the Celebrated Wood binder twine at Whitnack Bordine & Co.'s.

Call and see the self lighting Crown Jewel gasoline stoves at Whitnack Bordine & Co.

All Steel frame quick meal gasoline stoves at Whitnack Bordine & Co.

Large line of double and single harnesses at Whitnack Bordine & Co.

Planet Jr. Cultivators at Whitnack, Bordine & Co.

Call at J. S. Kinney's store and see those fine marble, indestructible caskets on exhibition. Also a new spring bed with elevated head rest. The best in the market for invalids. Manufactured by J. S. Kinney.

THE TECUMSEH HERALD

Issued Every Thursday Morning

Office in The New HERALD Building, one door East of the Opera House, Tecumseh, Mich

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

One year, cash in advance, $ [illegible]
Six months " " [illegible]
Three months " " [illegible]

Subscription price for every three months [illegible] may be delayed.

ADVERTISING RATES

Business locals, five cents a line for each insertion.
Special notices, fifty cents an inch for each insertion.
[illegible]

Entered at the post office at Tecumseh, Michigan, as second class matter.

TECUMSEH THURSDAY, MAY 14, 1885

Now we have a clear explanation of Gov. Luce's action in decapitating the old Staff University at the most important time in its history. It is because of "press of business." Fools is so because some cowardly back member, who assumes to be as wise as Solomon, says that is the reason. He says so behind an alias probably for the same prudential reasons that other men often find it convenient to hide behind such a cover. But of course there is a "press of business," although the Governor found time to start for his farm in Gilead and visit a couple of days at Charlotte while the University exercises were in progress.—Grand Rapids Leader.

President Cleveland has the faculty, which Lincoln possessed in such an eminent degree, of writing public letters that hit the nail on the head. His pen has never done a better job than in its reply to the invitation to be present at the ceremonies on the 4th of July. Here it is:

EXECUTIVE MANSION,
WASHINGTON, June 24, 1885.

I received your invitation to be present at the Philadelphia celebration of the Fourth of July, and detract from the Philadelphia division, which surely should fall to charge at Gettysburg and the end of the Union army. [illegible] was necessary [illegible] meeting of [illegible] upon the battlefield where twenty years ago it decided [illegible] which sought each other [illegible] who first saw their comrades [illegible] their thoughts [illegible] the general impulse of [illegible] patriotic [illegible] Memorial [illegible] Gettysburg [illegible] Yours [illegible]

GROVER CLEVELAND.

The News [illegible] but it takes no [illegible] partisan [illegible]

[illegible] the attacking [illegible] of the [illegible] Philadelphia [illegible] Fourth of July [illegible] the survivors of Pickett's [illegible] requirement [illegible] that the [illegible] presented upon the occasion of a great [illegible] by the Philadelphia brigadiers [illegible] to say no more about [illegible] The sentiment [illegible] patriot this Independence day should thank God that time's softening fingers have softened the bitterness of a brothers war to such a happy consummation.

BILL NYE ON BOILS.

He Relates His Experience With Seven of Them.

[illegible] humorous experience will come with no element of sadness perhaps, but to me it brings a thrill of the keenest and most poignant anguish. A man might go all over a whole country and not find anything more poignantly painful to him.

There are seven of these little impostors, and they lodge in a tips cluster on the back of my neck, about two inches below what the phrenologists call love of home.

I had never brought out a boil until last week, though I had felt a very checkered feeling. The other morning I awoke to find myself [illegible] and painted boils about the size of a plum pudding.

They are spoiling my [illegible] show stakes. They are sad and lonely looking with such more or less [illegible].

Boils are like the poor, we find them everywhere. They are so thoughtless, too, and careless about bringing out anything in the line of bland humor. A man who had been running a humorous weekly paper in the far West came here and in two weeks it broke out so that his friends had to dig him up in a position seven feet long.

I am not doing much for these boils; because I want to teach them to be self reliant and independent upon themselves. One of them was a puny looking thing at first, and I felt sorry for it when my friends laid me down on it. I can not see these boils, of course, as they are on the direct line of vision lying on the back of my neck. So I get a friend to come in and tell me how they are doing from time to time.

This little boil at first did not bid fair to hold out more than a day or two, but yesterday it began to throw aside its lethargy and to realize that life is real. It is fully abreast of the others now, and has a large and very active crater to it.

For three days I put various things on these boils, using others soap, sugar, the white of an egg, ground flaxseed, bread and milk, bread and molasses, etc., etc. There are other things to be applied, but as the boils are in a state for I can't up on them at present. With some boils well directed I might have received second offers, but I did the best I could. In the olden days I have found that one of the worth of generous outlay goes to the consumer.

Boils are the rich and poor alike the humble and the exalted. They are not a mark of disease, but boils frequently mean a disorder in the unknown. They come with the seasons, and they go with the seasons, by night or day. Boils are [illegible] many whose lives would otherwise be a blank incident. [illegible] a great benison, of which I speak. How many people who have been worse than idle [illegible] progress, but a boil [illegible] which they can't [illegible] they are not responsible [illegible]

[illegible] Place are nine [illegible] that are good for a [illegible] boil [illegible]

THE RUNAWAY MAIDEN.

[illegible]

The School of the London Detective.

The men who show special aptitude for the work are first sent out and tested as patrols in plain clothes, afterward they are detached as detectives. Each of the divisions has its own detective constables, the sergeants being always on duty at the central station. The superintendent of department is in attendance from 9 to 6 to receive applications for assistance and to issue orders. The duties of the city detectives are especially difficult and delicate. Now and again, of course, they have to trace out the perpetrators of a common place murder and ordinary burglary. But as a rule they are chiefly concerned with commercial frauds where the criminal is presumably as quick witted as themselves, and has probably taken his precautions against discovery. Generally he has already made tracks and sought refuge in foreign countries. He may have gone where there is no extradition treaty, but as there are many difficulties and obstacles to be met with among foreigners, who, manners he dislikes and of whose language he is ignorant, he may prefer to take a passage [illegible] Australia. It seems so easy to change your name, to cast your skin, and to whisper in a new existence among a great English speaking population. Even in the home circle [illegible] the fugitive from justice is not safe. Should the detective succeed in tracking and find him out, extreme [illegible] are made use of and every means tried. The agent of the Engish law [illegible] the fugitive has his [illegible] in communicating with [illegible] who quickly find assistance [illegible] retreat in [illegible] A number of fact, such [illegible] are for the most part [illegible] of money. If a notorious [illegible] is not captured [illegible] because [illegible] and [illegible] up to [illegible] [illegible] they are not [illegible]

[illegible]

A Great Battle

[illegible]

A Sound Medical Opinion.

A Bachelder Mountain Farmer [illegible] Clay Co., Tex., says: "I have used Electric Bitters with most happy results. My mother also was very low with Malaria Fever and Jaundice. [illegible] cured by them. I [illegible] Electric Bitters [illegible]"

Mr. D. L. Wilcoxson, of Horse Cave, Ky., adds a like testimony, saying: He positively believes he would have died, had it not been for Electric Bitters.

This great remedy will ward off, as well as cure all Malarial Diseases, and for all Kidney, Liver and Stomach disorders stands unequaled. Price 50c. and $1.

C. A. Wright & Co.

William T. Williams, treasurer of Jersey county, Ill., is missing and so is $[illegible] of the county's funds.

The prospects of the cotton crop are very whichever [illegible] the most favorable in seven years.

[illegible]

A Western Senator's Wife.

[illegible] Mrs. Gen. Jones of Arkansas, [illegible] the United States Senate [illegible] Minnesota, [illegible] Northwest. Mr. Dawes [illegible] Mrs. Dawes [illegible] Senate [illegible] Mrs. Jones [illegible] Senate [illegible] Mrs. Jones [illegible] Senate [illegible] Mrs. Jones

KASKINE

(THE NEW QUININE.)

GIVES
Good Appetite
New Strength
Quiet Nerves
Happy Days

A POWERFUL TONIC
that the most delicate stomach will bear.
A SPECIFIC FOR MALARIA,
RHEUMATISM,
NERVOUS PROSTRATION,
And all germ diseases.
THE MOST SCIENTIFIC AND SUCCESSFUL
BLOOD PURIFIER. Superior to quinine.
"For years I had malarial ague intolerably. Wishing to avoid death's score of times. I never found anything in the world, the bottle that held it, until I tried the Kaskine. That was a happy day for me. It restored my appetite and strength. I can sleep like a child. Every word of this—Thos. A. Doyle, Buffalo, N. Y.
"Thos. Neighbourgh, Selma, N. C., writes. "I was in the southern army, and for a long time was suffering from its debilitating effects. I was completely run down when I heard of Kaskine. It helped me at once. I have not had such good health in 20 years."
"Caroline Asten, Astoria, N. Y., says, "My father had been so rapidly from malaria, was confined to his chair, sitting in my chair, I took a bottle of Kaskine, the new quinine. Using it two weeks I was well. It caused a general gain in my father's health. I think but for Kaskine, I should be dead."
Testimony like the above persons, giving full details, sent on application.
Pleasant to take and can be used by ladies. Special medical advice, $1 per bottle, sent by mail on receipt of price.
KASKINE CO., 51 Warren st., New York.

WANTED LADIES TO WORK FOR US at their homes. $5 to $10 per week can be quietly made. No photo soliciting, no canvassing. For full particulars address at once, CRESCENT ART WORKS, MILK ST., Boston, Mass. Box 5150.

BURKE'S IMPROVED ROOT BEER
Package, 25c, makes 5 Gallons of a delicious, sparkling temperance beverage. Strengthens and purifies the blood. Its purity and delicacy recommend it to all. Sold by all druggists and grocers.

PARKER'S GINGER TONIC
The best Cure for Coughs, Weak Lungs, Asthma, Bronchitis, Inward Pains, Exhaustion. Combining the most valuable medicines with Jamaica Ginger, it exerts a curative power over diseases unknown to other remedies. For Lungs, Rheumatism, Female Complaints, and the Kidneys, it is the Great Strengthener. Liver, Kidneys and Bowels it restores to healthy vigor. To the aged, the feeble who would recover health and strength, to the aged, 50c. at Druggists. Beach & Co., 165 William Street, N. Y.

DEAFNESS Its causes and a new and successful CURE at your own home by one who was deaf 28 years. Treated by most of the noted specialists without benefit, cured himself in three months, and since has cured others. Full particulars sent to deaf. Address, J. H. SHERWOOD, Esq., No. 42 West 31st St., New York City.

CURE FOR THE DEAF
PERKINS' IMPROVED CUSHIONED EAR DRUMS Perfectly Restore the Hearing, and perform the work of the Natural Drum. Always in position, but invisible to others and comfortable to wear. All conversation and even whispers heard distinctly. We refer you to those using them. Send for illustrated book with testimonials. Address, F. HISCOX, 853 Broadway, New York. Mention this paper.

Agricultural Implement
DEPOT.
C. A. SLAYTON
Proud to make lower prices than ever before for first-class farm machinery. My stock is complete, but with only mention a few articles.
SOUTH BEND, BURCH, WIARD GALE, OLIVER. PLOWS. Walking.
THE CASSADY AND SOLID COMFORT SULKY PLOWS.
Kalamazoo Spring Tooth Harrow,
"ACME" PULVERIZING HARROWS.
CULTIVATORS { Elwood, New Robbins, Albion, Buckeye.
Buckeye, Superior, Monitor, Roller, } GRAIN DRILLS
KEMP'S MANURE SPREADER.
Studebaker, Jackson and Flint
WAGONS.
GREAT BARGAINS IN Carriages and Platform Spring Wagons.
Headquarters for Lime, Cement, Salt, Coal, Hair, Plaster and Plastering Hair Grain, Flour, Feed, and Field Seeds.
WRITE FOR PRICE.

DETROIT MUSIC CO.
CHARLES BOWZIN
HARRY B. WILLIAMS
DETROIT, MICH.
Catalogue of Sheet Music, Musical Merchandise or Band Instruments, mailed to any address.

POULTRY, GAME,
BUTTER, EGGS.
Have leased the new store, 42 Michigan St., (Cadillac Square) I am prepared to commission, Butter, Eggs, Poultry. Quick sales at highest market price returns guaranteed.
FITZPATRICK Detroit, M.

Brewster's Pat. Rein Holder
Lines are where you put them—not under your feet. One Agent sold 12 doz. in 5 days; one sold 6 doz. in 15 days. Samples worth $1.50 Write for terms.
E. E. BREWSTER, Holly, Mich.

Tecumseh Herald

TECUMSEH, MICH., JULY 14, 1887

JESS.

By H. RIDER HAGGARD,

Author of "King Solomon's Mines" "She," Etc.

Just then, however, the bandage on his leg slipped, and the wound began to bleed so fast that he was obliged to lie down, leaving Jess to stop it.

Jess, who had apparently quite got over her agitation, was standing by the table talking to Mrs. Neville, who was gesticulating her to swallow some of the brandy she had been at such pains to fetch. The moment she caught sight of John's face, which had now turned ghastly white, and saw the red line trickling down his boot, she took up her hat that was lying on the table.

"You had better lie down on the old bedstead in the little room," she said, "I am going for the doctor."

Assisted by Mrs. Neville, he was only too glad to take this advice, but long before the doctor arrived John had followed Jess' example, and, to the intense alarm of Mrs. Neville, who was vainly endeavoring to check the flow of blood, which had now become copious, gone off into a dead faint. On the arrival of the doctor it appeared that the bullet had grazed the walls of one of the arteries on the inside of the thigh without actually cutting them, but that they had now given way, which rendered it necessary to tie the artery. This operation, with the assistance of chloroform, he proceeded to successfully carry out on the spot, announcing afterward that a great deal of blood had already been lost.

When at last it was over, Mrs. Neville asked about John being moved up to the hospital, but the doctor declared that he must stop where he was, and that Jess must stop and help to nurse him, with the assistance of a soldier's wife he would send down.

"Dear me," said Mrs. Neville, "that is very awkward."

"It will be awkwarder if you try to move him at present," was the grim reply, "for the silk may rip, in which case the artery will probably break out again, and he will bleed to death."

As for Jess, she said nothing, but set to work to make preparations for her task of nursing. As fate had once more thrown them together, she accepted the position gladly, though it is only fair to say that she would not have sought it.

In about an hour's time, just as John was beginning to recover from the painful effects of the chloroform, the soldier's wife who was to assist her in nursing arrived. She was, as Jess soon discovered, not only a Dowsabel of a woman, but both careless and ignorant into the bargain, and all that she could be relied on to do was to carry out some of the coarser work of the sick room. When John woke and discovered whose wife the presence that was bending over him and whose the cool hand that lay upon his forehead, he groaned again and went to sleep. But Jess did not go to sleep. She sat by him there throughout the night, until at last the cold lights of the dawn came gleaming through the window and fell upon the white face of the man she loved. He was still sleeping soundly, and, as the night was exceedingly hot and oppressive, she had left nothing but a sheet over him. Before she went to rest a little herself she turned to look at him once more, and as she did so saw the sheet suddenly grow red with blood. The artery had broken out again.

Calling to the soldier's wife to run across to the doctor, Jess shook her patient until he woke, for he was sleeping sweetly through the whole thing, and would, no doubt, have continued to do so until he glided into a deeper sleep; and then between them they did what they could to quench that dreadful pumping flow. Jess knotting her handkerchief round his leg and twisting it with a stick, while he pressed his thumb upon the severed artery. But strive as they would they were only partially successful, and Jess began to think that he would die in her arms from loss of blood. It was agonizing to wait there minute after minute and see his life ebbing away.

"I don't think I shall last much longer, Jess. God bless you, dear!" he said, "the place is beginning to go round and round."

Poor soul, she could only shut her teeth and wait for the end.

Presently John's pressure on the wounded artery relaxed, and he fainted off, and, oddly enough, just then the flow of blood diminished considerably. Another five minutes, and she heard the quick step of the doctor coming up the path.

"Thank God you have come! He has bled dreadfully."

"I was out attending a poor fellow who was shot through the lung, and that fool of a woman waited for me to come back, instead of following. I have brought you an orderly instead of her. By Jove! he has bled. I suppose the silk has slipped. Well, there is only one thing for it. Orderly, the chloroform."

And then followed another long half hour of slashing and tying and horror, and when at last the unfortunate John opened his eyes again he was too weak to speak, and could only smile feebly. For three days after this he was in a dangerous state, for if the artery had broken out for the third time the chances were that, having so little blood left in his veins, he would die before anything could be done for him. At times he was very delirious from weakness, and these were the dangerous hours, for it was almost impossible to keep him quiet, and every movement threw Jess into an agony of terror lest the silk fastenings of the artery should break away. Indeed, there was only one way in which she could keep him quiet, and that was by laying her slim white hand upon his forehead or giving it to him to hold. Oddly enough, this had more effect upon his fevered mind than anything else. For hour after hour she would sit thus, though her arm ached and her back felt as if it were going to break in two, until at last she was rewarded by seeing his wild eyes cease their wanderings and close in peaceful sleep.

Yet with it all that week was perhaps the happiest time in her life. There he lay, the man she loved with all the intensity of her deep nature, and she ministered to him, and felt that he loved her, and depended on her as a babe upon its mother. Even in his delirium her name was continually on his lips, and generally with some endearing term before it. She felt in those dark hours of doubt and sickness as though they two were growing life to life, knit up in a divine identity she could not analyze or understand. She felt that it was so, and she believed that once being so, whatever her future might be, that communion could never be dissolved, and therefore was she happy, though she knew that his recovery meant their lifelong separation. For though Jess had once, when thrown utterly off her balance, given her passion sway, it was not a thing she meant to repeat. She had, she felt, injured Bessie enough already in taking her future husband's heart. That she could not help now, but she would take no more. John should go back to her sister.

And so she sat and gazed at that sleeping man through the long watches of the night and was happy. There lay her love. Soon he would be taken from her and she would be left desolate, but while he lay there he was hers, and no power could part them.

The time went on and the artery broke out no more, and then at last came a morning when John opened his eyes and watched the pale, earnest face bending over him as though he were trying to remember something. Presently he shot his eyes upon it. He had found it.

"I have been very ill, Jess," he said, after a pause.

"Yes, John."

"And you have nursed me?"

"Yes, dear."

"Am I going to recover?"

"Of course you are."

He shut his eyes again.

"I suppose there is no news from outside?"

"No more than there any just the table."

"Nor from Bessie?"

"None; we are quite cut off."

Then came a pause.

"John," said Jess, "I want to say something to you. When people are delirious, or when delirium is coming on, they sometimes say things that they are not responsible for, and which had better be forgotten."

"Yes," he said; "I understand."

"So," she went on, in the same measured tone, "we will forget everything you may have said during the last week, and—"

"Why, what have I been saying?"

"Everything, thanks."

"Well, then, mind you stop quiet till I come back."

"Why," laughed John, "I am as strong as a horse."

"Possibly; but that is what the doctor said, you know. Good-bye." And Jess took her leave, leaving him in a state of wonderment as to what some next to freely call her "national undertaking."

She had not got fifty paces from the door before she suddenly caught sight of a familiar form seated on a familiar pony. The form was fat and jovial looking, and the pony was small, lean and lame. It was Hans Coetzee.

"Good morning, Oom Coetzee," she called, as he came shambling toward her, evidently making for the Hotel de Paris.

The old boer pulled up his pony, and looked around him in a startled way.

"Here, Oom Coetzee! Here!"

"Almighty!" he said, jerking his pony round. "It's you, Miss Jess, is it? Now who would have thought of seeing you here?"

"Who would have thought of seeing you here?" she answered.

"Yes, yes, it seems strange; I dare say that it seems strange. But I am a messenger of peace, like Noah's dove in the ark, you know. The fact is, and he glanced round to see if anybody were listening, "I have been sent by the government to arrange about an exchange of prisoners."

"The government! What government?"

"What government? Why, the triumvirate, of course—whom may the Lord bless and prosper as he did Jonah when he walked on the wall of the city."

"Jonah, when he walked round the wall of the city," suggested Jess. "Jonah walked down the whale's throat."

"Ah! to be sure, so he did, and I knew a trimmed inside. I remember now; though I am sure I don't know how he did it. The fact is that our glorious victories have quite confused me. Ah! what a thing it is to be a patriot!" The dear Lord makes strong the arm of the patriot, and takes care that he hits his man well in the middle."

"You have turned wonderfully patriotic all of a sudden, Oom Coetzee," said Jess, tartly.

"Yes, missie, yes; I am a patriot to the bone of my back. I hate the English government; d—n the English government! Let us have our land back and our commandos! Almighty! I saw who was in the right at Laing's Nek there. Ah, those poor Rooinekjes! I shot beside them myself; two as they came up and two as they ran away, and the last one went head over heels like a buck. Poor man! I cried for him afterward. I did not like going to fight at all, but Frank Muller sent to me and said that if I did not go he would have me shot. Ah, he is a devil of a man, that Frank Muller! So I went, and when I saw how the dear Lord had put it into the heart of the English general to be a bigger fool even than they their lie, I rejoiced every day, and to try and drive us out of Laing's Nek with a thousand of his poor to slaughter, then, I tell you, I saw where the right lay, and I said, 'D—n the English government!' What is the English government doing here?' said I afterwards Ingogo I said it again."

"Never mind all that, Oom Coetzee," broke in Jess. "I have heard you tell a different tale before, and perhaps you will again. Tell me, how are my uncle and my sisters? Are they at the farm?"

"Almighty! you don't suppose that I have been there to see, do you? But, yes, I have heard they are there. It is a nice place, that Moeifontein, and I think that I shall live it when we have turned all you English people out of the land. Frank Muller told me that they were there. And now I must be getting on, or that devil of a man, Frank Muller, will want to know what I have been about."

"Oom Coetzee," said Jess, "will you do a thing for me? We are old friends, you know, and I once persuaded my uncle to lend you £500 when all you Oom Boers were hard-pinched."

"Yes, yes, it shall be paid back one day—when we have got the land back again out of the country." And he began to gather up his reins preparatory to mounting.

"Will you do me a favor?" said Jess, putting the pony by the bridle.

"What is it? What is it, missie? I must be getting on. That devil of a man, Frank Muller, is waiting for me with the prisoners at the Rooiands Kraal."

"I want a pass for myself and Ned, Nel, and an escort. We want to go to Pretoria."

The old Boer held up his fat hands in amazement.

"Almighty!" he said, "it is impossible. A pass—who ever heard of such a thing? Come, I must be going."

"It is not impossible, Uncle Coetzee, as you know," said Jess, "and if I get that pass I will speak to my uncle about the £500. Perhaps he would not want it all back again."

"Ah!" said the Boer. "Well, we are old friends, missie, and I never desert a friend, that is my saying. Almighty! I will make it two hundred miles—I will swear to eighty miles for a friend. Well, well, I will see. It will depend upon that devil of a man, Frank Muller. Where are you to be found in the white house yonder? Good! To-morrow I will come on with the prisoners and a pass, and then I will bring the pass. But mind, remember the £500. If you do not speak to your uncle about that I shall be even with him. Almighty! what a thing it is to have a good heart and to love to help your friends! Well, good-day, good-day," and off he canted on his fat pony, his broad face shining with a look of unutterable benevolence.

Jess cast a look of contempt after him and then went on toward Groenpup to get the rations.

When she got back to "The Palatial" she told John what had taken place, and suggested that it would be as well, in case there should be a favorable reply to her request, to have everything prepared for a start, and accordingly the cart was brought down and stood outside "The Palatial," and John unscrewed the patent caps and filled them with castor oil, and ordered Mouti to keep the horses, which were all well, though poor from want of proper food, well within hail.

Meanwhile, old Hans pursued the jerky tenor of his way for an hour or so, till he came in sight of a small red house.

Presently, from the shadow in front of the red house emerged a horseman, mounted on a powerful black horse. The horseman—a stern, handsome, bearded man—put his hand about his eyes to shade them from the sun, and gazed up the road. Then he seemed to suddenly strike his spurs into the horse, for the animal gave a sudden bound forward, and came sweeping towards Hans at a hand gallop.

"Ah! it is that devil of a man, Frank Muller," ejaculated Hans. "Now I wonder what he wants? I always feel cold down the back when he comes near me."

By this time the plunging black horse was being reined up alongside of his pony so sharply that it reared till its great hoofs were pawing the air within a few inches of Hans' head.

"Almighty!" said the old man, tugging his pony round. "Be careful, nephew, be careful! I do not wish to be crushed like a beetle."

Frank Muller—for it was he—smiled. He had made his horse rear purposely, in order to let then the old man, whom he knew to be an arrant coward.

"Why have you been so long, and what have you done with the prisoners? You should have been back half an hour ago."

"And so I should, nephew, and so I should, if I had not been detained. Surely you do not suppose that I would linger in this accursed place? Bah!" and he spat upon the ground "it stinks of English here. I wanted to see the commandant, and what some next to freely call her "national undertaking."

She had not got fifty paces from the door before she suddenly caught sight of a familiar form seated on a familiar pony. The form was fat and jovial looking, and the pony was small, lean and lame. It was Hans Coetzee.

"Good morning, Oom Coetzee," she called, as he came shambling toward her, evidently making for the Hotel de Paris.

The old Boer pulled up his pony, and looked around him in a startled way.

"Here, Oom Coetzee! Here!"

"Almighty!" he said, jerking his pony round. "It's you, Missie Jess, is it? Now who would have thought of seeing you here?"

"Who would have thought of seeing you here?" she answered.

"Yes, yes, it seems strange; I dare say that it seems strange. But I am a messenger of peace, like Uncle Noah's dove in the ark, you know. The fact is, and he glanced round to see if anybody were listening, "I have been sent by the government to arrange about an exchange of prisoners."

"The government! What government?"

"What government? Why, the triumvirate, of course—whom may the Lord bless and prosper as he did Jonah when he walked on the wall of the city."

"Jonah, when he walked round the wall of the city," suggested Jess. "Jonah walked down the whale's throat."

"Ah! to be sure, so he did, and I knew a trimmed inside. I remember now; though I am sure I don't know how he did it. The fact is that our glorious victories have quite confused me. Ah! what a thing it is to be a patriot! The dear Lord makes strong the arm of the patriot, and takes care that he hits his man well in the middle."

"You have turned wonderfully patriotic all of a sudden, Oom Coetzee," said Jess, tartly.

"Yes, missie, yes; I am a patriot to the bone of my back. I hate the English government; d—n the English government! Let us have our land back and our commandos! Almighty! I saw who was in the right at Laing's Nek there. Ah, those poor Rooinekjes! I shot beside them myself; two as they came up and two as they ran away, and the last one went head over heels like a buck. Poor man! I cried for him afterward. I did not like going to fight at all, but Frank Muller sent to me and said that if I did not go he would have me shot. Ah, he is a devil of a man, that Frank Muller! So I went, and when I saw how the dear Lord had put it into the heart of the English general to be a bigger fool even than they their lie, I rejoiced every day, and to try and drive us out of Laing's Nek with a thousand of his poor to slaughter, then, I tell you, I saw where the right lay, and I said, 'D—n the English government!' What is the English government doing here?' said I afterwards Ingogo I said it again."

"Never mind all that, Oom Coetzee," broke in Jess. "I have heard you tell a different tale before, and perhaps you will again. Tell me, how are my uncle and my sisters? Are they at the farm?"

"Almighty! you don't suppose that I have been there to see, do you? But, yes, I have heard they are there. It is a nice place, that Moeifontein, and I think that I shall live it when we have turned all you English people out of the land. Frank Muller told me that they were there. And now I must be getting on, or that devil of a man, Frank Muller, will want to know what I have been about."

"Oom Coetzee," said Jess, "will you do a thing for me? We are old friends, you know, and I once persuaded my uncle to lend you £500 when all you Oom Boers were hard-pinched."

"Yes, yes, it shall be paid back one day—when we have got the land back again out of the country." And he began to gather up his reins preparatory to mounting.

"Will you do me a favor?" said Jess, putting the pony by the bridle.

"What is it? What is it, missie? I must be getting on. That devil of a man, Frank Muller, is waiting for me with the prisoners at the Rooiands Kraal."

"I want a pass for myself and Ned, Nel, and an escort. We want to go to Pretoria."

The old Boer held up his fat hands in amazement.

"Almighty!" he said, "it is impossible. A pass—who ever heard of such a thing? Come, I must be going."

"It is not impossible, Uncle Coetzee, as you know," said Jess, "and if I get that pass I will speak to my uncle about the £500. Perhaps he would not want it all back again."

"Ah!" said the Boer. "Well, we are old friends, missie, and I never desert a friend, that is my saying. Almighty! I will make it two hundred miles—I will swear to eighty miles for a friend. Well, well, I will see. It will depend upon that devil of a man, Frank Muller. Where are you to be found in the white house yonder? Good! To-morrow I will come on with the prisoners and a pass, and then I will bring the pass. But mind, remember the £500. If you do not speak to your uncle about that I shall be even with him. Almighty! what a thing it is to have a good heart and to love to help your friends! Well, good-day, good-day," and off he canted on his fat pony, his broad face shining with a look of unutterable benevolence.

Jess cast a look of contempt after him and then went on toward Groenpup to get the rations.

When she got back to "The Palatial" she told John what had taken place, and suggested that it would be as well, in case there should be a favorable reply to her request, to have everything prepared for a start, and accordingly the cart was brought down and stood outside "The Palatial," and John unscrewed the patent caps and filled them with castor oil, and ordered Mouti to keep the horses, which were all well, though poor from want of proper food, well within hail.

Meanwhile, old Hans pursued the jerky tenor of his way for an hour or so, till he came in sight of a small red house.

Presently, from the shadow in front of the red house emerged a horseman, mounted on a powerful black horse. The horseman—a stern, handsome, bearded man—put his hand about his eyes to shade them from the sun, and gazed up the road. Then he seemed to suddenly strike his spurs into the horse, for the animal gave a sudden bound forward, and came sweeping towards Hans at a hand gallop.

"Ah! it is that devil of a man, Frank Muller," ejaculated Hans. "Now I wonder what he wants? I always feel cold down the back when he comes near me."

By this time the plunging black horse was being reined up alongside of his pony so sharply that it reared till its great hoofs were pawing the air within a few inches of Hans' head.

"Almighty!" said the old man, tugging his pony round. "Be careful, nephew, be careful! I do not wish to be crushed like a beetle."

Frank Muller—for it was he—smiled. He had made his horse rear purposely, in order to let then the old man, whom he knew to be an arrant coward.

"Why have you been so long, and what have you done with the prisoners? You should have been back half an hour ago."

"And so I should, nephew, and so I should, if I had not been detained. Surely you do not suppose that I would linger in this accursed place? Bah!" and he spat upon the ground "it stinks of English here. I wanted to see the commandant, and what some next to freely call her "national undertaking."

"You are a liar, Uncle Coetzee," was the cool answer. "English with the English, Boer with the Boer. You blow neither hot nor cold. Be careful lest we show you up at know you and your talk. Do you remember what you were saying to the Englishman [illegible] when you turned and saw me? A friend and a Boer, not eh? You know which hand side is your bread is buttered on."

Hans rode positively chattering and his fat jowl fairly shaking with fear.

"What do you mean, nephew?" he asked.

"Bah! I mean nothing. I was only speaking a word of warning to you as a friend. I have heard things said about you lately—and he dropped his voice and whispered a name in the ear of the poor Hans, turned whiter than ever.

"Well," went on his tormentor, "when he had sufficiently enjoyed his terror, what sort of terms did you make with Pretoria?"

"Oh, good, nephew, good!" he gabbled, delighted to get on a fresh subject. "I found the Englishmen simple as a tanned skin. They will give up their twelve prisoners for our four. The men are to begin by 10 o'clock tomorrow. I told their commandant about Laing's Nek and Ingogo, and he would not believe me. He thought I lied like Satan. They are getting hungry there now. I saw a Hottentot I knew there, and he told me that their bellies were beginning to show."

"They will be through the skin before longer," muttered Frank. "Well, here we are at the house. The general is there. He has just come up from Heidelberg, and you can make your report to him. Did you find out about the Englishman—Capt. Neil? Is it true that he is dead?"

"No, he is not dead. By the way, I met Oom Cootze near—the dark eye. She is playing faro with the captain, and she begged me to try and get them a pass to go home. Of course I told her that it was impossible, and that they must stop and starve with the others."

Muller, who had been listening to this fine piece of information with intense interest, suddenly checked his horse and an oath.

"Bah! you! Then you are a liar, as I told you I thought you. Who gave you authority to decide whether they should have a pass or not?"

CHAPTER XX.

THE GREAT MAN.

Completely overcome by this last rebuke, Hans collapsed into silence. Like fish out of water, and reflected in his clothes odd fit, the Frank Muller was indeed "a devil of a man." By the time they had reached the gate of the little house and were dismounting, and in another minute Hans found himself in the presence of one of the leaders of the rebellion.

He was a short, ugly man of about 50, with a big nose, small eyes, straight hair and a stoop. The forehead, however, was good, and the whole face betrayed a keenness and ability far beyond the average. The great man was seated at a plain deal table, writing something with evident difficulty upon a dirty sheet of paper, and smoking a very large pipe.

"Sit, heeren, sit," he said, when they entered, waving the stem of his pipe toward a deal bench. Accordingly they sat down without even removing their hats, and, puffing out their pipes, proceeded to light them.

"How in the name of God do you spell 'exchange,'" asked the general, presently. "I have spelled it in four different ways, and each one looks worse than the last."

Frank Muller gave the required information, Hans in his heart thinking he spelled it wrong, for he did not dare say so. Then came another pause, only interrupted by the slow scrawling of a quill across the dirty paper, during which Hans nearly went to sleep, for the weather was very hot, and he was tired with his ride.

"There," said the writer, presently, throwing at his last writing with an almost childish air of satisfaction "that is done. A man is the man who can read writing. Our fathers did very well without it, why should we? Hans, you will be useful for treaties with the Kaffirs. I don't believe you have told me the right news about that 'exceedingly' nephew. Well, it was hard to guess. Where a man writes such a letter as that to the representative of the English queen he needed mind his spellings; it will be swallowed with the rest," and he leaned back in his chair and laughed softly.

"Well, Meneer Coetzee, what is it? Ah, I know, the prisoners. Well, what did you do?"

Hans told his story, and was rumbling on when the general cut him short.

"So, so, so! You talk like an ox wagon—ramble and creak and lab, and get out of a mess, and tipping of wheels, but very little progress. They will give up the twelve men for our four, will they? Well, that is about a fair proportion. No, it is not, though; John Boers are better than twelve Englishmen any day—say, better than forty," and he laughed again. "Well, the men shall be sent in as you arranged; they will help to eat up their last biscuits. Good day, cousin. Stop, though; one word before you go. I have heard about you at times, cousin. I have heard it said that you cannot be trusted. Now, I don't know if that is sin. I don't believe it myself. Only, listen, if it should be so, and I should find you out, by Gott! I will have you cut into rimpis with assegaies, and then shoot you and send in your carcass as a present to the English," and as he said it he leaned forward and brought down his fist upon the deal table with a bang that produced a most unpleasant effect upon poor Hans' nerves, and a cold gleam of sudden ferocity flickered in the small eyes, very discomforting for a timid man to behold, however innocent he knew himself to be.

"I swear!"—he began to babble.

"Swear not at all, cousin; you are an elder of the church. There is no need to, besides. I told you I did not believe it of you; only, I have had one or two cases of this sort of thing lately. No, never mind who they were. You will not meet them about again. Good day, cousin, good day. Forget not to thank the Almighty God for our glorious victories. He will expect it from an elder of the church."

Poor Hans departed crestfallen, feeling that the days of him who tries, however skilfully and impartially, to sit upon two stools at once are not happy days, and sometimes threaten to be short ones. And supposing that the Englishmen should win after all—as in his heart he hoped they might, for never let them prove that I had hoped it. The general watched him waddle through the door from under his joint brows, a half humorous, half menacing expression on his face.

"A windbag; a coward; a man without a heart for good or for evil. Bah! nephew, that is Hans Coetzee. I have known him for years. Well, let him go. He would sell us if he could, but I have frightened him now, and, what is more, if I see reason, he shall find I never bark unless I mean to bite. Well enough of him. Let me see, have I thanked you yet for your share in Majuba? An easy was a glorious victory. How many were there of you when you started up the mountain?"

"Eighty men."

"And how many at the end?"

"One hundred and seventy—perhaps a few more."

"And how many of you were hit?"

"Three killed, two wounded, and a [illegible]."

"Wonderful, wonderful! It was a brave deed, and because it was so heavy it was successful. He must have been mad, that English general. Who shot him?"

"Breytenbach. Coffey held up a white handkerchief in his hand, and Breytenbach [illegible] in the direction [illegible] the hill. Yes, it was a wonderful thing. They could have beat us back with their hands. That is what comes of having a [illegible] cause on their side."

[Continued.]

ENJOY LIFE.

What is truly beautiful world we live in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of gems of equal merit. We can desire no better when in perfect health. But how with the majority of people feel like giving it up, disheartened, discouraged at the world out with disease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easily obtain satisfactory proof, that Green's August Flower will make them free from disease, so that they despair since. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint are the direct causes of seventy-five percent of such miseries as Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Constipation, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the head, Palpitation of the Heart and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Try it.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is a peculiar medicine, and is carefully prepared by competent pharmacists. The combination and proportion of Sarsaparilla, Dandelion, Mandrake, Yellow Dock, and other vegetable agents is exclusively peculiar to Hood's Sarsaparilla, giving it extraordinary curative power over diseases arising from impure blood.

Purifies the Blood

Hood's Sarsaparilla has proved the best blood purifier in large quantities for years, and we know it to be the best we ever sold.—A. L. Sage & Co., Druggists, Lowell, Mass.

Creates an Appetite

I used Hood's Sarsaparilla for a general run-down condition of the blood and found it to be a good appetite.—E. M. Hall, Druggist, Lowell, Mass.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. Prepared only by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

FREE PRESS

The Weekly Free Press and The Household.

The Largest, Best and Cheapest of Weeklies.

Ten Pages of Reading Matter in Infinite Variety.

Each issue is a perfect cyclopedia of information. It contains all the telegraphic news, brought down to the hour of going to press. Reliable Market Reports. Local and State News. Crisp Editorials. Interesting Comment. Original Sketches, Stories of Travel and Adventure, Selection of General Miscellany and Literary Matter, with The Household supplement for the ladies.

The Free Press is the Leading and Representative Paper of Michigan.

THE GREAT

ONE DOLLAR $1. PER YEAR.

FAMILY NEWSPAPER

That it is generally regarded as the most desirable and meritorious of Weeklies is shown by the fact that it has by far the largest circulation of any paper published in Michigan. No well regulated family will be without it. Price, only ONE DOLLAR a year.

SPECIAL BOOK OFFER.

We will send The Weekly Free Press for one year and any one of the Books named, postage paid, on receipt of amount quoted.

Every One His Own Lawyer	$1.50
World's Cyclopedia (Illus.)	1.50
Popular History of the Civil War (Illus.)	1.50
The Lives of Our Presidents (Illus.)	1.50
What Every One Should Know. A Practical Pocket Book	1.50
Everybody's Paint Book; or, How to do Your Own Painting and Decorating	1.50
Allison's Webster's Dictionary and Dictionary of Electricity	1.50
DAILY FREE PRESS, $7.00 a Year. DAILY, 6 times a week, $5.50

SUBSCRIBE NOW—DON'T DELAY.

Premiums given for clubs. Send for Premium List and Sample Copy. Local agents wanted.

The Free Press Co., Detroit, Mich.

FREE PRESS

Milo B. Stevens & Co.

PENSIONS! Abstracts

DETROIT, MICHIGAN.

WHAT WILD WAVES SAY.

[illegible] said little Peleg as he [illegible] a still springtail parent comes pu[illegible] and cast a glance at the old cat that lay [illegible] on the spent bottom rocking-chair. "Grandpop," said he, "what are the wild waves saying?"

[illegible] the [illegible] an account of a [illegible] gossiping [illegible] had [illegible] at [illegible] He scowled [illegible] as she [illegible] at [illegible] who [illegible] on the [illegible] and [illegible]

[illegible] carry me but the creek had got such a [illegible] that it took me a good half hour [illegible] I ketched up with it. An' [illegible] I did ketch up with it, my son; I must know to get the hang o' this, Peleg, that suckers [illegible] they reks on the fust high water [illegible] comes in the Spring, an' th' they gather together in the boat load at the mouths of creeks waiting for the [illegible] ready for em[illegible]

[illegible] had been in [illegible] winter over as [illegible] they had waxed an[illegible] grown [illegible] in such uncomfortable [illegible] when they started in [illegible] that 9th day [illegible] April [illegible] the hill [illegible] creek [illegible] had [illegible] to stop [illegible] Stoplock had [illegible] the [illegible] shooted the rushes [illegible] Stoplock [illegible] high as [illegible] black as first stop [illegible] she couldn't get no [illegible] of course [illegible] high as dry ahead [illegible] suckers an' makin' [illegible] their pates with lookin' specs [illegible]

[illegible] I see a' the hull [illegible] I paddled right [illegible] suckers [illegible] Stoplock [illegible] dug [illegible] they kept me on [illegible] with em, they wuz [illegible] so fast but I [illegible] suckers along the [illegible] the boat went a [illegible] picking up sticks [illegible] creek wuz in a [illegible] on top o' Bently ridge [illegible] added that sucker [illegible] it struck me that it [illegible] stop on them [illegible] the creek [illegible] though the [illegible] I wuz goin' an' pick her up [illegible] the ridge, an' then she'd go lickity-[illegible] Slaverd [illegible] offen the [illegible] could need a mess of bullfrog [illegible] fer an' if suckers wuz [illegible] an' swims [illegible] I did a mighty [illegible]

[illegible] had happened, sonny, that only the day after the high water [illegible] I had [illegible] to pitch [illegible] Stoplock's daughter of Polly Jim [illegible] the [illegible] nearly [illegible] Fiddler [illegible] Stoplock [illegible] I saw shad [illegible] suckers [illegible] Shadrack [illegible] suckers [illegible] branch [illegible] suckers [illegible] suckers [illegible] suckers

The Tecumseh Herald.

VOL. XXXVIII. NO 8. TECUMSEH MICHIGAN, THURSDAY MORNING JULY 21, 1887. WHOLE NO. 1906

REMNANT SALE

REMNANT SALE

Saturday Morning!

We will place on sale Remnants of

SATINS, LAWNS, GINGHAMS AND WOOL DRESS GOODS.

A chance for GREAT BARGAINS

—ALSO—

WHITE AND COLORED ROBES

--AT--

Greatly Reduced Prices.

W. & S. W. Anderson & Co's.

Everything on the

BOOM-BOOM

AT THE

GRAND CENTRAL SUPPLY STORE.

GROCERIES, CROCKERY, GLASSWARE,

TEAS, SUGARS, SPICE.

PRICES LOWER THAN EVER.

HENRY McCLURE.

D. S. DeWOLF, Pres. H. M. TEMPLE, Sec'y and Treas. S. W. TEMPLE, Vice Pres. and Gen'l Mgr

THE OHIO & MICH. COAL & MFG. CO.,

COAL.

LUMBER LATH AND SHINGLES

MANUFACTURERS OF

Doors, Sash, Blinds, Mouldings,

Scroll Work, Turned Work, Modern Interior Finish.

GET ESTIMATES BEFORE BUYING.

OFFICE CORNER R. R. AND SHAWNEE STS.

Yards and Factory on Pearl and Shawnee sts., near L. S. & M. S. Depot.

TECUMSEH, MICH.

NEW BEDROOM SUITS

PARLOR SUITS!

Patent Rockers, Reed Rockers, New Couches,

And a big stock of Fine and Medium

FURNITURE!

Invite all who are in want of good Furniture to look through my rooms and examine goods and notice the low prices. Remember, I have not moved back, but still occupy the largest store on the street for the last 13 years. You are told I don't enjoy the business for want of room. THAT IS SO.

Undertaking a Specialty!

Night Calls, Day Calls, and all kinds of calls promptly attended to. New styles of Caskets in stock, and something entirely new for the times.

WM. McCOWEN.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

Rogersville, July 18th.

Hot, dry and dusty.

Corn is suffering very badly for rain at present.

The hum of the steam thresher is heard once more; the farmers threshing out of the shock mostly, and the yield is nothing extra.

Geo. Kemp, who has the carpenter work of the Library, began work Monday by putting on the lower joist.

We are informed by good authority that C. L. Lowe cut 32 acres of wheat in 12 hours with his new McCormick steel frame binder.

Lafe Rappleye was the first to thresh in this section. Burt Nicholds did the work with his new Three Rivers separator.

Nellie Rowley was the guest of Ada Loree and Belle Barlow, Saturday and Sunday.

Chas. Gripton has been on the sick list for the past few days.

W. R. Wilson must have a better grip on the weather clerk's puckering strings than in the days gone by, as he did his threshing without rain this year.

Some of our village friends are rusticating at the Lake this week.

S. P. Smith sold five gallons of ice cream Saturday evening after the ball game.

Minnie Ackley of Britton, spent Sunday at A. J. Sutton's and C. Gripton's.

Several of the village people attend the golden wedding of Justus Lowe, Saturday.

David Coryell returned with his blushing bride from their visit with relatives and friends in Clinton and Gratiot counties, last week Thursday. At night the relatives and friends enjoyed a very pleasant time at his residence on North street. The Britton Cornet Band furnished some very fine music for the occasion. Ice cream and cake was served by the friends.

If the editor of the Britton Eagle will put on his glasses and give a good squint he will see it isn't the HERALD correspondent that is so wonderfully choice of the old maids and widows, but that the article he had reference to appeared in the Ridgeway correspondence to the Tecumseh News.

Agent A. J. Sutton is making arrangements with the C. J. & M. Railroad officials for a Sunday School excursion to Devils Lake, in the near future. Full particulars given next week.

Miss Howell of Pennington's Corners, is the guest of T. H. Temple and family at present.

Wm. Larkin had a very narrow escape from being cut to fragments Tuesday evening. He was helping W. R. Wilson thresh, and as they were finishing up he got up to feed some rakings; the cap over the cylinder was turned back to give a better chance for feeding, he, forgetting the fact, was caught by the fingers of his left hand by the cylinder. Fortunately he escaped from being drawn in the machine, with only two fingers quite badly bruised which will lay him up a few days.

Mrs. Jennie Websters of Pittsford, is visiting at her uncles, W. H. Arnes also her aunt, Mrs. Cox.

"A sad case requiring the attention of our charitably inclined is the death of Mrs. Beach of the north side, which occurred yesterday. About a year ago the lady's attending physician by a mistake gave her a dose of aconite, since which time she has been lingering between life and death. The family are indeed in want, there being six motherless children to care for and no one to look after them. The father is an honest, hard working laborer but the sickness of the past year has used up his scanty earnings, and the sympathy of our people should be manifested in his behalf. Honest toil should be found for some of the little folks, and a more deserving case of charity has not come to our notice for some time. Kind neighbors are doing all they can to keep them struggling against the sickness that has befallen their home, but the help of others is needed."—Grand Island Independent.

Mrs. Beach was a daughter of Wm. Barrett, Sen., of our village, who with her husband and family, went to Grand Island four years ago to seek a fortune and secure a home.

Last Saturday the Holloway Base Ball team were on the diamond at the appointed hour, and the game was called by umpire, Leavie Coffin, at a few minutes past 3 P. M. The game was the closest game that has yet been played on our ground. One would judge by reading the "Holloway Hash" that appears in the Britton Eagle each week, that the Holloway base ball team was made up of outlaws, tramps and half-breeds. But we take pride in saying, and saying it truthfully, and in behalf of our association, that they were gentlemen in every respect, both in and out of the diamond, showing that the hash-slewer of the Eagle must be one of the above mentioned natives, and "judges the citizens of the Eagle each week is sufficient evidence that his hat rests on a distracted foundation.

"Our boys" were successful in a victory of 13 to 15. Prof. Martin Palmer did some fine pitching and double playing with the assistance of the second base man, Ed. Palmer. Our boys are well pleased with the fairness of the umpiring. There was the least kicking done that there has been in any game yet.

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Holloway	1	3	1	0	2	0	4	2	0	—3
Ridgeway	5	2	4	0	0	1	1	2	*	—15

Lenawee county's champion base ball club is the Ridgeways, of the small village of about 500 inhabitants. The players all live in and about the town. They have a battery that would make Watkins smile; a second baseman, Palmer, who makes the audience smile when he catches the cannon ball liners. They have played seven games this season and have seven stars in their crown; have a chance to join a league or association, and think they have lots of material for the national league. Detroit Evening Journal.

The Ladies of the W. C. T. U. will give a musical treat at the home of Miss Belle Barlow, on next Monday evening, July 25th. The members of the Union extend a cordial invitation to the Unions at Tecumseh and Britton, also to all friends of temperance. No pains or time has been spared by the ladies to make it one of the best entertainments yet given by the Union. Ice cream, cake, lemonade, hot peanuts and confectionery will be served during the evening on the lawn, at the usual price. Following is the program for the evening:

Music.....Britton Band
Devotional Exercises.
Piano Duett.....Galop Brilliant.....Paul
Misses Smith and Osborne.
Song of the Triton.....Molloy
Ladies' Quartette.
Violin Solo.
LeCarnaval de Venise.....Herman
Miss Mabel Hayden.
Music.....Britton Band
Vocal Duett, Life's Dream is O'er, Pratt
Misses Hall and Barlow.
Piano Duett...Etude Mazurka...Talexy
Misses Ella and Emma Miller.
Blue Bells of Scotland.....Schilling
Ladies' Quartette.
Violin Solo.....Etude.....David
Miss Mabel Hayden.
The Owl and The Pussy Cat, Ingraham
Ladies' Quartette.
Music.....Band.

ONSTED ODDS.

C. & F. Parsons are building a house for Mrs. Stoddard.

Mary Monigan is visiting friends in Manchester.

M. P. Wemple is at the home of his parents near Cleveland, Ohio.

Leland Secor has been at Tecumseh for some time.

Several threshing machines have started in this vicinity.

Onsted's B. B. Club went to Brooklyn last Friday. The game stood 25 to 11 in favor of Onsted.

MACON MUSIC.

Gertrude Howell of Tecumseh, is visiting friends this week.

Mrs. Milan Sage is visiting her brother at Vermontville, this week.

Maurice Howell returned to his home at Lansing, this week.

C. E. Triplet went to Jackson on business the first of the week.

One of the saddest events, that ever took place in Macon, occured last Sunday morning. Mrs. Angeline Niblack was found dead in her bed; she had been dead a day or two before found. The burial took place that same forenoon, the services will be held next Sunday. The friends wish to extend their heartiest thanks to those who assisted them in their sorrow.

A STRANGE STORY OF A DOG.

It was in the days of stage coaches and before the advent of railroads in the western country. A large New Foundland dog entered the village tavern one cold morning in December, and placing himself comfortably before the fire in the public room made himself at home. The landlord made several attempts to drive him away, but Carlo wagged such strange appeals that he was permitted to remain. As no owner ever appeared to claim him, the dog was soon established as one of the household.

In the absence of the landlord he watched the bar and the office, and gave warning when any one entered. Carlo had several peculiarities. When he first came to the village he was a regular attendant at the Baptist Church. When the bell rang for service he would march with stately tread to the church and place himself before the pulpit and there remain quietly an attentive worshipper until the benediction was pronounced. He went as regularly to prayer meeting as to preaching never failing to know the call of the church bell.

Carlo's other peculiarity was that he was a Republican. He was always present at political meetings and the conventions of the party. He was among the loudest in his demonstrations of applause when applause was proper. He was among the most enthusiastic of the audience.

But a change came over the spirit of Carlo's dream. He ceased his attendance at the Baptist, and became a devoted and constant worshipper at the Methodist church. Nothing could induce him to go to the Baptist church. He changed his politics also, and forsaking the Whigs, he became an ardent Democrat. He was never missed from Democratic gatherings. This strange conduct of Carlo was the talk of the village, and many a traveler was entertained with the story of this wonderfully intelligent dog. But suddenly Carlo quit his accustomed haunts. He was seldom seen on the hearth of the great fire place in the public room, and he was missed from the church. It was evident to the minds of the pious people that he had become a backslider. One day, however, Carlo appeared at the village drug store. Here his actions were as unaccountable as has been his former church going propensities. He put his paws upon the counter and barked at the druggist, vociferously. The druggist remembered that Carlo's master had been reported sick with a severe attack of Catarrh, and knowing the intelligence of the dog concluded that he had either been sent or had come of his own notion to get something to relieve his master. The druggist tied about Carlo's neck a package of Hall's Catarrh Cure; then the dog started home in great glee. In a day or two Carlo and his master were on the streets as usual. The medicine had entirely cured the master, and Carlo returned to his old habits and remained a good church going Methodist and a Democrat until his dying day.

NATURAL GAS IN MICHIGAN.

The Detroit Tribune of July 7th, has a lengthy article on this subject from which we take the following extracts. If the theory advanced by the writer be correct Tecumseh is located directly in the line of this vein. It certainly seems as though the men of capital in this community should organize a company at once and test the matter.

The history of the natural gas excitement in Detroit and various contiguous points is comparatively recent. In the fall of 1885 experts from Pittsburgh first came to the city and set about on exhaustive examination. They had studied the geographical formation of Michigan and believed it to be favorable for natural gas. They had also heard of the divers and sundry wells in this locality which were then in profitless operation. These experts had not proceeded far in their researches before they struck what they believed to be exceedingly favorable indications of success. When the cold weather came on they ceased operations for the winter, but returned again in the early spring of 1886. They soon decided that the natural gas belt started at Port Huron, came through three or four miles northwest of Detroit, and passed almost directly beneath the city of Adrian. On this line they leased about 7,000 acres of land.

Many Pittsburg stockholders are heavily interested in the recent natural gas developments in Port Huron and Adrian. They have also quite recently formed another district company and taken up all the land that could be secured on the entire belt between Port Huron and Adrian. Particular attention is to be paid in the near future to the territory lying immediately beyond the River Rouge, where it is expected startling developments will result. The wells in the neighborhood of Adrian are going down with great rapidity; and there is little doubt that the natural gas industry in this section of Michigan will rapidly develop into something enormous.

The average depth at which natural gas is struck is about 500 feet at Port Huron, and from 1,200 to 1,500 feet at Adrian. The depth sounded to Detroit wells was 1,650 feet, but the result on the well now in progress proves that it will take about twice that distance to cover it.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The Best Salve in the world for cuts, Bruises, Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chilblains Corns and all skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box FOR SALE BY C. A. Wright & Co.

In future editions of our school geographies, the tropic of Cancer should be placed several degrees further north. This latitude should be included in the tropics now.

What you need is a medicine which is pure, efficient, reliable. Such is Hood's Sarsaparilla. It possesses peculiar curative powers.

The circuit court for the county of Addison, was in session every day last week.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSONS.

Lesson for July 24.

THE BAPTISM OF JESUS. MATTHEW III, 13—17.

NOTES.—"From Galilee." Doubtless from Nazareth. He would have gone probably to the southern end of the Sea of Galilee, and crossed the Jordan a little lower at "the Ford" Bethabara. Then not far across the river, at the foot hills, would have been the "Springs," Enon, where John was in the habit of baptising, as, also, in the Jordan itself. This could not have been in the southern part of the Jordan, near Jericho, as tradition reports.—"John would have hindered him."—As yet the dove had not appeared, and John in speaking of it later said, "I knew him not." He had thus far no full revelation of Jesus as the Messiah, and although he lived south in Bethlehem and Jesus lived north in Nazareth, they were cousins and knew of each other. They and their parents may have met each year in Jerusalem at the passover, and kept up the acquaintance, and so John may have known of the character of Jesus as well as of the miraculous circumstances attending his birth. He would thus have been anticipating that Jesus would prove to be the Messiah. Besides, he knew Jesus as a pure man, quite as good as himself, at least, and not like the sinners to whom he was preaching.—"It becometh us to fulfill all righteousness."—This is an infinite term, and means simply the doing of all duty. It was a duty to do what would fulfill prophecy. It was a duty to go through the religious forms which indicate religious life and which make confession of it. Of course Jesus did not need to make confession of sin, but he did need to put in the line of John's succession.—"Went up straightway from the water."—In which—not by the side of which—he had been standing.—"The heavens were opened unto him."—This does not mean that he saw a door, or a break in Heaven, but that out of the heavens seemed to come the dove.—"He saw the Spirit of God descending as a dove."—This was not only a vision in the soul, for John himself also heard the voice and saw the dove, as we are told in John's Gospel.—"This is my beloved Son."—We have in this passage God the Father speaking, acknowledging the Son, while the Spirit appears as a dove. Thus we have the three persons of the Trinity revealed together.

INSTRUCTION.—John had a sense of his own unworthiness. He felt that he was not good enough to baptize Jesus. This is a very different spirit from any that would actuate one who felt he was too good, or his time worth too much for him to teach in the Sunday school, or that one who magnified his worth in the ministry and the pulpit.

When John was thundering against the Pharisees and the popular sinners he was himself conscious of his unworthiness. A readiness to rebuke sin does not prove self conceit.

If Jesus thought it necessary for himself to be baptized and to make a confession of faith, who can think that it is not necessary for himself? Can you get along without it, and could not Jesus?

It is a Christian duty to fulfill the common obligations of a religious life. A man must not set himself against his age in this respect. One owes religious duties to society. You may think that you could get as much good by reading a good book at home. Though it would probably be a travel or by walking in the woods meditating on holy things, though probably it would be an address of pleasure easily going to church, but that would not be "fulfilling all righteousness."

Jesus was not baptized for himself but for our example. We need it for the same reason those whom he needed it that came to John. We are sinners.

We must "suffer" some things not exactly appropriate, if they will do good. We may not think we are the persons to baptize or teach, but the duty may be ours even if we are not the fittest persons for it.

The Spirit appeared under the gentlest form—as a dove. So the Lord was in the "still, small voice," and not in the whirlwind. Gentle ministries may be ministries of the Spirit.

God bore testimony to his own Son. This was not so much for his sake, as Jesus said later when the voice was repeated, but for the sake of John and the disciples. Even now God gives his testimony to those that do his work. He does it in their success. We cannot help taking knowledge of some that they have been with Jesus. Their works do follow them.

Work has been commenced on the new night school building at Caro.

THE TECUMSEH HERALD

Issued Every Thursday Morning

BY SUBSCRIPTION.

Office in the New Herald Building, one door East of the Opera House, Tecumseh, Mich.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

Cash in advance, ... $1 50

Twenty-five cents will be added to the subscription price for every three months that payment may be delayed.

ADVERTISING RATES.

Business locals, five cents a line for each insertion.

Special notices, fifty cents a line for each insertion.

Rates on yearly advertising on uniform contracts furnished on application.

Entered at the postoffice at Tecumseh as second class matter.

TECUMSEH, THURSDAY, JULY 11

It is reported that there will be only one third of a hop crop in New York. Will this result in a scarcity of beer?

Washington is marching on a quarter of a million strong. The city of Rome, a place of 12,000 inhabitants, voted for prohibition last week by a majority of 750.

The heat made a terrible Sunday all over the country, but to grocery clerks shut up in a parsonage in a strictly temperance village in New York, where not even fishing was allowable, it must have been absolutely awful.—Lansing Republican.

The story that Mrs. President Cleveland during her recent visit at the reception in Utica sent a card through the crowd to a New York lady, if true, would be a novelty. When the crowd rose again, several generations thence, the idea of a bid to a reception may be entertained.

The Detroit Independent says: Gov. Luce promised to take in the semi-centennial as a little man, but when the time came he felt a little too big for himself to do it. The governor made a mistake; he should have attended the celebration and learned a little about the institution he has to know much about it now.

The oldest resident of San Diego is Judge Alfred Cowles, who has just celebrated his hundredth birthday. He is healthy and cheerful, though his head is almost entirely destitute of hair. He was born in Farmington, Conn., July 1, 1797. He did not come West in 1849, and, after a varied and exciting experience in several territories, arrived in San Francisco in 1861 and began to practice law. In 1874 he moved to San Diego. His home life has been replete with interesting incidents and adventures.

The harmonious meetings of the placer of Administration are very infrequent affairs. President Cleveland sits at the head of the table and opens the proceedings by presenting matters concerning which he desires an expression of opinion. After everything presented by the President has been discussed, the Secretary of state follows with his subject. The other cabinet officers follow in the order of precedence, the Attorney-General being last. This is nothing like a war council, and it is not the custom to take a vote on any question.—Exchange.

It is claimed sometimes that there are no German politicians. The truth of this claim was shown recently, however, in Austin, Texas, where a German made a speech in the German language in favor of the proposed constitutional amendment to an audience of Germans, a large percentage of whom declared their intentions to vote for the amendment. The Texas politicians campaign kids for 16 have left all former political calculations out of time. The white Democrats are so largely for prohibition that the liquor men are depending on the Republicans and negroes as their only hope of defeating it. Perhaps it won't be defeated at all, but if it is it is very plain that it is to be done by a remarkable reversal of the usual order of things political.

Falling back from the battle flag incident, the Tribune has found a new issue in Grover Cleveland's army substitute. A man named Brinski has been turned up who says that he represented Mr. Cleveland in the army for the sum $150. He is now in bad health. He thinks that he ought to have had $500 for the service he rendered, and an effort is made to create the impression that the President ought to take care of his destitute substitute. This is a powerful issue to raise on the verge of the Presidential campaign. It may revive an interest in the man who represented Mr. Blaine on the army rolls. It is claimed that this man served most of his time in jail in Maine, while Mr. Cleveland's man, according to his own statement, spent his time nursing the wounded in hospitals. According to this standard the country owes Mr. Cleveland a larger debt of gratitude than it owes Mr. Blaine.

THE PEARL RING.

[illegible] asked Will Barrett of his sister Laura, "if I was Ned Fielinghuysen I wouldn't stand it."

"But you'd have to stand it, brother," said the young lady, her face flushing and [illegible] "Were we [illegible] you do now, Spain. I wasn't your sister, and you were [illegible] I guess I'd resent the outrageous [illegible] that was the worst [illegible] what would you do, Will? It would be such fun."

"Now, Laura, don't [illegible]," said Will Barrett, his face [illegible] relaxing from a [illegible]

[illegible]

"Why, don't you get a collar and tie, [illegible] Laura."

"But Mr. Arnold," said Ned, "you'll be [illegible]."

"I don't know that I shall," Laura replied [illegible]

[illegible] regularly for a week, and Will received not a word. Well, Laura, [illegible] with the sum for Ned was acting. He found the [illegible] was being [illegible] to find that [illegible] were received. He learned [illegible] for an [illegible] instead of [illegible] the last course.

[illegible] Laura. The girl treated [illegible] as she was leave. She would allow [illegible] to be written by Will—who, indeed, [illegible] disposition to look after the recreant lover.

Mr. Arnold had poor success now. Ned could have heard of Laura's actions, he would have been quite satisfied of her own accord. He lived quite as much a recluse as he could desire.

So the months went on—one, two, three, four, five, six. Oh, how long and weary they seemed to the young girl, who still waited, believing in spite of all circumstances to the contrary, that something must at last explain her lover's absence and silence.

"Where is your pearl ring, Laura?" said Will one day, when the two were sitting on the shady piazza at a country hotel near the sea shore, the season being July.

"My dear [illegible] Will, didn't you know I lost it? Ned [illegible] have the pearl [illegible] I [illegible] my [illegible] and knocking Ned's [illegible] at him after it was gone! He had gone to Europe which I [illegible] was important of, and I had sent to inquire after the pack age at [illegible] office."

After a few moments of silence Will said [illegible] Laura aloud.

"What, Will?"

"That the ring was forwarded to Ned, and he assured us in receiving it that you wished your engagement broken."

"[illegible] was sent and never to Fr[illegible] I [illegible] to Ned [illegible] Laura raised again. But now her heart [illegible] as a flower that has been beaten down by the rain, when the sun shines on it.

Will, a few days later, handed her a package with a foreign postmark. It was the ring and these words:

"I send you back the pearl. (You promised never to wear it unless I [illegible] though I have never now [illegible] to [illegible] that you [illegible]

"And when I [illegible] all this, said Laura, laughing and crying.

"Don't [illegible]," said Will.

"I send another ring to make sure," said Laura.

It was August, and so hot [illegible] the whole morning on the beach. Among the rocks, with one foot in a pool, chilled by a footstool, she had watched the green waves crested breakers and dreamed of him who was far across them. When would he come? When could she make amendment for the wrong that she and Fate had done him?

Suddenly she heard a footstep. She looked up, and there, said Will, [illegible] knew at once that something was wrong.

"Where is Will?" she said. "Dead, not? Is it anything about Ned? Tell me, tell me!"

Will put a newspaper into her hand and [illegible]

[illegible]

"[illegible] Laura."

"[illegible]

[illegible]

"[illegible]

"[illegible]

"

KASKINE

(THE NEW QUININE.)

GIVES
Good Appetite
New Strength
Quiet Nerves
Happy Days

A POWERFUL TONIC
AND SPECIFIC FOR MALARIA, RHEUMATISM, NERVOUS PROSTRATION, and all germ diseases.

THE MOST SCIENTIFIC AND SUCCESSFUL PRODUCT OF THE AGE. Superior to quinine. [illegible] Kaskine. That was a happy day for me. It gave me appetite and strength. I can sleep like a child. I shall by every word of this—Thos. [illegible], N. Y.

[illegible] Selma, N. C., writes, [illegible] in the Southern army, and for a [illegible] years suffered from its debilitating effects. [illegible] When I heard of Kaskine, the new quinine, I sing it [illegible] It helped me at once. It [illegible] my nature. I think but for Kaskine I should have been dead.

[illegible] the above persons, giving full details, sent on application.

[illegible] Caroline Astor, Astoria, N. Y., says, [illegible] down so rapidly from malaria, [illegible] sitting in my chair. I [illegible] the new quinine. I sing it [illegible] It caused a general [illegible] my nature. I think but for Kaskine I should have been dead.

[illegible] the above persons, giving full details, sent on application.

[illegible] and can be used [illegible] medical advice. $1 per bottle, [illegible] on receipt of price. KASKINE CO. 54 Warren st., New York.

WANTED LADIES TO WORK FOR US at their homes. $7 to $10 per week can be quietly made. No photo painting, no canvassing. For full particulars address at once, CRESCENT ART [illegible] Milk st., Boston, Mass. Box 5170.

[illegible] IMPROVED ROOT BEER

[illegible] 25c., makes 5 Gallons of a delicious, [illegible] temperance beverage. Strengthens [illegible] the blood. Its purity and delicacy [illegible] it to all. Sold by all druggists and [illegible]keepers.

PARKER'S GINGER TONIC

[illegible] Cures Coughs, Weak Lungs, Asthma, Indigestion, Inactivity, Exhaustion. Combining the most [illegible] with Jamaica Ginger, it exerts a curative power over disease unknown to other remedies. [illegible] Lungs, Rheumatism, Female Complaints, and the wasting ills of the Stomach, Liver, Kidneys and Bowels [illegible] to the grave who would recover health by the timely use of PARKER'S GINGER TONIC. [illegible] strength to the aged. 50c. at Druggists. Hiscox & Co., 165 William Street, N. Y.

DEAFNESS Its causes and a new and successful CURE at your own home by one who was deaf 28 years. Treated by [illegible] specialists without benefit, himself in three months, and since [illegible] hundreds of others. Full particulars sent [illegible] Paul, Nos. 31 West 31st St., New York City.

CURE FOR THE DEAF

[illegible] Improved Cushioned Ear Drums [illegible] Restore the Hearing, and perform the work of a Natural Drum. Always in position, invisible to others and comfortable to wear. All conversation and even whispers heard distinctly. We refer you to those using them. Send for illustrated book with testimonials, free. Address, F. HISCOX, 853 Broadway, New York. Mention this paper.

Brewster's Pat. Rein Holder

You can see where you put them—not under your feet. One Agent sold 12 for 10 days; one sold 5 in 10 days. Samples worth $1.50 sent for 25 cts. Agents wanted. Liberal terms. E. E. BREWSTER, Holly, Mich.

Agricultural Implement DEPOT.

A. SLAYTON

[illegible] prepared to make lower prices than ever before [illegible] first-class farm machinery. My stock is complete, but will only mention a few articles.

SOUTH BEND, BURCH, WIARD, GALE, OLIVER. PLOWS. Walking.

CASSADY AND SOLID COMFORT SULKY PLOWS.

Kalamazoo Spring Tooth Harrow,

"ACME" PULVERIZING HARROWS.

CULTIVATORS { Elwood, New Robbins, Albion, Buckeye.

[illegible] Superior, [illegible] Roller, } GRAIN DRILLS

KEMP'S MANURE SPREADER.

Studebaker, Jackson and Flint WAGONS.

GREAT BARGAINS IN Carriages and Platform Spring Wagons.

Headquarters for Lime, Cement, Salt, Coal, Plaster and Plastering Hair, Grain, Flour, Feed, and Field Seeds.

Tecumseh Herald

MEDICAL ADVICE.

Take the open air, the more you take the better;
Follow nature's laws to the very letter;
Let the physic go to the bay of Biscay;
Let alone the gin, the brandy and the whisky.
Freely exercise, keep your spirits cheerful;
Let no dreams of sickness make you ever fearful.
Eat the simplest food, drink the pure cold water;
Then you will be well, or at least you ought to.

JESS.

By H. RIDER HAGGARD,

Author of "King Solomon's Mines," "She," &c.

"The general smiled grimly. "That is what comes of having men who can speak, and who understand the country, and are not afraid. Well, it is done, and well done. The stars in their courses have fought for us, Frank Muller, and so far we have conquered. But how is it to end? You are no fool: tell me, how will it end?"

Frank Muller rose and walked twice up and down the room before he answered. "Shall I tell you?" he asked, and then, without waiting for an answer, went on: "It will end in our getting the country back. That is what this armistice means. There are thousands of roolbaatjas there at the Nek; they cannot therefore be waiting for soldiers. They are waiting for an opportunity to yield, uncle. We shall get the country back, and you will be president of the republic."

The old man took a pull at his pipe. "You have a long head, Frank, and it has not run away with you. The English government is going to give in. The stars in their courses continue to fight for us. The English government is as mad as its officers. They will give in. But it means more than that, Frank; I will tell you what it means. It means"—and again he let his heavy hand fall upon the deal table—"the triumph of the Boer throughout South Africa. Bah! Burgers was not such a fool after all when he talked of his great Dutch republic. I have been twice to England now, and I know the Englishman. I could measure him for his veldtschoons (shoes). He knows nothing—nothing. He understands his shop, he is buried in his shop, and can think of nothing else. Sometimes he goes away, and starts his shop in other places, and buries himself in it, and makes it a big shop, because he understands shops. But it is all a question of shops, and if the shops abroad interfere with the shops at home, or if it is thought that they do, which comes to the same thing, then the shops at home put an end to the shops abroad. Bah! they talk a great deal there in England, but, at the bottom of it, it is shop, shop, shop. They talk of honor, and patriotism too, but they both give way to the shop. And I tell you this, Frank Muller: it is the shop that has made the English, and it is the shop that will destroy them. Well, so be it. We shall have our slice; Africa for the Africanders. The Transvaal for the Transvaalers first, then the rest. Sheptone was a clever man; he would have made it all into an English shop, with the black men for shop boys. We have changed all that, but we ought to be grateful to Sheptone. The English have paid our debts, they have eaten up the Zulus, who would otherwise have destroyed us, and they have let us beat them, and now we are going to have our turn again, and, as you say, I shall be the first president."

"Yes, uncle," replied the younger man, calmly, "and I shall be the second."

The great man looked at him. "You are a bold man," he said; "but boldness makes the man and the country. I dare say you will. You have the head; and one clear head can turn many fools, as the rudder does the ship, and guide them when they are turned. I dare say that you will be president one day."

"Yes, I shall be president, and when I am I will drive the Englishmen out of South Africa. This I will do with the help of the Natal Zulus. Then I will destroy the natives, as T'Chaka destroyed, keeping only enough for slaves. That is my plan uncle, it is a good one."

"It is a big one; I am not certain that it is a good one. But, good or bad, who shall say? You may carry it out, nephew, if you live. A man with brains and wealth may carry out anything if he lives. But there is a God, I believe; Frank Muller, that there is a God, and I believe that God sets a limit to a man's doings. If he is going too far, God kills him. If you live, Frank Muller, you will do these things, but perhaps God will kill you. Who can say? You will do what God wills, not what you will."

The elder man was speaking seriously now. Muller felt that this was none of the whining cant people in authority among the Boers find it desirable to adopt. It was what he thought, and it chilled Muller in spite of his pretended skepticism, as the sincere belief of an intellectual man, however opposite to our own, is apt to chill us into doubt of ourselves and our opinions. For a moment his slumbering superstition awoke, and he felt half afraid. Between him and that bright future of blood and power lay a chill gulf. Suppose that gulf should be death, and the future nothing but a dream—or worse! His face fell as the idea occurred to him, and the general noticed it.

"Well," he went on, "he who lives will see. Meanwhile you have done good service to the state, and you shall have your reward, cousin. If I am president,"—he laid emphasis on this, the meaning of which his listener did not see—"if by the support of my followers I become president, I will not forget you. And now I must upsaddle and get back. I want to be at Laing's Nek in sixty hours, to wait for Cetewayo's answer. You will see about the sending in of those prisoners," and he knocked out his pipe and rose.

"By the way, neighbor," said Muller, suddenly adopting a tone of respect, "I have a favor to ask."

"What is it, nephew?"

"I want a pass for two friends of mine—English people—in Pretoria to go down to their plantations in Wakkerstroom district. They sent a message to me by Hans Coetzee."

"I don't like giving passes," answered the general, with some irritation. "You know what it means, letting out messengers. I wonder you ask me."

"It is a small favor, neighbor, and I do not think that it will much matter. Pretoria will be in Англиеsh hands no longer. I am under no obligation to the people."

"Well, it is a small favor, but, if any harm comes of it, you will be held responsible. Write the pass; I will sign it."

Frank Muller sat down and wrote and dated the paper. Its contents were simple: "Pass the bearers unharmed."

"[illegible] Pretoria."

"Well, John, you had better [illegible]

[illegible] provided your friends do no hurt to the cause;" and he left the room without another word.

When the great man had gone Frank Muller sat at the pass, and communed with himself, for he was far too wise a man to commune with anybody else. "The Lord hath delivered mine enemy into mine hand," he said, with a smile, and stroked his golden beard. "Well, well, I will not waste his merciful opportunities as I did those of my father's shooting. And then for Bessie. I suppose I shall have to kill the old man, too. I am sorry for that, but it can't be helped; besides, if anything should happen to Jess, Bessie will take Mooifontein, and that is worth having. Not that I want more land; I have enough. Yes, I will marry her. It would serve her right if I didn't; but, after all, marriage is more respectable, and also one has more hold of a wife. Nobody will interfere for her. Then she will be of use to me by and by, for a beautiful woman is a power even among these fellow countrymen of mine, if only a man knows how to bait his lines with her. Yes, I shall marry her. Bah! that is the way to win a woman—by capture; and, what is more, they like it. It makes her worth winning, too. It will be a courtship of blood. Well, the kisses will be the sweeter, and in the end she will love me the more for what I have dared for her. So, Frank Muller, so! Ten years ago you said to yourself: 'There are three things worth having in the world—first, wealth; second, women, if they take your fancy, or, better still, one woman if you desire her above all others; third, power.' Now, you have got the wealth, for one way and another you are the richest man in the Transvaal. In a week's time you will have the woman you love, and who is sweeter to you than all the world besides. In five years' time you will have the power—absolute power. That old man is clever; he will be president. But I am cleverer. I shall soon take his seat, thus"—and he rose and seated himself in the general's chair—"and he will go down a step and take mine. Ay, and then I will reign. My tongue shall be honey and my hand iron. I will pass over the land like a storm. I will drive the English out with the help of the Kaffirs, and then I will kill the Kaffirs and take their land. Ah!"—and his eyes flushed and his nostrils dilated as he said it to himself—"then life will be worth living! What a thing is power! What a thing it is to be able to destroy! Take that Englishman, my rival: to-day he is well and strong; in three days he will be gone utterly, and I—I shall have sent him away. That is power. But when the time comes that I have only to stretch out my hand to send thousands after him!—that will be absolute power, and then with Bessie I shall be happy."

And so he dreamed on for an hour or more, till at last the fumes of his untutored imagination actually drowned his reason in spiritual intoxication. Picture after picture rose and unrolled itself before his mind's eye. He saw himself as president addressing the volksraad and compelling it to his will. He saw himself, the supreme general of a great host, defeating the forces of England with awful carnage and driving them before him; ay, he even selected the battle ground on the slopes of the Biggarsberg in Natal. Then he saw himself again sweeping the natives out of South Africa with the unrelenting besom of his might and ruling unquestioned over a submissive people. And, last of all, he saw something glittering at his feet—it was a crown!

This was the climax of his intoxication. Then there came an anticlimax. The rich imagination which had been leading him on as a gaudy butterfly does a child, suddenly changed color and dropped to earth; and then rose up in his mind the memory of the general's words: "God sets a limit to a man's doings. If he is going too far God kills him."

The butterfly had settled on a coffin!

HE SCRAWLED HIS BIG, COARSE SIGNATURE.

CHAPTER XXI.

JESS GETS A PASS.

About 10:30 on the morning following her interview with Hans Coetzee, Jess was at "The Palatial" as usual, and John was just finishing packing the cart with such few goods as they possessed. There was not much chance of its being of any material use, for he did not in the slightest degree expect that they would get the pass; but, as he cheerfully said, it was as good an amusement as any other.

"I say, Jess," he sang out presently, "come here."

"What for?" answered Jess, who was seated on the doorstep mending something, and looking at her favorite view.

"Because I want to speak to you."

She got up and went, feeling rather angry with herself for going.

"Well," she said, tartly, "here I am. What is it?"

"I have finished packing the cart, that's all."

"And you merely to tell me that you have brought me round here to say that?"

"Yes, of course I have; exercise is good for the young." And then he laughed, and she laughed too.

It was all nothing—nothing at all, but somehow it was very delightful. Certain instinctive affections, even when unexpressed, have a way of making things so happily and so much all right—something to laugh at, anyhow.

Just then, who should come up but Mrs. Neville-Jervis, in great state of excitement, and, as usual, fanning herself with her fan.

"What do you think, Capt. Niel? the pass has come in, and I hear one of the Boers in charge say that he holds a pass signed by the Boer general for a new English people, and that no one is to interfere with them. Who can it be?"

"[illegible]," said Jess, quickly. "We are [illegible] Hans Coetzee [illegible] and I suppose he has."

"[illegible] Pretoria [illegible] Niel, [illegible] Pretoria [illegible] Mrs. Neville [illegible] Jess [illegible] John [illegible] Jess [illegible] John [illegible] Jess [illegible] John

Tecumseh Herald

TECUMSEH, MICH., JULY 21, 1887

HINTS FOR HOT WEATHER

The following useful hints for this season are clipped from the Household supplement of the Michigan Farmer:

These torrid days of midsummer, when the mercury mocks the [illegible] sensational tiredness, debilitated, and industry is below par. It makes us tired even to see other people work. But most of us must work, and the great question becomes, How can we perform our tasks most comfortably? And I am not sure but those who stay quietly at home, simplifying their works as much as possible, and avoiding the most of their comforts, really endure the hot weather better than those who, at the close, are exposed and fatigued. But those who can, change with the crowds at summer resorts. A great deal depends upon [illegible] and let [illegible]

How to sleep is the great [illegible] A little cake and [illegible] upon would prove especially [illegible] after [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] windows on the sunny side, [illegible] [illegible] from window to window [illegible] [illegible] rooms one comes forth, tired and unrefreshed. [illegible] the kitchen [illegible] stove, chimney [illegible] the loss of the tired men [illegible] a nugg, comfortable one [illegible] it is for your interest to have [illegible] rest well, that they may be [illegible] which [illegible] doubtless they can sleep [illegible]. Better give up the [illegible] with all its glory of [illegible] and star-spangled [illegible] to the boys, then let them [illegible] the barn to sleep on the hay, [illegible] the house is so hot. In comparing with a lot of tramp haying or harvest hands.

Special comforts over the feather beds, if you use them, you will sleep much cooler, and however tired, to get out the rightly sponge baths, [illegible] worth an hour's sleep, aside from its cooling and sedative influences.

Get a kerosene or gasoline stove, rather and pay for it out of the single item of ironing. You have no fire, and if you have tried it, what an amount of heat and discomfort such a convenience really saves. Trade off an old flat iron for those with wood or handles, you will thus avoid blistered and heated hands.

Simplify living as much as possible. Rise early to accomplish as much as possible in the cool morning hours, for doing chest work out of need, and rest by working straight through to bed time. Take a nap after dinner, or if you are one of those wide awake individuals who cannot sleep while the sun is above the horizon, lie down and rest a couple of hours. Do not have a "general baking day," but each morning bake what pies and cake will be necessary for the day's meals, that the food may be fresh and palatable. Set the bread sponge over night, and it will be ready to bake in the early hours of the day. Forget how to make fried cakes and cookies till cool days come again; they require too much fire and hard work. Remember fresh fruit is the best dessert you can serve, and if you have berries don't think you must make pies of them, stir up a cake which shall be fresh, light, and not too rich, to eat with them; it is less work than to make pies. Serve fruit for breakfast; it is both "stylish" and healthful at that meal. There is an old proverb: "Fruit is gold in the morning, silver at noon, and lead at night." Fruit fresh and not over-ripe, is healthful at any time of the day.

Use the light tin and granite ware for cooking, instead of the heavy iron pots and kettles, do this the year round. Educate the men to keep the woodbox and the water pails full, unless you are so fortunate as to have both these indispensables at hand. It is a bad plan to begin this education during harvest time; the training should be finished by that time. I have known men who would go thirsty till the women brought fresh water if you have such men around let them choke awhile, and be sure to serve salt fish quite frequently.

Do not forget to soak the clothes over night; they require much less rubbing. Do not do much scrubbing. Spread squares of old carpet about the kitchen floor to stand upon; it is hard on the feet to stand on a bare floor. I think comfortable shoes, which do not pinch, are better than slippers to wear around the house. The shoes support the ankles, which are often so thin-soled that the chill [illegible] strikes through them. Sit down to pare vegetables and wipe dishes, and to iron napkins and handkerchiefs. Fold towels, sheets, coarse shirts, anything else practicable, and place a weight upon them [illegible] them. Have the stove set up high enough so you do not make a rainbow of your back bending over it. Do not wear the cumbersome, heavy, warm cotton undergarments, but rather the [illegible] [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] them to [illegible] the skin, and yet they are sufficient protection against sudden changes of temperature. They are as easy to wash as a handkerchief, and [illegible] the trouble at all. Do not [illegible] sew during the hot weather. It is an [illegible] to do to manage the house [illegible] and keep the mending basket from running over.

Be sure that good sanitary conditions prevail around and in your home [illegible] sweet and clean, and the drains in active working order. If you have a sink, treat it to a dose of copperas water at least once a week to [illegible] and keep it free from poisonous gases. Care on these points may save sickness that [illegible] dispensation of Providence which is most often due to our [illegible] of sanitary laws.

Above all, don't fret or worry, keep cool mentally and spiritually if you cannot physically. Do not give way to impatience or get irritated at trifles, and before you know it we shall have a white frost and be looking for fall bonnets.

BEATRIX.

THE THREE RED HOT DAYS.

Never, within the memory of the oldest inhabitant, has Michigan been visited with three hotter days in succession than last Friday, Saturday and Sunday. The mercury rambled about during nearly all the hours of daylight on each day between the 90 and 100 notch. The heat was not only hot, but it was fearfully oppressive. Many people were prostrated by the heat. The climax was reached on Sunday when the mercury went to 104 degrees in some places for brief periods. The most accurate record of the temperature for the three days and one which can be considered a fair average one was kept by Geo. Merritt. His thermometer hangs on an iron fence post on the North side of his store and is entirely in the shade during the middle of the day. Here [illegible] figures:

Friday, July 15th.

11 o'clock A. M.	96
12 M.	97
1 P. M.	100
2	100
3	99
4	99
5	98
6	96
7	91
8	84

Saturday.

10 o'clock A. M.	90
11	94
12	96
1 P. M.	100
2	100
3	101
4	98
5	99
6	100
7	100
8	98
9	94
10	90
11	84

On Sunday George didn't venture down town and hence kept no record. Several other persons inspected his thermometer during the midday hours, and it marked 102° from twelve till two o'clock.

On Wednesday, the 13th, the temperature went to 100 degrees by several thermometers in town, but on Thursday it was much cooler.

From a late number of the Gratiot Journal we take this account of the injury to Carl Snedicor which resulted in his death:

Sitting on the fence west of the stand, therefore, a little south of the liberty pole, was Carl Snedicor, son of C. Snedicor, who lives 2½ miles east of town, in Emerson. A piece of wood from a rocket, 8 inches in length and one half inch square, struck him with great force on the right side of the abdomen, penetrating the bowels to the left hip, just missing the bladder, and rupturing the intestines. He was carried to the sample room of the Retan House, where everything possible was done to alleviate his sufferings and afford relief. In the course of two hours afterward the unfortunate sufferer was carried to the home of his afflicted parents on a stretcher, by six men, and at noon on Tuesday he died.

J. R. Allen of Devils Lake, has bought and furnished the new Steamer M. & O. in good style. Boarders will be carried on it all over the lake free of charge. Allen's Hotel at the Station and Pleasant Grove House at the South end, furnish the best rooms to be found at the lakes. Can bring your family and live at either of them as cheaply as at home.

Old and reliable Medicines are the best to depend upon. Acker's Blood Elixir has been prescribed for years for all impurities of the Blood. In every form of Scrofulous, Syphilitic or Mercurial diseases, it is invaluable. For Rheumatism, has no equal.

C. A. Wright & Co., Druggists.

TEMPERANCE COLUMN.

Edited by a Committee of the W. C. T. U.

ATLANTA'S YEAR OF PROHIBITION.

Atlanta Constitution, June 21.

The election at which prohibition was put on trial in this city is entitled to a place among [illegible] [illegible] election of a local nature was ever before held in a city of 90,000 people in which more was involved. The changes proposed by it were so radical as to be almost revolutionary. Over 100,000 [illegible] were to be forced to give up a [illegible] business. The city treasury was to be left with [illegible] less revenue. Trade amounting annually to millions was to be turned away from the city. Many large business houses were to be left unrented. Of course, a movement proposing measures so radical met with the most spirited and determined opposition. Many of our best citizens regarded it with outspoken disfavor.

It is said that prohibition in a city so large as this was impracticable, that it would not prohibit, that the trade would be injured, that drugs would be increased, that the stores in which the liquor business was carried on would not be rented for other purposes, that the same amount of whiskey would be drunk with the law as without it, the city would only miss the revenue, that it would be a death blow to Atlanta's progress.

It has now been eighteen months since the election, and twelve months since the law went into effect. We are prepared thus from observation to note results.

Prohibition in this city does prohibit. The law is observed as well as the law against carrying concealed weapons, gambling, theft, and other offenses of like character. If there had been as many people in favor of carrying concealed weapons, theft, gambling, etc., as there were in favor of the retail of ardent spirits twelve months ago, law against these things would not have been carried out as well as it was against the liquor trade. In consideration of the small majority with which Prohibition was carried, and the large number of people who were opposed to seeing it prohibit, the law has been marvelously well observed.

Prohibition has not injured the city financially. According to the assessors' books property in the city has increased over $2,000,000. Taxes have not been increased. Two streets in the city, Decatur and Peters, were known as liquor streets. It was hardly considered proper for a lady to walk these streets without an escort. Now they are just as orderly as any in the city. Property on them has advanced from 10 to 25 per cent. The loss of $90,000 revenue consequent on closing the saloons has tended in no degree to impede the city's progress in any direction. Large appropriations have been made to the water works, the public schools, the Piedmont Fair, and other improvements. The business men have raised $100,000 to build the Atlanta & Hawkinsville railroad.

The number of city banks is to be increased to five. The coming of four new railroads has been settled during the year. Fifteen new stores containing house-furnishing goods have been started since prohibition went into effect. These are doing well. More furniture has been sold to mechanics and laboring men in the last twelve months than in any twelve months during the history of the city. The manufacturing establishments of the city have received new life. A glass factory has been built. A cotton seed oil mill is being built worth $125,000. All improvement companies with a basis in real estate have seen their stock doubled in value since the election on prohibition.

Stores in which the liquor trade was conducted are not vacant, but are now occupied by other lines of trade. According to the real estate men, more laborers and men of limited means are buying lots than ever before. Rents are more promptly paid than formerly. More houses are rented by the same number of families than heretofore. Before prohibition sometimes as many as three families would live in one house. The heads of those families now not spending their money for drink, are each able to rent a house, thus using three instead of one. Workingmen who formerly spent a great part of their money for liquor now spend it in food and clothes for their families. The retail grocery men sell more goods and collect their bills better than ever before. Thus they are able to settle more promptly with the wholesale men.

A perceptible increase has been noticed in the number of people who ride in the street cars. According to the coal dealers, many people bought coal and stored it away last winter who had never been known to do so before. Others who had been accustomed to buying two or three tons on time, this last winter bought seven or eight, and paid cash for it. A leading proprietor of a millinery store said that he had sold more hats and bonnets to laboring men for their wives and daughters, than before in the history of his business. Contractors say their men do better work, and on Saturday evenings, when they receive their week's wages, spend the same for more, [illegible] necessary things for their families. Thus they are in better spirits, have more hope, and are not inclined to strike and growl about higher wages.

[illegible] upon the public schools has increased. The superintendent of public instruction, said on his report to the board of education, made January 1, 1887:

During the past year it has become a subject of [illegible] by [illegible] schools and by visitors that the children were more tidy, were better dressed, were better shod, and presented a greater appearance than ever before. Less trouble has been experienced in holding parents purchase books required by the rules, fewer children have been withdrawn to aid in supporting the family, the higher classes in the grammar schools have been fuller, and more children have been promoted to the high schools, both male and female, than ever before in the history of the schools. All these indications point to the increased prosperity of the city, and to the growing interest in the cause of education on the part of the people.

There has been a marked increase in attendance upon the Sunday schools of the city. This is especially noticeable among the suburban churches. Many children have started to the Sunday schools who were not able to attend for want of proper clothing. Attendance upon the different churches is far better. From 1,500 to 2,000 people have joined the various churches of the city during the year.

The determination on the part of the people to prohibit the liquor traffic has stimulated a disposition to do away with other evils. The laws against gambling are rigidly enforced. A considerable stock of gamblers' tools gathered together by the police for several years past was recently used for the purpose of making a large bonfire on one of the unoccupied squares of the city. The city council has refused longer to grant license to bucket shops, thus putting the seal of its condemnation upon the trade in futures of all kinds.

All these reforms have had a decided tendency to diminish crime. Two weeks were necessary formerly to get through with the criminal docket. During the present year it was closed out in two days. The chain gang is almost left with nothing but the chains and the balls. The gang part would not be large enough to work the public roads of the county were it not augmented by fresh supplies from the surrounding counties. The city government is in the hands of our best citizens.

The majority in this county in favor of prohibition was only 235. Such a change has taken place in public sentiment, however, that now there is hardly a respectable anti-Prohibitionist in the city who favors a return to barrooms. There are some who would prefer high license, or its sale by the gallon, but it is a remarkable fact that there is no disposition to have the saloon opened again.

The barroom has gone from Atlanta forever, and the people with remarkable unanimity say, amen! There is very little drinking in the city. There has been 40 per cent. falling in the number of arrests, notwithstanding there has been a rigid interpretation of the law under which arrests are made. Formerly, if a man was sober enough to walk home he was not molested. Now, if there is the slightest variation from that straight line which the center of gravity falls in line inside the base, the party is made to answer for such variation at the station house.

Our experience has demonstrated to us beyond a doubt that a city of 60,000 inhabitants can get along and advance at a solid and constant rate without the liquor traffic.

Would You Believe It?

That we are authorized by the proprietor of Kemp's Sarsaparilla to refund the money to any one who has taken three fourths of a bottle without relief? We are positive that no other proprietor has the confidence in his medicine to do this. It is for enriching, cleansing and purifying the blood and toning up the system. Price $1.00. Call at our store. Respectfully,

Baker & Hall.

MOST PERFECT MADE

Prepared with strict regard to Purity, Strength, and Healthfulness. Dr. Price's Baking Powder contains no Ammonia, Lime, Alum or Phosphates. Dr. Price's Extracts, Vanilla, Lemon, etc., flavor delicously.

PRICE BAKING POWDER CO. CHICAGO AND ST. LOUIS.

EVERY DEPARTMENT

OVERFLOWING

OUR STOCK OF

MEN'S, BOY'S & CHILDREN'S CLOTHING

For Spring and Summer 1887.

Embraces every variety of style and quality at LOWER PRICES than ever before. Our facilities for MAKING SUITS

TO MEASURE.

Cannot be excelled for quality, style, cheapness. The best assortment of piece goods in the market. We want your trade in every article you wear. CALL AND SEE US.

STRONG & McNAIR.

A FREE EXCURSION

FREE EXCURSION

We are selling the

Best English Crockery

Below we give a few prices:

56 piece Tea Set,	$2.75
12 Cups and Saucers,	.60
Wash Bowl and Pitcher,	.65
Toilet Set,	1.90

We have only a few left.

To H. E. Anderson's.

To H. E. ANDERSON'S

Great Bargains

AT

J. S. KINNEY'S!

IN

FURNITURE

OF LATEST STYLES AND BEST WORKMANSHIP.

SUITES of ALL KINDS

Shades, Carpets, Rollers, etc., at very Low Prices for Cash. I keep

FULL LINE OF UNDERTAKING

In Wood, Cloth, Metallic Cases, and I have the agency of the new INDESTRUCTIBLE MARBLE CASKETS of all kinds, very fine. Undertaking in all Branches attended to. PRICES REASONABLE.

This represents a healthy life, Throughout its various scenes, Just such a life as they enjoy Who use the Smith's Bile Beans.

Smith's BILE BEANS purify the blood, by acting directly and promptly on the Liver, Skin and Kidneys. They consist of a vegetable combination that has no equal in medical science. They cure Constipation, Malaria, and Dyspepsia, and are a safeguard against all forms of fevers, chills and fever, gall stones, and Bright's disease. Send 4 cents postage for a sample package and test the TRUTH of what we say. Price, 25 cents per box. Mailed to any address, postpaid. DOSE ONE BEAN. Sold by druggists.

J. F. SMITH & CO., PROPRIETORS, ST. LOUIS, MO.

The original Photograph panel size, of this picture sent on receipt of 10c. in stamps. Address, BILE BEANS, St. Louis, Mo.

A HANDSOME WEDDING, BIRTHDAY OR HOLIDAY PRESENT.

THE WONDERFUL

LUBURG CHAIR

Combining a Parlor, Library, Smoking, Reclining or Invalid CHAIR, LOUNGE, BED, or COUCH. Price $7.00 and up. Send stamp for Catalogue. SHIPPED to all parts of the world.

CHILDREN'S CARRIAGES

All furnished with the Automatic Coach Brake, and Retailed at our Wholesale Prices. Send stamp for Catalogue and prices.

50 CARGOES OVER

THE LUBURG MANF'G CO., 145 N. 8th St., Philada., Pa.

TMENT
NG
THING
1887.
ICES than ever
NAR.
RSION
ery
es:
2.75
.60
.65
.90
To H. E. Anderson's. ains
eft.
SON'S
RE
KMANSHIP.
KINDS
or Cash. I keep TAKING new INDESTRUCT
ng in all Branch
they enjoy
n's Bile Beans.
The original Photograph panel size, of this cut sent on receipt of 10c. 2
stamps. Address,
BILE BEANS,
St. Louis, Mo.
ce, 25 cents per bott
old by druggists.
, LOUIS, MO.
NDAY PRESENT.
CHAIR
, Reclining or Easy or COUCH.
amp | & SHIPPING
ice. | parts of the w
ARRIAGES
ach Brake, and Retail
Elegant and Durable
St., Philada., P

THE TECUMSEH HERALD.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

FOR SALE.—A desirable residence corner Pearl and Shawnee sts. Enquire on the premises.

FOR SALE.—The property opposite the HERALD office now used as a saloon and dwelling, and also the house and lot next north adjoining Conklin's furniture factory. The title to the former is good and the latter will be made to suit purchaser. For terms and particulars enquire at HERALD OFFICE.

STRAYED OR STOLEN.—A red heifer 3 years old from my pasture in Raisin, about a week ago. Any information leading to its recovery will be suitably rewarded.
GEO. HOLLOWAY.

[illegible] village taxes during the month of July [illegible] who pay their taxes before August 1st [illegible] the month of August will be charged 10 per cent. discount.
THOS. KYLE, Village Marshall.

FOR SAND LAKE.—E. L. Wells will run a hack between Pentacost Crossing (Sand Lake) and the Sand Lake house, to meet the crossing on the C. J. & M. road every Monday, Wednesday and Saturday. Parties wishing to be met at the crossing at any other time will drop a card to that effect to
E. L. WELLS,
Pentacost Crossing, Mich.

FOR SALE.—I offer my place for sale cheap, located just west of Abner Wilson's farm on the Tecumseh road, in Tecumseh. Good house, barn, cistern, and two acres of land. For price, inquire of Abner Wilson or on the premises. Household goods will also be sold.
WILLIAM SMITH.

MAKE NOTICE.—Having decided to move to Tecumseh I shall be greatly obliged to those who are indebted to me if they will call at my office and make a settlement as soon as possible. Mrs. House will attend to the business for two weeks after which the accounts will be left in the hands of a collector.
R. B. HOUSE.
Tecumseh, Mich., July 7th, 1887.

LOST.—In the township of Franklin, or Tecumseh, a pocket book, on the 4th of July containing about $1. The finder will be rewarded by returning same to
PHILO MILLS, Clinton, Mich.

SAND LAKE.—I will run a carriage from Tecumseh to Sand Lake on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, leaving Sand Lake every week until further notice. Fare 50 cents for the round trip. Parties wishing to have passage will be called for at their residence if orders at the postoffice.
ASA HOWE.

FOR SALE.—New house and lot. Payment to suit purchaser; only $10 per month; or for rent cheap.
A. W. SLAYTON.

PLANTS—PLANTS—PLANTS.—Early Cabbage and Tomatoes now ready. I have a large stock which he did 100 per cent last year. I have seven of the best varieties of Tomatoes in cultivation. Also Sweet Potatoes, Celery, Peppers, etc. A quantity of very fine Asparagus roots one year old.
ABNER WILSON.

STEEL SCUFFLERS.—An indispensable tool for farmers and gardeners for attaching to corn and other cultivators. Made from best steel and warranted to work.
W. P. DEMING, Tecumseh, Mich.

WANTED.—One agent in each of the following counties, viz.: Hillsdale, Monroe, Washtenaw and Lenawee, to sell my Spring bed bottom and adjustable head rest. Best bed made. Covered by patent. Exclusive sale to Agent. For terms apply to
J. S. KINNEY, Tecumseh.

As Howe's Sand Lake stage is crowded with passengers every trip.

A report of Justus Lowe's golden wedding was received too late for publication this week and will appear next week.

A night blooming cereus with four buds which will open to night, can be seen at the lawn festival, at Jas. Beck's. Everybody invited.

Why such an awful Sabbath as last Sunday should have been imposed upon the good people of this latitude, is one of the mysteries of Providence not to be found out.

Under the title of "Village Types," Nath'l Hawthorne will present, in The American Magazine for August, sketches of some more noted characters that are fully to be found in our small country communities.

The annual encampment of the Knights Templar will be held this week at Orr & Vance's hunting, Devil's Lake, beginning on Wednesday, July 27th. The Tecumseh City Band has been engaged to furnish music for the occasion and they will be in camp five days, from July 27th till Monday, Aug. 1st.

Geo. W. Mead of this village, has a copy of the Boston Gazette, dated Monday, March 12, 1770. It is a 4 page 3 col. sheet, "containing the latest advices, foreign and domestic." The old style of longs is used, making the face of the sheet present a very quaint appearance. The two pages have turned column rules and contain an account of a melee between British soldiers and citizens in which four citizens were killed and several wounded. The account is quite sensational reading, beginning with these words: "The town of Boston affords a recent and melancholy instance of the destructive consequences of quartering Troops among Citizens in a Time of Peace, under a pretence of supporting the Laws and assisting civil authority." It contains no advertisements and is a curiosity in literary curiosity.

Last Sunday afternoon about three o'clock the dead body of Geo. Suffin was found in a field of D. H. Zeluff's near the C. J. & M. depot. The body was first discovered by James M. [illegible] who at once notified Marshal [illegible] Justice Jediel Davidson was [illegible] and an inquest was held on the [illegible] at five o'clock that afternoon. [illegible] M. Clark, James Clark, Clark [illegible] and Dr. Howell were sworn as jurors and the hearing was then adjourned till Monday forenoon at Esquire Burridges office. The body was in charge by the relatives and funeral services were held on Monday afternoon. The jury of inquest consisted of Frank L. Silvers, Clark Bennett, J. Kies, H. G. Conklin, Eras Bidwell and Millard F. Marks, and their verdict was that "he came to his death by the intemperate use of intoxicating liquors and exposure to the heat of the sun."

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

Frank Snedicor and wife spent Sunday at Pinckney.

The new Clinton woolen mill will be lighted by electricity.

C. F. Field, of the News, is rusticating at Sand Lake this week.

The [illegible] Improvement Company of Detroit this week is being well patronized.

Mrs. Abbie Fisher is having a furnace put in her residence, corner of Maiden Lane and Chicago st.

Three candidates for membership in the Free Methodist church were baptised in the river near the Globe mill last Sunday.

Mrs. Ellen McCaughin, of this village, has received back pension from Uncle Sam to the amount of $414 66, and will receive a monthly pension in the future. One of her sons was killed in the late war.

While Tom Shurtz was putting a block under his thresher engine last Monday, the entire made a sudden lurch and Tom's fingers received a bad pinching, which will disable him for a few days.

Henry McClure was taken seriously ill last Sunday, being attacked with apoplexy or overcome by the excessive heat. His condition at first was regarded as somewhat critical, but we are happy to state that he is now improving.

Charlie Orr was riding on his bicycle last Thursday evening, and when near Giddinghouse's livery barn he collided with a buggy going the opposite way. Charlie was "knocked out" in the first round, but was able to take a ride the next day.

Wm. H. Shearson, supervisor of Seneca township, was on Friday last appointed postal clerk on the Monroe branch of the Lake Shore. His run will be from Adrian to Monroe, and he enters upon his new duties at once. It is an excellent appointment.

Arthur Crossman is doing finely at Atkinson Neb. He is engaged in the land and loan business. One of his financial backers is the firm of Ormsby & Co., of Emmettsburg, Iowa. Mr. Ormsby is a former partner of B. L. Baxter's here in Tecumseh and is now worth nearly half a million.

The property owned by Munson P. Henry, opposite the HERALD office, with the Niblack place, fronting on Railroad st., is offered for sale in another column. This property will be sold at a bargain, altogether or separately, and on easy terms. For full particulars enquire at this office or on the premises.

While the present management of the C. J. & M. railroad formerly M. & O. road are seeking to extend their road to the inland towns that will make a liberal contribution of bonus money, we would recommend to the management the extension of their present line from Dundee to Monroe. Such a line would afford the people of the western portion of this county means of reaching the county seat by railroad, and give the company a paying amount of patronage. Dundee Reporter.

Peterson's Magazine for August is at hand, in even better season than usual. The second number of the new volume is fully equal to that of July, and to say so is to bestow very high praise. The steel plate is charming, and the fashion and needle-work designs are first class. Miss Bowman's serial, "Along the Bayou" increases in interest, and the number abounds in capital tales and pretty poems. Terms $2 a year, with great reductions to clubs. Address Peterson's Magazine, 306 Chestnut st., Philadelphia, Pa.

While the Clinton base ball club were driving through the village last Thursday evening, flushed with their late victory over the Tecumseh nine, the driver turned the corner near C. A. Wright's residence a little too fast, and the result was a broken wheel in the rear of the wagon, and a scattered base ball nine all along the street. The boys evidently thought they were making a home run, but the umpire decided they were out on a foul. A strong heavy wagon was procured, capable of carrying a victorious base ball club, and after stopping at the Railroad st. drug store, they continued on their way home rejoicing.

Arrangements are progressing favorably for a grand reunion of the 18th Regiment here on the 26th of August. H. W. Stevens, Chairman of the Committee, has already received letters from the following distinguished persons, who have signified their intention to be present. Rev. Washington Gardner, of Jackson, Mich., who is President of the Mich. State Sunday School Association; Gen. R. S. Granger, of Zanesville, Ohio; Col. C. C. Doolittle, of Toledo, Ohio; Gov. Cyrus G. Luce, of Michigan; Hon. J. K. Boies, of Hudson; Congressman E. P. Allen of Ypsilanti; and many other persons of less prominence. Our distinguished guests on that occasion should be cordially received and honorably entertained.

Ed. Koch, of Toledo, was in town last Saturday on business.

[illegible] Cadillac on Monday last.

Misses Grace Willett and Myrtelle Whitney are visiting friends in town this week.

[illegible] Smith's saw mill is laid down this week on account of low water and hot weather.

A new Singer sewing machine can be bought cheap for cash. Call at the HERALD office and examine it.

[illegible] is enjoying the society of his father on the farm, and with other old Tecumseh friends.

Mrs. E. A. Tribou left home last Saturday for a visit of two weeks with friends in Detroit.

Mrs. Dr. E. M. Conklin, of Wichita, Kansas, is spending about a month with friends in Clinton and Tecumseh.

J. W. DePuy and mother, of Detroit, drove over from that city Tuesday and will remain in Tecumseh a few days.

The Council Proceedings this week are almost as interesting as a dime novel. They only take five columns and are placed on the fifth page.

Mrs. LaVern Wheeler is an artist of fine abilities. A beautiful crayon portrait of herself, executed by her, adorns A. J. Collington's front window.

The State Teacher's Institute for Lenawee County will be held at Adrian next month, commencing at 10 A. M. on Monday Aug. 8th, and closing at 4 P. M. on Friday, Aug. 12th.

The "Echo" newspaper has recently been much improved, and is now one of the best weeklies published of a general character. It will undoubtedly obtain a largely increased circulation under its present management.

Rev. C. T. Elliott, of Jackson, of the Unitarian church, will exchange with the pastor of the Universalist church for next Sunday, July 24th. Services at 10:30 in the morning and 7:30 in the evening. Come and give him a good hearing.

The executive committee of the organization of supervisors and county officials met at Adrian last Monday, to arrange time and place for holding this year's picnic. It was decided to hold it on the north end of Devil's lake, but the choice between the two landings was left to be settled hereafter. The time was fixed for Wednesday, August 17.

Ogden Center was visited with a destructive fire, Friday. The conflagration originated in a small store owned by Mr. McKinney, which was soon destroyed; and then communicated itself with the bowery and barn owned by James Carney, entirely destroying them, together with some of the contents of the barn. From there the fire spread to the residence of "Uncle" Jim Robertson, burning it to the ground. The entire loss will aggregate some $2,000, partly covered by insurance.—Adrian Times.

Never have we been more interested and shocked than in reading the vivid description of the questionable pastimes indulged in by some ultra society ladies at fashionable summer resorts. The scenes descriptive of the drinking and gambling of these women are forcibly depicted in the "Quaker Lady," a summer hotel novelette, in Demorest's Monthly magazine for August, and the contrast between their amusements and the refined pleasures of the "Quaker Lady" is beautifully brought out. This magazine is always intensely interesting as well as elegantly gotten up.

Concerning the reunion of the 18th Reg. to be held here on the 26th, we respectfully make this suggestion. The affair will be attended with considerable expense, and it seems to us the proper thing that our citizens should take hold at once and raise a purse to defray the necessary expenditures. The old veterans of the 18th, the Governor of the state and other notable personages will be our guests at that time. We should hang the latch string on the outer wall and give our guests an earnest of Tecumseh's hospitality. A citizens committee should be appointed at an early day to co operate with the Regimental committee, in making all necessary arrangements.

Thursday last was an unauspicious day for the Tecumseh base ball club; it was a warm day also. The battery had walked several miles from the country where they had been working in the harvest field, and the remainder of the club were considerably out of practice. Nevertheless they came to the front and worked hard for a victory over the Clinton club, but the fates decreed otherwise. The Clintonites run in score after score until a tired look came into the eyes of the home nine—and a tired feeling in the legs of the Clinton nine—and when the game was ended the score card showed the result as 27 to 11 in favor of the visiting team. Loose fielding was a prominent feature of the home nine, and we would recommend a "day off" for practice. The umpire is, of course, charged with giving unfair decisions to the detriment of the vanquished.

John Brown went to Detroit last Tuesday.

[illegible] weather for the Detroit races this week.

W. T. Eccles and wife are rusticating this week at Devil's Lake.

Jennie Calhoun and Ada Potter went to Deadwood, Dak.

Harry Snell was at home a couple of days the fore part of the week.

J. A. Hopkins, of the Detroit Paper Co. was in town Tuesday on business.

Hessen's new sample factory was finished and rechristened and will be completed inside of a month.

Special communication of Tecumseh Lodge No. 60 F. & A. M. tomorrow (Friday) evening.

Mrs. W. E. Bartless and sister of St. Clair Mich., are visiting at Dr. Hamilton's and at A. L. Brewer's this week.

Draper's Uncle Tom's Cabin troupe, exhibiting under canvas, will show in this town next Saturday evening, July 23d.

Mrs. M. A. Freeman requests all who are indebted to her to call and settle their accounts within the next ten days.

The Michigan Press Association will meet at Port Huron on Tuesday, July 26th, and will continue in session two or three days.

Mrs. Wm. Wicht, of Detroit, has been visiting her parents in Tecumseh, Mr. and Mrs. Herning, for the past two weeks.

The American Agriculturalist for August contains original articles by no less than forty well known writers from 21 states and territories.

Landlord Mertz of the Central House was under the painful necessity of shooting his favorite Spitz dog last week. It showed all the signs of being mad.

Ada Gallatin has returned home after an 18 months trip to California, Nevada, etc. She speaks highly of her trip and hopes to make Nevada her future home.

Several families in the village spent most of the day last Sunday down cellar. It was the only place where they could find even a partial escape from the torrid heat.

William Stocking has been smiling on his old acquaintances two or three days this week. He is now keeping books for a big sash, door and blind factory at Findlay, Ohio.

Mr. Will Hayden, of Tecumseh, yesterday purchased of Mr. L. T. Lochner, of this city, his fine Hambletonian carriage horse the price paid being $250.—Adrian Times.

The second excursion from Toledo to Devils Lake will run over the Mackinaw line next Sunday, July 24th. Fare from Tecumseh, 40c. The train will pass this station about 10 o'clock A.M.

Jediel Davidson now uses the Justice's Docket that was formerly used by S. C. Stacy, when he held that honorable and lucrative office. Upon looking over the old docket we find that the first process issued by S. C. Stacy was an ordinary civil summons in favor of Burlingame, Knoeland & Co., against Wm. Ayres and James Ferguson, July 24th, 1873. The second was a similar summons issued July 16, wherein Adin S. Matthews was plaintiff and Augustus W. DeMarsh was defendant.

The Toledo Blade of last Saturday, contains this item from Sylvania:

The people of Sylvania have lost in the removal of Dr. Frost to Tecumseh, a valuable citizen whose loss will be sincerely felt. During the seven years that he has been here he won the respect of all. As a citizen he as truly filled all places of honor and trust. As a physician he has won many friends as well as amassed for himself a comfortable income. The Congregational church of which he was a member, will sadly miss him, for he has been a valued and trusty worker in all branches of church work.

As is generally known, Hunt's orchestra is to erect a cottage at Sand Lake. At a meeting some time since the question of paint was discussed, and the leader remarked that he did not care what color the cottage was painted so that it was red. This reached the ears of the genial young gentleman who edits the state column of the Evening News, and he published an item that the members of the orchestra were going to put the rosy line on the cottage themselves. This made the boys madder, and now they threaten to serenade the offending Detroiter if he ever revisits his old friends hereabouts. Revenge is sweet.—Adrian Times.

A Special excursion will run over the Lake Shore road to Detroit and return on Tuesday next, July 26th. Below is the time schedule and rates of fare.

Manchester	7 55 A. M.	RATE 1 85
Clinton	8 13 "	" 1 65
Tecumseh	8 23 "	" 1 60

Arrive at Detroit at 11.15 A. M., in time for dinner. All the afternoon to visit Belle Isle, Detroit's beautiful park; the cyclorama, and the base ball game, Detroit vs. Chicago. Take supper in Detroit, and ride home in the cool of the evening. Train leaves Detroit on the return at 7:00 P. M. Woodward Ave. (Detroit) 7:10 P. M. Purchase tickets early.

CLIPPINGS AND CONDENSATIONS.

[illegible] for Europe about the 20th inst.

A nice new stage now runs between Hudson and Morenci.

The oldest inhabitant can now step to the front and relate his experience on the hot weather question.

Hudson Canton No. 26, Patriarchs Militant I. O. O. F. was mustered into the state department last week.

[illegible] was the hottest day he ever experienced in Michigan, and he has lived in Tecumseh over 60 years.

The Britton Eagle's "knowledge box" items will soon culminate in a licked editor if we are any judge of human nature.—Ann Press.

A Hillsdale paper says the "summer club hop" came off at that city last week. Hereabouts the summer club hop takes place when the husband returns home after a midnight visit to the gas well. His wife clubs and he hops.—Hudson Post.

Calvin Smith, a farmer 72 years of age, living 2 miles south of Medina, suffered from sunstroke last Wednesday while harvesting. His condition was so critical that it was thought he would not survive Wednesday night, but he did, and was reported better Thursday.—Morenci Observer.

A family in Fior'n lost their little boy and advertised for him in a daily paper. That very afternoon an alligator crawled out of a swamp and died on the front door step. In his stomach was found a handful of red hair, some bone buttons, a pair of boot heels, a glass alley, a pair of check pants and a paper collar. The advertisement did it.

"Railroading was somewhat different then," said Matthew Burt to a Gazette Man, referring to the time when the Lake Shore was completed to Hillsdale. "My Uncle, Charles Burt, now of Ransom, was one of the three men who with the aid of hacksaws, kept the engines supplied with all the wood they required to make the daily runs."—Hudson Gazette.

The report that insurance companies had issued instructions not to take any more risks on Morenci property till the matter of settling the saloon business was determined, is pronounced by Morencians as mere bugbear, and that all kinds of property there can be securely insured at the ordinary rates in good companies. In fact the property owners have to keep muskets loaded and hands to drive off pestiferous agents, both local and from Adrian.

It is said that our neighbors of Petersburg are again excited over the prospect of getting another railroad. Agents of the C. J. & M. road have been through that region with a proposed line seeking to obtain by contract the right of way for an extension of the road with an independent line from a point east of Clarksville to Toledo. Should the proposed line be built it would be located about two miles west of Dundee, crossing the turnpike at "Sackett's Harbor," and the section of road that now runways with the T. & A. A. road would probably be abandoned.—Dundee Reporter.

Prospect Hill, in the eastern part of Woodstock, and about five miles northeast of Devils Lake, is the center of a circle of country, which, for real beauty and picturesqueness, is certainly unsurpassable. Standing in the observatory at the summit of the hill, the vision enjoys an unobstructed sweep of at least a dozen miles in every direction, and the picture which the distant forests and gentle sloping hills and verdant valleys with their patches of gold and green, and the shimmering waters of a score of pretty lakes, is positively charming. A ride to Prospect Hill always repays one for the time and expense, and there seems to be no reason why it would not be profitable for one of the lake resorts to run a conveyance to this beautiful locality every day during the summer season. In a little time the ride would come to be one of the most popular and enjoyable diversions which life at the lake affords.—Hudson Gazette.

A son of Peter Kneisel, of Ogden, was driving a team attached to a binder in Peter Jacob's wheat field last Friday, when they became ungovernable and started to run. Both Kneisel and Jacobs started for the traces, grasping the horses by the bridles. Kneisel was flung to one side and was struck on the foot by the divider and painfully hurt. Jacobs was thrown down on his face, the elevator side of the binder passing over him, catching on his heels and doubling him up like a jack knife. He was dragged along a few feet, his back meanwhile being scraped nearly bare of skin. Fortunately the horses were near a fence and stopped of themselves. When assistance arrived the binder had to be elevated to secure Mr. Jacob's release. He was conveyed to his home and Dr. Moore summoned who dressed his wounds and made him as comfortable as possible. It seems almost miraculous that no bones were broken.—Blissfield Advance.

OBITUARY.

Nathan Morse departed this life at his residence in Tecumseh on the second of July 1887, in the 87th year of his age.

The deceased was born in Franklin County, Mass, Jan 18th, 1801. At the age of six years his parents removed to Washington Co. N. Y. where they lived for 12 years, at the expiration of which time, they again removed to Chautauqua Co. and settled near Chautauqua Lake. Upon attaining his majority, he began business on his own account. He and an older brother purchased a small farm [illegible] of July 1830 he married to Miss Almira Newton, with whom he lived nearly sixty years, having celebrated the 50th anniversary of their marriage in July of last year. In the year 1831 he caught the western fever and went to Chicago, then a mere hamlet. From there he returned to Washtenaw County and located 160 acres of land on what was then known as the North heart of the Raisin, two miles north of the present village of Manchester. He then returned to N. Y. to his family where he remained three years. Having sold his effects save what could be conveyed on a wagon, he started with his family to their new home in the West where they arrived in June 1834. The entire journey was made in about ten days with team and wagon. The country was rapidly settling at that time, and by hauling goods from Detroit to the interior he acquired sufficient means to clear up and fence his farm. He afterwards purchased several other tracts of land most of which he disposed of at a good profit. For the past ten years he has been leading a quiet life at his comfortable home here in Tecumseh enjoying the rewards of a life well spent well spent life. For more than forty years his life was not unlike that of other pioneers. Possessed of an indomitable will and an iron constitution he met no obstacles that were not easily surmounted; and he carried on this earth many years beyond the allotted limit of life. He leaves eight children, 2 sons and 6 daughters, to mourn his loss. About three years ago he met his wife, who preceded him to the tomb only a few months, united with St. Peter's church in this village. The funeral services were held at his late residence, on Sunday afternoon, July 3d, at which Rev. J. Phelps pronounced the beautiful ritual of the Episcopal church. Just before the sun sank into his western bed, the body of the old pioneer was laid into its final resting place. "Dust to dust, ashes to ashes."

Mortgage Sale.

On Monday next July 25th, at two o'clock P. M., will be sold a 52 inch Advance Thresher that has only been used two seasons. Sale will take place on the corner of Chicago and Railroad sts. Chance for a good bargain.

—A correspondent of the Albion Times says: The first threshing reported in the county, so far this season, took place in Pulaski, Tuesday. J. A. Rogers, who lives at Lenawee Junction, realized from four acres, which had been phosphated, 25 bushels to the acre, and from four, which had not been, 15 bushels to the acre. Singularly, too, the phosphated land was inferior in quality to the other.

There is no longer any doubt about its paying to use phosphates. C. A. Slayton keeps a stock on hand and the increasing demand shows farmers know the value of it.

Call at Adamson Bros. and see the elegant line of Gorham Mfg. Co's silverware just received.

—Diamonds in Watches, Brooches, Pins, Earrings and Finger Rings to be had at the mammoth jewelry store of Adamson Bros.

—Mrs. N. R. Brown would call attention to her closing out sale of Lake hats. All varieties.

—Don't make a mistake and buy your binding twine before seeing me.
C. A. Slayton.

—Sewing machines—Needles, oil, and attachments at
M. P. Brown's Art Gallery.

—For hay rakes, tedders, hay loaders, forks, carriage, pulleys, etc. See
C. A. Slayton.

—If you want a first class sewing machine call on Mrs. M. P. Brown and see the New Domestic, The White and The Grand. Prices reasonable and terms easy.

—I will sell you a first class hay rake for five dollars.
C. A. Slayton.

—Get the Celebrated Wood binder twine at Whitnack Bordine & Co.

—Call and see the self lighting Crown Jewel gasoline stoves at Whitnack Bordine & Co.

—All Steel frame quick meal gasoline stoves at Whitnack Bordine & Co.

—Large line of double and single harnesses at Whitnack Bordine & Co.

—Planet Jr. Cultivators at Whitnack, Bordine & Co.

—Call at J. S. Kinney's store and see those fine marble, indestructible caskets on exhibition. Also a new spring bed with elevated head rest. The best in the market for invalids. Manufactured by J. S. Kinney.

—If you wish any painting, graining or paper hanging done call on D. Holmes. Good work guaranteed. Terms reasonable. Leave orders at Baker & Hall's or C. A. Wright's, Tecumseh.
D. HOLMES.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.

[illegible]

[illegible] been made by the committee on public health, [illegible] House made report of his investigation [illegible] Accepted. [illegible] Committee of Ways and Means [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] than two feet apart and double at joints in the planking, under the supervision of the street commissioner and to be completed within twenty days from personal service upon the owner or occupant of said [illegible] the construction and completion of said walk as herein directed, the street commissioner is hereby ordered to construct said walk and payment therefor shall be required of the owner of said above described land, and the expense thereof [illegible] said walk, and payment therefor shall be required of the owner of said above described land, and the expense thereof assessed and levied upon said land in the same manner as other taxes.

It was on motion resolved, That the common council of the village of Tecumseh do hereby require that a new sidewalk be constructed along that portion of the north line of Pottawatamie street in this village, which lies along and adjoining the south line of that parcel of land situate in the village of Tecumseh, county of Lenawee and state of Michigan, known and described as follows, viz: That part of block seven of Henry L. Hewitt's addition to said village, bounded by beginning at the intersection of the west line of Evans street with the north line of Pottawatamie street and running thence west to the east line of D. L. Whitenack's, thence north about six rods to Hurd's land, thence east to said west line of Evans street, thence south to place of beginning. Said walk to be four feet in width, of sound pine plank 1½ inches thick and not exceeding six inches in width, laid lengthwise and well spiked down on sound burr or white oak stringers 2x4 inches in size and placed not more than two feet apart and double at joints in the planking, under the supervision of the street commissioner and to be completed within twenty days from personal service upon the owner or occupant of said above described land of a copy of this resolution and in case of any default in the construction and completion of said walk as herein directed, the street commissioner is hereby ordered to construct said walk, and payment therefor shall be required of the owner of said above described land, and the expense thereof assessed and levied upon said land in the same manner as other taxes.

It was on motion resolved, That the common council of the village of Tecumseh do hereby require that a new sidewalk be constructed along that portion of the west line of Union street in this village, which lies along and adjoining the east line of that parcel of land situate in the village of Tecumseh, county of Lenawee and state of Michigan, known and described as follows, viz: Bounded by beginning in the west line of Union street about twelve rods north from the north-east corner of the Tecumseh Cemetery, such point of beginning being also the north-east corner of lands owned as is supposed by Anna Kelley, thence running west about twelve rods to W. E. Gray's land, thence north to Dewey's land about six rods, thence east to west line of Union street, thence south to place of beginning. Said walk to be four feet in width, of sound pine plank 1½ inches thick, and not exceeding six inches in width, laid lengthwise and well spiked down on sound burr or white oak stringers 2 in. by 4 inches in size and placed not more than two feet apart and double at joints in the planking, under the supervision of the street commissioner and to be completed within twenty days from personal service upon the owner or occupant of said above described land of a copy of this resolution, and in case of any default in the construction and completion of said walk as herein directed, the street commissioner is hereby ordered to construct said walk, and payment therefor shall be required of the owner of said above described land, and the expense thereof assessed and levied upon said land in the same manner as other taxes.

It was on motion resolved, That the common council of the village of Tecumseh do hereby require that a new sidewalk be constructed along that portion of the north line of Logan street in this village, which lies along and adjoining the south line of that parcel of land situate in the village of Tecumseh, county of Lenawee and state of Michigan, known and described as follows, viz: Being that part of Block One of Henry L. Hewitt's addition to said village, which is bounded north by Steven's land, east by Morrison's land and Gray's land, south by Gray's land and Logan street and west by Richart's land. Said walk to be four feet in width, of sound burr or white oak plank 1½ inches thick, and not exceeding six inches in width laid lengthwise and well spiked down on sound burr or white oak stringers 2 in. by 4 inches in size and placed not more than two feet apart and double at joints in the planking, under the supervision of the street commissioner and to be completed within twenty days from personal service upon the owner or occupant of said above described land of a copy of this resolution and in case of any default in the construction and completion of said walk as herein directed, the street commissioner is hereby ordered to construct said walk, and payment therefor shall be required of the owner of said above described land, and the expense thereof assessed and levied upon said land in the same manner as other taxes.

It was on motion resolved, That the common council of the village of Tecumseh do hereby require that a new sidewalk be constructed along that portion of the north line of Logan street in this village, which lies along and adjoining the south line of that parcel of land situate in the village of Tecumseh, county of Lenawee, state of Michigan, known and described as follows, viz: Being that part of Block One of Henry L. Hewitt's addition to the village of Tecumseh, which is bounded north by Marsh's land, east by Steven's land and Russell and Lowry's land, south by Logan street, and west by Avery's land. Said walk to be four feet in width, of sound pine plank 1½ inches thick, and not exceeding six inches in width, laid lengthwise and well spiked down on sound burr or white oak stringers 2 in. by 4 inches in size and placed not more than two feet apart and double at joints in the planking, under the supervision of the street commissioner and to be completed within twenty days from personal service upon the owner or occupant of said above described land of a copy of this resolution, and in case of any default in the construction and completion of said walk as herein directed, the street commissioner is hereby ordered to construct said walk, and payment therefor shall be required of the owner of said above described land, and the expense thereof assessed and levied upon said land in the same manner as other taxes.

It was on motion resolved, That the common council of the village of Tecumseh do hereby require that a new sidewalk be constructed along that portion of the west line of Union street in this village, which lies along and adjoining the east line of that parcel of land situate in the village of Tecumseh, county of Lenawee and state of Michigan, known and described as follows, viz: Bounded by beginning at the point of intersection of the west line of Union street at the south line of a highway running east and west along the east and west quarter line of section twenty eight in town five south of range four east township of Tecumseh, Michigan, and running thence south about ten rods to Dewey's land; thence west about twelve rods to other lands of W. E. Gray; thence north about ten rods to said highway running along said east and west quarter section line; thence east to place of beginning. Said walk to be four feet in width, of sound pine plank 1½ inches thick, and not exceeding six inches in width, laid lengthwise and well spiked down on sound burr or white oak stringers 2 in. by 4 in. in size and placed not more than two feet apart and double at joints in the planking, under the supervision of the street commissioner and to be completed within twenty days from personal service upon the owner or occupant of said above described land of a copy of this resolution, and in case of any default in the construction and completion of said walk as herein directed, the street commissioner is hereby ordered to construct said walk, and payment therefor shall be required of the owner of said above described land, and the expense thereof assessed and levied upon said land in the same manner as other taxes.

It was on motion resolved, that the common council of the village of Tecumseh do hereby require that a new sidewalk be constructed along that portion of the west line of Union street in this village, which lies along and adjoining the west line of that parcel of land situate in the village of Tecumseh, county of Lenawee and state of Michigan, known and described as follows, viz: Bounded by beginning at a point in the east line of Pearl street about six rods south from the south line of Kilbuck street, such point being also the south west corner of lands owned by Joseph Wooden, and running thence east about twelve rods to lands owned formerly by Alpheus Stearns; thence south about six rods to West's land; thence west about twelve rods to Pearl street; thence north to place of beginning. Said walk to be four feet in width, of sound pine plank 1½ inches thick, and not exceeding six inches in width, laid lengthwise and well spiked down on sound burr or white oak stringers 2 in. by 4 in. in size and placed not more than two feet apart and double at joints in the planking, under the supervision of the street commissioner and to be completed within twenty days from service upon the owner or occupant of said above described land as prescribed by ordinance of this village of a copy of this resolution, and in case of any default in the construction and completion of said walk as herein directed, the street commissioner is hereby ordered to construct said walk and payment therefor shall be required of the owner of said above described land, and the expense thereof assessed and levied upon said land in the same manner as other taxes.

It was on motion resolved, that the common council of the village of Tecumseh do hereby require that a new sidewalk be constructed along that portion of the north line of Logan street in this village, which lies along and adjoining the south line of that parcel of land situate in the village of Tecumseh, county of Lenawee and state of Michigan, known and described as follows, viz: Being that part of Block One of Henry L. Hewitt's addition to said village, bounded on the north by lands of Russell & Lowry and Morrison, on the east by lands of Morrison, on the south by Logan street and west by lands of Joseph Russell and Thomas Lowry. Said walk to be four feet in width, of sound pine plank 1½ inches thick, and not exceeding six inches in width, laid lengthwise and well spiked down on sound burr or white oak stringers 2 in. by 4 inches in size and placed not more than two feet apart and double at joints in the planking, under the supervision of the street commissioner and to be completed within twenty days from personal service upon the owner or occupant of said above described land of a copy of this resolution, and in case of any default in the construction and completion of said walk as herein directed, the street commissioner is hereby ordered to construct said walk, and payment therefor shall be required of the owner of said above described land, and the expense thereof assessed and levied upon said land in the same manner as other taxes.

It was on motion resolved, That the common council of the village of Tecumseh do hereby require that a new sidewalk be constructed along that portion of the west line of Union street in this village, which lies along and adjoining the east line of that parcel of land situate in the village of Tecumseh, county of Lenawee and state of Michigan, known and described as follows, viz: Bounded by beginning in the west line of Union street at the north-east corner of Moody's land being about six rods north from north-east corner of Tecumseh Cemetery, running thence west about twelve rods to Gray's land, thence north about six rods to McConnell's land, thence east to west line of Union street, thence south to place of beginning. Said walk to be four feet in width, of sound pine plank 1½ inches thick, and not exceeding six inches in width, laid lengthwise and well spiked down on sound burr or white oak stringers 2 in. by 4 inches in size and placed not more than two feet apart and double at joints in the planking, under the supervision of the street commissioner and to be completed within twenty days from personal service upon the owner or occupant of said above described land of a copy of this resolution, and in case of any default in the construction and completion of said walk as herein directed, the street commissioner is hereby ordered to construct said walk, and payment therefor shall be required of the owner of said above described land, and the expense thereof assessed and levied upon said land in the same manner as other taxes.

It was on motion resolved, That the common council of the village of Tecumseh do hereby require that a new sidewalk be constructed along that portion of the west line of Union street in this village, which lies along and adjoining the east line of that parcel of land situate in the village of Tecumseh, county of Lenawee and state of Michigan, known and described as follows, viz: Bounded by beginning at the point of intersection of the west line of Union street at the south line of a highway running east and west along the east and west quarter line of section twenty eight in town five south of range four east township of Tecumseh, Michigan, and running thence south about ten rods to Dewey's land; thence west about twelve rods to other lands of W. E. Gray; thence north about ten rods to said highway running along said east and west quarter section line; thence east to place of beginning. Said walk to be four feet in width, of sound pine plank 1½ inches thick, and not exceeding six inches in width, laid lengthwise and well spiked down on sound burr or white oak stringers 2 in. by 4 in. in size and placed not more than two feet apart and double at joints in the planking, under the supervision of the street commissioner and to be completed within twenty days from personal service upon the owner or occupant of said above described land of a copy of this resolution, and in case of any default in the construction and completion of said walk as herein directed, the street commissioner is hereby ordered to construct said walk and payment therefor shall be required of the owner of said above described land, and the expense thereof assessed and levied upon said land in the same manner as other taxes.

It was on motion resolved, that the common council of the village of Tecumseh do hereby require that a new sidewalk be constructed along that portion of the north line of Logan street in this village, which lies along and adjoining the south line of that parcel of land situate in the village of Tecumseh, county of Lenawee and state of Michigan, known and described as follows, viz: Being that part of Block One of Henry L. Hewitt's addition to said village, bounded on the north by lands of Russell & Lowry and Morrison, on the east by lands of Morrison, on the south by Logan street and west by lands of Joseph Russell and Thomas Lowry. Said walk to be four feet in width, of sound pine plank 1½ inches thick, and not exceeding six inches in width, laid lengthwise and well spiked down on sound burr or white oak stringers 2 in. by 4 inches in size and placed not more than two feet apart and double at joints in the planking, under the supervision of the street commissioner and to be completed within twenty days from personal service upon the owner or occupant of said above described land of a copy of this resolution, and in case of any default in the construction and completion of said walk as herein directed, the street commissioner is hereby ordered to construct said walk, and payment therefor shall be required of the owner of said above described land, and the expense thereof assessed and levied upon said land in the same manner as other taxes.

It was on motion resolved, That the common council of the village of Tecumseh do hereby require that a new sidewalk be constructed along that portion of the west line of Union street in this village, which lies along and adjoining the east line of that parcel of land situate in the village of Tecumseh, county of Lenawee and state of Michigan, known and described as follows, viz: Bounded by beginning in the west line of Union street at the north-east corner of Moody's land being about six rods north from north-east corner of Tecumseh Cemetery, running thence west about twelve rods to Gray's land, thence north about six rods to McConnell's land, thence east to west line of Union street, thence south to place of beginning. Said walk to be four feet in width, of sound pine plank 1½ inches thick, and not exceeding six inches in width, laid lengthwise and well spiked down on sound burr or white oak stringers 2 in. by 4 inches in size and placed not more than two feet apart and double at joints in the planking, under the supervision of the street commissioner and to be completed within twenty days from personal service upon the owner or occupant of said above described land of a copy of this resolution, and in case of any default in the construction and completion of said walk as herein directed, the street commissioner is hereby ordered to construct said walk, and payment therefor shall be required of the owner of said above described land, and the expense thereof assessed and levied upon said land in the same manner as other taxes.

It was on motion resolved, that the common council of the village of Tecumseh do hereby require that a new sidewalk be constructed along that portion of the west line of Union street in this village, which lies along and adjoining the east line of that parcel of land situate in the village of Tecumseh, county of Lenawee and state of Michigan, known and described as follows, viz: Bounded by beginning at the point of intersection of the west line of Union street at the south line of a highway running east and west along the east and west quarter line of section twenty eight in town five south of range four east township of Tecumseh, Michigan, and running thence south about ten rods to Dewey's land; thence west about twelve rods to other lands of W. E. Gray; thence north about ten rods to said highway running along said east and west quarter section line; thence east to place of beginning. Said walk to be four feet in width, of sound pine plank 1½ inches thick, and not exceeding six inches in width, laid lengthwise and well spiked down on sound burr or white oak stringers 2 in. by 4 in. in size and placed not more than two feet apart and double at joints in the planking, under the supervision of the street commissioner and to be completed within twenty days from personal service upon the owner or occupant of said above described land of a copy of this resolution, and in case of any default in the construction and completion of said walk as herein directed, the street commissioner is hereby ordered to construct said walk

The Great Healer of all Inflamed Injuries and Disorders.

It is constantly effecting the most wonderful cures, while the unparalleled demand with which it meets, stamps it at once as the greatest medicine of the age for outward application.

The most incredulous are convinced, and the most skeptical are compelled to believe in the power of this great remedy.

WHAT IT CURES.

All Sores, Cuts, Bruises, Sprains, Burns, Sore Throat, Lameness, Rheumatism, Piles, Inflammation of Lungs and Bowels, Bronchitis, Croup, Salt Rheum, Chilblains, Affection of the Spine, Erysipelas, Nervous Irritation, and all disorders attended with inflammation.

It never fails to restore the natural functions of the skin and equalize the circulation of the blood. In this manner it cures rolling power is gained over the most malignant forms of disease. It penetrates to every portion of the human frame; every bone, muscle, vein, nerve and ligament is reached and made sensible to its soothing healing influence. Hence it copes readily with disease as well as external diseases.

Over 40 Years.

This ointment has been used by the people throughout the United States, and our confidence in its qualities is such that as we have no space to insert any of the numerous certificates of cures which we have from all parts of the country we simply ask those readers of this notice who have ever used this Ointment, to frankly tell their experience with it to inquiring friends. Not one in a hundred would do this we should perfectly satisfied with the result. Full directions for use will be found on pamphlet around each bottle.

Price 25 and 40 cents per bottle. Sold by all dealers in medicine.

D. RANSOM, SON & CO., Prop's
Buffalo, New York.

THE

ELDREDGE

"B"

SEWING MACHINE with Automatic, Self-threading Cylinder Shuttle.

No. 3.

The ELDREDGE "B" is sold with the guarantee of being the BEST that can be MADE.

AGENTS WANTED.

ELDREDGE MANUFACTURING CO.

383 and 385 WABASH AVE., CHICAGO, ILL.

B. F. STEINHOFF'S

Dental Rooms.

OVER BAKER & HALL'S.

GAS FOR EXTRACTING.

LOWEST PRICES for THE BEST WORK

PATENTS!

Caveats, Trade Marks and Copyrights

[illegible] business in the U.S. Patent Office and [illegible] MODERATE FEES. [illegible] opposite the U. S. Patent Office, and [illegible] patents in less time than those remote from Washington. [illegible] DRAWING. We advise as to patentability FREE of charge, and make NO CHARGE unless we secure a patent. [illegible] to Postmaster, Supt. of Money Order Div., and officials of the U.S. Patent Office. [illegible] terms and references to actual clients in your state or county, write to

C. A. SNOW & CO.,
Opposite Patent Office, Washington, D.C.

C. A. Wright & Co.,

Wall Paper

AND

Decorations.

C. A. Wright & Co.

ADVERTISING

[illegible] for THIS PAPER, which is kept by LORD & THOMAS, Advertising Agents, Chicago.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

The Lansing engine and iron works shipped a full carload of engines to Iowa the other day.

Greatly Excited.

Not a few of the citizens of Tecumseh have recently become greatly excited over the astounding facts that [illegible] who had been pronounced by their physicians as incurable and beyond all hope—suffering with dreaded monster Consumption—have been completely cured by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, the only remedy that does positively cure all throat and lung diseases. Hundreds testify to its marvelous [illegible] Bronchitis.

Trial bottles free, large bottles $1.

C. A. Wright & CO.

A terrible scourge, resembling diphtheria is raging at Cockburn island at the head of Lake Huron.

Personal.

Dear Bro. Meek, Ed. "The Central Methodist," Catlettsburg, Ky.

I see in the last "Central" that you want a sick headache remedy. I suffered from sick headache, almost from infancy, and tried every remedy I could get, but never found anything to do me good until I used Simmons Liver Regulator. I feel for anyone that suffers with that terrible disease, and I hope you will give it a trial. C. S. Morris, Brownsville, W. Va.

The soldiers and sailors of central Michigan will hold their annual encampment in Ionia Aug. 16 18.

Its thousands of cures are the best advertisement for Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy.

Symes Bros.' planing mill at Bancroft, was damaged by fire the other night to the amount of $1 500.

English spavin liniment removes all hard, soft, or calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavin, curbs, splints, sweeney, stifles, sprains, sore and swollen throat coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle. Warranted. Sold by Baker & Hall, Druggists, Tecumseh Mich.

A company has been organized to build an independent railroad between East Saginaw and Durand.

Itch, mange, and scratches of every kind on human or animals cured in 30 minutes by Woolford's Sanitary Lotion. This never fails. Sold by Baker & Hall, Druggists, Tecumseh Mich.

Maj. J. R. Stone, an old resident of Benton Harbor and prominent G. A. R., man is dead.

For Scrofula, Impoverished Blood and General Debility,

Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites, has no equal in the whole realm of Medicine. read the following: "I gave one bottle of Scott's Emulsion to my own child for Scrofula, and the effect was marvellous."—O. F. GRAY, M. D. White Hall, Ind.

Work has been commenced on the new night school building at Caro.

Drunkenness or the Liquor Habit Positively Cured by Administering Dr Haines' Golden Specific.

It can be given in a cup of coffee or tea without the knowledge of the person taking it; is absolutely harmless and will effect a permanent and speedy cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or an habitual drunkard. Thousands of drunkards have been made temperate men who have taken Golden Specific in their coffee without their knowledge, and to day believe they quit drinking on their own free will. IT NEVER FAILS. The System once impregnated with the Specific it becomes an utter impossibility for the liquor appetite to exist. For full particulars, address GOLDEN SPECIFIC CO., 185 Race St., Cincinnati, O.

Ex Gov. Alger sails for Europe about the 20th inst.

The reason why Acker's Blood Elixir is warranted, is because it is the best Blood Preparation known. It will positively cure all Blood Diseases, purifies the whole system, and thoroughly builds up the constitution. Remember, we guarantee it. C. A. Wright & Co., Druggists.

The coinage of the mints during June aggregated $4 337 502, of which $2 456 000 was in standard dollars.

The Population of Tecumseh,

Is about 2,800 and we would say at least one half are troubled with some affection of the Throat and Lungs, as those complaints are, according to statistics, more numerous than others. We would advise all not to neglect the opportunity to call on us and get a bottle of Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial size free. Respectfully. Baker & Hall, Druggists.

It is reported that Ex Gov. Begole is about to engage in the iron business in Mexico.

At Night always have Acker's Baby Soother at hand. It is the only safe medicine yet made that will remove all infantile disorders. It contains no Opium or Morphia, but gives the child natural ease from pain. Price 25 cents. Sold by C. A. Wright & Co., Druggists.

Farmers are in the midst of wheat harvest.

A FAVORITE WITH THE FAIR SEX.

Papillon (extract of flax) Skin Cure is superior to all the muchadvertised skin beautifiers with the advantage of being beneficial, and not like the mineral preparations usually sold, which are very poisonous. It will remove all inflammation, chafing and roughness of the skin, sunburn, freckles and unseemly blotches, and leave the cuticle fair and soft as an infant's. An actual necessity for the complete toilet table Large bottles $1 00.

For sale by A. S. Doty.

QUEER THINGS ABOUT MONEY.

A woman who bought an old fashioned bureau discovered a secret drawer in it which contained $1,300 in gold and old bank notes.

Money was so scarce in certain counties of Southwestern Texas during the earlier part of the Winter that in some instances the skins of [illegible] circulating medium, and possum skins were frequently offered in liquidation of grocery bills.

Squire Royal, the tax collector of Taylor county, Pa., took out a well worn overcoat to sell to an old clothes man a few days ago and found $198 in bills rolled up in a sheet of note paper. The squire has no recollection of having placed it in the pocket.

John Moore, a young man living with his widowed sister in the northern part of Georgia, was digging a hole for a potato bins in his cellar the other day, when his spade broke open an earthen pot containing $1,480 in gold. The coin had been buried by his father, a husband during the war, and subsequently forgotten.

A Chicago gambler who had been playing in hard luck, borrowed a counterfeit silver dollar from a friend and made straight for the nearest state bank. He met with phenomenal success, and on quitting the game was $123 ahead. As he was leaving the place he boasted of his trick, and was at once ignominiously kicked into the street.

Six months ago a lady living in Butler, Ga., through fear of the depredations of tramps, put $110 in bank notes in a pasteboard box and buried it in the yard near the wood-pile. Last week she went out to get it and found that box and bills had been badly mutilated by wood lice. She has sent the notes to the banks which issued them for redemption.

A young farmer in Des Moines county, Iowa, who had saved up $300 in bank bills, wrapped a piece of paper around them and stuck the roll up the chimney in his bed room for safe keeping. One cold afternoon his mother put a stove in the room and lit it a roasing fire in it, and when the young man returned to supper only the charred remnants of the notes could be found.

The pet cat belonging to Mrs. Lucy Cain of Hannibal, Mo., brought a mouse into the parlor recently, and with it a small piece of paper money. Mrs. Cain thought nothing about the occurrence until one day last week, when she discovered that a roll of bills was missing from her bureau drawer. Then she put two and two together, and began a vigorous search of the premises. The missing bills were finally unearthed in a corner of the cellar, where a colony of mice had made a nest of them.

How Tea Was Discovered.

It is curious that while the Chinese claim a remote antiquity for nearly all the products of their long-lived civilization, they give what to them is a comparatively modern date for the introduction of tea into the Celestial Empire. And even then they trace the origin of the article to a myth. The tale is that about the beginning of the Sixth century, in our present reckoning, one Darma, a prince of high principle and great piety, landed among them and gave up his life that in the end he would become absorbed into the Divine presence. He had an idea that if he could only conquer sleep so his mind might be forever active to the impressions and scenes around him, and in communion with the unseen, the sublime purpose he had before him would surely be attained. The weakness of the flesh, however, was too much for this enthusiast. Worn out by his protracted vigil, he at length fell into a profound slumber, but instead of waking up with a sense of comfort and refreshment, it was in shame and humiliation that he opened his eyes, and in anguish of grief over his failure to keep awake he took a knife and cut off the offending eyelids. Returning after a time to the spot where this extraordinary penance was performed, he was amazed to find that the eyelids had taken root and developed into fragrant and beautiful shrubs. He plucked some of the leaves and eating them, felt like a man transformed. A new joy possessed his mind. A new vigor animated his body. He had found an herb that conquered sleep, and made persistent watchfulness a certainty. It was in this fashion, say the Chinese, that tea first came into existence.

We do not find mention of it in literature earlier than the Sixteenth century. Certain Italian writers who flourished then speak of it, and one of them anticipating Cowper, describes it as "a delicate juice which takes the place of wine, and is good for health and celibacy." Tea must then have found its way into Europe, and Portuguese were probably the first to import it. It was not, however, until about a century later that it was brought into England. It was so much of a rarity that a gift of a few pounds of it to the sovereign in 1664 was considered a magnificent present. In 1667 a considerable importation of the article was made into England, the amount being nearly 5,000 pounds, but it found by no means a ready sale.

The Austrian Succession.

Although the Crown Prince of Austria has now been married some six years he still remains without male issue and it is feared that little or no hope remains of his wishes in this respect being fulfilled. Should he die without leaving a son the imperial crown of Austria would pass to the present Emperor's brother, the Archduke Carl Ludwig. According to advices received in London the eldest son of the latter, the Archduke Otto, who only a few months ago was married to Princess Josefa of Saxony, has behaved so shamefully to his young wife that she has been forced to leave him and return to her relatives, who are indignant at her treatment. It appears that the young Archduke has shown such unmistakable signs of mental aberration that his condition is being submitted to a careful medical examination. It is feared that the hereditary curse of the Hapsburg family, namely, epilepsy—which rendered the late Emperor unfit to govern, and which incapacitated his brother, the present monarch's father, from undertaking the government, has developed with increased intensity in the young Archduke, a fact which is likely to seriously affect the question of his dynastic succession.

A petition is circulating in Germany asking the Government to open Universities to women, with all that opening implies. Heretofore women have been allowed to study at Heidelberg and Leipsic but not to take degrees.

Lookout Mountain, the historic ground of Hooker's battle above the clouds, has been bought by a syndicate of capitalists, who propose to make it a national pleasure resort.

The manuscript of a famous sermon which John Knox preached in Edinburg in 1565 has been sold lately for $1,040.

PURELY VEGETABLE

It acts with extraordinary efficacy on the

LIVER, KIDNEYS, AND BOWELS,

AN EFFECTUAL SPECIFIC FOR

Malaria, Bowel Complaints, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Constipation, Biliousness, Kidney Affections, Jaundice, Mental Depression, Colic.

BEST FAMILY MEDICINE

No Household Should be Without It, and, by being kept ready for immediate use, will save many an hour of suffering and many a dollar in time and doctors bills.

THERE IS BUT ONE

SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

See that you get the genuine with red "Z" on front of Wrapper. Prepared only by J. H. ZEILIN & CO., Sole Proprietors, Philadelphia, Pa. PRICE, $1.00.

HAY FEVER!

CATARRH

is an inflamed condition of the lining membrane of the nostrils, air ducts and throat, affecting the lungs. An acrid mucus is secreted, the discharge is accompanied with a burning sensation. There are severe spasms of sneezing, frequent attacks of headache, watery and inflamed eyes.

Try the Cure.

Ely's Cream Balm HAY-FEVER

A particle is applied into each nostril and is agreeable. Price 50 cents at Druggists; by mail, registered, 60 cts. Circulars free. ELY BROTHERS, 235 Greenwich St., New York.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

OF PURE COD LIVER OIL

And Hypophosphites of Lime & Soda

Almost as Palatable as Milk.

The only preparation of COD LIVER OIL that can be taken readily and tolerated for a long time by delicate stomachs.

[illegible] CONSUMPTION, SCROFULA, ANEMIA, GENERAL WEAKNESS, WASTING DISEASES OF CHILDREN, and all WASTING DISORDERS OF CHILDREN [illegible] marvelous in their results.

[illegible] Druggists everywhere [illegible] Physicians throughout the world.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS

LAKE SUPERIOR TRANSIT COMPANY

THE GREAT BOAT LINE ROUTE.

Independent sailings of steamers from Detroit for Sault Ste. Marie and other Lake Superior ports Monday, Tuesdays, Thursdays, Fridays, and Saturdays to Port Huron, Sarnia, Sault Ste. Marie, Duluth, Fort Wm. and points on Northern Pacific R. R. and Rail [illegible]

Baggage checked to destination.

For tickets and other information apply to J. L. WHITING, Gen'l Agt., [illegible] Mich.

[illegible] & ANTIS, Agts.

THE SOUTH BEND LINE.

The only direct route to Marquette and the iron and copper districts of the upper peninsula of Michigan.

Two through trains each way [illegible] Chicago and South Bend to points in Michigan.

The territory traversed is famous for its UNEXCELLED HUNTING AND FISHING.

Excursion tickets for sale at all points via this route. For maps, folders, rates and information, address, E. W. ALLEN, General Passenger and Ticket Agent, Marquette, Mich.

THE CELEBRATED

HAMBLETONIAN STALLION

GIPSY CHIEF

Will stand for service at the

EXCHANGE HOTEL

In Tecumseh, on FRIDAY afternoon and SATURDAY of each week, the balance of the time at the Mill in Bridgewater.

Call not get terms or address the proprietor

CHAS. KOENIG,
River Raisin, Mich.

SALESMEN WANTED. Permanent positions guaranteed with SALARY AND EXPENSES PAID. Any determined man can succeed with us. Peculiar advantages to beginners. Stock complete, including many fast selling specialties, outfit free. Address Name this paper. BROWN BROTHERS, NURSERYMEN, Chicago, Ill.

PENNYROYAL WAFERS.

Prescription of a physician who has had a life long experience in treating female diseases. Is used monthly with perfect success by over 10,000 ladies. Pleasant, safe, effectual. Ladies ask your druggist for Pennyroyal Wafers and take no substitute, or inclose postage for sealed particulars. Sold by all druggists, $1 per box. Address THE EUREKA CHEMICAL CO., Detroit, Mich. Sold in Tecumseh by C. A. WRIGHT & CO.

The Great English Prescription.

A successful Medicine used over 30 years in thousands of cases. Cures Spermatorrhea, Nervous Weakness, Emissions, Impotency and all diseases caused by abuse, BEFORE indiscretion, or over exertion. AFTER Six packages Guaranteed to Cure when all others Fail. Ask your Druggist for The Great English Prescription, take no substitute. One package $1. Six $5. by mail. Write for Pamphlet. Address Eureka Chemical Co., Detroit, Mich.

Sold in Tecumseh by DR. GEO. FERGUSON

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

FRED B. WOOD,
ATTORNEY AT LAW.
Collections and Conveyancing. Office over W. & S. W. Anderson's store, Tecumseh, Mich.

[illegible] in Chancery. Office in HERALD Block, Tecumseh, Mich.

PHYSICIANS.

LEMAN BARNES, M. D.—Physician and Surgeon. Office over A. S. Doty's drug store. Residence Pottawatamie st., east, Tecumseh, Mich.

D. B. HOUSE, M.D.—Homœopathic Physician. Office in [illegible] Tecumseh and vicinity. Residence corner Maiden and Logan sts.

C. M. WOODWARD, M.D.
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON.
Office at Residence, Chicago St.

MISCELLANEOUS.

TECUMSEH FOUNDRY AND STEAM ENGINE WORKS. H. Brewer & Son, Proprietors. Manufacturers of Steam Engines, Mill Gearing and General Machinery, also manufacturers of Tiffany Improved Patent Drain Tile Machine, Sword's Brick Machine, etc.

LUCIUS LILLEY, Pres. [illegible] P. TRIBOU, Cas'r
LILLEY, BIDWELL & CO'S
BANK OF TECUMSEH.
Transact General Banking business. Money loaned on long time on Real Estate Security.
Lucius Lilley, L. S. Strong,
B. J. Bidwell, Chester P. Tribou

DAVE MACHAM, Fashionable Barber and Hair Dresser. Shop on Railroad st.

JAMES A. CUREY, Fashionable Barber and Hair Dresser, shop in Richard's block, Chicago st.

CHAS. A. WALDRON, Veterinary Surgeon. All orders promptly attended to either by mail or in person. Office at residence, one-half mile southwest of Tecumseh.

HOTELS.

BURNETT HOUSE—Toledo, Ohio. This house has been renovated and refitted, with elevator and other modern improvements, and is a favorite resort for the travelling public. Rates reasonable and graded according to rooms occupied.

CENTRAL HOTEL, ADRIAN, MICH.
F. S. AVERY, MANAGER.
This hotel is located on South Main st., near the postoffice, the best in attendance in the city. First class accommodations and charges reasonable.

LENAWEE CARRIAGE FACTORY

J. R. HALEY,
Proprietor,
MANUFACTURER OF Fine Carriages

Carriages, Buggies,

SURRIES, SPRING WAGONS,

ROADCARTS

SULKIES, CUTTERS, ETC.

Pearl Street,
TECUMSEH, MICHIGAN

M. L. RICE,

UTICA, MICHIGAN,

Dealer in High Class Thoroughbred Poultry. Eggs for hatching Send for Illustrated Circular, Free

W. W. MARSH,
Proprietor of
Railroad Street Meat Market.
Fresh and Salt Meats constantly on hand.
GIVE ME A CALL.
LADIES TREATMENT FREE.

[illegible] for the diseases of women discovered by that distinguished English Physician and Nurse, who has provided the only effective means of treating this class of complaints in England, is now being successfully introduced throughout the U.S. Sufficient medicine for one Entire Month's Treatment will be sent free to any lady suffering from any of those diseases, who sends her address and 4c Postage stamps to cover actual charges.

This NEW TREATMENT will positively cure any form of female disease and the free trial is in many cases sufficient to effect a permanent cure. It is put up in plain wrapper with full instructions for self treatment, only one trial treatment will be sent to same address. Regular price $1.00. Address

GREGO, REMEDY CO., Palmyra, N.Y.

EYESIGHT—SAVE IT!

Use Proper Spectacles!

Nothing is so much worse as improper sight, and improper glasses are only obtained by using a pair of spectacles properly fitted. Send 3 cent stamp for best illustrated catalogue which will be sent when you state that you saw this advertisement, and [illegible] adjusted and [illegible] Address GEO. B. BRIGDEN, Optician, 10 Monroe Street, Detroit, Mich.

[illegible] Patents procured and [illegible] Patent Office, Washington, D.C. Circulars free. Highest references. Best services. Address, SHEPARD & SON, Patent Attorneys, Detroit, Mich.

TO MACKINAC.

SUMMER TOURS.

Palace Steamers. Low Rates

Every [illegible] between

DETROIT, MACKINAC ISLAND.

St. Ignace, Mackinaw City, Alpena, Harrisville, [illegible] Point Sanilac, Port Huron, St. Clair, Oak[illegible] and Home, Marine City.

Every Week Day between

DETROIT AND CLEVELAND.

Special Sunday trips during July and August.

[illegible] AMPHLETS.

Rates and Excursion Tickets will be furnished by your ticket agent, or address

E. B. WHITCOMB, G.P.A. Cass Agent.

Detroit & Cleveland Steam Nav. Co.,

Special Sunday trips during July and August.

THIS PAPER may be found on file at [illegible] Newspaper Advertising Bureau (10 Spruce Street), where advertising contracts may be made for it in New York.

RAILROAD TIME TABLES.

L. S. & M. S. RAILROAD.

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	No. 115. Mail.	No. 117. Express.	No. 143. Acc'm.
Jackson	6 15 A. M.	2 [illegible] P. M.	1 00 P. M.
Napoleon	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Norvell	6 40	2 52	2 [illegible]
Manchester	6 57	3 11	3 12
Clinton	7 06	3 21	3 21
Tecumseh	7 20	3 41	3 47
Adrian	8 08	4 15	4 05
Detroit	10 05	6 30
Toledo	9 20	5 55

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No. 116. Mail.	No. 118. Express.	No. 144. Accom.
Toledo	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Adrian	10 [illegible]	8 47	7 [illegible]
Tecumseh	11 [illegible]	9 [illegible]	[illegible]
Clinton	11 [illegible]	9 [illegible]	[illegible]
Manchester	11 [illegible]	[illegible]	8 [illegible]
Norvell	11 [illegible]	9 [illegible]	8 [illegible]
Napoleon	12 [illegible] P. M.	10 [illegible]	9 [illegible]
Jackson	12 [illegible]	10 [illegible]	9 [illegible]

Trains run New Standard Central Meridian Time

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Coupon tickets can now be procured at this station over best routes to all principal points in the United States.

N. S. SATTERTHWAITE,
TICKET AGENT.
G. H. WORTHER, Supt. Detroit Division.

Cincinnati, Jackson & Mackinaw R. R.

MICHIGAN DIVISION.

Passenger Time Table

IN EFFECT May 22, 1887.

GOING EAST. No. 7 Pass.	No. 3 Pass.	Central Time. STATIONS.	GOING WEST. No. 4 Pass.	No. 8 Pass.
P. M.	A. M. P. M.		A. M.	P. M. A. M.
7 10	11 15 4 45	A. Toledo	7 20	2 25 8 00
5 20	10 15 3 35	Dundee	8 20	7 29 5 00
4 35	9 25 3 15	Britton	9 [illegible]	6 11 4 15
3 45	9 19 3 10	Ridgeway	9 [illegible]	6 50 10 15
3 40	9 08 3 00	Tecumseh	10 00	7 02 11 05
3 15	9 01 2 42	Tipton	10 15	7 18 11 15
3 [illegible]	9 00 2 38	Hosford	10 [illegible]	7 [illegible]
3 15	8 55 2 15	Devils Lake	10 [illegible]	7 [illegible]
3 00	8 38 2 08	Adrian	10 [illegible]	7 [illegible]
2 [illegible]	8 [illegible]	Jerome	11 08	8 [illegible]
11 5	8 21 1 41	Moscow	11 [illegible]	8 [illegible]
10 [illegible]	8 12 1 32	Hanover	11 [illegible]	8 [illegible]
10 [illegible]	8 00 1 20	Pulaski	11 [illegible]	8 [illegible]
10 [illegible]	7 50 1 10	Horton	12 [illegible]	9 [illegible]
10 [illegible]	7 38 1 [illegible]	Eckford	12 [illegible]	9 [illegible]
8 [illegible]	7 12 12 [illegible]	Marshall	12 [illegible]	9 [illegible]
No. 5				No. 6
P. M.				A. M.
4 [illegible]		Marshall	[illegible]	9 [illegible]
4 [illegible]	7 [illegible] 10 [illegible]	Cresco	11 [illegible]	9 [illegible]
4 20	6 40			9 [illegible]
A. M.	A. M.			A. M.
[illegible]	12 01	L. Battle Creek A	1 05	10 [illegible]
[illegible]	11 [illegible]	Augusta	1 [illegible]	P. M. 9 [illegible]
[illegible]	11 [illegible]	Yorkville	1 [illegible]	9 [illegible]
[illegible]	11 [illegible]	Richland	[illegible]	9 [illegible]
[illegible]	11 05	Doster	[illegible]	9 [illegible]
[illegible]	10 50	Monteith	[illegible]	9 [illegible]
[illegible]	10 40	Fisk	[illegible]	9 [illegible]
[illegible]	10 31	Kellogg	[illegible]	9 [illegible]
[illegible]	10 [illegible]	L. Allegan A	[illegible]	9 [illegible]
P. M.	A. M.		P. M.	A. M.

All Trains daily except Sunday.

Connecting, Price [illegible] Kalamazoo at [illegible] P. M. arrives at Allegan at [illegible] P. M. Train leaving close connecting at Allegan with train for points north and south.

TRAIN CONNECTIONS.

Train No. 1 makes close connections with the M. C. Ry. at Battle Creek and Allegan and intermediate points. No. 2 with C. L. & L. M. Mosinee, and at Allegan with the C. & W. M. for Grand Rapids, Muskegon, and points north. No. 6 makes close connection at Battle Creek with the Wabash & Western Ry. for points east and west. Stages close connection with the C. L. S. & M. S. R. R. at Pulaski for Litchfield, Allegan with the W. A. L. R. R. for Wayland, Hopkins, Otsego, Plainwell, Kalamazoo, Vicksburg, Schoolcraft, Cassopolis, Dowagiac, Niles, Buchanan, Berrien Springs, Galien, Michigan City, Chicago, Kouts, Wanatah, Hanna, Lacrosse, Wheatfield, Rensselaer, Fair Oaks, Wheatfield, Wanatah, Westville, Michigan City, Chesterton, Hobart, Hammond, Chicago, Englewood, Chicago Junction, Kenton, Upper Sandusky, Carey, Fostoria, Fremont, Clyde, Green Springs, Tiffin, Republic, Bellevue, Clyde, Fremont, Toledo, Detroit, Buffalo, Cleveland, Akron, Canton, Massillon, Pittsburg, Philadelphia, New York, Boston, Washington, Baltimore, Cincinnati, Louisville, St. Louis, Indianapolis, Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Kansas City, Denver, Omaha, Council Bluffs, Leadville, Salt Lake City, Portland, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Sacramento, Portland, Tacoma, Seattle, Spokane Falls, Helena, Butte City, Livingston, Cinnabar, Gardiner, Cooke City, Yellowstone Park, Cheyenne, Denver, Colorado Springs, Pueblo, Ogden, Salt Lake City, Los Angeles, San Diego, Deadwood, Sioux City, Sioux Falls, Yankton, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Duluth, Winnipeg, Portland, Tacoma, Seattle, Spokane Falls, Helena, Butte City, Livingston, Cinnabar, Gardiner, Cooke City, Yellowstone Park

LIFE AT LONG BRANCH.

...ONABLE SEASIDE RESORT.

Going to the Early Train—Lawn Tennis and Horseback Riding—Bathing Begins ... and the Evening Hours.

People who live in Ridgewood find it a thought to pass the day as they would in Paris, and a New Yorker in Florence ... a day as he would in his own ... A day at Long Branch ... Germany ... the great majority of the men going New York every day to attend to business ... Going to the train in the morning ... of the day. And a pretty sight it is to see the ladies in their fresh ... gowns, driving their carts ... the station with their ... The harness and ... the ... the ... the

The Tecumseh Herald.

VOL. XXXVIII.--NO 9. TECUMSEH, MICHIGAN, THURSDAY MORNING JULY 28, 1887. WHOLE NO. 1907

REMNANT SALE

REMNANT SALE

Saturday Morning!

We will place on sale Remnants of

SATINS, LAWNS, GINGHAMS AND WOOL DRESS GOODS.

A chance for GREAT BARGAINS

ALSO

WHITE AND COLORED ROBES

-AT-

Greatly Reduced Prices.

W. & S. W. Anderson & Co's.

Everything on the

BOOM-BOOM

AT THE

GRAND CENTRAL SUPPLY STORE.

GROCERIES, CROCKERY, GLASSWARE,

TEAS, SUGARS, SPICE.

PRICES LOWER THAN EVER.

HENRY McCLURE.

O. B. DeWOLF, Pres. H. M. TEMPLE, Sec'y and Treas. S. W. TEMPLE, Vice Pres. and Gen'l Mgr

THE OHIO & MICH. COAL & MFG. CO.,

COAL.

LUMBER LATH AND SHINGLES

MANUFACTURERS OF

Doors, Sash, Blinds, Mouldings,

Scroll Work, Turned Work, Modern Interior Finish.

GET ESTIMATES BEFORE BUYING.

OFFICE CORNER R. R. AND SHAWNEE STS.

Yards and Factory on Pearl and Shawnee sts., near L. S. & M. S. Depot

TECUMSEH, MICH.

NEW BEDROOM SUITS

PARLOR SUITS!

Patent Rockers, Reed Rockers, New Couches,

And a big stock of Fine and Medium

FURNITURE!

Invite all who are in want of good Furniture to look through my rooms and examine goods and notice the low prices. Remember, I have not removed back, but still occupy the largest store on the street for the last 12 years. You are told I don't enjoy the business for want of room. THAT IS SO.

Undertaking a Specialty!

Night Calls, Day Calls, and all kinds of calls promptly attended to. New and best Caskets in stock and something entirely new for the times

WM. McCOWEN.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

RIDGEWAY RAMBLES.

The hour are still cakes corn roll [illegible]

Hickory is getting pretty short.

Oats will be all threshed in this section this week.

The brick for the Library have arrived and are being placed in the Library lot.

Those who went to Tecumseh Saturday night and took in the pavilion Uncle Tom's Cabin, feel took in.

F. S. Marsteller of Clinton is furnishing the base stone for the Library, one load having already arrived.

You can get the Detroit Weekly Free Press, for four months for 25cts. Subscription received at the P. O.

The Kids of the village met the Kids of Dist. No. 5, last Thursday, afternoon in a game of ball. They returned home with a victorous smile and a score of 13 to 28 in their favor.

Mrs. Phillip Beckler of Britton, called on friends in the village Saturday.

Lou Avery spent Sunday as the guest of Jennie McNaught of Tecumseh.

Mrs. W. H. Avery of Raisin, Sundayed with her father, Mr. W. Rowlison.

Fred Miller and wife of Homer, are home on a visit.

L. F. Pugh of Brooklyn, N. Y. arrived Monday for a visit with relatives.

Ada Loree went to Detroit, Monday for an indefinite stay with her sister Mrs. Luckin.

Bina Schall of Flint, an old school mate of Mrs. H. Pocklington is spending several days with her. Miss Schall is principal of the grammar school of Flint.

Minnie Barrett went to Addison Wednesday to spend a few days with Hattie Wells.

Ella Miller is under the doctor's care at present.

Prof. E. A. Wilson went to Lansing Monday.

Uncle John Houseman placed a very fine appearing monument on his lot in the cemetery last Tuesday. The work was done by the Dundee marble works.

Mrs. W. P. Cadmus and son Bertie, left Wednesday for a visit with relatives at Hornelsville, N. Y.

Mabel Hayden of Tecumseh, was the guest of Belle Barlow Monday and Tuesday.

Prof. Jerome Travis of Clinton, and Postmaster Travis of Macon were in the village Monday.

Sunday evening about 11 o'clock, some unknown person sneaked about the house of Mrs. Coats in a manner that attracted the attention of Mary Anderson, a young lady living there, when she boldly stepped from the house and collared the unknown in the street, when he asked her what she wanted, she replied, I want to see who you are, and gave the alarm, when he took leg bail for security and left. About the same time strange persons were seen about the Library and Dr. Loree's residence. Steady aim and cold lead is a good remedy for such fellows.

Our North Street friends don't intend to be behind the times, as Miss Minnie Sisson has opened Dressmaking rooms at her sister's, Mrs. Wm Barrett, Jr's residence. The young lady will meet you with a smile and guarantees satisfaction in cutting and fitting.

Arrangements have been completed for the S. S. Excursion to Devils Lake over the C. J. & M. for next week Wednesday, Aug. 3d. Round trip to the lake, 35c. Boats and steamers at reduced rates. All who desire to go report or send their names to the P. O. by Tuesday, so that agent Sutton can secure coaches to accommodate all. Everybody provide themselves with a basket of eatables for a picnic dinner. Train will leave Ridgeway at 9:40 A. M. standard time; returning, train will leave the Lake at 6 P. M. for further particulars see bills.

There were upwards of 500 in attendance at the entertainment given at Mr. Barlow's, Monday evening, by the W.C.T.U. The program which consisted of music was a grand success in every respect. The Britton Cornet Band rendered some very fine music during the evening. At the close of the program ice cream was served on the lawn, but owing to the fact that the President is not a prophet, their supply of cream was exhausted before the multitude had been served once around, 12 gallons having been sold. The society took in nearly $25. A large delegation of the W. C. T. U. from Tecumseh were in attendance, and a large number of Macon and Britton friends. The evening was a delightful one for the occasion and all seemed to enjoy themselves immensely. During the exercises and partaking of refreshments some friends quietly passed through the audience and deposited a purse containing $5 in gold in the hands of Mrs. Belle Barlow, as organist, of the society, as a token of appreciation and esteem for her kindness, not only as organist of the church, but for her willing assistance in all of the societies and entertainments given by the village.

Card of Thanks

We, the members of the W. C. T. U. wish to return our heartfelt appreciation to those who so willingly assisted us in our entertainment given Monday, especially to Miss Mabel Hayden for her fine violin solos, and Miss Belle Barlow, for the successful manner in which she arranged and provided the program, likewise to those taking part in the program, and to the Britton Band for their valuable services during the evening.

By Order of Parsonage.

MA OR MUSIC.

John Wilcox and family of Toledo are here at present.

Mrs. Joe Bell of Manchester, is visiting friends this week.

The next social of the M. E. church will be held at the house of Mrs. Sarah Jane Cambrell, on Wednesday next.

Mrs. Houghtaling is on the sick list this week.

Sylvester Thomas has a new engine and is now ready for threshing.

Several of the young people of this place were invited to spend last Saturday evening with their friend Nellie Easterly, who is staying with her sister Mrs. Jessie Coller. Ice cream was served and a good time is reported.

ONSTED ODDS.

Loetta Holt of Jackson, has been visiting friends here.

Zelkma and Walter Rankin of Dundee, spent last week with their aunt, Mrs. Morton.

R. L. Glenn & Co., have a wagon on the road buying eggs and selling groceries.

John started out Monday morning with over 600 pounds of beef. He sold it all by a little past noon.

The ball play resulted in favor of the Onsted boys, Brooklyn only making at the rate of two to five.

Alma Sugars of Jackson, has been calling on friends in this vicinity.

John O'Leary and wife of Jefferson, was in town Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Oscar Laughlin started for her home in Valley City, Dak., Tuesday morning. She was accompanied by her sister, Jessie Short.

Mr. and Mrs. Winchel of Napoleon, spent Saturday evening and Sunday at their daughter's, Mrs. John Karns.

SPRINGVILLE SNUFF

Cambridge will lack considerable of its average crop of wheat this year.

Rachael Osborn of Tecumseh, made a few short calls in this vicinity week before last.

Sewel Matherson of Brooklyn, N. Y. has been recently calling on his numerous friends and former schoolmates of this place.

Simon Shultis made the lively town of Charlotte a short visit last week and reports former Cambridge people in good health and doing well.

Mrs. Wm. Queal returned recently from a five weeks visit with relation in Utica and Albany, N. Y. She enjoyed good health and a pleasant visit.

Marsh & Brazee are making quite extensive repairs in the Lake Mills, by the way of putting in a new floom, water wheel, etc.

Mrs. Walker was 90 years old on the 1st. inst. and took a walk of nearly a mile. We think Mrs. Walker quite an old walker in every sense of the word, and congratulate her on her good health and sincerely hope she may see the centenial of her birthday.

M. A. Ladd our popular blacksmith and P. M. started on quite an extended trip over the lakes and through the upper peninsula on Monday last.

A game of ball was played at Onsted last Saturday between Onsted and Brooklyn Clubs. The former was successful by a score of 33 to 14. The Onsted club plays Norvell at Brooklyn next Saturday. Brooklyn is bent on getting the boys beat somewhere if they can't do it themselves.

Jas. Keeney, our mail carrier, has purchased a span of mules of H. R. Case & Son, and contemplates making them help fulfill the contract between him and Uncle Sam in the future.

Are you weak and weary over worked and ill? Hop's Sarsaparilla is just the medicine to purify your blood and give you strength.

GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

[illegible] those days in the succession of the years which dry and withering as [illegible] however, it was pulled through [illegible] so large a number of their friends who having come to take the home of Mr. and Mrs. Justus Lowe, to celebrate with them on the day marking the fifty years of their married life.

Mr. and Mrs. Lowe came from York State into Lenawee county, Michigan, each with their parents from the same school district. Mr. Lowe in 1838, at the age of 13 years; Mrs. Lowe in 1841 or 42 finding this country a wilderness; so they like others in those days have known of the trials of a frontier life, and their home for almost the entire period of fifty years in Ridgeway township, and to an active town shab [illegible] Society is there found also who have kept house together for fifty years as youthful as were Mr. and Mrs. Lowe on their golden anniversary day.

Mr. and Mrs. Lowe are [illegible] Ypsilanti, Michigan, and children [illegible] Mrs. S. [illegible] Mrs. [illegible] Waring [illegible] Thomas [illegible] Sharpe [illegible] present five children, [illegible] grandchildren and three great grandchildren. Ninety took refreshments, when we think that it is safe to say, that on so bountiful a supplied table as there prepared too, where a hungry man would have to stop before he had gone the round of courses that there were a greater variety then on the table fifty years ago. The following is a list of those who gave presents:

A. W. Kinney and wife, Ypsilanti, gold head cane and silk tie.

D. W. Loree and wife, Samuel Barlow and wife, W. R. Wilson and wife, Horace Eaton and wife, gold head cane.

Saml. Rappleye and wife, gold pen, pencil and holder and gold thimble.

Chauncey Dibble and wife silver mounted fruit dish.

Oscar Eaton and wife, Bryan [illegible] gold lined silver cake dish.

Mrs. C. Miller, Jasper Michigan, pair of China cups and saucers.

J. B. Patterson and wife, D. Harrison and wife, C. Underwood and wife, Geo. Pocklington and wife, E. P. Waring and wife silver mounted berry dish.

B. F. DePuy and wife, gold lined sugar spoon.

F. Gould and wife, Lima Center, Wis., two gold dollars.

Mrs. A. Southworth, of painting.

Wm. Montague and wife, gold dollar.

Geo. Sisson and wife, wall pocket.

Mrs. E. F. Roots, autograph album.

Webster and Parnell DePuy, pair of gold cuff buttons and gold collar button.

E. J. McIntyre, gold watch [illegible]

Mary Smith, mustard [illegible]

L. L. Lowe and wife, Mrs. J. J. Lowe, W. Barlow and wife, set napkin rings.

J. L. McIntyre and wife, Ed. DePuy and wife, set gold lined tea spoons.

L. L. Lowe and wife, gold lined [illegible] vertica set, three pieces.

L. L. Lowe and wife, two rocking chairs.

Charles Lowe, pair gold lined goblets.

Mrs. Peter Sharp, gold dollar.

The following accompanied the gift of the same Justus:

[illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible]

THE TECUMSEH HERALD.

Issued Every Thursday Morning

BY S. C. STACY.

Office in the New Herald Building, one door East of the Opera House, Tecumseh, Mich.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

One year, cash in advance	$1 50
Six months	75
Four months	50

Twenty five cents will be added to the subscription price for every three months that payment is delayed.

ADVERTISING RATES.

Business notices, five cents a line for each insertion.

Special notices, fifty cents an inch for each insertion.

Rates on general advertising or term contracts made known at the publishing room.

Entered at the postoffice at Tecumseh, Michigan.

MY TARIFF VIEW.

[illegible]

SENATOR THURMAN ON CLEVELAND.

Allen G. Thurman who has been stopping about two months in the East submitted to an interview last week which was published. The Old Roman always talks good hard sense and his words in this interview are no exception to the general rule.

"Mr. Thurman, do you think that the resolution indorsing Mr. Cleveland is a fair expression of Democratic opinion in Ohio?"

"I do. I think Mr. Cleveland is popular in Ohio. I think he is popular throughout the country."

"To what do you attribute his popularity?"

"The man's undoubted honesty and his undoubted courage. The American people like a brave man and an honest man. Everybody must admit that Mr. Cleveland is both."

"You think that his administration has been successful?"

"He has done wonderful well and has made very few blunders. Of course he has made blunders, but considering his position, very few."

"Do you think he is stronger now than he was in 1884?"

"Yes. I think that there is very little opposition to his renomination for the presidency. He would be a hard man to beat if renominated."

"Suppose Mr. Blaine was his opponent. Do you think Mr. Cleveland would be elected?"

"I certainly think he would beat Mr. Blaine again."

"By a larger majority than before?"

"I am not a prophet."

"No, but what is your opinion from the present outlook?"

"I think he would be elected if he ran against Mr. Blaine."

"How about Mr. Sherman?"

"He would beat Mr. Sherman. Mr. Cleveland is the strongest man that could be nominated."

"The strongest man in the Democratic party?"

"That is my judgment. But everything depends to a large extent on how the labor vote will go in New York State next year. The labor men may run a presidential candidate. In such an event no man could predict the result. If they are wise though they won't do it. The labor party may feel that it can do as the abolition party did—go on from small things to great. Its leaders may seek to make it a balance of power.

LIMITS OF HUMAN LIFE.

How It May Be Prolonged Beyond the Average Length—Centenarians.

[illegible] in Ireland it will have been collected by a committee of the British Medical Association. Let us see whether an inquiry into these data suggests anything either as to what are probably the natural limits of human life or as to the means by which life may be prolonged beyond its [illegible]

[illegible] the city two centenarians, at present, are of no special interest, showing only that the same weaknesses prevail in about the same degree among them as many men and women of the average sort, between 70 and 80 years old. If only our boy two centenarians could have been examined twenty years ago in these respects the world might have obtained some useful hints. It is worthy of notice, however, that most of them were free from rheumatic and gouty troubles. The only man whose joints were stiff and deformed from such causes stated, in reply to questions as to his capacity and taste for strong drink, "I always drank as much as I could, and I always did." Of course, it will be observed, of "Willie will to water so Willie must" and "Willie would not to water and so Willie drank to his own discomfiture."—Richard A. Proctor in The Cosmopolitan.

Methods of the "Hospital Beat."

The "hospital beat" is an individual we have to keep in the constant lookout for. His business is to impose himself on the hospitals of the different cities, and thus get board and lodging free. The regular beat has no ailment except chronic laziness. We had a good case the other day. A fellow came in all dirty (I mean unwashed) and said he was suffering from a fearful pain in the side, which prevented him from breathing, and, besides, he had a headache. As the fellow's tramping had left him looking debilitated, and no examination of him could be made till he had been washed, he was sent to the City hospital, on the supposition that he had pneumonia. When he came to be stripped for the inevitable bath, $187 were found in his clothes. That ended him, and he was fired.

Then there is a class of those who get into the hospital really suffering, but do their utmost to stay there. Take a man who goes in because of an ulcer on his leg. Under the tonics, good food and clean beds he improves, the ulcer gets smaller and finally closes. Then, if he is worthless, as is often the case, he attempts to prolong his stay in his free quarters. So he deliberately tears the ulcer open again. I have seen such fellows get sand and rub it over the wound till they had opened it again. These geniuses are also promptly boomed. But the crop is always just about as large. For three good meals and a nice place to sleep, all free, some bums will do anything—almost maim themselves, I believe. The beats are the most common in the latter part of September, in October and in the fore part of November. The approaching cold drives them in, and they then get to seeking shelter for the winter.—Dispensary Physician in Globe Democrat.

Peculiar

In the combination, proportion, and preparation of its ingredients, Hood's Sarsaparilla accomplishes cures where other preparations entirely fail. Peculiar in its good name at home, which is a "tower of strength abroad," peculiar in the phenomenal sales it has attained, Hood's Sarsaparilla is the most successful medicine for purifying the blood, giving strength, and creating an appetite.

Saginaw is having a building boom.

A St. Louis man is building a balloon.

Endurance of society People.

A prominent society lady of Washington being asked by the Prince of Wales, "Why is it you people here manifest so little fatigue from dancing, receptions, etc.?" replied, "Why you see, we Americans regain the vitality wasted in these dissipations by using Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic."

COUNTRY VERSUS CITY.

A Rustic Lad on the Sidewalk—A City Boy in the Country.

When the country chap enters on the sidewalks of a city it astonishes him, and at the same moment irritates him to hear [illegible] effect "Hullo, country." He can't for the life of him see what there is in his appearance that suggests that he is from the country. His cowhide boots, his clothes of a hue that suggest the home dye pot, [illegible] of which exhale a past generation of lore, his queer hat and long, unkempt hair do not present themselves to him as being at all odd or out of the way. He does not believe that there is anything in his appearance that is unlike the city chaps. It is simply an unwarranted insult.

"You shet up, gol darn yer," is his reply [illegible]

[illegible] the country lad's ears with chunks of [illegible] pelt him with lumps of [illegible] two, three [illegible] of his coat [illegible] and others [illegible] the market attracts a [illegible] crowd. The city boy [illegible] a stalwart country lad. The country is liable to [illegible] with the strength of a rotten apple, be [illegible] pitted at his age [illegible] through a "course [illegible] variety.

When [illegible] in the manoeuvres of "[illegible]" she made two [illegible] at least appearance, save that she [illegible] in contrast to one a bright yellow and the other a deep black. The former is gentle and harmless; the latter is [illegible] but makes up for it in the [illegible] of a lance that it uses with considerable skill.

It was fun to initiate the city boy into [illegible] in connection with [illegible] assured him that you knew a plant whose juice rubbed on the hands would turn the [illegible] a bee. The country boy rubs his palms with the white juice of the milkweed and then demonstrates its value to his [illegible] visitor. He dances among the bees [illegible] with the yellow caloon, and hastily clutches him in his hand. Then the city boy must try it; milkweed juice is applied, and then the crafty country lad "stears" him against a bee hive. He sits and sups a bee with the pleasant attachment. He grasps it singed, and instantly drops it with a shriek of pain, and convulsively shakes his hand as he twists about in agony.

A nettle bush affords the country lad opportunity to amuse his city visitor. "Grandpa shake that bush there, and you'll hear bees holler." He grasps it, shakes it vigorously, and a moment later it is him "Howlin' like bees stocked." And the bees. To induce the untutored city boy to climb up a bush to get sight of the eggs in a "crow's nest" is a popular method of setting the visitor in communion of with a residence of a tree. In walking the rural woods one would sometimes encounter the young of a well known animal, and which had the appearance of a kitten. To pelt out the "kitten" and induce the city innocent to go and pick it up, was not an uncommon occurrence. I have seen several of these animals thus picked up, but I never saw an instance in which they were held for any great length of time.

Another little diversion in the interests of the visitor from the city was to induce him to go in swimming, and then asking his shirt with that legendary delicacy, "[illegible]." All the country lads, when they go swimming, do turn a sleeve with their shirts. The city lad, following their example would intensify the nature of the application.

The country boy had his revenges.—"Potato" in Chicago Times.

The Rabbits of Australia.

A time will doubtless come when in the life and death struggle between the rabbit and the rabbit, the latter will have to give in. This time, however, will be postponed, we fear, for many years. Meanwhile, Australian rabbits will continue to be a terror to the farm and squatter, as well as a drug in the market. Simultaneously the price of this favorite little quadruped is advancing in every European capital. The rabbit cannot be got for less than nineteen or twenty pence, or more than three shillings a couple in High street, Marylebone, in the Edgeware road, or in the New cut; while in Paris five francs for a couple of "lapins" is deemed a low price. These figures involve a great privation to the lower classes in both capitals. In London rabbit pie is the favorite Sunday dinner in many a humble home, but when the raw material cannot be got for less than one shilling and sevenpence a head the price is regarded as prohibitive. In Paris the "lapin sauté" ranks with the rabbit pie of the British capital, but two francs for a single "lapin" is fatal to his appearance on a poor man's table. Can nothing be done to bring the swarming and devastating legions of Australian rabbits and the "red lane" of English throats together?—London Telegraph.

Scorpions of Southern Mexico.

Mexicans are complaining about the increase of scorpions of late in the southern part of Mexico. They are so numerous that nearly every house is overrun with them. They are within the cracks of the walls, and dart everywhere with inconceivable rapidity, their tails, which hold the sting, are held ready to fly up, with dangerous effect, upon the slightest provocation. The average scorpion is mahogany hued, and about two inches long, but they have been found five inches in length. The small, yellowish variety are considered more dangerous, and their bite is most apprehended at midday. In Durango they are black and so alarmingly numerous—having been allowed to breed for centuries in the deserted mines—that the government offers a reward per heads or rather per tail, to whoever will kill them. Their sting is seldom fatal, but it is more or less severe, according to the state of the system. Victims have been known to remain for days in convulsions, foaming at the mouth, with stomach swelled and dropsy while others do not suffer much more than from a bee sting.—Demorest's Monthly.

It has been officially decided that $1,200 a year is plenty for a Cambridge student to spend.

It is only within the past 500 years that women have danced publicly with men.

Eddie La Rose, aged 8, was drowned at Bay City Sunday evening while bathing.

A Gift for All.

[illegible] it, and thus be convinced of its wonderful curative powers, Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, will be, for a limited time, given away. This offer is not only liberal, but shows unbounded [illegible]

All who suffer from Coughs, Colds, Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, or any affection of Throat, Chest, or Lungs, are especially requested to call and get a Trial Bottle Free. Large Bottles $1, at

C. A. Wright & Co.

WHAT AILS YOU?

Do you feel dull, languid, low-spirited, listless, and not specifically diseased, but feel miserable and uncertain, expectant of evil, or nervous or irritable, easily startled, or disposed to be alone? Have you a bitter, pasty taste in mouth, irregular appetite, dizziness, frequent headaches, tongue coated, bitter or bad

KASKINE
(THE NEW QUININE.)

GIVES
Good Appetite
New Strength
Quiet Nerves
Happy Days
Sweet Sleep.

A POWERFUL TONIC
and the most delicate stomach will bear.
A SPECIFIC FOR MALARIA, RHEUMATISM, NERVOUS PROSTRATION,
And all germ diseases.
THE MOST SCIENTIFIC AND SUCCESSFUL BLOOD PURIFIER. Superior to quinine.
For years I had amb ague intolerably. Wished myself dead a score of times. I never found myself till the bottle that held it, until I took Kaskine. That was a happy day for me. It gave me appetite and strength. I can sleep like a top. I shall by every word of this. Thos. Toole's spring ville, N. Y.
Mr. James Sarborough, Selma, N. C., writes, "I got malaria in the Southern army, and for a dozen years suffered from its debilitating effects. I was terribly run down when I heard of Kaskine, the new quinine. It helped me at once. I gained 9 pounds. Have not had such good health in 20 years."
Mrs. Caroline Asten, Astoria, N. Y., says, "My sister Fran down so rapidly from malaria, that I would faint away sitting in my chair. I heard of Kaskine, the new quinine. Using it few weeks I was well. It caused a general setting up of my nature. I think but for Kaskine, I should now be dead."
Letters from the above persons, giving full details will be sent on application.
Kaskine is pleasant to take and can be used without special medical advice. $1 per bottle.
Sent by mail on receipt of price.
THE KASKINE CO., 32 Warren St., New York

WANTED LADIES TO WORK FOR US at their homes. $7 to $10 per week can be quietly made. No photo painting, no crayoning. For full particulars please address, at once, CRESCENT ART CO., 178a Mth St., Boston, Mas. Box 5170.

HIRES' IMPROVED ROOT BEER
A package, 25c, makes 5 Gallons of a delicious, sparkling, temperance beverage. Strengthens and purifies the blood. Its purity and delicacy commend it to all. Sold by all druggists and storekeepers.

PARKER'S GINGER TONIC
The Best Cure for Coughs, Weak Lungs, Asthma, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Exhaustion, combining the most valuable medicines with the active principles of Ginger, it exerts a curative power over diseases unknown to other remedies. Weak Lungs, Rheumatism, Female Complaints, and the ailments incident to Stomach, Liver, Kidneys and Bowels give way before it. Sold by druggists, or sending the money to the proprietor, who would recover a sick child, will send a bottle free, carriage paid, for $1.00. Ask druggists for it. Hiscox & Co., 165 Williams Street, N.Y.

CURE FOR THE DEAF
PATENT IMPROVED, PERFECTED EAR DRUMS Perfectly Restore the Hearing, and perform the work of the Natural Drum. Always in position, but invisible to others, and comfortable to the wearer. All conversation and even whispers distinctly heard. We refer you to those using them. Send for illustrated book with testimonials. Free. Address F. HISCOX, 853 Broadway, New York. Mention this paper.

DEAFNESS Its causes and a new and successful CURE at your own home by one who was deaf 28 years. Treated by more specialists without benefit. Cured himself in three months, and since cured hundreds of others. Full particulars sent for 20c. No. 14 West 14th St., New York City.

Agric'ltural Implement
DEPOT.
C. A. SLAYTON
is prepared to make lower prices than ever before on first-class farm machinery. My stock is complete, but will only mention a few articles
PLOWS. { SOUTH BEND, BURCH, WIARD, GALE, OLIVER. } Walking.
THE CASSADY AND SOLID COMFORT SULKY PLOWS.
Kalamazoo Spring Tooth Harrow,
"ACME" PULVERIZING HARROWS.
CULTIVATORS { Elwood, New Robbins, Albion, Buckeye.
Buckeye, Superior, Monitor, Keller, } GRAIN DRILLS
KEMP'S MANURE SPREADER.
Studebaker, Jackson and Flint WAGONS.
GREAT BARGAINS IN Carriages and Platform Spring Wagons.
Headquarters for Lime, Cement, Salt, Coal, Oil, Plaster and Plastering Hair, Grain, Flour, Feed, and Field Seeds.
PIANO PORTS
WANT TO SAVE $.
SEND FOR CATALOGUE
HARDMAN PIANO
WAREROOMS, 148 FIFTH AVE., NEW YORK.
HARDMAN, PETERS & CO.
MANUFACTURERS OF THE MOST PERFECT PIANO IN USE.
SEND FOR PRICES.
DETROIT MUSIC CO.
CHARLES BOHZIN, HARRY R. WILLIAMS, DETROIT, MICH.
Catalogue of Sheet Music, Musical Merchandise or Band Instruments, mailed free to any address.

Miles O. Stevens & Co.
PENSIONS! Attorneys. Washington, D. C.
DETROIT, MICHIGAN.

TO ADVERTISE and meet with success requires a knowledge of the nature of newspapers, and a correctly designated advertisement to secure such for those interested. JUDICIOUSLY CONSULT LORD AND THOMAS NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING, CHICAGO, ILLINOIS.

Tecumseh Herald

JESS.

R. HAGGARD,

Author of "King Solomon's Mines" "She" Etc.

Frank Muller made no answer in words. He simply took one step forward, pounced upon his insubordinate follower, and with a single sweep of his athletic frame sent him flying headlong through the door, so that the last man fell sprawling, laughing as he went, on the pavement, massaging his head and considerably damaging his best feature—his nose. "There," said Muller, shutting the door after him, "that is the only way to deal with a fellow like that. And now, let me bid you good day, Miss Jess," and he extended his hand, which Jess took, rather coldly it must be owned.

"It has given me great pleasure to be able to do you this little service," he added, politely. "I had considerable difficulty in getting the pass from the general—indeed, I was obliged to urge my personal services before he would give it to me. But, never mind that, I did get it, as you know, and it will be my care to escort you safely to Moodfontein."

Jess bowed; and Muller turned to John, who had risen from his chair and was standing some two paces from him, and addressed him:

"Capt. Ned," he said, "you and I have had some differences in the past. I hope that the service I am doing you will prove that I, for one, bear no malice. I will go further. As I told you before, I was to blame in that affair in the inn yard at Wakkerstroom. Let us shake hands and end what we cannot mend," and he stepped forward and extended his hand.

Jess turned to see what would happen. She knew the whole story, and hoped he would not take the man's hand; then, remembering their position, she hoped he would.

John turned color a little, and then deliberately drew himself up and put his hand behind his back.

"I am very sorry, Mr. Muller," he said, "but even in our present position I cannot shake hands with you; you well know why."

Jess saw a flush of the furious passion, which was his weak point, spread itself over the boer's face.

"I do not know, Capt. Ned. Be so good as to explain."

"Very well, I will," said John, calmly. "You tried to assassinate me."

"What do you mean?" thundered Muller.

"What I say. You shot at me twice under pretense of firing at a buck. Look here!—and he took up his soft black hat, which he still had—'there is the mark of one of your bullets.' I did not know about it then; I do now, and I decline to shake hands with you."

By this time Muller's fury had got the better of him. "You shall answer for that, you English liar!" he said, at the same time clapping his hand to his belt, in which his hunting knife was placed. This for a few seconds he stood face to face, John never flinched or moved. There he stood, quiet and strong as some old stubby tree, his plain, honest eye and watchful eye affording a strange contrast to the beautiful but demoniac face of the great Dutch giant. Presently he spoke in measured tones:

THEY STOOD FACE TO FACE.

"I have proved myself a better man than yourself once, Frank Muller, and if necessary I will again, notwithstanding that house of yours. But, in the meantime, I wish to remind you that I have a pass signed by your own general guaranteeing our safety. And now, Mr. Muller," with a flash of the blue eye, "I am ready." The Dutchman drew the knife and then replaced it in its sheath. For a moment he was minded to end the matter there and then, but suddenly remembered, even in his passion, that there was a witness.

"As you will, Mr. Englishman," he said, forgetting his English in his anger; "much good a pass from the queen is likely to do to you. You are in my power now. If I choose to detain you here—there, there!" he added, checking himself, perhaps, by a great effort, as he saw that John was about to speak, and say what would not help matters. Anyhow, there is no doubt that, especially in the presence of a lady, it was very wrong of me to call John a liar. Some day, if we live, we will settle this matter. Now, I will thank you to leave my house."

"Very good, Capt. Ned; and now, if you will order your people to bring our horses, we will be off. We need trouble you no longer than we can help. Good-bye, Miss Jess. I hope that the next time we meet it will be in a more pleasant place than this house of Mr. Muller's. Meanwhile, I shall think of you very often, and I hope that you will think of me sometimes, and remember that I have saved your life twice, and that I am your debtor for a pleasant ride and a good supper."

In another moment he had galloped off on his great black horse, leaving the pair considerably mystified and not a little relieved.

"Well," said John, "at any rate that does not look like foul play, unless, indeed, he has gone on to prepare a warm reception for us."

Jess shrugged her shoulders; she could not make it out, and then they settled themselves down to their long and lonely drive. They had forty odd miles to cover, but the guides, or rather the guard, would only consent to their outspanning once, which they did on the open veldt a little before sunset. At sundown they inspanned again and started across the darkening veldt. The road was in a shocking state, and until the moon got up, which it did about 9 o'clock, the journey was both difficult and dangerous. After that things were a little better; and at last, about 11 o'clock, they got into Heidelberg. The town seemed almost deserted. Evidently the great body of the Boers were at the front and had only left a guard at their seat of government.

"Where are we to outspan?" asked John of the Unicorn, who was jogging on alongside, apparently half asleep.

"At the hotel," was the short reply, and thither they went, and thankful enough they were to get there, and to find, from the lights in the windows, that the people were still up.

Standing at the inn door, holding a light above her head, they found a pleasant looking Englishwoman, who welcomed them heartily.

"Frank Muller was here three hours ago and told me to expect you," she said, "and very glad I am to see an English face again, I can tell you. My name is Gooch. Tell me, is my husband all right in Pretoria? He went up there with his wagon just before the siege began, and I have not heard a word from him since."

"Yes," said John, "he is all right. He was slightly wounded in the shoulder a month ago, but he is quite recovered."

"Oh, thank God!" said the poor woman, beginning to cry; "those devils told me that he was dead, to torment me. I suppose. Come in, miss, do you come too, but supper is ready when you have washed your hands. The boys will see to the horses."

Accordingly they entered, and were made as happy as a good supper, a hearty welcome and comfortable beds could make people in their circumstances.

In the early morning some of their acquaintance sent in a message to say that they were not to start before 10, as the Boers required more rest, so they got several hours more in bed than they had expected, and anybody who has ever been in a jolting pass cart in South Africa can understand what a blessing that was. At 9 they breakfasted, and at the clock struck Ben Marti brought the cars round, and with it came the two boers.

"Well, Mrs. Gooch," said John, "what do we owe?"

"Nothing, Capt. Ned, nothing. If you only knew what a weight you have taken off my mind! Besides, we are quite ruined. The Boers have taken all my husband's cattle and horses, and until last week six of them were quartered on us without paying a farthing, and yours needed to pay."

"Never mind, Mrs. Gooch," said John, cheerfully, "the government will compensate you when this business is over, no doubt."

Mrs. Gooch shook her head prophetically. "Never a farthing do I expect to see," she said. "If only I can get my husband back, and we can escape out of this wicked place with our lives, I shall be thankful. And look here, Capt. Ned, I have put up a basket full of food—bread, meat and hard boiled eggs, and a bottle of three-star brandy. They may be useful to you, and the goodness knows we have plenty of them."

"Thanks, Mrs. Gooch, we will accept your gift with thanks. Now, Jess, jump up, and we will be off."

"Good-bye, Mrs. Gooch," said Jess, as she climbed up beside her lover, and the Unicorn cracked his whip and the cars started on their long journey.

"Good-bye, my dears, and God bless you! I wish you could take me with you."

"Poor woman!" said John, as they drove off, "I wonder what will become of her and her husband. The Boers will be sure to suspect her of having assisted us, and I shouldn't wonder if they shot her husband for a spy."

"Oh, John, how can you talk like that?" said Jess, with a hysterical laugh; "it looks like a bad omen. Look, there is a grave by the road, and the dark shadows between are the ghosts of the buried."

"Nonsense," said John, sharply; "what do you mean by talking such rubbish?"

He was not in the best of humors, and, as he was fond of Jess, he was annoyed that another man was in love with her, and the more so because he was perfectly aware that she was not in the least in love with him. Jess, who was a good girl, but a woman, and therefore a little bit a fool, guessed the reason of his ill-humor, and was secretly pleased at it. She was very fond of John, but she was a woman, and John was her lover, and it is a well-ascertained fact that women like their lovers to be a little jealous of them. So she only laughed at his rebuke, and said, "Well, I suppose it is because I am so nervous. I wonder what we shall see before we get to Pretoria."

"I wonder what we shall see before we get to Pretoria, I mean to know, and I mean to have it out with Muller about his insolence to-morrow morning. Meanwhile, I wonder what he meant by his last remark about our meeting in a more pleasant place than his house. It was weird and extraordinary, that. John's tone attracted his companion's attention to it. She looked and shuddered involuntarily.

"She looks like a devil in hell," she said; "the fire seems to be running all up and down him."

"Well," said John, "he certainly is a devil, but I am sorry to say that he has not yet reached his destination. Here he comes, like a whirlwind."

In another twenty seconds Muller had reined the great black horse on to his haunches alongside of them, and was smiling sweetly and taking off his hat.

"You see I have managed to keep my word," he said. "I can tell you that I had great difficulty in doing so, indeed, I was nearly obliged to give the thing up at the last moment. However, here I am."

"Where are we to outspan to-night?" asked Jess. "At Standerton?"

"No," he said, "I am afraid that is more than I can manage for you, unless you can persuade the English officer there to surrender. What I have arranged is, that we should cross the Vaal at a drift I know about two hours' twelve miles from here, and outspan at a farm on the other side. Do not trouble, I assure you you shall both sleep well to-night," and he smiled a somewhat terrifying smile, Jess thought.

"But how about this drift, Mr. Muller?" said John. "Is it safe? I should have thought that the Vaal would have been in flood after all the rain that we have had."

"The drift is perfectly safe, Capt. Ned. I crossed it myself about two hours ago. I know you have had a lot of rain, but I suppose you do not think that I would guide you to an unsafe drift? and were another boer to offer to speak to the two hours, saying, as he put out, 'Will you test the Kaffir to put the horses in?'"

With a shrug of his shoulders John turned and went off toward Sloth, to help him to drive up the four grays, who were now standing happily together, biting at the flies, that before a storm, bite more sharply than at any other time. The Kaffir horses for mates to the escort were some fifty paces to the left. It was a picturesque enough sight, the group of a dozen men, and dimly seen by the blue lamps, the two Boers, poor old Muller, stiff and weary, and John, slowly collecting horses, Muller slowly following them. At last each man had his horses hitched to another man's horses or animal, and then they set off, Muller, as a compliment, taking the lead. Jess, who had been asleep, woke up and found herself being jolted along in the darkness, and, as she soon found, in the company of a very cross man, who was trying to make up for lost minutes by driving as fast as he could, and who was not in the least inclined to be pacified by her inquiries as to how much longer they were going to be, or how much further it was to Pretoria, or if they would be there before dawn, or anything else.

"Those are the others," said the Valkie, laconically.

"You mean you are the others," said Jess, with a little laugh.

"We understand, mevrouw, but, begging pardon, the matter is a little serious. We have had good reason to be the last people in the world."

"Yah, yah," said the fat Dutchman, in authority. "There are two hundred people coming. Soon as the sun rises we shall be in Pretoria. People who have come from Pretoria say that there are two hundred people coming, and we must be there before they come, for the English are still holding Standerton, so you want to be in Pretoria, and you can't get through Standerton. If you do me, I can get you through, and you know it. Goodbye, good-bye, miss. I hope you will get through safely. You had better hurry up, though. The sun will be up in an hour, and you are a very bad pair. I hope you have not far to go, for I can see that the wounded man through the hand is very light in the head. Brandewyn, mijnheer, good for the soul, eh? Good-bye, good-bye, I tell you."

John looked grave, as he lifted his sick man out, but at that moment the question of food or drink was the last from that he could start in any parts of the world.

"Have you a journey yet, mevrouw?" he said, as he helped her out. "Not they saw the Boers, Englishmen and Kaffirs up and down the road, and in the lands of the surrounding veldt.

Nothing further occurred till, by the time of their escort, they outspanned, long before sunset, and spent up the hill where a road track turned out of the Standerton road.

CHAPTER XXIII.

IN THE HANDS OF THE VAAL.

Toward dusk they had reached the Vaal, and very glad they were to see it. The road was in a terrible state, and the cattle had been all night and all day on the trek, and were fairly done up. As for the Kaffirs, they had been on their feet for twenty-four hours

Tecumseh Herald

TECUMSEH, MICH., JULY 26, 1888.

THE G. A. R. ENCAMPMENT

The fourth annual encampment of the G. A. R. Association of Southeastern Michigan will be held at Adrian, commencing on Tuesday, Aug. 30th, and closing on Friday, Sept. 2d. Half fare on all the railroads and excursion trains on all roads entering Adrian.

Camp Woodbury will be furnished with tents and straw for all Grand Army men, free of charge, each one will furnish himself with blankets and other equipage. The association will see that meals are furnished comrades and their families at very low rates.

All Honorably Discharged Union Veterans, Sons of Veterans within the district are eligible to membership in the association. Each comrade upon registering and payment of the annual dues of 25cts. will be furnished with the badge of the association, which will be his pass to vote at the meetings of the Association. The teams of members of the Association will be admitted to the grounds free of charge. A limited number of teams driven or owned by members will be admitted upon the payment of 25cts. each.

Below is the daily program of exercises:

TUESDAY, AUGUST 30th.

Reunion of G. A. R. Posts, Veterans, W. R. Corps, Sons of Veterans. Registration and assignment to quarters. Dress Parade at 5 P. M.

WEDNESDAY, AUG. 31st.

Reveille at daybreak. Salute at sunrise. Sick Call at 8 A. M. Guard mounting at 9 A. M. Reunion of Regiments, Companies, Batteries, Etc. Dress Parade at 5 P. M. Artillery Salute at sunset. Camp Fires in the evening. Taps at 9 P. M.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 1st.

Reveille at daybreak. Artillery Salute at sunrise. Breakfast at 7 A. M. Sick Call at 8 A. M. Guard mounting at 9 A. M. Artillery and Grand Military Parade by the Grand Army Posts, Sons of Veterans, Cavalry, Officers and Uniformed Civic Societies to be reviewed by Gen. Phil Sheridan, Gov. Luce and Staff, Senators Palmer and Stockbridge, Gen. R. H. Jackson, Ex-Governor Alger, Col. Hill and visiting soldiers of other States. Dinner at 12 M. At 2 P. M. Welcome Address by Mayor A. J. Sawyer. Response by the President. Address by Hon. Byron M. Cutcheon of the Congressional District. Following speeches by Gen. Phil Sheridan, Governor Luce, Ex-Governor Alger, Senator Thomas W. Palmer, Senator Francis B. Stockbridge, Ex-Governor Alger, Col. N. B. Eldridge, Hon. James O'Donnell, Hon. E. P. Allen, Lieut. L. H. Salsbury, Col. L. G. Rutherford, Department Commander, Judge A. P. Morse and others. Supper at 6 P. M. Dress Parade at 7 P. M. Salute at sunset. Lighting Camp Fires in the evening. Tattoo at 9 P. M. Taps at 11 P. M.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 2nd.

Reveille at daybreak. Artillery Salute at sunrise. Breakfast at 7 A. M. Sick Call at 8 A. M. Guard Mounting at 9 A. M. Business meeting of Association at 10 A. M. Dinner 12 M. Prize Drill 2 P. M. Drum Corps Contest 4 P. M. Followed by awarding of Prizes. Strike tents. Break camp.

Following is a list of prizes to be awarded during encampment:

FIRST.

For the best uniformed and drilled G. A. R. post, of not less than 24 members, exclusive of officers, competing, first prize, $30, second prize, $20, third prize, $20.

SECOND.

For the largest average attendance from any G. A. Post on dress parade of Wednesday and Thursday, Aug. 31st, and Sept. 1st. First prize, $25, second prize, $15.

THIRD.

For the largest percentage of attendance on dress parade on Wednesday and Thursday, from any post, of members in good standing, according to A. A. G. report of June 30. First prize, $15, second prize, $20, third prize, $10.

FOURTH.

To any relief corps in the district that shall register the largest average attendance at the W. R. C. headquarters on 2d and 3d days of encampment. First prize, $25, second prize, $15.

FIFTH.

For the largest percentage of attendance from any camp of sons of veterans, according to membership, on dress parade Wednesday and Thursday. First prize, $25, second prize, $10.

SIXTH.

For best drum corps, in attendance at least two days during the encampment. First prize, $15, second prize, $10.

Woodbury post and Relief corps of Adrian not to compete for second, third or fourth prizes.

Competition confined to territory covered by the association.

OFFICERS OF THE ASSOCIATION.

Capt. B. F. Graves, Prest., Adrian.
Capt. Chas. Manley, V. P., Ann Arbor.
Capt. E. P. Allen, Treas., Ypsilanti.
Geo. F. Smith, Sec., Jonesville.
Geo. G. Harding, Asst. Sec., Jonesville.

OFFICERS OF CAMP.

Gen. Comdg., Capt. Chas. Manley, Ann Arbor.
Lieut. Col. F. D. Newberry, Coldwater.
Major, Capt. C. P. McEnally, Jonesville.
Adjutant, Major Seymour Howell, Adrian.
Surgeon, Dayton Parker, M. D., Russfield.
Asst. Surgeons, Drs. E. R. Kirby, Petersburg, O. P. Bollinger, Adrian.
Chief of artillery, Lieut. H. V. D. Baker, Hillsdale.
Chaplain, Rev. Washington Gardner, Jackson.
Quartermaster, Wm. Jibb, Adrian.
Ogden.
Asst. quartermaster, O. H. Church, Adrian.
Commissary, L. B. Smith, Dundee.

OFFICERS OF THE DAY.

First day, Burton Parker, Monroe.
Third day, Jas. Kelly, Manchester.
Fourth day, S. S. Church, Hudson.

Something About the Bicycle.

You might think that old wheelmen would be very good judges of a wheel, but it does not appear so. Some of the oldest wheelmen are the most bitter against the bicycle. The matter of the risk for particular people, of the sales and accidents are also used a great deal. A bicycle in the action of the legs appears to be similar to the action in walking, it is found that strangers in the village, used for a walking are brought into to pay. You can work these muscles by rising on your toes, but in walking they are not used. The speed attainable on a fair hard road is a ride of four or five hours taking it comfortably and not trying to make a record will average about eight miles an hour. It is a good horse that will keep up that gait. Expert riders can outdrive any horse. That will wear shoes in a twenty four hour harness, but that of course is a feat of endurance. For practical, reasonable travel the bicycle is superior to a horse on good roads and is by no means a plaything or an athletic apparatus. It is a business and pleasure vehicle and ought to be so considered in the road laws.—A. M. K. in Western Newspaper Union.

A Pioneer of Cambridge.

Mrs. Sylvester Walker, for 25 years landlady of the celebrated hotel at the Junction of the Plank Turnpikes, in Cambridge, now a retired boarder in Springville where it has been her home for the last 26 years. On July 1st, this noble lady passed her 90th birthday, for a cheerful recreation on that memorable day, silently and alone had a pleasant walk of over a half mile. It is with many cherished remembrances we write a line of our esteemed friend, the venerable Mrs. Walker, who has been a resident of Cambridge for 50 years. A lady of rare accomplishments, educated in the best seminaries of York State more than 70 years ago. Over forty years past it was our good pleasure, with others, to spend many a cheerful day at Walker's Hotel, long shall we remember Hon. Sylvester Walker, now gone to the silent tomb, also his amiable wife, who ever kept us always treated with friendship and good will, while the pleasant parlors and dining room tables were spread with the choicest viands of those primitive days and not excelled by any hotel west of Detroit. It is with historic admiration we offer this lady of olden times, whose form is erect and retains the cheerful mental friendship of 70 years ago.—F. A. D.

County School Superintendency.

The idea which seems to have obtained throughout the county, that a county superintendent of schools is soon to be elected, proves to be a mistaken idea.

At the last session of the legislature a bill was passed providing for county supervision of schools, but as the senate failed to give the bill immediate effect, the provisions of the act will not become operative until September 26, ninety days from date of its approval by the governor. The annual meeting of the chairmen of the boards of school inspectors, on the first Tuesday of August, for the election of a county examiner, and the joint meeting of the chairmen and examiners, will be held this year as provided by sections 1 and 7, of chapter 12, of the school law, and the three examiners will meet on the fourth Tuesday of August, and elect one of their number secretary, as provided in section 2, of chapter 12. As no part of the new act will have effect before the 26th day of September next, the election of examiner and secretary will be held this year as provided in that old law.

The friends of several gentlemen, who have been actively urging the claims and merits of various candidates in the field, will thus see that they are a trifle premature in the matter.—Adrian Times.

NORTH EAST FRANKLIN.

Everything is suffering for rain.

Gertrude Hampton, of Tecumseh, has been spending a few days in Franklin.

Geo. Knapp and little daughter, of Mt. Pleasant, visited at Smith Munger's last week.

Mr. Lankin's little boy, who was run over by a load of hay, is rapidly recovering from his injuries.

Mr. Hunt of Coldwater, is making a visit among his Franklin relatives. His ninety-first birthday was celebrated Saturday by a family visit at Abi Hunt's.

The temperature was on a rampage again yesterday, the mercury going up to 90° in the shade.

TEMPERANCE COLUMN.

Edited by a Committee of the W. C. T. U.

THE SALOON AND ANARCHY.

[illegible] nations have to fight is the battle against drink. The saloon stands directly across their path to contest every step of advance in the amelioration [illegible]

They claim that in spite of the frequent failure of strikes they have, nevertheless, secured a gradual and general rise of wages. This claim is conceded by Thomas Brassey, M. P., in his book on Work and Wages. Mr. Brassey says: "The aggregate of wages, and by consequence the means of comfort of the working classes, have been greatly increased of late years." Yet he ascribes the main cause of the improvement in the condition of workingmen not to the increase of wages, but to the decrease of poverty. The decrease of poverty has not been commensurate with the increase of wages and the reason is that the saloon has taken the greater part of that increase. With a majority of wage-workers, more wages mean more drink. The habit of spending all they get over and above enough to live in the most squalid comfortless abides with the drinking workingman, so that the five, ten or fifteen per cent increase in wages gained through strikes, or arbitration, or granted by employers on the demand of a labor organization, is often simply so much added to the income of the saloon.

Henry George's celebrated conundrum is, how to explain the increase of poverty side by side with the increase of wealth. A fair statement would be, how to explain the prevalence of poverty in spite of a general increase of wealth and of wages. The saloon explains it. So long as the saloon exists there will be pinching poverty, squalor and wretchedness among the wage-workers, no matter how high their wages.

The saloon is also the chief cause of the discontent, riots, violence and anarchy among working men. They ascribe their discontent to that poverty, and claim that their poverty causes them to drink to drown their sorrows and forget for a little time the wretchedness of their lot. This sentiment is continually reproduced ad nauseam in all their publications, and constitutes the whole of the temperance plank in the national platform of the United Labor Party, recently adopted at Cincinnati. They have in this simply got the cart before the horse. That drink causes four-fifths of the pauperism of this country is a proposition too generally known and conceded to need any parade of statistics in its support. Double a drinking man's wages, and he will still be poor, and the resulting increase in his drinking will hasten his progress to hopeless, helpless drunkenness and to the pauperization of himself and family.

That men impoverished by drink will become discontented, turbulent, dangerous members of society is as certain as that effect follows cause. Here is the source of the anarchism with which many of the best labor organizations have to contend, and which threatens other tragedies like the Chicago Haymarket. Into minds inflamed and diseased by drink anarchist doctrines fall with fructifying power. Men who are suffering from indigence and misery caused by their own excesses are ready to blame society for their condition, and engage in plots for the destruction of the existing order.

Legitimate plans for redressing their grievances at the ballot box or by arbitration are too tame and slow for them. "Down with monopoly!"—which means to the Knights of Labor, and all other healthy labor organizations, the peaceable election of men who will legislate against it—means to the anarchists armed violence, the destruction of property, incendiarism and bloodshed. The continual brewer and feeder of this diabolism is the saloon. In cities every gathering of workingmen is surrounded by a score of these shops for compounding and dispensing poisons which extinguish conscience, stimulate all that is ferocious and brutal in their victims, and impel them to violence and crime. Take away the saloon, and anarchism will have no following among our foreign born population, and we should have little to apprehend from foreigners but for the saloon. George Frederic Parsons says:

"The saloon unites these unfit citizens, gives them a focus, and helps to develop the socialistic, or anarchistic sentiments which they imbibed in Europe. The saloon, which poisons the minds of the poor with the same drugged liquors which destroy their bodies, prepares them for hostility to the law, by encouraging them to believe that every whisky-muddled loafer is somehow entitled, without work, to a competence at the hands of society, and that the men whose brains and industry have put them above want, or earned them abundance are somehow the enemies of the poor."

The only way for labor organizations to get rid of anarchism, which is producing violent factions among them, depriving them of the confidence of the public and impairing their power to benefit workingmen, is to get rid of the saloon. Until that is done the effort to improve the condition of the poor will be like the labor of Sysiphus. The saloon will drag them back as fast as they are advanced by increase of wages, or by any other method for lessening the hardships of their lot.

The first and most important work for the labor party to do is to organize a crusade against the liquor traffic. The immense number of issues embodied in its platform will prove a rope of sand under the disintegrating power of the saloon. The moment it breaks and feeds are certain to increase the factions already existing in the party, and prevent the success of even the necessary reforms which it advocates. The history of other parties shows that the saloon is too big a load for any party to carry. We see no hope for any considerable improvement in the condition of the wage-working classes except through the abolition of the drink traffic.

THE SUMMER INSTITUTE.

The State Teachers' Institute for Lenawee County will be held at Adrian, commencing at 10 o'clock A. M., Monday, August 6, and closing at 4 P. M. Friday, August 17. Mr. A. E. Curtis, Adrian, Local Committee.

The value of the instruction received at these Institutes is being very generally recognized by teachers and officers. As a rule, it has been the experience of County Examiners and other examining officers, that the most successful teachers are those who have availed themselves of the normal instruction offered by these Local Institutes.

The daily sessions of the Institutes for this year will, as heretofore, be devoted exclusively to topics of special interest to teachers, presented by persons of extended practical experience as teachers, and who have made a special study of Institute work. The evening lectures will be of a popular character.

The Institute law allows teachers, whose schools are in session at the time appointed for the County Institute, held under the direction of the State Superintendent, to close their schools during the continuance of such Institute without forfeiting their wages for as many half-days as they are in attendance at the Institute. This provision of the law, and the fact that there will be no tuition or enrollment fee exacted, should insure the attendance of every teacher in the county who possesses the true professional spirit.

Full particulars in regard to board, etc., may be obtained upon application to the local committee.

THE OLD AND NEW. Long ago the old lumbering stage-coach was suspended by the railroads and now electricity bids fair to displace steam. So the world moves. The old doctors bled and blistered for almost every disease. Later on, calomel became the universal remedy. At the present day, an alterative is demanded, and everybody is using Ayer's Sarsaparilla, that being the best of the kind, and almost a catholicon in the range of its curative properties. This medicine came to stay.

Don't trifle with any Threat or Lung Disease. If you have a Cough or Cold, or the children are threatened with Croup or Whooping-Cough, use Acker's English Remedy and prevent further trouble. It is a positive cure, and we guarantee it. Price 10 and 50c. C. A. Wright & Co., Druggists.

Vincent J. Scott, a well known ex-banker of Detroit, died on Monday.

That we are daily guaranteeing Kemp's Sarsaparilla to the people. After taking three-fourths of a bottle without relief, we will refund the money. It is the greatest and best remedy in the market for cleansing the blood and giving you a new lease of life. A well known business man informs us he has gained 8 pounds on two bottles of this Sarsaparilla. Price 1.00. For sale by Baker & Hall.

FULL WEIGHT PURE
DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER
MOST PERFECT MADE
Used by the United States Government. Endorsed by the heads of the Great Universities as the Strongest, Purest, and most Healthful. Dr. Price's the only Baking Powder that does not contain Ammonia, Lime or Alum. Sold only in cans. DR. PRICE BAKING POWDER CO. NEW YORK. CHICAGO. ST. LOUIS.

EVERYTHING
EVERYTHING
EVERYTHING
AT AND BELOW COST FOR 30 DAYS.

To make room for Fall Stock we will offer extremely low prices until Sept. 1st.

Suits 25 per cent. off.
Pants 25 per cent. off.
Children's Clothing 25 per cent. off.

Everything pertaining to men's wear at correspondingly low prices. Now is the time to procure a winter outfit cheap.

STRONG & McNAIR.

A FREE EXCURSION

FREE EXCURSION

We are selling the
Best English Crockery
Below we give a few prices:

56 piece Tea Set,	$2.75
12 Cups and Saucers,	.60
Wash Bowl and Pitcher,	.65
Toilet Set,	1.90

We have only a few left.

To H. E. Anderson's.

To H. E. ANDERSON'S

Great Bargains
AT
J. S. KINNEY'S!
IN
FURNITURE
OF LATEST STYLES AND BEST WORKMANSHIP.
SUITES of ALL KINDS.
Shades, Carpets, Rollers, etc., at very Low Prices for Cash. I keep a
FULL LINE OF UNDERTAKING
In Wood, Cloth, Metallic Cases, and I have the agency of the new INDESTRUCTABLE MARBLE CASKETS of all kinds, very fine. Undertaking in all Branches attended to. PRICES REASONABLE.

TEMPLE, McCLURE & CO.,
Successors to
Wolcott, Temple & Co.,
Wholesale and Retail Dealers in
Lumber, Lath, Shingles, Sash and Doors
AND ALL KINDS OF BUILDING MATERIAL.
Planing, Sawing, Matching to Order.
Mill and Yard North of Railroad Depot.
TECUMSEH, MICHIGAN.

A HANDSOME WEDDING, BIRTHDAY OR HOLIDAY PRESENT.
THE WONDERFUL
LUBURG CHAIR
Combining a Parlor, Library, Smoking, Reclining or Invalid CHAIR, LOUNGE, BED, or COUCH.
Price $7.00 and up. Send stamp for Catalogue.
As SHIPPED to all parts of the world.
CHILDREN'S CARRIAGES
All furnished with the Automatic Coach Brake, and Detailed at our Wholesale Prices. Send stamp for Catalogue and mention this paper.
50 Varieties.
THE LUBURG MANF'G CO., 145 N. 8th St., Philada., Pa.

ING
OO DAYS. offer extreme-
t.
NAIR.
SION
To H. E. Anderson's.
ON'S
off.
r at correstime to p.
Lains
E ANSHIP.
INDS.
sh. I keep a
KING
INDESTRUCTABLE
all Branches
CO.,
o.,
nd Doors
AL.
o Order.
AN.
PRESENT.
HAIR
ting or Invalid
RIACES
Philada., Pa.

THE TECUMSEH HERALD.

TECUMSEH, MICH., JULY 23, 1887.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

SALE.—I have for sale 60½ acres of ...ber land situated in section one of the ... Parties desiring to buy may ... information enquire of
GEO. PRICE, Tecumseh.

CARDS OF NEW RAG CARPET ... sale. Enquire of
MRS. M. P. BROWN.

... Having decided to move ... are indebted to me if they will call at ...bridge's law office and make a settlement as soon as possible.
R. S. HOUSE.

GOOD CHANCE.—Owing to the continued sickness of my mother, I am compelled to sell my confectionery, ice cream and ... and return east. It is ... to see for themselves what a ... cash or give time on part payment.
F. G. HAWSON.

CIDER VINEGAR.—I have a ... of pure cider vinegar for sale.
ARNOLD WILSON.

SALE.—A desirable residence corner ... and Shawmucons. Enquire on the ...
P. C. TEMPLE.

FOR SALE.—The property opposite the ... now used as a saloon and ... and is the house and lot next north ... furniture factory. The title to the ... is right, and terms and payments ... to suit purchaser. For particulars ...
HERALD OFFICE.

STRAYED OR STOLEN.—A red heifer ... pasture in Raisin, about ... weighing to its resembled.
GEO. HOLLOWAY.

TAX NOTICE.—I will be at the ... on Friday of each week to ... taxes during the month of July, ... thereafter 1% interest will be added ... of two per cent. Date ...
THOS. KYLE, Village Marshall.

SAND LAKE.—E. L. Wells will run a ... between Pentacost Crossing, Sand Lake and the Sand Lake house, to meet ... train on the C. J. & M. road every ... Tuesday and Saturday. Parties wishing ... at the crossing at any other time ... word to that effect to
E. L. WELLS,
Pentacost Crossing, Mich.

SALE.—I offer my place for sale cheap, ... west of Abner Wilson's farm on ... pike, in Tecumseh, 100 house ... acres of land. For price, ... call on Abner Wilson or on the undersigned on the premises. Household goods ... sold.
WILLIAM SMITH.

STRAY.—In the township of Franklin, or Tecumseh, a pocket book, on the 4th of July ... about $4. The finder will be rewarded by returning same to
PHILO MILLS, Clinton, Mich.

SAND LAKE.—I will run a carriage ... to Sand Lake on Thursday, Thursday and Saturday,
... of each week until further notice. ... cents for the round trip. Parties wishing ... called for at their residence ... at the postoffice.
ASA HOWE.

CULTIVATOR SCUFFLERS.—An indispensable ... farmers and gardeners for attaching ... cultivators. Made from best ... and warranted to work.
W. P. DEMING, Tecumseh, Mich.

WANTED.—One agent in each of the following counties, viz.: Hillsdale, Monroe, ... Lenawee, to sell my Spring Bed ... Best bed made. Covered ... Exclusive sale to Agent. For ...
J. S. KINNEY, Tecumseh.

A MAGNIFICENT BARN.

On Friday last week we had occasion to drive over to Washington's Corners on business, and went by way of Isaac Schreder's. Long before reaching the place we saw his new barn towering up in the distance and upon arriving at his house, we concluded to stop and make a tour of inspection. We found Mr. Schreder at home and ready to show us around.

The structure is 32x70 feet in size, ... feet posts and a basement ... beneath the whole with 8½ ... A broad drive way passes ... the center of the barn with ... on each side. On the east ... located the granery which is 16 ... in size, made with matched ... and divided off into bins capacious ... several hundred bushels ... There will be two rows of ... in the basement and a large ... located between them. ... are arranged at each end ... basement, running through ... and having double doors at ... ends thereof. The building rests ... substantial stone foundation, is ... throughout of the best ... material. It is painted a dark red ... white trimmings. In each gable ... a large circular window which ... opened and closed by means of ... extending over pulleys down ... barn floor. All the doors are ... with nickel rollers. There are ... windows in the basement and ... in each of the doors on the main ... The work was all done and material furnished by E. J. Semark, except that Mr. Schreder furnished the ... for the foundation and did the ... team work to place the material ... the ground. The old barns ... burned on the 6th of April. Two ... thereafter the loss was adjusted ... paid within a week. The ... of the new barn was built ... the carpenters began work ... 6th of June and upon the 20th ... after just 16½ days work upon ... the barn was finished ready for ... Mr. Schreder put on ... and a full supply of John ... lightning rods. The contract ... to Mr. Semark was $1025. ... well pleased with the prompt ... manlike manner in which ... contractor did the work, and freely ... an unsolicited recommend. ... thing a barn built will hit ... in giving Semark the job.

... was home over Sunday.

... Monaghan returned home to ... Judge Stacy's, Thursday ... Vineyard, where she ... the summer with a ... since graduating from ... of the Boston Conservatory ... return to the Conservatory ... September.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

The pay car went over the Branch last Tuesday.

Mr. Gainsley settled his loss by the fire with the insurance company for $75.

Joe Sage, of Macon, is selling lots of his washing machines in this section of the county.

Misses Ella and Belle Hoppe, of Jackson, are spending about four weeks with the family of L. L. Bates.

J. D. Arner of Ridgeway, was in town this morning on his way to Ionia for a short visit, until Monday next.

The O. & M. Coal & Mfg. Co. have an immense quantity of shavings which they will give away. Everybody come Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. N. Stacy, of Elgin, Illinois, are spending this week with Tecumseh friends. They will visit Detroit and thence to Mackinaw on their return next week.

Fred Rosacrans has lately purchased an elegant new double rig of J. R. Hialey. It is a side bar with late style top, and one of the nicest carriages Mr. Hialey ever sent out of his shop.

Kies Bros. have decided to move their clothing store to Elkhart, Ind., the first of September. Mr. George Kies was in that city last week and made the necessary arrangements for transfer.

After passing a pleasant week at his old home, William Stocking returned to his business duties last Monday. He is in the employ of Defendorf & Armstrong, a large manufacturing firm of Findlay Ohio.

John B. Garlinghouse returned home from Ypsilanti last Saturday where he has been taking medical treatment for the past two months. He was greatly benefitted and his ultimate recovery seems to be assured.

Geo. W. Knapp and family, of Mt. Pleasant are out for a two week's visit among Tecumseh and Franklin friends. Geo. accompanies the Tecumseh band to the Knights Templar encampment at Devil's lake this week.

The O. & M. Coal & Mfg. Co. are placing several new machines in their factory this week. They have also put in a set of Howe platform scales immediately west of their office building which will be a great convenience.

H. L. McNair returned to Washington last Saturday and was accompanied by Mrs. Thomas Miller, both of whom board at the same place in Washington. They improved their three week's respite at home to the best advantage.

Mrs. O. B. DeWolf gave a free entertainment at her home last Saturday evening which was enjoyed by a large number of visitors. Her night blooming cereus unfolded three buds at once that evening, all of which were magnificent flowers.

The lawn festival at James Heck's given by the young people of the Baptist church last Thursday evening was largely attended and proved to be a most enjoyable occasion, as it was a fine evening for such an entertainment, while the location and arrangements were all that could be desired.

John Heesen has his steamer in the dry dock for repairs. He is remodeling the engine and painting the boat over. The changes in the engine, he expects, will increase the speed very much. The boat will be launched some day this week on the Globe pond for trial.

Jas. M. Jones left last Saturday for New York to take a course of lessons in a cutting school. He will be gone about two weeks and upon his return will open his new merchant tailoring establishment in connection with Mr. Jno. Hazlitt. Their stock of goods has been purchased, and they expect to open about the 10th of August.

We understand that our esteemed friend, Sam Wilson, of Franklin, has been trying to discount Lou O'Mealey in his favorite role. Joe Keeney and Mr. Wilson were visiting at LeRoy Mill's in Adrian last week and Mr. Wilson drove Joe's horse home by mistake. Owing to Sam's age and infirmity, the officers will likely let him off on suspended sentence.

The 18th Regiment contains a good many Democratic veterans, but we are happy to state that there are no cranks among them who will attempt to kick up a row because a Republican governor has been invited to attend their reunion. Gov. Luce will be one of our guests on that occasion and will be treated with the respect due to his official station.

Since the Chicago & Minneapolis lumber journals came out with the statement that A. W. Slayton is the Basswood Lumber King of Michigan, the President of a large corporation with head quarters in N. Y. city has written us offering to sell him 167,000 acres of timber lands. We have advised him to buy the whole shooting match and give his note for it. That's what we would do.

Harry Snell stopped over one train Monday.

Ed. Baird and wife, of Dayton, Ohio, paid Tecumseh a flying visit yesterday.

S. M. Mitchell, of the Ionia Sentinel, is the guest of LaVern Wheeler this week.

Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Perry started for Cassoy Tuesday for a few weeks vacation.

The masons began laying brick on Williamson's new refrigerator building last Monday.

A Sunday School excursion will go from Ridgeway to Devil's Lake next week Wednesday.

Henry McClure is improving daily and will soon be able to attend to his business duties again.

E. C. Coryell and wife left this noon for Petoskey, where they expect to remain through the meetings about three weeks.

During the illness of Henry McClure, Sam Brangan, manager of the Britton store, is spending a portion of his time at Tecumseh.

A large number of Tecumseh people went to Detroit last Tuesday on the excursion. The train consisted of six coaches.

Will Baker came home last week considerable "under the weather," but was able to return to his duties in Detroit Tuesday.

We were misinformed last week in regard to Landlord Mertz dog being shot, as the canine is now alive and kicking, with a muzzle on.

Ed. Williamson's egg store was connected with the telephone exchange this week, and parties may now hold converse with Ed. at a distance.

The City Band left this morning with a full complement of men to attend the K. T. encampment at Devils Lake. They will be there four days.

Aaron Aten's condition became so dangerous for the past few weeks that it became necessary to take him to Kalamazoo to the asylum. He was taken there last Monday.

Prof. A. W. Burnett, of Ann Arbor, is spending his vacation beneath the parental roof here in Tecumseh. We are glad to know that Arthur is well pleased with his present situation in the University and is prospering.

The Tecumseh base ballclub 2d. nine and the Manchester 2d. nine struggled for victory over each other yesterday afternoon, and of course the Tecumseh nine came out second best. The score was 30 to 2 in favor of Manchester.

A late number of the Pratt County Register, published at Pratt, Kansas, says:

"Whiting and Hanford, the cigar makers have moved into their new quarters east of the Times block. These gentlemen are doing a large business, and it has been difficult for them heretofore to fill orders. They now have more room and expect to be able to fill orders promptly."

MORENCI, July 26.—Yesterday, about noon, as Mrs. Peleg Bailey, and daughter were returning to their home about four miles northwest of the village, their horse became frightened, and commenced running. On approaching the barn he whirled to one side, upsetting the carriage, and throwing both ladies out, injuring the elder so badly that she died last night at 6:30 o'clock. She was 70 years of age, and had been an active, vigorous person. The funeral will occur at the homestead on Thursday.—Adrian Times.

The Semi-annual election of the Myrtle Club society of the Universalist church elected the following officers last week Thursday evening:

President—Louise Brown.
Vice Pres.—Jno. O'Neil.
2nd Vice Pres.—Eva Humphrey.
Secretary—Fannie Prichard.
Asst. Sec'y.—Geo. Quackenbush.
Finance Committee—Lydia McNeil, Frank Hyde, C. C. Monaghan.
Treasurer—Mrs. J. M. Getchell.
Marshal—J. W. Wooden.
Asst. Marshal—Maude Hodges.

Meeting adjourned until the first Thursday in Sept.

Quite a number of Tecumseh people attended the Ridgeway W. C. T. U. lawn festival, on last Monday evening at Samuel Barlow's. The musical program arranged by Miss Belle Barlow was one of superior merit, and the Britton band furnished some fine out door music. Miss Mabel Hayden rendered valuable aid with her violin. The ladies quartette was composed of Mrs. Warren Jones, Mrs. R. S. Houseman and Misses Ella Hall and Belle Barlow, and their three vocal selections were beyond criticism. It recalled the "good old times" to many present to hear the beautiful voices of Mrs. Jones and Miss Hall in unison, while the singing of Mrs. Houseman and Miss Barlow made a fine addition to the Hall duet of "ye olden time." The crowd was so much beyond expectations that the W. C. T. U. ladies had their hands full to entertain them, but the task was most creditably performed. In behalf of the Tecumseh people present we feel that our thanks are due the Ridgeway W. C. T. U. for their hospitality and unwearied efforts to accommodate all. The gift of $25 to Miss Belle Barlow was a fitting close to a most enjoyable evening's entertainment.

H. M. Temple went to Toledo on business Tuesday.

Moses Bartlett, of Clinton, was in town last Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. LaVern Wheeler were at Adrian yesterday.

Levi Hayden took a trip to Hudson last week on his bicycle.

[illegible] to Frank P. Dickie, of Marshall.

May Hunt, of Manchester, was the guest of the Misses Heesen a couple of days last week.

J. A. Munger is at work at present for [illegible] Adrian, [illegible] field harness shop.

Regular communication of Tecumseh Lodge No. 60 F. & A. M. tomorrow (Friday) evening.

Ladies, do not forget that Mrs. M. A. Freeman would like to have accounts settled immediately.

A new Singer sewing machine can be bought cheap for cash. Call at the HERALD office and examine it.

Miss Allie Satterthwaite entertained a party of friends at a progressive croquet party Saturday evening.

Mrs. Hayden has recovered from her recent illness sufficiently to be moved to their cottage at Sand Lake.

Miss Thompson has returned from her vacation and will be ready for dressmaking at Mrs. W. Richard's house.

On July 27th F. A. Dewey and wife, of Cambridge, intend to take a pleasant ride with horses and carriage by the over land route to VanBuren Co.

Asa Howe's stage was put to good use last Monday evening, to convey a load of the Tecumseh W. C. T. U. ladies down to the lawn festival at Samuel Barlow's.

Marshal Kyle shot a yellow cur on Chicago street last Saturday which evidently had no owner, and no muzzle either. Tecumseh could well spare dozens of the same kind.

Company C, engaged in a very creditable dress parade on military square Tuesday night, and went through the evolutions with creditable exactness. The city band furnished the music.

E. V. DePuy is now located at Beatrice, Neb. In a private letter he says: "We look for the HERALD as much as sun rise. Plenty of rain here, good crops and a fine country."

The C. J. & M. will run an excursion to Devil's lake next Sunday at the usual time. The Adrian K. T. will be in camp on that day and many will doubtless avail themselves of the opportunity of visiting the lake.

Seventeen members of the Toledo bicycle club came up on the M. & O. excursion train last Sunday, got off at this station and then cycled over to Adrian. After taking dinner there they proceeded on to Sand Lake in company with some of the Adrian wheelmen.

The Commercial Telegraph Co. will hold its 3d annual picnic at Putnam's landing Sand Lake, on Friday, Aug. 5th 1887. Come all operators and bring your friends the more the merrier. No matter if you are not a telegraph operator, if you operate anything you are invited. This includes operators on sewing machines, and dish pans, on pitch forks and mule teams; on yard sticks and slippers.

John W. Cook has returned home form Wichita Kan., and has concluded to remain in old Tecumseh permanently. He will build a new barn on his place and make other improvements, in all to the amount of $1000. And he will lay brick for all who want his services as cheap as ever.

Miss Hannah Heesen is spending a few weeks with friends at St. Thomas, Ontaria. She was on the excursion train that met with the awful accident last week, and was occupying a seat in the coach that got wrecked. Although nearly every passenger in the coach was either killed or injured, she escaped without a scratch. She likely has no desire, however, to repeat the experiment.

No one need remain ignorant of the strange of interesting flowers that may be found during summer rambles in the fields and woods, for Mr. E. E. Sterns, 23 Union Square, New York, offers to furnish, without charge, the scientific and popular names of any plant in flower or fern that may be sent to him. It is a pity that some expert in entomology does not make a similar obliging offer as to the butterflies, beetles and other insects that often arouse the curiosity of those who find them.

At a meeting of the Tecumseh fire department held at the council building last evening, the following officers were elected. Hose Co. No. 2, which has been disbanded for the past several weeks will be reorganized from the department.

President—Will H. Hayden.
Vice Pres.—Thos. Elliott.
Sec.—D. T. Hall.
Financial Sec.—Geo. Heesen.
Treasurer—Fred. Rosacrans.
Chief—S. W. Bordine.
1st Asst.—B. P. Anderson.
2d " —S. P. Hosmer.
Engineer—H. F. Stout.
Fireman—Wm. Chiverall.
2d " —Jas. Owens.

First car building is to be established at Saginaw, to employ 75 men.

CLIPPINGS AND CONDENSATIONS.

A large Adrian party is now sojourning at Grand Lake.

All the huckleberry marshes yield a bountiful crop this year.

Supervisor Corbet, of Blissfield, is taking a vacation at Petoskey.

[illegible] bieved of $50 in cash and a watch by some sharpers one day last week.

The correct date for the reunion of the 18th Regiment at Tecumseh, is Friday, Aug. 26th. Some papers have it [illegible]

The M. C. R. R. baggage [illegible] passenger cars will display, from their sides the four weather service flag signals. The indications are furnished by the State department of the signal service bureau.

During the month of June the Star Creamery Co. of this place, paid out for cream over $1,700 and for help nearly $900, making a total of over $2,000 put in circulation by them in one month.—Brooklyn Exponent.

Morenci's fair date has been fixed for four days, commencing Oct. 4th. The managers expect to have Prof. Hogan there with his agricultural balloon, for the benefit of the farming community who are desirous of raising air crops.

Ad. Kidder, a veteran of the Mexican war, has been granted a pension. Be it not forgotten that the act granting pensions to soldiers of the Mexican War war was a Democratic measure, introduced by our worthy ex-Congressman, Col. N. B. Eldredge.—Hudson Gazette.

To excite the envy of his neighbors a farmer near the east town line carried bundles of wheat from the rear of the field to the front to make his shocks look as if the yield had been enormous. Dell Smead says it was Clem Hall, and Clem says it was Dell.—Blissfield Advance.

The citizens of Ogden station were somewhat excited by the appearance of a rabid dog last week. It bit nearly all of the dogs in town at the station, but luckily no persons were bitten. It was pursued and killed, and since nearly all the dogs that were bitten have shared the same fate, some of them being valued as high as $100.

The young ladies of Medina are collecting 1,000 dimes to beautify the interior of the Baptist church, and the dime novel victim in that section is no longer understood to be the small boy who wants to be an Indian. It now means the young man who didn't see the girls in time to get over the fence with his dime.—Detroit News.

Sheriff Wintemore and deputy Teachout spent a few hours here yesterday, and in the afternoon accompanied some of our shooters to the Seneca shooting ground, where a trial of skill with the gun took place between the Adrian and Seneca clubs, a report of which will be published next week. By the way, our genial sheriff possesses one of the finest guns we have ever seen, and it is said that he handles it most cleverly.—Morenci Observer.

There are thousands of people in this state who ought to read section 1,499, Howell's compilation of the statutes of Michigan. It runs as follows:

Every overseer shall cause the obnoxious weeds within his district to be cut down and destroyed twice in one year, once before the first day of July, and again before the first day of September, and the requisite work shall be considered highway work. Any overseer who shall refuse or neglect to perform the duties required by this section shall be liable to a penalty of twenty-five dollars.

Fred Irish is the 14-year old son of Mart Irish, the village blacksmith, of Deerfield. Thursday he was loading a revolver, and, finding the cartridges too large, he took the chamber from the revolver, and essayed to push them in with his teeth. The cartridges stood this, but when he proceeded to pound them in with a hammer they rebelled. The chamber of the revolver is a total loss, but Fred saved one of the balls, catching it in his leg, and he has got it yet.—Adrian Times.

At Higgins lake, Roscommon county, yesterday, Mrs. Charles H. Pettit and her little daughter, aged three years, were boating when the little one, while gleefully capering about, sprang into the water. The mother, in her anxiety and fright, then upset the boat, and as they were alone the chances were excellent for a double funeral. Indeed such would have been the case had not their horse, an intelligent French pony, which had been turned loose to graze on the shore of the lake, come to their rescue. Alarmed by the screams of the mother and by the commotion which the two made in the water the brave animal swam boldly out to them and when they had taken a secure hold of its mane struggled back to shore, a tired but heroic pony. The animal is inclined to be balky and he never would pull anything but a light load, but it will be cold weather when he isn't a prime favorite after this.—Evening News.

A CARD.

EDITOR TECUMSEH HERALD:

The editorial article published in last week's issue of that immense and magnificent paper, the Clinton Local containing a lying statement in regard to myself which has been the starting point for other lies as usual, call for some kind of refutation, and, therefore I offer the following affidavits:

Did that editorial worry, excitement, profanity, actual sickness and disease from the world-wide notoriety of that immense journal stand out [illegible] have ever been? Have you any [illegible] to prove it?

I would also request to be informed if that wide-awake, large and prolific journal will try hereafter and get in enough of facts when they publish editorials personal articles and not give themselves away by presumption for crime and libel.

Respectfully yours,
D. R. GRIMES.

Attention G. A. R.

HEADQUARTERS BERGER POST No. 140 G. A. R.
TECUMSEH, MICH. July 9, 1887.

SPECIAL ORDER No. 3.

In compliance with circular No. [illegible] from National Headquarters, dated June [illegible] 1887, it is especially urged and desired that all the Comrades of Berger Post be present at the next regular meeting which takes place Aug. 5, 1887, at the usual hour, 7:30 o'clock. Important business to come before the Post to be acted upon at the next meeting. Let there be a full attendance.

By order of CLAY DAVIS,
G. W. MARSDEN, Commander.
Adjutant.

We post Dorrill a brief visit one day last week and while there called on our old Ridgeway friend Jesse Eshelby. He is nicely located about one mile west of the village. He has a farm of 124 acres with good house and barn and good orchard. He was in the midst of his oat harvest last week, which he has forty acres. He is engaging quite extensively in horse and cattle raising, having a herd of horses and colts on his place. He also has 60 hogs now on the farm and about 30 head of cattle. He keeps no sheep, but is giving his attention to breeding horses and cattle. He bought his farm at a cheap figure and is evidently making a good thing of it.

—A correspondent of the Adrian Times says: The first threshing reported in the county so far this season took place on Thursday, last, at J. A. Rogers, who lives at Jennings Junction. He had 2 acres of oats which had been phosphated and sowed to the acre, and to mark it, one had not been treated to the acre. Singularly, too, the phosphated land was inferior in quality to the other.

There is no longer any doubt about its paying to use phosphates. A. Slayton keeps a stock on hand and the increasing demand shows that farmers know the value of it.

Call at Adamson Bros' and see the elegant line of Gorham Mfg. Co's silverware just received.

—Diamonds in Watches, Bracelets, Pins, Earrings and Finger Rings to be had at the mammoth jewelry store of Adamson Bros.

Mrs. N. R. Brown would call attention to her closing out sale of Lake hats. All varieties.

—Don't make a mistake and buy your binding twine before seeing me.
A. Slayton.

Sewing machines—Needles, oil and attachments at
M. P. Brown's Art Gallery.

—For hay rakes, tedders, hay loaders, forks, cars, rope, pulleys, etc. See
C. A. Slayton.

—If you want a first class sewing machine call on Mrs. M. P. Brown and see the New Domestic, The White and The Grand. Prices reasonable and terms easy.

—I will sell you a first class hay rack for five dollars.
C. A. Slayton.

Get the Celebrated Wood binder twine at Whitnack Bordine & Co.

—Call and see the self lighting Crown Jewel gasoline stoves at Whitnack Bordine & Co.

—All Steel frame quick meal gasoline stoves at Whitnack Bordine & Co.

—Large line of double and single harnesses at Whitnack Bordine & Co.

—Planet Jr. Cultivators at Whitnack, Bordine & Co.

—Call at J. S. Kinney's store and see those fine marble, indestructible caskets on exhibition. Also a new spring bed with elevated head rest. The best in the market for invalids. Manufactured by J. S. Kinney.

—If you wish any painting, graining or paper hanging done call on D. Holmes. Good work guaranteed. Terms reasonable. Leave orders at Baker & Hall's or C. A. Wright's, Tecumseh.
D. HOLMES.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

FRANK WOOD, ATTORNEY AT LAW

Mr. Schanson's store, Tecumseh, Mich.

C. S. STACY, Attorney at Law and Solicitor in Chancery. Office in HERALD Block, Tecumseh, Mich.

PHYSICIANS.

[illegible] Tecumseh, Mich.

R. E. ROUSE, M.D., Homœopathic Physician and Surgeon. Office over Hitchcock's Drug and Jewelry Store. Residence corner [illegible]

C. M. WOODWARD, M.D., PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON. Office at Residence, Cor. [illegible]

MISCELLANEOUS

TECUMSEH FOUNDRY AND STEAM ENGINE WORKS [illegible] Proprietors. Mill Gearing and Shafting a specialty. Shop on the Raisin, south side Michigan Avenue.

BANK OF TECUMSEH. [illegible] Money [illegible]

DATE MACHAM, [illegible] Barber and Hair Dresser. Shop [illegible]

JAMES A. CURRY, [illegible] Barber and Hair Dresser. Shop in Hard's block, Chicago St.

JOHN A. WALDRON, Attorney and Surgeon. Collects property situated in other cities. Office at residence, [illegible]

HOTELS.

BURNETT HOUSE, [illegible] This [illegible] Proprietors.

[illegible] MICH. [illegible] Proprietor.

LENAWEE CARRIAGE FACTORY

[illegible] MANUFACTURER OF

Carriages, Buggies,

SURRIES, SPRING WAGONS,

BROADCARTS

SULKIES, CUTTERS, ETC.

M. L. RICE,

ADRIAN, MICHIGAN.

[illegible] High Class Thoroughbreds. Easy Terms. Nothing [illegible] Circulars Free.

W. W. MARSH,

Railroad Street Meat Market!

[illegible] GIVE ME A CALL [illegible]

LADIES TREATMENT FREE.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

[illegible] DRUGGISTS

TO MACKINAC.

SUMMER TOURS.

Fleet Steamers. Low Rates.

DETROIT, MACKINAC ISLAND

[illegible]

DETROIT AND CLEVELAND

[illegible]

J. S. ALLIGOOD, [illegible]

Detroit & Cleveland Steam Nav. Co.

[illegible]

THE PIECE OF BREAD

[illegible] Duke de Hardimont was [illegible] breakfast [illegible] Rochefoucauld.

[illegible] his glass of Chartreuse, and [illegible] down [illegible] orders to pack his valises [illegible] two hours later [illegible] Paris, and [illegible] in a regiment of [illegible]

Now, though the Duke de Hardimont [illegible] of a petit-[illegible] at that time [illegible] 20 to 25, though he had [illegible] his nature in the staples [illegible] and in the boulevards [illegible] there were [illegible] he could not forget [illegible] Hardimont [illegible] day with [illegible] companions under [illegible] Hardimont [illegible] Paris [illegible] was kept while making [illegible] Maison Rouge at Foche [illegible] his acquaintances [illegible] Louis Vachette [illegible] Nantes Paris [illegible] the young duke learned [illegible] the French [illegible] for the [illegible] as if he had [illegible]

[illegible] the early part of [illegible] having [illegible] which [illegible] of the [illegible] Jockey [illegible] part of [illegible] the [illegible] of the [illegible] the [illegible] the [illegible] every [illegible] place at every [illegible] meal was kept [illegible] and key [illegible] the [illegible] the [illegible] the [illegible] every [illegible] a [illegible] of [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] late one—9 Feb [illegible]

[illegible] the duke [illegible] and [illegible] a shadow of [illegible] turn the [illegible] was made.

"And you a[illegible]?" said the soldier.

"Hardimont [illegible]," [illegible] the duke, suppressing his title and [illegible] prefix to his [illegible]

"Jean Victor. I [illegible] recently joined the company. I've just left the ambulance. I was wounded at Chatillon. Ah, it was very pleasant in the ambulance! the nurses [illegible] such good horse-flesh soup. But I had only a scratch, and the major gave me my discharge. So, [illegible] for I shall now [illegible] whether [illegible] to believe it or not, [illegible]

This statement, made to a polyglot who a moment since had been [illegible] with regret the cause of the Gate Anglais, was a terrible one, and the Duke de Hardimont looked at his companion with an astonishment not unmixed with terror. The soldier smiled sorrowfully, disclosing to view his teeth that resembled those of a wolf—the teeth of a man who suffered from hunger habitually, and whose whiteness contrasted strongly with his clay colored complexion. Then, as if comprehending that the duke was waiting for some further disclosure

"Stay," he said, ceasing abruptly to address his companion in the second person, during which time he was a rich and happy man "stay, let us walk a little up and down the road to warm our feet, and I will tell you things such as, I dare say, you have never heard before. My name is Jean Victor—Jean Victor, and nothing more, for I am a foundling, and my only happy recollections are those of my early childhood at the asylum. The bed-clothes on our little beds in the dormitory were always clean and white, we played in a garden under the shade of great trees. There was a good sister there, young and pale as wax. She was dying of consumption—she was my favorite I was, and at whose side I preferred walking up and down to playing with the other children, for she would draw me to her, and lay her thin hand hard on my forehead. But as soon as I was 12 years old, and had taken my first communion, there was nothing then but labor. The director approved me to a great master in the Faubourg Lawques. This is not a trade you understand, it is impossible to gain one's living at it, so that, for the most part, the master could only [illegible] the fees of the blind. From a [illegible] to become his apprentice [illegible] it was that [illegible] from Lunier. The master and assistants [illegible] Union [illegible] who were [illegible] forward and [illegible] the [illegible] of the [illegible] which they gave us a [illegible] meal was kept [illegible] and key [illegible] the [illegible] the [illegible] the [illegible] every [illegible] a [illegible] of [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] pay [illegible] I did not give them [illegible] give me [illegible]

[illegible] shots, rapid and close at hand, broke the [illegible] man was on his feet, the soldiers sallied forth from the inn with cautious footsteps, each man's hand on the trigger of his gun, as he gazed eagerly down the road that lay white in the moonlight.

"But what is the hour, then?" asked [illegible] night.

"Jean Victor went in your place," [illegible] one answered him.

At this moment a soldier was seen running up the road.

"Well!" they cried in questioning accents, when he stopped, out of breath [illegible] also to fall back on the redoubt.

"And our reserves?"

"They are coming—all but that poor Jean Victor!"

"What of him?" cried the duke.

"Killed on the spot by a cannon ball. He had not even time to say 'oh!'"

One night last winter, at about two in the morning, the Duke de Hardimont left the club in company with his neighbor, the Count de Saulnes, he had just lost some hundreds of louis, and he felt a slight headache.

"If you do not object, Andre," he said to his companion, "we will walk home. I feel the need of fresh air."

"As you please, my dear friend, although the walking is not very good."

They dismissed their coupes, turned up the collars of their great coats about their ears, and walked on in the direction of the Madeleine. Suddenly the duke stumbled against an object which in hurt struck with the point of his boot, it was a large crust of bread all soiled with mud.

Then, to his astonishment, M. de Saulnes saw the Duke de Hardimont pick up the piece of bread, wipe it carefully with his handkerchief embroidered with his armorial bearings, and place it on one of the benches of the boulevard, in the full glare of a gas lamp.

"What is that you are doing?" said the count, bursting into a laugh. "Are you mad?"

"It is in remembrance of a poor man who gave his life for mine," responded the duke, whose voice trembled slightly. "Do not laugh, my dear count, you will pain me if you do so."—Translated from the French of Francois Coppee for the Home Journal.

The Girl and the Girdle.

The girdle has grown to be a monstrous bad with the girls. This morning, in an elevated car, I found myself beside an acquaintance who has some pretense to social position. Her slim waist was encircled by a hard silver girdle, from one side of which dangled forty-six little chains. At the end of every chain was a pocket. We fell to talking about them and I looked them over, while she chatted about the history of every one. There were fourteen Roman coins, a latch key, [illegible] cigarette-shaped match box, glove buttoner, silver address tablet, tiny silver English box, a corkscrew, a miniature chisel, a diminutive [illegible] a small oxidized [illegible] purse, [illegible] a tiny basket with which [illegible] a bear on her [illegible] a tiny [illegible] Her best Roman coins were [illegible] and the [illegible] Trade dollar [illegible] turned [illegible] a chain purse, a compass, a small paper cutter, a [illegible] trunk, an [illegible] whistle.

"Where do you collect them all?" I asked.

"Everywhere," [illegible] with a sleepy [illegible]

"Don't you [illegible]?"

"No, only the [illegible]."

[illegible] Melodious Mexican Bells.

In the large towers of Morelia hang the prominent bells, which is finely modulated, but there are many others of a different [illegible] which are [illegible] in the Republic [illegible] and sweetness of tone. It is well [illegible] that one [illegible] bell. The [illegible] are exceedingly melodious and pleasing [illegible] in the bell metal [illegible] are cast [illegible] that the chief [illegible] is that [illegible] made, shaped with [illegible] the old [illegible] Mexicans [illegible]

[illegible] Photographers Like It.

London photographers encourage the love of vanity in women being presented at Rome. Every woman immediately has her picture taken in court costume to send home to her dear 500 friends. The photographers are [illegible] new dispensation.

[illegible] Are Black Beaded Eyes [illegible]

[illegible] Victor awoke. The wind had [illegible] the fine penetrating [illegible] the roof, [illegible] made head on [illegible] like a steep [illegible] over the tiled roofs [illegible] the [illegible] of the patrol opened the door and called out the names of the [illegible] who were to relieve the sentinels of the changed guard. The order was [illegible] of those but he did not [illegible] at the sound of his name.

"Get up, Hardimont," repeated the sergeant.

"If you have no objection, sergeant, [illegible] Jean Victor, rising to his feet, I will mount guard in his place. He is so sound asleep—and he is my comrade."

"As you will."

And the sergeant, having [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] after wards, however,

SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

BILIOUSNESS

Is an affection of the liver, and can be thoroughly cured by that Great Regulator of the Liver and Stomach, Simmons

SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

MANUFACTURED BY

J. H. ZEILIN & CO., Philadelphia, Pa.

I was afflicted for several years with disordered liver, which resulted in a severe attack of jaundice. I had as good medical attendance as our section affords, who failed entirely to relieve me to the enjoyment of my former good health. I then tried the favorite prescription of one of the most renowned physicians of Louisville, Ky., but to no purpose, whereupon I was induced to try Simmons Liver Regulator. I found immediate benefit from its use, and it entirely restored me to the full enjoyment of health.

A. H. SHIRLEY,
Richmond, Ky.

HEADACHE

Proceeds from a Torpid Liver and Impurities of the Stomach. It can be invariably cured by taking

SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

Let all who suffer remember that

SICK AND NERVOUS HEADACHES

Can be prevented by taking a dose as soon as they feel the approach of the disease.

HAY FEVER! CATARRH

is an inflamed condition of the lining membrane of the nostrils, tear ducts and throat, affecting the lungs. An acrid mucus is secreted, the discharge is accompanied with a burning sensation. There are severe spasms of sneezing, frequent attacks of headache, watery and inflamed eyes.

Try the Cure.

Ely's Cream Balm

ELY'S CREAM BALM CURES COLD IN HEAD. CATARRH. ROSE-COLD. HAY-FEVER. DEAFNESS. HEADACHE. PRICE 50 CENTS. ELY BROS. OWEGO, N.Y. U.S.A. HAY-FEVER

A particle is applied into each nostril and is agreeable. Price 50 cents at druggists; by mail, registered, 60 cents. ELY BROTHERS, 235 Greenwich St., New York.

LAKE SHORE FOR TRANSIT COMPANY!

[illegible]

Intended [illegible]
South Ste. Marie [illegible]
Mondays, Tuesdays [illegible]
Saturdays [illegible]

For Cleveland [illegible]
Mondays, Wednesdays [illegible]
[illegible] and [illegible]
[illegible]

[illegible] AND FISHING

[illegible]

HAMBLETONIAN STALLION

GIPSY CHIEF

[illegible] EXCHANGE HOTEL.

SALESMEN

[illegible] AND EXPENSES PAID.

PENNYROYAL WAFERS.

[illegible] THE EUREKA CHEMICAL CO.

The Great English Prescription.

[illegible] The Great English [illegible] Eureka Chemical Co., Detroit, Mich.

EYESIGHT—SAVE IT!

[illegible]

THOS. S. SPRAGUE & SON PATENTS DETROIT, MICH.

Brewster's Pat. Rein Holder

Your lines are where you put them—not under horses' feet. One Agent sold 1 doz. in 3 days, one dealer sold a dozen in 15 days. Samples worth $1.50 FREE. Write for terms.

E. S. BREWSTER, Holly, Mich.

ESTATE OF [illegible] AND DEBTS, MINORS.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee, ss. At a session of the Probate Court for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office, in the city of Adrian, on Monday the [illegible] day of [illegible] in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven. [illegible]

In the matter of the estate of [illegible] and Mary B. Dubois, minors. On reading and filing the petition of James Dubois, guardian of said minors, praying that he may be licensed to sell the real estate of said minors in said petition for reasons therein set forth.

It is ordered, That Monday, the [illegible] day of August next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that all persons interested in said estate are required to appear at a session of said Probate Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office, in the city of Adrian, and show cause why the prayer of said petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered that said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the TECUMSEH HERALD, a newspaper printed and circulating in said County of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

NORMAN GEDDES, Judge of Probate.
(A True Copy.)
A. E. BARBAGAR, Probate Register.

CHANCERY NOTICE.

STATE of Michigan, The Circuit Court for the County of Lenawee in Chancery. Suit pending in said court at Adrian, on the 2nd day of July, 1887. Florence Atkinson, complainant, vs. Richard H. Atkinson, defendant.

In this cause it appearing that the defendant, Richard H. Atkinson, is not a resident of the State of Michigan, and that he is a resident of the state of Connecticut, therefore on motion of Watts & Smith, solicitors for complainant, it is ordered that the defendant enter his appearance in said cause on or before four months from the date of this order, and that within twenty days the complainant cause the order to be published in the TECUMSEH HERALD, a newspaper printed and circulating in said County of Lenawee, once in each week for six weeks in succession.

ANDREW ROWELL, Circuit Judge.

WATTS & SMITH, Solicitors for Complainant.

MORTGAGE SALE.

By a certain mortgage bearing date the [illegible] day of December, A. D. 1881, executed by Lucy H. Mosier and Lucy W. Mosier, his wife, to William H. Waldby, they mortgaged to said William H. Waldby all those certain pieces or parcels of land situated in the township of Cambridge, County of Lenawee and State of Michigan, and described as follows: The north-west quarter of section three, in town five south of range [illegible], containing forty acres of land, and also lots numbers eleven and fourteen in the village of Springville, County and State aforesaid, according to the plat thereof on file in the office of the Register of Deeds in said county, which said mortgage was duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Lenawee, on the [illegible] day of [illegible], A. D. 1881, in Liber 111 of mortgages, page 281, and by which said mortgage it was provided and agreed, that if default should be made in the payment of the money, with the interest secured by said mortgage, at the time when the same was made payable, then the whole sum should remain unpaid for the space of thirty days, then the said mortgagee, or his assigns, should have the right to foreclose said mortgage by advertisement, in the form that is by law provided, for the space of thirty days, for the principal and interest then unpaid, with all charges of said foreclosure, and a reasonable attorney fee, to be allowed by the court, and to be paid out of the proceeds of said sale, and that the said William H. Waldby, or his assignees, should be entitled to receive the amount of said principal and interest, with all charges of said foreclosure, and a reasonable attorney fee, to be allowed by the court, out of the first and second installments of the money arising from said sale, and that the surplus, if any, should be paid to the said mortgagor, or his assignees, and that the said mortgagee, or his assignees, should be entitled to receive the amount of the third and fourth installments of the said money, with interest thereon, and the surplus, if any, should be paid to the said mortgagor, or his assignees, and that the said mortgagee, or his assignees, should be entitled to receive the amount of the last two installments of Great Healer of all Inflammed Injuries and Disorders.

It instantly effecting the most wonderful cures ever known, unparalleled demand with which it has met at once as the greatest medicine of the age for outward application. Thousands of the most incredulous are convinced, and the most incredulous are compelled to believe in the superior virtues of this great remedy.

WHAT IT CURES.

Wounds, Cuts, Bruises, Sprains, Burns, Sore Throat, Lameness, Rheumatism, Piles, Inflammation of Lungs and Bowels, Bronchitis, Croup, Salt Rheum, Chilblains, Affection of the Spine, Erysipelas, Nervous Irritation, and all disorders attending upon inflammation.

Never fails to restore the natural functions of the skin and quicken the circulation of the blood. In this way a controlling power is gained over all those dangerous forms of disease. It penetrates to every part of the human frame; every bone, muscle, sinew, nerve and ligament is reached and made sensible to its soothing and healing influence. Hence it copes readily with internal as well as external diseases.

Over 40 Years,

this ointment has been used by the people throughout the United States, and our confidence in its qualities is such that as we have no space here to insert any of the numerous certificates of cures which we have from all parts of the country we simply ask those readers of this notice who have ever used this ointment, to frankly tell their experience with it to inquiring friends. Not one in a hundred would do this we should be perfectly satisfied with the result. Full directions for use will be found on pamphlet around each bottle.

25 cents and 40 cents per bottle. Sold by all druggists in medicine.

D. RANSOM, SON & CO., Prop's
Buffalo, New York.

THE

ELDREDGE

"B"

SEWING

MACHINE

Combines all the latest improvements, making it the most desirable Sewing Machine in the market.

No. 3.

THE ELDREDGE "B" is sold with the guarantee of being the BEST that can be MADE.

AGENTS WANTED.

ELDREDGE MANUFACTURING CO.

363 and 365 WABASH AVE.,
CHICAGO, ILL.

R. J. STEINHOFF'S

Dental Rooms.

OVERBAKER & HALL'S

BEST FOR EXTRACTING.

LOWEST PRICES for THE BEST WORK

PATENTS!

Caveats, Trade Marks and Copyrights

Business and all other business in the U.S. Patent Office attended to for MODERATE FEES.

Our office is opposite the U. S. Patent Office, and we can obtain Patents in less time than those remote from Washington.

SEND FOR DRAWING. We advise as to patentability free of charge and make NO CHARGE unless we obtain patent.

We refer here to Postmaster, Supt. of Money Order Div., and to officials of the U. S. Patent Office.

For circular, advice, terms and references to actual clients in your own state or county, write to

E. G. SIGGERS, A. SNOW & CO.,
Opposite Patent Office Washington, D.C.

A. Wright & Co.,

Wall Paper

AND

Decorations.

A. Wright & Co.

ADVERTISING

Rates for THIS PAPER, which is kept on file at the office of LORD & THOMAS, Advertising Agents, Chicago, and

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

Renews Her Youth.

Mrs. Phœbe Chesley, Peterson, Cady Co., Iowa, tells the following remarkable story: I am 73 years old, have been troubled with kidney complaint and lameness for many years; could not dress myself without help. Now I am free from all pain and soreness, and now walk a mile. I owe my thanks to Electric Bitters. I having renewed my youth, and for moved completely all disease and pain." Try a bottle, only 50c. at C. A. Wright & Co.

Muskegon proposes to buy a $100 excursion.

From Rev. John Mathews, Pastor M. E. Church, South, at Montgomery, Ala.

"Darbys Prophylactic Fluid is the only medicine kept in my family. We can use it for almost everything—burns, bruises, cuts, stings, ear-ache, tooth-ache, sour stomach, etc. My children, when hurt or bruised, always call at once for Darbys Fluid. We cannot get along well without it. It is so valuable for its prompt relief of pain from all kinds of injuries; and also is a powerful Antiseptic and Disinfectant."

Five persons died of sunstroke in Detroit on Sunday.

English spavin liniment removes all hard, soft, or calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavin, curbs, splints, sweeney, stifles, sprains sore and swollen throat coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle. Warranted. Sold by Baker & Hall, Druggists, Tecumseh Mich.

Track laying has begun between Lowell and Freeport.

Itch, mange, and scratches of every kind on human or animals cured in 30 minutes by Woolford's Sanitary Lotion. This never fails. Sold by Baker & Hall, Druggists, Tecumseh Mich.

Trouble is brewing among the Detroit stove molders again.

For Scrofula, Improverished blood and General Debility,

Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites, has no equal in the whole realm of Medicine, read the following: "I gave one bottle of Scott's Emulsion to my own child for Scrofula, and the effect was marvellous."—O. F. GRAY, M. D., White Hall, Ind.

August Lewis has been arrested at East Saginaw, for bigamy.

Drunkenness or the Liquor Habit Positively Cured by Administering Dr Haines' Golden Specific.

It can be given in a cup of coffee or tea without the knowledge of the person taking it; is absolutely harmless and will effect a permanent and speedy cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or a inebriate or a wreck. Thousands of drunkards have been made temperate men who have taken Golden Specific in their coffee without their knowledge, and to day believe they quit drinking on their own free will. IT NEVER FAILS. The system once impregnated with the Specific it becomes an utter impossibility for the liquor appetite to exist. For full particulars, address GOLDEN SPECIFIC CO., 185 Race St., Cincinnati, O.

Annual campmeeting will begin at Belleville, on August 9.

Save the Children. They are especially liable to sudden Colds, Coughs, Croup, Whooping Cough, etc. We guarantee Acker's English Remedy a positive cure. It saves hours of anxious watching. Sold by C. A. Wright & Co. Druggists.

Mr. Ira Parmale, of Tawas City, was sunstruck on Saturday.

The Honest Man in Tecumseh

As well as the handsomest, and officers are invited to call on Baker & Hall, and get free a trial bottle of Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs, a remedy that is selling entirely upon its merits and is guaranteed to cure and relieve all Chronic and Acute Coughs, Asthma, Bronchitis and Consumption. Price 50 cents and $1.

Lenawee county officials picnic August 17, at Devil's Lake.

If you would enjoy your dinner and are prevented by Dyspepsia, use Acker's Dyspepsia Tablets. They are a positive cure for Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Flatulency and Constipation. We guarantee them. 25 and 50 cents. C. A. Wright & Co., Druggists.

Charles Hart, of Roscommon, died at Ravenna, Ohio, Monday.

$500 Reward.

If you suffer from dull, heavy headache, obstruction of the nasal passages, discharges falling from the head into the throat, sometimes profuse, watery, and acrid, at others, thick, tenacious, mucous, purulent, bloody and putrid; if the eyes are weak, watery, and inflamed; and there is ringing in the ears, deafness, hacking or coughing to clear the throat, expectoration of offensive matter, together with scabs from ulcers; the voice being changed and having a nasal twang; the breath offensive; smell and taste impaired; experience a sensation of dizziness, with mental depression, a hacking cough, and general debility, then you are suffering from chronic nasal catarrh. Only a few of the above named symptoms are likely to be present in any one case at one time, or in one stage of the disease. Thousands of cases annually, without manifesting half of the above symptoms, result in consumption, and in the grave. No disease is so common, more deceptive and dangerous, less understood or more unsuccessfully treated by physicians. The manufacturers of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy offer, in good faith, $500 reward for a case of catarrh which they cannot cure. The Remedy is sold by druggists at only 50 cents.

WHE LOVE AWAKES.

You say the dear old love is dead
Love does not die, dear heart of mine;
We may not kiss the sweet lips, red,
No love light in the eyes mine shine
But love, once wronged, deceived by fate,
Sleeps transiently or turns to hate.

And is this hate, my own dear heart,
That comes and gently strokes my hair?
Hate does not bid the swift tears start
At hasty words, nor does it care
To fondly raise the drooping head
And kiss the sad lips dead.

It sleeps, it wanders, wanders far
Beyond the horizon's outmost ring,
Goes blindly on, from star to star,
But evermore comes back to him
Who worthily, still calmly waits
Love's waking comes. You will not hate.

—James Clarence Harvey in Chicago Journal.

A FRONTIER HERO.

My first introduction to Dakota was hardly one to impress either that, is, the territory or myself, with any very great liking for the other. But we were both young at that time and Dakota, at least, has greatly improved.

It was early in the '70s—fifteen years ago—that I found myself on a Missouri river steamboat leaving Omaha and headed up stream. I was not altogether clear as to where I was going, but I had an idea that I would stay by the boat as long as my money held out—which would not be very long. I hoped at least to reach Dakota. Not that I had any particular reason for going to Dakota more than to Texas; but, on the other hand, had Texas been as near I should certainly have been as apt to have gone there.

About all I knew—or any one else, for that matter—concerning Dakota was that Yankton, in the extreme southeastern part, was the capital, and that there was a little settlement in that region, a little more in the northeastern corner, with perhaps a very few scattering settlers along the rivers elsewhere and a number of forts, each with a few United States troops.

The reason that I came to think I was going to explore the west was that several weeks before I had run away from home with that determination—not a very good reason, but the only one I had. My reason for running away from home was even less obvious. But I was away and too proud to go back—though subsequent events reduced my stock of pride several hundred per cent.—if I may be allowed to put it somewhat strongly. I was almost beginning to consider myself a man, though I have since looked back at the time calmly, and could not remember that anybody else ever acted as if he considered me anything more than a boy.

On the occasion of which I write the boat Sadie Bolton plowed her way up the thick, muddy waters of the Missouri. The mate swore at the deck hands as occasion required, the pilot swore at the river, the engineer swore at the fireman and pilot by turns, and the captain occasionally appeared and swore at things in general.

Being of an inquiring turn of mind, I explored the lower deck and got into conversation with one of the crew. From him I learned that Buck Hawkins was on board. I had heard of Buck Hawkins as the most dangerous man in that part of the country. He staid up the river in the neighborhood of Yankton most of the time, but I understood from my informant had been down to St. Louis on some sort of business and was returning to Yankton. I felt anxious to see him as soon as I found he was on board. The man told me I doubtless could do so if I would take the trouble to hunt up the bar, as he and some friends were lodging in a poker game in the immediate vicinity.

I soon found the place, and to my whispered inquiry a spectator informed me which of the four gathered around the card table was Hawkins. I was somewhat surprised, as he did not look as I had pictured him. He was small, not over five feet and seven or eight inches, and evidently weighed less than 150 pounds. He had brown hair and gray eyes, and although his face showed determination and force, there was nothing of the reckless desperado which I knew he had the reputation of being. I watched the game for some time. I learned that the other three were all professional gamblers and that Hawkins was losing. The room was full of spectators, as it seemed to possess interest for every one on the boat. Everybody expected trouble. There were great stacks of chips and money on the table and Hawkins and the gambler opposite him each had a heavy six shooter lying on the table in front of him, while the others had similar weapons in their belts. Every one knew that the gamblers were not playing a square game, and that it was only a question of time when they got all of Hawkins' money. That was the time trouble was expected. He had been drinking heavily, and should he detect them cheating it was known he would not hesitate to shoot them all unless they shot him first.

All the afternoon I remained close by the table watching the game intently. I had become almost as much interested as the players. Hawkins' money was slowly but surely going. Once when Hawkins was dealing he happened to touch a pile of his chips and they rolled off on the floor. Instantly I sprang and gathered them up and placed them on the table. He just glanced at me and said "Thank you," and was deep in the game again. A few minutes later there was a jack pot. Hawkins and the gambler went in. They raised each other till there was several thousand dollars in it. At last they laid down their hands. Hawkins had four kings, but the gambler had the four aces, and reached for the money and chips.

"I reckon that was all fair, parson," said Hawkins as he looked across the table at his opponent.

"Ye bet it was, Buck; ye know I never play no other way," replied the gambler, showing some signs of nervousness.

"I'm glad of it," said Hawkins, picking up his revolver and holding it carelessly, "ye all know what I'd do if I thought it wasn't."

"Shoot, of course, Buck, that would be all right—but it's squar', an' ye can bet on it."

"All right," and Hawkins arose from the table and went out. I saw nothing more of him that night.

The next day he approached me on deck and talked a few minutes. He guessed that I had run away from home and advised me to return, saying that it was no country for boys. I could scarcely conceive as he gave me this advice, which I knew to be good, that he had without doubt killed a dozen men—perhaps more. But it was a fact.

Hawkins left the boat at Sioux City and I went on to Yankton. The next five or six weeks I spent in the vicinity of that place working on various farms. I did not get very high wages, but I managed to make my living. After some time I hired out to a man who was driving some stock up the river to the Yankton Indian agency. There were some 200 or 300 head, and there were several men along with them. To make this trip I had invested in a pony. We arrived at the agency after several days, and, finding that my services would no longer be required, I started to return on my pony. I was opposite Niobrara, Neb., and back some four or five miles from the river when I met two men on horseback each leading a string of five or six horses. Some of the ones which were being led were wild, and were giving the men considerable trouble. They hailed me, and after, as I thought, asking an unnecessary lot of questions concerning who I was, where I came from

"I'm sheriff down in Newbraska, an' my pother here is dep'ty. We jest got some hosses what was stole that we're takin' back. They don't lead very well, and I'll give you $3 to go with us this afternoon an' to-morrow an' help us."

"All right," I said. "Where are you going to cross?"

"Thought we'd cross at Niobrara, but I reckon there were ladies—

"That's the best crossin' round here, you know this country like a book."

I saw that no information was wanted from me, so I said no more and went along with them. I soon saw they were remarkably well acquainted with the country, and appeared to rather avoid what few people there were in those parts. I knew no more than other wise. We soon struck Choteau creek and started down it, frequently crossing from one side to the other. I noticed that the men were both heavily armed, and appeared rather nervous and in considerable of a hurry. I thought nothing of this, however, as nearly everybody went armed, officers especially, and it was likely they wanted to make the crossing that night, and possibly they feared that the thieves might attempt to recover the stock. We passed through several groves of large cottonwood trees, and then turned up the river.

"Do you mind riding all night?" asked the sheriff.

"No," I replied.

"I'll make it a couple o' dollars extra. We want to cross up here an' get 'cross the p'int of the reservation an' over to Red Bird on the Niobrara 'fore we stop."

"Go ahead, I'll stay with you."

A little later I heard the sound of hoofs behind us. This gave me no uneasiness, but the moment it struck the ears of my companions they took their Winchesters from where they were fastened on the saddle and began to look back intently. A moment later a dozen horsemen came around the point of a bluff at full speed. Several of the party fired at us. My companions returned the shots and dashed away, leaving the horses they were leading. I had no doubt that the thieves from whom they had recovered the horses were in pursuit, so followed as fast as I could. We were in an open place near the river and headed for some cotton woods about a quarter of a mile distant. Our horses were on the run, and though when I glanced back I saw that our pursuers were gaining on us, still we could easily have reached the timber ahead of them had not a shot from the party behind hit the deputy sheriff. He fell forward and struck the ground heavily, while his horse dashed away. The sheriff stopped and returned to him, while a ball whistled so uncomfortably close to my own ears that I concluded to do the same. Our pursuers came up and surrounded us. It was growing quite dark by this time, and I could not well make out their features, though I thought they looked more like farmers than horse thieves. In a moment my suspicions were confirmed.

"I reckon we've got ye this time," said one of the party, "an' ye bet we'll show ye what this 'ere vigilance committee considers good for hoss thieves."

The wounded man was taken up and placed on horseback, two men were detailed to guard each one of us and we started back. I tried to explain my connection with the others, but was silenced by the gruff voice of the leader, who assured me that I would have a chance to explain things at the trial. This relieved me somewhat, as I had no doubt that I could easily prove my innocence. We rode till about midnight, when we came to a small cluster of houses called Mineral Springs. We drew up before a large log house which proved to be a saloon and hotel combined. The bar room was lit up and there were a lot of men inside and horses hitched outside. They gave a hard cheer when they saw the prisoners, and there was a great deal of hurried conversation. We were taken in side and placed under guard. Twenty or thirty men gathered in the room. When a man said:

"Well, boys, we've brought 'em in, an' we got the hosses. I reckon we'd better try the hoss an' fix everything up to-night. The chairman will please come fo'ward."

A man elbowed his way through the crowd and took his stand on a box behind a card table. It was Buck Hawkins. I felt still easier, as I had no doubt he would recognize me and set me at liberty.

The trial was very informal, and the other two were quickly disposed of. They claimed that they had found the horses cached further up the creek and never stole them. It was admitted that perhaps they found them hidden, but it was charged that some others of the gang put them there. "Besides," said one man, "s'pose they did find 'em cached—what business they got tryin' to run 'em out the country?"

"That's it," said Hawkins, whose judicial mind instantly grasped this important point, "they hadn't no business at all, an' I reckon we'd better hang 'em fer luck."

This was assented to with a yell and Hawkins started to get up. I saw that I had been included with the others and that I must crowd in my defense. I accordingly asked them to hold on and told my story. When I finished a short thick set man shoved his hands a little deeper into his pockets and said.

"Gentlemen, I want to remark I've heered that air story occasionally before this!"

This was greeted by a loud laugh and everybody agreed to it.

"But see here, Hawkins," I said, my heart beginning to sink, "you know me—you've seen me before."

"Oh, I reckon I seed ye once," he replied without looking at me.

"Then you know I'm not a horse thief."

"Can't say that I do. I saw ye on a steamboat a couple of months ago, but hoss thieves can ride on steamboats."

Like nearly everything else this was agreed to with loud applause. I saw that my chances were growing desperate, and used every argument in my power to convince them that I was innocent. The men I had fallen in with put in their testimony in my behalf, but to no effect. They were especially anxious to see me hang after one of the committee closely scrutinized me, and identified me as Doc Billings, one of the leaders of the gang. "He looks young, but he's a hard one," explained the man. So it was settled that I should hang with the others. All seemed to be in favor of carrying the sentence out immediately. Here Hawkins rose and said:

"Gentlemen, it wouldn't be a fair shake fer the other boys—wait till mornin' till they come in to help. Besides, they may bring in some more of the gang, an' we can string 'em all up together."

This was agreed to as result as ever, and we were marched to an empty log house a little distance from the rest and three men detailed to guard us.

We were each given a blanket, and I wrapped mine about me and sank down in a corner with the most terrible feeling I had ever experienced. My past life and the home I had so recently left without cause rose up before me and caused me more bitter anguish than it seemed I could endure. My companions, hardened by a desperado life and perhaps by former hair breadth escapes, conversed in whispers for some time and seemed to take it very coolly. After some time the leader said:

"Young fellow, I reckon ye want to know what we're going to do with ye."

"Whether I swing or not I do not remember, but he continued:

"I'm pretty sorry, as ye've been a good fellow, but we dassn't let ye go. It won't do, ye know. They say ye're hoss thief, and if they say ye're hoss thief, ye're hoss thief, ye know. A fellow can't die but once," and with this philosophical reflection he rolled himself in his blanket, and his companions were soon fast asleep.

I tossed and rolled in the corner unable to sleep, and I might almost say, unable to keep awake. I felt dazed and stupid.

It must have been 3 o'clock when I was startled by the door opening and one of the guards stepping in. He came over to my corner and I thought he was going to do, and as I stepped through the door I saw a man on my left and another behind saddled and bridled.

"There's your hoss," said the man as he leaned down from the saddle, and I recognized his voice as that of Hawkins. "Get on, an' I'll show you out o' this."

At first I could hardly comprehend him. The prospect of deliverance—and that by the judge who sentenced me—fairly overpowered me. He warned me to be quick, and I scrambled on my pony and rode away by Hawkins' side, none of the guards offering any resistance.

We rode for some distance in silence, then Hawkins said:

"There's a loose board in the floor, an' they'll think ye got out there. I can't go with you very far, but I reckon ye can get away. Keep north o' Yankton, an' don't show yerself to anybody if ye can help it. Skip down into Iowa, an' then go home an' stay there."

"I'll do that," I replied, "if I get away."

"That's right—this is no country for boys. Ye did me a little favor pickin' up them chips on the boat that time an' I'm willin' to do as much for ye."

"Why, Hawkins, I can't tell you how thankful I am—but that was no favor I did on the boat—nothing at all, and this saving my life—look at the difference."

"Oh, that's all right, no difference at all—jes' what we both had a chance to do, an' neither of us couldn't do no more. Don't say no more 'bout that. I know ye didn't steal them hosses an' didn't want to see ye hung for it."

"But how did you know I didn't have something to do with it after all?"

"Way, cuss it, ye see I stole the hosses myself!"

"You!"

"Yes, me an' some other fellers. We cached them up on Choteau creek an' these Nebraska fellers tried to run 'em off. I reckon the moral health of the community demands that they swing."

"But was that crooked horse—that is—were they all your friends?"

"Oh, no, some of 'em were farmers. Ye see I'm chairman of the Anti-Horse Thief society, and all my gang are prominent members. We have to have in some of the farmers an' other people to lend respectability to the concern. Ye know, but I'm elected chairman every time, an' we usually put the committee in to be presidents or something. I'll give ye a recommendation, lemme see, I'm president, secretary, treasurer, and chairman of the committee. Well, I can't go any further with ye, hurry home an' I reckon it will be all right, though the vice presidents will be lookin' for me in the morning, so we'd better part here. Ye know the way, ye know ye can't miss it, so back hosses an' ride like—."

He turned and rode back to the gang, drawing in memory. I went on as fast as possible on my saddle, and of course without being followed or apprehended in any way. I went home and appeared in good shape. I swore to my parents that I would never go to the territories again five years after I can truly say that it was with regret that I learned that Buck Hawkins had been treacherously shot and killed by a member of his own gang, who was also treasurer of the Anti-Horse Thief association.—Dakota Bell.

Where Are the Manly Boys?

Can you find me in any of our great cities a manly boy?

If so, he is an exception. Where are the roysterous youths of our early day. Where the boys who defied the police, upset ash barrels, raced around the block, played ball in defiance of authority, climbed trees, flew kites, played marbles, wrestled with each other by the hour, had hearty appetites, red cheeks, sturdy muscles and dirty hands?

You can't find them.

There is no such thing in existence within the bounds of any city. Your boys now are milksops, with long tail coats and dude collars that hold their chins in air, rings on their fingers and jewels on their shirt fronts; pale, weak, aged, puny fisted, cigarette stinking machines. If in the very heyday of youth, when red blood should pump thro' their veins with the vigor of an avalanche, if when sleep should be sweet and restless occupation a continuous desire, they are flabby muscled, feeble kneed, listless as to manner, aping the manners and fashions of the vile, what will they be when age settles upon them and the duties of life confront them? And yet these are to be the husbands of our girls, these effeminate, puling, monkeyfied babblings are to be the fathers of our grandchildren, whose votes are to shape the destinies of the republic, whose faculties are to be the props of great enterprises in years to come.—Joe Howard's Letter.

Mexican "Lover's Guide."

There is on sale everywhere and in universal use a cheaply printed little pamphlet entitled "El Secretario de los Amantes." It is the guide and hand book of lovers. It contains the language of flowers, the significance of the varied wearing and handling of the sombrero, the language of fan, the language of fruits, the meaning of the varied use of the handkerchief, emblems in designating the hours of day and night in making appointments, the use of the numerals in cipher writing, several short chapters on the conduct of a love affair, and the deaf mute alphabet for one hand. This literary gem seems to be more studied than any other in the republic.—Charles Dudley Warner in Harper's Magazine.

All genuine truth is orthodox.—Uncle Esek.

RAILROAD TIME TABLES.

L. S. & M. S. RAILROAD.

STATIONS.	No. 115. Mail.	No. 117. Express	No. 141 Acc.
Jackson	6 15 A.M.	2 25 P.M.	1 40 P.M.
Napoleon	6 36 "	2 46 "	2 47 "
Norvell	6 45 "	2 55 "	2 58 "
Manchester	6 57 "	3 12 "	3 13 "
Clinton	7 04 "	3 21 "	3 32 "
Tecumseh	7 20 "	3 37 "	3 50 "
Ypsilanti	7 40 "	3 57 "	4 10 "
Detroit	10 05 "	6 30 "
Toledo	9 30 "	5 05 "

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No. 116. Mail.	No. 118. Express.	No. 142. Acc.
Detroit	7 30 A.M.	11 00 A.M.
Toledo	9 30 "	1 50 "
Adrian	10 34 "	3 47 "	6 45 P.M.
Tecumseh	11 05 "	4 18 "	7 20 "
Ypsilanti	11 25 "	4 38 "	7 40 "
Clinton	11 35 "	4 48 "	7 50 "
Manchester	11 45 "	4 58 "	8 00 "
Norvell	11 57 "	5 10 "	8 13 "
Napoleon	12 06 "	5 19 "	8 23 "
Jackson	12 25 P.M.	5 40 "	8 45 "

Connections at Jackson with all trains on the Michigan Central and Michigan Air Line Railways.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Coupon tickets can now be procured at principal stations on over best routes to all principal places in the United States.

N. S. SATTERTHWAITE, Ticket Agent.
H. W. WORCESTER, Supt. Detroit Division.

Cincinnati, Jackson & Mackinaw R. R.

MICHIGAN DIVISION.

Passenger Time Table.

IN EFFECT MAY 22, 1887.

GOING EAST. No. 7 Pass.	No. 3 Pass.	STATIONS.	GOING WEST. No. 2 Pass.	No. 4 Pass.
P.M.	A.M.		A.M.	P.M.
7 55	11 35	A. Toledo L.	8 25	5 40
8 12	11 52	Dundee	8 08	5 23
8 32	12 12	Britton	7 48	5 03
8 47	12 27	Blissfield	7 33	4 48
9 10	12 50	Tipton	7 10	4 25
9 20	1 00	Hudson	6 50	4 15
9 37	1 17	Osgood	6 33	3 58
9 45	1 25	Devils Lake	6 25	3 50
9 55	1 35	Wilson	6 15	3 40
10 08	1 48	Addison	6 02	3 27
10 20	2 00	Jerome	5 50	3 15
10 31	2 11	Weston	5 39	3 04
10 38	2 18	Blissfield	5 32	2 57
10 50	2 30	Deerfield	5 20	2 45
11 05	2 45	Petersburg	5 05	2 30
11 15	2 55	Ridgeway	4 55	2 20
11 28	3 08	Halsey	4 42	2 07
11 40	3 20	Clayton	4 30	1 55
11 50	3 30	Lenawee Jct.	4 20	1 45
12 00	3 40	Morenci	4 10	1 35
12 10	3 50	State Line	4 00	1 25
P.M.	A.M.	L. Hillsdale A.	A.M.	P.M.

Connections at Morenci with C. S. & P. Ry. at Hillsdale with F. & P. M. Ry. at Jerome with D. G. R. & W. Ry. at Tipton with A. A. & J. Ry. at Hudson with L. S. & M. S. Ry. at Adrian with all lines.

All trains daily except Sunday.

Commencing June 26th, 1887, special train will leave Morenci daily at 6 45 P.M., arriving in Hillsdale at 7 30 P.M. Returning leave Hillsdale at 6 30 A.M., arriving in Morenci at 7 15 A.M. Good connections in Adrian and Morenci for points north and south.

TRAIN CONNECTIONS.

Train No. 7 makes close connections at Toledo with D. G. R. & W. Ry. at Battle Creek for points west; at Adrian with L. S. & M. S. Ry. for Detroit, Toledo, Chicago, Buffalo, Rochester, Niagara Falls, Montreal, Boston and points north and east; makes close connection at Hillsdale with F. & P. M. Ry. for points east and west; makes close connection at Morenci with Wabash & Western Ry. for points east and west; makes close connection with the Toledo, Ann Arbor & North Michigan Ry. at Ypsilanti for points north and west; makes close connection at Toledo with the Wabash & Western Ry. for points west and southwest; connections at Adrian with the L. S. & M. S. Ry. for points north and south; connections at Tipton with the Wabash & Western Ry. for points west and southwest; connections at Hudson with the T. A. A. & N. M. Ry. for points north and west; connections at Hudson with the L. S. & M. S. Ry. for points north and south; connections at Osgood with the H. H. & I. Ry. for points west and southwest.

H. W. JOHNSON, Supt. M. S. Div.
J. F. ALLEN, Ticket Agent, Hillsdale.
J. P. KENNEDY, Agent, Morenci.

TAKE THE WABASH ROUTE.

TRAINS GOING EAST.

Atlantic Express
Detroit Accommodation
N. Y. and Boston Express
New York Limited Express
Way Freight

TRAINS GOING WEST.

St. Louis Express
Chicago Express
Atlantic Express
Detroit Accommodation
Kansas Express
Way Freight

For time, rates of fare, sleeping car reservations, and general information call at Ticket Office, 111 Monroe St., Opp. Rowsey House, Toledo, O.

E. ST. JOHN, Gen'l Manager.
J. CHARLTON, Gen'l Pass. Agent.
O. W. RUGGLES, Asst. Gen'l Pass. Agent.
A. E. WELLS, Div. Pass. Agent, Toledo, O.

KING OF THE BLOOD

The Most Thorough Purifier of the Blood Yet Discovered.

Cures all Humors, from a common pimple to the worst scrofula.

It purifies the Blood.
It invigorates the Liver.
It regulates the Bowels.
It strengthens the stomach.
It gives vigor in place of lassitude, cheerfulness in place of gloom, and robust vigor in place of debility.

Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Disordered Liver, Constipation, Nervous Affections, General Debility, in short all the numerous diseases and discomforts caused by impure blood are speedily conquered by this powerful corrector, the purifier and sovereign of all modern or ancient medicines, the celebrated KING OF THE BLOOD.

Its name is its best description as it is a royal dispenser of the blessings of health and vanquishes the foes that lurk in the blood.

It banishes PIMPLES, SALT RHEUM, SCALY ERUPTIONS, ULCERS, SCALD HEAD, FEVER SORES, and all SCROFULOUS DISORDERS.

It checks CONSUMPTION in its early stages. It has frequently cured it when advanced.

It disperses TUMORS and CANCERS without the Surgeon's knife.

It cures DROPSY, general or partial.

It cures FEMALE WEAKNESS and DISEASE.

It operates in a safe and effectual manner all Swellings, external or internal.

It eradicates the effects of Vegetal Poisons and Mineral Poisons and establishes a sound constitution.

Many certificates, much further information and full directions for using, will be found in the pamphlet, "Treatise on Diseases of the Blood," in which each bottle is enclosed.

Price $1 per bottle containing 12 ounces, or 50 doses. Sold by every druggist in medicine.

If your druggist does not happen to have it on hand, request him to get a supply of it for you. It will be cheaper than for you to order direct of us, and less trouble.

D. RANSOM, SON & CO., Proprietors,
BUFFALO, N. Y.

THIS PAPER is on file in Philadelphia at the Newspaper Advertising Agency of Messrs. N. W. AYER & SON, our authorized agents.

WASHINGTON LETTER

Special Correspondence.

Washington, July 22nd 1897 committee of Treasury officials

[illegible] well in the United States Treasury, a work rendered necessary on account of the departure of Treasurer Morgan and the appointment of Mr. Hyde, in his place, contributed the [illegible]

[illegible]

Mackinaw Braids Rare

"Only a few exchanges work Mackinaw straw hats. It is simply because there is very little genuine Mackinaw braid used now by the manufacturers," said a prominent importer of straw braids the other day to a reporter.

[illegible] difference between the genuine and the Japan Mackinaw, which is a lighter and much cheaper article," he continued. "The genuine Mackinaw is a braid made from wheat straw grown and plaited by the Indians along the Straits of Mackinaw. This braid is exceedingly tough and durable, having a beautiful glossy appearance. [illegible]

[illegible]

No Nuts for Golden Melons

[illegible]

Reading Room Chat.

[illegible]

Cups for Pine Needles.

[illegible]

Not A Time Likely.

[illegible]

This Actually Happened.

[illegible]

Her Faith Was Gone.

[illegible]

Doing Her Mother.

[illegible]

[illegible] tains an attractive pure study in colors by Henry B[illegible] in pencil by Carroll Beckwith [illegible] end of the striking series of large [illegible] decorative figures by Ellen Welby. Pandora, a fine study of lady's slipper decorations for cup and saucer and a plaque, applique border of bryony, a handsome double page decorative tiger lily, and a page of monograms [illegible] are [illegible] on a [illegible] from nature in [illegible] and japanese [illegible] Orders [illegible] from [illegible] Richard Jahn as an interior decorator [illegible] profusely illustrated. [illegible] subjects and portraits in [illegible] The "always popular [illegible] rock" is supplemented by an [illegible] interesting [illegible] the architecture of Fifth Avenue [illegible] Various minor departments are [illegible] filled. Price, [illegible] Manager Parke, Publisher, 24 Union Square, New York.

The departments of the contents of Harper's are generously [illegible] with a banquet of nutritious [illegible] The Easy Chair provides the opening [illegible] paragraphs upon Re[illegible] Protestant Catholic [illegible] Copyright, 1897, by Harper & Brothers. The Queen's Jubilee [illegible] the simple solid pa[illegible] Reviews of Books [illegible]

[illegible]

Good Advice.

I used it in the [illegible] with excellent results for [illegible] catarrh, and I have been [illegible] in recommending it to [illegible] several have used for it and it has worked well. I think it will do [illegible] So writes a correspondent in Pa[illegible] May when writing [illegible] for Stickney & Paper to send him another [illegible] Treatment of Catarrh [illegible]

[illegible]

Wheat Is Cheap.

[illegible]

Wheat Is Cheap and Wo[illegible]

[illegible]

Dress of A Y[illegible]

[illegible]

Best Ever Let Out.

Dyspepsia [illegible] Disordered liver [illegible] Constipation is a fo[illegible] good [illegible]

The Dandy [illegible] apparatus is [illegible] of the most [illegible] and wonderful things [illegible] [illegible] cut out of order.

[illegible] Good, bad [illegible] worry, late hours, irregular [illegible] and many other things which [illegible] have made [illegible] people a [illegible] of dyspepsia.

For [illegible] August Flower has done a wonderful work in [illegible] and making the [illegible] people so healthy that they [illegible] and happy.

[illegible] No [illegible] August Flower [illegible] health and happiness [illegible]

[illegible] Sold by all druggists.

[illegible] Sunday, July 25th, at Beard's Lake.

[illegible]

Is Best Ever Let Out.

[illegible]

[illegible] Satan.

[illegible] Sunday, July 25th, at Beard's Lake.

[illegible]

Is Best Ever Let Out.

[illegible]

[illegible] Satan

The Tecumseh Herald.

VOL. XXXVIII.—NO 10. TECUMSEH MICHIGAN, THURSDAY MORNING, AUGUST 4, 1887 WHOLE NO. 1908

SILK SALE

Saturday Morning!

We will place on sale Remnants of

BLACK, COLORED AND FANCY

SILKS

in 1 to 16 yds lengths.
Goods worth $1.00 and $1.50 for 50c and 69c.

W. & S. W. Anderson & Co's.

Everything on the

BOOM-BOOM

AT THE

GRAND CENTRAL SUPPLY STORE.

GROCERIES, CROCKERY, GLASSWARE, TEAS, SUGARS, SPICE.

PRICES LOWER THAN EVER.

HENRY McCLURE.

O. B. DeWOLF. Pres. H. M. TEMPLE, Sec'y and Treas. S. W. TEMPLE, Vice Pres. and Gen'l Mgr

THE OHIO & MICH. COAL & MFG. CO.,

COAL.

LUMBER LATH AND SHINGLES

MANUFACTURERS OF

Doors, Sash, Blinds, Mouldings,

Scroll Work, Turned Work, Modern Interior Finish.

GET ESTIMATES BEFORE BUYING.

OFFICE CORNER R. R. AND SHAWNEE STS.

Yards and Factory on Pearl and Shawnee sts., near L. S. & M. S. Depot

TECUMSEH, MICH.

NEW BEDROOM SUITS

PARLOR SUITS!

Patent Rockers, Reed Rockers, New Couches,

And a big stock of Fine and Medium

FURNITURE!

[illegible]

Undertaking a Specialty!

[illegible]

WM. McCOWEN.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

RIDGEWAY RAMBLES.

The brick work to the library is being pushed quite lively.

Chas. Tripton and Jesse Porter took the advantage of the excursion to Toledo, last week and ordered a new supply of goods for their fall trade.

Mrs. T. H. Montgomery is under the doctor's care.

Irving Bush was on the sick list last week a few days.

Harvey Bush of Port Huron, Mich., spent several days at Mrs. Hall's with his cousins, Weddie and Irving Bush, last week.

Mr. & Mrs. John A. Winchel of Leslie, Mich., spent Thursday with their aunt, Mrs. John Arner and family.

Clara Temple spent several days last week with her country cousin, north of the village.

Allie Dennis and Anna Carr of Jonesville, are the guests of Ida and Eva Pocklington at present.

W. E. Barrett spent the forepart of the week at Battle Creek.

The W. C. T. U. will hold their next parlor meeting at the home of Mrs. Daniel Linn, next week Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Linn extends a welcome invitation to all.

Lotta Arner left last Thursday for an indefinite stay with her sister, Mrs. Ida Anderson, at Ionia.

The Misses Geddes and Atkinson and Misses Wolf and DeVore, College friends of Belle Barlow made her a call Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. F. G. Florence of Holloway, spent Tuesday at her uncles, Morris Kelley's.

We took a vacation last week a few days, leaving the cares of the office in the hands of the assistant, and accompanied our cousin on her trip to Ionia.

We left Tecumseh on the 11:5 A.M. train. While in Jackson waiting for our train to Lansing, we visited the State Institute for Criminals and found them as usual, in very comfortable quarters, and busily engaged in various occupations. There are at present 784 inmates of the reformity, several more than there are private sleeping rooms and bunks are fitted up in the halls. The lawns and yards are green and everything looks fresh and thrifty. We left on the 4:30 P. M. train, and after a lay over in Lansing of two hours, took the 8 o'clock train on the D. L. & N. Ry. arriving at Ionia at 9:45, and were met at the depot by cousins Ida and Ed., who are very nicely situated in the finest part of the city. Ed. is foreman in H. B. Weber's Hardware, who are doing a splendid business. We visited the car shops and water works, which are very fine. Ionia is situated upon the bluffs of the Grand River. They have a very fine quality of sandstone which is used quite extensively for building purposes. They have a grand Court House and jail and a splendid Union School building, and as fine a M. E. church as there is outside of Detroit, in the state. The long, dry spell makes crops all along the road look hard up. There is no plowing being done and but very little summer-fallow to be seen, and unless it rains soon there will be but very little wheat sown this fall.

LAKE RIDGE LACONICS.

How remarkably hot and dry, everything is powder posted, farmers are cutting corn, all fall crops will be "small potatoes." Wheat and oats are yielding light from the thresher. Wells, cisterns and small streams are drying up.

Lewis Martin is out from Leslie looking after his share of the crops on the Ridge farm.

Just because Jim Small came out from St. Louis and hired $50 or $60 worth of help to harvest, thresh and market his wheat crop, then go back home without paying up or saying anything about it, his creditors are chiding each other over their stock in trade, and the nice game he played.

Nelson Davenport is rejoicing over his first boy.

Mrs. J. H. Pangburn is sick with dysentery.

Mrs. Henry Dell has been quite sick with inflammation of the lungs, but is a little better.

Charles Herridge is confined to his lounge.

Jim Nagel has purchased the grain and rather crops in the sale of Jas. Lester. He will thresh a machine part. He sold three in this neighborhood right off, without selling a word [illegible] away at something requiring hard and [illegible] work, leaving door steps [illegible]

[illegible]

WASHINGTON LETTER.

[illegible]

Washington, July 28, 1887.

At the White House, the reception of the different delegations, who came to invite the President to visit their States has been the order of the week. On Monday the President received the Missouri delegation headed by Mayor Francis, of St. Louis. The Committee was received in the library on the second floor of the Executive Mansion, next to the President's private office. If it had been known how large the delegation was arrangements would have been made to receive the gentlemen composing it, in the East room. After the neat and complimentary speech of Mayor Francis, the President replied in a few well chosen words, and accepted the invitation to visit St. Louis, at the time of the State Exposition and Agricultural and Mechanical fair, stipulating however, that his visit to St. Louis, should not interfere with his proposed trip to Atlanta, Ga., which is arranged for the first week in October. The Mayor replied that all would be managed to suit the convenience of the President, and, in conclusion reminded him that the invitation expressly included Mrs Cleveland, who the President must not forget to bring. Mr. Cleveland, replied that "she would not let him forget her." Both speeches, that of the mayor and the President's reply, were continually interrupted by cheers and applause, and the Missourians departed jubilant over the success of their mission and the heartiness of their reception at the White House and doubtless rejoiced that the President in no wise held the people of Missouri responsible for the reason o the withdrawal of his first acceptance.

On Wednesday, the Chief Magistrate, again received a delegation who came from Kansas City, to invite him to extend his trip west to that place. After a repetition of the speeches and applause of the previous reception, the President accepted the invitation. A committee from Lynchburg, Va. has also asked the President to honor that town. He has not yet given an answer. It will be seen by these proposed journeys, that Mr. Cleveland will take an extended tour in the South and West in the fall, including several States and most of the larger cities en route. This is conclusive evidence that there is no intention on the part of the Executive of calling an extra session of Congress. Certainly, not in October when he proposes to be absent from the Capital.

The son of an ex president, the venerable John Tyler, lies in a critical condition at his residence, here. Mr. Tyler is suffering from partial paralysis, and from the effect of the excessive heat. He was overcome by the sun, one day last week, and fell in the street. He was taken to his home in an unconscious condition, and though he is slightly recovered from the first attack, little hopes of his permanent recovery are entertained. The U. S. National Museum, suffers a loss in the death of Dr. Chas. Rau, a prominent archaeologist, and curator of the department of antiquities at the Museum. His death occurred in Philadelphia—congestion of the lungs. Gen Wm. McKee Dunn, late Judge Advocate General, died at his farm in Va. on Sunday last. Gen. Dunn has been suffering for several years with kidney troubles, but over exertion during the warm weather, hastened his death. His loss will be felt by the whole community as well as socially, and in army circles, for he was largely interested in the development and prosperity of Washington, and has been greatly instrumental in the present prosperous condition of the Capital.

The mortality among the very young and very old in Washington has been very great and superintended by the terrible heat of the last four weeks. The babies succumb of course, out of a list of eight deaths in one day, seven were infants under one year. There is no prospects of relief either, for the sun continues to shine with unabated vigor and the frequent showers bring no change of temperature. Under such a press, it is impossible not to talk about the weather.

The press of business at the Post Office Department is so heavy that the Postmaster General has been obliged to suspend the granting of leaves of absence for a month, until after the first of Sept.

[illegible]

by Harvey from the Government, to pay your humble digger. A very handsome pair of opera glasses were brought $5, and a rare vase was knocked down to the only bidder for fifty cents. The rest of the furniture was sold at the same ridiculously low figures. It seems that Harvey had a passion for collecting rare and handsome furniture and bric-a-brac. It is said he cultivated the criminal accomplishment of forging in order to indulge in his love of the fine arts. He obtained his position at the Treasury it is reported, through a forged letter from Sam. Randall, M. C. from Penn. Indeed the man's whole history is a counterpart of "Jim the Penman's."

DROWNED AT MIDNIGHT

We clip the following from the Detroit Free Press.

A sad drowning accident occured at Windsor last night, the victim being a young colored girl named May Lewis, aged 18, a resident of Clinton, Lenawee Co, Mich. About 11:45 P. M. a party of six belated colored persons, who had participated in the emancipation celebration at Brighton, missed the last boat for Detroit and were unable to find hotel accommodations in Windsor, decided to attempt to cross over to Detroit in one of the night ferries—ordinary rowboats—the operators of which make a comfortable living during the summer season in the conveyance of passengers late at night from Detroit to Windsor and vice versa. The party consisted of May Lewis, Laura Montgomery, Belle Montgomery, all of Clinton, Mich., Chas. Derring, a former resident of Clinton but now of Detroit, and two others whose names could not be ascertained. They struck a bargain with the ferryman, whose frail craft was tied to the wharf in rear of the British-American Hotel, alongside the Custom House. The descent from the wharf to the row boat was about four feet and five of the party had managed to embark in safety. The sixth, Belle Montgomery, a stout woman weighing not less than 160 pounds, attempted to get into the boat. As soon as her foot touched the gunwale of the frail craft she fell and it gave way beneath her weight. Fearful that she would be drowned if she loosened her hold upon the edge of the wharf she made a sudden effort to escape from her dangerous position. Her weight capsized the rowboat and the occupants were thrown into the water. Abraham Nash, the youngest member of the Windsor police force and who proved himself a hero, was standing on the ferry wharf at the time of the accident. He plunged into the river to secure the struggling men and women. Being a powerful young fellow and a good swimmer, he succeeded in rescuing four of them. One other passenger and the oarsman of the boat reached a place of safety without assistance. It was then discovered that the young girl, May Lewis, was missing. Being hampered by his clothing, Nash threw off his coat and dived after the body of the missing girl, without success, although he tried several times to find it. By this time considerable of a crowd had collected on the wharf, and when the heroic policeman, worn out in the vain effort to find the body, came ashore to put on his coat he discovered that some person had robbed him of the revolver which he carried in his coat pocket. This was a poor reward for a man who, at the risk of his own life, had saved four persons from drowning. But Nash did not worry over his loss. His gallantry, if displayed on this side of the river, would probably result in his being promoted, and certainly is deserving of some recognition at the hands of the Windsor Council, which controls the police force in Detroit's Canadian suburb. A further search will be made for the bodies of the dead this morning.

To dream of a gentleman with a [illegible] in the city of his tail,
Is to [illegible] a storm
If the weather is warm.
Unless it should happen to be [illegible]
Dennis [illegible] to be [illegible]
[illegible] however, [illegible]
[illegible] concerned with no appetite, [illegible] weak, [illegible] tongue coated, [illegible] sometimes [illegible] signs indicate that you need a [illegible] Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. They will cure you. All druggists.

Potatoes are dried up [illegible] yield is small.

Buckleen's Arnica Salve.

The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by [illegible] druggists.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSONS.

[illegible]

JESUS IS GALILEE.—MATT. IV. 12-25.

NOTES.—"To preach."—Not in set discourse merely, but in all ways. "The Kingdom of Heaven."—A different thing from Heaven, or from future blessedness. It was the dispensation of Jesus Christ, of God replacing Judaism by Christ's teachings, and the victory of the new religion over the world. The kingdom would be understood by most as temporal instead of spiritual. It was at hand, for it began with Christ's clear teaching. "Peter."—A name he received later, meaning rock. It is Greek for Cephas, which is Aramaean. Simon and Andrew, as also John and James, had already known Jesus, and been with him, as we learn from Luke and John, so that it is not strange that they instantly obeyed his call. "A net."—Perhaps such a long net as required two boats. Fishing with a hook and line was not common. "James."—This is a Greek form of the Hebrew name Jacob, as Simon was for Simeon, John for Johanan, Zebedee Zabdi, and Jesus for Joshua. "The boat."—It was very far from being a ship, as the old version gives it, but was a small boat, quite short and wide. "Jesus went about in all Galilee."—He now took upon himself the task of an itinerant preacher, differing from John the Baptist in that he sought men instead of having them seek him. "Teaching in their synagogues."—After the Captivity the Jews had buildings for Sabbath meetings in every town, and they were open for instruction by any competent speaker. "The gospel of the kingdom."—The good news that it was at hand, and that men should prepare for it. "All Syria."—Even to the country north of Palestine and east. "Possessed with devils."—the word is demons. It is clear that the Jews held that certain diseases were cured by demons which had bewitched the man, and the biblical story tells us clearly that demons actually did take possession of certain people who had ordinary diseases complicated with the demoniacal possession. "Epileptic."—This is a better translation than "lunatic" of the old version. "Palsied."—Paralyzed. "Decapolis."—Meaning a district of ten cities in Northeast Palestine, beyond Jordan.

INSTRUCTION.—Jesus waited till he was well prepared before he began to preach. He was thirty years old; he had been baptized by John, he had received a call from Heaven. We may at least learn from this not to hurry to be teachers before we have proved ourselves competent scholars.

Christ's first message was to repent. That is the first thing now for a convert to do, to forsake and be sorry for his sins. But it is not implied that one need stop long mourning for his sins before he turns from them with a trustful prayer for forgiveness. Half a minute is quite long enough.

We live in the kingdom of Heaven. We have seen all its glory. If they should repent who had not seen it, much more we who have.

Christ took several pairs of brothers into the company of the twelve disciples. Judas, the traitor, was not one of them. Members of a family coming into the kingdom together help each other greatly. The man who, like Andrew, findeth his own brother does a noble and blessed deed. The fellowship of family piety is ever beautiful.

Christ found his disciples when they were at work. Christ has no use for lazy men, but for the [illegible] activity of all.

One had better stick to his [illegible] if he has a call to do some [illegible] Zebedee was doing his duty [illegible] men in not giving up his [illegible] religious service. [illegible] Zebedee [illegible] the fish business [illegible] made [illegible] for John and James [illegible] the large years of [illegible] study which fitted them [illegible]

Christ told them they were [illegible] early learners but [illegible] teachers. Now they were [illegible] and by apostles [illegible] fishers of men. [illegible] three years of [illegible] work in [illegible] fishers [illegible] men. [illegible] but [illegible]

[illegible]

THE TECUMSEH HERALD

Issued Every Thursday Morning

BY S. C. STACY.

Office in the New HERALD Building, one door east of the Opera House, Tecumseh, Mich

One year, cash in advance $1 50
Six months 75
Four months 50
Twenty-five cents will be added to the subscription price for every three months that payment may be delayed.

ADVERTISING RATES

[illegible]
Rates on general advertising or contracts furnished made known on application.

Entered at the post office at Tecumseh, Michigan, as second class matter.

TECUMSEH, THURSDAY, JULY 5

Has James G. Blaine heard from the Ohio convention? Our telegraph dispatches are silent on this point.

Every western city that amounts to anything is now engaged in the just one business of transmitting an invitation to President and Mrs. Cleveland, to visit their town during their western trip.

The hot weather increases and the surplus in the U. S. Treasury grows at the same time. If both continue, what is this land of the free and home of the brave coming to?

He belongs to the Sons of Veterans, but then he never shelled pow-wer like us fellows," said an old veteran the other day. "Never smelled powder, eh?" remarked a companion. "No, sir." "I think you're wrong, I saw him kissing a girl a night or two ago."—Exchange.

It the cordial congratulations and good wishes of the press of the Wolverine State be any, Hon. George Willard, the good looking and able editor of the Battle Creek Journal and his bride will be entirely happy. Every paper in the state will unite with the State Republican in wishing the pair the best of good luck, and all the usual trimmings.—Lansing Republican.

The treasury surplus grows bigger every day and the burden of taxation becomes no lighter. The internal revenue receipts last year were nearly [illegible] more than the year before, and now amount to almost $120,000,000 annually. The people don't want to pay so much and the government does not need the money. What are the so-called statesmen doing to relieve the country of this accumulation and exasperating situation? Nothing.

A Kansas pensioner has followed the example of a Michigan pensioner, and written to Washington to stop his pension as he has "been cured by faith in the Lord." If it always makes people stop drawing money from the Government, it would seem as though only two persons in the whole United States have "faith in the Lord." And the pensioners have no more than any other class of people who draw money from the treasury can show. No official is on record in all history whose "faith in the Lord" was strong enough to make him give up so much as a dollar of his salary, or even to resign an office so long as he can hang on to it.

The Times-Star of Cincinnati offers, as an argument why the Republican convention should endorse Sherman the fact that he was the father of the present tariff. Hardly the father, but an important promoter, and there is sin enough in the latter claim to forever condemn him at the polls. A tariff that has enriched the few at the expense of the many; that has limited trade facilities; that has not benefited American workmen; that has encouraged the importation of pauper labor manufactured goods; that has robbed the consumer; that has made home comforts possible only by expensive economy; that has promoted fair trade but has no element of fairness in its name, is not a thing to boast of, and the man, like Sherman, who had anything to do with fastening the curse upon this country is not likely to be honored with the suffrages of the people.

It would be a splendid thing if the Democratic party could be divided this year on the tariff question precisely as we are divided with the principles claimed by the Democratic and Republican parties. There would be, we think, a decided victory for the democracy, for the people want a reduction of the revenue and they want a judicious revision of the tariff as a first step to the end. Many men will not joint vote the Republican ticket on account sympathy with tariff reform, but who, by reason of their associations and a failure to present a question as the burning one it is, will keep up the their old habit of voting. Many Republicans, too, with regard to the tariff question, will vote against Foraker because they are interested in the appointments he has made and others because they think he is [illegible] to consider. The [illegible] the question will probably be [illegible] the tariff question, [illegible] it may have [illegible] influence, will have much less to do with the [illegible] than the party issue.—Detroit Free Press.

THE GHILZAI COUNTRY.

BICYCLER STEVENS' VISIT TO A CAMP OF AFGHANISTAN NOMADS.

Picturesque Dress of the Women—An Embarrassed Chief—Tribal Hospitality. Etiquette of the Table.

In the lonely desert country east of Kandahar are accessible small cities that [illegible] of camels. Towering peacefully on the green [illegible] of a [illegible] black goat hair tents. The tents were pitched in two parallel lines along a stretch of clean, gravelly ground, slightly elevated above the surrounding plain of an adjacent dilapidated stone [illegible] the material of the tents, with which [illegible] and the prevailing shape of the [illegible] resembled a Indian tepee and an ordinary wedge tent. The tent of the chief stood out conspicuously from the others by reason of its large size and the superior material entering into its construction. A couple of hundred yards from the tents was a small spring of water enclosed within a crude wall of loosely piled stones. The water was allowed to percolate through this wall and a circular basin outside. Here, as I rode up, were several women in flaming [illegible] skirts to empty in the tents.

Some of these women were [illegible] creatures to say the least. Their [illegible] consisting of heavy Turkish trousers of [illegible] and jackets of [illegible] bright red. They also wore [illegible] head necklaces and the multifarious rewgaws so dear to the heart of semi-civilized [illegible] in all parts of the world. A few specimens excepted, and one that I had not yet seen in Asia, was a small bonded jewel [illegible] to the left side of the nose, apparently fastened there by means of a [illegible] through the cartilage. In strange contrast to the gaudy [illegible] adopted by the females of the tribe were the simple yet striking costumes of the men. As I halted a moment to drink a drink of water at the spring I saw [illegible] from the shelter of the tents and standing in curious groups, trying to penetrate the secret of my strange appearance and still stranger mode of locomotion. From head to foot the citizens were clad in coarse white cotton cloth, with their flowing white garments and their weapons they looked like some strange community of warrior priests. Oh, their heads were tall, conical hats fantastically branded with gold or silver thread. Enough white material to make a bed sheet wound round about the base of the cone covered this head gear into a regular Afghan turban. Instead of the students at one end of the turban was left dangling [illegible] Around their arms they wore bracelets of plain copper wire about the size of ordinary telegraph wire. Some of the men were as many as half a dozen of these ornaments—three on each wrist. Some of their feet were incased in rude sandals of untanned goatskin, others rejoiced in the possession of red leather slipper like footgear with pointed toes, obtained from the bazars of Kandahar or Beerjand. The chief sported an elaborate pair of Hindustani shoes, the fronts of which were fantastically ornamented with patterns in gold thread. In all other particulars his costume was the counterpart of those about him.

The Ghilzais are among the most fanatical of the Afghan tribes, and as I rode up and dismounted at the behest of the chieftain that worthy champion of Islam colored up as red as a beet with embarrassment. With the quick intuition and ready penetration that some of long and varying association with the strange peoples of Central Asia, the changing countenance of the tribal chief expressed as the fiery signal of inbred Mussulman fanaticism lighting up, spontaneously, at the sudden appearance of a Ferenghi in his presence and power. He invited me into his tent with a brusque, half angry gesture that was probably due more to his embarrassment than to voluntary discourtesy, for he gave the devil his due, one great redeeming feature of all these wandering Asiatic tribes is their hospitality to strangers.

Gathered about the door of every tent were women and children gazing curiously and with much wonderment at the stranger's marvelous steed with its horses standing up against the tent pole of their chieftain's quarters. The smooth, hard, gravelly elevation was in every respect suitable for bicycling, and so, to gratify the curiosity of the whole wondering camp, I rode several times back and forth the entire length of the tented street. My appearance among them was the signal for entering the slaughter of a fat young goat, so that the chief might entertain the stranger in a hospitable and befitting manner. The evening meal consisted of pancake like sheets of unleavened bread, boiled goat, roast and duck. A [illegible] of the broth from the boiled goat, [illegible] an abundance of boiled mutton, [illegible] were placed [illegible] on the ground. The chief and [illegible] his men gathered around [illegible] and dipped from the same dishes.

[illegible] I began to [illegible] the Ghilzais, who were of course [illegible] the Ghilzais [illegible] at one end of the turban was left dangling [illegible] Around their arms they wore bracelets of plain copper wire about the size of ordinary telegraph wire. Some of the men were as many as half a dozen of these ornaments—three on each wrist. Some of their feet were incased in rude sandals of untanned goatskin, others rejoiced in the possession of red leather slipper like footgear with pointed toes, obtained from the bazars of Kandahar or Beerjand. The chief sported an elaborate pair of Hindustani shoes, the fronts of which were fantastically ornamented with patterns in gold thread. In all other particulars his costume was the counterpart of those about him.

The Ghilzais are among the most fanatical of the Afghan tribes, and as I rode up and dismounted at the behest of the chieftain that worthy champion of Islam colored up as red as a beet with embarrassment. With the quick intuition and ready penetration that come

KASKINE

THE NEW QUININE.

GIVES
Good Appetite
New Strength
Quiet Nerves
Happy Days
Sweet Sleep.

POWERFUL TONIC
and the most delicate stomach will bear
A SPECIFIC FOR MALARIA,
RHEUMATISM,
NERVOUS PROSTRATION,
And all germ diseases.

"MY MOST SCIENTIFIC AND SUCCESSFUL remedy is KASKINE. Superior to quinine. Catarrhal poisoning gave me dyspepsia, and nervous prostration and malaria followed. I got so reduced I had to be carried up and down stairs. Everybody thought I would die. Three months' use of Kaskine gave me new life. I am now perfectly well. I owe my recovery and life itself solely to the use of this great and efficient remedy."—Mrs. E. A. Comstock, 129 East 71st st., New York.

"For years of malaria and dyspepsia greatly reduced my mother's strength and destroyed her health. A trip to Florida and every known remedy could not restore her. I heard of Kaskine, and four months' use broke up the malaria, cured the dyspepsia, restored her strength and health, and six months repaired the waste of four years."—Chas. T. Syme, Albany, N. Y.

Letters from the above persons, giving full details will be sent on application.

Kaskine is pleasant to take and can be used without special medical advice. $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5.

Sent by mail on receipt of price.

THE KASKINE CO., 71 Warren st., New York.

DEAFNESS Its causes and a new and successful CURE at your own home by one who was deaf 28 years. Treated by most of the noted specialists without benefit. Cured himself in three months, and since cured hundreds of others. Full particulars sent on application.
T. SPAGE, No. 11 West 31st st., New York City.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
the popular favorite for dressing the hair, restoring color when gray, and preventing dandruff. It cleanses the scalp, stops the hair falling, and is sure to please. 50c. and $1.00 at Druggists.

HINDERCORNS.
The sure, surest and best cure for Corns, Bunions, &c. Stops pain. Ensures comfort to the feet. Never fails. 15c. by mail or at Druggists. Hiscox & Co., N. Y.

MARVELOUS
MEMORY
DISCOVERY.
Wholly unlike artificial systems.
Any book learned in one reading.
Recommended by Mark Twain, Richard Proctor, Scientist; Hons. W. W. Astor, Judah P. Benjamin, Minor, etc. Class of 100 Columbia students; two classes of 200 each at Yale; 400 at University of Penna. Phil., and 400 at Wellesley College, etc., and engaged at Chautauqua University. Prospectus post free from
PROF. LOISETTE, 237 Fifth Ave., New York.

Agric'ltural Implement
DEPOT.
O. A. SLAYTON
Is prepared to make lower prices than ever before on first-class farm machinery. My stock is complete, but will only mention a few articles.

PLOWS. { SOUTH BEND, BURCH, WIARD GALE, OLIVER. } Walking.

THE CASSADY AND SOLID COMFORT SULKY PLOWS.
Kalamazoo Spring Tooth Harrow,
"ACME" PULVERIZING HARROWS.
CULTIVATORS { Elwood, New Robbins, Albion, Buckeye.
Buckeye, Superior, Monitor, Roller, } GRAIN DRILLS
KEMP'S MANURESPREADER.

Studebaker, Jackson and Flint
WAGONS.
GREAT BARGAINS IN Carriages and Platform Spring Wagons.
Headquarters for Lime, Cement, Salt, Coal, Cal. Plaster and Plastering Hair Grain, Flour, Feed, and Field Seeds.

PIANO PURCHASERS CAN FIND AT ANY TIME
A VARIETY OF THE WAREROOMS OF THE
MANUFACTURERS AND WHOLESALE DEALERS
WHERE THEY CAN MAKE THEIR SELECTION FROM NEARLY ONE HUNDRED
PIANOS
OF ALL
GRADES AND PRICES WHICH WE OFFER
AT WHOLESALE PRICES
WHEELOCK MUSIC CO.
CHARLES E. PEZIN, HARRY R. WILKINS
DETROIT, MICH.
Catalogue of Sheet Music, Musical Merchandise or Band Instruments, free to any address.

Nelson O. Stevens
PENSIONS! Attorney
DETROIT, MICH.

N. W. AYER & SON
ADVERTISING AGENTS
TIMES BUILDING PHILADELPHIA
Cor. Chestnut and Eighth sts.
Receive Advertisements for this Paper.
ESTIMATES for NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING at Lowest Cash Rates FREE
Send for "Advertiser's Guide" AYER & SON'S MANUAL

WHEN LOVE AWAKES.

You say the dear old love is gone!
Love does not die, dear heart, I think;
We may not kiss lips as we did,
No love light in the eyes may shine
But love, since death, deep in the mine
Sleeps tranquilly or turns to hate.

And is this hate, my own dear heart,
That comes and gently strokes my hair?
Hate does not bid the swift tears start
At hasty words, nor does it care
To fondly raise the drooping head
And breathe [illegible]

It sleeps, it wanders, wanders far
Beyond the horizon's outmost rim,
Goes blindly on, from star to star,
But evermore comes back to him
Who worthily will calmly wait,
Love's waakening comes. You will not hate.

JESS

By H. RIDER HAGGARD,

Author of "King Solomon's Mines," "She," Etc.

And meanwhile, sounding sharp and clear across the din and hubbub of the storm, came the cracking of the three rifles whenever the flashes showed the whereabouts of the cart to the murderers on the bank. Mouti was lying still in the bottom on the bed plank, a bullet between his broad shoulders and another in his skull; but John felt that his life was yet whole in him, though something had hissed past his face and stung it. Instinctively he reached across the cart and drew Jess on to his knee, and cowered over her, thinking dimly that perhaps his body would protect her from the bullets.

Rip! rip! through the wood and canvas; phut! phut! through the air; but some merciful power protected them, and though one cut John's coat and two passed through the skirt of Jess' dress, not a bullet struck them. And very soon the shooting began to grow wild, and then that dense vail of rain came down and wrapped them so close that even the lightning could not show their whereabouts to the assassins on the bank.

"Stop shooting," said Frank Muller; "the cart has sunk, and there is an end of them. No human being can have lived through that fire and the Vaal in flood."

The two Boers ceased firing, and the Unicorn shook his head softly and remarked to his companion that the damned English people in the water could not be much wetter than they were on the bank. It was a curious thing to say at such a moment, but probably the spirit that animated the remark was not so much callousness as that which animated Cromwell, who flipped the ink in his neighbor's face when he signed the death warrant of his king.

Muller was also thinking of the warrant, which he had forged. He must get it back somehow, even if —

"Let us take shelter under the bank there. There is a flat place, about fifty yards up, where the bank lies over. This rain is drowning us. We can't unsaddle till it clears. I must have a nip of brandy, too, Almighty! I can see that girl's face now! the lightning shone on it just as I shot. Well, she will be in heaven now, poor thing, if English people ever go to heaven."

It was the Unicorn who spoke, and the Vilderbeeste made no reply, but advanced with him to where the horses stood. They took the patient brutes that were waiting for their masters, their heads well down and the water streaming from them, and led them along with them. Frank Muller stood by his own horse thinking, and watched them vanish into the gloom. How was he to get that warrant back without dyeing his hands even redder than they were?

As he thought, an answer came. For at that moment, accompanied by a fearful thunderclap, there shot from the storm overhead, which had now nearly passed away, one of those awful flashes that sometimes end an African tempest. It lit up the whole scene round as light as day, and right in the white heart of it Muller saw his two companions in crime and their horses as the great king saw the men in the furnace. They were about forty paces from him, on the crest of the bank. He saw them, one moment erect; the next—men and horses falling this way and that, prone to the earth. And then it was all dark again. He staggered with the shock, and when it had passed rushed to the spot, calling the men by name; but no answer came, except the echo of his voice. He was there now, and the moonlight began to struggle faintly through the rain. Its pale beams lit upon two outstretched forms—one lying on its back, its distorted features gazing up to heaven, the other on its face. By them, the legs of the nearest sticking straight into the air, lay the two horses. They had gone to their account. The lightning had killed them, as it kills many an innocent man in Africa.

Frank Muller looked; and then, forgetting about the warrant and everything else in the horror of what he took to be a visible judgment, rushed to his horse and galloped wildly away, pursued by all the terrors of hell.

CHAPTER XXIV.

THE SHADOW OF DEATH.

The firing from the bank had ceased, and John, who still kept his head (being a rather phlegmatic specimen of the Anglo-Saxon race), realized that, for the moment at any rate, all danger from that source was ended. Jess lay perfectly still in his arms, her head upon his breast; and a horrible idea struck him that she might be shot—perhaps already dead!

"Jess, Jess," he shouted, through the turmoil of the storm, "are you all right?"

She lifted her head an inch or two—"I think so," she said. "What is going on?"

"God only knows, I don't. Sit still, it will be all square."

But in his heart he knew that it was not all square, and that they were in imminent danger of death from drowning. They were whirling down a raging river in a cart. In a few moments it was probable that the cart would upset, and then —

Presently the wheel bumped against something, and the cart gave a great lurch and then scraped along a bit.

"Now for it," thought John; for the water was pouring over the flooring. Then came a check, and the cart leaned still farther over.

Crack! The pole had gone, and the cart swung round bows, or rather box, on to the stream. What had happened was this. The pole had stuck across a rock that projected up from the bed of the river, the force of the current in swing washed the dead horses to the one side and the cart to the other. Consequently they were anchored to the rock, as it were, the anchor being the dead horses and the cable the strongest traces of untanned leather. Sorely as to some extent the rest of the harness held they were, comparatively speaking, safe, but of course they did not know this. Indeed, they knew nothing. Above them rolled the storm, and round them the waters seethed and the rain hissed. They knew nothing except that they were in place living atoms, tossing between the wild waters and the wilder night, with passing death staring them in the face, around and above and below. To and fro they swung, locked tight in each other's arms, and so they did so, and that awful death that, though they knew it not, sent two of the murderers to their account, and for an instant, even through the sleet of rain, illumined the space of tossing water and the long lines of the banks on either side. It showed the point of rock to which they were fixed, it glared upon the head of one of the poor horses, tossed up by the driving current, as though it were trying to rise from its watery death, and revealed the form of the dead Zulu, Mouti, lying on the cart and dabbling in the water that ran level with it, in ghastly similarity to some idle passenger in a pleasure boat who lets his fingers slip softly through the stream.

In a second it was gone, and they were once more in darkness. But then by degrees the storm passed off and the moon began to shine, feebly indeed, for the sky was not clear washed of clouds, which still trailed along in the tracks of the tempest, sucked after it by its mighty draught. Still it was lighter, and the rain gradually thinned till at last it stopped. The storm had passed in majesty down the ways of the night, and there was no sound round them but the sound of running water.

"John," said Jess, presently, "can we do anything?"

"Nothing, dear!"

"Shall we escape, John?"

He hesitated. "It is in God's hands, dear. We are in great danger. If the cart upsets we shall be drowned. Can you swim?"

"No, John."

"If we can hang on here till daylight we may get ashore if those devils are not there to shoot us. I do not think that our chance is a good one."

"John, are you afraid to die?"

He hesitated. "I don't know, dear. I hope to meet it like a man."

"Tell me what you truly think. Is there any hope for us at all?"

Once more he paused, reflecting whether or not he should speak the truth. Finally he decided to do so.

"I can see none, Jess. If we are not drowned we are sure to be shot. They will wait about the bank till morning, and for their own sakes they will not dare to let us live."

He did not know that all that was left of two of them would indeed wait for many a long year, and that the third had fled aghast.

"Jess, dear," he went on, "it is no good to tell lies. Our lives may end any minute. Humanly speaking, they must end before the sun is up."

The words were awful enough—if the reader can by an effort of the imagination throw himself for a moment into the position of these two, he will, perhaps, understand how awful. It is a dreadful thing, when in the full flow of health and youth, to be suddenly placed face to face with the certainty of violent death and to know that in a few more minutes your course will have been run, and that you will have commenced to explore the future, which may prove to be even worse, because more enduring, than the life you are now quitting in agony. It is a dreadful thing, as any who have ever stood in such a peril can testify, and John felt his heart sink within him at the thought—for death is very strong. But there is one thing stronger—a woman's perfect love. Against this death cannot prevail. And so it came to pass that now, as he fixed his cold gaze upon Jess' eyes, they answered him with a strange, unearthly light. She feared not death so that she might meet with her beloved. Death was her hope and opportunity. Here she had none; there she might have all—or sleep. The fetters had fallen from her, struck off by an overmastering hand. Her duty was satisfied, her trust was fulfilled and she was free—free to died with her beloved. Ah! her love was, indeed, a love deeper than the grave; and now it rose in all its strength, standing tiptoe upon the earth, ready, when dissolution had lent its wings, to soar to love's own star.

"You are sure, John?" she asked again.

"Yes, dear, yes. Why do you force me to repeat it? I can see no hope."

Her arms were round his neck, her soft curls rested on his cheek, and the breath from her lips played upon his face. Indeed, it was only by speaking into each other's ears that conversation was feasible, owing to the rushing sound of the waters.

"Because I have something to tell you which I cannot tell unless we are going to die. You know it, but I want to say it with my own lips before I die. I love you, John; I love you, I love you, and I am glad to die because I can die with you and go away with you."

"I AM GLAD TO DIE, BECAUSE I CAN GO WITH YOU."

He heard, and such was the power of her love, that his, which had been put out of mind in the terror of that hour, rose up and took the color of her own. He, too, forgot the imminence of death in the warm presence of his down trodden passion. She was in his arms as he had taken her during the dance, and he bent his head to look at her. The moonlight played upon her pallid, quivering face, and showed that in her eyes which a man could look upon and turn away from no More—yes, even then there came to him that feeling of utter surrender to the sweet mastery of love will that had possessed him in the sitting room of The Palace. But now, all earthly considerations having faded away, he no longer hesitated, but pressed his lips against hers and kissed her again and again. It was perhaps as wild and pathetic a love scene as ever the old moon above looked upon. There they were, [illegible] experiencing the fullest and ardent love that life has to offer in the shadow of death. Nay, death was present with them, for there beneath their feet, half hidden by the water, was the stiffening corpse of the Zulu.

To and fro swung the cart, in the rush of the swollen river, up and down beside them the carcasses of the horses rose and fell with the swell of the water, on which some one had broken, as [illegible] through which they [illegible] to pass, and to the right and left the broken outlines of the banks stood out [illegible] the gloom.

But they [illegible] remembered nothing except that they were [illegible] found each other's hearts, and were [illegible] with a wild joy it is not after [illegible] the past was [illegible] hand, and here on the one side the [illegible] stunned [illegible] by the approaching [illegible] consuming fire.

Let those who will think about [illegible] a while. Why not? They had kept the faith. They had denied themselves and run straightly down the path of duty. But the compacts of life end with life. No man may bargain for the beyond. Even the marriage service goes out when life was at its extremest ebb, why should they not take their happiness before they passed to the land where, perchance, all things will be forgotten? So it seemed to them, if indeed they were any longer capable of reason.

He looked into her eyes and she laid her head upon his heart in that mute abandonment of worship which is sometimes to be met with in this world, and is redeemed from vulgar passion by an indefinable quality of its own. He looked into her eyes and was glad, to have lived, ay, even to have reached this hour of death. And she, lost in the depths of her new passion, [illegible] poison [illegible] heart upon his breast, and called that drown, her own, her very own!

And so the long hours passed on, at last a new born freshness in the air told them that they were not far from dawn. The death they were waiting for had not yet come. It must now be very near at hand.

"John," she whispered in his ear, "do you think that they will shoot us?"

"Yes," he said, fiercely; "they must for their own safety."

"I wish it were over," she said.

Suddenly she started back from his arms, with a little cry, causing the cart to rock violently.

"I forgot," she said—"you can swim, though I cannot. Why cannot you swim to the bank and get off under cover of the darkness. It is not more than fifty yards, and the current is not so very swift?"

The idea of escaping without Jess had never occurred to him, and now that she suggested it, it struck him as so absurd that he actually broke into a ghost of a laugh.

"Don't talk nonsense, Jess," he said.

"Yes, yes, I will. Go! You must go! It does not matter about me now. I know you love me and I can die happy. I will wait for you. Oh, John! wherever I am, if I have any life and any remembrance, I will wait for you. Never forget that all your life. However far I may seem away, if I live at all, I shall be waiting for you. And now go, you shall go! I say. No, I will not be disobeyed. It will not be! I will throw myself into the water. Oh, the cart is turning over!"

"Hold on for God's sake!" shouted John. "The traces have broken."

He was right; the tough leather was at length worn through by the constant rubbing against the rock and the strain and swaying of the cart on the one side and the dead horses on the other. It rolled right broadside on the current, and immediately began to heave over till at last the angle was so sharp that the dead body of poor Mouti slid out with a splash, and vanished into the darkness. This relieved the cart, and it righted for a moment, but now no longer held up by the bodies of the horses, or by the restraining power of the wood, it began to fill and sink, and at the same time to revolve round and round. John realized that it was all up, and that to stop in the cart would probably mean certain death, because they would be held under water by the canvas tent. So with a desperate aspiration for assistance he seized Jess round the waist with one arm and, springing off into the water. As he did so the cart filled and sank.

"Let go! for Heaven's sake!" he shouted, as they rose to the surface.

In the dim light of the dawn, which was now creeping over the earth, he could make out the line of the left bank of the Vaal, the same from which they had started into the river on the previous night. It appeared to be about forty yards away, but the current was running quite six knots, and he realized that, burdened as he was, it would be quite impracticable for him to try and reach it. The only thing to do was to keep afloat. Luckily the water was warm and he was a strong swimmer. In a minute or so he made out that about fifty paces ahead some rocks jutted out twenty yards into the bed of the stream. Then, catching Jess by the hair with his left hand, he made his effort, and a desperate one it was. The broken water boiled furiously round the rocks. Presently he was in it, and, better still, his feet touched the ground. Next second he was swept off them and rolled over and over at the bottom of the river, getting sadly knocked about against the bowlders. Somehow he struggled to his legs, still retaining his hold of Jess. Twice he fell, and twice he struggled up again. One more effort—so. The water was only up to his thighs now, and he was obliged to half carry his companion. As he lifted her he felt a dreadful sickness come over him, but still he struggled on like a man, till at last they both fell of a heap upon a big flat rock, and for a while he remembered no more.

When he came to himself again it was to find Jess, who had recovered sooner than he, standing over him and chafing his hands. Indeed, as the sun was up, he guessed that he had lost his senses for some time. He rose with some difficulty and shook himself. Except for some bruises he was sound enough.

"Are you hurt?" he asked of Jess, who, pale and faint and bruised, her hair down, her dress torn by briars and the rocks, and dripping water at every step, looked an exceedingly forlorn object.

"No," she said, hoarsely, "not very much."

He sat down on the rock in the sun, for they were both shivering with cold. "Want to die, Jess?" he asked.

"Die," she said, drowsily, "I meant to do anything I could to be married, but this is a passion that only death can set straight."

"Don't be alarmed," he said, "your dreams will soon be gratified. I see mischief coming of it, though, but no opportunity."

The bed and banks of the river were clothed with thin layers of mist, but as the sun gathered power these lifted. The spot where they had gone ashore was about 300 yards below that where the two Boers and their horses had been destroyed by the lightning on the previous night. Seeing the mist lift, John insisted upon Jess crouching with him, behind a rock, so that they could look up and down the river without being seen themselves. Presently he made out the forms of two horses grazing about 200 yards away.

"Ah," he said, "I thought so; the devils have off saddled there. Thank heaven, I have still got my revolver and the cartridges are water tight. I mean to sell our lives as dearly as I can."

"Why, John," said Jess, following the line of his outstretched hand, "those are not the Boers' horses; they are our two leaders that broke from the wagon. Look, there's the collars around them."

"By Jove, so they are. Now, if only we can catch them without being caught ourselves, we have a chance of getting out of this."

"Well, there is no [illegible] about that, I have seen any [illegible] Let [illegible] They [illegible] the gloom.

"[illegible] the first [illegible] Transvaal [illegible] Jess [illegible] hand, [illegible] along the bank [illegible] rushed [illegible] where that cart stuck in some reeds." It was the basket of food which had been given to them by the innkeeper's wife at Heidelberg. It had been washed out of the cart, and, as the lid was fastened, nothing had been lost out of it. He undid it, [illegible] touched, also most of the eggs, meat and bread, which last was, of course, sodden and worthless. It did not take long to get the cork out, and then John filled a broken wine-glass there was in the basket half full of water and half of brandy, and made Jess drink it, with the result that she began to look a little less like a corpse. Next he repeated the process twice on his own account, and instantly felt as though new life was flowing into him. Then they went cautiously on.

The horses allowed them to catch them without trouble, and did not appear to be any [illegible] by the lightning.

"There is a tree there where the bank shelves over; we had better tie the horses up, dress and get some breakfast," said John, almost cheerfully, and accordingly they proceeded thither. Suddenly John, who was ahead, started back with an exclamation of fear, and the horses began to snort, for there, stark and stiff in death, and already swollen and discolored by decomposition—as is sometimes the case with people killed by lightning—the rifles in their hands twisted and fused, their clothes cut and blown from the bodies by the explosion of the cartridges in their bandoliers—lay the two Boers themselves. It was a terrifying sight, and, taken in conjunction with their own remarkable escape, one to make the most careless and skeptical reflect.

"And yet there are people who say that there is no such thing as a God and no punishment for wickedness," said John aloud.

CHAPTER XXV.

MEANWHILE

John, it will be remembered, left Moolfontein for Pretoria toward the end of December and with him went all the life and light of the place.

"Dear me, Bessie," said old Silas Croft on the evening after he had started, "the place seems very full without John," a remark into which Bessie, who was secretly weeping in the corner, heartily concurred.

Then a few days afterward, came the news of the investment of Pretoria, but no news of John. They ascertained that he had passed Standerton in safety, but beyond that nothing could be heard of him. Day after day passed, but no news, and at last, one evening Bessie broke out in a passion of hysterical tears.

"What did you send him for?" he asked of her uncle. "It was ridiculous—I knew it was ridiculous. He could not help Jess or get her back, the most that could happen was that they both would be shot up together. And now he is dead—I know that those Boers have shot him—and it is all your fault; And if he is dead I will never speak to you again."

The old man retreated, somewhat dismayed at this outburst, which was not at all in Bessie's style.

"Ah, well," he said to himself, "that is the way of women, they turn into tigresses about a man."

There may have been truth in the reflection, but a tiger is not a pleasant or desirable pet, as poor Silas found out during the next two months. The more Bessie thought about the matter the more incensed she grew at his having sent her lover away. Indeed in a little while she quite forgot that she had herself acquiesced in his going. In short, her temper completely gave way under the strain, that at last he uncle scarcely dared to mention John's name.

Meanwhile things had been going as ill without as within. First of all—that was the day after John's departure—two or three Loyal Boers and an English storekeeper from Lake Chrissie, in New Scotland, outspanned on the place and came and implored Silas Croft to fly for his life into Natal while there was yet time. They said that the Boers would certainly shoot any Englishmen who might be sufficiently defenseless. But the old man would not listen.

"I am an Englishman—civis Romanus sum," he said, in his sturdy fashion, "and I do not believe that they will touch me, who have lived among them for twenty years. At any rate, I am not going to run away and leave my place at the mercy of a pack of thieves. If they shoot me they will have to reckon with England for the deed, so I expect that they will leave me alone. Bessie can go if she likes, but I shall stop here and see the row through, and there's an end of it." Whereon, Bessie, loyal lady, declared to budge an inch, the loyalists departed in a hurry, metaphorically wringing their hands at such an exhibition of ill placed confidence and insular pride. This little scene occurred at dinner time, and after dinner old Silas proceeded to hurl defiance at his foes in another fashion. Going to a cupboard in his bedroom, he extracted an exceedingly large Union Jack, and promptly addressed with it to an open spot between two of the orange trees in front of the house, whereon a flagstaff was planted, formed of a very tall young pine gum, in such a position that it could be seen for miles around. On this flagstaff it was old Silas's habit to hoist the Union Jack on the queen's birthday, Christmas day, and other state occasions.

"Now, Jantje," he said, when he had bent on the flag and hoisted it up, and I'll chase," and, according, as the broad flag floated out on the breeze, he took off his hat and waved it, and gave such a "rip, hip, hurrah" in his stentorian tones that Bessie came running down from the house to see what was the matter. Nor was he satisfied with this feat, having obtained a ladder, he placed it against the post and sent Jantje up it, instructing him to fasten the rope on which the flag was bent about fifteen feet from the ground, so that nobody should get at it to haul it down.

"There," said, "I've nailed my colors to the mast. That will show these gentry that an Englishman lives here,

Confound their politics
Frustrate their knavish tricks
God save the queen."

"Amen," said Bessie, but she had not [illegible] about the wisdom of that Union Jack which, whenever the wind blew, streamed out a visible defiance not calculated to soothe the breast of excited patriots.

Indeed, two days after that, a party of three Boers, among the crowd, where yet a long way off, came galloping up in hot haste to see what it meant. Some saw them coming, and taking his rifle in her hand, went out to stand on guard for which he had an almost superstitious veneration, feeling sure that he would not dare to fire on the queen's own [illegible]

"What is the meaning of this, Oom Silas?" said the leader, as they drew rein at the gate [illegible]

"Meaning of it, Jan? [illegible] Transvaal [illegible] Union Jack [illegible] Queen's birthday, Christmas day, and other state occasions."

"[illegible] Jan, [illegible] Boers [illegible] Union Jack [illegible] Queen's birthday

Tecumseh Herald

TECUMSEH, MICH., AUG. [illegible]

LENAWEE'S LONG BRANCH

A Sunday Trip to Devils Lake and a Few Notes Gathered by the Wayside.

The C. J. & M. excursion train to Devils Lake was crowded last Sunday when its passenger coaches [illegible] passengers outside the main at this station. It was a typical Sunday excursion crowd, composed for the most part of mechanics and their families, taking advantage of the only day of rest they have in which to enjoy the refreshing breezes of the lake. A sprinkling of business men should also be seen in the crowd giving it an air of gentleness and respect. It was an orderly crowd and everybody settled themselves for a quiet, good natured visit where the train dashed along through the country villages at Clifton and Onsted to take on more passengers. A brief hour's ride brings them to the lake and as the crowd starts off the train they are greeted by inspiring strains of music rendered by the Tecumseh City Band who are playing the [illegible] polka. The band numbers [illegible] and is the finest band in the county. Tecumseh City [illegible] crowd of visitors [illegible] and rows around for the opposite side of the lake. Passing steamer City of Hillsdale, [illegible] walk.

A [illegible] of the events of this day [illegible] Devils Lake hotel for some time, it has been today [illegible] crowded with people [illegible] Tecumseh people who have taken their temporary abode at the lake, which were [illegible] Henry Meredith [illegible] Tecumseh [illegible] surroundings [illegible] of the Adrian K. P.'s and were the only Knights that [illegible] Tecumseh.

A stroll at the south of the most pleasant features of the lake. As the steamer leaves the dock you will feel the cool, refreshing breeze [illegible] the lake and forget that there is [illegible] anything as hot and dusty streets. [illegible] and give yourselves up to the full enjoyment of the enchanting scenery along the shores. Glimpses through the foliage you catch a glimpse of Brazee's hotel, and half a mile further on, high up on the bluff, projecting out in the lake are the cottages of Dr. Ringle of Adrian, and Chas. Burridge, Esq., of Tecumseh, one of the finest locations on the lake. Mr. Burridge's cottage was occupied by himself and son Walter, and Chas. Field and Jno. Primrose. H. E. Anderson of Tecumseh, owns a fine piece of land adjoining the lake near Allen's hotel, and intends to build a cottage thereon next season. The boat rounds the bend and a glimpse of Beardsley's mammoth hotel can be had off to the right, and on the left the landing of Coe & Vance, and the white tents of the Knights picturesquely grouped on the shore, presenting a warlike appearance greatly at variance with a peaceful Sunday.

The camp is the most interesting spectacle to be seen. There are eighteen tents arranged in a semi circle and accommodate about forty Knights. The attendance is smaller than was expected. The band has quarters at the entrance to the street in two commodious tents. The usual program for the day is drill at 10 o'clock in the morning and dress parade at six P.M., and the attendance of spectators is always large at these performances. The dress parade was earlier than usual on Sunday, it was about four o'clock when the bugle sounded, and the Tecumseh City band appeared with the big drum major twirling his baton with lightning like rapidity at their head. They were seventeen strong and presented a fine appearance and played accordingly. After them came the "markers." They took their position on the field, the band struck up and the Sir Knights marched three abreast to the parade ground their swords flashing in the sunlight and their appearance both handsome and commanding. They go through the exercise the drum major twirls his stick, the band plays an inspiring quickstep and all march back to the tents.

A stroll through the grounds is the next move and it seems as though every other person you meet with is from Tecumseh. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Waring are spending the week at the camp with Mrs. Waring's father Mr. Rogers, a Knight. L. F. Wheeler was seen with his camera on his shoulder. He has been taking views during the week and otherwise enjoying himself. About 5:30 o'clock the steamers are at the dock to transfer the excursionists across to the station. There are four and are soon filled and ready to start. The fastest and by far the handsomest is the little steamer owned by B. J. Collier of Adrian. He burns crude oil [illegible] alike a racer. The large one of Beardsley's is pleasant to ride on and there is plenty of room for 500 on board. The "Maple City" and "Tecumseh Chief" are both good boats and are well patronized. It was nearly 7 o'clock for the train to start when the boats arrived at the station, and the excursionists immediately boarded the cars and were soon wending toward home after a day of enjoyment thoroughly [illegible] of the lake.

SAND LAKE RIFFLES.

Neil Conklin of Tecumseh visited here Tuesday.

L. S. Osborne and wife of Tecumseh were at the lake Sunday.

H. C. Beardsley, representing the Detroit Evening Journal, registered at the Lake Park house Tuesday.

F. M. Brown of Stanton, Mich., is recuperating at the lake this week. He is stopping at the Lake Park house.

Miss Lizzie Brown, of Tecumseh, is visiting this week at the lake, and will go to Devils Lake next week.

Miss Dora Anthony, of Ransom, is visiting at one of the Adrian cottages this week in company with friends from that city.

Mrs. Ira Hack, Mrs. Wm. Hack and daughter, Mrs. Rose, Flora Root, Miss Hurt and Walter Hack, of Tecumseh, spent Tuesday at the lake.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Kennedy, Mrs. N. J. Satterthwaite and Miss Libbie Satterthwaite, of Tecumseh, accompanied the Rose party Tuesday.

Mrs. D. W. Clark, Miss Nannie Reed, Mrs. Wilson, Miss Fannie Stockbridge and Miss Alice Wimple, of Tecumseh, are stopping at the Sand Lake house for a few days. They came Tuesday.

About 40 picnickers from Ransom, led by Putnam's group, last Tuesday, enjoyed a ride on the steamer G. A. R. in the afternoon. It was what might be termed a "quaker" picnic.

Henry Smith, wife and daughter, and Miss Carrie Hand, of Tecumseh, accompanied by Mrs. Geo. Smith of Toledo, Mrs. Kurtz and daughter of Youngstown, O., and Miss Maggie Brickner, of New York, enjoyed a day at the lake last Tuesday.

The season at this pleasure resort is now at its height. The hotels are crowded, the cottages are all full, and picnickers take possession of the groves almost every day. The steamers, G. A. R. and Manitou, at regular intervals go puffing around the lake with their loads of pleasure seekers, and sail and row boats are seen everywhere dotting the water.

Asa Howe's Tecumseh stage arrived Tuesday morning with the largest load of the season. There were 14 beside himself and numerous "grip sacks," and lunch baskets. About a dozen also came up on the C. J. & M. and were met at Pentecost by him. He intends to put on an extra stage as soon as possible.

There is still the old strife between the G. A. R. owner and Putnam, and the former steamer is debarred from landing at the latter's dock. The G. A. R. took a load of passengers from the dock of Judge Howell last Tuesday, and another lawsuit will probably be the result, although they were given permission to land there by Mr. Howell's son. Mr. Putnam would gain more friends in Tecumseh by letting the matter drop.

The first thing that attracts the attention of visitors to the lake as they drive into the Lake Park house grounds is the second cottage on the left. The whole front is entirely given up to hammocks, and about a dozen can be seen swinging lazily in the breeze and each one containing feminine bits of humanity, some of them are not very small bits either. And if you happen to glance out into the lake you will doubtless see several more of the aforesaid bits disporting themselves in the cooling waters arrayed in bathing suits of variegated colors. The occupants of this cottage are young ladies from Tecumseh, Adrian and Albion, 15 in number, and comprise the following from Tecumseh: Misses Nellie Cole, Minnie Jones, Cora Jones, Lulu Jones, Stella Cleveland, Ella Jackson, Nellie Conklin, Hattie Conklin, Lillie Tilden, Adah Ames, Jennie Heck, Albion, Belle Gutches. From Adrian, Misses Florence Avery, Blanche Avery, Jennie Sager. Mrs. P. V. Woodward, of Tecumseh, is chaperoning the young ladies and a pleasant week will be passed by them. A glance inside the cottage shows everything in neat order, and a piano in the sitting room furnishes plenty of music for dancing, singing, etc. On the night of their arrival, or rather about 3 o'clock in the morning, they were treated to a serenade by members of Hunt's orchestra and boarders from the hotel, but were equal to the occasion, and the serenaders were invited in and treated to the best the house afforded. No drowning or accidents have as yet befell them, unless we mention the fact that one young lady was so overcome while out boating as to fall in a faint, but was luckily caught by her male escort. It required several pails of lake water to revive her.

TEMPERANCE COLUMN.

THE LOGIC OF THE LUCIFER MATCH.

When Richard Cobden was working to secure cheaper bread for England's poor, by the repeal of the Corn Laws, his opponents [illegible] rise as corn rises, abundance of corn makes the price of corn low, and consequently makes wages low." James Lankester, a poor laborer pressed with "a feeling of [illegible] this state [illegible] could marry, [illegible] and therefore [illegible] wages would be increased, set fire to Farmer Hobbs' stacks. Baron Alderson before whom the case was tried, [illegible] this most strange and extraordinary application of the doctrines of political economy, sentenced Lankester to transportation for life."

In his speech Mr. Cobden used this incident with telling effect, denouncing such philosophy. "The logic of the incident," said he, "is the logic of the anti-corn law agitators who would frighten farmers out of voting for repeal by the assertion that if the distilleries are closed there will be no market for grain. For the conversion of grain into alcoholic drinks is simply destruction of so much food product, parallel to the burning of Farmer Hobbs' stacks. There is no more logic in declaring that this destruction and waste good for other property or consumer in the one case than in the other. The whole argument, if argument there be, rests upon the fallacy that there is, or can be, over-production of the necessities of life. The trouble is not over-production, but under consumption. If the making and drinking of intoxicants were prohibited, the consumption of the necessaries of life would so increase as very far to overbalance all falling off in demands from brewers and distillers.

In last year's Fair Issue we demonstrated this in regard to corn, showing that if men will stop drinking, they and their families will, through the beef they eat, furnish market for seven bushels of corn for every one previously sold to the distillers. A study of the conditions of society at home and abroad will show that closing the breweries and distilleries will increase, rather than decrease, the market for everything the farmer can raise. Rev. William Burgess of Ontario, has written a book, "Land, Labor and Liquor," full of facts and figures upon this subject. They are prepared for Canadian readers, but many of them are applicable to the United States. We advise our readers to send to the Willard Tract Depository, Toronto, for the book. Meanwhile we shall make free use of its material, returning hearty thanks therefor.

Statistics show that in England and Wales alone there are 581,737 persons receiving "outdoor relief" as paupers, besides the great army in the poor houses. Of course these paupers do not produce as much as they consume, or they would not need relief. Other statistics show that at least three-fourths of this pauperism is due to intemperance; that is at the lowest estimate, 400,000 persons receive aid from the state because, through intemperance of themselves or others, they are incapacitated from earning their own living. Abolish the drink, and these 400,000 will cease to depend on charity. This means increased demands for food stuffs, as well as all other necessities, for paupers receive only the barest support. So soon as a man becomes sober and industrious, he is not contented with pauper fare. He buys more comforts for his family, and thus extends the market for all legitimate products. The increased demand from this one cause alone would more than balance the present demand of the brewer and distiller.

Some curious facts substantiating this position, were brought out during the Irish famines. At two periods, 1809-10 and 1813-14, the distilleries were closed by government because of the famines, on the ground that they wasted the grain which should be used as food. But, to the astonishment of all, the years of scarcity, with prohibition, proved better than the years of plenty without it. The average consumption of spirits for the years 1811-12 and 1815-16, those following the famine years, was seven and a half million gallons, the average for the famine years was only a little over four millions; but parliamentary returns show that the purchases of the necessaries of life during the famine years, with prohibition, was largely in excess of those of the years of plenty and open distilleries. For example, the purchase of dry goods during the famine year amounted to 3,738,514 yards, and during the years of plenty it fell to 2,372,441 yards, a decrease of 1,366,070, over thirty-three and a third per cent. Over sixty thousand blankets were purchased in the prohibition year, as against 29,003 when whisky was free. 38,[illegible] pounds of sugar, as against 306,954 pounds, and so on, through a long list of articles. Shut up the distilleries and the families of reformed drunkards will make a market for all the farmers can produce.

Barley bears the same relation to the brewery that corn does to the distillery. There is no other market for barley. Leaving out of sight its value as a food for man, because of the great prejudice the average American cherishes against black bread, let us look at its value as a feeder for animals. In England the Lincolnshire, Yorkshire, Wiltshire, Hampshire, and Norfolk farmers, whose pork has the reputation of being the best in the world, all feed their hogs barley meal. These hogs, when taken [illegible] and, what appears remarkable to American farmers, these whole hogs bring the highest price per pound. Regarded the best [illegible] meat is preferred as the sweetest and best. The same thing is found true in feeding to cattle and poultry.

Experiments were instituted by government to ascertain the value of barley in fattening beef, and also its effects in the production of milk and butter. These experiments continuing three months were made under the supervision of Professor Thompson of the University of Glasgow, and resulted in proving the great value of barley in all these respects. Comparisons were made between barley and oats by selecting two animals and subjecting them to the conditions, except that one was fed on barley, the other on oats, the experiment being repeated often enough to establish the facts that one hundred pounds of barley was equal to one hundred thirty pounds of malt in nourishing power.

And this brings out another point, that in changing barley to malt, nearly one third of its nourishing qualities, as experiments show, is left in the spent product, dried, or the distillery slops on which thousands of cattle are fed.

Statistics can be piled [illegible] page on page to show that all over the world there are hungry people—hungry because of the drink traffic—to be fed. So long as this is true there is no danger of injuring the grain market by closing the breweries and distilleries. Even if their closing should decrease the demand for corn and barley—which it will not do—it would lead farmers to cultivating a greater variety of crops, which would be a blessing both to their land and to their pockets. No class of community will be more benefited by prohibition than the farmers, as those in Iowa and Kansas can testify.

An incidental proof of this fact is found in the rapidity with which Kansas farmers have paid off the mortgages on their farms since prohibition became the law of the state. A large proportion of farms in new countries are purchased by poor men on borrowed capital secured by mortgage on the land. Extended inquiries convince us that in the history of no new state have these mortgages been paid off so promptly as they have been in Kansas during the past five years.

GRAND EXCURSION TO NIAGARA FALLS

At the Lowest Rates ever Offered.

On Thursday, August 11th, there will be a Grand Excursion to Niagara Falls via. the Wabash Short line and Grand Trunk Ry. G. W. Div. leaving Adrian at 6:20 A. M. and arriving at the Falls at 5:30 P. M. Rate for the Round trip only $5.00. Tickets good returning up to and including August 16th, 1887. For full particulars apply at the Wabash Ticket office at Adrian, Mich.

Petersburg is watching the building of a free Methodist church.

Some Foolish People

Allow a cough to run until it gets beyond the reach of medicine. They often say, Oh, it will wear away, but in most cases it wears them away. Could they be induced to try the successful medicine called Kemp's Balsam, which we sell on a positive guarantee to cure, they would immediately see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial size free at Baker & Hall.

Test by the United States Government, Endorsed by the heads of the Great Universities as the Strongest, Purest, and most Healthful. Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder does not contain Ammonia, Lime or Alum. Sold only in cans. PRICE BAKING POWDER CO. [illegible]

EVERYTHING
EVERYTHING
EVERYTHING

AT AND BELOW COST FOR 30 DAYS.

To make room for Fall Stock we will offer extremely low prices until Sept. 1st.

Suits 25 per cent. off.
Pants 25 per cent. off.
Children's Clothing 25 per cent. off.

Everything pertaining to men's wear at correspondingly low prices. Now is the time to procure a winter outfit cheap.

STRONG & McNAIR.

A FREE EXCURSION

FREE EXCURSION

We are selling the

Best English Crockery

Below we give a few prices:

56 piece Tea Set,	$2.75
12 Cups and Saucers,	.60
Wash Bowl and Pitcher,	.65
Toilet Set,	1.90

We have only a few left.

To H. E. Anderson's.

To H. E. ANDERSON'S

Great Bargains

AT

J. S. KINNEY'S!

IN

FURNITURE

OF LATEST STYLES AND BEST WORKMANSHIP.

SUITES of ALL KINDS.

Shades, Carpets, Rollers, etc., at very Low Prices for Cash. I keep

FULL LINE OF UNDERTAKING

In Wood, Cloth, Metalic Cases, and I have the agency of the new INDESTRUCTIBLE MARBLE CASKETS of all kinds, very fine. Undertaking in all Branches attended to. PRICES REASONABLE.

TEMPLE, McCLURE & CO.

Successors to

Wolcott, Temple & Co.

Wholesale and Retail Dealers in

Lumber, Lath, Shingles, Sash and Doors

AND ALL KINDS OF BUILDING MATERIAL.

Planing, Sawing, Matching to Order

Mill and Yard North of Railroad Depot.

TECUMSEH, MICHIGAN.

A HANDSOME WEDDING, BIRTHDAY OR HOLIDAY PRESENT.

THE WONDERFUL

LUBURG CHAIR

Combining a Parlor, Library, Smoking, Reclining or Invalid CHAIR, LOUNGE, BED, or COUCH.

Price $7.00 and up. Sent C.O.D. Express charges paid by us to any station in the United States. Shipped in parts of the world. Send for Catalogue.

CHILDREN'S CARRIAGES

All furnished with the Automatic Coach Brake, and at our Wholesale Prices. Send stamp for Catalogue.

50 Choices. OVER

THE LUBURG MANF'G CO., 145 N. 8th St., Philada., Pa.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

LOST.—While going to the fire yesterday a Waterbury watch with small gold chain attached, and sea beach charm. Finder will confer a favor by leaving it at the HERALD OFFICE.

FOUND.—A pocketbook last Sunday near the entrance to Hills' race track. Owner can have same by proving property and paying for this notice. ORVILLE BROOK.

FOR SALE.—I have for sale 40 acres of timberland situated in section one of the Ridgeway. Parties desiring to buy may enter the timber alone, or both together. For information enquire of GEO. PRICE, Tecumseh.

[illegible] Sale. Enquire of MRS. M. E. BROWN.

NOTICE.—Having decided to move to Tecumseh I shall be greatly obliged if those indebted to me will call at my office and make a settlement. R. B. HOUSE.

GOOD CHANCE.—Owing to the continued illness of my mother, I am compelled to dispose of my confectionery, ice cream and soda business, and return east. It is a good business, on the merits of the business. Parties to call and see for themselves what it is. Will sell for cash or give time on part payment to a good party. I. G. RAWSON.

PURE CIDER VINEGAR.—I have a few barrels of pure cider vinegar for sale. ABNER WILSON.

FOR SALE.—A desirable residence corner Maumee and Sup. sts. Enquire on the premises. F. C. TEMPLE.

FOR SALE.—My property opposite the Methodist church, consisting of a saloon and dwelling, and a large new dwelling and barn next north, adjoining the factory. The title to the saloon property is good, and I can give a good title to the other property. Terms easy to suit purchaser. For particulars enquire of HERALD OFFICE.

STRAYED OR STOLEN.—A red heifer strayed or stolen from my premises in Raisin, about two weeks ago. Any one bringing to its owner or giving information shall be rewarded. GEO. HOLLOWAY

FOR SALE.—I offer my place for sale cheap. It is located just west of Abner Wilson's farm, on the Ridge turnpike, in Tecumseh. Good house and barn, and two acres of land. For price, call on Abner Wilson or on the subscriber on the premises. Household goods will be sold. WILLIAM SMITH.

SAND LAKE.—I will run a carriage from Tecumseh to Sand Lake on for a few weeks, until further notice. Leave orders for the round trip at Hartley's drug store, or will be called for at their residence on Monday morning. ASA HOWE.

—EVERY DAY—

WEED SCUFFLERS.—An indispensable tool for farmers and gardeners for attaching to hoes and other cultivators. Made from best cast steel, and warranted to work. W. P. DEMING, Tecumseh, Mich.

WANTED.—One agent in each of the following counties, viz.: Hillsdale, Monroe, Lenawee, Delaware, to sell my Spring Bed. Only good article sold. Best bed made. Liberal inducements. Exclusive sale to Agents. For particulars apply to J. S. KINNEY, Tecumseh.

Joseph Bean of Adrian is in town today on business.

Remember the big picnic at Devils Lake on the 18th.

The lake Shore freight train going north this morning was about one hour and a half late. While near Chase's cross-ing running at full speed a woman by the name of Storey threw herself in front of the engine and was instantly killed. She was evidently crazy.

Four coaches filled to overflowing made up the Ridgeway S. S. excursion to Devils Lake yesterday. We understand that 300 tickets were sold. The Britton Band went along and furnished music for the crowd. Notwithstanding the fearfully hot weather the participants had a very enjoyable time.

The following excursions are announced by the Wabash Western Ry.: To Chicago Aug. 7th leaving Adrian at 9 A. M. good returning in 5 days. Also round trip, To Niagara Falls leaving Adrian at 7 A. M. Aug. 11th and 9 A. M. Aug. 17th, both good returning in 5 days, fare $5.00 round trip.

The Reunion of the Supervisors and County officials of Lenawee Co. will be held on Aug. 17th, at John Frazee's, at the north end of Devils Lake. This reunion proved to be a most enjoyable one last year, and it will doubtless be more generally attended this year, being the following day Aug. 18th, the big Union picnic will be held at Allen's Island Grove. Many people will make their arrangements to take in both days.

The Peoples Union Picnic will be held at Allen's Island Grove, at the north end of Devils Lake on Thursday Aug. 18th, the day following the Supervisors Reunion. A fine program will be presented and good music will be in attendance. Special trains and reduced rates on the C. L. & M. The managers intend making this the big picnic of the season and they will doubtless have a big gathering. Provide your lunch baskets for the 18th.

Henry McClure died this morning at five o'clock, aged forty-two years. He sustained a stroke of apoplexy on the Sunday three weeks ago and never rallied from that attack. For the past two or three days he has been growing worse and his friends could see that his death was rapidly approaching. He leaves a wife and children. The funeral services will be held next Saturday afternoon at two o'clock, at the Presbyterian church.

Citizen's Meeting.

The citizens of Tecumseh are requested to meet at the Council Rooms next Monday evening, Aug. 8th, at 8 o'clock to appoint committees and make other arrangements to make the 8th Regiment reunion to be held here on the 26th a grand success. Tecumseh should show her hospitality on that occasion. Let there be a good attendance at the meeting.

DANL. T. HALL, Village Pres.

THE TECUMSEH HERALD.

TECUMSEH, MICH., AUG. 4, 1887.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

I. G. Rawson is on the sick list.

Miss Kate Fawger went to Hillsdale last Friday.

Lorenzo Daniels of Ogden has received a pension.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Sutton visited friends at Union City this week.

Miss Adah Foster has accepted a clerical position in the Hillsdale County Saw Room.

Nearly one hundred Tecumsehites went to Devils Lake last Sunday on the excursion train.

Harry Stevens is taking Geo. Schrader's position in the telephone office during his absence at camp.

Mrs. John Rice and Harry Williams of Buffalo, N. Y., were visiting at Wm Hayden's last week.

Quite a number of Tecumseh Masons took in the Knights Templar encampment at Devils Lake last week.

The Mackinaw line have issued handbills describing the three lake resorts on their road, viz: Sand Lake, Devils Lake and Gull Lake.

R. S. Barnes of Adrian, was in town last Saturday on business. His furniture factory is now running full time with a large force of hands.

Six coach loads of excursionists went to Toledo over the L. S. & M. S. road from Jackson last Sunday. It went under the auspices of the Emmet Rifles.

The Tecumseh Band had a fine time at the K. T. encampment. The boys had a fine time, and what is better still their music gave excellent satisfaction.

Mrs. R. B. House bade good-bye to her Tecumseh home last week and departed for Springfield, Ohio. The best wishes of her many friends accompanied her.

Thos. H. Mosher was in town a short time on Monday, on his way from the K. T. encampment at Devils Lake to Manchester. Mr. Mosher is generally on hand when any Masonic gathering takes place.

P. W. Adams and wife started for their Delaware home on Tuesday. They have spent about six weeks in Tecumseh during their present stay, and have hardly finished their visit yet. But they must be home before the peach crop comes on.

The regular edition of the Detroit Weekly Free Press has been enlarged to ten pages in order to accommodate its new agricultural department. The Free Press will be sent four months on trial to any address for 25 cents. Subscriptions at this rate will be received at the Herald office.

The Crayon portrait of Gen. Custer, which has been ornamenting Hayden's show window for the past few days, was a gift from the General's father, E. B. Custer, to Lt. Elliott Gray's daughters. They will prize the gift very highly, both for the portrait itself and the source from which it came.

The editor of the Adrian Times must have been on a fishing excursion. He says: Fishing parties at Sand and Columbia lakes report that there is no change in the style of fishing tackle this year except that the body of the jug is somewhat larger and the neck not quite so long.

A veteran correspondent, writing to the Times from Franklin, says: We see that preparations are being made by the citizens of Adrian for the G. A. R. encampment. We sincerely hope they will do better than they have done for the old Fourth regiment, at the reunions the regiment has held there."

We have received from Frank Swick a copy of the "trade edition" of the Kalamazoo Telegraph. It is the finest paper of the kind that has fallen under our notice, containing twenty pages of six columns each, of description and illustrated matter. It makes a splendid showing for the business interests of Kalamazoo.

More than two-thirds of the G. A. R. posts in the district have already signified their intention of attending the coming encampment in this city, by making requisitions for tents. The post of Morenci, writes that they will need 30 tents, and all the indications point to the largest and most successful reunion ever held by the association. Guy Luce writes that he will arrive here at 4 o'clock in the afternoon of August 31, and Senator Palmer has also accepted an invitation to be present. Adrian Times.

Below is the record of the weather by Geo. Merritt's thermometer during the last two weeks in July, taken in the afternoon of each day:

July 18,	2:30 P. M.		84
" 19,	"	"	90
" 20,	"	"	94
" 21,	"	"	99
" 22,	"	"	90
" 23,	"	"	78
" 25,	"	"	88
" 26,	"	"	92
" 27,	"	"	98
" 28,	"	"	92
" 29,	"	"	96
" 30,	12 M.		100
"	2 P. M.		98

Miss Gettie Spaulding is visiting relatives in Chicago this week.

[illegible] ing for Detroit for a few weeks visit.

Misses Vadah and Ida Shaw, of Saline, were visiting Miss Mamie Haight last week.

[illegible] been spending several days with Mrs. J. M. Erskine.

E. H. Custer of Monroe is spending a few weeks during the heated term at Lt. Elliott Gray's.

The Raisin Pioneer Society will hold its Annual Meeting in October as usual. Notice of time and place will be given in due season.

Rev. Geo. W. Hudson writes that he is prospering in his work at Northville. He left home on the 27th for Bay View to be gone about three weeks.

The anti prohibitionists have the satisfaction of knowing that Jeff. Davis is on their side. He has written a letter opposing the adoption of the prohibitory amendment in Texas.

The Gardener's Monthly for August is on hand in good season and is replete with valuable information for the fruit grower and gardener. Send for a sample copy to C. H. Marot, 814 Chestnut St. Philadelphia.

Company C started for the state encampment at Brighton yesterday morning in an extra coach attached to the Lake Shore train. They turned out just 50 strong, the largest company sent to camp for several years.

"Spiritual Kinship," subject of sermon for the morning at 10:30 at the Universalist church next Sunday, Aug. 7th. Text, Matthew, 17:35. In the evening at 7:30 a sermon on "Dropped Stitches." Text, Romans, 7:19. The public welcome to all services.

The Cincinnati, Jackson & Mackinaw R. R. will commence next Sunday to run a through fast train from Toledo to Chicago, via. the Grand Trunk at Battle Creek. The train will have Pullman cars attached, and will make daily trips and fast time. The train will leave Toledo at 9 P. M. and arrive in Chicago at 8:10 the next morning. Leave Chicago at 8:15 P. M. and arrive in Toledo at 7 A. M.

The Grange Visitor advises not only members of the grange, but all farmers, who have drive wells, not to pay a cent of royalty on them to any person, no matter how well they may be armed with authority, until the matter has been thoroughly investigated and reported upon by the executive committee of the state grange, who will give official advice as to the course farmers ought to pursue, when they shall have completed their investigations. All having drive wells should write to J. T. Cobb, Coldwater, secretary of state grange and editor of the Visitor, for advice in the matter.

There is music in the air at Putman's landing, Sand Lake, just at this time. A number of young Tecumseh ladies have engaged the cottage near the hotel, and on Saturday the bright eyed bevy arrived and took possession. Yesterday they were joined by three young misses from this city and to day another recruit arrives from Albion. Later another installment is expected from Tecumseh, and the whole party will tarry two or three weeks at the lake. Tecumseh may fairly be proud of its party, for a brighter gentler, jollier, more self reliant little group could not be gathered anywhere and with their handsome lakeside dresses, and pretty faces, they made a pleasant and notable acquisition to the fine audience that assembled at the hotel to listen to the recital by Hunt's orchestra yesterday afternoon. Adrian Times of Monday.

THE MAGAZINE OF AMERICAN HISTORY for August comes to the front, as usual, with charming and instructive articles. There is not a dull page in the number. The leading paper will attract all readers, irrespective of history or antiquarian tastes. It is an account of the "Presentation of the Arctic Ship Resolute to the Queen of England by the President of the United States" in the year 1856, written by Dr Fossenden N. Otis, secretary of the Expedition. It includes important information on many points concerning Arctic explorations, together with the story in detail of the finding of the Resolute as it drifted on the iceberg to which it was frozen, and the succession of events that culminated with the gift to the Queen. The presentation scene is given not only in the graphic language of an eye witness, but through an exact copy of the famous historic painting in Sydenham Palace, made at the time by direction of the Queen from instantaneous photographs and careful portrait studies. Subscription price, $5.00 a year in advance. Published at 743 Broadway, New York City.

Lenawee County Grange.

The next regular meeting of the Lenawee County Grange will be held with Weston Grange, at their hall at Fruit Ridge, on Thursday, August 11, 1887. Hon. Perry Mayo, of Battle Creek, will be present and deliver an address. The exercises will be public, and all are cordially invited to attend.

E. R. POTTER, Secretary.

A DESTRUCTIVE FIRE.

[illegible] terday afternoon about 5 o'clock, and the fire department were soon on their way to Brownville where the barn and residence of John S. Temple were in flames. Considerable de[illegible] engine and before it could be got to work effectually the barn and straw stack were entirely consumed, and the east end of the house was a mass of flames. Two streams of water [illegible] work on the part of firemen and bystanders the flames were controlled and the house saved, although the roof of the upright is entirely destroyed and the walls inside soaked with water. The house on the opposite side of the road owned by Mr. Temple caught fire in several places but was put out before it could gain any headway.

The fire was first discovered in the straw stack beside the barn. One of Mr. Temple's boys came running into the house crying, and said that the stack was burning. Several small boys were playing about the place and they undoubtedly set it on fire. Mr. Temple had been engaged in burning stubble in another field all day, but had watched it, and said it was all out when the fire started. He stated to a HERALD representative that the loss would be in the neighborhood of $600, with no insurance. The barn contained no grain or stock as he had sold his wheat, and the balance of the grain was stored in the vacant house on the opposite side of the street.

A PECULIAR COINCIDENCE.

Citizen Smith: "I say, Brown, did you peruse the last number of the Tecumseh News?"

Citizen Brown: "Why, I read the home pages, as I generally do, but the patent inside I rarely look at. I can spend my time ordinarily to much better advantage."

Smith: "Well, I noticed a strange coincidence in last week's paper that I should like to have you explain. You are better posted than I am in newspaper lore, you know. On the second page is a very good short story entitled 'In a Tight Place.' On the eighth page is the very same story under the caption, 'A Frontier Hero.' Did the editor think the story was one of such thrilling interest, as to bear repetition in the same issue of the paper?"

Brown: "Oh, there's nothing strange about that. The second page story belongs to the 'patent inside,' and the editor probably knows as little about the contents of that side as his readers do. It is filled with all sorts of trash which he has no control over whatever, and which he is not responsible for. He probably found the story in an exchange and used it on the home side of his paper, and never mistrusted that the same story was already printed on the patent inside pages. All of which illustrates the beauties of the patent inside system now in vogue among Cheap John country newspapers."

FRANKLIN & CAMBRIDGE FARMERS' CLUB.

The monthly meeting of the Franklin and Cambridge Farmers' club occurred July 23d, at the residence of Mr. Smith German, in West Franklin. Their pleasant lawn was well lighted and seated, so it was thought best to have the exercises out in the open air. The members from far and near, also a large number of outsiders were in attendance, which shows that the farmers are taking an interest in these proceedings.

President R. W. Love opened the exercises, and after the roll call and miscellaneous business, C. D. Crippen, the Chairman on program, took the chair and presented the following program:

Violin music by Mr. F. Gray with Miss Amy Alexander at the organ.

Declamation by James Osborn, entitled, "Why He Didn't Sell."

The Franklin glee club then sang one of their excellent songs.

Instrumental music by Frank German.

Recitation by Virginia Daniels, entitled, "Why not Save Mother."

Song by Mrs. Wm. Perkins.

The closing feature of the evening was a vocal duet by W. M. Crittenden and Amy Alexander, entitled, "Who's to Blame."

The question for debate was, "Does our improved machinery pay?" but in consequence of the absence of one of the chief speakers, the discussion was not carried on, to the disappointment of a great many.

The farmers come to hear subjects debated and talked upon, and that is where they receive benefit, not from the program exercises, although that is very interesting.

It is hoped that debating will be a prominent feature of the next meeting August 19, at Mr. Joe Stutt's, at Evan's lake, and at the next meeting ice cream will be served. Let all members of the club be prepared to speak a short time on the question, which was to be discussed at the last meeting, and help the chief speakers out.

—Call at J. S. Kinney's store and see those fine marble, indestructible caskets on exhibition. Also a new spring bed with elevated head rest. The best in the market, for invalids. Manufactured by J. S. Kinney.

CLIPPINGS AND CONDENSATIONS.

[illegible] sprinkler.

Rufus Baker of Fairfield, is building a house to winter his bees in.

The State Teachers Institute is in session this week at Adrian.

This excessive hot weather increases the patronage at the lakes very materially this month.

Lenawee County has 602 paupers who receive aid from the county.

The Addison Courier calls for anyone caught stealing wood from the village land. If anyone deserves a scrape it is an editor, for no one loses as much by being for a town for nothing as the newspaper man.—Hudson Gazette.

There is a sometheing we wish to say to some of our subscribers but we do not care to do it publicly. They may understand what it is without our saying anything further about it. If so, we trust they will come and see us.

H. W. Snow and wife are spending the week at Devils Lake, being among the numerous guests at Cox & Vance's hotel. "Hod" blows his cornet with the Tecumseh band, which is furnishing music for the Knights Templar now encamped there.—Morenci Observer.

The "ex" has been officially removed and so George W. Wilson is again the supervisor of Seneca the township board appointing him to that office last Monday vice Wm. H. Sparrow. This appointment will doubtless be quite satisfactory to our citizens in general, as Mr. Wilson made a good record when supervisor before.—Morenci Observer.

Willie and Birtie House have for the past few days been making their final visit at their grandfather's, Dr. Jones, and other friends, of this place, before leaving for their future home at Springfield, Ohio, where their father, Dr. R. B. House is now located, having formed a partnership with Dr. E. V. VanNorman, one of the most prominent medical practitioners of central Ohio.—Brooklyn Exponent.

Mention was made a few weeks since by the Chesterfield correspondent of the Observer, of the setting in motion of an Automatic singing and dancing machine by one of our young ladies. It seems that the exclusive right not to manufacture these machines, but to let on the shares, had been granted to another, who now threatens to bring suit for damages. The case will be watched with interest and its outcome will establish a precedent of no small value.—Morenci Observer.

After an illness of several weeks, George W. Mirick quietly passed away at his home in this city, at 6:15 o'clock last evening, aged 79 years. Mr. Mirick was one of our most respected citizens. He has represented the Second ward in the common council with credit to himself and his constituents. He was thoroughly honest and upright, and his death will prove a severe blow to a large circle of friends who knew and loved the man. A large family survives him. The funeral services will be conducted from his late residence at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, legal time.—Adrian Times of Monday.

The fishing record was broken at Devils Lake last Sunday by four Hudson men, who pulled in forty six large bass, and a hundred or two small fish. The party was composed of Charley and Hod Elliott, Nat Salsbury and Frank Stafford. They baited the fish with grasshoppers. The next day there was a free distribution of dinners in Hudson and nearly everybody had fish. It would be in order to get up a fishing match and let the Hudson four fish against the same number from any other place. If the grasshoppers and other bait don't give out it would be safe to bet on the boys.—Hudson Post.

"Village Types" in the Vanderbilt Magazine tells why the man who becomes famous is not honored at home. "As water seeks its level, so does the village instinctively tend to maintain a certain moral and intellectual uniformity. The man of exceptional ability is, sooner or later, expelled by the body politic. He is misrepresented, disliked, and finally ostracized. Nor is he himself long in to use the proper departs. He perceives that there is nothing for him to do at home. He forges restlessly about for a while, trying this and that, and effecting only mischief, everybody surmises an evil destiny for him, he puts on his hat and departs, in despair or in anger, and presently the world recognizes and celebrates his genius. But his native village never swells the chorus of praise. They have known him from a baby; he cannot humbug them. Did he not steal apples from Farmer Hoyt's orchard? Was he not the slowest hand at a spelling match in school? Did he not jilt Mary Jane after everybody had agreed that he would marry her? Go to, then! Can such a fellow as that invent a navigable air-ship, or write a classic book, or create a successful railroad? He is only Jack Smith, after all is said and done, and among those who knew him, will always have a Jack Smith reputation."

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.

VILLAGE OF TECUMSEH,
Council Room, July 25, 1887.

Regular session—President the entire council.

Minutes of preceding meeting read and approved.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

[illegible] want of authority in the council to grant request of C. A. Slayton to use public street as proposed; also recommending the hiring of W. E. Gray as lamp lighter for ensuing year on same terms as heretofore. Accepted and adopted, and committee discharged.

PETITIONS AND APPLICATIONS.

Application of L. H. Dewey & Son for permission to sell and dress poultry in the building occupied by them opposite the council building was presented and on motion Request granted.

ANY BUSINESS.

On motion the matter of increase of pipe line and new tank was made a special order for next meeting.

The following bills were presented and referred to finance committee: Thos. Kyle, May trial, $12.50; The Ohio and Mich. Car & Mfg. Co., Warrend, $14.05; and the following for street labor: F. Herrington, A. Leon and [illegible] Barton, new $2.

UNFINISHED BUSINESS.

The finance committee reported bills allowed, all of above being ordered to be paid.

Council then adjourned.

THOS. B. WOOD, Recorder.

EFFECTS OF NATURAL GAS.

The Cincinnati Commercial Gazette indulges in some sad forebodings. Two hundred years ago in China there was not so much as a crude ancient natural gas as we have in this country today. Gas wells were sunk which burned on and on for as the Celestials relate, a period of 1000 years, to a gas explosion that killed several million people, and tore up and destroyed a large district of country, leaving a large inland sea, known on the maps as Lake Foo Chang, the boring of a gas well was then and there prohibited by law. It seems, according to the Chinese history, that large gas and petroleum gas wells were struck, and in some districts wells were sunk quite near to each other. Gas was lighted as soon as struck, as is done in this country. It is stated that one well, with its unusual pressure, by induction or back draught, pulled down into the earth the burning gas of a smaller well, resulting in a dreadful explosion of a large district, destroying the inhabitants thereof. Lake Foo Chang rest on this district. The same catastrophe is liable at any in this country, unless the laws restrict further developments in boring so many wells. Should a similar explosion occur there will be such an upheaval as will dwarf the most terrible earthquakes ever known. The country along the gas belt from Toledo through Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky will be ripped up to the depth of 1,200 to 1,500 feet and dropped down into a pot cake, leaving a chasm through which the waters of Lake Erie will come howling down, filling the Columbus, Mississippi valleys and blotting them out forever.

—John J. Orr returned from the K. T. encampment on Tuesday.

—A few back numbers of Harper's Monthly and other Magazines, for sale at one half the regular price at A. J. Coddington's.

—An elegant line of Cabinet frames both for side wall and easel back, for sale very cheap at A. J. Coddington's.

—A correspondent of the Adrian Times says: "The first threshing reported in the county, so far this season, took place in Palmyra Tuesday. J. A. Rogers, who lives at Lenawee Junction, realized from four acres which had been phosphated, 40 bushels to the acre, and from four which had not been, 18 bushels to the acre. Singularly, too, the phosphated wheat was inferior in quality to the other."

There is no longer any doubt about its paying to use phosphates. C. A. Slayton keeps a stock on hand and the increasing demand shows farmers know the value of it.

Call at Adamson Bros' and see the elegant line of Gorham Mfg Co's silverware just received.

Diamonds in Watches, Rings, Scarf Pins, Earrings and Finger Rings to be had at the manufacturing jewelry store of Adamson Bros.

Mrs. N. R. Brown would call attention to her closing out sale of Lake hats. All varieties.

—Don't make a mistake and buy your binding twine before seeing me.

A. Slayton.

Sewing machines, Needles, Oil and attachments at

M. P. Brown's Art Gallery.

—For hay rakes, hay loaders, forks, cars, rope pulleys etc. See C. A. Slayton.

—If you want a first class sewing machine call on Mrs. M. P. Brown and see the New Domestic, The White and The Grand. Prices reasonable and terms easy.

—I will sell you a first class hay rack for five dollars.

C. A. Slayton.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

[illegible] ATTORNEY AT LAW. Collections and Conveyancing. Office over W. W. Anderson's store, Tecumseh, Mich.

A. STACY, Attorney at Law and Solicitor in Chancery. Office in Herald Block, Tecumseh, Mich.

PHYSICIANS.

[illegible] BARNES, M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office over A. S. Dolf's drug store, residence Potawatamie st., east, Tecumseh, Mich.

[illegible] M. WOODWARD, M. D. PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON. Office at Residence, Chicago St.

MANUFACTURERS.

[illegible] MACHIN, Fashionable Barber and Hair Dresser. Shop on Railroad st.

JAMES [illegible] CURTIS, Fashionable Barber and Hair Dresser, shop in Richards' Block, Chicago st.

CHAS. A. WALDRON, Veterinary Surgeon. All orders promptly attended to, either by mail or in person. Office at residence, one-half mile west of Tecumseh.

HOTELS.

BURNETT HOUSE, Toledo, Ohio. This house has lately been enlarged and refitted, elevator and other modern improvements, and is a favorite resort for the traveling public. Rates $2.00 a day, and graded according to rooms applied.

CENTRAL HOTEL, ADRIAN, MICH. [illegible] AVERY, MANAGER. This house is [illegible] South Main st., near depots. Hack and baggage to and from all trains free. First class accommodations at reasonable rates.

LENAWEE CARRIAGE FACTORY

J. R. HIALEY, Proprietor.

MANUFACTURER OF [illegible] AND DEALER IN

Carriages, Buggies,

CURRIES, SPRING WAGONS,

ROADCARTS

SULKIES, CUTTERS, ETC.

TECUMSEH, MICHIGAN.

M. L. RICE,

UTICA, MICHIGAN,

Dealer in High Class Thoroughbred Poultry. Eggs for hatching. Send for Illustrated Circular Free.

W. W. MARSH,

[illegible]

Railroad Street Meat Market!

Fresh and Salt Meats constantly on hand.

GIVE ME A CALL

LADIES TREATMENT FREE.

DR. MARY A. CHEEVER'S NEW TREATMENT for diseases of women discovered by that distinguished English Physician and Nurse, who has recently visited the entire month of treating the disease of complaints in England, [illegible] U.S. [illegible] will be sent free to any lady suffering from any of these diseases, with full directions and testimonial stamps to cover actual charges.

THE NEW TREATMENT will positively cure any and most female disease and the first treatment in most cases sufficient to effect a permanent cure. It is put up in plain wrapper with full instructions for self-treatment. Only one dollar per treatment. Address

CHEEVER, REMEDY Co., [illegible]

SCOTT'S EMULSION

OF PURE COD LIVER OIL

And Hypophosphites of Lime & Soda

Almost as Palatable as Milk.

The only preparation of COD LIVER OIL that can be taken by children and delicate persons for a long time with the utmost ease.

AND AS A REMEDY FOR CONSUMPTION, SCROFULOUS AFFECTIONS, ANÆMIA, GENERAL DEBILITY, COLDS AND THROAT AFFECTIONS, AND WASTING DISEASES OF CHILDREN, it is unrivaled.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS

TO MACKINAC.

SUMMER TOURS.

Palace Steamers. Low Rates.

DETROIT, MACKINAC ISLAND.

DETROIT AND CLEVELAND.

Detroit & Cleveland Steam Nav. Co.

Alex. B. Stevenson, Gen. Pass. Agt.

PENSIONS!

DETROIT, MICHIGAN.

TO ADVERTISE JUDICIOUSLY SEND TO LORD & THOMAS

BALLADE OF ASPHODEL.

Now who will thread the windings way
Afar from fervid summer heat
Beyond the sun shafts of the day,
Beyond the [illegible]
[illegible] sweet,
Where pulsing shades the shallows dwell,
Where [illegible] a fair retreat
Among the meads of asphodel?

There death and birth are one, they say,
The seed of both bear royal sway
No sound but rise of mortal fray,
Of living hosts, [illegible]
Nor strife [illegible] hot breath fell,
But [illegible] each the other greet
Along the meads of asphodel.

I wound that there my soul might stray,
I would my pilgrimage lay [illegible]
Where [illegible] the hours [illegible]
[illegible] memories of the sorry
Nor [illegible] half so [illegible]
[illegible]

A MIDDLE AGED CHERUB.

I am at my wit's end. As I write, my case of razors is open before me; the bright blades, unclouded, alas, and unsullied by use, vie in keenness with the cutler's forge. Instinctively my hand, but my hand shrinks from the fatal desperate stroke. Why, forsooth, moves a wife, children, should against them I will, may bear a grudge, even I may say honor and an unblemished reputation are not things to be abandoned without a struggle. Yet life and all the rest are endurable; I can be one most of the time which no others have matched me to overshadow so strongly as to be disregarded, and but the younger priest asked me I would strike the raw and suicide should drop the razor down upon the pestiferous pavement of my existence. Let me see if pensing the [illegible] will [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] the world to [illegible] pocket [illegible] the [illegible] of skeins [illegible] spectacle of [illegible] the kettle [illegible] supported [illegible] a good deal of the ap[illegible]

[illegible] I weigh I feel that [illegible] some men never [illegible] Then [illegible] I [illegible] grow me and it, [illegible] I [illegible] a great foot [illegible] of chairs. [illegible] I [illegible] of [illegible] I [illegible] I [illegible] I

DR. A. TRASK'S MAGNETIC OINTMENT.

The Great Healer of all Inflamed Injuries and Disorders.

It is constantly effecting the most wonderful cures, while the unparalleled demand with which it meets, stamps it at once as the greatest medicine of the age for outward application.

The most incredulous are convinced, and the most skeptical are compelled to believe in the power of this great remedy.

WHAT IT CURES.

All Sores, Cuts, Bruises, Sprains, Burns, Sore Throat, Lameness, Rheumatism, Piles, Inflammation of Lungs and Bowels, Bronchitis, Croup, Salt Rheum, Chilblains, affection of the Spine, Erysipelas, Nervous Irritation, and all disorders attendant with Inflammation.

It never fails to restore the natural functions of health and equalize the circulation of the blood. By this means a controlling power is gained over the most malignant forms of disease. It penetrates every portion of the human frame; every bone, muscle, vein, nerve and ligament is quickened and made sensible to its soothing and healing influence. Hence it copes readily with internal as well as external diseases.

Over 40 Years.

This ointment has been used by the people throughout the United States, and our confidence in its qualities is such that as we have no space to insert any of the numerous certificates of cures which we have from all parts of the country, we simply ask those readers of this notice who have ever used this Ointment, to frankly testify to their experience with it to inquiring friends. Scarcely one in a hundred would do this we should feel fully satisfied with the result. Full directions for use will be found on pamphlet around each bottle.

Price 25 and 40 cents per bottle. Sold by all dealers in medicine.

D. RANSOM, SON & CO., Prop's
Buffalo, New York.

THE ELDREDGE "B" SEWING MACHINE with Automatic, Self-threading Cylinder Shuttle.

No. 3.

The ELDREDGE "B" is sold with the guarantee of being the BEST that can be MADE.

AGENTS WANTED.

ELDREDGE MANUFACTURING CO.
363 and 365 WABASH AVE.,
CHICAGO, ILL.

R. F. STEINHOFF'S
Dental Rooms.

OVER BAKER & HALL'S.
GAS FOR EXTRACTING.
LOWEST PRICES for THE BEST WORK

PATENTS!

Caveats, Trade Marks and Copyrights

MODERATE FEES.

C. A. SNOW & CO.,

C. A. Wright & Co.,

Wall Paper
AND Decorations.

C. A. Wright & Co.

ADVERTISING
Contracts may be made for THIS PAPER in Chicago at the office of
LORD & THOMAS,
Advertising Agents, Chicago.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

Meeting of the Army of the Tennessee at Detroit, September 14 15.

The Verdict Unanimous.

W.D. Sult, Druggist, Bippus, Ind.

[illegible] Bitters as the very best remedy. Every bottle sold has given relief in every case. One man took six bottles, and was cured of Rheumatism of 10 years' standing." Abraham Hare, druggist, Bellville, Ohio, affirms: "The best selling medicine I have ever handled in my 20 years experience, [illegible] others have added their testimony, so that the verdict is unanimous that Electric Bitters do cure all Diseases of the Liver, Kidneys, or Blood. Only a half dollar a bottle at

C. A. Wright & Co.

Races at Stanton this week.

Fair in St. Louis Sept. 13 17.

Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites.

For children and Pulmonary Troubles. Dr. W. S. Hoy, Point Pleasant, W. Va., says: "I have made a thorough test with Scott's Emulsion in Pulmonary Troubles and General Debility, and have been astonished at the good results, for children with Rickets or Marasmus it is unequalled."

Ypsilanti races the first week in August.

"English spavin liniment removes all hard, soft, or calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavin, curbs, splints, sweeney, stifles, sprains sore and swollen throat coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle. Warranted. Sold by Baker & Hall, Druggists, Tecumseh Mich.

Over 800 dogs at Grand Rapids have been licensed.

Itch, mange, and scratches of every kind on human or animals cured in 30 minutes by Woolford's Sanitary Lotion. This never fails. Sold by Baker & Hall, Druggists, Tecumseh Mich.

The Grand Ledge mills complain of lack of water.

Drunkeness or the Liquor Habit Positively Cured by Administering Dr Haines' Golden Specific.

It can be given in a cup of coffee or tea without the knowledge of the person taking it; is absolutely harmless and will effect a permanent and speedy cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or an alcoholic wreck. Thousands of drunkards have been made temperate men who have taken Golden Specific in their coffee without their knowledge, and to day believe they quit drinking on their own free will. IT NEVER FAILS. The system once impregnated with the Specific it becomes an utter impossibility for the liquor appetite to exist. For full particulars, address GOLDEN SPECIFIC CO., 185 Race St., Cincinnati, O.

Twenty-six towns in Michigan are boring for gas.

Old and reliable Medicines are the best to depend upon. Acker's Blood Elixir has been prescribed for years for all impurities of the Blood. In every form of Scrofulous, Syphilitic or Mercurial diseases, it is invaluable. For Rheumatism, has no equal. C. A. WRIGHT & CO., Druggists.

The Breckenridge Baptist church wants a pastor.

What are Suppositories?

A. C. Rose, from New London, Conn., writes: Send me two boxes of your Kemp's Pile Suppositories by mail. Our druggist is out. They are for a friend. I tried everything without help, but the Suppositories cured me.

The treatment is new and within reach, of all, and would advise the affected to give them a trial. For sale in Tecumseh by Baker & Hall, at 50c per box.

Mad dogs are shot on sight in Saginaw City now a days.

Chronic Looseness of the Bowels

Results from imperfect digestion. The cause lies in the torpidity of the liver. A regular habit of body can be secured by taking Simmons Liver Regulator to aid digestion, to stimulate the dull and sluggish liver, and rid the system of excessive and poisonous bile. The Regulator corrects acidity of the stomach, cures dyspepsia and insures regularity of the bowels alike free from laxity or costiveness.

Can't Sleep Nights is the complaint of thousands suffering from Asthma, Consumption, Coughs, etc. Did you ever try Acker's English Remedy? It is the best preparation known for all Lung Troubles, sold on a positive guarantee at 10c., 50c.

C. A. WRIGHT & CO., Druggists.

A big strike is imminent at the Muskegon car works.

$500 Reward.

If you suffer from dull, heavy headache, obstruction of the nasal passages, discharges falling from the head into the throat, sometimes profuse, watery, and acrid at others, thick, tenacious, mucous, purulent, bloody and putrid; if the eyes are weak, watery and inflamed, and there is ringing in the ears, deafness, hacking or coughing to clear the throat, expectoration of offensive matter, together with scabs from ulcers; the voice being changed and having a nasal twang; the breath offensive; smell and taste impaired; experience a sensation of dizziness, with mental depression, a hacking cough, and general debility; then you are suffering from chronic nasal catarrh. Only a few of the above named symptoms are likely to be present in any one case at one time, or in one stage of the disease. Thousands of cases annually, without manifesting half of the above symptoms, result in consumption, and in the grave. No disease is so common, more deceptive and dangerous, less understood or more unsuccessfully treated by physicians. The manufacturers of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy offer, in good faith, $500 reward for a case of catarrh which they cannot cure. The Remedy is [illegible] by druggists at only 50 cents.

Mackinaw Braid Hats.

"New Yorker no longer wear Mackinaw straw hats. It is simply because there is very little genuine Mackinaw braid used now by the manufacturers," said a prominent importer of straw braids the other day to a reporter.

"The average buyer does not know the difference between the genuine and the Japan Mackinaw, which is a lighter and much cheaper article," he continued. "The genuine Mackinaw is a braid made from wheat straw grown and plaited by the Indians along the straits of Mackinaw. This braid is exceedingly tough and durable, having a beautiful gloss not possessed by other braids. When made into [illegible] it is very stiff and heavy, [illegible] 165 heavy for a really safe [illegible]. The Japan braid, however, are much lighter and pleasanter to wear, and being high priced. They are manufactured chiefly in Baltimore, where the majority of skilled operators in this line are to be found. These persons go to Baltimore from their homes in the New England states in the fall, when the straw season begins, returning in the summer.

"The Japanese braid is lighter in texture but rather tasteless, and has forced the genuine Mackinaw out of the market. It is now the most popular braid manufactured." New York Sun.

No Mute Inglorious Milton.

Parson Newman, who is now back at his old charge, the Metropolitan M. E. church of Washington, tells how a poet secured a hearing. It was during the Hayes administration. "One night at prayer meeting," Dr. Newman says, "I called on a good layman to lead in devotions. Before he began, I saw he had drawn a manuscript from his pocket, but I thought it was to guide him in the words of his petition. Soon I was surprised to hear him reading a poem to the Almighty. When he got along a little I heard him say 'We've been in a maze and now we have Hayes;' I peeped around and saw that all my flock had gotten up from their knees. I did the same, though hesitatingly, and with mixed feelings of chagrin and amusement. The good brother never got the chance to read another poem in my church." —American Magazine.

The Chinese in Honolulu.

Honolulu is almost overrun by the Chinese; many of these are merchants of no small pretensions, and one or two are millionaires. One of the prettiest residences in the fashionable part of the city is owned by a Chinaman named A. Fong. His establishment is one of regal and oriental splendor. The natives appear to take very kindly to the Chinamen—the Kanaka women marrying them in preference to white men or men of their own nationality, and in this I think they are fully justified, and evince sound discretion. The Chinaman is frugal and thrifty—respects and takes pride in his Kanaka wife, escorts her about and furnishes a good home. The native is too indolent, too improvident or too big an Indian to take his wife into consideration, and the white man abuses and deserts her whenever and as often as it suits his purpose. Home Journal.

Boarding House Chat.

"Why is marble cake so called?"

"Marble cake is so called because it is marble cake—carved out of the solid rock in Italy and imported here at great expense."

"What's the idea of that?"

"Economy. It's cheaper in the long run. You see a piece of genuine marble cake will last a long time. Now here's a piece on this plate that has been in the house ever since I came to town—thirteen years ago this summer. Examine it closely and you will observe that it is almost as good as new. You will see here and there some scratches. They were made by strangers who had extra good teeth. There's a spawl knocked off that corner. That was done by the man with the iron jaw, who was through here last season with a circus." Oil City Derrick.

Uses for Pine Needles.

Another use for pine needles beside that of spreading an aromatic odor through the fancy covering of a pine pillow has been developed by a new southern industry. One product of the pine needle is a remarkably strong oil that possesses many medicinal virtues. Another is pine wool, which is bleached, dyed and woven. The wood is a fleecy brown mass, possessing a pleasant odor, which gives it value as a moth destroyer when used as a carpet lining. A strong, cheap matting is made from the wood, useful for halls, stairways and offices.—Chicago News.

Men Are More Fidgety.

In many respects men are more fidgety than women. A woman with a baby in one arm and a bundle in the other, besides holding in her hands a pocketbook, a handkerchief, a reticule, and a lot of other things, will get up and never look to see if she has forgotten anything, but an empty handed man, who has nothing whatever to lose, will look on the seat and under the seat to be sure he has left nothing behind. —New York Sun.

This Actually Happened.

A boy went into a Ridge avenue grocery store the other evening and bought some groceries. In the change there was a Canada ten cent piece. The boy, throwing it on the counter, said: "Give me another, the Canada ten cent piece." The man shortly returned with a can of peas, and upon being asked what he meant by that, replied that he had been asked for a can of ten cent peas.—Philadelphia Record.

His Faith Was Gone.

The graduate had an able paper. It was entitled "The Germs Round." The reporter tortured it kindly. The printer set it up. "The Germ's Home." The proof reader recognizing the existence of germs, and the necessity of their having homes, let it go. Then the graduate lifted up his voice. His faith in journalism was gone forever.

Firing a Locomotive.

The work of firing an engine comes very near being skilled labor, especially on a lightning run. There one has to be feeding coal almost constantly from the start. And the coal must not be thrown into the firebox carelessly, but it must be placed where it will do the most good. The steam must be kept up to the notch, and no great variations from the standard are allowed. A fireman has so much to do with an engine off and on that it is intelligent is not long before he is able to handle a locomotive all right. But that 27th service he gets on. I have been firing for six years and my engine is not yet in sight, although thus far I have fan about [illegible] trips, [illegible] Globe-Democrat.

[illegible] Pacific the sign displayed is now [illegible] with shelves to hold three [illegible].

THE LAWS OF HEREDITY.

STUDIES DRAWN FROM A COLLECTION OF FAMILY RECORDS.

The Frequency of Good and Bad Temper—Temper has Hereditary as any Other Quality.

Mr. Francis Galton, whose studies of the laws of heredity drawn from the biography of families, published in Nature, have been so well remembered, has just printed a paper on the subject of temper, and the main purpose of the paper is to show that "temper, under temperate and large, simply the proportions of good and ill tempered persons in English families, and the hereditary character of temper." We can not follow all the variations of Mr. Galton's research, or reproduce his arguments, calculations, but only note a few results. Perhaps it may be thought surprising that the proportion of good tempered and bad tempered persons is almost exactly equal. The first set of data which Mr. Galton tried gave the proportion of the good to the bad tempered as 38 to 52, the second set as 1 to 3. There is little difference between the two sexes in the frequency of good and bad temper, but that little is in favor of the women, since about 45 men are recorded as good tempered, for every 55 who are bad, and conversely 55 women are good tempered for 45 who are bad.

Of 1,525 children, 321 were good tempered and 312 were bad, with 595 wanting special characteristics of temper. The goods and the bad tempered were thus equal again, the neutral or medium class being as numerous as the other two combined, results which Mr. Galton says bear emphatic testimony to the correct judgments of his compilers. As to the authority of these compilers or reporters, and the capacity of any observers to deal with the subject, he admits that "accurate discernment and designation of character is almost beyond the reach of any one, but, on the other hand, a rough knowledge and description of its prominent features is easily practicable," and he rightly thinks that there can be little doubt of the value of "testimony of a member of a family who has seen and observed a person in his unguarded moments and under very varied circumstances for many years."

HEREDITY OF TEMPER.

Mr. Galton is clear upon the important question of the heredity of temper; he says it is "as hereditary as any other quality."

"I have forty three cases where both parents are recorded as good tempered and twenty five where they were both bad tempered. Out of the children of the former 30 per cent. were good tempered and 19 per cent. bad; out of the latter 4 per cent. were good and 52 per cent. bad tempered. This is emphatic testimony to the heredity of temper."

And he attempted, with still more success, to answer the converse question. Do good tempered families of brothers and sisters have, on the whole, good tempered ancestors, and bad tempered families bad tempered ones? A good tempered family he defines for the purpose as one in which at least two members were good tempered and none were bad, and a bad tempered family as one in which at least two members were bad tempered, whether or not any cases of good temper were said to be associated with them; and, as regards ancestor, he takes the two parents and the uncles and aunts on both sides as the most trustworthy group. "On this Mr. Galton says:

"I have forty six good tempered families, with an aggregate of 333 parents, uncles and aunts, and seventy one bad tempered families, with 633 parents, uncles and aunts. In the former group 26 per cent. were good tempered and 18 bad; in the latter group 18 were good tempered and 29 were bad, the remainder being neutral. More briefly we say of what is family is good tempered as above defined, the number of good tempered parents, uncles and aunts exceeds that of the bad tempered in the proportion of three to two, and that when the family is bad tempered the proportions are exactly inverted." New York Post.

The Early Use of the Flag.

The earliest use of the flag of war was purely as a signal, waved to the right or left without distinction of color or nationality. Down to a comparatively late period it was not the flag but the figure-head that was the emblem, the carved image at the prow, of which Herodotus gives us an instance in the wild boar of the Samians sawn off on defeat by the Athenians and deposited in the temple of Minerva. No naval standard similar to those we have written of in ancient shore, have been discovered among the Egyptians or Assyrians, either their sails were embroidered with different emblems, or flexible streamers, something like the Indian ones which we display below [illegible]. The Romans had their vexillum, as the world knows, among whom, [illegible] in consequence of their divisions [illegible] the civil war [illegible] Mr. Lossing [illegible] on the Heralds of the [illegible] "we are [illegible] that they were carried by ship, than at earlier times were probably as more ornaments, emblems of religion or superstition, of personal vanity, or party triumph."—Cyclopedia Magazine.

Women and the Weed.

The French Polytechnique delivers a fervent against tobacco. The speech of Baboulard leaves no room for a weep her black crape around her head and while gently pulling her [illegible] cigarette and [illegible] the world's [illegible] low. While the German frau is fond of her cigarette or even cigar, and the Russian wife is not far behind, the Spanish payment of the weed, and even the Japanese, Chinese, Persian, Indian and Siamese wives all like to be [illegible] in the soothing weed, from the poorest [illegible] to the royal personage. Even the [illegible] of the Congo, [illegible] of their velvets, [illegible] the [illegible] shine of the [illegible] and [illegible] short and [illegible] from the [illegible] Albany [illegible].

Ancient Astronomy.

The Cuneiform [illegible] [illegible] of Babylon [illegible] 500 years old [illegible] [illegible] Chaldean [illegible] [illegible] Babylon [illegible] [illegible] Chaldean [illegible] [illegible] Brewster.

Cincinnati is now making more machine tools than any other city.

It appears that in this bank the clerks were frequently compelled to ask the paying teller for a little financial assistance between pay days and he being of a kindly disposition, cashed their due bills, carrying the paper in the drawer as so much cash. At the end of the month the [illegible] of those favored. These pieces of paper were popularly known as "Snakes."

It happened on one occasion that the bank examiner paid his official visit when there were in the drawer "snakes" amounting to [illegible] and the teller was compelled to express [illegible] advance money to the clerks in the bank, [illegible] and is liable to get you into trouble with the board. Soon after his departure the cashier received a peremptory letter and asked what was meant by the [illegible] "snakes" which he had overhearing [illegible] the conversation. The cashier [illegible] There was nothing for him to do but explain the whole matter, which he did by telling how the young men in the bank had gotten behindhand in their salaries and were forced to borrow small loans each month.

"And this is really [illegible] of our young men," remarked the manager.

"I am sorry to say so."

"How much of the paper is there in the drawer?"

"About $200."

"So much as that! Let me see the paper."

The little due bills were handed him, and he walked into his private office. In a few minutes he came out with a check in his hand. It was his personal check for the full amount of the "snakes." Said he:

"Put this in the drawer. I will give these young men a chance," and he tore into small pieces the numerous due bills. "They are now free, and let them be so. Don't advance any more money. Hereafter I will loan it out of my private funds. What they owe now is canceled."

It took about five minutes for this little affair to be known in the bank, and every man in the place at once proceeded to crumble to himself because he did not have a "snake" in the drawer at that particular moment.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

The English Skylark.

The lark is, probably, if the whole truth were told, at first rather a disappointment to most Americans, who are naturally expect from "the bird that sings at Heaven's gate" a song of great variety and volume. It was in Switzerland many years ago, upon the cliffs overhanging St. Leonard's on the sea that we first made his acquaintance. It was early morning, clear and calm after a violent storm, which had [illegible] the waves of the waves were still so tumultuous that we were fairly driven from our customed walk along the [illegible] and turning inland by a rocky [illegible] its way upward, gained the level of the rich farming land above the town. As we emerged into the sunshine a song rose singing from an adjacent field. Great and feeble, monotonous chatter to a sick bird, thought we as he rose higher and continuing to sing. His actions suggested the doubt, for as he leaped upward in exhibition he still rose with a succession of faltering impulses, in a wavering strain, and he was quite lost to sight in the vaporous sky, while his voice proved plenty of note penetrating quality than he at first appeared, for it continued to reach us faintly if it was true but with perfect distinctness. Theodore H. Magazine.

The Chinese Quarter in New York.

In 1853 there were but about 150 Chinamen in New York. The Chinatown of the present was a very insignificant one, and its quarter said to be [illegible] created a sensation, at most [illegible] ranks of the [illegible] New York. There are many [illegible] in the city. They are doing well at various lines of business and there are a large number of them who have bank accounts ranging into thousands and some of thousands of dollars. In fact there are [illegible] Chinese merchants in Mott street who each owns real estate worth over $100,000 in property and money. It was not until 1872 that the Chinese took possession of Mott street. At that time the six companies of San Francisco, which practically controlled the Chinese population of that city, established an agency in this once fashionable street. As new arrivals from the Bohemian kingdom appeared on the scene they settled down in this spot and Chinatown waxed and grew strong until it became what it now is, a veritable city within a city having its own municipal government and in most matters making laws, enforcing them, and growing in strength and importance of the population and second only to the great city around it. The Chinese residents believe in close organization. New York Mail and Express.

An African Potentate.

The kings [illegible] cloth [illegible] low [illegible] time.

[illegible]

All who [illegible] the throne [illegible] Kept [illegible] Band [illegible] The [illegible] factory [illegible] [illegible] lead [illegible] time.

[illegible]

Making Them Fit the Mark.

Over in New York [illegible] [illegible] Two of them [illegible] for the [illegible] Texas Siftings.

L. S. & M. S. RAILROAD.

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	No. 115. Mail.	No. 117. Express	No. 139 Acc.
Jackson	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Napoleon	6 36 "	2 48 "	1 45 "
Norvell	6 43 "	2 57 "	2 08 "
Manchester	6 54 "	3 12 "	3 12 "
Clinton	7 04 "	3 23 "	3 [illegible]
Tecumseh	7 20 "	3 41 "	4 0 "
Adrian	8 08 "	4 15 "	5 05 "
Detroit	10 00 "	6 00 "	[illegible]
Toledo	9 30 "	5 05 "	[illegible]

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No. 116. Mail.	No. 118 Express	No. 140 Acc.
Toledo	[illegible]	6 15 P.M.	[illegible]
Detroit	10 30 "	7 50 "	[illegible]
Adrian	10 [illegible] "	8 [illegible] "	5 45 A.M.
Tecumseh	11 05 "	9 15 "	7 [illegible] "
Clinton	11 [illegible] "	9 [illegible] "	7 [illegible] "
Manchester	11 35 "	9 43 "	8 20 "
Norvell	11 52 "	9 [illegible] "	8 [illegible] "
Napoleon	12 01 P.M.	10 07 "	9 [illegible] "
Jackson	12 25 "	10 [illegible] "	10 45 "

☞ Trains run on Standard of Central Time.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Coupon tickets can now be procured at this station over best routes to all principal cities in the United States.

N. S. SATTERTHWAITE,
TICKET AGENT.
G. S. WORCESTER, SUPT. DETROIT DIVISION.

Cincinnati, Jackson & Mackinaw R. R.

MICHIGAN DIVISION.

Passenger Time Table.

IN EFFECT May 23, 1887.

GOING EAST. No. 7 Pass.	No. 3 Pass.	Central Time.	STATIONS.	GOING WEST. No. 2 Pass.	No. 4 Pass.	No. 8
P.M.	A.M.	P.M.		A.M.	P.M.	A.M.
2 15	9 [illegible]	4 [illegible]	Toledo	[illegible]	7 [illegible]	[illegible]
2 [illegible]	9 [illegible]	4 [illegible]	Dundee	9 20	6 20	5 [illegible]
1 [illegible]	8 [illegible]	3 [illegible]	Britton	9 41	6 41	5 [illegible]
1 [illegible]	8 [illegible]	3 [illegible]	Ridgeway	9 49	6 50	5 [illegible]
1 [illegible]	8 [illegible]	2 [illegible]	Tecumseh	10 00	7 02	6 [illegible]
1 [illegible]	8 [illegible]	2 [illegible]	Tipton	10 15	7 [illegible]	6 [illegible]
1 45	8 [illegible]	2 28	Clinton	10 30	7 [illegible]	6 [illegible]
1 [illegible]	8 55	2 [illegible]	Devils Lake	10 42	7 46	6 [illegible]
1 [illegible]	9 [illegible]	2 [illegible]	Addison	10 51	7 56	7 [illegible]
12 [illegible]	9 [illegible]	2 [illegible]	Owosso	11 05	8 14	7 [illegible]
11 [illegible]	9 [illegible]	1 [illegible]	Moscow	11 17	8 [illegible]	7 [illegible]
11 28	9 12	1 32	Hanover	11 28	8 32	7 [illegible]
10 [illegible]	9 [illegible]	1 [illegible]	Pulaski	11 38	8 46	7 [illegible]
9 [illegible]	9 [illegible]	1 [illegible]	Homer	11 [illegible]	9 [illegible]	8 [illegible]
9 [illegible]	9 [illegible]	12 [illegible]	Eckford	12 10	9 [illegible]	8 [illegible]
9 [illegible]	9 [illegible]	12 [illegible]	Marshall	12 [illegible]	9 [illegible]	9 [illegible]
No. 5 P.M.						No. 6 A.M.
7 40			Marshall			8 [illegible]
7 05	7 [illegible]	12 [illegible]	Albion	12 44	8 [illegible]	8 [illegible]
6 [illegible]	6 40	12 00	L. Battle Crk Jct	1 05	10 10	9 [illegible]
A.M.					P.M.	P.M.
5 [illegible]		11 [illegible]	Augusta	1 [illegible]		1 [illegible]
5 [illegible]		11 [illegible]	Yorkville	1 [illegible]		1 [illegible]
5 50		11 [illegible]	Richland	1 42		1 [illegible]
5 [illegible]		11 [illegible]	Doster	1 [illegible]		1 [illegible]
5 [illegible]		10 50	Monteith	2 20		2 [illegible]
12 15		10 40	Fisk	2 30		2 [illegible]
12 [illegible]		10 [illegible]	Kellogg	2 [illegible]		2 [illegible]
12 [illegible]		10 20	L. Allegan Jct	2 [illegible]		3 [illegible]
P.M.		A.M.		P.M.		P.M.

All trains daily except Sunday.

Commencing June 27th, a special train will leave Kellogg daily at 5:15 P.M., arriving at Shelbyville 5:35 P.M. Returning leave Marshall at [illegible] arriving at Kellogg [illegible]. Making close connections at Allegan and Marshall for points north and south.

TRAIN CONNECTIONS.

Train No. 3 makes close connections at Allegan M. E. Ry. at Battle Creek for Chicago and intermediate points; at Kellogg with G. R. & I. at Marshall and at Allegan with the C. & W. M. Ry. for Grand Rapids, Muskegon, and points north. At Jackson close connection at Britton with the Wabash & Western Ry. for Detroit, and No. 4 makes close connection with the Ann Arbor & Western Ry. trains from Detroit. All trains connect at Toledo with the W. A. & T., T. & O. C., L. S. & M. S., Wabash Ry., etc., and at points intermediate. Connections at Jackson at Junction with the C. A. & W. N. M., at Tecumseh, Clinton, Hudson, Homer and Allegan with the L. S. & M. S., and at Battle Creek with the G. R. & I. Ry. H. B. GROVES, Supt. J. M. SHUTES, Gen'l Ticket and Freight Agent.

Traffic Manager. Gen'l Pass. Agt.

F. ALLEN, Station Agent. A. E. KENNEDY, Ticket Agent.

TAKE THE WABASH ROUTE.

TRAINS GOING EAST.

LEAVE BRITTON:
Atlantic Express, [illegible]
Detroit Accommodation, [illegible]
Niagara Falls and Boston Express, [illegible]
New York Limited Express, [illegible]
Way Freight, [illegible]

TRAINS GOING WEST.

St. Louis, Indianapolis & Louisville Express, [illegible]
Chicago & St. Louis Limited Express, [illegible]
North American Express, [illegible]
Pacific Express, [illegible]
Trains marked daily run daily. Sleepers on night trains. Dining cars on all trains except Sunday.

☞ Limited express trains stop only at stations mentioned in Britton.

Tecumseh passengers are going to Toledo by the popular Wabash make excursions connect at Adrian, and from there our sleeping cars and parlor cars are run through to Boston. Through sleepers to New York. Sold through tickets to Canada, and the direct connections for all points west and northwest. Through coaches and sleepers to St. Louis, making close connections for all points in Kansas and the great southwest.

For Time, Maps, Illustrated Pamphlets, Lowest Rates, Choice of Routes, Sleepers and Parlor Cars obtain Through Tickets.

H. D. ARMSTRONG, Gen'l Pass. Agt., Detroit.
WM. F. BRAUN, Agent, Jackson, Mich.
F. CHANDLER, Gen'l Pass. and Tkt. Agent, St. Louis, Mo.

KING OF THE BLOOD

The Most Thorough Purifier of the Blood Yet Discovered.

Cures all Humors from a Common Boil to the Worst Scrofula.

[illegible]

THIS PAPER
N. W. AYER & SON.

NOMADS OF ASIATIC RUSSIA.

A Strange [illegible] Dietary Custom Used by the Gilyaks.

As regards the food of the alien tribes of Asiatic Russia, Yeveramoff [illegible] he said to have made much headway among the nomads, which is [illegible] Dickinson. Deprived for several months of any vegetable food, the Tungus [illegible] green when at last it returns. Kill a reindeer they eat the entrails almost as much as the undigested moss the animal has eaten, and serve that up as a delicacy. In winter they [illegible] Yakutes. Even the nomads of the steppe what food they can [illegible] the Buriats eat no [illegible] Cut of the kind by chipping a slice off the skins of Lake Baikal, where the horses could find no [illegible].

The diet of the [illegible] is [illegible] prepared, whether the [illegible] is their staple food w[illegible] beef, and occasionally [illegible] to much the Yakutes are [illegible] fish. A Yakute bride on her wedding day sets before her lord and master as the greatest of delicacies horseflesh sausages with a boiled horse's head, of which the brains are the most dainty morsel. The quantity too, of horseflesh they eat is appalling. Their adage says that "much meat and grease fat upon it is the highest dainty of man." I myself was not present at one of their orgies, but as far back as the days of Strabo it was said that the Yakutes would eat a horse.

Once more the Gilyaks exist on a very different kind of food, for they are almost exclusively salmon being their principal food. This fish comes up the Amur in such numbers that they can be caught with a pitchfork. Even the dogs go into the stream and eat for themselves, and salmon steaks are the most seen in London may be purchased in the season among the costermongers for a penny each. The fish are dried without further cooking, a piece of similar size per [illegible] Gilyak and [illegible] sledges. I went to the house [illegible] in the room of its phosphorus [illegible] Gilyaks to give him power [illegible] offer saying the medicine [illegible] Gilyak, the [illegible] this theory [illegible] —Henry Lansdell, D. D., in Longman's Magazine.

Staking Out His Claim

A young man was perched on a [illegible] of the [illegible] decorating a straw [illegible] The occupant of the [illegible] and was [illegible] for the wish of [illegible] the [illegible] man with a [illegible]

The young man completing his [illegible] down from his perch, and the corpulent watcher, with great activity began [illegible]

Hold! [illegible] and the other candidate, [illegible]

What for [illegible]

Because, sir. I have a right to the seat I was here, sir, when that young man began to eat his dumpling. Perhaps," added the tall man scornfully, "you think sir, I have been standing here just to count how many mouthfuls there are in a strawberry dumpling."

The [illegible] laid his hand on the [illegible] and with the confident air of [illegible] holds four aces. I am very [illegible] but I really [illegible] at [illegible] I was here when [illegible] came in [illegible] to decide whether he wanted strawberry dumpling or custard pie."

A [illegible] the corpulent old man, having seen the tall man and gone him one [illegible] upon the stool, and his [illegible] moved softly along to stake out another claim on a man who had just ordered fish balls with tomato sauce.—Chicago Herald.

Carbolic Acid for Indigestion.

Of late cases of indigestion have been treated with carbolic acid, the employment being found very satisfactory in that form of dyspepsia known as fermentative, accompanied by constant sour risings and [illegible] of gas, with pains after meals and discomfort even after drinking milk [illegible] It has proved useful in the form of [illegible] of carbolic acid, that is, one [illegible] of crystallized carbolic acid to four [illegible] of glycerine, the dose being from [illegible] in ounces of hot water [illegible] vehicle. In cases of [illegible] stomach after food, it has been [illegible] to add five or six minims of [illegible] to each dose [illegible] there is want of tone in the [illegible] and loss of appetite, [illegible] care of sick young children [illegible] It is an interesting [illegible] whether the carbolic [illegible] acts by arrest [illegible] in the stomach or [illegible] influence on [illegible]—New York Times.

The More Never the Better.

[illegible] the phrase [illegible] the [illegible] the [illegible] the

The Tecumseh Herald.

VOL. XXXVIII.—NO 11. TECUMSEH MICHIGAN, THURSDAY MORNING, AUGUST 11, 1887 WHOLE NO. 1909

SILK SALE

Saturday Morning!

We will place on sale Remnants of

BLACK, COLORED AND FANCY

SILKS

In 1 to 16 yds. lengths.
Goods worth $1.00 and $1.50 for 50c and 69c.

W. & S. W. Anderson & Co's.

Everything on the

BOOM-BOOM

AT THE

GRAND CENTRAL SUPPLY STORE.

GROCERIES, CROCKERY, GLASSWARE,

TEAS, SUGARS, SPICE.

PRICES LOWER THAN EVER.

HENRY McCLURE.

O. B. DeWOLF, Pres. H. M. TEMPLE, Sec'y and Treas. S. W. TEMPLE, Vice Pres. and Gen'l Mgr

THE OHIO & MICH. COAL & MFG. CO.,

COAL.

LUMBER LATH AND SHINGLES

MANUFACTURERS OF.

Doors, Sash, Blinds, Mouldings,

Scroll Work, Turned Work, Modern Interior Finish.

GET ESTIMATES BEFORE BUYING.

OFFICE CORNER R. R. AND SHAWNEE STS.

Yards and Factory on Pearl and Shawnee sts., near L. S. & M. S. Depot.

TECUMSEH, MICH.

NEW BEDROOM SUITS PARLOR SUITS!

Patent Rockers, Reed Rockers, New Couches,

And a big stock of Fine and Medium

FURNITURE!

I invite all who are in want of good Furniture to look through my rooms and examine goods and notice the low prices. Remember, I have not moved back, but still occupy the largest store on the street for the last 13 years. You are told I don't enjoy the business for want of room. THAT IS SO.

Undertaking a Specialty!

Night Calls, Day Calls, and all kinds of calls promptly attended to. New styles of Caskets in stock, and something entirely new for the times.

WM. McCOWEN.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

RIDGEWAY RAMBLES.

Born—To Mr. & Mrs. Albert Sink, Friday Aug. 5th, a 8½ pound boy.

A number who went on the S. S. excursion last week to Devil's Lake, stopped at Sand Lake and spent the night and next day.

Several wells and creeks have dried up so that farmers have to drive their stock to spring brooks and wells run by windmills for water.

It is reported that the fires below here in the timber lots are doing quite a considerable damage.

Samuel Helm has been improving the appearance of his store by giving it a fresh coat of paint.

Waring Bros. & Co, are putting up a storehouse on their lot, back of their store.

The slate for the Library have arrived and are on the ground ready for use.

The memorial plate for the Library was placed in the desired spot Tuesday afternoon.

Some of the young people spent Saturday at the lakes.

Henry Pocklington and wife and James Pocklington and Miss Schall, rusticated at the Lake Sunday and Monday.

Flota Smith returned Saturday from a week's visit with friends at Manchester.

Mrs. Cobb, of Hudson, spent Thursday and Friday at W. H. Arners as the guest of Mrs. Webster. They returned to their homes at Hudson and Pittsford, Saturday.

Uncle Reubin Gunn is under the doctors care at present.

Dr. R. H. Nelson came from Toledo Monday night on the through train to Chicago. After a short debate they consented to let him off at the depot here.

Messrs. Hiscock and VanVleet lost some fat hogs Tuesday. They were taking them to Britton, where they were to be shipped, and they were so overcome by the heat that they died before reaching there.

Would it not be wise for the business men of the village to take turns and act as night watch during the dry spell. It might save a total loss of some business place.

The ladies on West street don't propose to let the North street ladies get the start of them, so Mrs. Ida Lawton has opened dressmaking rooms at her sister's, Mrs. Potter's. She will also do sewing at the homes of those who prefer it. May success crown her efforts.

A large number of our village people went to Clinton Saturday to see the game of ball between our Ball team and the Norvell team.

Mr. & Mrs. John Craft who were married a few days since, spent Monday and Tuesday at Mr. Danier Lains.

Upwards of 400 took the train here last week Wednesday on the S. S. excursion to Devil's Lake, and all report a splendid time. The Britton Band furnished music for the occasion.

Our Base Ball team played the Tecumseh Ball team a game at Tecumseh last week Friday afternoon and were victorious by a score of 5 to 23.

Ever since our boys played the Clinton team and secured the victory, they have felt sick and sent our boys a challenge to play the Norvell boys a game on the Clinton grounds, and last Saturday our team went to Clinton and played the Norvell team and got left by a score of 17 to 27. It is the first team that has beaten them this season. There was a very large crowd there to witness the game and they all acted as though they never had seen a game of ball before, but had been living in an unbroken wilderness; their unearthly noises and appearances were disgusting. Clinton or Norvell, neither one can produce a team that can beat our team unless they employ a battery from some other town. If they think they can, let them trot them to the front, and they will be treated like gentlemen by our team, not like beasts.

MACON MUSIC.

The dry weather makes lively times for Beacher Lighthall digging and driving wells.

Dr. Langan, of Sanilac county, is visiting his mother. Report says he is talking of locating here.

Henry Miller went to Plymouth last Friday on business, returning on Saturday.

There will be a Sunday-school concert next Sunday evening, at the M. E. Church.

The ladies of the Baptist Church will hold their next mite society at the home of Miss Abbie McCline on Thursday afternoon, Aug. 18th. A good attendance is desired.

There will be an ice cream social Saturday evening, August 13th, at Pennington's grove, for the benefit of the M. E. Church. The band will furnish music. All are cordially invited.

The Baptist quarterly meeting passed off very pleasantly. The missionary meeting Saturday evening was well attended and a good amount of interest manifested. A number of strangers from Hillsdale and the lakes were here. Rev. Mr. Mason, of Hillsdale, preached to a full house Sunday morning and evening, assisted by the the pastor, Rev. C. W. Dennis.

ONSTED ODDS.

The fast train was stopped a half mile west of this place Wednesday morning, on account of a tree having fallen across the track.

J. S. Kane and wife took a trip to Jackson this week to visit friends.

Work has again commenced on Mrs. Stoddard's house.

The Tipton Base Ball Club played with the Onsted's, Saturday. The score was 51 to 9 in favor of the latter.

Quite a number are reported sick in this vicinity. Among others are Fred Wooden and Artie Onsted.

There were two funerals at the Onsted church Tuesday. In the forenoon was that of Alta Kinney, little daughter of Frank Kinney, and in the afternoon that of the only child of Albert Howard, aged about eight months. The bereaved parents have the sympathy of the whole community.

NORTH EAST FRANKLIN.

Threshing goes on with a rush. Short jobs and not very paying ones, either for farmers or threshers.

A light rain Friday roused high hopes, but when the weather, thinking its duty done, cleared off before the dust was fairly laid, no one felt like answering back its smiles.

We learn that the wife of Eugene Smith is very low with consumption.

Mrs. Munger has been quite sick for a couple of weeks but is improving at present.

Warnie Hampton was at home, sick, a part of last week.

Wesley Pawson and wife have been visiting relatives in Cambridge.

Edith and Willie Love are spending a few days with their grandmother, Mrs. Pawson.

Miss Cynthia Wheeler, of Ohio, is visiting at Frank Erskine's.

Saturday being the 31st birthday of Wm. Whelan, a family reunion was held at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Geo. Allen, in honor of the occasion.

FRANKLIN FACTS.

Dry! dry! dry.

A refreshing shower of rain—a few rods wide—passed over, a mile and a half north of the pike, last Friday. The rest of us got only a big shower of dust.

Ernest Wisner writes from North Platte, Neb., that in some localities the hail fell to a depth of three inches during the late storm. Truly there are some things as bad as a Michigan drouth. He is located somewhere in the sand hill country and says the report that the land was worthless was started and continued by ranchmen, anxious to keep out actual settlers on account of their cattle. The soil he thinks as good as any to be found.

Mrs. Smith Munger who has been for several days on the sick list is slowly convalescing.

Eliza Ann Allen is seriously sick, of malarial fever.

Two of Web Love's children and one of Elmer Wilson's have the scarlet fever.

Luman Deming has a pair of the "cutest" pets in two young racoons. Their antics are as amusing as those of young monkeys.

Miss Carrie Preston is recovering from an attack of typhoid fever.

A Square Statement by a Carpenter.

"For years I have had a chest trouble amounting to nothing short of consumption. I saw how others in like condition had been cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and resolved to test its merits in my own case. The results are so plane as hardly to require a bitstock or any auger-ment in favor of this grate remedy. It does awl it claims. It builds up the system, supports and strengthens where others fail." He adz: "My recovery, which is now on a sure foundation, hinges entirely on the compass of this wonderful Restorative, having tried other remedies without a bit of relief."

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The Best Salve in the world for cuts, Bruises, Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chilblains Corns and all skin Eruptions, and postively cures Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box FOR SALE BY C. A. Wright & Co.

GASEOUS.

FINDLAY, OHIO, Aug. 4, '87.

EDITOR OF THE HERALD—If you and your readers will aid me with your imagination I will attempt to give you a pen picture of an illumination which we had in this city last evening. The occasion was the Democratic Judicial Convention.

First we will take Chicago street, Tecumseh, and along the whole length of it from Judge Stacy's residence to the Globe Mill we will erect arches of two inch gas pipe. The arches we will place at every street crossing and one between each crossing. These arches to be thirty feet wide and about thirty feet high. Up each side we will place five or more gas jets each issuing a flame about the size of an ordinary gas jet. Over the circle, and projecting several inches upward, we will place five jets issuing flames about the size of an ordinary house broom.

At the foot of Chicago street must be an iron bridge of about one hundred feet span. The arch at each end of the bridge will support fifty jets enclosed in glass globes of red, white, blue and amber color.

Near the bridge, as you approach it from the west, off to the right, we will construct, over a bend in the stream, a foot bridge ten feet wide. Over this bridge from side to side we will erect arches of one and a half inch pipe, about ten feet apart. Each arch will support ten jets, in globes.

Near the lower end of this bridge and a little to the left we will build a wigwam covering as much ground, but not so high as the Tecumseh Opera House. Up each corner of the front place a single row of jets in colored globes; across the top, a double row; in the center a double arch, with globes alternating. We will use two hundred lights on this front. Above each corner of the "battlement" stands a statue holding aloft a torch, or jet, issuing a flame much larger than an "ordinary house broom." Between these statues, perch with one wing spread, three American Eagles; one large and two small. We will decorate the interior very elaborately with flags, pictures and mottoes. We will light it with eight or ten powerful electric lights. We will replace four street lamps with large jets. We will place several upon buildings in different parts of your city. We will bend small perforated pipe in the form of letters, with a frame of the same to keep them in place, for signs. Will put up in front of Mr. Wimple's store a huge boot made of this perforated pipe. We will run these pipes lenthwise, crossing zig-zag, twist them into any form you may desire through your stoves. We will run them into your cook stoves, heating stoves or grates. We will run them under the boilers to your manufactories. We will run them out to your country residence, or your summer resorts. We will include Brownville in all this preparation. To finish the arrangements we will go down to the bridge and a little to the north of it we will project a five-inch pipe out over the stream. This pipe will connect with the Karg well, the most powerful in the city, with a capacity of 40,000,000 cubic feet every twenty-four hours.

Now we are ready to give our spectators a "little light on the subject," and we set the "whole shooting match" except the Karg pipe, on fire, and leave them—the spectators of course—to elbow their way back and forth through the throng, giving expression to their wonder and admiration in phrases not studied; in words, many times more emphatic and expressive than "choice"—though perhaps well chosen for the occasion. After they have walked and talked, looked and wondered until they begin to weary, I step down to the Karg pipe, turn on a little gas, ignite it, and she begins to whistle and roar in a manner peculiar to herself. The attention of the crowd is at once drawn in that direction and a grand rush for "the best place to see" is made. Gradually I let on gas and gradually the whistling and roaring increases to an almost deafening noise. The flame is eight or ten feet by about fifty, throwing out a considerable heat and illumining the sky like a great burning building. "Dost like the picture?" The nature, formation, probable duration and the danger arising from bringing this gas to the surface are theories for much study, reasoning and theorizing by scientists, some of whom feel quite certain that they have arrived at a correct solution of this really intricate problem in nature. Possibly they have. Probably they have not.

Two facts however remain, i. e. It is here, and like water and steam, it has been made the servant of man, and a powerful witness to the power and the wisdom and the goodness of Him who created all things and has given man that wisdom which enables him to subjugate it to his will. To be continued.

W. P. STOCKING.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSONS.

Lesson for August 14.

THE BEATITUDES.—MATT. v. 1-16.

NOTES.—"The mountain."—What mountain is not known. The hill region generally is meant, although tradition has fixed on a prominent hill called Hattin, near the Sea of Galilee.——"Sat down."—The usual attitude for an Eastern teacher.——"His disciples came unto him."—Luke says the multitudes. But Matthew also says he came here because he saw the multitudes, evidently not to escape them, but to teach them. His disciples would have naturally sat near him, and the rest of the multitude about them. The sermon as reported by Luke is evidently the same as this reported by Matthew, given only in somewhat different words.—"Blessed are the poor in spirit."——Christ begins by telling what is the class of people that shall have part in the new kingdom of Heaven. They are not the rich and honored of this world, nor yet are they all poor, except they be poor in spirit, who recognize their spiritual wants and go to God to supply them. For such the kingdom of Heaven is already come.——"They that mourn"——Evidently not all that mourn, but they that suffer from unrighteous exactions while living in fear of God. They are further identified by the next verse (omitted in Luke) which gives the messianic kingdom to the meek, who are those who, in a loving spirit, patiently submit to the exactions and insults which they cannot prevent.——"Hunger and thirst after righteousness."——The spiritual and not temporal condition of blessedness in Christ's kingdom is still emphasized. It is not food but righteousness that must be hungered for. And it is righteousness and its final rewards and victory with which they shall be filled.——"Shall obtain mercy."—In God's judgment.—"Pure in heart."—No pretenders, but honestly seeking goodness.——"They that have been persecuted for righteousness' sake."—Those who accepted Christ's teaching were from the poor who could not protect themselves. It was the powerful and the rich that rejected it——"Salt of the earth * * lost its savor."—The Eastern salt was not carefully purified, but was gathered as it had dried up on old salt lakes, with the lime or gypsum earth attached. When this was exposed to rain the salt would wash out leaving a mass of the earth——"A city set on a hill."—As all cities in the East are, for protection from attack, and for health. If they had no hill they made one.——"Lamp"—Not "candles," as in the Old Version. It was an earthen lamp, low, flat, and oval-shaped, with a hole at one end for pouring in oil, and another at the other for the wick.—"The stand."—Not "a candlestick." The stand was tall enough to shed light on their low tables——"Let your light shine."—Not that they were to make a display of their religion, but that they were not to be ashamed of it.

INSTRUCTION.—Jesus loved to teach. Here is a lesson for all now who might teach. There is no other helpfulness like that of doing good.

Learners will go to Jesus, as his disciples came unto him as soon as he sat down, hoping for instruction. Here is a lesson for scholars. Remember that the word "disciple" means scholar. A good scholar will learn all he can from his teacher, and remember it. These must have been good scholars to remember so well their Teacher's words.

Christ was teaching who are the really blessed, happy ones of earth for whom the promises were assured. Not happy now, perhaps, but with the promise of final success. He showed them that the tests were very different from what people thought, that success was not where the world put it.

Everything uttered is a paradox. This is because the world's standards are the reverse of those of the kingdom of Heaven. Christ wanted utterly to contradict the kingdom of earth, substituting the rules of the kingdom of Heaven.

The beatitudes all depended upon soul-condition. World condition has nothing to do with it. It is the pure, the meek, the peace-makers who have the kingdom and they have it though now they mourn and suffer and are meek.

Under divine conditions, and so in the kingdom of Heaven on earth. Even the earth, in its best gifts, is for the meek, that is, for those who love and are patient in enduring wrong. It may not always seem so, but it is so more and more clearly as God's kingdom comes on earth.

If religious life is not anything to be boasted of and paraded, nether is it anything to be ashamed of and concealed.

THE TECUMSEH HERALD.

BY S. C. STACY.

Office in the New Masonic Building, one door East of the Opera House, Tecumseh, Mich.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

[illegible]

ADVERTISING RATES.

[illegible]

TECUMSEH, THURSDAY, AUG. [illegible]

Talmage on Tobacco.

Rev. De Witt Talmage lays a section of tobacco as follows:

"One reason why there are so many victims of this habit is because there are so many ministers of religion who smoke and chew. They smoke until they get cigars and the dear people have to pay their expenses to Europe. They smoke until the nervous system breaks down. They smoke themselves to death. I could name three eminent clergymen who died of cancer in the mouth and in every case the physician said it was tobacco. There has been a clergyman whose confidence was all covered up with energy, which ought to have had the best epitaph. Killed by too much Cavendish! Some of them smoke until the room is blue and their spirits are blue, and the world is blue, and everything is blue.

"Time was when God passed by such sins but it becomes the duty of the American clergy who indulge in this narcotic to repent. How can a man preach temperance to the people when he is himself indulging in an appetite like this? I have seen a cuspidore in a pulpit where the minister would drop his quid before he got up to read 'Blessed are the pure in heart.' And to read about 'Rolling as a sweet morsel under the tongue,' and in fact, to read the entire Bible. Any church with a general association and general school where there was a room set apart for the ministers to smoke in. I have seen ministers of religion their beards apparently [illegible] with snuff, and their breath smelling like a [illegible] with pipe smoke. Among them, but with pomatum rather than snuff, a sorry spectacle. A consecrated man a [illegible] preaching sermon for some [illegible] which we take to be [illegible] for a [illegible] Herald [illegible] looking [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] smoking the floor of every [illegible] had a sudden return of [illegible] and [illegible] was the next [illegible] tobacco through [illegible] and saw—What brought [illegible] here? Who keeps us here? Why are [illegible] tobacco? God, help [illegible] I'll never use it again. He was [illegible] storage. He was brought forth. For ten years he successfully preached the gospel of Jesus Christ, and then went into a blissful immortality.

"There are ministers of religion today indulging in anything, using Lyman Beecher and they do not know what is the matter with them. I might, in a word, give my own experience. It took ten cigars to make a sermon. I got very nervous. One day I awakened to the outrage I was inflicting upon myself. I was about change settlements, and a generous wholesale tobacconist in Philadelphia said if would only come to Philadelphia he would, all the rest of my life, provide me with cigars free of charge.

"I said to myself, if in these war times, when cigars are so costly, and my salary is small, I smoke more than I ought to, what would I do if I had gratuitous and illimitable supply? And then and there, twenty years ago, I quit once and forever. It made a new man of me, and though I have since then done as much hard work as any one, I think I have had the best health God ever blessed a man with. [illegible] knowledge I can offer it shall [illegible]

Number of Year Books.

[illegible] which, according to the locality of your latitude, will cost you from eight to twenty cents, postpaid. And for the sum just [illegible] the graphics of a mature [illegible] you had better be sure of your latitude and pay four

Some Physical Faults of Idleness.

The mind should be always occupied; healthy state of work, whereas it decays or becomes impoverished by disease; or what is even worse, since it is impossible to keep the brain absolutely at rest, its powers should be profitably employed, or they react on the system and give rise to [illegible] and morbid known as hysteria. This term almost implies that I am thinking of the female sex; certainly it is to women, especially that the want of occupation applies. Young men are forced to get their living whether they like it or not; [illegible] That, they have always [illegible] themselves the means of [illegible] wholesome food, and comfortable lodging and a [illegible] upon them. [illegible] In [illegible] the condition of middle-class girls is so [illegible]. They are too [illegible] to follow any occupation; they are [illegible] to assist in domestic duties; they have learned some with some very poor accomplishments; their knowledge of French and German is just sufficient to allow them to converse in those languages with music just enough to enable them to sing or play badly on the piano. They dawdle through the day in a listless way, and fall victims to a thousand little ailments which the doctor is supposed to put right by physic. And the most curious thing is that, should the instincts of the girl force her to put some of her energies into use, she is likely enough to be thwarted by her mother. I am a daily witness to this; and, when young ladies are brought to me for advice, the invariable story is that they are overtaxing their strength; the maternal instinct being so perverted that it has become with many the belief that every movement means fatigue and absolute rest is the way to secure health. It is against this very injurious view that I am now preaching. Often mothers do not come to the doctor for advice but come to dictate to him; and they say, 'I want you, doctor, to insist on my daughter not playing the organ at church, for it is too much for her; or having the children's class once a week, for she is always ill after it, but order her to take her breakfast in bed, and a glass of port wine about 11 o'clock.' It is this fatal care on the part of parents which is so injurious, for the very energy of mind, if properly directed, would command them to secure for themselves a competence. I do not know that girls are worse than boys in respect of idleness; for probably the latter would not work unless obliged, and even for them an occupation [illegible] which [illegible] daily bread.

Writing for the Press.

[illegible] young ladies who [illegible] and yet will [illegible] They think [illegible] to secure three or four dollars [illegible] their attempts by the [illegible] rather than by [illegible] the public. Now [illegible] must write [illegible] to write [illegible] knows, or [illegible] and [illegible] to tell it [illegible] the public will be [illegible] are thousands who [illegible] aptitude [illegible] for writing, just [illegible] long to be rich, but cannot compass their desires in that direction, and thousands who long to be beautiful and sandy exhaust fashion, corsets and all that in the attempt. Meantime, those who are bound to succeed at writing and have it in them to succeed, will keep on steadily and quietly at their books and pens, climbing up slowly, it may be, but steadily, to place and pay, first deserving success and then attaining it—just as men grow rich by small accretions at first and larger accretions afterward. There is an immense reading public, and there must be an immense army of writers to supply the demand. As education and intelligence advance, the demands on writers for higher grades of literary work and newspaper work will advance, and the more difficult it will be to fill the highest place of honor and emolument in the world whereof the pen is the power. But the lists are open to all, and some must surely succeed. Why not you as well as another?

What Common Sense Does.

[illegible] symmetry of mind [illegible] of purpose in the individual combined. It represents man in completeness, harmony, and composure. It [illegible] his world [illegible] invests him with power, and stamps him with superiority. It is not genius, yet that is often crushed or [illegible] its [illegible] course, [illegible] with its [illegible] into mediocrity. Common sense is the embodiment of true manhood. It confers a parent's loyalty, [illegible] be plebeian, and exalts [illegible] to the highest [illegible] by simple [illegible] of [illegible] intelligence, [illegible] time [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] to the [illegible] [illegible] by [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

KASKINE

GIVES
Good Appetite
New Strength
Quiet Nerves
Happy Days
Sweet Sleep.

A SPECIFIC FOR MALARIA, RHEUMATISM, NERVOUS PROSTRATION, And all germ diseases.

THE MOST SCIENTIFIC AND SUCCESSFUL BLOOD PURIFIER. Superior to quinine. Universal poisoning, pain and dyspepsia, and nervous prostration and malaria followed. I got discouraged. I had to be carried up and down stairs. Everybody thought I would die. Three months' use of Kaskine gave me new life. I am now perfectly well. I owe my recovery and life itself solely to the use of this great and efficient remedy.—Mrs. E. A. Comstock, 139 East 71st st., N. Y.

Four years of malaria and dyspepsia greatly reduced my wife's strength and destroyed her health. A trip to Florida and every known remedy could not restore her. I heard of Kaskine, and in months' use broke up the malaria, cured the dyspepsia, restored her strength and health, and in 60 days repaired the waste of four years. Chauncey I. Titus, Albany, N. Y.

Letters from the above persons, giving full details will be sent on application.

It is one is pleasant to take and can be used without special medical advice. $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5.

Sent by mail on receipt of price.

THE KASKINE CO., 31 Warren st., New York

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM

the popular favorite for dressing the hair. Restoring color when gray, and preventing Dandruff. It cleanses the scalp, stops the hair falling, and is sure to please. 50c. and $1.00 at Druggists.

HINDERCORNS.

The safest, surest and best cure for Corns, Bunions, &c. Stops all pain. Ensures comfort to the feet. Never fails to cure. 15c. at all Druggists. Hiscox & Co., N. Y.

MARVELOUS

MEMORY

DISCOVERY.

Wholly unlike artificial systems. Any book learned in one reading.

Recommended by Mark Twain, Richard Proctor, The Scientist; Hons. W. W. Astor, Judah P. Benjamin, Dr. Minor, etc. Class of 100 Columbia Law students; two classes of 200 each at Yale; 200 at University of Penn. Phil., and 400 at Wellesley College, etc., and engaged at Chautauqua University. Prospectus post free from PROF. LOISETTE, 237 Fifth Ave., New York.

DEAFNESS Its causes and a new and successful CURE at your own home by one who was deaf 28 years. Treated by most of the noted specialists without benefit. Cured himself in three months, and since then hundreds of others. Full particulars sent on application.

T. S. PAGE, No. 41 West 31st st., New York City.

Agric'ltur'l Implement DEPOT.

C. A. SLAYTON

is prepared to make lower prices than ever before on first-class farm machinery. My stock is complete, but will only mention a few articles.

PLOWS. SOUTH BEND, BUROH, WIARD, GALE, OLIVER. Walking.

THE CASSADY AND SOLID COMFORT SULKY PLOWS.

Kalamazoo Spring Tooth Harrow,

"ACME" PULVERIZING HARROWS.

CULTIVATORS { Elwood, New Robbins, Albion, Buckeye.

Buckeye, Superior, Monitor, Roller, } GRAIN DRILLS

KEMP'S MANURE SPREADER.

Studebaker, Jackson and Flint WAGONS.

GREAT BARGAINS IN Carriages and Platform Spring Wagons.

Headquarters for Lime, Cement, Salt, Coal, Cal. Plaster and Plastering Hair Grain, Flour, Feed, and Field Seeds.

AYER & SON ADVERTISING AGENTS TIMES BUILDING PHILADELPHIA Cor. Chestnut and Eighth Sts. Receive Advertisements for this Paper. ESTIMATES For NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING FREE at Lowest Cash Rates Send 10c. in stamps for AYER & SON'S MANUAL

JESS.

BY H. RIDER HAGGARD

Author of "King Solomon's Mines," Etc.

For a fortnight or more after this fight there was nothing of any importance happened, and then came the news of the crushing defeat at Laing's Nek. At first Silas Croft would not believe the news. "No, no," he said; "it can't have been so bad," but soon the report was amply confirmed from native sources.

Another week passed, and without rain the news of the British defeat at Bigger. The first they heard of it was on the morning of Feb. 8, when Jantje brought a Kaffir up to the veranda at breakfast time. This Kaffir said that he had been wandering the night from Ladysmith, and that the English had been beaten badly, and had fled across the Tugela, leaving their wounded behind them. He did not know how many were killed, but there were many. The Boers, he said, were not "authoring" at all—the English had not "shoot straight." After hearing this they passed a sufficiently miserable day and evening. About 12 o'clock that night, however, a native spy, Mr. Croft, had dispatched came back with the report that the English general had got safely back to camp, having suffered heavily and abandoned his wounded, many of whom had died in the rain, for the night after the battle was wet.

Then came another long pause, during which no reliable news reached them, though the air was thick with rumors, and old Silas was made happy by hearing that large reenforcements were on their way from England.

"Ah, Bessie, my dear, they will soon sing another tune now," he said, in great glee; "and what's more, it's about time they did. I can't understand what the soldiers have been about—I can't indeed."

And so the time wore heavily along till at last there came a dreadful day which Bessie will never forget as long as she lives. It was the 20th of February—just a week before the final disaster at Majuba Hill. Bessie was standing idly on the veranda, looking down the long avenue of blue gums, where the shadows formed a dark network to catch the wandering rays of light. The place looked very peaceful, and certainly no one could have known from its appearance that a bloody war was being waged within a few miles. The Kaffirs came and went about their work as usual, or made pretense to; but now and then a close observer might see them stop and look toward the Drakensberg and then say a few words to their neighbor about the wonderful thing that had come to pass that the Boers were beating the great white people, who came out of the sea and shook the earth with their tread. Whereon the neighbor would take the opportunity to relax from toil and squat down and have a pinch of snuff, and relate in what particular collection of rocks on the hillside he and his wives slept the last night, for when the Boers are out on commando the Kaffirs will not sleep in their huts for fear of being surprised and shot down. Then the pair would spend half an hour or so in speculating on what would be their fate when the Boers had eaten up the Englishmen and taken back the country, and finally came to the conclusion that they had better emigrate to Natal.

Bessie, on the veranda, noted all this going on, every now and again catching snatches of the lazy rascals' talk, which chimed in but too sadly with her own thoughts. Turning from it impatiently, she began to watch the hens marching solemnly about the drive, followed by their broods. This picture, too, had a sanguinary background, for under an orange tree two rival cocks were fighting furiously. They always did this about once a week, nor did they cease from troubling till each retired, temporarily blinded, to the shade of a separate orange tree, where they spent the rest of the week in recovering, only to emerge when the cure was effected and fight their battles over again. Meanwhile a third cock, young in years but old in wisdom, who steadily refused to fight when attacked, looked after the hens in dispute. To-day the fight was particularly ferocious, and, fearing that the combatants would have no eyes left at all if she did not interfere, Bessie called to the old Boer hound who was lying in the sun on the veranda:

"Hi, Stomp, Stomp—hunt them, Stomp!"

Up jumped Stomp and made a prodigious show of furiously attacking the combattant cocks; it was an operation to which he was used, and which afforded him constant amusement. Suddenly, however, as he dashed toward the trees he stopped midway, his simulated wrath ceased, and, instead, an expression of real disgust came upon his honest face. Then the hair along his backbone stood up like the quills upon the fretful porcupine, and he growled.

"A strange Kaffir, I expect," said Bessie to herself.

Stomp hated strange Kaffirs. She had scarcely got the words out before they were justified by the appearance of a native. He was a villainous looking fellow, with one eye, and nothing on but a pair of ragged trousers fastened round the waist with a greasy leather strap. In his wool, however, were stuck several small distended bladders, such as are generally worn by medicine men and witch doctors. In his left hand he held a long stick cleft at the end. In the cleft was a letter.

"Come here, Stomp," said Bessie, and as she did so a wild hope shot across her heart like a meteor across the night; perhaps the letter was from John.

The dog followed her unwillingly enough, for he evidently did not like this Kaffir, and when he saw that Stomp was without of the way the Kaffir himself followed. He was an impudent fellow, and took no notice of Bessie's protesting [illegible] drove it off in fear.

"What do you want, my [illegible]?" she said, in Dutch, for she [illegible] letters, and this letter [illegible] Taking it with a [illegible] on the dirty [illegible] paper, in the second place, the envelope was addressed apparently with a three penny bit.

"Are you sure it is for me?" asked Bessie.

"Yah, yah—sure, sure," answered the native, with a ride laugh. "There never was such white girls in the Transvaal. I have made no mistake. I have sought you out. And I have got to go through his catalogue—'Yah, yah, that curly, etc.—again.'"

Then Bessie opened the letter. Inside was an ordinary sheet of paper written over in a bold, firm, yet slightly unpractised writing that Bessie knew well enough, and the sight of which filled her with a presentiment of evil. It was Frank Muller's.

She turned sick and cold but could not choose, and read as follows:

"CAMP NEAR PRETORIA, Feb. 15.

"DEAR MISS BESSIE—I am sorry to have to write to you, but though we have quarrelled [illegible] I am your good friend [illegible] your uncle's farm. [illegible] was a sortie made by the people in Pretoria [illegible] the high veld [illegible] were [illegible] and left the ammunition in our hands, carrying off with them many dead and wounded [illegible]

[illegible] gave a sort of cackle, and let the letter fall over the veranda, to one of the posts of which she clung with both her hands.

BESSIE GAVE A SORT OF CHOKED CRY.

The ill favored native below grinned, and, picking the paper up, handed it to her.

She took it, feeling that she must know all, and read on like one reads in some ghastly dream—

"who has been staying on your uncle's farm. I did not see him killed myself, but Jan Vanzyl shot him, and Piet Dirk Oosthuizen and Carolus, a Hottentot, saw them pick him up and carry him away. They say that he was quite dead. For this I fear you will be sorry, but it is the chance of war, and he died fighting bravely. Make my dedicate compliments to your uncle. We parted in anger, but I hope in the new circumstances that have arisen in the land to show him that I, for one, bear no anger. Believe me, dear Miss Bessie, your humble and devoted servant,

"FRANK MULLER."

Bessie thrust the letter into the pocket of her dress and then again caught hold of the veranda post and supported herself by it, while the light of the sun seemed to visibly fade out of the day before her eyes and replace itself by a cold blackness in which there was no break. He was dead—her lover was dead! The glow had gone from her life as it seemed to be going from the day, and she was left desolate. She had no knowledge of how long she stood thus, staring with wide eyes at the sunshine she could not see. She had lost her count of time; all things were phantasmagorical and unreal; all that she could realize was this one overpowering, crushing fact—John was dead!

"Missie," said the ill favored messenger below, fixing his one eye upon her poor sorrow stricken face and yawning.

There was no answer.

"Missie," he said again, "is there any answer? I must be going. I want to get back in time to see the Boers take Pretoria."

Bessie looked at him vaguely. "Yours is a message that needs no answer," she said. "What is, is."

The brute laughed. "No, I can't take a letter to the captain," he said; "I saw Jan Vanzyl shoot him. He fell so," and he suddenly collapsed all in a heap on the path, in imitation of a man struck dead by a bullet. "I can't take him a message, missie," he went on, rising, "but one day you will be able to go and look for him yourself. I did not mean that; what I meant was that I could take a letter to Frank Muller. A live Boer is better than a dead Englishman; and Frank Muller will make a fine husband for any girl. If you shut your eyes you won't know the difference."

"Go!" said Bessie, in a choked voice, and pointing her hand toward the avenue.

Bessie vacantly watched him go. Then, as though struck by a thought, she turned and went into the sitting room.

"What is all this about, Bessie?" said her uncle, following her. "What does that man mean about Frank Muller?"

"It means, uncle dear," she said at last, in a voice that was something between a sob and a laugh, "that I am a widow before I am married. John is dead!"

"Dead! dead!" said the old man, putting his hand to his forehead and turning round in a dazed sort of fashion—"John dead!"

"Read the letter," said Bessie, handing him Frank Muller's missive.

The old man took it and read it. His hand shook so much that it took him a long while to come to the end of it.

"Good God!" he said at last, "what a blow! My poor Bessie," and he took her into his arms and kissed her. Suddenly a thought struck him. "Perhaps it is all one of Frank Muller's lies," he said, "or perhaps he made a mistake."

But Bessie made no answer. For the time at any rate, hope had left her.

CHAPTER XXVI

FRANK MULLER'S FAMILIAR

The study of the [illegible] that go to make up [illegible] Frank Muller [illegible] however [illegible] it might prove, is [illegible] that can be attempted in these pages. [illegible] the refined forms in which [illegible] impossible in a high [illegible] century. [illegible] the human [illegible] and [illegible] the earth [illegible] the [illegible] pencils the [illegible] forest it is [illegible] toward the light which [illegible] to fight many [illegible] and [illegible] which it has [illegible] such form and [illegible] as its possessors will allow to it, all it struggles being directed to the preservation of life, in any shape and in any [illegible]. Thus it is with us all. Left to [illegible] surroundings [illegible] by the scruples of humanity, we become entirely that which the spirit within would fain do in us to be, but placed under the fetters, shackled by custom, restrained by law, pinched and bent by the force of public opinion, we grow as like one to an other as the fruit trees in a garden wall. The sharp angles of our characters are rubbed away by the friction of the crowd, and we become round and polished, and superficially, at any rate, identical. We no longer resemble a solitary bowlder on a plain, but are as a stone built into the great edifice of civilized society.

The place of a man like Frank Muller is at the [illegible] of the [illegible] civilization and [illegible] are [illegible] and [illegible] to the [illegible] he is at once [illegible] of lash and work to [illegible] and almost entirely [illegible] spirit of civilization, mercy, [illegible] on the edge of both and an affront [illegible] of [illegible] as the [illegible] of [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible] and

Tecumseh Herald

PEOPLES UNION PICNIC

The big free Union Picnic of Hillsdale, Lenawee and Jackson Counties will be held at Allen's Island grove, Devils Lake, on Thursday of next week, August 18th. A program of unusual merit has been arranged, and officers of the association expect to make it the great event of the season. The principal address of the day will be delivered by Hon. Edwin Willits, President of the State Agricultural College, and short speeches have been promised by Hon. C. A. Stacy of Tecumseh, Hon. V. H. Lane and Lt. L. H. Salisbury of Adrian, Mrs. M. Adele Hazlett and Grant Fellows of Hudson, Vernon Allen of Morenci and others. Music will be furnished by the Brooklyn Cornet Band and the Raisin, Fairfield and Franklinville Glee Clubs. The grove has been put in readiness to accommodate all who come and there will be no danger of overcrowding. No entrance fee will be charged. This is the Peoples' free picnic. Everybody is invited and everybody will be welcome. The C. J. & M. Railroad will run a special train between Dundee and the Lake, leaving Dundee at 9:30 A. M. and leaving the Lake at 6:30 P. M.

The following schedule of rates have been fixed for August 17th and 18th, to Devils Lake and return.

FROM		FROM
Dundee	60cts.	Battle Creek,	75cts.
Clarksville	55 "	Cement City	55 "
Britton	50 "	Marshall	60 "
Ridgeway	45 "	Milders	60 "
Tecumseh	40 "	Eckford	55 "
Tipton	30 "	Homer	55 "
Closted	20 "	Pulaski	50 "
		Hanover	45 "
		Moscow	35 "
		Jerome	30 "
		Addison	25 "

Passengers from points east of the Lake will go on regular train, No. 2, and will be returned on special leaving the Lake at 6:30 P. M. From points west of the Lake train No. 3 will carry passengers to the Lake, and train No. 4 will carry them from the Lake. On August 17th the special will not run east of Britton, but on the 18th special will run from the Lake to Dundee.

The special rates and trains for the 17th, are to accommodate the Supervisors' Reunion of Lenawee County to be held at Brazee's Stony Grove on that day.

Below we present the program as at present arranged, although it is expected that other features will be added before the day of meeting.

Music by Brooklyn Band.
Song by Raisin Glee Club.
Prayer.
Music by the Band.
Report of Secretary.
Singing by Franklin Glee Club.
Address of Welcome by Dr. George Howell.
Music by Band.
Oration by Hon. Edwin Willits.
Singing by Fairfield Glee Club.
Short Talks by Judge C. A. Stacey, Hon. V. H. Lane and Lt. L. H. Salisbury, interspersed with singing by Glee Clubs.
Music by Band.
Short talks by Mrs. M. Adele Hazlett, Vernon Allen and Grant Fellows interspersed with music by Glee Clubs.
Election of Officers and a Director for each township.
Music ad libitum.

A table will be set apart for the officers, speakers, band and invited guests, to which each family is requested to make a small contribution. Toasts and responses will be on the program at this table.

Four steamers and row boats without number will furnish plenty of boating facilities for all.

We give herewith the present officers of the association, which is a sufficient guarantee that they can and will do what they advertise. People can rely upon having this program faithfully and fully presented:

President Loss Parsons, Woodstock.
Vice Pres.—Robert Wooden, Cambridge.
Secretary—J. H. Underwood, Adrian.
Treasurer—Cornelius Knapp, Rome.
Executive Committee.—F. A. Dewey, Cambridge; A. G. Hall, Tecumseh; Chas. Selleck, Adrian; L. D. Woodworth, Church's Corners; Wm. S. Blackmore, Napoleon.

COUNTY OFFICERS' REUNION.

The Supervisors' Reunion, including past and present Supervisors and County Officials, will be held at Brazee's Landing, Devils Lake, Aug. 17th, '87, commencing at 10 o'clock A. M.

PROGRAM OF EXERCISES:

1. Called to order by the President.
2. Invocation.
3. Musical Selection, by Glee Club.
4. Address of Welcome, by Orsa Lamb.
5. Response, by Hon. Norman Geddes.
6. Musical Selection.
7. Biographical History and Reminiscences, by Hon. C. A. Stacey.
8. Musical Selection.
9. Historical Address, by C. H. Dewey.
10. Music.
11. Volunteer speeches, interspersed with music.
12. Election of Officers of Association.
13. Benediction.

OFFICERS

D. D. Sinclair, President.
O. Lamb, Vice President.
B. A. Boyd, Secretary.
C. H. Dewey, Treasurer.

Austin G. Hall, Selah H. Raymond, Loss Parsons, James F. Gilmore, R. H. Rogers, Jr.

This will be the second reunion held by this organization, and judging from the character of last year's meeting, we predict that the reunion this year will be much more largely attended. Excursion rates and special trains have been secured over the C. J. & M. Railroad, the time table of which will be found elsewhere under the Union Picnic notice. As the Union Picnic will be held on the following day, Aug. 18th, many people will doubtless make their arrangements to take in both days. There will be ample hotel accommodations for all who may wish to remain over night.

BOYD'S CELEBRATED CAVE.

Will Anderson has received from Dr. E. C. Anderson, of Cleveland, Tenn. a copy of the Herald of that town, containing a discription of Boyd's Cave, which is given below in full.

This is the largest cavern in Bradley county. It is situated on the western side of a range of hills, 3½ miles east of Cleveland, and 1½ mile south of the Bates road. The entrance is close to Boyd's fence, and is marked by a large poplar tree. A man weighing 200 pounds can never see the inside of this cave, as the first 10 feet is only 3 feet in diameter, and the next 10 feet narrows to about 16 inches and is a tight fit for a lean man. Five of us started into this hole at 10:50 a. m., after begging the Dr. to go with us; for when he saw this small spot of darkness, he be blanked if he went in, but after some persuasion he agreed to bring up the rear. The first 10 feet was accomplished without any incident, but in the middle of the next the Prof. got hung, caused by something in his pocket shaped like a small book, a little more oblong. When we reached the first room and felt the cool air, we felt ourselves amply rewarded for our visit. We stood gazing upward and on every side, speechless with the exception of "how grand," "how beautiful." Thousands and thousands of white stalactites and stalagmites glistening like diamonds from the reflected lights of our lanterns. This room is about 16 feet wide and 34 feet long with an uneven roof. In some places a man can reach the stalactites. It is the prettiest room in the cave, but not the largest. The first side room turns abruptly to the left. Here the Dr. did not want to stay in the rear, neither would he go in advance. This room is low, narrow and only about 20 feet. In this room are some beautiful stalagmites, showing different shapes, some like pillars of cathedrals, animals, especially one very much like a crouching lion, one very much like a nude human being. The only bones we found were in this room. In getting to the next room we passed over a small hill descending into a very large, perhaps the largest room in the cavern. It was impossible, with five lanterns, to see the top, and as the floor slopes, we could not see the bottom. At this place we concluded we were stumped, but on close observation we discovered three different openings. The first we tried was about five feet straight up a rock. The Prof. was too short for this one, but the corporation official, railroader, lawyer and doctor, by dint of stretching and renting of dry-goods, safely arrived on top, not, however, without what came very near a serious accident. The railroader, in making some tremendous efforts, let his hold slip and one of his number tens came down like a trip-hammer on the head of the lawyer, who was in a hurry to keep up with the crowd. This exploration having been made, we proceeded to the opening on the left, which was at the top of a slick bank of mud. This bank is about 14 feet high, and the Prof. here tried to bring up the rear, but when he had ascended about half way he missed the hole for his foot and tobogganing went on at a fearful rate for a few seconds. That slide calls for a longer coat. Here the Prof. gave it up, but with the help of the lawyer reached the top. In retracing our steps the doctor led the way. We had gone but a few yards when, with a cry of terror, the doctor declared there was some one else in there and he wanted Camp—I mean the railroader, to lead, but the Prof. being near, and badly frightened, saw it was only the lantern in the first room, left there for the purpose of keeping the rats off of our lunch and bottles of pickles. Here the Prof. declared he had not lost any more cave, and returned to watch the lunch and gather up some curiosities to carry home. In a few minutes he was astonished to hear his comrades almost directly over him, and speaking to them, they being so near, were considerably startled, and after a little discovered a corridor leading directly to the first room. After resting a few minutes we came out, having been in there one hour and forty minutes.

THE COMMERCIAL PICNIC.

Telegraphic Dots & Dashes Intermingled with Party and Chicken Pie.

The second annual picnic of the Commercial Telegraph Company was held at Sand Lake on Friday last. Although the sun was scorching hot and the roads were fearfully dusty, yet it proved to be a very respectable day for a gathering of that kind.

At an early hour in the forenoon teams could be seen wending their way from all directions toward Sand Lake, as many people preferred taking the drive in the "cool of the morning." "Cool of the morning" may sound like a misnomer when applied to the weather of that day, but truthfully it was at least ten degrees cooler at seven o'clock in the morning than at noon. Before the dinner hour had arrived a large company had gathered in Putnam's Grove, the tables were loaded with all the picnic goodies that are usually provided on such occasions, and the multitude partook of the feast.

About one o'clock, after the baskets had been repacked, the tables cleared, and the watermelon vender had fairly begun operations, a dark cloud arose in the western sky and within fifteen minutes a sharp thunder shower swept over the lake and grove. The crowd sought shelter in Putnams hotel, and enjoyed the sport fully, for the welcome rain had come at last.

The shower was all over in thirty minutes, and the picnickers then scattered, some to ride on the steamers or row boats, others to visit the cottages along the shore, some to engage in fishing or bathing, and all to enjoy themselves. As no literary program was presented, all were free to follow their inclinations and their own noses, which they did to the best advantage. Ollie Hunt's orchestra was to play for a dance at Wells's that night, and they came over in the morning. During the afternoon they gathered the young people of the party together in Putnams dancing pavilion and two or three hours were pleasantly whiled away tripping the light fantastic.

At five o'clock another brisk shower passed over but it only lasted a few moments, and the picnickers mostly set out for home immediately thereafter. It was not a large crowd, but it was an extra good natured one, and the manipulators of the ticker went home with the conviction that their second annual picnic happened on exactly the right day. We would suggest that on future reunions a literary and musical program be presented. Nothing elaborate is needed, but a short program to spice up the occasion.

JOTTINGS AND GOSSIP

A HERALD representative was on the scene of action although somewhat late in arriving; and he spent the afternoon circulating around among the faithful takin' notes. We drove directly to Wells's Sand Lake House where we arrived exactly at noon and partook of a good square dinner with mine host, Wells.

At one o'clock a jolly company of about twenty boarded Fred Deuel's G. A. R. steamer, and we started on a trip around the lake, with a row boat in tow to assist us in making land on the South shore. Upon reaching the west shore, where the water is too shallow for the G. A. R. to land, the shower came up, and how it did blow! We were in the midst of a "storm at sea," sure enough. Two water proofs, one umbrella and one parasol constituted the sole protection for a company of twenty. These were not sufficient to protect the ladies of the party; as for the men, well, we turned our faces to leeward and calmly let it rain. The boat behaved splendidly during the squawl, and rode the white caps like a daisy. It demonstrated the fact that the G. A. R. is a safe boat for a gale. After the shower, the HERALD man landed on the South shore by the aid of a row boat, while the balance of the party returned to Well's to dry out. Shall we give a list of the happy souls composing this party? We are sorely tempted to do so, but as we might inadvertently omit a name and make an eternal enemy thereby, we forbear. The party was composed of a fair mixture of youth and beauty, age and homliness, male and female, married and single. Engineer Fred stood to his post and Master Finlay behaved like a veteran.

Having got safely on terra firma once more we clambered up the bluff and steered for Putnam's.

And right here we would respectfully remark that we would have felt better natured, if Fred's boat had been allowed to land at Putnam's dock, so that we might have alighted on the dock in gentlemanly fashion and entered the Hotel by the front entrance in full view of the feminine beauty assembled on the veranda. It ruffles a proud man's feathers to be compelled to scale a fashionable resort from the rear, like a thief in the night.

The party of young ladies from Tecumseh numbering fifteen last week, had grown to nineteen. Those cottages are like an omnibus—there is always room for one more.

We found a large party occupying Putnam's North cottage, composed of George Mead, J. M. Ingersoll, John Neeley, Chas. Albaugh, Geo. Bangs, with their families, Albert Vedder and Mrs. Julia Harding. Most of the party went up on Thursday last and remained until Monday of this week.

The Kies cottage on the north shore is busy.

Mrs. Wm. Hayden, Levi and Miss Lizzie were found at the Hayden cottage. Mrs. Hayden was rapidly recovering from the effects of her recent illness. Mrs. Leon Dutton of Cleveland, Ohio, and Miss Billmyre of Raisin were their guests two or three days last week.

J. S. Hendryx of Tecumseh spent most of last week at the Lake Park.

Dean Lopee of Ridgeway registered at the Lake Park on the 4th.

Alex Tiffany and family were enjoying their cottage. We found Mr. Tiffany—oh, tell it not in Gath—up to his knees in the water, tinkering a sad boat.

Judge Howell's family—excepting the Judge—have been sojourning at their cottage for some time and will remain through the month.

Hunt's Orchestra Cottage, on the the west shore, is nearly completed.

Wells had a fine dance on Friday night for which Hunt's band furnished the music.

The Manchester and Norvell Farmers' Club to the number of over fifty, took dinner at the Sand Lake House on Thursday.

Thos. Boyd's family, with Chet. Haines and all the other relation, were camping out on the bluff, west of the Sand Lake House. They were there three days, from Tuesday until Friday.

Fred Gamble's family were rusticating on the same plan near by. They had two large tents, which furnished shelter for a party of about a dozen. This party went up on Wednesday and returned Saturday night.

This camping out method is a very good plan for spending a few days at the lake at moderate expense.

The notable features of the August WIDE AWAKE are the first of a series of sketches of Old Concord and a paper on Summer Sports, both illustrated. The village where the first battle of the Revolution was fought has been written and pictured and guide-booked until the subject is hackneyed; but nothing is fresher than unexpected news of a sleepy old relic. Margaret Sidney, the writer, lives in 'Wayside,' the home of Nathaniel Hawthorne, next door to the Alcott's, a mile from Concord bridge, towards Lexington. What an inspiration! But she slights the expectation of patriotic eloquence, drives about in her easy phaeton, taking a friend along to hear the gossip of those who live in the air of a hundred years ago. And you who read are the friend in the phaeton.

A MERCHANT'S OPINION.

Mr. B. F. Nourse, General Western Agent Royal Baking Powder Co., writes: "I have never found so great results from physicians' prescriptions and attendance upon our children, as I have after a few day's use of Papillon (extract of flax) Skin Cure. I cannot describe to you medically what it has done for us, but can say that years of treatment have not accomplished what Papillon has done after a few applications." Large bottles only $1.00.

For sale by A. S. Doty.

GRAND EXCURSION TO NIAGARA FALLS

At the Lowest Rates ever Offered.

On Tuesday, August 23d, there will be a Grand Excursion to Niagara Falls via. the Wabash Short Line and Grand Trunk Ry. G. W. Div., leaving Adrian at 6:20 A. M. and arriving at the Falls at 5:30 P. M. Rate for the Round trip only $5.00. Tickets good returning up to and including August 16th, 1887. For full particulars apply at the Wabash Ticket office at Adrian, Mich.

A Sensible Man

Would use Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs. It is curing more cases of Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Croup and all Throat and Lung Troubles, than any other medicine. The proprietor has authorized Baker & Hall, to refund the money if after taking three fourths of a bottle, relief is not obtained. Price 50c and 1 Trial size free.

FULL WEIGHT PURE
DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER
MOST PERFECT MADE

Used by the United States Government. Endorsed by the heads of the Great Universities as the Strongest, Purest, and most Healthful. Dr. Price's the only Baking Powder that does not contain Ammonia, Lime or Alum. Sold only in cans. PRICE BAKING POWDER CO. NEW YORK. CHICAGO. ST. LOUIS.

EVERYTHING
EVERYTHING
EVERYTHING

AT AND BELOW COST FOR 30 DAYS.

To make room for Fall Stock we will offer extremely low prices until Sept. 1st.

Suits 25 per cent. off
Pants 25 per cent. off.
Children's Clothing 25 per cent. off.

Everything pertaining to men's wear at correspondingly low prices. Now is the time to procure a winter outfit cheap.

STRONG & McNAIR.

WE HAVE JUST RECEIVED WE HAVE

ANOTHER FINE LOT OF

CANNED CHICKEN, TURKEY, HAM, BEEF, MEATS

SALMON,
SARDINES,
PICKELS,
MUSTARDS,
RELISHES AND SAUCES.

Also a full line of

FRESH AND CANNED FRUITS.

H. E. ANDERSON.

A Great Offer!

PATTERN FREE.

A HANDSOME GIFT TO OUR LADY READERS.

Frederica Jacket.

In our issue of Aug. 25, we shall print a coupon order entitling the holder to a pattern of the above jacket, in sizes for 31, 36, 38 or 40 inches in bust measure. A pattern of this garment is very useful to any lady, as by simply leaving off the revers a plain jacket is made, which is always desirable and is just such a pattern as every lady should have in the house. There will be no excuse hereafter for Mrs. Smith sending over to borrow a jacket pattern from Mrs. Jones.

We have made arrangements with a New York house to furnish these patterns in the different sizes as above, so that the holder of the Coupon Order may have the size she may desire. This is a great offer, as each pattern has a full retail value of 25 cts., being accompanied by an illustration, and explicit directions for putting together and making.

LADIES Do not fail to buy our issue of Aug. 25, and put out the order which will entitle you to this excellent pattern FREE

TEMPLE, McCLURE & CO.,
Successors to
Wolcott, Temple & Co.,
Wholesale and Retail Dealers in
Lumber, Lath, Shingles, Sash and Doors
AND ALL KINDS OF BUILDING MATERIAL.
Planing, Sawing, Matching to Order.
Mill and Yard North of Railroad Depot.
TECUMSEH, MICHIGAN.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

LADIES WANTED.—I will take ladies by the day or week, at reasonable rates.

MRS. LYMAN THORP.

Between my residence and McClure's dry store, a gray shawl of one fold. The finder will please return to the undersigned.

JAMES VAN ANTWERP.

STAGE FOR SAND LAKE.—I have fitted up a fine spring wagon which I propose to run in the interest of private parties and will go every week parties may wish. Fare for the trip $1. Leave word at my house or at Mr. Nair's store.

H. H. WESTCOTT.

While going to the fire yesterday, a gentleman's watch with small gold chain and sea foam charm, fender will confer a favor by leaving it at the

HERALD OFFICE.

FOR SALE.—I have for sale 40½ acres of land situated in section one of the Ridgeway. Parties desiring to buy may find the timber alone, or both together. For further information inquire of

GEO. PRICE, Tecumseh.

WANTED OF NEW RAG CARPET Beginning of

MRS. M. P. BROWN.

NOTICE.—Having decided to make a change in business I shall be greatly obliged to those who are indebted to me if they will call at Mr. Burridge's law office and make a settlement as soon as possible.

R. B. HOUSE.

GOOD CHANCE.—Owing to the continued illness of my mother, I am compelled to dispose of my confectionery, Ice Cream and Oyster business, and return east. It is a valuable business, and the merits of the business I leave to dwell on the merits of the business to speak for themselves what it is. I mean what I say. You can see for themselves what it is. I offer the cash or give time on part payment with good security.

I. G. RAWSON.

PURE CIDER VINEGAR.—I have a few barrels of pure cider vinegar for sale by the quantity of pure cider vinegar for sale.

ABNER WILSON.

FOR SALE.—A desirable residence corner Chicago and Shawnee sts. Enquire on the premises.

P. C. TEMPLE.

FOR SALE.—The property opposite the Herald office now used as a saloon and restaurant, and also the house and lot next north of the furniture factory. The title to the property is all right, and terms and payments can be made to suit purchaser. For particulars inquire at

HERALD OFFICE.

STRAYED OR STOLEN.—A red heifer 3 years old strayed from my pasture in Raisin, about two weeks ago. Any information leading to its recovery will be suitably rewarded.

GEO. HOLLOWAY.

FOR SALE.—I offer my place for sale cheap, situated just west of Abner Wilson's farm on the Macon pike, in Tecumseh. Good house and barn and two acres of land. For price, call on Abner Wilson or on the undersigned on the premises. Household goods for sale.

WILLIAM SMITH.

SAND LAKE.—I will run a carriage from Tecumseh to Sand Lake on

—EVERY DAY—

Week until further notice. Fare for the round trip. Parties wishing will be called for at their residence. Leave orders at the postoffice.

ASA HOWE.

HOE SCUFFLERS.—An indispensible tool for farmers and gardeners for attaching hoes and other cultivators. Made from best steel and warranted to work.

W. P. DEMING, Tecumseh, Mich.

WANTED.—One agent in each of the following counties, viz.: Hillsdale, Monroe, Lenawee and Lenawee, to sell my Spring Bed and Spring Bottom Rest. Best bed made. Convenient. Exclusive sale to Agent. For particulars address

J. S. KINNEY, Tecumseh.

Fred M. Swan, of Stanton, Mich., is visiting friends in Tecumseh and Raisin. He will go from here to visit his brother in Dakota.

Charles Wardridge, H. E. Anderson, and H. M. Temple were at Devil's lake the latter part of the week. Some member of Mr. Burridge's family is at their cottage most of the time.

Jud. DePuy returned yesterday to Detroit after a visit of nearly three weeks in this vicinity. Well, if it will be cooler weather we can be reconciled to his departure.

The crowd will go to Devil's lake on the 18th, next week Thursday. Round trip from Tecumseh, only 40 cents. Buy your tickets at the upper office of A. E. Kennedy and avoid the rush at the depot.

We call attention of our lady friends to the "Handsome Gift" that we will give them in our issue of Aug. 25th. Every lady should buy a copy of that issue as it will be an opportunity such as only occurs. See our announcement elsewhere.

Our old friend Ernest Shepard, is in Texas. The last issue of the Burr Oak Herald contains this item:

"E. L. Shepard left Friday in high glee for Washington, to report for duty in the Treasury department where he has received the appointment of a clerkship through the civil service examination he underwent a few days since at Lansing."

If any man in these parts has a longing to swing in a hammock, let him take our advice and provide himself with a double steel-spring back-action bustle. We have been there and know how it is—that is, in a hammock. We were swinging; the splice gave way and we were pulled out; the attraction of gravitation drew us towards the center of the earth and we stopped suddenly on the surface. The after effects would have been wholly obviated or greatly alleviated, if we had been wearing a good bustle at that time.

The Great Toledo Fair.

Occurs this year, September 5th to 17th with $20,000 in Premiums. In addition to the magnificent exhibit made by the Fair, which includes a number of special attractions, and a full lot of races, trotting, pacing and running, there will be a dazzling display of Natural Gas, made by the Company at an expense for arches and pipes of $25,000. President Arthur and the Governors of the United States have been invited and expected to be present.

Card of Thanks.

We return our thanks to our neighbors and friends who so kindly assisted in our sister's sickness and death and what could be done to the departed.

Mr. & Mrs. C. M. MINOR.

THE TECUMSEH HERALD,

TECUMSEH, MICH., AUG. 11, 1887.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

Henry Pate of Adrian, has received a pension.

Miss Mary Hawk of Ottokee, Ohio, visited last week at Ed. Sheridan's.

Tecumseh may as well prepare for a big crowd on the 26th. It will be here sure.

Ed. Williamson's mammoth, refrigerator is approaching completion.

A Special Communication of Tecumseh Lodge, No. 66, F. & A. M. to-morrow (Friday) evening. Work in third degree.

L. M. Mooney of Elkhart, was in town last week perspiring through the hot weather at home. He returned on Monday.

Jas. M. Jones returned from New York last Saturday and the new firm of Jones & Hazlitt will open their store some day this week.

Asa Howe is running his Sand Lake stage every day this week and on Tuesday, he had to procure a second rig to accommodate the crowd.

Geo. Pardington of Brooklyn, N. Y. is rusticating a few days among his old Tecumseh friends. He will probably remain here about a month.

Joe Russell has left a stalk of corn at this office which measures 8 feet 2 inches in length. It was pulled Aug. 5th and the seed was planted the 25th of June.

O. P. Bills will start next Monday or Tuesday for Harbor Point to remain through the hay fever season. J. H. Smith and Miss Allie Satterthwaite will have charge of the bank during his absence.

Rev. W. H. Babbitt is enjoying his vacation to the best advantage. He returned from Detroit last Friday and on Saturday started with his wife for Clifton Springs, N. Y. where they will remain two or three weeks.

J. H. Smith received a telegram Saturday morning from Capt. Wood asking the band to come out to camp that afternoon. As the members were somewhat scattered it was found impossible to get them together in time and hence the invitation had to be declined.

The County Pioneer Society will hold its annual meeting at the Congregational church in Franklin, on Friday, Sept. 9th. Mason Camburn will read a history of Franklin, and there will be other addresses and music. A full program will be published in due season.

The Co. C. boys arrived home from camp Tuesday noon, and were met by the band and escorted up Chicago street to Kinney's corner, from which point they countermarched back to the Armory. They looked somewhat tanned but were all in good health and spirits.

Sam Brangan has assumed charge of Henry McClure's grocery store and will carry on the business at the old stand. His long connection with Mr. McClure's Tecumseh and Britton stores especially fit him for his new responsibilities. The business will be efficiently managed in his hands.

Hudson has finally raised the last $2000 to secure the C. J. & M. Railroad. The Council voted $2000 to open a new street and gave the company the right of way along the new street. Tecumseh got out of the woods in the same way on a similar occasion.

The Reunion of the 18th Regiment on the 26th of August, promises to be a very interesting occasion. At the Citizens' meeting held on Monday evening the proper spirit was manifested, and the comrades of that Regiment will have the hearty co-operation of all our citizens to make it a grand success.

Hon. John J. Adam has received a letter from I. M. Weston, chairman of the Democratic State Committee, who is compiling a history of the Democratic Party of Michigan, asking him for some statistics of the party in old territorial times. We would respectfully advise Mr. Adam to put on his thinking cap, and prepare some notes for Mr. Weston.

Judge David Turpie, U. S. Senator elect of Indiana, arrived in town last week to spend a few days with his brother in-law, Rev. J. Phelps. He leaves to day for Marquette L. S., accompanied by his daughter and Miss Louie Phelps, where they expect to remain about a week to visit with Peter Phelps and other friends. The Judge is enjoying excellent health and brings good reports from the Indiana Democracy.

Geo. Heesen is renovating and improving the interior of his Clothing store. The counters and shelving will be removed from the west side and large tables placed instead. The walls and ceiling will be painted and papered. Upon the completion of the improvements, Mr. Heesen will put in a large and fine assortment of Clothing and Gents Furnishing goods, and prepare for a lively fall trade.

The welcome rain arrived last night.

H. E. Anderson has a new ad. this week.

Charlie Cummins was home for a few days this week.

Deputy sheriff Frank Teachout was in town Tuesday.

The hay fever season is upon us and the exodus to Petoskey has begun.

Eldridge Hyde of Adrian spent last Sunday at his fathers in this village.

Miss K. P. Hutchinson of Detroit is sojourning a few weeks at E. A. Tribou's.

Sam James and family of Detroit, are visiting friends.

Tecumseh friends.

Hene Lester and Hesse and Tony Underwood, of Detroit, are visiting at Mrs. Corey's in this village.

Mrs. N. B. Bacon of Toledo, is in town with her children, boarding for a time with Mrs. E. B. Wood.

Railroad fires did considerable damage during the hot days of last week along the C. J. & M. road.

Jno. C. Clough of Battle Creek, was in town last Monday. He intends to move his family to Rushsylvania, O.

Miss Maggie Everiss of Adrian, is the guest of Mrs. E. C. Baird. They are spending the week at Lake Maniton.

Miss Jennie Gallatin has accepted a position in the high school at Marshall, Mich., term commencing Sept. 5th, '87.

Miss L. C. Woodman and Miss Bernese Barton of Denver, Col., are the guests of W. McCowen's family this week.

The teachers' institute at Adrian this week is being well attended. The attendance on Tuesday was 100, and on Wednesday, 125.

Prof. and Mrs. Hammond have returned from their visit to Port Huron and will probably remain here during the remainder of the vacation.

The Niagara Falls excursion over the Wabash Ry., which was announced in last week's paper for Aug. 17th, has been postponed to Aug. 22.

Miss Zella Delamater, who has been the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Dr. Jones for several weeks, returned to her home at Clark's lake, Tuesday.

The C. J. & M. will run another excursion to Devils Lake next Sunday. Same rate and time as heretofore. Train will pass this station at 10 o'clock A. M. Fare for the round trip 40 cents.

Lucius Lilley left home last week for a trip down the St. Lawrence river and gulf. He was accompained by Mr. and Mrs. Raynor Lilley of Indianapolis, and will probably be gone about two weeks.

Mrs. Jerusha Hendryx, widow of C. P. Hendryx, died in Chicago at half past five Wednesday afternoon. Her remains will arrive on the noon train Friday. Services at the residence of J. S. Hendryx at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon.

The American Magazine will hereafter be published under the management of the American Magazine Co., a corporation abundantly equipped in finances and business experience. Readers are promised a continuous improvement of the magazine in all its departments, including several new and attractive features.

Below is the record of the weather by Geo. Merritt's thermometer during the 1st. week in August:

Aug.	1, 2:30 P. M.	96
"	2, " "	98
"	3, " "	104
"	4 12M 100°	92
"	5, " 102°	94
"	6, " "	82

An Excursion train to Detroit will run over the Lake Shore on Saturday next, Aug. 13th. The train will leave Tecumseh at 8:23 A. M. and arrive in Detroit at 11:15. Fare for the round trip $1.60. Returning the train will leave Detroit at 7 P. M. Excursionists will have all the afternoon to visit Belle Isle and the wonderful Cyclorama.

DR. BENNETT will be at the Lilley House, Wednesday Aug. 15th. Piles, Fisure, Fistula, and their complications, all cured without knife or ligature. Hay fever, Asthma, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Constipation and what causes them—CURED not HELPED. Hernia and Rupture radically cured in one WEEK—then no more truss. Go and see the man who does these things as well as talks them. Consultation free.

The new night train on the C. J. & M. road began running last Sunday. This train will be a great convenience to the traveling public along the line of the road. It runs daily and has a Pullman sleeper attached. The train west passes this station at 10:20 P. M. arriving in Chicago at 8:10 o'clock the next morning. The eastern train passes here at 5:33 A. M., arriving at Toledo at 7:00 A. M. The extra train on the Jackson Branch, which an effort was made to procure last winter will be unnecessary now. This Chicago train on the C. J. & M. will accommodate that travel, and we predict that the train will be well patronized. It will make but five stops between Toledo and Battle Creek, although it can be flagged at any station on the line.

THE FIRE FIEND.

The exceedingly dry weather for the past month has been very prolific of fires during the past week. About 12:30 o'clock last Friday just after the C. J. & M. freight went west fire was discovered in a small straw stack on the premises of Peter Young, on Patterson st., and belonging to him, and before assistance could be procured it was entirely consumed together with a small barn which stood by its side. The barn contained a small quantity of hay, two pigs, a cow and calf, all of which were burned in the building except the cow which broke the rope and escaped. The animal was so severely burned that it was immediately killed. A paper was circulated this week and about $10 raised for Mr. Young, who could ill afford such a loss. The origin of the fire was supposed to be sparks from the freight train, although it seems impossible that sparks would fly a whole block and live. Another and more probable theory is that sparks flew from a stove pipe sticking out of a summer kitchen near the house.

At 11 o'clock Monday morning, fire broke out in the barn of Geo. Goodrich, who resides three and a half miles northwest of this village. The building, with a greater portion of its contents, was destroyed, as was also a steam threshing machine owned by Lewis Mudget. A grain stack near by was likewise burned. The fire started from the engine of the threshing machine, which was burning old rails instead of coal. The fact that the wind was blowing in the right direction, saved the farm house from taking fire. The loss is estimated at about $1,000. Mr. Goodrich is insured in the Farmers' mutual.

The barn of Chas. Culbertson, living about two miles north of this village was also consumed by fire Monday evening. It is thought that some one going along the road threw a cigar stub away and set the grass afire which communicated to a straw stack. The barn contained about 450 bushels of wheat, 30 tons hay, harness etc. An insurance of $1500 was on the barn and contents. Sheriff Whitmore and Deputy Sheriff Aten were sent for but no clue to the perpetrator has yet been discovered.

A PROMINENT CITIZEN GONE.

In the death of Henry McClure, Tecumseh loses an honorable citizen and one of her most enterprising and successful business men. On Sunday, July 17th, which was the hottest day of the summer, Mr. McClure was prostrated with an attack of an apoplectic character. He was enjoying apparently his usual health, but as he was a great worker it was thought that the attack was caused by the excessive heat. For a week or so thereafter, he seemed to rally and his friends entertained strong hopes of his ultimate recovery, but his condition then grew worse and on Thursday morning last, Aug. 4th, the Death Angel knocked at the portal and ferried his spirit over the river.

The deceased was born in County Antrim, Ireland, on the 12th day of August 1844, and hence he lacked only one week of being forty-three years old at his death. He came to America at the age of 21, resided five years in Illinois, and then settled in Tecumseh, which has since been his home. Upon coming here, he embarked in the grocery trade and by his industry, integrity and business acumen, he succeeded in building up a lucrative trade. For the past two years he has conducted a branch store at Britton.

The funeral obsequies were held on Saturday afternoon at two o'clock, at the Presbyterian church. The large auditorium of the church was filled with sympathizing friends and an eloquent discourse was preached by Rev. W. H. Babbitt. David McNair, C. E. Williamson, Geo. A. Kies, B. P. Anderson, C. A. Slayton and S. W. Bordine officiated as pall bearers; an escort of twelve members of the Royal Arcanum preceded the hearse. Beautiful floral emblems from grief stricken friends ornamented the coffin. People were present from twenty miles away to manifest their respect for the deceased and their sympathy with the mourners.

Mr. McClure, or Henry, as he was familiarly known by all, was a man of generous heart and more than ordinary business talents. What man, who has felt the peculiar grip of his friendly hand, will not learn of his death, with sorrow? What citizen of our village, who knew his enterprise and worth, will not regard his death as a public bereavement? The community can illy afford to lose such men. In the prime of rugged manhood many years of increasing usefulness seemed to be his, but he has been cut down in the flower of life and has gone to that bourne to which the highest and lowest on earth must go. He leaves a widow and four children to mourn the loss of a kind husband, an indulgent father, a respected citizen.

Cottagers at Mackinac Island complain of a lack of fresh meat.

CLIPPINGS AND CONDENSATIONS.

Chas. W. Rose of Adrian has been placed on the pension list.

Work has been begun on the derrick for the Blissfield gas well.

The new marriage law will go into effect on the 27th day of September next.

Attend the G. A. R. encampment in a body.

J. S. Kies of Clinton, is off on a Western trip in the interest of the woolen mill.

Is building his new blackboard erasser quite extensively.

At a baptismal service lately conducted at East Ogden, 3 persons were baptised in the river.

A Raisin grave digger reports the ground as dry six feet below the surface as it is on top. That sexton must earn his money digging graves.

George Staup, an old resident farmer of Ogden, and his son, last Friday cut and stacked 14½ acres of oats. Pretty good work.—Blissfield Advance.

About the best wheat yield of which we have heard is that of Jacob Rorick, of this twp. He had four acres, from which he obtained 129 bushels.—Morenci Observer.

Carl Burton, of Clinton, has been engaged as leader of the orchestra of a N. Y. opera troupe, which will travel throughout the principle cities of the country.

Route Agent Shearson, recently appointed to the mail service, and assigned to the Monroe branch, has been shifted to the Fayette branch, and Route Agent Treat will be transferred to the Monroe branch.

A farmer near Hudson wanted to lower his mowing machine from the barn loft to the floor. He tied the lower end of the rope around his wife. She was to hold it till he came down. The mower crashed to the floor; the wife sailed to the loft. No damage except a loosened tongue.—Dundee Reporter.

As T. F. Drake was about to start down town Tuesday morning, he suddenly discovered that the roof of his kitchen around the chimney was well a fire. By rapid action he soon extinguished the little blaze, which might have caused a serious destruction had it not been seen in time.—Morenci Observer.

Mr. Park, who lives in the southeastern part of Rush, informs us that on Sunday morning there was frost in his locality sufficient to leave its mark on corn. There were those in Owosso who believed if they had been up early enough on that morning they might have seen frost, and even sought for traces for it, but found a very heavy dew.—Owosso Press.

A Manchester man came down to Tecumseh, last week, gave a Tecumseh saloonist ten cents for a Tecumseh gin sling, and then gave Justice Burridge ten dollars for letting the gin sling him all over the corporation with a genuine Manchester war whoop, and a genuine Tecumseh wobble to his gait.—Adrian Press.

Mrs. E. M. Brown, of Rollin, produces a diary kept by her father, Mr. Geo. Williams, deceased, which shows July of the year 1868 to be the hottest month on record for this section of country. There were from 90 to 107° of heat each day during the month and no wind or rain until the 31st, that being the first for six weeks.

Some scamp entered the office of S. Brown, Esq., on Saturday night, pried the door of his desk open and took out the papers which were placed on file with township clerk. He has not missed any of the papers and is at loss to ascribe a reason for such conduct. It will be remembered that his safe was broken open a few weeks since.—Clinton Local.

A new lawn tennis costume for men is as follows: The upper part of the trousers is baggy and wrinkled. It closes in at the knee by a long tight band four inches wide, extending to the swell of the calf, and fastened with not less than five buttons. Garters can be dispensed with. For picturesqueness this lays way over the bicycle breeches, or even the lakeside flannel shirts.

Hillsdale people were startled on Wednesday by the report of a terrible tragedy which occured four miles north of Litchfield, whereby two lives were lost. Geo. Burton and his wife, who had been married ten years, did not live happily. On Saturday afternoon they had a serious quarrel, and she went to the home of her mother, about a mile distant. Tuesday herself and mother returned to Burton's to get her clothing. As they started to return Burton followed them, and with a revolver shot his wife in the head twice, killing her instantly. He then fired at Mrs. Hatch, his mother-in-law, the ball striking the back of her head, stunning her, after which he placed the weapon to the right side of his head, fired, and dropped dead.—Hudson Post.

Call at Adamson Bros' and see the elegant line of Gorham Mfg. Co's solid silverware just received.

THE REUNION OF THE 18th.

A small but enthusiastic gathering of citizens attended the meeting last evening. The object of the meeting was to appoint committees to make arrangements for the coming reunion of the 18th Mich. Vol. Inft. A large number of distinguished guests are expected to be present, among them Gov. Luce, and Tecumseh should give them a reception that will be an honor to her citizens.

The meeting was called to order about eight o'clock with J. D. Strong in the chair. After a few appropriate remarks by Mr. Strong, in eulogy of Michigan soldiers, the meeting settled down to business and appointed the following committees:

RECEPTION COMMITTEE.

Dr. Geo. Howell, Tecumseh,
Austin G. Hall, Rush,
D. W. Love, Franklin,
Frank Gilmore, Macon,
S. F. Marstellar, Clinton,
Thomas Temple, Ridgeway.

PRINTING AND PROGRAM.

Dr. L. G. North,
D. T. Hall,
H. W. Stevens.

MUSIC.

J. S. Strong,
Harry Tansley,
Spencer Lester,
Homer Bickford,
C. F. Field.

DECORATION.

Chicago st.—S. W. Anderson, Geo. Adamson.
Opera house—Wm. Jordan, Thos. Hanley.
Park—Hiram Westcott, Jno. W. Cook, Thos. Wyrid.

FINANCE.

A. W. Mills,
S. P. Hosmer,
G. W. Marsden.

TO SOLICIT REFRESHMENTS.

Tecumseh—Mrs. N. M. Sutton,
" H. G. Jones,
" O. B. DeWolf,
" H. E. Stout,
" B. F. Reynolds,
" C. F. Collar,
" Hudson Conkling,
" H. L. Stewart,
" A. P. Coddington,
" Geo. VanTyne,
" Thos. Hanley.
Clinton—Mrs. S. Sheldon, Frank Rector, " Brant Roberts.
Franklin—Mrs. H. C. Daniels, Mrs. M. VanValkenburg, " B. Hurry.
Raisin—Mrs. A. G. Hall, Mrs. T. D. Strong, " M. Smeltzer.
Ridgeway—Mrs. Wm. Wilson, Mrs. G. P. Waring, " Chas. Underwood.
Macon—Mrs. L. B. Colter, Mrs. Edwin Howell, " Jas. Camburn.

In addition to the above, the 18th Regt and their wives are also to be considered a part of the committee to solicit refreshments.

Comrade Sweet was authorized to invite the G. A. R. Posts of the neighboring towns to take part in the reunion and camp fire.

A committee was appointed at the meeting of the G. A. R. Post last Friday evening to act in conjunction with the citizens committee, and is composed of nearly all the members of the Post. Letters were read from the Governor and other prominent men accepting the invitation to be present. There are just two weeks for preparation, as the date will be on Friday Aug. 26th. Further particulars and a full program will appear next week.

OBITUARY.

Departed this life July 16th, 1887, Mrs. Mary Maxwell, nee Mary Bond, at her sister's residence, Mrs. C. M. Minor in Tecumseh. The deceased was born in Albany, N. Y. 1814. She was 73 years old. In the year '47 she came to Detroit and remained 5 years, then married Samuel Maxwell. After Mr. Maxwell's death, leaving no children, she came to Tecumseh to live with her sister, Mrs. Minor, 4 years the 3d. of last March being quite an invalid for a number of years with consumption. She became a member of the Methodist church at the age of 16 and was a strong believer in the faith while she lived. The funeral was attended at her sister's, Mrs. Minor's, July 17th, at which Rev. Potter, assisted by Rev. Mr. Adkins, officiated. By the request of the deceased the remains were taken to Cleveland, Ohio, and placed in the beautiful cemetry wherein Mr. Minor owns a nice lot, where the remains of four of his family rest.

—Call at J. S. Kinney's store and see those fine marble, indestructible casket's on exhibition. Also a new spring bed with elevated head rest. The best in the market for invalids. Manufactured by J. S. Kinney.

—An elegant line of Cabinet frames both for side wall and easel back, for sale very cheap at A. J. Coddington's.

—Sewing machines Needles, oil and attachments at

M. P. Brown's Art Gallery.

—If you want a first class sewing machine call on Mrs. M. P. Brown and see the New Domestic, The White and The Grand. Prices reasonable and terms easy.

—If you wish any painting, graining or paper hanging done call on D. Holmes. Good work guaranteed. Terms reasonable. Leave orders at Baker & Hall's or C. A. Wright's, Tecumseh.

D. HOLMES.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

FREDERIC WOOD, ATTORNEY AT LAW.

PHYSICIANS.

LEMAN BARNES, M. D.

MISCELLANEOUS.

DAVID MACHAM

JAMES A. CASSIDY

HIRAM A. WALDRON

HOTELS.

BURNETT HOUSE

CENTRAL HOTEL ADELIAN, MODEL.

LENAWEE CARRIAGE FACTORY

C. R. HALEY

MANUFACTURER OF

Carriages, Buggies,

SURRIES, SPRING WAGONS,

ROAD CARTS

SULKIES, CUTTERS, ETC.

M. L. RICE,

UTICA, MICHIGAN.

Dealer in High Class Thoroughbred Poultry. Eggs for hatching. Send for Illustrated Circular. Free

W. W. MARSH,

Proprietor

Railroad Street Meat Market!

Fresh and Salt Meats constantly on hand.

GIVE ME A CALL.

LADIES TREATMENT FREE.

THE MARY J. GORDON'S NEW TREATMENT for Female Diseases, discovered by that distinguished English Physician and Nurse, who has revolutionized the entire mode of treating this class of complaints in England, is now being successfully introduced throughout the U.S. It, with medicine for one Entire Month's Treatment, will be sent free to any lady suffering from any of these diseases, who sends her address and 25 cents, stamps to cover postage and mailing. THE NEW TREATMENT will positively cure any formof female disease. All the medicine is in pleasant pellets, and is so arranged that a cure is effected in a month in most cases. It is put up in a plain wrapper with full instructions for self treatment. Only one trial treatment will be sent to any one address. Address MARY J. GORDON, ADP. GREEN REMEDY CO., Detroit, Mich.

SCOTT'S EMULSION OF PURE COD LIVER OIL And Hypophosphites of Lime & Soda

Almost as Palatable as Milk.

AND AS A CURE FOR CONSUMPTION, WEAK LUNGS, WASTING DISEASES, AND ALL WASTING CONDITIONS IT IS UNEQUALED.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

TO MACKINAC. SUMMER TOURISTS

Mrs. D. Stewart's PENSIONS! DETROIT, MICHIGAN.

THIS PAPER NEW YORK.

THE WAVING OF TCHI NU.

THE CLOAK OF TRUTH.

In a far off corner of Eastern India there lived in the days when fairies still visited mortals, a little girl whose name was Yuddi. Her parents were poor and had to work hard and continuously to gain even a small amount on which oriental laborers are able to support life. Poor little Yuddi's childhood was not very full of pleasure. Farther west, in Christian and civilized lands, she would have looked to make the season of [illegible]

A few naturally rounded stories with which a kind of "make-believe" was just [illegible] and a bundle of rags which the days for [illegible] were her sole means of amusement. And even these she had not long to enjoy, for as soon as she was strong enough she was required to help in weed and glean in the fields and mean fields in summer, and in winter [illegible] in keeping the [illegible] made of twisted [illegible] and plaited with mud—in [illegible] Yuddi was [illegible] Brahma, who for a few [illegible] as the smallest [illegible] could spare it, [illegible] as much as [illegible] the hunted [illegible]

[illegible] that India is a land where [illegible] the year round. [illegible] at the south [illegible] where there are [illegible] mountains in the [illegible] lofty hills or [illegible] the cold in [illegible] "rainy season" [illegible] Poor Yuddi frequently suffered much from the bitter weather, being [illegible] and the loosely fitting rags afforded a great deal of frosty [illegible]

[illegible] her heart was for a [illegible] cloak, in which she could [illegible] when she was allowed to go to school and wrap herself at night. [illegible] she prayed that such a good [illegible] might be sent to her, but for a long [illegible] She had heard a great deal about fairies who watched over good children, yet the one who ought to have attended on her had never made herself known. With the sweet, trusting faith of childhood Yuddi did not gave way to despair, but only strove to be a better girl, believing that if her guardian had not come it was because she had not deserved the boon.

Late one night, after Yuddi had been asleep for several hours, she was startled from her slumber by a voice calling in the sweetest tones she had ever heard:

"Awake, Yuddi, and see what I have brought thee." The child sat up on her bed of dried rice leaves, rubbed her astonished eyes, which at length showed to her the most beautiful being she had ever seen. Yuddi knew at once that it was a fairy. It was not, however, such a creature as our western writers have told us of, or that we see in pictures or upon the stage in pantomimes and spectacular plays. It was not [illegible] in white gauze, nor did it have butterfly like wings and a magic wand. No, this was an Indian fairy, [illegible] a dark olive tinted skin and with bare arms and feet. Round the body was wound in numerous folds a scarf of some many colored material, in which shone [illegible] gold. The [illegible] fell about to the knees, [illegible] which appeared loose [illegible] of transparent silver gauze. Pearls for wristlets and anklets were massively [illegible] with gems.

A smile [illegible] brilliant as the "Koh-i-noor" in Queen Victoria's regal [illegible] shone on her forehead, [illegible] by a narrow fillet of gold. From [illegible] to flow a soft light, which [illegible] the hut. Once, while at the bazar, Yuddi had seen a Nautch dancer, who [illegible] a fairy [illegible] party. This dancer had been [illegible] but she saw at once how [illegible] was the [illegible] at all [illegible] This was [illegible] this body [illegible]

[illegible] her heart [illegible] cloak, in which she could [illegible] when she was allowed to go to school and wrap herself at night. [illegible] she prayed that such a good [illegible] might be sent to her, but for a long [illegible] She had heard a great deal about fairies who watched over good children, yet the one who ought to have attended on her had never made herself known. With the sweet, trusting faith of childhood Yuddi did not gave way to despair, but only strove to be a better girl, believing that if her guardian had not come it was because she had not deserved the boon.

Late one night, after Yuddi had been asleep for several hours, she was startled from her slumber by a voice calling in the sweetest tones she had ever heard:

"Awake, Yuddi, and see what I have brought thee." The child sat up on her bed of dried rice leaves, rubbed her astonished eyes, which at length showed to her the most beautiful being she had ever seen. Yuddi knew at once that it was a fairy. It was not, however, such a creature as our western writers have told us of, or that we see in pictures or upon the stage in pantomimes and spectacular plays. It was not [illegible] in white gauze, nor did it have butterfly like wings and a magic wand. No, this was an Indian fairy, [illegible] a dark olive tinted skin and with bare arms and feet. Round the body was wound in numerous folds a scarf of some many colored material, in which shone [illegible] gold. The [illegible] fell about to the knees, [illegible] which appeared loose [illegible] of transparent silver gauze. Pearls for wristlets and anklets were massively [illegible] with gems.

A smile [illegible] brilliant as the "Koh-i-noor" in Queen Victoria's regal [illegible] shone on her forehead, [illegible] by a narrow fillet of gold. From [illegible] to flow a soft light, which [illegible] the hut. Once, while at the bazar, Yuddi had seen a Nautch dancer, who [illegible] a fairy [illegible] party. This dancer had been [illegible] but she saw at once how [illegible] was the [illegible] at all [illegible] This was [illegible] this body [illegible]

[illegible] Yuddi, who was so de[illegible]

[illegible] was for a time too frightened to speak. The king finally succeeded in reassuring her and she told her errand.

"And so you think," said the monarch, "that kings can be more faithful than [illegible] all the treasures [illegible] are the [illegible] present to faithfully [illegible] I [illegible] [illegible] or I [illegible] been [illegible] to [illegible] my [illegible] I [illegible] to [illegible] with [illegible] because [illegible] the people [illegible] to [illegible] I [illegible] to tell my master, that [illegible] will [illegible] two [illegible] shipping, which [illegible] also [illegible] them [illegible] [illegible] said. Right [illegible] that [illegible]

[illegible] frequently [illegible] to the people. And [illegible] the [illegible] in his preaching begged for enough to keep [illegible] alive. He was glad [illegible] the most wretched [illegible] and as Yuddi passed, he asked for something to eat, food and clothes. Immediately she offered him the cloak, explaining upon what conditions he could wear it.

"I think, I can keep it, my daughter. Come to me here to morrow and see."

The next day Yuddi found him, still wearing the cloak, and with its spotless purity unsullied.

"How is it that you alone have been able to wear this for a day?" she asked.

"I will try to tell you, my daughter. I am very old and have no wants but food and clothing. When I ask for money for these, I speak the truth. I ask no man to build me a house or a temple. Therefore, I seek no more than my daily food. I have no friends whom I must flatter, and no enemies I need fear. I have outlived all but my love for God and his creatures, and I have no aim but to do good to them. I tell them that for their welfare here and hereafter they must refrain from [illegible] and I call to them to turn from [illegible] and seek the right. What reason have I to tell anything but the truth? I thank you for your cloak, as I hope to wear it till I die."—Joseph Mazzini in The Epoch.

Sardines of the Brittany Coast.

All along the coast of Brittany the people are for the most part miserably poor. They live almost exclusively by fishing, and fish, it seems, are not to be relied on any more than men. Their habits are most irregular, they take a fancy to a certain locality and then they leave it, they are creatures always of fire-fly excitement and adventure. This is especially the case with sardines, upon which thousands of Breton fishermen mainly rely. Sardines can hardly be termed globe trotters, but they are nevertheless inveterate tourists. While indulging their passion for roaming, they thoroughly believe in the advantages of social intercourse; consequently, when they travel there are millions of them together. Some years ago they frequented the Brittany coast in such numbers and with such regularity that capitalists set up manufactories in various places for preserving these fish in oil. Thus they have been distributed all over the world in those boxes which are to be found in every ambitious dust heap.

Both alive and dead it is the destiny of the sardine to travel. For some inaccountable reason the sardine has during the last two or three seasons turned up its very fastidious nose at Brittany, and instead of stopping at every bay on the coast, as formerly, has passed on to other regions. It is said that the coast of Portugal has been the one most highly favored by the vagrant and capricious fish since the poor Brittany fishermen have been throwing up their hands in despair or fervently praying for the return of the sardines. This year the prospect is much more cheerful.—Cor. Boston Transcript.

A Story of Two Dogs.

A family fond of pets and superior to hydrophobic apprehensions had reduced their stock of household animals some time ago to two. One was a Scotch terrier, young and of rare excellence and value, having easily taken prizes at bench shows. The other was a black and tan, well on in life. I may not be entirely right in this description, but precisions of classification is not essential to the effect of the narrative. The "two dogs" were constant companions, and exhibited a strong mutual fondness. The Scotch suddenly sickened and died. That he was missed by his aged friend was evident. The family sent the deceased to a taxidermist, who treated him so skillfully that the future situation, in a lifelike position, would at first glance deceive the most intimate acquaintance of the living animal.

When the work of restorative art was set before the black and tan was led into the room where it had been placed, he manifested the look of for running up to the stuffed and licking his master in canine fashion and finally lying down by his side to sleep, according to his habit. For a long time he refused to go to his kennel as a sleeping apartment, as his appetite was [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

A. WRIGHT'S
MAGNETIC OINTMENT.

Great Healer of all Inflammations, Injuries and Disorders.

Instantly stopping the most wonderful pain, this unparalleled demand with which it has met at once as the greatest medicine for outward applications.

Thousands are convinced, and the medical are compelled to believe in the virtues of this great remedy.

WHAT IT CURES.

Cuts, Bruises, Sprains, Burns, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Piles, Inflammation of Lungs and Bowels, Bronchitis, Croup, Salt Rheum, Chilblains, Affection of the Spine, Kyney Complaints, Inflammation, and all disorders attended with inflammation.

It fails to stop the natural functions of the system, and equalizes the circulation of the blood, and exercises a surprising power in guarding against the approaches of disease. It penetrates every portion of the human frame, every muscle, vein, nerve and ligament is rendered sensible to its soothing healing influence. Hence it copes readily with internal as well as external diseases.

Over 40 Years.

This ointment has been used by the people of the United States and our confidence in it is such that as we have no space to spare, we have from all parts of the country ask those readers of this notice who never used this Ointment, to frankly test its merits from our experience with it to inquiring friends, a hundred would do this we should be satisfied with the result. Full directions will be found on pamphlet around each box.

Price 25 and 40 cents per bottle. Sold by all dealers in medicine.

A. WRIGHT & CO., Prop's
Buffalo, New York.

THE ELDREDGE
"B"

No. 2.

The ELDREDGE "B" is sold with the guarantee of being the BEST that can be MADE.

AGENTS WANTED.

ELDREDGE MANUFACTURING CO.

Branch 305 WABASH AVE.,
CHICAGO, ILL.

BERNSTEINHOFF'S
Dental Rooms.

OVER BAKER & HALL'S.
LOWEST FOR EXTRACTING.
LOWEST PRICES for THE BEST WORK.

PATENTS!
Trade Marks and Copyrights

Paper
AND Decorations.

Wright & Co.

Wright & Co.

ADVERTISING
for THIS PAPER, which is kept by
LORD & THOMAS, -
Advertising Agents, Chicago, Ill.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

Their Business Booming.

Probably no one thing has caused such a general revival of trade at C. A. Wright & Co's Drug Store as their giving away to their customers of so many free trial bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. Their trade is simply enormous in this very valuable article from the fact that it always cures and never disappoints. Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Croup, and all throat and lung diseases quickly cured. You can test it at no expense by getting a trial bottle free, large size $1. Every bottle warranted and sold by druggists and dealers everywhere. Hundreds of testimonials are in the hands of the proprietors, C. A. Wright & CO.

"Mamie," said he, and his voice was singularly low, "will you be my wife? Will you cling to me as the tender vine clings to the—" "Yes, I catch on," said she.

Don't Hawk, Spit, Cough,

Snuff dizziness, indigestion, inflammation of the eyes, headache, lassitude, inability to perform mental work and indisposition for bodily labor, and annoy and disgust your friends and acquaintances with your nasal twang and offensive breath and constant efforts to clear your nose and throat, when Dr. Sage's "Catarrh Remedy" will promptly relieve you of discomfort and suffering and your friends of the disgusting and needless infliction of your half-some disease.

"When worthy men fall out, only one of them may be faulty at first, but if strife continue long, commonly both become guilty."

Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites.

For children and Pulmonary Troubles. Dr. W. S. Hoy, Point Pleasant, W. Va., says: "I have made a thorough test with Scott's Emulsion in Pulmonary Troubles and General Debility, and have been astonished at the good results, for children with Rickets or Marasmus it is unequalled."

Ypsilanti races the first week in August.

English spavin liniment removes all hard, soft, or calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavin, curbs, splints, sweeney, stifles, sprains, sore and swollen throat coughs, etc. Save $5 by use of one bottle. Warranted. Sold by Baker & Hall, Druggists, Tecumseh Mich.

Over 800 dogs at Grand Rapids have been licensed.

Itch, mange, and scratches of every kind on human or brutes cured in 30 minutes by Woodworth's Sanitary Lotion. This never fails. Sold by Baker & Hall, Druggists, Tecumseh Mich.

The Grand Haven mail complain of lack of water.

Drunkenness or the Liquor Habit Positively Cured by Administering Dr Haines' Golden Specific.

It can be given in a cup of coffee or tea without the knowledge of the person taking it, is absolutely harmless, and will effect a permanent and speedy cure whether the patient is a moderate drinker or a confirmed drunkard. Thousands of drunkards have been made temperate men who have taken Golden Specific in their coffee without their knowledge and today believe they quit drinking on their own free will. IT NEVER FAILS. This method can be guaranteed with the Specific in every instance to exist. For full particulars, address Golden Specific Co., 185 Race st., Cincinnati, O.

Babies that are fretful, peevish, cross, or troubled with Windy Colic, Teething Pains, or Stomach Disorders, can be relieved at once by using Acker's Baby Soother. It contains no Opium or Morphine, hence is safe. Price 25 cents. Sold by C. A. Wright & Co., Druggists.

The life of a true Christian is like a beautiful river; it flows on in a steady, even course; the storms of life may ruffle its surface, but the deep undercurrent moves on undisturbed.

The Population of Tecumseh.

Is about 2,800 and we would say at least one half are troubled with some affection of the Throat and Lungs, as those complaints are, according to statistics, more numerous than others. We would advise all not to neglect the opportunity to call on us and get a bottle of Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial size free. Respectfully, Baker & Hall, Druggists.

An ear for music is generally accompanied with an eye for the beautiful, a tongue for the true, and a mouth for all the good things of this world.

Save the Children. They are especially liable to sudden Colds, Coughs, Croup, Whooping Cough, etc. We guarantee Acker's English Remedy a positive cure. It saves hours of anxious watching. Sold by C. A. Wright & Co., Druggists.

$500 Reward.

If you suffer from dull, heavy headache, obstruction of the nasal passages, discharges falling from the head into the throat, sometimes purulent, watery, and acrid, at other times thick, tenacious, mucous, purulent, bloody and putrid; if the eyes are weak, watery, and inflamed; and there is ringing in the ears, deafness, hawking or coughing to clear the throat, expectoration of offensive matter, together with some of the other symptoms, the result of catarrh, the worst case of catarrh which may be easily cured by the use of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. Only a few of the above named symptoms are likely to be present in any one case at one time, or in one stage of the disease. Thousands of cases annually, without manifesting half of the above symptoms, result in consumption, and in the grave. No disease is so common, more deceptive and dangerous, less understood or more unsuccessfully treated by physicians. The manufacturers of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy offer, in good faith, $500 reward for a case of catarrh which they cannot cure. The Remedy is sold by druggists at only 50 cents.

INDIANS' HORSEMANSHIP.

Glorious Deeds of Sunday's Young Arapahoe Warriors.

In the Indian camp of the Arapahoe Chief Friday. Here we saw many curious scenes and learned much of the Indian life. One day Friday said to me he would let me see how well they could ride. At first I expected some treachery, as the whole herd of ponies were still in the hands of the troops. The old chief, however, was so earnest and apparently so honest about it, I told the captain, who had the herd in charge, he might let Friday have fifty ponies for his young men. In about an hour they drew up before the tents [illegible] and were, as any thrilling set of young fellows I had ever seen. Hardly but one was six feet in height and beautifully proportioned. They sat their horses like centaurs, and were easy and graceful in the saddle. At a signal from the chief they began their movements with a yell that sent the blood curdling to the heart, and was enough, if heard unawares or in the night time, to make one's hair stand on end. In a moment they had disappeared over a neighboring hill to the right, and I thought they had gone, but, hearing a mighty trampling of horses, I looked to the left and there they came. I can compare it to nothing but the wind, and they swept by so compact that they looked like a ball of horses and men!

Splitting in two, one body swept to the right and another to the left, and again disappeared. In about two minutes the two bodies charged each other in solid lines, and I waited almost breathlessly for the shock, but as the horses' heads almost touched each other, the files skillfully opened to the right and left, and the lines passed through the intervals without touching. Wheeling to the right about they passed back in an instant, and again disappeared over the hills. It was about fifteen minutes before they came in sight, and Friday informed me they were blowing their horses. Presently on they came and wheeled by fours, formed columns, broke by fours, and finally deployed as skirmishers. It was now we saw the finest individual horsemanship. Some would approach lying so close to the pony's back nothing but the horse could be seen. Others stood up and rode as circus men do. Some would hang with one foot and one hand on the horses and sweep by, their bodies completely protected by the bodies of the animals. Some leaped upon the ground holding to the mane of the horse, and after running a step or two would swing themselves upon the backs of the horses again as easily as any circus man could do it. The positions they assumed and the feats of horsemanship which they performed were incredible, and I doubt if anything outside of a circus ring ever equaled it. They would throw objects as they rode and pick them up nicely while passing at full speed, the warriors [illegible] to the sides of their horses with one foot and one hand. They would pose and let arrows fly from their bows, the tacks and [illegible] the heads of the targets where they hung at a full gallop.

One cavalry company [illegible] as well as those Indians, if each man was trained for twenty years. They exchanged horses while riding and one behind each other. One man would fall off his horse as if wounded, and two others would ride up beside him and [illegible] him by arms and clothing, when he would be [illegible] and carried off in triumph. Another called "Jested people two hours and the narrated Bones was completely exhausted.—Omaha Herald.

Why Brewery Boys Are Chained.

A young man who wanted to try his skill in a brewery called on his employer and asked to be chained to a barrel of beer. The request was granted, and he was chained to a barrel of beer. The stock had disappeared and the company were in a hurry to be started to Chicago. He was soon drunk and was carried off to his home.

"I have some fun in our town here," remarked the young man to a prospector.

"Yes, I expect."

"Bunches of us get up a game to come in at any time and carry off a gun or two."

"Not that anybody knows of, I expect."

"Why do you chain the guns there?"

"Because I'm not fond of bloodshed. It isn't the trouble that concerns me, it's the fool. The fools come in here in bunches. Each one of the bunch grabs a gun and cocks it. Then something attracts their attention in the street, and around they turn, gun in hand, and muzzle pointed fair at the crowd of people constantly passing the door. Some one of the bunch is sure to think the gun isn't loaded, or that it can't be discharged except when pointed at the target, and so aims it at another of the bunch, saying: 'Look out, I'm going to shoot you.' At least, that's what happened before I chained the guns, and it was only luck that no one was killed. If the guns could only be made to shoot backward under such circumstances I wouldn't chain them, but they can't be made to do so. With the chain on, the fool can shoot at the target only; he can't even send the bullet through the ceiling into the feet of the lodgers overhead."—New York Sun.

Ice Water and Watermelons.

One favorite newspaper topic is a declamation against ice water, yet everybody drinks it, and nobody is hurt unless the water itself is bad, or it is used to excess, mishaps are made ill by excess in eating and drinking anything. Another fancy is that watermelons are a frequent cause of colic, and they used to be called "cholera beans," and yet nothing is more wholesome and harmless than that part of the melon which is usually eaten.—New Haven Register.

Victims in the Copestone.

The Salt Lake Tribune declares that the victims in the Church of Latter-Day Saints, since the [illegible] have been worldly. That is, since at least 1,000 women have been sacrificed there to the gods of wealth, following in explosions of [illegible] immediately. A peculiar [illegible] and sanctimoniousness of speech is among the victims [illegible].

Lives Lost by Tornadoes.

A recent compilation places the number of persons killed in the United States by tornadoes during the last ten years at a little more than 2,000. It is also declared that in [illegible] of these lives were lost by [illegible] much inconvenience or loss of property, [illegible] well be the warning [illegible] to provide for themselves in a place of safety long before the destroyer brings upon them.—Chicago News.

The statues of Washington and Henry Clay, in Richmond, Va., are both in swallow tails.

It is said that Mark Twain tries a new hotel every time he comes to New York.

Useful Recipes.

Rye Breakfast Cakes.—Two cups of rye meal, one half cup of sweet milk, one teaspoonful of soda, and a little salt. Bake at once in gem pans.

Lemon Butter for Tarts.—Lemon butter is excellent for tarts. [illegible] Grate the rind of two lemons. One pound pulverized white sugar, whites of six eggs and yolks of two, three lemons, including grated rind and the juice. Cook twenty minutes over a slow fire, stirring all the while.

Parsley Sauce.—Wash a bunch of parsley in cold water, then boil it for six or seven minutes in salt and water; drain it, cut the [illegible] Have ready some melted butter and stir in the parsley; allow two small tablespoonfuls of leaves to one half pint of butter. Serve with fish and with boiled fowls.

Baked Apple Pudding.—Six apples well peeled, quarter of a pound of butter, half of it stirred into the apples while hot; add sugar to taste; when cold add six eggs well beaten to the apples. Pound and sift six crackers, butter your dish and put in a layer of cracker and a layer of the prepared apple and thus until you have filled your dish; let the cracker be the upper layer and put the remainder of your butter in small bits upon it. Bake half an hour.

Sauce Tartare.—Mix the following ingredients with a pint of good mayonnaise, and keep the sauce cool until wanted for use: One teaspoonful of chopped shallot or white onion, one tablespoonful each of finely chopped capers, parsley, and pickled gherkins; in the spring and summer add one tablespoonful of chopped green tarragon; in the winter substitute the sprig of tarragon which is always placed in the bottles containing capers, and which, of course, must be finely chopped.

Beef a la Mode.—Take ten or twelve pounds of beef, trump, and lard the meat through with ten long pieces of fat bacon; then put it into a long earthen pan with a calf's foot, four onions, two carrots, (if large cut in slices,) a bunch of parsley, two bay leaves, two sprigs of thyme, two cloves stuck into one of the onions, half a teaspoonful of pepper, one of salt, four wine-glasses of sherry, four wine-glasses of water, and a pound of pickled bacon cut in squares; put a cover over the pan, and make it air-tight with a paste of flour and water around the edges; place it in a moderate oven for four hours; then take it out of the pan and dress it upon a dish with vegetables; pass the gravy through a hair sieve and pour it over the meat and serve. This dish is the best eaten cold, when it should not be taken from the pan or the pan opened until nearly so.

Sun-Spot Suppositions.

Enthusiasts who make a special study of sun-spots and attendant phenomena believe that the corner-stone of a new science is being laid by discoveries pointing to an unthought connection between solar and terrestrial meteorology. Just what the connection is they are not yet able to clearly define, although electricity is suspected of being the agent through which the effects are transmitted upon our planet. It is known that the gaseous envelope of the sun is affected by eruptions of such prodigious magnitude as to be utterly beyond our powerful conception, these disturbances appearing to us in the form of rapidly changing spots and protuberances. The cause of the spots on sun-spots occur at regularly regular intervals, a complete cycle of the various stages of activity from maximum to minimum and again to maximum being performed in about eleven years, the so-called "sun-spot period." The sun-spot physicists claim a coincidence of the periods of maximum spots and years of great atmospheric and physical disturbance on the earth. The year 1881 was one of great solar disturbances, while it was marked by violent storms and earthquakes upon our globe. Further than this these scientists claim to have actually detected by simultaneous observation minor atmospheric changes as the result of corresponding movements in the sun. Many difficulties attend these observations, but the Astronomer Royal for Scotland and others believe that the state of the sun will some day become an important factor in weather forecasts and like calculations.

Small Pox and Vaccination.

A writer on vaccination says, "Small-pox and variloid could be entirely driven from the face of the earth by vaccination and revaccination and revaccination at proper times. It is a well settled principle in pathology that two diseases cannot exist in the system at the same time. Also, it is admitted that a milder form of a disease will prevent or modify a severer type of a disease of a similar nature.

As an example, a child who has had "simple scarlet fever," or measles, seldom, if ever, afterwards has "malignant scarlet fever," unless, it may be, in some cases where some disease of another character may have eradicated the effect of impression made upon the system by simple scarlet fever or measles. The vaccine-disease will modify, and always prevents small-pox proper. The contagion of small-pox is conveyed from victim to victim across street and from house to house, by the air, and is also conveyed by bed-clothing and wearing apparel of small-pox patients and by letters written by infected hand, and in so many ways that it seems almost impossible for the unvaccinated to escape. Persons who have never been vaccinated are liable to take small pox from small-pox, and from variloid. Persons who have been vaccinated are liable to take variloid only from exposure to small-pox, but will not take variloid from variloid.

Home Politeness.

A boy who is polite to his father, but to his mother is likely to be polite to every one else. A boy picking politeness to his parents may be the subject of courtesy in society, but is never truly polite in society, and is in danger, as he becomes familiar of betraying his real want of courtesy. We are all in danger of being too much for the outside world, for the impression which we make in society, converting the good opinions of those who are in a sense a part of ourselves, and who will continue to sustain and be interested in us, notwithstanding these defects of deportment and character. We say to every boy and to every girl cultivate the habits of courtesy and propriety at home, in the sitting room and the kitchen, as well as in the parlors and you will be sure in other places to deport yourself in a becoming and attractive manner. When one has a pleasant smile and a graceful demeanor, it is a satisfaction to know these are not put on, but that they belong to the character, and are manifest at all times and under all circumstances.

THE WEAKEST PART.

It is a general principle that [illegible] disease attacks the weakest part of the unfortunate victim at the time he may be exposed to the attack. This may be more satisfactory to the theorist than to the sufferer. The latter has often asked, "But why should it put me weaker than any other?" That is a wise remedy that tends to strengthen all the weaker parts, and thus enable them not only to cast off the disease, but guard them from the over action of other diseases. For this purpose the Compound Oxygen has no equal. If you wish to know more about this remedy, address Drs. Starkey & Palen, 1,120 Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pa., for their Brochure, an illustrated book of 200 pages, and it will be sent to you free.

Jones finds drinking like a fish makes his head swim.

You mustn't think a dentist is mad because you catch him grinding his teeth.

The demand for chairs that Washington once sat in is keeping the furniture makers very busy.

The man who went on a fool's errand was probably performing one of his own commissions.

"Good morning, Mr. Brown; you're first last; you used to be behind before, but notice you have been early of late."

The latest in pyrotechnics is a figure of Washington holding aloft a flag upon which is inscribed a liver pill advertisement.

The blind man should be the most contented man in the world, because he can have everything he sees.

A correspondent wishes to know if the "Lay on Macduff," was one of Shakspeare's earlier poems.

"Penny wise, pound foolish," soliloquised the man in church, and then he put the penny in the box and the pound in his pocket.

"Now, tell me candidly, are you guilty?" asked a lawyer of his client. "Why, do you suppose I'd be fool enough to hire you if I was innocent?"

A Boston theatrical company recently played a scene laid in a church so naturally that to many of the audience it seemed so real that they went to sleep.

An Illinois chap, in describing a gale of wind, says: "A white dog, while attempting to weather the gale, was caught with his mouth open and turned completely inside out."

A coquette came out of a fancy goods shop loaded with purchases. "You have renewed your provision," said a rival. "Don't speak of it. I have quite ruined myself! I have bought a thousand things. I do not need, among others six tooth brushes." "Ah one for each tooth," said the other sweetly.

Salt Rheum.

A [illegible] of my family was [illegible] with the same disease. I [illegible] Dr. Benson's Peoria Salt Rheum Remedy. It [illegible] improved to use. The cure was greatly relieved and [illegible] was a complete cure. [illegible] Salt Rheum Remedy. [illegible] Druggists.

A New York [illegible] that he was [illegible] cured by [illegible] Dr. Benson's Peoria Salt Rheum Remedy. It [illegible] Druggists.

"Ish this [illegible] clerk, thinking a [illegible] tender" [illegible]

KING OF THE BLOOD

The Most Thorough Purifier of the Blood Yet Discovered.

Cures all Humors, from a common Pimple to the worst Scrofula.

It purifies the Blood.
It invigorates the Liver.
It regulates the Bowels.
It strengthens the Stomach.
It gives vivacity in place of lassitude; cheerfulness in place of gloom, and robust vigor in place of debility.

Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Disordered Liver, Constipation, Nervous Affections, General Debility, in short all the numerous diseases and disorders caused by impure blood, are speedily conquered by this powerful corrector, the chief and sovereign of all ancient or modern medical discoveries, KING OF THE BLOOD.

Its name is its best description, for it is a royal dispenser of the blessings of health and vanquishes the foes that lurk in the blood.

It banishes PIMPLES, SALT RHEUM, SCALY ERUPTIONS, ULCERS, SCALD HEAD, FEVER SORES, and all scrofulous disorders.

It cures CONSUMPTION in its early stages. It has repeatedly cured cases given up as incurable.

It disperses TUMORS and CANCERS without the surgeon's aid.

It cures LEPROSY, partial or entire.

It cures FEMALE WEAKNESS and IRRITABILITY.

It cures Scald Head, and indeed all manner of scaling, scaly, and scrofulous diseases.

It cures Chronic Rheumatism, Chronic Diarrhoea, and Mercurial Diseases, and is indisputably the most powerful blood purifier.

Many testimonials, much more than enough to fill this sheet, might be added to show the wonderful efficacy of this great remedy. But we prefer to let the medicine itself make its own way, and we feel sure that a single bottle will convince any sufferer of its wonderful curative powers.

Prepared by DR. J. H. SCHENCK & SON, Philadelphia, Pa.

Price, $1.50 per bottle, or six bottles for $7.50. Sold by all Druggists.

JAS. H. POTTER,
Manufacturer of all sizes of
FURNITURE!
Order work a specialty.
Turning done to order.
Shop Rear Wabash Ave.

THIS PAPER may be found on file at the Newspaper Advertising Agencies of Messrs. N. W. AYER & SON, our authorized agents.

RAILROAD TIME TABLES.

L. S. & M. S. RAILROAD.

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	No. 115. Mail.	No. 117. Express	No. 149 Acc'om
Napoleon	6 46	2 18	7 47
Norvell	6 43	2 57	8 06
Manchester	6 57	3 12	8 12
Clinton	7 04	3 21	8 20
Tecumseh	7 20	3 41	8 37
Adrian	8 08	4 15	9 05
Detroit	10 05	6 35
Toledo	9 30	5 00

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No. 116. Mail.	No. 118. Express.	No. 148 Acc'om
Detroit	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Toledo	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Adrian	10 35	4 15	5 45
Tecumseh	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Clinton	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Manchester	[illegible]	[illegible]	8 20
Norvell	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Napoleon	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Jackson	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]

Trains run [illegible] Central Standard Time.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Coupon tickets on new but popular line connection over best routes to all principal cities in the United States.

N. S. SATTERTHWAITE, Ticket Agent.
G. H. WORCESTER, Supt. Detroit Division.

Cincinnati, Jackson & Mackinaw R. R.

MICHIGAN DIVISION.

Passenger Time Table.

IN EFFECT AUG. [illegible]

GOING EAST. No. 11 Pass	No. 3 Pass	No. 1 Pass	Central Time. STATIONS.	GOING WEST. No. 2 Pass	No. 4 Pass	No. 12
P. M.	A. M.	P. M.		A. M.	P. M.	A. M.
7 10	10 50	4 15	A...Toledo L	8 00	5 30	6 05
5 20	10 0[illegible]	2 50	Dundee	[illegible]	3 20	9 10
4 35	9 1[illegible]	2 [illegible]	Milton	9 27	2 [illegible]	10 15
3 35	9 2[illegible]	2 [illegible]	Ridgeway	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
3 16	9 2[illegible]	[illegible]	Tecumseh	9 5[illegible]	1 52	11 20
2 25	9 [illegible]	3 02	Tipton	10 0[illegible]	1 [illegible]	12 43
2 00	8 5[illegible]	2 5[illegible]	Unadilla	10 2[illegible]	1 [illegible]	12 13
1 30	8 0[illegible]	2 35	Devils Lake	10 5[illegible]	1 00	1 35
1 15	8 25	2 28	Addison	10 57	7 46	1 15
12 1[illegible]	8 [illegible]	2 [illegible]	Jerome	11 [illegible]	8 [illegible]	2 10
11 55	8 14	2 [illegible]	Seymour	[illegible]	8 [illegible]	2 [illegible]
11 22	7 01	1 [illegible]	Hanover	11 [illegible]	8 27	3 10
10 30	7 55	1 10	Pulaski	[illegible]	9 26	3 50
9 49	7 [illegible]	1 22	Homer	[illegible]	9 57	4 40
9 06	7 21	1 06	Brooklyn	12 [illegible]	[illegible]	5 00
8 20	7 10	12 [illegible]	Marshall	12 [illegible]	[illegible]	6 00
No. 7						No. 8
P. M.						A. M.
7 50			Marshall			7 15
7 40	6 50	12 12	Albion	12 12	9 17	7 20
7 28	6 30	12 27	L. Battle Cr'k A	1 03	10 10	7 45
	A. M.
7 01		12 03	Augusta	1 22	P. M.	8 [illegible]
6 54		11 52	Yorkville	1 [illegible]		8 15
6 47		11 45	Richland	1 [illegible]		8 [illegible]
6 [illegible]		11 [illegible]	Doster	2 [illegible]		8 40
6 19		11 17	Munith	2 [illegible]		9 [illegible]
5 59		11 [illegible]	Pinckney	2 [illegible]		9 [illegible]
5 52		10 [illegible]	Hadley	2 [illegible]		9 [illegible]
5 45		10 [illegible]	L. Allegan A	2 50		9 25
P. M.		A. M.		P. M.		A. M.

THE NEW SHORT LINE

CHICAGO & TOLEDO

TAKE THE WABASH ROUTE.

TRAINS GOING EAST.

Detroit express, daily [illegible]
Detroit Accommodation [illegible]
Niagara Falls and Boston Express [illegible]
New York Limited Express [illegible]
Day Express [illegible]

TRAINS GOING WEST.

St. Louis, Indianapolis & Louisville [illegible]
Chicago & St. Louis Fast Express [illegible]
Night Express [illegible]

Trains marked * are daily, all others daily except Sunday.

Night Express trains stop only for R. R. passengers at Bryon.

Tecumseh passengers desiring to travel by the popular Wabash make excellent connections at Adrian, and from there can secure through Parlor and Sleeping Cars. Through Sleeping Cars to New York and through Parlor Cars to Chicago, making direct connections for all points in the Northwest. Through coaches and sleepers to St. Louis, making direct connections for all points in Kansas and the great southwest.

Fast Time, Magnificent Equipment, Latest Designs of Sleeping, Parlor, Sleeping and Dining Cars on all through trains.

H. D. ARMSTRONG, Gen'l Pass. Agt., Chicago.
WM. R. BEADLEY, Asst. Gen'l Pass. Agt., Chicago.
Jackson, Mich.
E. CHANDLER, Gen'l Pass. and Ticket Agent, St. Louis, Mo.

The Great English Prescription.

"A successful M. D. for many years in the practice of medicine, I have used Dr. Ware's Specific in thousands of cases with the most satisfactory results. Nervous Weakness, Lost Manhood, Impotency, and all diseases caused by abuse, or excess, I recommend it as the best remedy. Six packages guaranteed to cure any case. Ask your Druggist for The Great English Prescription, take no substitute. One package $1, Six $5. Inclose the money in a letter addressed to the Eureka Chemical Co., Detroit, Mich. Sold by all druggists everywhere.

LYESIGHT SAVE IT.

ADVERTISERS can learn the exact cost of any proposed line of advertising in American papers by addressing Geo. P. Rowell & Co., Newspaper Advertising Bureau, 10 Spruce St., New York. Send 10cts for 100-Page Pamphlet.

SLEEPING WONDERS.

FEATS ACCOMPLISHED BY PEOPLE IN THE ARMS OF MORPHEUS.

Sleep-Walkers Sleeping at the Stake of Torture—Number During a Year—Influence of Habit, Toys and Circumstance—Extraordinary Phenomena.

Sleep, [illegible] state of rest to the [illegible] statement, are numerous. Whisper these words in the ear of a sleeper, and he will, as [illegible] hours. On awaking [illegible] in his sleeping, most part [illegible] found that he had [illegible] to warm himself, if the weather was substituted in his cold, he would [illegible] was on deck instantly.

Reporters of the Houses of Parliament [illegible] great Sessions to keep themselves [illegible] sleeping. A few years ago a distinguished member of the [illegible] in the gallery, fast asleep. His statement [illegible] was sleeping. His statement [illegible] with Calcutta [illegible] and [illegible] of vision was alone active.

Coleridge, the dreaming philosopher, composed "Kubla Khan" one of his poems while fast asleep. Next morning he was sure there had been an inspiration to its dictation, but was too [illegible] to write the stanzas. A few days after he attempted to recall the verses but they had for the most part fled and the poem as it now stands is but a fragment.

SPITE OF SURROUNDINGS.

Every one knows that extreme fatigue induces sleep and this in spite of surrounding influences, which in ordinary circumstances would hinder any one from resting. Previous to the shortening of the hours of work factory children frequently fell asleep while working at the machines, although we have heard they would incur severe punishment by doing so. The North American Indian, at the stake of torture, has been known to go to sleep on the least provocation, and [illegible] and will slumber until the fire is applied to his flesh.

[illegible] record that during the heat of [illegible] the Nile [illegible] fell asleep upon the rock, unmoving the attack upon Fort [illegible] in the Burmese war the captain of [illegible] the steam frigates most [illegible] fell asleep and [illegible] hours. On [illegible] a part of his longest [illegible] which were being worked [illegible] the whole [illegible]

[illegible] and time, place and circumstances [illegible] to sleep. The celebrated [illegible] Capt. Barclay, who accomplished the extraordinary feat of walking [illegible] in as many successive hours, [illegible] of his sleep, such a mastery over himself as to fall along the instant he lay down. [illegible] never lets the [illegible] during the night although the [illegible] sufficient to rouse the wearied [illegible] but should a child in the nursery [illegible] the mother [illegible] small noise sounds, [illegible] at once the midnight [illegible]

EXTRAORDINARY PHENOMENA.

It [illegible] that the Abbe Faria, who [illegible] through his power of [illegible] mesmerism, was [illegible] to place his patient in an easy chair, after [illegible] to close his eyes and [illegible] himself, and pronounce in a strong voice "Sommeil," which was usually successful.

This seems to be due [illegible] to the [illegible] displayed by men in sleeping. Gauss, the mathematician, solved one of his most difficult problems while asleep [illegible] which puzzled him during his waking hours. A professor of theology in the University of Basle [illegible] a sermon while asleep, he found it on his desk next morning. The preaching might [illegible] with the [illegible] was [illegible]

[illegible] Abel was one of the most celebrated singers of her time. No one could read her parts except a factory girl, who sang sometimes better than the famous Jenny. The girl could not attempt any difficult piece when awake, but when sleeping she sang so correctly, so like the renowned artiste, that it was difficult to distinguish between their voices. On one occasion Nissen [illegible] the girl, who even added the graces of her powers by giving her a long and elaborate chromatic exercise. This the sleeping girl performed, need, to the wonder of the famous Swedish singer.—London Telegraph.

Kerosene Lamps.

A thorough study of the subject of petroleum lamps has been lately made by Sir Frederick Abel. He suggests that the reservoir of a kerosene lamp should always be of metal, the more strongly to resist any explosive tendency of the oil or vapor within, and that there should be no other opening than that for the wick, unless so small a one that flame could hardly enter it. He further says the wick should be soft and dry when put in, and should completely fill its space, but without forcing that it should be scarcely longer than to touch the bottom of the reservoir, and there the oil should never be suffered to be less than two thirds of the depth, while the lamp should always be fired partly before lighting. The wick should never be turned down suddenly, and the lamp should not be suddenly coaxed or allowed to meet a draught, and when the flame is extinguished it should first be lowered as far as possible and then a sharp strong puff should be blown across, but not down the chimney.—Harper's Bazar.

Hardly Got at It Yet.

"Kiss me," he whispered, with the low excess of emotion, whispered as if he feared the murmuring surf might catch the sound and bear it to some other ear. "When have you ever loved?"

She trembled. She hesitated for a moment, and he thought he felt her blushes glow into his eyes. She trembled, and in a soft, soft whisper, gentle as the summer breeze, answered:

"Not this summer."—San Francisco Chronicle.

Nature's Wise Provision.

Consumptive Patient—An old lady up there says if I will drink cream it will do me as much as cod liver oil.

Great Doctor—Nonsense! Nature never intended cream to be used as a medicine.

"Indeed. Why, how do you know?"

"It has no bad taste."—Omaha World.

Infuriated.

There is a gentleman living in Staten Island so infuriated with the view that he gets from his house that he walks up the hill every day backwards.—The Sun.

Paris at the Seaside.

The idea of a [illegible] seaside has been anticipated [illegible] of Parisian society. The Normandy coast is lined with villas and chalets in the [illegible] Cherbourg and right along to Nantes, built by speculative contractors whenever they discover some new spot which a few newspaper paragraphs [illegible] sea bathing, hotels spring up like [illegible] rooms where those who are content to forget their [illegible] [illegible] hour breakfast, dinner, tea and supper [illegible] the land and [illegible] by rail [illegible] place the large fare for breakfast or dinner [illegible] a time and by subscribing [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] requires the [illegible] [illegible] which must have [illegible] twenty-five [illegible] members of the [illegible] [illegible] the dishes are passed along in front of them, and they are charged extortionately for liquids bottled with names [illegible] resembling the best Bordeaux and Burgundy vintages, but which would not even pass muster with the excise officers at the gates of Paris. The fowl, fish and meat are supplied from the Halles [illegible] every morning, and the visitor soon learns to his cost that the dry [illegible] left behind is the only place where fresh produce can be obtained for money's worth.

Hotel keepers and owners of boarding houses think that the privilege of inhaling ozone cannot be properly enjoyed, especially during the dog days, unless quickened by a proportionate exudation of coin. Each year the price of food and apartments appears to increase, and the cost of the periodical emigration is equal to the sum required to keep any one for the rest of the year in Paris. Revolutions have been caused by the rapacity of certain speculators whose interests clashed with the material welfare of the people, but the French submit with humblike humility to the exorbitant demands of the grandchildren of mere wreckers, despoilers and smugglers who formerly plied their nefarious business along this same sea coast.—Cor. Philadelphia Times.

Starved Into a Verdict.

Jurymen are better off in these times than in the good old days, when it was the law to endeavor to starve them into a verdict. It is bad enough now to be put to loss of time and money, with little or inadequate recompense, without being starved or fined in the bargain.

In the early part of the reign of Henry VIII Lord Chief Justice Reed tried an action when on circuit in which the jury were locked up, but before giving their verdict had eaten and drank, which they all confessed. This being reported to the judge, he fined them each heavily and took their verdict.

In Hilary term, sixth Henry XIII, the case came up before the full court of queen's bench on a joint motion to set aside the verdict on the ground of irregularity of trial, the jury having eaten, when they should have fasted, and next remit the fines under the peculiar circumstances of the case. The jury averred that they had made up their minds in the case before they ate, and had returned into court with a verdict, but, finding the lord chief justice had "run out to see a hare" and not knowing when he might come back they had refreshment. The court confirmed both the verdict and the fines.

In "Dyer's Reports" a case is reported of a jury who retired to consider their verdict, and when they came back the bailiff informed the judge that some of them which he could not depose had been reading while locked up. Both bailiff and jury were sworn, and the pockets of the latter were examined, when it appeared that they all had about them "pippins," of which "some of them confessed they had eaten and the others said they had not." All were severely reprimanded, and those who had eaten were fined twelve shillings each, and those who had not eaten were fined six shillings each, for that they had them in their pockets.—All the Year Round.

Cause of Dirty Finger Nails.

People who are [illegible] speculative point about the [illegible] of their bodies, wonder sometimes deeply how it is that their finger nails get so dirty. They may not have been out of doors or engaged in any manual occupation, and yet a few hours after a thorough cleansing of their nails they have a black streak under the points, and the hand [illegible] be used again. They will be surprised to learn that their hair is the cause of this offensive collection of dirt. There are few persons who do not often pat their fingers to their hair to replace a stray lock, if a woman, or if a man to throw it back from his forehead or run his fingers through it. Each time that the hand touches the hair some of the oil adheres to the fingers and the nails, and this attracts and holds the dirt and dust whose particles float in the purest atmosphere. Anybody can prove this statement by watching the finger nails for a day after the hair has been shampooed and noting how much longer they remain clean than they will two days after the barber has rubbed all of the oil out of the scalp.—Manicure in Globe Democrat.

How Paper Is Toughened.

Paper, rendered as tough as wood or leather, has been introduced abroad for roofing and other purposes. The method consists in mixing chloride of zinc with the pulp, in the process of manufacture, it being also found that the greater the degree of concentration of the zinc solution the greater is the degree of toughness, and, consequently, of durability, characterizing the paper. The material is likewise adapted for making boxes, combs, etc.—New York Sun.

Mexico's Transition State.

If you are contemplating a visit to Mexico the sooner you make it the better. Everything is in a transition state. Old things are fast passing away, and not only the ancient landmarks, but customs and conditions which gave the country its greatest charm are disappearing like dew before the morning sun. This is especially noticeable in the picturesque costumes of the country, which are fast being discarded for American fashions.—Cor. Troy Times.

Inventor of the Saw.

The inventor of the saw is said by the old Greek writers to have been Talus or Perdox, and the invention is said to have been suggested to him while using the jawbone of a snake to cut through a piece of wood. His master, jealous of the honor won by Talus, caused him to be privately put to death.—Boston Budget.

An emotion has more influence with a woman than a reason.—Dr. William A. Hammond.

Lake Weir, Fla., is credited with having the largest lemon grove in the world.

It May Yet Be True.

When Jules Verne wrote his romance "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea," he found it necessary to construct a cigar-shaped steamer that would travel under water while he [illegible] would breath with the same ease they could on land. If Mr. Verne had waited a few years he [illegible] trouble of inventing this submarine craft, as he might then have found it in actual operation. It is at present only proposed to apply a recent invention to a similar behest in the following manner: The apparatus after having been fastened over the nose and mouth of the diver, when he wishes to expunge the air out of his lungs, he does so in the ordinary way and [illegible] from them. It then filters through a moistened sponge in front, and passes along an outlet at the top, as depicted over the diver's shoulder into the rubber case, through which it filters in the same way, and then, ascending into the helmet, mixes with the oxygen, that has been in from its store chamber, and is ready to be breathed again into the diver's lung. Mr. Fleuss states that if he could only exist under the water, he could remain there for a whole day; as it is, he walked for a quarter of a mile under the sea at Ryde, and when at Brighton he went down during stormy weather into five fathoms of water. This being the case, it is a simple matter to apply the principle to the air-tight submarine ship. The devices for sinking it or for raising it to the surface of the water would be easily arranged, so we may soon have our enterprising excursion agents offering a trip along the bottom of the river to Lake Erie—single tickets, 50 cents; lady and gentleman's ticket, 75 cents.—Detroit Free Press.

DON'T FAIL TO TRY IT.

J. C. Burrows, Kalamazoo, Mich., testifies: "For more than five years a member of my family has been afflicted with Hay Fever, culminating late in the fall in a hacking cough. Every remedy proved futile. Not half a bottle of Papillon extract of flax Catarrh Cure had been used before the cough entirely disappeared, and general relief followed. It is simply wonderful." Large bottles only $1.00.

For sale by A. S. Doty.

How Chickens Get Out of Shells.

Take an egg out of a nest on which a hen has had her full time, carefully holding it to the ear; turning it around you will find the exact spot which the little fellow is picking on the inside of the shell; this he will do until the inside shell is perforated, and then the shell is forced outward as a small scale, leaving a hole. Now, if you will take one of the eggs in this condition from under the hen, remove it to the house or other suitable place, put it in a box or nest, keeping it warm and moist, as near the temperature of the hen as possible (which may be done by laying it between two bottles of warm water upon some cotton or wool, and lay a glass over the box or nest, then you can sit or stand, as most convenient, and witness the true modus operandi. Now watch the little fellow work his way into the world, and you will be amused and instructed as I have often been. After he has got his opening, he commences a nibbling motion with the point of the upper bill on the outside of the shell, always working to the right if you have the large end of the egg from you, and the hole upward, until he has worked his way almost around, say with one-half of an inch of in a perfect circle; he then forces the cap or butt end of the shell off, and then has a chance to straighten his neck, and thereby loosening his legs somewhat, and so, by their help, forcing the body from the shell.—American Farm Journal.

What Has It Done for You?

The sceptical Mr. Bradlaugh was once lecturing in a village in the north of England, and at the close challenged discussion. Who should accept the challenge but an old hard woman, in the most antiquated attire, who went up to the lecturer and said, "Sir, I have a question to put to you." "Well, my good woman, what is it?" "Ten years ago," she said, "I was left a widow, with eight children unprovided for, and nothing to call my own but this Bible. By its direction, and looking up to God for strength, I have been enabled to feed myself and family. I am now tottering to the grave, but I am perfectly happy, because I look forward to a life of immortality with Jesus in heaven. That's what my religion has done for me. What has your way of thinking done for you?" "Well, my good lady," rejoined the lecturer, "I don't want to disturb your comfort; but—" "Oh! that's not the question," interposed the woman; "keep to the point, sir. What has your way of thinking done for you?" The infidel endeavored to shirk the matter again, the feeling of the meeting gave vent in uproarious applause, and, Mr. Bradlaugh had to go away discomfitted by an old woman.—The Lutheran.

Peculiar in medicinal merit and wonderful cures—Hood's Sarsaparilla. Now is the time to take it, for now it will do the most good.

The Breckenridge Baptist church wants a pastor.

The reason why Acker's Blood Elixir is warranted, is because it is the best Blood Preparation known. It will positively cure all Blood Diseases; purifies the whole system, and thoroughly builds up the constitution. Remember, we guarantee it. C. A. WRIGHT & CO., Druggists.

A FEMININE DEFENDER OF TOBACCO.—In advocate of the use of tobacco in support of his stand unearths an article written by Margaret Duchess of Newcastle, some two hundred years ago. In defense of the seductive weed that lady wrote: "It composes the mind, it busies the thoughts, it attracts all outward objects to the mind's view, it settles and retents the senses, it cheers the understanding, strengthens the judgment, spies out errors, it exasperates follies, it heats ambition, it comforts sorrow, it abates passion, it excites to noble actions, it digests conceptions, it creates fancies, it quickens wit, and it makes reason pleader and truth judge in all disputes or controversies between right and wrong."

At Night always have Acker's Baby Soother at hand. It is the only safe medicine yet made that will remove all infantile disorders. It contains no Opium or Morphine, but gives the child natural ease from pain. Price 25 cents. Sold by C. A. Wright & Co., Druggists.

A few back numbers of Harper's Monthly, and other Magazines, for sale at one half the regular price, at A. J. Coddington's.

LETTER LIST

Tecumseh.

Remaining unclaimed for in the Postoffice at Tecumseh, Aug. 9, 188.

Dodrick H. W.	Porter Miss Minnie
Howe, L. P.	Lazelier, Mrs. Cynth a
Miller, Caleb	Saxton Mr. Chauf

Persons calling for letters in the above list will please say "Advertised."

C. A. STACY, P. M.

TIME SCHEDULE

Mail Leaves	L. S. & M. S. SOUTH.	Mail Arrives
6.00 a.m.		7.20 a.m.
1.30 p.m.		3.40 p.m.
	YPSI.
10.45 a.m.		7.05 a.m.
		9.45 a.m.
	C. J. & M. R.R.—WEST.
8.35 a.m.		10.00 a.m.
		7.02 p.m.
	EAST.
9.15 a.m.		9.35 a.m.
2.38 p.m.		3.00 p.m.

C. A. STACY, P.M.

ROYAL

BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity, strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and cannot be sold in competition with the multitude of low test, short weight, alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans. ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO. 106 Wall St. N. Y.

Deafness Can't be Cured

by local applications, as they can not reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed, you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflamation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed for ever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness caused by Catarrh that we can not cure by taking Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circular, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75 cents.

STEKETEE'S

NEURALGIA DROPS

A New Discovery. Price Only 50c. Per Bottle.

HAS NEVER FAILED TO CURE.

This valuable remedy is not only a sure cure for Neuralgia, but will [illegible] in the following Diseases

LOCAL DISCHARGES, or WHITES, ULCERS, SWELLINGS, and NEURALGIA of the WOMB or BOWELS.

Try this remedy and you will not be disappointed. The expense is ridiculously small and value is not equaled by any other known preparation.

WOMB Troubles and month" pains are at once relieved by its use.

LADIES READ THIS!

"After Fourteen Months."

Mr. Steketee—For fourteen months I suffered from a lingering and painful disease, combined with severe [illegible] and pains in the back, for which I could find no relief. I was induced to try your Steketee's Neuralgia Drops. I commenced using them according to your directions, and after using one bottle felt very much improved. I have used three bottles in all, and am now free from pain, and in good health. I cheerfully recommend them. MRS. VESTA PALMER.

"Doctors Could Not Help Her."

Mr. Steketee—Dear Sir: I was troubled for years with Neuralgia in the Stomach, for which I could find no relief from doctors. My mother was also troubled with Neuralgia in the Stomach, and could not find any relief from doctors. She tried your Steketee's Neuralgia Drops, and they cured her in a few days. Very truly yours, WILLIAM ELLIS.

Any one desiring further information regarding Neuralgia Drops, from parties in Jackson, can call on the undersigned, who will be pleased to give information. Yours truly, MRS. VESTA PALMER.

Sold by all Druggists.

MAKE YOUR OWN BITTERS.

A four ounce package of STEKETEE'S DRY BITTERS will make one gallon of the best Bitters in the world. It will cure Indigestion, Pains in the Stomach, Fever and Ague, and acts upon the Kidneys and Bladder, and is the best Tonic known. Can be used with or without spirits. Full directions on each package. By mail, Price only 25 cents. Cash, stamps taken in payment. All Druggists.

CEO. C. STEKETEE,

89 Monroe St., Grand Rapids, Mich.

MENTION THIS PAPER.

PRICE 50¢

COMPLEXION DR. HEBRA'S VIOLA CREAM

Without injury positively removes Freckles, Liver moles, Pimples and blemishes of the skin. Is not a wash or powder to cover defects, but a remedy to cure. Sold by Druggists. G. C. BITTNER & Co., Prop's, Toledo, O.

TRADE MARK REGISTERED.

DRS. STARKEY & PALEN'S COMPOUND OXYGEN NOT A DRUG

A Well Tried Treatment.

For Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Hay Fever, Bronchitis, Debility, Rheumatism, Neuralgia and all Chronic and Nervous Disorders.

The Compound Oxygen Treatment of Drs. Starkey & Palen, No. 1529 Arch st., Philadelphia, have been using for the last seventeen years, [illegible] Oxygen [illegible] and the compound is so condensed and made portable that it is sent all over the world.

Drs. Starkey & Palen have the liberty to refer to the following named well-known persons who have tried their Treatment:

Hon. Wm. D. Kelley, Member of Congress, Philadelphia.
Rev. Victor L. Conrad, Editor Lutheran Observer, Philadelphia.
Rev. Charles W. Cushing, D.D., Rochester, N. Y.
Hon. Wm. Penn Nixon, Editor Inter-Ocean Chicago.
Rev. A. W. Moore, Editor The Centenary, Lancaster, S. C.
W. M. Worthington, Editor New South, Birmingham, Ala.
Judge H. P. Vrooman, Quenemo, Kan.
Mrs. Mary A. Livermore, Melrose, Mass.
Judge R. S. Voorhees, New York City.
Mr. E. C. Knight, Philadelphia.
Mr. Frank Siddall, Merchant, Philadelphia.
Hon. W. W. Schuyler, Easton, Pa.
Edward L. Wilson, 853 Broadway, N. Y., Ed. Philadelphia Photographer.
Phillip M. Lyon, Waimea, Hawaii, Sandwich Islands.
Alexander Ritchie, Inverness, Scotland.
Mrs. Manuel V. Ortega, Fresnillo, Zacatecas, Mexico.
Mrs. Emma Cooper, Utila, Spanish Honduras, Central America.
J. Cobb, U. S. Consul Casablanca, Morocco.
M. V. Ashbrook, Red Bluff, Cal.
Ernest Turner, Nottingham, England.
Jacob Ward, Bowral, New South Wales.
And thousands of others in every part of the United States.

"Compound Oxygen—Its Mode of Action and Results," is the title of a new brochure of 200 pages, published by Drs. Starkey & Palen, which gives to all inquirers full information as to this remarkable curative agent, and a record of several hundred surprising cures in a wide range of chronic cases, many of them being abandoned to die by other physicians. Also "Compound Oxygen, Its Growth and Development," an interesting book of 100 pages. Both or either will be mailed free to any address on application. Read the brochure.

DRS. STARKEY & PALEN,
No. 1529 Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic R. R.

"THE SOO-MACKINAW SHORT LINE."

The only direct route to Marquette and the iron and copper regions of the upper peninsula of Michigan.

Two through express trains each way daily, making close connections at junction points for all points.

New, Elegant and Commodious

WAGNER PARLOR CARS AND Superb Wagner Sleeping Cars

Built expressly for this service.

The favorite route to the [illegible]

UNEXCELLED HUNTING AND FISHING.

WARNER BROS.

CELEBRATED COMPOUND CORALINE CORSETS

FLEXIBLE HIP NURSING HEALTH ABDOMINAL CORSET

THE superiority of Coraline over whalebone has now been demonstrated by over six years experience. It is more durable, more pliable, more comfortable, and NEVER BREAKS.

The immense sale of these Corsets now over 7000 daily.

Beware of worthless imitations with various kinds of cord.

None are genuine unless "Warner's Coraline" is printed on the steel cover.

FOR SALE BY ALL LEADING [illegible]

WARNER BROS., 257 & 259 [illegible] CHICAGO.

THE STA[illegible]

Newspaper supporting the [illegible] of a Democratic [illegible]

Published in the City of [illegible]

WILLIAM DORSHEI[illegible]

Editor and Proprietor.

Daily, Sunday, and Weekly Ed[illegible]

THE WEEKLY ST[illegible]

A Sixteen-page Newspaper, every Wednesday.

A clean, pure, bright and [illegible] FAMILY PAPER.

Agricultural, Market, Fashion, Household, Political, Financial and Commercial, Political, Humorous, Editorial.

THE DAILY STA[illegible]

TERMS OF THE DAILY STA[illegible]

THE STA[illegible]

ESTATE OF HENRY M. CLURE.

STATE OF [illegible]

ESTATE OF MARANDA DEWEY.

STATE OF [illegible]

COMMISSIONERS' NOTICE

[illegible]

PAINT

A MAN WHO USES COIT'S PAINT NEVER SWEARS

By using COIT & CO'S ONE-COAT BUGGY PAINT [illegible] with a "shine." One Coat and [illegible]

YOUR BUGGY

FOR ONE DOLLAR

COIT'S HOUSE PAINT

COIT'S FLOOR PAINT

HOUSE PAINT

DANDRUFF [illegible] of the scalp, causes an intolerable itching, stops the roots of the hair, and produces baldness. Ladies take notice—I will send Miss Ida Weston, box 109, New York, [illegible] and receive by return mail prepaid a treatment that will certainly stop the trouble, stop the hair from falling out & prevent BALDNESS.

$1000 DRUG STORE FOR SALE

Cigar store on main avenue. [illegible] trade. A splendid opportunity for [illegible] For particulars address [illegible] Detroit, Mich.

TO ADVERTISE [illegible] of newspapers, and a correct estimate [illegible] To search such references JUDICIOUSLY [illegible] CONSULT LORD AND THOMAS, NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING, CHICAGO.

N.Y. & N.E. SHOE MFRS. SELLING AGCY. 182 JEFF. AVE. DETROIT. WRITE FOR PRICE LIST. BOOTS SHOES RUBBERS & FELTS.

Brewster's Pat. Rein Holder

Your reins are where you put them—not under horses' feet. One Adopted in 14 days; one dealer sold 1 doz. in 5 days. Samples worth $1.50 FREE. Write for terms.

E. E. BREWSTER, Holly, Mich.

The Tecumseh Herald.

VOL. XXXVIII.—NO 12. TECUMSEH MICHIGAN, THURSDAY MORNING, AUGUST 18, 1887 WHOLE NO. 1910.

70 PIECES 70

NEW

DRESSGOODS

JUST OPENED.

Also a New Lot of

REMNANTS!

On sale each week at

L. & S. W. Anderson & Co's.

Everything on the

BOOM-BOOM

AT THE

GRAND CENTRAL SUPPLY STORE.

GROCERIES, CROCKERY, GLASSWARE,

TEAS, SUGARS, SPICE,

PRICES LOWER THAN EVER.

HENRY McCLURE.

B. DeWOLF, Pres. H. M. TEMPLE, Sec'y and Treas. S. W. TEMPLE, Vice Pres. and Gen'l Mgr

THE OHIO & MICH. COAL & MFG. CO.,

COAL.

LUMBER LATH AND SHINGLES

MANUFACTURERS OF

Doors, Sash, Blinds, Mouldings,

Scroll Work, Turned Work, Modern Interior Finish.

GET ESTIMATES BEFORE BUYING.

OFFICE CORNER R. R. AND SHAWNEE STS.

Yards and Factory on Pearl and Shawnee sts., near L. S. & M. S. Depot.

TECUMSEH, MICH.

NEW BEDROOM SUITS

PARLOR SUITS!

Spring Rockers, Reed Rockers, New Couches,

And a big stock of Fine and Medium

FURNITURE!

To all who are in want of good Furniture to look through my rooms and examine goods and notice the low prices. Remember, I have not moved back, but still occupy the largest store on the street for the last 13 years. You are told I don't enjoy the business for want of room. THAT IS SO.

Undertaking a Specialty!

All Calls, Day Calls, and all kinds of calls promptly attended to. New Styles of Caskets in stock, and something entirely new for the times.

WM. McCOWEN.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

RIDGEWAY, AUG. 15, 1887.

The rains come too late to help corn and potatoes very much.

Some have began cutting their corn on the Ridge.

Wm. Andrews is making preparations to repair and improve the Samuel Fletcher property on South street.

The brick work to the Library was finished Saturday, and the carpenters began putting on the roof Monday.

Irving Bush returned Monday from a week's stay at Manitou Lake.

Ada Loree returned from her stay at Detroit, the latter part of last week.

A good many attended the F. M. camp meeting at Raisin Center, Sunday.

Will Allen has a position as night agent for the C. L. & M. at Battle Creek.

Mrs. Hallie Montgomery, of Cleveland, O., is visiting her cousins, P. H Montgomery and wife.

Rachael Luce, of Ann Arbor, is spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. Lafe. Pocklington.

Mrs. Ace Smith returned from a few week's stay with her daughters Cora and Anna, at Grand Ledge, on Saturday evening.

Carrie Holden, of Hillsdale, is visiting her grandmother, Mrs. Chever, at present.

Several of the village friends are rusticating at Devil's, Sand and Wampler's Lake, this week.

The Detroit Evening Journal is taking the lead as a daily paper here, and is giving general satisfaction. Any who wish to try it, can do so by leaving their name with the agent, G. P. Waring or at the P. O.

Mr. McRoberts, of Mason, Sundayed as the guest of Nellie Freer.

Ex-postmaster Santus, who has been at Sorrento, Florida, for the past six months, returned Friday.

Several of the W. C. T. U. friends attended the ice cream lawn social, given at Lyman Hause's, east of the village, last week, by the ladies of the W. C. T. U., at Britton.

Mr. & Mrs. and May Jones and Ella Hall, spent Thursday and Friday at Devils Lake.

Miss Barnby, of Raisinville, was the guest of Kittie Clark, Sunday.

Miss Palmer is visiting at Dr. R. H. Nelson's, at present.

The village school board have issued an attractive circular announcement of our school for '87 and '88. Those intending to attend school outside of their own district, should carefully examine the opportunities now offered by our graded school. Prof. and Mrs. J. D. Huston are to be retained another year. An announcement circular can be had by calling at the post office.

Our Base Ball team expect a game on their grounds next Friday afternoon, with the Onsted team, and one with the Wolf Creek team Saturday afternoon, if nothing prevents.

The Milan Ball team came up last week Friday and played our team. It was the most closely contested game our boys have played this season. The gentlemanly appearance of the visitors made the game very interesting. Some very fine plays were made on both sides. The visitors tied the score in their last time too bat, and took their positions in the field to whitewash our team and nearly succeeded, two men being out, when Barrett made a safe hit for 1st, stole 2nd, took 3rd, on a grounder by Linn, and reached home through a fumble by Bateman. Milan Battery—Andrews and Bateman. Ridgeway Battery—Palmer and Wiggins.

Innings:—	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Milan,	1	0	1	1	0	2	0	0	5—10.
Ridgeway,	0	0	5	1	2	1	0	1	1—11.

BRITTON BUDGET.

Rain at last.

Mr. Geo. Beckler, of Chicago is visiting his parents.

It is reported that our Sunday-school will go to Devils Lake on the 27th of this month.

Mr. Luce has commenced shipping hogs from this place again.

Joe Wiggins is laid up with a felon on his thumb; which makes him look sick.

There were over 130 numbers sold at the dance in Exelby's hall, last Friday night.

Our Base Ball nine went down to play Cone last Saturday and got beat badly, the score standing 19 to 4, in favor of Cone. We think that they had better quit now.

M. J. Barack and wife, of Cleveland, Ohio, are visiting at the Exelby House.

Alva Parker and wife are visiting friends in this vicinity.

Ed. Beckler came home from Detroit, for a few days stay with his parents.

attended the Free Methodist Camp meeting Sunday afternoon, but were sick of their bargain before they got back, and don't think that they will go again when it looks rainy.

Maggie and Emma Rice, who have been staying at their grand parents, Mr. and Mrs Borden's, the past few weeks, left on the morning train for their home in Clio, Mich.

The W. C. T. U. held an ice cream social at the residence of Mr. Lyman Hause Thursday evening. The proceeds amounted to over $20. The Band was in attendance and all had a very good time.

Mr. H. Pocklington's horse became frightened as he was coming out of the mill yard last Wednesday evening and dumped him and his load in the ditch, but luckily for him, he was not badly hurt.

The Sunday-school held a concert at the church Sunday evening, which was quite a success. They took in a little over $11. Tickets were sold at 5 and 10 cents each.

MACON MUSIC.

The rain Monday morning moistened the ground and farmers are plowing for wheat.

The ice cream social held at the M. E. Church Saturday evening, passed off very pleasantly. The proceeds were about twelve dollars. The band done justice to the occasion.

Alonzo Marshall, son of Thomas Marshall of this place, who is working in Chicago, had his hand smashed while coupling cars last week.

Mrs. Isaiah Hendershot, while on her way to the concert Sunday night was thrown out of the carriage and very badly hurt. She was taken to Dr. Morden's, where she remained until Tuesday.

Mrs. Sam Sarvey is on the sick list.

Mr. Charles Morgan and W. H Crittenden started last Friday for Sault St. Marie. Mr. Crittenden will work at the carpenter's trade, and Mr. Morgan will return after making his sister, Mrs. G. W. Dyer, a visit.

ONSTED ODDS.

Frank Glenn, of Chicago, is spending a few days with his parents.

P. O. Maxwell and wife went to Adrian to stay over Sunday with Homer Gillet. They returned Monday and report Homer as nicely situated in his new home.

George Hines has hired Bert Tuttle to sell meat for him and is on the road buying eggs.

Onsted B. B. club go to Ridgeway Friday to play the club there.

Mrs. Pulver, of Hillsdale, is visiting friends here.

Mrs. Andrew Riley was induced to take a ride to town Tuesday afternoon to give her friends a chance to make a raid on her house. It was her birthday and the surprise was perfect.

NORTHERN LENAWEE FARMER'S CLUB.

The August meeting of this club will be held at W. B. Keyser's, Saturday, Aug. 27th, at 1 o'lock P. M., when the following program is to be carried out.

Ins. Music—Mrs. W. B. Keyser.
Select Reading—Mrs. L. M. Mangus.
Recitation—Ora Bowen.
Song—Mrs. A. M. Welch.
Essay—Elva Talman.
Chip Basket—Mrs. Allen Wells.
Question for discussion: "Wheat and best method of producing."
Please bring wheat samples.

Cleanliness.

The surface of the human body, and even the delicate membrane covering the eye, as well as the mucous lining of the internal passages of the animal body may and often do become diseased in such a manner, by neglect of purity and careful cleanliness, that they will give off contagious matter. The contagious disorders of the skin, the eyes and the mouth are results of neglect of cleanliness, and are justly esteemed very disgusting. Decaying matters, whether vegetable or animal, and not unfrequently the still living but unhealthy and unclean surfaces and tissues of both animal and vegetable bodies, are apt to become infected with parasites which prey upon and injure or destroy the tissues. Even the tenderest parts and juices of vegetable substances and the skin, the muscles and blood of the animal may be harmed in this way. It was a little invisible parasite which destroyed the potatoes at harvest time throughout the country many years ago, and there are some foul waters and infected kinds of meat which will breed disease in persons who partake of them. Therefore, it is a duty to be cleanly in food and drink, as well as in our breathing and personal habits. It is doubtful if persons who become filthy in their habits and neglect to provide for the purification of their bodies, clothing and premises, will ever be found pure and sweet in their thoughts, language and influence.

That tired feeling and loss of appetite are entirely overcome by Hood's Sarsaparilla, the peculiar medicine. Try it and see.

TEMPERANCE COLUMN.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS OF THE INCREASING USE OF MALT LIQUORS.

Great has been the increase in the use of malt liquors in the United States during the past twenty-five years. Instead of diminishing intemperance, as some claim, the drinking usages of society have greatly increased. It was maintained when lager beer was first introduced into this country, that its general use would diminish intemperance; but side by side with its growing use that of spirituous liquors has also increased.

The Germans brought their beer-drinking habits with them, and American made beer has a much worse effect upon them in this climate than German beer in the German climate. This has been affirmed by beer-drinking Germans over and over again: the question has been discussed in print and in conventions, and the causes reduced to these two. The greater stimulating effects of climate, and the fact that average American beer is stronger than that made in Europe.

Beer has had the following, among other disastrous effects upon the habits of native American citizens. Many have used malt liquors and to excess, who before they became common had never used intoxicating liquors of any kind. Beguiled by the recommendation of beer as a temperance drink, or by its supposed favorable effects upon the health, those who would never have touched whisky, brandy, or gin, and who even shrank from the use of wine, have taken to beer-drinking.

This, too, has been a constant stumbling-block for the partially reformed, and, as shown on a former occasion in The Christian Advocate, the testimony of the majority of the reformed drunkards who have fallen is that beer was the means of their relapse. Then, men and boys who would hesitate to enter upon a course of general liquor-drinking have begun with beer. Wine-drinking, as distinguished from spirituous liquors, never became very common in this country in bar-rooms; for thought it was a considerable source of temptation and a preliminary step to general drinking habits, its expensiveness in the higher grades was an effectual embargo upon its use in most cases. But beer being cheap, and not, in moderate quantities, grossly intoxicating, is the open door through which many well trained young men and boys pass to the downward path. Young women also, who would not touch liquors or offer them to their male escorts, have not turned away from the foaming mug of beer, and have thus contributed their subtle and powerful influence to the ruin of many of their brothers, and of those who were—or as they hoped would be—"nearer and dearer." Whether the beer be sent for, drank in the gardens, on excursion boats, or at picnics, the effect is the same.

Many nursing mothers have been led to drink malt liquors under the delusion that it was beneficial to them, and not hurtful to their infants. Thus the article has been introduced into the home and become a common drink and the whole character of many families changed.

By the use of beer hereditary appetites long dormant have been awakened. A young man, whose grandfather died a drunkard, but whose father was a rigid abstainer, when led to drink a glass of beer, plunged immediately, to the amazement of all his friends, into a wild debauch. He had previously resisted many temptations to touch wines or brandy. A celebrated organist in the city of Brooklyn failed to appear at his post on a certain Sabbath, and was found by his friends intoxicated. It transpired that years before he had been addicted to drink, but had conquered the appetite. A single glass of beer taken with a friend had turned his head, and when his head was turned his resolutions were scattered to the winds, and he leaped into the whirlpool.

Grocers and their clerks, keeping malt liquors, men who had never kept spirituous liquors on sale, have become demoralized, in many instances taken to drinking, and in most, so far as we can ascertain, have finally added spirituous liquors to their stock. Appalling instances have come under our personal knowledge. Obviously they cannot be given in detail, but any person disposed to investigate the subject can find examples with too little difficulty. In many households the line separating "No liquor allowed" from "Liquor allowed" has been broken down. The beer has been brought in, and once in it has served to debauch the entire sentiment of the family.

Of every user of malt liquors, as a liquor or as a beverage, it has either been against total abstinence, or it has been sufficient to paralyze any efforts which may be made. Nothing less than the advocacy and practice of total abstinence appears to be of any value in preventing young men from drinking, or in reforming the intemperate; while the public advocacy by persons of high general character of anything else gives aid and comfort to every rum and beer seller in the land, and furnishes every youth with arguments wherewith to resist the pleas of his mother, the warnings of his father, and the rebukes of his own conscience.

The beer-drinker expostulating with the wine-drinker has nothing to say. The man who takes both wine and beer can find no valid ground upon which to expostulate with the man who takes brandy and water.

The theory that malt liquors can be substituted to any considerable extent for distilled is proven by experiment to be false. Lovers of strong liquors will not leave them to come back to malt liquors. Very few come back from drinking and stop at a half-way house. Alcohol has a thirst-producing power, and every article that contains alcohol has it. How can men drink ten, twenty, thirty, or—as has been testified in court—fifty glasses a day, if beer does not produce thirst? It is not so with water or milk. The four and one-half to six per cent. of alcohol contained in beer accounts for this.

If all who use distilled liquors would take the same quantity of malt liquors without inducing non-drinkers to begin, some benefit might be experienced by the community. But the effort appears to be to induce every body to drink beer that some may not drink stronger liquors. But the number of drunkards who have come back and stopped at the half-way house is very small. As there is so much beer sold, we may ask, where are the cases of reformation? With a considerable acquaintance with reformed persons we have yet to find one who was brought back from gin, whisky, or brandy by the subsitution of beer.

Beer saloons should be subjected to the same restrictions under which grog-shops are placed; because they promote intemperance they lead to the use of stronger liquors. In most cases they keep stronger liquors on hand. As their patrons stay longer than those who drink distilled liquors, beer saloons offer more facilities for gaming, dissipation, and absence from home.

Their release from general supervision would give them every facility for excise regulation, and to place them under a small tax or license fee would give them the opportunity of selling spirituous liquors without the probability of detection. The line between beer and other drinkers is so uncertain that temperate drinkers of spirits would have just cause to complain of a greater tax upon their favorite beverage than that imposed upon any form of alcoholic drink.

To find a man as eminent for courage and learning as Dr. HOWARD CROSBY writing to the Tribune thus: "Thousands of families in our city are accustomed to drink draught beer at their noon-day meal, and there is no more reason why they should be deprived of it, than that the rest of us should be deprived of our milk, which also as a perishable article is brought to us on Sunday; and this can be done in the way which Mr. WOODMAN proposes—by allowing the sale of draught beer only, and for two hours only, twelve to two o'clock, and not to be drunk on the premises," is sufficient to show what a blinding influence sympathy with the use of any form of alcoholic liquor as a beverage has upon the mind.

No real advantage to the cause of temperance can be derived from any system of restriction that does not treat all alcoholic beverages in the same way.

The three R's brought Regret, Reproach and Remorse to a great political party in 1884. The three P's when signifying Dr. Pierce's Pellets, bring Peace to the mind, Freshness and Perfection of health to the body.

A Burlington patent office declares that he has to hire as many clerks as many inventions of male mother as they do at the post-office.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The Best Salve in the world for cuts, Bruises, Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. FOR SALE BY C. A. Wright & Co.

THE TECUMSEH HERALD

Issued Every Thursday Morning

BY C. STACY.

Office in the New Herald Building, one door East of the Opera House, Tecumseh, Mich.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

One year [illegible] 75
Six months 50
Four months [illegible]
Twenty-five cents will be added for the subscription price if payment be not made within the first month from the time of subscribing.

ADVERTISING RATES

Business Notices, [illegible] line for each insertion.
[illegible]

THE MEN AT THE REPUBLIC A[illegible]

THE PRESIDENT'S TOUR.

[illegible] President will [illegible] Massachusetts [illegible] welfare, [illegible] his greatness [illegible] There is always a strong popular desire to see a President, and this desire is heightened when his course has attracted points and interest and conflict, as which is to meet Mr Garfield.

In his visit last autumn to Cambridge in Massachusetts, upon the occasion of the two hundred and fifteenth anniversary of Harvard University, the President saw a characteristic representation of intelligent New England, and the greeting which he received could not have failed to touch him by its earnestness and sincerity. In central New York, where much of his earliest life was passed, he was at home, and in perfect sympathy with the active, enterprising, prosperous community. In the West whither he goes for the first time, he will see the great region which begins to dominate the Union, and the West will see a President against whom it was warned, but whose administration has not alarmed nor injured it, and whose good sense and patriotism have more firmly remitted the country. Turning southward, he will be greeted with the enthusiasm of political sympathy and and with the consciousness of a Union actually restored; and the colored citizens will find in the President whose election they were told would endanger their liberty as true a friend as in any public man in the country.

The journey of the President, at the time when many Republicans are trying hard to arouse the bitterness of sectional feeling and to control politics by the passions of the war, will present a suggestive contrast. He represents the new Union of common interests and purposes and desires, and among them the speediest practicable dismissal of the controversies of the old Union. He represents the desire of the country for tranquil and honest goverment, watched, as he says of himself, with a scrutiny to which no recent President has been submitted. He represents the epoch of happy transition from the old to the new, and the general feeling of good-will which is the prevailing sentiment of the country. It is unfortunate that the contrast should be invoked between the significance of such a representative and that of the sectional effort. Practically those who lead that effort assert that the President is going into the Southern States to propitiate the rebels, that he betrayed his sympathy with treason and rebellion by the order to return the rebel flags, that he has called rebels into his Cabinet and that he knows that he must owe his re-election to the votes of rebels. This is wretched business for intelligent Republicans. Not one such man who resorts to such desperate appeals believes that the President is a rebel or consorts with rebels or has any more sympathy with rebel on than General Sherman or General Sheridan, or Mr. Blaine or Governor Foraker. The partisan use which is sought to be made of the flag order shows the sore straits to which those who resort to it are reduced. At a time when Virginia and Massachusetts veterans were fraternizing, when at Gettysburg the boys in blue and the boys in gray were clasping honest hands of congratulation as fellow citizens forever, the President acquiesced in the suggestion to return to Confederate veterans the tokens, not of anything gained in the war, but of some particular fight which helped to achieve the great result, and in which, whatever the event of that fight, the heroism of both sides was unquestioned. This is not a thing for which the patriot soldiers in New England or Pennsylvania would adjudge any man unworthy of the Presidency. Of the two which will seem to a thoughtful American the surer guarantee of national peace and prosperity, the spirit which the President will represent in his tour, or that of those who make a national issue of the flag order?—Harper's Weekly.

CLOSING THE CIVIL WAR.

Barrel and the Last Shot Was Over I[illegible]

The man who claims to have ordered the last shot fired on the Confederate side during the late unpleasantness is Mr A B Faircloth, of Camilla, Ga, a gentleman as modest as he is brave. The incident [illegible] an old comrade in arms of Mr Faircloth, and forms a unique legacy to the unwritten history of [illegible] Mr. Faircloth is now at Company C, Second Georgia cavalry.

[illegible] surrendered, Johnston had surrendered, Lucy Kirby Smith remained at the head of armed secession. The [illegible] Sergeant Faircloth, [illegible] Company C, Second Georgia cavalry, [illegible] Sergeant Faircloth was [illegible] picket line. They were [illegible] and with [illegible] the line [illegible] a white flag. The sergeant advanced to parley with the bearer of the flag of truce.

"Whatever or can you fire fast. Don't you know the war is over?" This was jerked out by the spokesman on the other side.

"I obeyed orders," calmly replied the sergeant. "No troops can pass my line."

"But, man, Johnston has surrendered, and the war is over. Come, let us pass, we want to taste that brandy over there."

"I must carry out my orders," stoutly maintained Sergt. Faircloth, "and if your men advance they will be fired upon. But," he added, "I am expecting orders calling to my men every minute, and if you will wait perhaps you may get a drop of the brandy."

Strange to say the troop waited, and the order came. Then there was a grand rush for the barrel—when "Johnny Reb" and "Yank" got on a drunk together.

This was the last shot fired in the late war, and the incident, now published for the first time, will be read with interest by those who participated in the novel scene, as well as the general public. To complete the story it only remains to tell that, acting under the advice of Johnston, Wheeler gave over his daring attempt, and, turning over his men to the brigade, regimental and company commanders to act as they saw fit, gathered about him a few bold spirits, and started to join the head of the Confederacy in his effort to escape his pursuers.—Greensboro Herald.

Where They Were Born.

Some time, after the war Gen. Crittenden met three ex-Confederate officers at dinner, and they became very friendly.

"Major," said Gen. Crittenden to one of them, "where were you born?"

"Well," said the major, getting a little red, "I was born, sir, in Nantucket, Mass., but you see I lived ten years in the south, and I married a southern lady, and as all my interests were in the south of course I fought for them."

"And where were you born?" he asked the second.

"Well, sir, I was born in Nantucket, Mass., but I'd lived in the south twenty years, and of course"——

"I see," said the general, turning to the third. "Colonel, where were you born?"

"I was born in Nantucket, Mass., too, but I'd been thirty years in the south, and"——

"That's curious, isn't it?"

"Tell me, general," said one of them, "where were you born?"

"Well, I was born in Huntsville, Ala., but I lived in the north for many years, and I fought for the Union."—San Francisco Chronicle.

Creoles and Their Servants.

Poor indeed must be the creole family without one retainer of color, and almost every household provides for some old and useless pensioners with affectionate interest. Creole servants are invaluable, their training having been thorough; and in almost every instance they remained with their old mistresses, often working when there was no money to pay their wage, often assuming extra work to make a few pleasuries to help their beloved "white people." Creole housekeepers manage to keep servants, even the servants of the new dispensation, while their American sisters in the same city are wasting their substance in advertisements, or wearing out footgear tramping from one employment bureau to the other. Creoles accord certain privileges to their servants which Americans refuse. Creole children are taught from babyhood politeness to servants, and American children are permitted to jeer, to worry and to insult them.—Harper's Bazar.

Oil on the Stormy Waters.

The use of oil to calm the sea during a storm, or at least to check the force of big waves, has apparently acquired recognition as a scientific truth. At any rate the experiment tried by shipmasters as recorded on the monthly pilot charts issued from the hydrographic office of the navy department have been generally successful. Mariners have, in fact, been led to try their experiments by the frequent publication of information concerning the practice, and mechanics have also been led to contrive devices by means of which the oil can be thrown from the bows of ships. There have also been prepared several combinations of animal, vegetable and mineral oils especially for use as quieting agents in storms at sea.—Boston Transcript.

To Rest the Aching Back.

Workers at home who have aching backs and but one writing desk, and that a low one, will find great relief from writing in a standing position if a recess is out of the question, if only for fifteen minutes.—The Writer.

IMPORTANT.

When you visit or leave New York City, save baggage expressage and carriage Hire and stop at the Grand Union Hotel, opposite Grand Central Depot. Elegant rooms fitted up at a cost of one million dollars, reduced to $1.00 and upwards per day. Europ[illegible] supplied with the best. Horse cars, stages and elevated railroads to all depots. Families can live better for less money at the Grand Union Hotel, than at any other first class hotel in the city.

The Carpet-Baggers and Scalawags of that part of the country are well dressed and good looking, and are not yet prepared to trade a good position and $50 per month for a $3 ticket.

A Good Appetite

Is essential to good health. But this relish it is often lost, owing to the poverty or impurity of the blood, derangement of the digestive organs, and the weakening effects of the changing season. Hood's Sarsaparilla is a wonderful medicine for creating an appetite, toning the digestive organs and giving strength to the whole system. Now is the time to take it. Be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Roman Remains in London.

Modern London is built on the [illegible] of the London of the times of Julius Cæsar and Agricola, and it is by no means improbable that 1800-year old relics of the Roman town are found many feet below the surface of the existing streets. There was a rich find recently in the vicinity of Warwick Square at the depth of nineteen feet. The most interesting relic that came to light was hitherto unknown coin, of the the year 50, which lay alongside of about a dozen urns containing the products of cremation. Just think of the pains which dying would have afflicted on those ancients if they had known that their ashes would have been seen and handled by an unknown race eighteen centuries and a half, nearly, after their decease. The most aristocratic urn was of glass and fifteen inches high. Well executed leaden pots inclosed several of these depositories, and roofing tiles the rest. The use of lead, as well as of tin, by the way, has great antiquity in Britain. Herodotus speaks of the production of tin there. Emblems of more or less significance touching the future state appeared on some of the receptacles. Along with the coin of the year 50 were others of dates between 40 and 300. But the Romans left something besides these useless things to be remembered by. They introduced into Great Britain its chestnut, walnut, peach, pear and cherry trees.

The five Sisters.

There were five fair sisters, and each had an aim—
Flora would fain be a fashionable dame;
Scholarly Susan's selections was books;
Coquettish Cora cared more for good looks;
Anna, ambitious, aspired after wealth;
Sensible Sarah sought first for good health.

So she took Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and grew healthy and blooming. Cora's beauty quickly faded; Susan's eye-sight failed from over study; Flora became nervous and fretful in striving after fashion, and a sickly family kept Anna's husband poor. But sensible Sarah grew daily more healthy, charming and intelligent, and she married rich.

After the Sunday Dinner.

After the Sunday dinner, what? Well it all depends. A person whose brain is wearied with intellectual work during the week, or whose nervous system is exposed to the strain of business or professional life, ought to sleep within an hour or so after his Sunday dinner, if he can. It is surprising how much like a seven-day clock the brain will work if the habit of a Sunday nap be once formed. Nature will take advantage of it as regularly and gratefully as she does of the nightly sleep, and do her best to make up lost time. People on the other hand, whose week of toil is chiefly physical, may well give their minds activity while their bodies are resting. Two sermons and three or four hours of solid reading are a real rest to some on Sunday, while to others such a course amounts to a positive Sabbath-breaking. Sunday is a day of rest, not a day of work, religious or otherwise. It is a day of repose, not for exhaustion. But what the dogmatists on one side and the liberal liberals on the other are apt to overlook is the fact that all men do not rest alike any more than they labor alike, and what may help one may ill another.

Bartholdi's Great Work.

The statue of Liberty enlightening the world, which stands on Bedloe's Island, in the harbor of New York, is one of the most sublime artistic conceptions of modern times. The torch of the goddess lights the nations of the earth to peace, prosperity and progress, through Liberty. But "liberty" is an empty word to the thousands of poor women enslaved by physical ailments a hundredfold more tyrannical than any Nero. To such sufferers Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription holds forth the promise of a speedy cure. It is a specific in all those derangements, irregularities and weaknesses which make life a burden to so many women. The only medicine sold by druggists on a positive guarantee from the manufacturers, that it will be refunded. See guarantee printed on wrapper enclosing bottle.

A distinguished scholar and writer recently said: "I flounder in a sea of scraps." In these days when the papers contain so many fine sentiments, beautiful descriptions, touching incidents, items of importance, and matters of permanent interest, culled from all departments of life, there is scarcely a day in which something does not strike the eye which the reader wishes to preserve, in order to remember and perhaps to use. One of the first things a bright boy or girl should make is a scrap-book of things which interest most. If you have no book, put your selections in different envelopes, according to subjects. The newspaper is a circulating library, with little of everything in it, and a little for everybody. Make sure of your part of it as you read.

St. Louis has a new gymnasium.

An End to Bone Scraping

Edward Shepard, of Harrisburg, Ill., writes: "I have received great benefit from Electric Bitters. I feel it my duty to let suffering humanity know it. Have had a running sore on my leg for eight years; my doctors told me I would have to have the bone scraped or leg amputated. I used instead, three bottles of Electric Bitters and seven boxes Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and my leg is now sound and well."

Electric Bitters are sold at fifty cents a bottle, and Bucklen's Arnica Salve at 25c. per box at [illegible]

WHAT AILS YOU?

Do you feel dull, languid, low-spirited, careless and indescribably wretched, with more than usual coming and going of the blues? Do your kidneys ache? Do you have a dull, heavy, dragging sensation in the small of the back? Do your feet and ankles swell? Do you have a distressed, and sometimes painful, feeling in the region of the kidneys? Do you have a dull, heavy pain in the back? If you have, or any considerable number of these symptoms, you are suffering from that most common of American maladies—Bilious Dyspepsia, or Torpid Liver, associated with Dyspepsia, or Indigestion. The more complicated your disease has become, the greater the number and diversity of symptoms. No matter what stage it has reached, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will subdue it, if taken according to directions for a reasonable length of time. If not cured, complications multiply and Consumption of the Lungs, Skin Diseases, Heart Disease, Rheumatism, Kidney Disease, or other grave maladies are quite liable to set in and, sooner or later, induce a fatal termination.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery acts powerfully upon the Liver, and through that great blood-purifying organ, cleanses the system of all blood-taints and impurities, from whatever cause arising. It is equally efficacious in acting upon the Kidneys, and other excretory organs, cleansing, strengthening, and healing their diseases. As an appetizing, restorative tonic, it promotes digestion and nutrition, thereby building up both flesh and strength. In malarial districts, this wonderful medicine has gained great celebrity in curing Fever and Ague, Chills and Fever, Dumb Ague, and kindred diseases.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

CURES ALL HUMORS,

from a common Blotch, or Eruption, to the worst Scrofula, Salt-rheum, "Fever-sores," Scaly or Rough Skin, in short, all diseases caused by bad blood are conquered by this powerful, purifying, and invigorating medicine. Great Eating Ulcers rapidly heal under its benign influence. Especially has it manifested its potency in curing Tetter, Eczema, Erysipelas, Boils, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, Hip-joint Disease, "White Swellings," Goitre, or Thick Neck, and Enlarged Glands. Send ten cents in stamps for a large Treatise, with colored plates, on Skin Diseases, or the same amount for a Treatise on Scrofulous Affections.

"FOR THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE."

Thoroughly cleanse it by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and good digestion, a fair skin, buoyant spirits, vigorous strength and bodily health will be established.

CONSUMPTION,

which is Scrofula of the Lungs, is arrested and cured by this remedy, if taken in the earlier stages of the disease. From its marvelous power over this terrible fatal disease, when first offering this now world-famed remedy to the public, Dr. Pierce thought seriously of calling it his "CONSUMPTION CURE," but abandoned that name as too restrictive for a medicine which, from its wonderful combination of tonic, or strengthening, alterative, or blood-cleansing, anti-bilious, pectoral, and nutritive properties, is unequaled, not only as a remedy for Consumption, but for all Chronic Diseases of the Liver, Blood, and Lungs.

For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Shortness of Breath, Chronic Nasal Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, Severe Coughs, and kindred affections, it is an efficient remedy.

Sold by Druggists, at $1.00, or Six Bottles for $5.00.

☞ Send ten cents in stamps for Dr. Pierce's book on Consumption. Address,

World's Dispensary Medical Association,
663 Main St., BUFFALO, N. Y.

HARTER'S IRON TONIC

THE ONLY TRUE

Will purify the BLOOD, regulate the LIVER and KIDNEYS, and RESTORE the HEALTH and VIGOR of YOUTH. Dyspepsia, Want of Appetite, Indigestion, Lack of Strength and Tired Feeling absolutely cured: Bones, muscles and nerves receive new force. Enlivens the mind and supplies Brain Power.

LADIES Suffering from complaints peculiar to their sex will find in DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC a safe, speedy cure. Gives a clear, healthy complexion. All attempts at counterfeiting only adds to its popularity. Do not experiment—get ORIGINAL AND BEST

Dr. HARTER'S LIVER PILLS
Cure Constipation, Liver Complaint and Sick Headache. Sample Dose and Dream Book mailed on receipt of two cents in postage.
THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

Tutt's Pills

stimulates the torpid liver, strengthens the digestive organs, regulates the bowels, and are unequaled as an

ANTI-BILIOUS MEDICINE.

In malarial districts their virtues are widely recognized, as they possess peculiar properties in freeing the system from that poison. Elegantly sugar coated. Dose small. Price, 25cts.

Sold Everywhere.

Office, 44 Murray St., New York.

We have decided to handle exclusively Pittsburgh CELEBRATED NATURAL GAS WINDOW GLASS—which is about equal to French. If your dealer does not keep it, have him do so or order direct of us.

GLASS

N. B. [illegible]

W. [illegible]

Brewster's Pat. Rein Holder

Your lines are where you put them—not under horses' feet. One Agent sold 12 doz. in 5 days; one dealer sold 5 doz. in 15 days. Samples worth $1.25 FREE. Write for terms.

E. E. BREWSTER, Holly, Mich.

Great Bargains

AT

J. S. KINNEY'S

IN

FURNITURE

OF LATEST STYLES AND BEST WORKMANSHIP.

SUITES of ALL KINDS

Shades, Carpets, Rollers, etc., at very Low Prices for Cash. I keep

FULL LINE OF UNDERTAKING

In Wood, Cloth, Metallic Cases, and I have the agency of the new INDESTRUCTABLE MARBLE CASKETS of all kinds. Undertaking in all Branches attended to. PRICES REASONABLE.

TEMPLE, McCLURE & CO.

Successors to

Wolcott, Temple & Co.,

Wholesale and Retail Dealers in

Lumber, Lath, Shingles, Sash and Doors

AND ALL KINDS OF BUILDING MATERIAL.

Planing, Sawing, Matching to Order

Mill and Yard North of Railroad Depot,

TECUMSEH, MICHIGAN.

R. STEBBINS, Adrian,

Furniture, Carpets, Crockery, Children's Cabs

Picture Frames, Curtains, Fixtures, Etc.

My stock is the LARGEST and best ever shown in Southern Mich., and is arranged in 12 Ware Rooms covering over 12,000 feet of Flooring in Stebbins' block, and all selected with great care for quality.

It was bought with cash down, enabling me to defy all competition in low PRICES for same quality of goods. All goods warranted as represented. It will pay the northern tier of towns to examine our goods and prices.

MY STOCK OF CARPETS IS VERY FINE.

This represents a healthy life, Throughout its various scenes.

Just such a life as they enjoy Who use the Smith's Bile Beans.

Smith's BILE BEANS purify the blood, by acting directly and promptly on the Liver, Skin and Kidneys. They consist of a vegetable combination that has no equal in medical science. They cure Constipation, Malaria, and Dyspepsia, and are a safeguard against all forms of fevers, chills and fever, gall stones, and Bright's disease. Send 4 cents postage for a sample package and test the TRUTH of what we say. Price, 25 cents per box. Sent by druggists, or mailed to any address, postpaid. DOSE ONE BEAN. Sold by druggists.

J. F. SMITH & CO., PROPRIETORS, ST. LOUIS, MO.

The original Photograph of panel size, of this picture sent on receipt of 10c. in stamps. Address, BILE BEANS, St. Louis, Mo.

FARMERS' ADVOCATE

The Farmers' Advocate of Michigan is the [illegible] States [illegible] THE FARMERS' ADVOCATE [illegible] HOME MAGAZINE [illegible] FARMERS' ADVOCATE, London, Ont., Canada.

A HANDSOME WEDDING, BIRTHDAY OR HOLIDAY PRESENT

THE WONDERFUL

LUBURG GLASS

Toledo Business College

AND SHORT-HAND SCHOOL

Go to a city for a business education, because business men will patronize home institutions. Board and room $3.00 per week. English Branches, Business Course, Shorthand and Typewriting taught. Special class [illegible] from July 1 to September 1. Fifty-four students have taken positions since August 1, 1886. Circulars free.

M. H. DAVIS, Principal, Toledo.

gains

EY'S

URE

WORKMANSHIP.

KINDS

ces for Cash. I keep

RTAKING

f the new INDESTRUCTA lekong in all Branches
ARLE

RE & CO.,

& Co.,

ash and Dr

MATERIAL.

ing to Ord
d Depot.
HIGAN.

Adrian,

Children's Cab

xtures, Etc.

n Southern Mich., and o feet of Flooring in
are for quality.

all competition in low warranted as represe ons to examine

S VERY FINE.

ASKINE.

(THE NEW QUININE.)

GIVES
Good Appetite
New Strength
Quiet Nerves
Happy Days
Sweet Sleep

A POWERFUL TONIC
A SPECIFIC FOR MALARIA, RHEUMATISM, NERVOUS PROSTRATION,
And all germ diseases.
BENEFIT AND SUCCESSFUL
the most delicate stomach will sleep superior to quinine and malaria followed. I got of to be carried up and down
I thought I would die. I have the save me now alive. I am love my husband and of this great and efficient
Mr. Comstock, 120 East 23d St., and despondent, as health and discovered her and every known rem-
I heard of Kaskine,
the health restored
the waste of four years.
Co., N. Y.
Wholesale Druggists.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Promotes a luxuriant growth.
Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color.
Cures scalp diseases & hair falling.
50c. and $1.00 at Druggists.

CORNS.
Soothed, safest and best cure for Corns, Bunions, &c.
Ease to the feet. Never fails.
15 cts. at all Druggists. Hiscox & Co., N. Y.

MARVELOUS
MEMORY
DISCOVERY.
Wholly unlike artificial systems.
Any book learned from one reading.
Recommended by Mark Twain, Richard Proctor, Scientific Horse, W. W. Astor, Judah P. Benjamin, Hon. Jas. W. Nye, Minor, etc. Class of Prof. Columbia Univ. Class of two hundred at Yale University of Penn. Coll., and one at Wellesley, and organized at Chautauqua. Prospectus post free from
PROF. LOISETTE, 237 Fifth Ave., New York.

DEAFNESS Its cause and a new and successful cure at your own home by one who was dear 28 years. Treated by all the noted specialists without benefit. Cured himself in three months, and since thousands of others. Full particulars sent free. NICHOLSON, No. 11 West 31st st., New York City.

Agricultural Implement
DEPOT.
O. A. SLAYTON
Is prepared to sell at lower prices than ever before offered, first-class farm machinery. My stock is complete, but will only mention a few articles.
SOUTH BEND, BURCH, WIARD, GALE, OLIVER. Walking Plows.
THE CASSADY AND SOLID COMFORT SULKY PLOWS.
Kalamazoo Spring Tooth Harrow,
"ACME" PULVERIZING HARROWS.
CULTIVATORS { Elwood, New Robbins, Albion, Buckeye.
Reaper, Mower, Superior, Monitor, Roller, } GRAIN DRILLS
SEMPLE'S MANURE SPREADER.
Studebaker, Jackson and Flint
WAGONS.
BARGAINS IN Carriages and Platform Spring Wagons.
Headquarters for Lime, Cement, Salt, Coal, Hair, Plaster and Plastering Hair, Grain, Flour, Feed, and Field Seeds.

Fire as they enjoy
o Smith's Bull Bears.

The original Photograph panel size, of this picture sent on receipt of 10c. in stamps. Address,
BILL BEARS,
St. Louis, Mo.

Price, 25 cents per box
N. Sold by druggists,
ST. LOUIS, MO.

OLGATE
The Farmers' of Michigan & the States check sugar
MERS' ADVOCATE
SE, which can
AND THE BEST
Price, Etc., Etc., Address
London, Ont., Canada.

HOLIGHAY PRESENTS
G CHA

SCHOOL. will patronize home
Course, Shorthand and st 1, 1888. Special class
H. DAVIS, Principal, Tol

PURCHAS TO SAVE MONEY CATALOGUE OF WARDMAN
PIANOS
IS A PHENOMENON IN PONDERING
AL KEY SUPPORT
ATTACHMENT
PERFECT PIANO IN FOR PRICE
DETROIT
CHARLES
HARRY
MUSIC CO.
DETROIT, MICH.
Catalogue of Sheet Music, Musical Merchandise or Band Instruments, mailed to any address.

Geo. P. Stevens & Co.
PENSIONS! Abstract Building.
DETROIT, MICHIGAN.

N. W. AYER & SON
ADVERTISING AGENTS
NAMES BUILDING PHILADELPHIA
Cor. Chestnut and Eighth Sts.
Advertisements for this Paper.
ESTIMATES For NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING FREE at Lowest Cash Rates.
Address, AYER & SON'S MANUAL

JESS.

BY H. RIDER HAGGARD,

Author of "King Solomon's Mines" "She," Etc.

"It is God's will, uncle," she said, quietly. "You only did what it was ordained that you should do." And then she came and laid her sunny head upon the old man's shoulder and cried a little. [illegible] alone in the world now, and he comforted her as the best fashion he could. It was a curious thing that they neither of them thought much of Jess when they talked thus about being alone. Jess was an entirely separate thing from them. When she was there she was loved and all [illegible] there." she peeped into the face into pure darkness. A wall came down between her and her belongings. Of course they were both very fond of her, but simple, natural people are apt to shield themselves from what they cannot understand, and these two were no exception. For instance, Bessie's affection for her sister was a poor thing compared to the deep and self-sacrificing, though often secret, love that her sister showered upon her. She loved her old uncle far more dearly than she did Jess, and it must be owned that he returned the compliment with interest, and in these days of heavy trouble they drew nearer to each other even than before.

But as time went on they both began to hope again. No further news of John's death reached them. Was it not possible, after all, that the whole story was an invention? They knew that Frank Muller was just a man to hesitate at a lie if he had a purpose to gain, and they could guess in this case what the purpose was. His insinuation for Bessie was, for a week to either of them, and it sickened them at least possible that the tale of John's death might have been invented to forward it. It was not probable, more especially as John was not present to purge his suit, but it was possible, and however cruel such a thing may be, it is at least less absolutely crushing than the direst weight of certainty.

On Monday—it was just a week after the letter came—Bessie was sitting after dinner in the veranda, when her quick ears caught what she took to be the booming of heavy guns far away on the Drakensberg. She rose, and, leaving the house, climbed the hill behind it. On reaching the top she stood and looked at the great solemn stretch of mountains. Away, a little to her right, was a square, precipitous peak called Majuba, which was generally clothed in clouds. To-day, however, there was no mist, and it seemed to her that it was from the direction of this peak that the faint rolling sounds came floating on the breeze. But she could see nothing; the mountain seemed as tenantless and devoid of life as the day when it first towered up upon the face of things created. Presently the sound died away, and she returned, thinking that she must have been deceived by the echoes of some distant thunder storm.

Next day they learned from the natives that what she had heard was the sound of the big guns covering the flight of the British troops down the precipitous sides of Majuba mountain. After this old Silas Croft began to lose heart a little. The rumor of disaster was so universal that even his robust faith in the invincibility of the English arms was shaken.

"It is very strange, Bessie," he said, "very strange; but never mind, it is bound to come right at last. Our government is not going to knock under because they have suffered a few reverses."

Then came a long four weeks of uncertainty. The air was thick with rumors, most of them brought by natives, one or two by passing Boers, to which, however, Silas Croft declined to pay any attention. Soon it became absolutely clear, however, that an armistice was concluded between the English and the Boers, but what were its terms or its object they were quite unable to decide. Silas Croft thought that the Boers, overawed by the advance of an overwhelming force, in and to grace without further fighting, but Bessie shook her head [illegible]

One day—it was the same on which John and Jess had left Pretoria—a Kaffir brought news that the armistice was at an end, that the English were advancing up to the Nek in force and were going to force it on the morrow and relieve the garrison—a piece of intelligence that brought some of the old light back to Bessie's eyes. As for her uncle, he was jubilant.

"The tide is going to turn at last, my lass," he said, "and we shall have our innings. Well, it is time we should, after all the shame and loss and agony of mind we have gone through. Upon my word, for the last two months I have been ashamed to call myself an Englishman. However, there is an end of it now. I knew that they would never give in and desert us," and the old man straightened his crooked back and slapped his chest and looked as proud and gallant as though he were 25 instead of 70.

The rest of that day passed without any further news, and so did the following two, but on the next, which was March 23, the storm broke.

About 11 o'clock in the forenoon Bessie was employed upon her household duties as usual, or rather she had just finished them. Her uncle had returned from making his after breakfast round upon the farm and was standing in the sitting room, his broad felt hat in one hand and a red pocket handkerchief in the other, with which he was polishing his bald head, while he chatted to Bessie through the open door.

"No news of the advance, Bessie dear?"

"No, uncle," she replied, with a sigh, and her blue eyes filling with tears, for she was thinking of one of whom there was also no news.

"Well, never mind. Those things take a little time, especially with our soldiers, who move so slowly. I dare say that there was some delay waiting for guns or ammunition or something. I expect that we shall hear something by tonight"——

He got as far as this, when suddenly the figure of Jantje appeared, flying up the passage in the extremity of terror and haste.

"De Boeren, baas, de Boeren!" (The Boers, master, the Boers) he shouted. "The Boers are coming with a wagon, twenty of them or more," with Frank Muller at their head on his black horse, and Hans Coetzee, and the wizard with one eye with him. I was hiding behind a tree at the end of the avenue, and I saw them coming over the rise. They are going to take th place," and, without waiting to give any further explanations, he slipped through the house and hid himself up somewhere at the back out of the way, for Jantje, like most Hottentots, was a sad coward.

The old man stopped rubbing his head and stared at Bessie, who was standing pale and trembling in the doorway. Just then he heard the patter of running feet on the drive outside, and looked out of the window. It was caused by the passing of some half dozen Kaffirs who were working on the place, and who, on catching sight of the Boers, had promptly thrown down their tools and were flying to the hills. Even as they passed a shot was fired somewhere from the direction of the avenue, and the last of the Kaffirs, a lad of about twelve, suddenly threw up his hands and pitched forward on his face, with a bullet between his shoulderblades.

Bessie heard the shout of "Good shot, good shot!" and the brutal laughter that greeted his fall, and the trampling of the horses as they came up the drive.

"Oh, uncle!" she said, "what shall we do?"

The old man made no answer at the moment. [illegible] upon the wall, reached down a Westley-Richards falling block rifle that hung there. Then he sat down in a wooden arm chair that faced the French windows opening on the veranda, and beckoned to her to come to him.

"We will meet them so," he said. "They [illegible] Don't be frightened, dear; they will not dare to harm us; they will be afraid of the consequences of harming English people."

The words were scarcely out of his mouth when the cavalcade began to appear in front of the window, led, as Jantje had said, by Frank Muller on his black horse, accompanied [illegible] fashion by Hendrik mounted on a nondescript sort of animal, and carrying a gun and an assegai in his hand. Behind these were a body of about fifteen or sixteen men, among whom Silas Croft recognized most of his neighbors by whose side he had fired for years in peace and amity.

Opposite the house they stopped, and began looking about. They could not see into the room at one spot, account of the bright light outside and the shadow within.

"I fancy you will find the birds flown, nephew," said the fat voice of Hans Coetzee. "They have got warning of your little visit."

"They cannot be far," answered Muller. "I have had them watched, and knew that they have not left the place. Get down, uncle, and look in the house, and you too, Hendrik."

The Kaffir obeyed with alacrity, tumbling out of his saddle with all the grace of a sack of corn, but the Boer hesitated.

"Uncle Silas is an angry man," he ventured; "he might shoot if he found me poking about his house."

"Don't answer me!" thundered Muller; "get down and do as I bid you!"

"Ah, what a devil of a man!" murmured the unfortunate Hans as he hurried to obey.

Meanwhile Hendrik the one eyed had jumped upon the veranda and was peering through the windows.

"Here they are, baas; here they are!" he sang out; "the old cock and the pullet, too!" and he gave a kick to the window, which, being unfastened, swung wide open, revealing the old man sitting there in his wooden arm-chair with Bessie standing at his side, his hand on his knees, and holding his fair locked hand by the hand. Frank Muller dismounted and came on to the veranda, and behind him crowded up a dozen or more of his followers.

"What is it that you want, Frank Muller, that you come to my house with all these armed men?" asked Silas Croft from his chair.

"I call upon you, Silas Croft, to surrender to take your trial as a land betrayer and a rebel against the republic," was the answer. "I am sorry," he added, with a bow toward Bessie, on whom his eyes had been fixed all the time, "to be obliged to take you prisoner in the presence of a lady, but my duty gives me no choice."

"I do not know what you mean," said the old man. "I am a subject of Queen Victoria and an Englishman. How then, can I rebel against any republic? I am an Englishman, I say," he went on with rising anger, speaking so high that his powerful voice rang and every Boer there could hear it, "and I acknowledge the authority of no republics. This is my house, and I order you to leave it. I claim my rights as an Englishman"——

"Here," interrupted Muller, coldly, "Englishmen have no rights, except such as we choose to allow them."

"Shoot him!" cried a voice.

"Treat him as Pauker treated Van der Linden at Potchefstroom," cried another.

"Yes, make him swallow the same pill that we gave to Dr. Barber," put in a third.

"Silas Croft, are you going to surrender," asked Muller, in the same cold voice.

"No!" thundered the old man in his English pride. "I surrender to no rebels in arms against the queen. I will shoot the first man who tries to lay a finger on me!" and he rose to his feet and lifted his rifle.

"Shall I shoot him, baas?—shall I shoot him?" asked the one eyed Hendrik, smacking his lips at the thought, and fiddling with the rusty lock of the old fowling piece he carried.

Muller, by way of answer, struck him across the face with the back of his hand. "Hans Coetzee," he said, "go and arrest that man."

Poor Hans hesitated, as well he might. Nature had not endowed him with any great amount of natural courage, and the sight of his old neighbor's rifle barrel made him feel positively sick. He hesitated and began to stammer excuses.

"Are you going, uncle, or must I denounce you to the general as a sympathizer with Englishmen?" asked Muller, in malice, for he knew the old fellow's weaknesses and cowardice, and was playing on them.

"I am going. Of course, I am going, nephew. Excuse me; a little faintness took me—the heat of the sun," he babbled. "Oh, yes, I am going to arrest the rebel. Perhaps one of these young men would not mind engaging his attention on the other side. He is an angry man—I know him of old—and an angry man with a gun, you know, dear nephew"——

"Are you going?" said his terrible master once more.

"Oh, yes! certainly yes. Dear Uncle Silas, pray put down that gun. It is so dangerous. Don't stand there looking like a wild ox, but come up to the yoke. You are old, Uncle Silas, and I don't want to have to hurt you. Come now, come, come," and he held out his hand toward him as though he were a shy horse that he was endeavoring to beguile.

"Hans Coetzee, traitor and liar that you are," said the old man, "if you come a step nearer, by God! I will put a bullet through you!"

"Go on, Hans; chuck a reim over his head; get him by the tail; knock him down with a yokeskei; turn the old bull on his back!" shouted the crowd of scoffers from the window, taking very good care, however, to keep off to the right and left in order to leave room for the expected bullet.

Hans positively burst into tears, and Muller, who was the only one who held his ground, caught him by the arm, and, putting out all his strength, swung him toward Silas Croft.

For reasons of his own he was anxious that the latter should shoot one of them, and to close Hans Coetzee, whom he disliked and despised, for the sacrifice.

Up went the rifle, and at that moment Bessie, who had been standing bewildered, made a dash at it, knowing that bloodshed could only make matters worse. As she did so it exploded, but not before she had shaken her uncle's aim, for instead of killing Hans, as it undoubtedly would otherwise have done, the bullet only cut his ear and then passed out through the open window place. In an instant the room was filled with smoke. Hans Coetzee clapped his hand to his head, and commenced to yell with pain and terror, and in the confusion that ensued three or four men, headed by the Kaffir Hendrik, rushed into the room and sprang upon Silas Croft, who had retreated to the wall and was standing with his back against it, his rifle, which he had clubbed in both his hands, raised above his head.

When his assailants got close to him they hesitated, for, aged and bent as he was, the old man looked like mischief. He stood there like a lion and swung the rifle stock about. Presently one of the men struck at him and missed him, but before he could retreat Silas brought down the stock of his rifle on his head and down he went like an ox beneath the poleax. Then they closed on him, but for a while he kept them off, knocking down another man in his efforts. As he did so the witch doctor, Hendrik, who had been watching for his opportunity, brought down the barrel of his old fowling piece upon Silas' bald head and felled him. Fortunately the [illegible] very heavy one or it would have caved his skull in. As it was it only cut his head open and knocked him down.

AS SHE DID SO IT EXPLODED.

Thereon the whole mass of Boers, with the exception of Muller, who was standing watching, seeing that he was now defenseless, fell upon him and would have blasted him to death had not Bessie precipitated herself upon him with a cry and thrown her arms about him to protect him.

Then Frank Muller interfered, fearing lest she should be hurt. Plunging into the fray with a curse, he exercised his great strength, throwing the men this way and that like ninepins and finally dragging Silas to his feet again.

"Come!" he shouted, "take him out of this," and [illegible] with taunts and obloquy, the poor [illegible], whose fringe of white locks was red with blood, was kicked and dragged and pushed on to the veranda, then off it on to the drive, where he fell over the body of the murdered Kaffir boy, and finally hauled up to the open space by the flagstaff, on which the Union Jack, that he had planted there some two months before, still waved bravely in the breeze. Here he sank down upon the grass, his back against the flagstaff, and asked faintly for some water. Bessie, who was weeping bitterly, and whose heart felt as though it were bursting with anguish and indignation, pushed her way through the men, and, running to the house, got some in a glass and brought it to him. One of the brutes tried to knock it out of her hand, but she avoided him and gave it to her uncle, who drank it greedily.

"Thank you, love, thank you," he said, "don't be frightened, I ain't much hurt. Ah! if only Jantje had been here, and we had had an hour more, we would have held the place against them all."

Meanwhile one of the Boers, getting on the shoulders of another, had succeeded in unfurling the third on which the Union Jack was beat and hauling it down. Then they reversed it and hoisted it half mast high, and began to cheer for the republic.

"Perhaps Uncle Silas does not know that we are a republic again now," said one of the men, a near neighbor of his own, in mockery.

"What do you mean by a republic?" asked the old man. "The Transvaal is a British colony."

There was a hoot of derision at this. "The English government has surrendered," said the same man. "The country is given up, and the British are to evacuate it in six months."

"It is a lie!" said Silas, springing to his feet, "a cowardly lie! Whoever says that the English have given up the country to a few thousand blackguards like you, and deserted its subjects and the loyals and the natives, is a liar—a liar from hell!"

There was another howl of mockery at this outburst, and when it had subsided Frank Muller stepped forward.

"It is no lie, Silas Croft," he said; "and the cowards are not we Boers, who have beaten you again and again, but your soldiers, who have done nothing but run away, and your government, that follows the example of your soldiers. Look here"—and he took a paper out of his pocket—"you know that signature, I suppose; it is one of the triumvirate. Listen to what he says," and he read aloud:

"WELL BELOVED HEER MULLER—This is to inform you that, by the strength of our arms fighting for the right and freedom, and also by the cowardice of the British government, generals and soldiers, we have by the will of the Almighty concluded this day a glorious peace with the enemy. The British government surrenders nearly everything except in the name. The republic is to be established, and the soldiers who are left will leave the land within six months. Make this known to every one, and forget not to thank God for our glorious victories."

The Boers shouted aloud, as well they might, and Bessie wrung her hands. As for the old man, he leaned against the flagstaff, and his gory head sank upon his breast as though he were about to faint. Then suddenly he lifted it, and, with clinched and quivering fists held high in the air, broke out into such a torrent of blasphemy and cursing that even the Boers fell back for a moment, dismayed into silence by the force of the fury wring from him by utter humiliation.

It was an appalling sight to see this good and God fearing old man, his face bruised, his gray hairs dabbled with blood and his clothes nearly rent from his body, stamping and reeling to and fro, blaspheming his Maker and the day that he was born, hurling execrations at his beloved country and the name of Englishman and the government that had deserted him, till at last nature gave out, and he fell in a fit, there, in the very shadow of his dishonored flag.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

BESSIE IS PUT TO THE QUESTION.

Meanwhile another little tragedy was being enacted at the back of the house. After the one eyed witch doctor Hendrik had knocked Silas Croft down and assisted in the pleasing operation of dragging him to the flagstaff, it had occurred to his villainous heart that the present would be a good opportunity to profit personally by the confusion, and possibly to add to the Englishman's misfortunes by doing him some injury on his own account. Accordingly, just before Frank Muller began to read the dispatch announcing the English surrender, he slipped away into the house, which was now totally deserted, to see what he could steal. Passing into the sitting room, he annexed Bessie's gold watch and chain, which was lying on the mantelpiece, a present that her uncle had made her on the Christmas day before the last. Having pocketed this he proceeded to the kitchen, where there was a goodly store of silver forks and spoons that Bessie had been engaged in cleaning that morning, lying on the dresser ready to be put away. These he also transferred, to the extent of several dozens, to the capacious pockets of the tattered military great coat that he wore. While doing so he was much disturbed by the barking of the dog Stomp, the same animal that had [illegible] him so severely a few weeks before and who [illegible] as it happened, tied up in his kennel—an [illegible] drik peeped out of the window, and having ascertained that the dog was secured, proceeded, with a diabolical chuckle, to settle his account with the poor animal. He had left his gun behind on the grass, but he still held his assegai in his hand, and, going out of the kitchen [illegible] in a few feet of the kennel. The dog recognized him instantly, and went nearly mad with fury, making the most desperate efforts to break its chain and get at him. For some moments he stood exciting the animal by derisive gestures and pelting it with stones, till at last, fearing that the clamor would attract attention, and then, thinking that he was quite robbed, sat down and sniffed and enjoyed the luxury of watching the poor beast's last agonies.

But, as it happened, he was not quite alone, for creeping along in the grass and rubbish that grew on the further side of the wall, his brown body squeezed tightly against the brown stems—so tightly that an unpracticed eye would certainly have failed to observe it at a distance of a dozen paces—was the Hottentot Jantje. Occasionally, too, he would lift his head above the level of the wall and observe the proceedings of the one eyed man. Apparently he was undecided what to do, for he hesitated a little, and while he did so Hendrik killed the dog.

Now Jantje had all a Hottentot's natural love for animals, which is, generally speaking, as marked as is the Kaffir's callousness toward them, and he was particularly fond of the dog Stomp, which always went out walking with him on these rare occasions when he brought it safe or desirable to walk like an ordinary man, instead of creeping from bush to bush like a panther, or wriggling through the grass like a snake. The sight of the animal's death, therefore, raised in his black breast a very keen desire for vengeance on the murderer, if vengeance could be safely accomplished; and he paused to reflect if this could be done. As he did so Hendrik got up, gave the dead dog a kick, withdrew his assegai from the carcass, and then as though struck by a sudden desire to conceal the murder, undid the collar, and, lifting the dog in his arms, carried him with difficulty into the house and laid him under the kitchen table. This done he came out again to the wall, which was built of loose, unhewn stones, pulled one out without trouble, deposited the watch and the silver he had stolen in the cavity, and replaced the stone. Next, before Jantje could guess what he meant to do, he proceeded to make it practically impossible for his robbery to be discovered, or, at any rate, very improbable, by lighting a match, and, having first glanced round to see that nobody was looking, reaching up and applying it to the thick thatch with which the house itself was roofed, and of which the fringe just there was not more than nine feet from the ground. Natal had fallen at Modderstein for several days and there had been a hot sun and dry wind, and, as a result, the thatch was as dry as tinder. The light caught in a second, and in two more a thin line of fire was running up the roof.

Hendrik paused, stopped a few paces longer, resting his shoulders against the wall, immediately the other side of which was Jantje, and rubbed his chin the while and [illegible] as he admired the results of his handiwork. This was too much for the Hottentot on the further side. The provocation was too great, and so was the opportunity. In his hand was the thick stick on which he was so fond of cutting notches. Raising it in both hands he brought the heavy knob down with all his strength upon the evil eyed villain's unprotected skull. It was a thick skull, but the knob prevailed against it and fractured it, and down went the estimable witch doctor as though he were dead.

Next, taking a leaf out of his fallen enemy's book, Jantje slipped over the wall, and, seizing the senseless man, dragged him by one arm into the kitchen and rolled him under the table to keep company with the dead dog. Then, filled with a fearful joy, he slipped out, shutting and locking the door behind him, and crept round to a point of vantage in a little plantation seventy or eighty yards to the right of the house, whence he could watch the conflagration that he knew must ensue, for the fire had taken instant and irremediable hold, and also see what the Boers were doing.

Ten minutes or so afterward that amiable character Hendrik partially regained his senses, to find himself surrounded by a sea of fire, in which he perished miserably, not having power to move, and his feeble cries being totally swallowed up and lost in the fierce roaring of the flames, even had there been anybody there to hear them. And that was the very appropriate end of Hendrik and the magic of Hendrik.

Down by the flagstaff the old man lay in his fit, with Bessie tending him and a posse of Boers standing round, smoking and laughing or lounging about with an air of lordly superiority well worthy of victors in possession.

"Will none of you help me to take him to the house?" she cried. "Surely you have ill treated an old man enough."

Nobody stirred, not even Frank Muller, who was gazing at her tear stained face with a fierce smile playing round the corners of his clean cut mouth, which his beard was trimmed to leave clear.

"It will pass, Miss Bessie," he said; "it will pass. I have often seen such fits. They come from too much excitement, or too much drink"——

Suddenly he broke off with an exclamation, and pointed to the house, from the roof of which pale curls of blue smoke were rising.

"Who has fired the house?" he shouted. "By Heaven! I will shoot the man."

The Boers started round and stared in astonishment, and as they did so the tinder like roof burst into a broad sheet of flame that grew and gathered breadth and height with an almost marvelous rapidity. Just then, too, a light breeze sprang up from over the hill at the rear of the house, as it sometimes did at this time of the day, and bent the flames over toward them in an ominous arch of fire, so that the fumes and heat and smoke began to beat upon their faces.

"Oh, the house is burning down!" cried Bessie, utterly bewildered by this new misfortune.

"Here, you!" shouted Muller to the gaping Boers, "go and see if anything can be saved. Fiew! we must get out of this," and, stooping down, he picked up Silas Croft in his arms and walked off with him, followed by Bessie, toward the plantation on their left, which was the same where Jantje had taken refuge. In the center of this plantation was a little glade surrounded by young orange and blue gum trees. Here he put the old man down upon a bed of dead leaves and soft, springy grass, and then hurried away, without a word, to the fire, only to find that the house was utterly unapproachable. In fifteen minutes, such was the rapidity with which the flames did their work upon the mass of dry straw and the wooden roof and floorings beneath, the whole of the interior of the house was a glowing, incandescent pile, and in half an hour it was completely gutted, nothing being left standing but the massive outer walls of stone, over which a dense column of smoke hung like a pall. Moolfontein was a blackened ruin; only the stables and outhouses, which were roofed with galvanized iron, being left unhurt.

Frank Muller had not been gone five minutes when, to Bessie's joy, the uncle opened his eyes and sat up.

"What is it?" he said. "Ah! I recollect. What is [illegible] this smell of fire? Surely they have not burned the place."

"Yes, uncle," sobbed Bessie, "they have."

The old man groaned. "It took me ten [illegible] stone, and now they have destroyed it. Well, why not? God's will be done. Give me your arm, love; I want to get to the water. I feel faint and sick."

She did as he bade her, sobbing bitterly. Within fifteen yards, on the edge of the plantation, [illegible] made of [illegible] he fresh copious and hideously wounded head and face.

"There, love," he said, "don't fret. I feel quite myself again. I fear I made a fool of myself. I have to learn to bear misfortune and discover as I should yet, and, like Job, I bless the name of God, land Kaffirs. Bless I said, this will be done. What is the next move, I wonder? Ah! we shall soon know, for here comes our friend Frank Muller."

"I am glad to see that you have recovered, uncle," said Muller, politely, "and I am sorry to have to tell you that the house is beyond help. Believe me, if I knew who fired it I would shoot him. It was not my wish or intention that the property should be destroyed."

The old man merely bowed his head and made no answer. His fiery spirit seemed to be crushed out of him.

"What is [illegible] your pleasure that we should do, sir?" said Bessie at last. "Perhaps, now that we are ruined, you will allow us to go to Natal, which, I suppose, is still an English

[Continued.]

[illegible] Very [illegible] Not only [illegible] thousands of letters and testimonies leading from them.

Which first and foremost is a deep seated cough, which might not to be there, your lungs cannot half do their work. And what they do, they cannot do well.

Call it cold, cough, croup, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption or any of the family of throat and nose and head and lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be got rid of. There is just one sure way to get rid of them. That is to take Boschee's German Syrup, which any druggist will sell you at 75 cents a bottle. Even if every thing else has failed you, you may depend upon this for certain.

Hoarseness.

I have suffered greatly from periodical returns of hay fever. At the suggestion of Lucas & Conover, Druggists I obtained Ely's Cream Balm, and used a portion of it during a severe attack. I can cheerfully testify as to its immediate and permanent relief obtained by its use. I heartily recommend it to those suffering from this or kindred complaints.—Rev. H. A. Stimson, Clinton, Wis.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is a peculiar medicine, and is carefully prepared by competent pharmacists. The combination and proportion of Sarsaparilla, Dandelion, Mandrake, Yellow Dock, and other remedial agents is exclusively peculiar to Hood's Sarsaparilla, giving it strength and curative power superior to other preparations. A trial will convince you of its great medicinal value. Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Purifies the Blood

creates and sharpens the appetite, stimulates the digestion, and gives strength to every organ of the body. It cures the most severe cases of Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Boils, Pimples, and all other affections caused by impure blood. Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Headache, Kidney and Liver Complaints, Catarrh, Rheumatism, and that extreme tired feeling.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla has helped me more for catarrh and impure blood than anything else I ever used." A. BALL, Syracuse, N. Y.

Creates an Appetite

"I used Hood's Sarsaparilla to cleanse my blood and tone up my system. It gave me a good appetite and seemed to build me over." E. M. HALE, Lima, Ohio.

"I took Hood's Sarsaparilla for cancerous humor, and it began to act unlike anything else. It cured the humor, and seemed to tone up the whole body and give me new life." J. E. NIXON, Cambridgeport, Mass. Send for book giving statements of cures.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1. Six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

WONDERFUL
SUCCESS.
ECONOMY IS WEALTH.
At the LATTERING [illegible] during the year for [illegible] at a cost of from $810 to $1,010 by sales [illegible]

THE TECUMSEH HERALD
AND
Demorest's Illustrated Monthly Magazine
With Twelve Dress or Cut Paper Patterns of your own selection, [illegible]
BOTH PUBLICATIONS ONE YEAR,
$3.00 (THREE DOLLARS).

DEMOREST'S THE BEST
Of all the Magazines.
Contains Serials, Forty [illegible] Literary Articles, [illegible]
Illustrated with Original Steel Engravings, Photogravures, [illegible] Fashions and fine Wonderful [illegible] Model Magazine of the [illegible]
Each Mag. [illegible] giving its body to the world [illegible] in the fish on [illegible] and in size of the sizes [illegible] patterns [illegible] dollars.
DEMOREST'S MAGAZINE [illegible] entitled the World's Model Magazine. The Largest in Form, the Largest in Circulation, [illegible] best TWO Dollar Family Magazine issued. 1887 will be the Twenty-third year of its publication. It is continually improved and so attractive as to place it at the head of Family Periodicals. It contains 72 pages, large quarto, 8½x11½ inches, elegantly printed and fully illustrated. Published by W. Jennings Demorest, New York.

AND BY SPECIAL AGREEMENT COMBINED WITH THE
Tecumseh Herald at $3.00 Per Year.

Tecumseh Herald

TECUMSEH, MICH., AUG. 12, 1887.

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO

The First Newspaper West of the Alleghanies—Established One Hundred Years Ago This Month.

One of the best things that can be [illegible] a free press. No man has to be [illegible] elected by the government to print a book or publish a newspaper. It is circumscribed by no laws except natural selection. Any one can start a paper at any time, say almost anything he desires to say, and if it chooses not to be suppressed there is no power to suppress him except a "military necessity" and once in a great while under pretence.

To make the press absolutely free especially after the conferring of the franchise over it, was an act of wisdom transcending in importance the original invention of movable types. The enjoyment of a free press means free speech, free schools, free religion, the greatest and best of all free things. If our government endures, as the people continue free, here will be one of the reasons thereof. Thomas Jefferson, who penned the Declaration of Independence, one of the grandest documents that ever fell from the pen of mortal man, wrote [illegible] "If I had to choose between a government without newspapers, or newspapers without a government, I should prefer the latter." The Rev. Mr. Talmage in a recent sermon said: "If a man should from childhood to college see only his Bible, Webster's Dictionary, and the Bible, Webster's Dictionary, he would be prepared for all the issues of this life, or all the happiness of the next." Said Daniel Webster: "I care not how unpretending a newspaper may be, every issue contains something that is worth the subscription price." Thanks, then, a million thanks, for the revolutionary sires for giving us the great boon of a free press.

Westward the press, with the star of empire, made its way, and contributed its part toward planting the standard of civilization in the Dark and Bloody Ground. On the 11th day of August, 1787, now a hundred years ago, was given to the public the first number of the first newspaper published west of the Alleghanies, unless we except one established at Pittsburg a few weeks before. The founding of the newspaper and the printing press is an era always [illegible] where, and among any people. In a young and fast growing [illegible] it is an event of great importance to the future, for in it, [illegible] other institutions and [illegible] possibilities for good, and [illegible] was, [illegible] evil. It was the [illegible] in Kentucky, then [illegible] of Virginia. The people of Kentucky were seriously discussing the propriety of separating from Virginia, and setting up an independent state government, and to that end a convention had been held in Danville, the territorial capital. A second convention assembled there in 1785, for the same purpose, and during its sitting it adopted the following resolution: "That to insure unanimity in the opinion of the people respecting the propriety of separating the district of Kentucky from Virginia and forming a separate state government, and to give publicity to the proceedings of the convention, it is deemed essential to the interests of the country to have a printing press."

The convention appointed a committee to carry out the spirit of the resolution, but it was two years before the matter was accomplished.

The paper was established by John Bradford at Lexington, then the most important town west of the mountains. Mr. Bradford proposed to the convention committee to establish a paper on the condition that the convention would "guarantee to him the public patronage." The convention readily accepted his proposition, and preparations were at once begun to inaugurate the important enterprise. The people of Lexington and the surrounding country manifested their interest in the matter by the most substantial encouragement. The Lexington board of trustees in July, 1786, ordered, "That the use of a public lot be granted to John Bradford free on condition that he establish a printing-press in Lexington." Bradford sent to Philadelphia for the material, but it did not arrive until in the following summer, when it was put in order, and the first issue of the Kentucky Gazette (Aug. 11, 1787) was given to the community. It was printed in the style of the times of being issued for 8, and the subscription price was placed at eighteen shillings per annum. The first number was a small, unpretending sheet, scarcely so large as a half sheet of foolscap. Its contents comprised two short original articles, one advertisement and the following note from the editor:

My customers will excuse this, my first publication, as I am much hurried to get an impression by the time appointed. A great part of the types fell into pi in the carriage of them from Limestone to this office, and my partner, which who is the only assistant I have, is yet in a state of insensibility, in consequence of a fever and fatigue of the body, has been incapable of rendering the smallest assistance for ten days past.

JOHN BRADFORD.

When we consider the mode of transportation [illegible] dangers attending it "by flood and field," the fact that "a great part of the types fell into pi" is no matter of wonder. They had to be transported overland from Philadelphia to Pittsburg, and from [illegible] River by that a dangerous voyage, as it proved to many a band of pioneers, to Limestone, now the flourishing little city of Maysville, Kentucky. In every copse, behind almost every tree, from Limestone to Lexington, lurked unseen danger, scarcely a rod of the distance but was stained with the blood of the red man or that of his pale-faced foe. Along this dangerous trail, where ever and anon was heard the crack of the Indian's rifle or his blood-curdling yell, Bradford's types and press were transported on pack-horses to the metropolis of Kentucky. What wonder then that the types were "pied," or that they arrived at their destination at all?

John Bradford, the pioneer editor of the West, was a native of Virginia, and was born in Fauquier County in 1749. He received a good practical education which, combined with strong common sense made him a leader among his fellows. He served in the Revolutionary War, and after it was over in 1783 he emigrated to Kentucky with his family, and settled in Fayette County; the next year he removed to Lexington, where the remainder of his life was spent. He was a practical printer, as was his father before him, and he brought up his sons to the same business. The next year after he established the Gazette, he published the "Kentucky Almanac," the first pamphlet printed west of the mountains, and the annual publication of which he continued for twenty years. Mr. Bradford, as may be seen from the old files of the Gazette, was not a brilliant editor, but, what was better for the times in which he lived, he was a man of practical sense and sterling honesty. He held many positions of trust and honor. He was long chairman of the board of trustees of Transylvania University; he was the first, state printer, and received from the state government "one hundred pounds sterling as the emoluments of the office." He printed books as early as 1789, and some of his early publications are still to be seen in both private and public libraries. His mind was so well stored with useful and valuable information that he was considered the town oracle, and from his decisions on local topics there was no appeal. The great confidence the people had in his judgment was for him the sobriquet of "Old Wisdom," a title well merited. He was high sheriff of Fayette County at the time of his death, which occurred in March, 1801. Circuit court was in session at the time, and the presiding judge alluded to his death in eloquent terms, and adjourned court in respect to his memory.

The editorial surroundings of Mr. Bradford would contrast strangely with the princely style of the great metropolitan journals of the present day. His printing office was a rude log cabin. He printed his paper upon an old-fashioned, unwieldy hand press, which he had purchased at second hand in Philadelphia, and which, when pushed to its full capacity, would probably turn off from fifty to seventy-five sheets per hour. When he wrote at night it was by a firewood light, a tear grease lamp, or a buffalo tallow candle. His "editor's easy chair" was a three legged stool, and his editorial table corresponded in style. An ink-horn and a rifle comprised the rest of his office furniture. The advertisements to be seen in the old numbers of the Gazette are quaint as was the office and its equipments. Spinning wheels, knee buckles, buck skin for breeches, gun flints, hair powder, saddle-bag locks, were advertised. A notice states that, "Persons who subscribe to the frame meeting-house can pay in cattle or whisky." Another notice warns the public not to "tamper with corn or potatoes" at a certain place, as they had been "poisoned to trap some vegetable stealing Indians." The following appears above the signature of Charles Bland: "I will not pay a note given to Wm. Turner for three second rate cows till he returns the rifle, blanket, and tomahawk I loaned him." The Constitution of the United States is published, with a note to the public, that it is "just framed by the grand convention now in session." The early files show a great dearth of local items. But this is not strange when we remember that there were then no steamboat or railroad accidents—not even steamboats or railroads—and that there was no telegraph connecting the different centers of civilization like spider webs; but that the editor's steamboat, railroad, telegraph and mail carrier, were all comprised in a pack mule.

John Bradford's name was connected with the press of Lexington in one capacity or another, almost to the time of his death. He conducted the Gazette with great energy until 1802 when he turned it over to his son, Daniel Bradford, and he took charge of the Kentucky Herald, the second paper established in the West. This paper he absorbed, and finally emerged it into the Gazette, and he again became the editor. In 1809 he sold the paper to Thomas Smith, who conducted it until 1814, when it again passed into the hands of the Bradfords. In 1825 the original founder of the Gazette, John Bradford again assumed its editorship, but in 1829, George J. Trotter, a man of considerable brilliance, became editor. In 1830 John Bradford had died in 1830 once more assumed control, but in 1840 sold out to Joshua Cunningham, of Louisville, who conducted it until 1848, when its publication ceased, after a career of sixty years.

During the existence of the Kentucky Gazette, political feeling at times ran very high, and the Gazette was no neutral organ in the discussion of the questions which agitated the public. In the Jackson campaigns it was an ardent supporter of old Hickory, and it [illegible] Whigs like battering rams. In 1829 Thomas B. Benning, the editor was shot dead on account of intense political publications in his paper. After his death George J. Trotter became editor. He was a brilliant writer, and during his editorial career the paper wielded a greater influence probably than at any other period of its existence.

The old citizens of Lexington relate many interesting incidents of John Bradford. One will suffice to embellish this sketch. John Bradford and the great statesman Henry Clay, whose home was at Lexington, although usually on opposite sides of the political fence, were socially the warmest friends. Like many of the early citizens of central Kentucky, they were, in their younger days, fond of cards, and in their social games they sometimes bet to excess. One evening, during an interesting game, betting ran unusually high, and when they quit play Clay had won $40,000 from Bradford. The next day Bradford met him, when the following conversation occurred:

"Clay, what are you going to do about that money you won last night? My entire property won't pay the half of it."

"Oh," said Clay, "give me your note for $500, and let the balance go."

The note was given, and in a few nights they got into another game, when the fortunes of war changed, and Bradford came out $60,000 winner. When they met next day, nearly the same conversation occurred as on a previous occasion, but Bradford settled it by saying, "Oh, give me back my note for $500, and we'll call it square."

The second paper in Kentucky and the West was also established at Lexington. For a number of years after settlements began to be made in Kentucky, Lexington was the metropolis. It was the first capital after the state was admitted into the Union, and was the leading town, not only of Kentucky but all the Western country. It was the great commercial center, and Cincinnati, Vincennes, St. Louis and Kaskaskia, for years, did their wholesale buying of goods in its markets. Thus, it became a place of business enterprise and industry. Its second newspaper was started in 1795, three years after Kentucky was admitted as a state into the Federal Union. It was called Stewart's Kentucky Herald, and was established by James H. Stewart. Its publication was continued for about ten years, when it was absorbed by the Bradfords and the Kentucky Gazette.

The Herald was a paper of considerable ability for that early period. It crossed swords with the Gazette, and their contests became often sharp and bitter, and were waged by both sides with hearty and vigorous blows. It finally became apparent to the shrewd and observant Bradford, that the surest way of silencing the enemy's guns, was to capture them. With this end in view, he purchased the Herald and merged it into the Gazette. In 1798 William Hunter established the Kentucky Mirror at Washington, a town situated some four miles from the city of Maysville. In 1796 he established the Palladium in Frankfort, the present capital of the state.

The papers thus far enumerated comprised the Western press up to the year 1800. Since then it has kept pace with the marvellous march of civilization, and has prospered; and it is no vain boast to say that to-day the press of Kentucky—the first-born of the new confederation of the states—is second to that of no state in the Union.—American Magazine of History for August.

OBITUARY.

Died in Clinton on Aug. 12th, after a long and painful illness of more than a year, Mr. Wm. P. Silvers a highly respectable and prominent citizen, aged 54 years. Mr. S. was born at Seneca Falls, N. Y., Oct. 3d, 1832. When 4 months old his parents removed to Michigan and settled on a farm adjoining the one where he lived at the time of his death. His occupation was that of farmer, and of late years he has been identified in the banking business in this village. Strict honor and integrity in all business transactions were marked characteristics of the man. Mr. S. leaves a widow and three children, two sons and a daughter, who are sorely afflicted in the loss of an affectionate husband and father. The funeral was at his late residence, on Sunday, Aug. 14th, Rev. G. E. Peters of Detroit, officiating. A very large attendance of neighbors and citizens from this and adjoining counties attest the high esteem in which he was held.

GOT THE BEST OF THE DOCTOR.

W. F. Beyer, Garretsville, Ohio, says: "My wife has been troubled with Catarrh a long time, but have, with what remedies we had, and what the doctor could do, kept the upper hand of it until this fall, when everything failed. Her throat was raw as far as one could see, with an incessant cough when I invested my dollar in a bottle of your Papillon Catarrh Cure as a last resort. To-day she is free from cough, throat all healed and entirely cured." Papillon (extract of flax) Catarrh Cure effects cures when all others fail. Large bottles $1.00.

For sale by A. S. Doty.

A bowl of good pea soup as satisfying as a hearty dinner on a cold day. To make a gallon of it, wash a pint of peas and soak them over night; then boil in five pints of water, gently simmering three hours or so, until thoroughly soft. With a potato-masher rub the soup through a colander or wire sieve. A pound of beef or ham bone may be boiled with the peas. The soup may be seasoned in various ways—with onions, cloves, pepper, etc.

AS TO BATHING SUITS.

A subscriber in Michigan turns to us for information. Here is what the postal card says:

Our Sabbath school is expecting to get up an excursion to Presque Isle the latter part of August, and our girls want to try the surf bathing of Maumee bay. Please tell us what we must wear for bathing suits. MINNIE.

When one has written all day upon politics, Foraker's fire, Sherman's ice, Jim Brown's black eye, Ford's diamonds and Hillhead Baker, it is with great relief he turns to a subject full of [illegible] Presque Isle bathing suit. And as a preface we are glad to see the Sabbath-school of Michigan come to Toledo for recreation and baths. There are some deacons up that way, who to our certain knowledge, have not had a good bath in twenty years, and if they can do no better we advise them to borrow Noah Swayne's ample suit and go into the surf as one man; the suit will hold a score of them easily, and leave plenty of room for slashing around. Then surf-bathing at Presque Isle is probably the highest grade of surf bathing in the world. Nothing on the ocean can compare with it. The waves come rolling up the shore bringing dead cat fish, empty beer bottles, old boots, bustles, and now and then indications of natural gas, until the whole air and shore is full of wild poetry. But to bathing suits.

We confess there are subjects with which we are more familiar than with the cut of bathing suits. We have tried to secure from our best judges their views on the matter, and if Minnie will study these carefully she cannot go amiss. Probably no one here delights so much to have in the Maumee surf as does that sly politician, C. P. Griffin. He loves water to such an extent that he perspires at the thoughts of it. We asked him to give us his experience on bathing suits. "My bathing suit," said he, and he said it deliberately, "is a silk handkerchief tied over my head; the flies do pester me awfully." Probably Mr. Griffin has become bald in his efforts to go to Columbus, but Minnie is neither bald nor red headed. John Oswald has an eye for the picturesque and has been visiting the fashionable resorts at Point Place and Goose Island, but all we could gather from Mr. Oswald was that bathing suits were generally considered unnecessary. This may be the case at the Magnolia dock, but in Blissfield they are still somewhat old-fashioned. Manager Tillotson was seen last. With that promptness characteristic of all great men he removed one ear from John Jacobi while we poured our questions into it. "All she needs," says he, dodging about to keep Jacobi out of that ear, "all she needs is protection for her feet, good rubbers; send 15 kegs and let me alone." Part of this remark was for Jacobi. Mr. Tillotson must be mistaken about Minnie. She could not enjoy the surf robed only in rubber sandals, silk handkerchief and her innocence. She will need in addition to these a bangle necklace and an umbrella, and Captain Stoddard will show her how to hide herself in a cork life-preserver. Come along, Minnie, the surf is sighing to embrace you.—Toledo Bee.

James B. Hause, of Clinton was in town on business, Wednesday.

Would You Believe It?

That we are authorized by the proprietor of Kemp's Sarsaparilla to refund the money to any one who has taken three-fourths of a bottle without relief? We are positive that no other proprietor has the confidence in his medicine to do this. It is for enriching, cleansing and purifying the blood and toning up the system. Price $1.00. Call at our store. Respectfully,

Baker & Hall.

FULL WEIGHT PURE

DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER

MOST PERFECT MADE

Used by the United States Government. Endorsed by the heads of the Great Universities as the Strongest, Purest, and most Healthful. Dr. Price's the only Baking Powder that does not contain Ammonia, Lime or Alum. Sold only in cans. PRICE BAKING POWDER CO. NEW YORK. CHICAGO. ST. LOUIS.

N. W. AYER & SON

ADVERTISING AGENTS

TIMES BUILDING PHILADELPHIA

Cor. Chestnut and Eighth Sts.

Receive Advertisements for this Paper.

ESTIMATES For NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING at Lowest Cash Rates FREE

Send 10c in stamps for AYER & SON'S MANUAL

EVERYTHING

EVERYTHING

EVERYTHING

AT AND BELOW COST FOR 30 DAYS

To make room for Fall Stock we will offer extraordinarily low prices until Sept. 1st.

Suits 25 per cent. off.

Pants 25 per cent. off.

Children's Clothing 25 per cent. off.

Everything pertaining to men's wear at correspondingly low prices. Now is the time to procure a winter outfit cheap.

STRONG & McNAIR

WE HAVE JUST RECEIVED WE HAVE

ANOTHER FINE LOT OF

CANNED CHICKEN, TURKEY, HAM, BEEF, MEAT

SALMON,

SARDINES,

PICKELS,

MUSTARDS,

RELISHES AND SAUCES.

Also a full line of

FRESH AND CANNED FRUITS.

H. E. ANDERSON.

A Great Offer!

PATTERN FREE.

A HANDSOME GIFT TO OUR LADY READERS

Frederica Jacket.

In our issue of Aug. 5, we shall print a coupon order entitling the holder to a paper pattern of the above jacket, in sizes for 32, 36, 38 or 40 inches in bust measure. A pattern of this garment is very useful to any lady, as by simply leaving off the revers a plain jacket is made, which is always desirable and is just such a pattern as every lady should have in her collection. We have made arrangements with a New York house to furnish these patterns in the sizes as above, so that the holder of the Coupon Order may have the size she may desire. This great offer, as each pattern has a full value of 25 cts., being accompanied by an illustration and explicit directions for putting together and making.

LADIES Do not fail to buy our issue of AUG. 25, and cut out the order which will entitle you to this excellent pattern FREE

TEMPLE, McCLURE & CO.

Successors to

Wolcott, Temple & Co.

Wholesale and Retail Dealers in

Lumber, Lath, Shingles, Sash and

AND ALL KINDS OF BUILDING MATERIAL

Planing, Sawing, Matching to Order

Mill and Yard North of Railroad Depot.

TECUMSEH, MICHIGAN.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

BOARDERS WANTED. I will take boarders by the day or week, at reasonable rates. Call at my house on Logan st.
MRS. LYMAN THORPE.

LOST.—Between my residence and McClure's grocery store, a gray shawl of one fold. The finder will please return to the undersigned.
JAMES VAN ANTWERP.

NEW STAGE LINE.—I have rigged up a fine spring wagon which I will run to Sand Lake during the season. Will make a specialty of private parties and will go any day in the week parties may wish. Fare for the trip, 50 cts. Leave word at my house or at Strong & McNair's store.
B. B. WESTCOTT.

LOST.—While going to the fire yesterday, a [illegible] attached, and sea bean charm. Finder will oblige a favor by leaving it at the
HERALD OFFICE.

FOR SALE.—I have for sale 40 acres of timber land situated in section one of the town of Ridgeway. Parties desiring to buy may have either the timber alone, or both together. For further information enquire of
GEO. PRICE, Tecumseh.

25 YARDS OF NEW RAG CARPET for sale. Enquire of
MRS. M. P. BROWN.

TAKE NOTICE.—Having decided to move from Tecumseh I shall be greatly obliged all who are indebted to me if they will call at Justice Burridge's law office and make a settlement as soon as possible.
R. B. HOUSE.
July 8th, 1887.

A GOOD CHANCE.—Owing to the continued illness of my mother, I am compelled to dispose of my Confectionery, Ice Cream and Restaurant business, and return east. It is useless to dwell on the merits of the business everyone can see for themselves what it is. I will sell for cash or give time on part payment with good security.
I. G. RAWSON.

PURE CIDER VINEGAR.—I have a quantity of pure cider vinegar for sale
ABNER WILSON.

FOR SALE.—A desirable residence corner Pearl and Shawnee sts. Enquire on the premises.
P. C. TEMPLE.

FOR SALE.—The property opposite the HERALD office now used as a saloon and restaurant, and also the house and lot next north of Palmer's furniture factory. The title to the above property is all right, and terms and payment will be made to suit purchaser. For particulars enquire at
HERALD OFFICE.

STRAYED OR STOLEN.—A red heifer 3 years old from my pasture in Raisin, about June 20. Any information leading to its recovery will be suitably rewarded.
GEO. HOLLOWAY.

FOR SALE.—I offer my place for sale cheap, located just west of Abner Wilson's farm on the Macon turnpike, in Tecumseh. Good house, cistern and two acres of land. For price, terms, etc., call on Abner Wilson or on the undersigned on the premises. Household goods will also be sold.
WILLIAM SMITH.

TO SAND LAKE.—I will run a carriage from Tecumseh to Sand Lake on
—EVERY DAY—
of each week until further notice.
Fare, 50 cents for the round trip. Parties wishing passage will be called for at their residence if leave orders at the postoffice.
ASA BOWE.

STEEL SCUFFLERS.—An indispensible tool for farmers and gardeners for attacking market and other cultivators. Made from best spring steel, and warranted to work.
W. P. DEMING, Tecumseh, Mich.

WANTED.—One agent in each of the following counties, viz.: Hillsdale, Monroe, Washtenaw and Lenawee, to sell my spring bed with elevated head rest. Best bed made. Covered by patent. Exclusive sale to Agent. For terms apply to
J. S. KINNEY, Tecumseh.

Miss Allen Todd, of Adrian, is visiting friends in Tecumseh.

Miss Mana Monaghan has been visiting at Adrian during the past week.

Geo. Duke arrived home this week from Mexico, where he has been for the past eight years.

Tecumseh 7, Clinton 7, was what the base ball bulletin contained last Tuesday. The game was played at Clinton.

District Mgr. Jno. Mason, of Adrian, is in town to-day repairing numerous telephones that were damaged during the recent storms.

W. E. Allen, a brother of our station agent Frank Allen, took the job of operator at Battle Creek a week ago Sunday. This is a good selection.

B. F. Reynolds probably has the largest wood pile in the county, if not in the state. It covers nearly half an acre of ground and can be seen at his city residence. Don't think that he intends to burn it himself for you will get left. It is for sale by the cord.

H. C. Daniels of Franklin, brought into our office to-day, a curiosity in the shape of Egyptian corn. It is something not generally grown in this vicinity, the stalk being about four feet in length with the grain on the extreme top. Mr. Daniels obtained the seed in California, and raised a small quantity as an experiment.

The annual Sunday school picnic at Devil's Lake, will occur Wednesday Aug. 31. Everybody is invited to participate. The picnickers will go on the regular train in the morning and return on a special train. Fare for round trip 30c. Allen's grove has been engaged and the steamboats will carry passengers around the lake for hops.

15th Annual Picnic of the Farmers' Picnic Association of Hillsdale and Lenawee Co's. Thursday, Aug. 25, Beardsell's landing, Devil's lake. Gov. Luce will be present and deliver the address. The fleet of steamers on the lake, sail and tow boats, the spacious grounds, will all contribute to the pleasures of the day. A band of martial music will be in attendance.

PROGRAM.

Called to order by the President.
Singing.
Prayer by Rev. John Shepard.
Reading of the minutes of last meeting.
Address of Welcome by the Pres.
Music by the band.
Address by Gov. Luce.
Singing.
Address by Pres. Willitts, of the Agricultural College.
Music by the band.
Address by H. C. Pratt, of Fairfield.
Song.
Remarks by Hons. J. K. Boies, G. A. Smith and others.
Music by the Band.
Election of officers for the ensuing year.

THE TECUMSEH HERALD

TECUMSEH, MICH., AUG. 18, 1887.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

C. D. Bills was in town the first of the week.

[illegible] has taken a clerkship in Adams' Novelty Store.

Will Anderson and son Burr took in the sights at Toledo last Monday.

Oscar Heck will occupy the pulpit at the Baptist church next Sunday.

Several telephones in Tecumseh were burned out last Monday morning.

Edgar Ide is out from Detroit circulating around on the old stamping ground.

H. F. Whitmore of Columbus, N. Y., is visiting his sister, Mrs. J. M. Erskine.

Miss Nellie Lanning of Detroit, is visiting at O. M. Palmer's in Tecumseh this week.

Chas. Thompson and Burt Garlinghouse have been taking a week's vacation at the lakes.

Miss Hattie Whittier visited Miss Cyntia Monaghan at Sand Lake a few days last week.

Mrs. Ellen McCaughan returned Saturday from a three weeks visit to her daughter in Brooklyn.

Jay Santus of Ridgeway, got home from Florida last Saturday. He is looking much better than last fall. His winter in Florida evidently agreed with him.

Another boot and shoe merchant arrived in town last Thursday evening. He is rather small as he only weighs 9 pounds, but will make business lively for Jim Wilson in the years come.

The guests at Allen's Devils Lake House have named the new fast train over the Mackinaw, the "Chicago Flier." At Toledo they call it the "Cannon Ball" train. It merits both appellations.

H. S. Ludeman started on Monday to drive to Norwalk. He will make the trip in three days, stopping the first night at Toledo and the second night at Fremont. The whole distance is 92 miles.

H. U. Matthews and wife of Muskegon, came to Tecumseh last week on a sad errand—to bury their little son. Usher has obtained a few days leave of absence, and they will remain here until the last of this week.

The HERALD job rooms this week turn out an elegant eight page program for circulation at the Peoples' Union Picnic to-day. It is one of the finest jobs of the kind ever turned out of this office.

Geo. H. Miles, of the Detroit Tribune, was in town yesterday forenoon and favored the HERALD with a call. Mr. Miles likes his present position and thinks it more congenial work than running the Clinton Local.

The following teachers from Tecumseh attended the Institute at Adrian, last week: Rose Hendershot, Fanny Prichard, Ada and Clara Waldron, Lilly Brown, Nanny Kyle, Hettie and Edna McClue and Arthur Hall.

The new fast train over the Mackinaw line is destined to become a very popular one. Eight tickets were sold last week—the first week the train ran over the road, from Tecumseh to Chicago, four by station agent Allen and four by uptown agent A. E. Kennedy.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Root and Miss Jennie Root started last Tuesday on a two week's trip to Petoskey, Mackinaw and other resorts in that vicinity. They have selected about the best season of the year for a journey to that section. But who will run the Globe Mill while Jerry is gone?

The Cincinnati, Jackson & Mackinaw Railroad, desires to contract 200 miles of Fencing, 15 Depot Buildings, 15 Tool Houses, and 24 Stock Yards. Parties desiring to contract such work will do well to put in their proposals early, either to J. W. Rimey, Van Wert, O., or J. M. C. Marble, Toledo, Ohio.

Will Anderson did not go to Toledo last Monday for the exclusive purpose of seeing the sights. Oh, no. Will always combines business with pleasure, as will be seen by a glance inside of his grocery store. We stepped in there yesterday and saw the finest display of fruits in the village, including oranges, lemons, plums, grapes, peaches, bananas, melons, etc. The sight of them makes a man hungry.

Mrs Rose Hawthorne Lathrop tells a short story in the September AMERICAN. The gift of graceful narrative in the Hawthorne family is evidently not confined to the male line. Bessie Chandler and Mrs. Champney also contribute complete stories. An interesting sketch is given of the life of the great Methodist orator, Bishop Simson. "The Household" department contains the ripe suggestions of a physician of experience, for preserving health in September. The Portfolio, illustrated, has an account of Mr. and Mrs. Hannibal Hawkins' wedding day.

Miss McBride of Dundee, is visiting her cousin, Mamie Haight, this week.

B. P. Anderson is seriously ill. His place at the store is filled by Horace Weller.

Mr. Thos. Knouse died at his residence in this village Tuesday afternoon.

Rev. E. Abbing [illegible] two weeks vacation from his pastoral duties at Elyria O.

Mrs. Frank Wooster, of Mexico, is in Tecumseh visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jno Boland.

The rain of last Sunday and Monday did an immense amount of good, but the farmers are already crying for more.

Mr. and Mrs. Lavern Ide of Detroit are spending the present week very pleasantly among their old Tecumseh friends.

Mrs. B. D. Palmer of St. Johns, a sister of Dr. H. L. Stewart's, is making the Doctor's family a visit of two or three weeks.

Alvinza Whelan of Franklin, started Tuesday for Petoskey to remain during the hay fever season. He will remain there five or six weeks.

Lucius Lilley returned from his Eastern trip last Monday. He returns feeling much invigorated, and with the satisfaction of having spent two weeks to good advantage.

J. B. Kerr and wife of Chicago, Ill., are spending this week with their old Tecumseh friends. Mr. Kerr formerly conducted the news and confectionery business now owned by A. E. Kennedy.

Henry Burger now drives the delivery wagon of H. E. Anderson & Son. Increasing business demanded another man in the store and Joe Crosby now smiles on customers from behind the counter.

The Supervisor's Reunion was well attended yesterday, considering the rain. A good crowd filled John Brazee's hotel all day, and the program was carried out in full within doors. As it is impossible to prepare an adequate report for this issue, we defer it wholly until next week.

Services at the Universalist church next Sunday, Aug 21st., at 10:30 in the morning and at 7:30 in the evening. Sermon for the morning on "Excuses." Text, Luke 14: 18. For the evening on "The Use of Ideals." Text, Ephesians, 4: 13. The public invited and strangers welcomed.

Prof. Travis of Clinton, called Saturday. We understand that the Professor is a candidate for Secretary of the County Board of School examiners. We can say without any flattery that he is well qualified for the place, and we can cordially recommend him to the appointing power for that position.

While cleaning out the rubbish in Heesen's store this week, for the painters, an old pamphlet was unearthed which proved to be the legal case of John Heesen et al vs. Elias Blair for infringement of patent. The validity of the hog ringer patent was the point in issue. Mr. Heesen allowed that this pamphlet was worth saving, as it cost, directly and indirectly, about $1500.

W. F. Bennett and C. B. Bennett, of Stanton, 18 miles north of Ionia, arrived in Tecumseh yesterday to attend the reunion of the 18th Reg., but of course were disappointed. They saw a notice in a Detroit paper recently it was to be held on the 18th of Aug. and came accordingly. They were members of Co. A. of that Reg. The boys should stay and see the fun anyway.

Mrs. Jerusha Hendryx, widow of Cornelius P. Hendryx, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. C. D. Meserve, in Chicago, August 10, after an illness of only one week. She was well known in this community, having spent many years of her life here, and her death is mourned by her many friends. She united with the Baptist church of Franklin in 1851, but upon moving to this village she transferred her membership to the church here, and remained a member here until her death.

We were lately asked what magazine had made the most progress during the past year, and were unable to give an answer; but DEMOREST'S MONTHLY for September having just arrived calls the question to our mind, and an examination of this elegant Family Magazine obliges us to admit that it would be difficult for any publication to show more enterprise and progress. The publishers are now taking great interest in Remunerative Home Work for Women, and in this number publish a prize article on that subject. All the Departments are so complete that there is nothing left to be desired; information can be found herein on every point interesting to the household, even to the monthly news. We notice a great acquisition to the already full list of contributors, Mrs. Christine Terhune Herrick, who has commenced a series of articles on Seasonable Entertainments, giving complete information about each, from the form of invitation to "farewell." Published by W. Jennings Demorest, 15 East 14th St., New York.

PRAIRIE SIDE CELERY FARM.

Last Tuesday morning we accepted an invitation from Dr. H. L. Stewart to visit his celery plantation in Raisin. The farm is located just three miles distance from the village and the ride out there behind his prancing bays, over beautiful gravel roads was finished [illegible] farm comprises one hundred acres of land with good buildings thereon. About half of the farm is upland and yields good crops ordinarily, but the marsh part had been very little cultivated until the Doctor bought the place [illegible]

He has twenty two acres in celery this season. Near the west line of the marsh is located a beautiful grove, about an acre in extent, where he has erected most of the buildings needed in the celery branch of the business. Here are the washing room, packing room, office storage house for boxes, etc. Here also is a large tank connected by an underground pipe with the wind mill about forty rods away. Pipes run from this tank to the washing room, and hydrants open from the feed pipe in three places between the wind mill and the tank. Water is one of the necessary articles, in fact, is indispensible in celery raising. Wells are sunk in different places about the marsh. These wells strike living water in from 8 to 20 feet below the surface and the water rises to within 3 or 4 feet of the surface. There are now 22 of these wells on the marsh, one for each acre of celery, and he expects to maintain this proportion as he increases the acreage of celery. The crop is watered regularly every day except when it rains, but notwithstanding this watering process the recent dry weather has injured the crop some, and will decrease the yield very much.

The earliest transplanting is now large enough to "hill up" for blanching. That work has just begun on this farm.

From 12 to 15 men are constantly employed at present in cultivating, watering and caring for the celery, but the busy season will come with the gathering, packing and shipping. The product is shipped to various points East, West and South. The Doctor has no one market but avails himself of any market where he can get the best price. His "Pride of the Prairie" has already established a reputation as a superior article, fully equal to the Kalamazoo brand, and he anticipates no trouble in selling all he can grow. Last year his celery commanded a much better price than the Kalamazoo article.

SAND LAKE SIFTINGS.

It rained hot Sand Lake Wednesday.

C. D. Bills and family, Mrs. Bills and Mr. and Mrs. Kerr were at the lake Wednesday.

Mrs. Wm. Hayden, Misses Clara and Lizzie, Levi and Marvin are keeping the Hayden cottage this week.

Mrs. L. L. Colwell, Mrs. Alma Jeffa Snell and Miss Whittney are spending a few days here this week.

O. B. DeWolf's family went up there Wednesday to spend two weeks in Mrs. Chittenden's cottage.

Mrs. Deuel and Frank Deuel and family of Toledo, have rented a cottage at the lake.

Sixteen Manchester girls are making things lively at one of Putnam's cottages this week.

Jas. Rotter's family were at Putnam's on Wednesday.

Geo. S. Tiffany got tipped over Tuesday while out in a sail boat and received a good ducking.

There is a sandwich war on the east side. The abundance of free lunches has drawn trade away from the sandwich dealers, for a man will not pay five cents for a sandwich when he can go next door and for five cents have a sandwich with a glass of beer and a pickle thrown in. Rates are now three cents with a strong supply and a weak demand.—New York Sun.

The September number of FRANK LESLIE'S SUNDAY MAGAZINE brings together a large number of pleasant articles combining instruction and entertainment, and breathing forth a high moral spirit, though carefully avoiding the teaching of any special religious doctrines. Among the important articles may be found one by Walter Edgar McCann on "The Rise and Growth of our National Capital," which is fully illustrated with portraits and views of the City of Washington and those who have made it famous. "The Domesday Book of William the Conqueror," is a curious excursion into the fields of archæology, and a fac simile of a page of the famous book is shown. "Our Sweetheart" is a tender short story by Mrs. Denison. Professor Proctor discourses learnedly on the "Origin of Meteors and Comets," and C. F. Holden on "The Monster Sea-serpents of the Cretaceous Seas." Several very beautiful full-page illustrations are given, reproduced from famous modern paintings. Dr. Talmage contributes a stirring sermon on "The Secret Society," and discusses timely matters editorially. The two serial stories both keep up and indeed increase their interest, and the short articles and poems are very good and entertaining.

DEVIL'S LAKE DOINGS.

A HERALD representative took in the last excursion to Devils Lake, and as there was no public picnic on that day, strange to relate, he occupied the afternoon in inspecting the various hotel registers, testing the comparative qualities of the various steamers and making himself generally useful.

The Lake of the Evil Name is on the boom just at present. Railroad and picnic excursions visit the lake almost daily and the hotels are all filled with [illegible] ride is becoming a favorite with families and private parties who desire to spend several days at the Lake. They set an excellent table, their rooms are nicely furnished and well furnished, their row boats are abundant in number and cleanly kept and their guests are provided with a free ride daily on the steamer Tecumseh Chief. These attractions complete with moderate charges keep the hotel full and rooms are engaged ahead most of the time. Among the recent arrivals there we noticed C. B. Pennock and John King of Adrian, and the following from Tecumseh: A. G. Hull, John J. Orr, Mrs. Geo. A. Kies, Will Ross, L. B. Stewens and wife, Geo. Field, Jno. Primrose, E. S. Pate, Mrs. A. C. Paxon. Kansas City, East Saginaw, Hillsdale and Jonesville were represented by numerous guests last week. This house seems to be a kind of headquarters for Hillsdale pleasure seekers, and likewise Toledo. Nearly every day witnesses Toledo names on the register. Con. Packard and E. J. Tippett, proprietors of the Toledo Sunday Journal, were both there last week, and Mr. Tippett's entire family are spending about ten days there.

The Tecumseh Chief has been neatly painted and fitted up, and is a splendid boat. It is perfectly safe, is easily handled and makes good time. Justice Chas. Burridge seeks relief occasionally from his judicial cares in his neat cottage on the East shore. Mr. and Mrs. Burridge were there a portion of last week and W. G. Beebe is there this week, with his hammer and saw, putting the finishing touches upon the Burridge cottage.

H. E. Anderson has bought a fine lot at the North end upon which he will erect a cottage next spring. The lot fronts the highway, directly opposite the white school house, almost thirty rods East of Allen's hotel. It has a frontage on the road and runs back to the lake. From this point one gets an unobstructed view across the entire lake to the Southern most point at Beardsell's Landing.

Among the Tecumseh parties who have registered lately on the South side are John Leslie, Forest Zebars, H. E. Sloan, H. M. Temple, S. W. Temple, H. J. Snell, Ben. Garlinghouse Bert Garlinghouse and Chas. Thompson.

Edgar Ide of Detroit enjoyed a day at the lake the fore part of the week.

H. C. Conklin is a frequent visitor to the lake and always puts in a few hours during each stay, with a hook and line.

Hope Weien is one of the landmarks at Allen's. He is everywhere at once, always on time and always good natured.

The new fast train on the Mackinaw is called the "Chicago Flier." The guests at Allen's nearly all set up to see it shoot by like a meteor about 11 o'clock P. M.

Some Detroit, Hudson and Indianapolis parties who have spent some time at the lake this summer, contemplate the erection of private cottages next season.

The Tecumseh City Band visited the lake on the last excursion, Aug. 14th. Upon arriving at the station they at once embarked on the Tecumseh Chief, and with a portion of the crowd were conveyed to Coe & Vance's Pleasant Grove house on the South side. Here they procured dinner and after refreshments they entertained the guests and excursionists with a fine musical program for two hours. They then returned to Allen's and got supper, and for over an hour entertained the guests assembled there with one of their best recitals. This proved to be a drawing card for both Allen and Coe & Vance, and we understand they have been engaged to repeat the trip through the season as long as the excursion trains run. The boys gain new plaudits every time they appear in public.

GRAND EXCURSION TO NIAGARA FALLS

At the Lowest Rates ever Offered.

On Monday, August 22d, there will be a Grand Excursion to Niagara Falls via. the Wabash Short Line and Grand Trunk Ry. (G. W. Div.) leaving Adrian at 9:56 A. M. and arriving at the Falls at 7.55 P. M. Rate for the Round trip only $5.00. Tickets good returning up to and including August 27th, 1887. For full particulars apply at the Wabash Ticket office at Adrian, Mich.

It isn't the number of immigrants who reach these shores which is affecting the country so much as how they behave after they get here. They all seem to want to start a saloon or run for office.

REUNION OF THE EIGHTEENTH.

We are enabled this week to present the leading features of the program which will be given at the reunion of the 18th Mich. Inf., to be held in Tecumseh on Friday the 26th inst.

The exercises of the afternoon will consist of a literary and musical program on Military square and a banquet at the skating rink. In case of inclement weather the exercises proper will be held in the Opera House.

AFTERNOON PROGRAM.

1:00 o'clock P. M.—
Address of Welcome—Capt. J. E. Wood, M. S. T.
Response—Capt. C. R. Miller, Co. E, 18th Mich.
1:30 o'clock—
Business meeting, election of officers, miscellaneous business.
2:00 o'clock—Banquet.
2:45 o'clock—
Address—Cyrus G. Luce, Gov. of the State.
3:15 o'clock—
Oration—Washington Gardner of Jackson.
4:00 o'clock—
Reception to Gov. Luce.
Co. C., M. S. T., will be present during the exercises as guard of honor.

CAMP FIRE 7:30 P. M.

PROGRAM.

Toast Master—Comrade J. D. Shull.
Music—Tecumseh City Band.
Quartette—Tecumseh Glee Club.
Prayer—Chaplain L. Barnes.
1st. Toast—Our State and Nation—Response by Gov. Cyrus G. Luce.
2d. Toast—Michigan is on Guard to-night—Response by Capt. E. P. Allen.
3d. Toast—Army of the Cumberland—Response by Gen. R. S. Granger.
Quartette—Raisin Glee Club.
4th Toast—Michigan in the War—Response by Hon. J. K. Boies.
5th Toast—Our Fallen Comrades—Response by Rev. and Comrade J. M. Getchel.
Quartette—Tecumseh Glee Club.
6th Toast—The Grand Army of the Republic—Response by Rev. and Comrade W. Gardner.
Quartette by Clinton Glee Club.
7th Toast—Patriotic and Noble Women of our Country—Response by Capt. M. W. Reed.
8th Toast—The 18th—Response by Gen. C. C. Doolittle.
Music—Tecumseh City Band.
9th Toast—Hard Tack—Response by Gen. Geo. Spaulding.
10th Toast—The War Correspondent—Response by Scovel C. Starr.
Quartette—Raisin Glee Club.
Comrades of the Camp Fire and Glee Clubs will sing war songs, Marching Through Georgia, Battle cry of Freedom, Army Beans, Tenting Tonight, and closing with My Country 'tis of Thee, Sweet Land of Liberty.

A cordial invitation is extended to citizens of Tecumseh and adjoining townships to contribute eatables for the banquet. Let us give the soldier boys a good square meal both in quality and quantity. Any such contributions are to be left on Friday morning at the skating rink where the banquet is to be held.

We understand that elaborate preparations are in progress to decorate the business buildings and many private residences. Tecumseh will be arrayed in holiday attire on that day and we extend an invitation to "mankind" to come to town and enjoy themselves.

The Cincinnati, Jackson and Mackinaw will make rates of one and one third fare for the round trip from stations, Dundee to Homer inclusive, good going Aug 26th and to return Aug. 27th and 28th. The Lake Shore & Mich. Southern will also sell round trip tickets at 2cts per mile.

The Tecumseh nine attend a base ball tournament at Petersburg to-day.

—Our location is the finest,
Our facilities the best,
Our experience the Greatest,
Our Prices Reasonable,
Our Work first-class,
And those who try are always suited
Call and see for yourself.
BROWN the Photographer.

—The White and Domestic Sewing Machines have superior furniture and attachments to all others. Call and see them and the class of work that they will do, before buying.
Mrs M. P. BROWN,
Agent at Tecumseh.

—Call at J. S. Kinney's store and see those fine marble, indestructible caskets on exhibition. Also a new spring bed with elevated head rest. The best in the market for invalids. Manufactured by J. S. Kinney.

—An elegant line of Cabinet frames both for side wall and easel back, for sale very cheap at A. J. Coddington's.

—Sewing machines—Needles, oil and attachments at
M. P. Brown's Art Gallery.

—If you want a first class sewing machine call on Mrs. M. P. Brown and see the New Domestic, The White and The Grand. Prices reasonable and terms easy.

—If you wish any painting, graining or paper hanging done call on D. Holmes. Good work guaranteed. Terms reasonable. Leave orders at Baker & Hall's or C. A. Wright's, Tecumseh.
D. HOLMES.

—A few back numbers of Harper's Monthly, and other Magazines, for sale at one-half the regular price, at A. J. Coddington's.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS AT LAW.

[illegible] Office over [illegible] Store, Tecumseh, Mich.

[illegible] Block, Tecumseh, Mich.

PHYSICIANS.

[illegible] M. D. [illegible]

[illegible] WOODWARD, M. D.

[illegible]

HOTELS.

[illegible] HOTEL, ADRIAN, MICH.

LENAWEE CARRIAGE FACTORY

[illegible] BRILLEY

Carriages, Buggies,

SURRIES, SPRING WAGONS.

ROADCARTS

SULKIES, CUTTERS, ETC.

[illegible] Street, MICHIGAN

M. L. RICE,

ADRIAN, MICHIGAN,

[illegible] High Class Thoroughbred Poultry. Eggs for hatching. [illegible] Illustrated Circular, Free.

W. W. MARSH,

[illegible]

Railroad Street Meat Market!

[illegible]

GIVE ME A CALL

LADIES TREATED KINDLY FREE.

[illegible] NY.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

OF PURE COD LIVER OIL

And Hypophosphites of Lime & Soda

Almost as Palatable as Milk.

This only preparation of COD LIVER OIL that can be taken readily by children. Equally [illegible] by those with delicate stomachs.

AND AS A REMEDY FOR CONSUMPTION, SCROFULOUS AFFECTIONS, WASTING DISEASES, CHRONIC COUGHS, INFANTILE WASTING, RICKETS, and all WASTING CONDITIONS OF CHILDREN it is marvelous.

Prepared only by Scott & Bowne, N. Y.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

TO MACKINAC.

SUMMER TOURS.

Palace Steamers, Low Rates.

Four trips per week between

DETROIT, MACKINAC ISLAND,

Mackinac Point, Alpena, Harrisville, Oscoda, Saginaw, Bay City, Port Huron, St. Clair, Grand Haven, Marine City.

Every Week Day between

DETROIT AND CLEVELAND.

Daily (Sundays excepted) during July and August.

SEND FOR ILLUSTRATED PAMPHLETS.

Tickets and Excursion Tickets can be purchased at all Coupon Ticket Offices.

F. J. WHITCOMB, Gen'l Pass. Agent.

Detroit & Cleveland Steam Nav. Co.

[illegible]

Milo B. Stevens & Co.

PENSIONS! Atlantic Building,

DETROIT, MICHIGAN.

THIS PAPER may be found on file at GEO. P. ROWELL & CO'S Advertising Bureau (10 Spruce Street), where advertising contracts may be made for it in NEW YORK.

DIAMONDS AND PEARLS THOU HAST.

Diamonds and pearls thou hast,
Life's joys upon thee pour,
And [illegible] eyes most beautiful

[illegible]
And [illegible] to praise those eyes of thine—
My [illegible] what will thou more?

[illegible]

A JAPANESE LOVE STORY.

At the end of the long street forming the village of Morioka, in Japan, [illegible]

[illegible]

The girl hung her head but did not answer. Had he been merely scornful at her loss of [illegible] she could be defiant, but he was evidently [illegible] for her.

Who have [illegible] Niya, the young man [illegible] such an occupation as this? Niya looked [illegible] her [illegible] pursuer [illegible] chiefly due to Niya's intercession. Then it occurred to him that the girl's present position might be owing to a quarrel with her relative on this very subject, and the idea made him remorseful. Finally he was informed that, despite her engage-

[illegible]

[illegible] found another beauty, a Japanese traveler at one of the ports, with hair and [illegible] golden as the tresses of the sun goddess, and that there were rumors of [illegible] marriage.

His thoughts turned to poor Niya, neglected [illegible] to battle alone with a world that [illegible]

Kampei lay awake that night, and the result of his meditations was made [illegible] Before he had [illegible] Kampei [illegible] Niya at your hand. You [illegible] place you [illegible]

[illegible] on the heavens [illegible] "Chaya of [illegible]" and after [illegible] with the proprietor [illegible] She was [illegible] looking pale [illegible] and [illegible] glances at [illegible]

[illegible] Kampei. [illegible] Niya [illegible] Kampei [illegible] Niya [illegible] Kampei [illegible] Niya [illegible] Kampei

The Great Healer of all Inflamed Injuries and Disorders.

It is constantly effecting the most wonderful cures, while the unparalleled demand with which it meets, stamps it at once as the greatest medicine of the age for outward application.

The most incredulous are convinced, and the most skeptical are compelled to believe in the power of this great remedy.

WHAT IT CURES.

All Wounds, Bruises, Sprains, Burns, Sore Throat, Lameness, Rheumatism, Piles, Inflammation of Kidneys and Bowels, Bronchitis, Croup, Sore Nipples, Chilblains, Affection of the Spine, Sciatica, Nervous Irritation, and all disorders attending inflammation.

It is intended to restore the natural functions of the skin and equalize the circulation of the blood. By its agency a controlling power is gained over all inflammations in forms of disease. It penetrates every portion of the human frame; every muscle, nerve, vein, nerve and ligament is reached and made sensible to its soothing influence. Injuries of a long standing, with all their train of evil consequences, yield to its curative influence as well as external diseases.

Over 40 Years.

This ointment has been used by the people throughout the United States, and our confidence in its qualities is such that we have no spice here to insert any of the numerous certificates of cures which we have from all parts of the country, we simply ask those readers of this notice who have ever used this Ointment, to frankly state their experience with it to inquiring friends. If but one in a hundred would do this we should be perfectly satisfied with the result. Full directions for use will be found on pamphlet around each bottle.

Price 25 and 10 cents per bottle. Sold by all dealers in medicine.

D. RANSOM, SON & CO., Prop's
Buffalo, New York.

THE

ELDREDGE

"B"

SEWING MACHINE WITH Automatic, Self-threading Winder

No. 3.

The ELDREDGE "B" is sold with the guarantee of being the BEST that can be MADE.

AGENTS WANTED.

ELDREDGE MANUFACTURING CO.

363 and 365 WABASH AVE., CHICAGO, ILL

B. F. STEINHOFF'S

Dental Rooms.

OVER BAKER & HALL'S.

GAS FOR EXTRACTING.

THE LOWEST PRICES for THE BEST WORK

PATENTS!

Caveats, Trade Marks and Copyrights

Obtained, and all other business in the U.S. Patent Office attended to for MODERATE FEES.

Our office is opposite the U.S. Patent Office, and we can obtain Patents in less time than those remote from Washington.

Send MODEL OR DRAWING. We advise as to patentability free of charge, and make NO CHARGE unless we obtain patent.

We refer here to Postmaster, Supt. of Money Order Div., and to officials of the U.S. Patent Office. For circular, advice, terms and references to actual clients in your own state or county, write to

C. A. SNOW & CO.,
Opposite Patent Office Washington, D.C.

C. A. Wright & Co.,

Wall Paper

AND

Decorations.

C. A. Wright & Co.

ADVERTISING

Contracts made for THIS PAPER, which is kept on file with LORD & THOMAS, Advertising Agents, Chicago.

Better THAN THE Best

In the Grand Rapids Business College and Practical Business School. (Estab. 1865.) Send for College Journal. Address, C. G. SWENBERG, Grand Rapids, Mich.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

California girls are supposed to marry off-hand, but they don't. They employ a private detective for a month to look up the young man's antecedents and, if the report is favorable they are ready to say yes. Swearing, smoking and poker-playing are not considered objections.

Is Consumption Incurable?

Read the following: Mr. C. H. Morris, Newark, Ark., says: "Was down with Abscess of Lungs, and friends and physicians pronounced me an incurable. Consumption began taking Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, am now on my third bottle, and able to work on my farm. It is the finest medicine ever made."

Jesse Middlewart, Decatur, Ohio, says: "Had it not been for Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption I would have died of Lung troubles. Was given up by doctors. Am now in best of health." Try it. Sample bottles free.

C. A. Wright & CO.

A Burlington policeman declares that he has to handle about as many pieces of male matter as they do at the post-office.

Coke.

Persons, and especially children, are subject to this nagging complaint, which often comes on suddenly in the night and without any previous warning. Simmons Liver Regulator should always be at hand. A single dose will generally allay the pain. It never fails in giving relief. It is harmless, and can be given with safety to a child of the tender age.

Young wife—"I'm putting up preserves every day, now, Harry." Young husband (aloud)—May God bless and preserve you, my darling! (a-side) and me, too."

Don't Hawk, Spit, Cough,

Suffer dizziness, congestion, inflammation of the eyes, headache, lassitude, inability to perform mental work and indisposition for bodily labor, and annoy and disgust your friends and acquaintances with your nasal twang and offensive breath and constant efforts to clear your nose and throat, when Dr. Sage's "Catarrh Remedy" will promptly relieve you of discomfort and suffering, and your friends of the disgusting and needless infliction of your loathsome disease.

The West Virginia girl who drew straws to decide which of her three suitors she should marry didn't go to the idiot asylum. She married the "short-straw" chap, lived with him two weeks and then ended her days in the river.

Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites,

For children and Pulmonary Troubles. Dr. W. S. Hoy, Point Pleasant, W. Va., says: "I have made a thorough test with Scott's Emulsion in Pulmonary Troubles and General Debility, and have been astonished at the good results, for children with Rickets or Marasmus it is unequalled."

Ypsilanti races the first week in August.

English spavin liniment removes all hard, soft, or calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavin, curbs, splints, sweeney, stifles, sprains sore and swollen throat coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle. Warranted. Sold by Baker & Hall, Druggists, Tecumseh Mich.

Itch, mange, and scratches of every kind on human or animals cured in 30 minutes by Woolford's Sanitary Lotion. This never fails. Sold by Baker & Hall, Druggists, Tecumseh Mich.

The Grand Ledge mills complain of lack of water.

Drunkeness or the Liquor Habit Positively Cured by Administering Dr Haines' Golden Specific.

It can be given in a cup of coffee or tea without the knowledge of the person taking it; is absolutely harmless and will effect a permanent and speedy cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or a alcoholic wreck. Thousands of drunkards have been made temperate men who have taken Golden Specific in their coffee without their knowledge, and to day believe they quit drinking on their own free will. IT NEVER FAILS. The system once impregnated with the Specific it becomes an utter impossibility for the liquor appetite to exist. For full particulars, address GOLDEN SPECIFIC CO., 185 Race st., Cincinnati, O.

Acker's Blood Elixir is the only Blood Remedy guaranteed. It is a positive cure for Ulcers, Eruptions or Syphilitic Poisoning. It purifies the whole system, and banishes all Rheumatic and Neuralgic pains. We guarantee it. C. A. Wright & Co., Druggists.

"Alcohol is immense for cleaning silver," remarked Sarcasticus to his wife yesterday when he saw her working hard at the table cutlery. "Yes," said Mrs. S. "I notice it completely cleans all the silver out of your pockets lately."

The Homelest Man in Tecumseh

As well as the handsomest, and others are invited to call on Baker & Hall, and get free a trial bottle of Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs, a remedy that is selling entirely upon its merits and is guaranteed to cure and relieve all Chronic and Acute Coughs, Asthma, Bronchitis and Consumption. Price 50 cents and $1.

"Hello Tom! Raising a beard, eh?" "Yes, saves me thirty cents a week to bet on our nine. Feller ought to stand by local inst'titutions, y'know."

Many Of the good things of this life are sorrowfully let alone on account of Dyspepsia. Acker's Dyspepsia Tablets will cure Dyspepsia, Indigestion and Constipation; sold on a positive guarantee at 25 and 50 cents, by C. A. Wright & Co., Druggists.

Mark Twain's First Lecture.

"Twenty-five years ago, when I first went to Carson," said a well known gentleman of that city yesterday at a down town hotel, "Mark Twain was just beginning to come to the front as a humorist. He was a quiet, gentlemanly sort of a fellow, who could tell a good story and take his hand out with the boys and not show it much, even if he would drink all day.

"In those early days most any sort of an entertainment brought out a big crowd, and when it was announced one day that Mark was to deliver a lecture for the benefit of something or other at the Episcopal church, it was understood from the start that there would be a rousing crowd.

"Mark strolled in on the side into the pulpit about 8 o'clock, there being a whole lot of the boys and young women, friends of his, as well as a good many old people of Carson. Mark made a very polite bow and then unfolded a fearsome roll of brown paper. People thought at first it was a big coup, but it turned out to be his lecture written on a reel sheet of printers' brown paper, as the ordinary printers' marking bristle. After he had bowed he turned his back around to the audience and crouched down to the table and then read from the big sheets as though it would be impossible for him to see any other way.

"The lecture was on 'The Future of Nevada,' and was the funniest thing I ever heard. He prophesied the great era of prosperity that was coming to us and caught to encourage as people were sagebrush sing only dreaming what appeared to be Golconda like visions of impossible mineral discoveries. Right on the heels of the lecture, came the marvelous discoveries of Virginia City, and then we thought he was not so far out in his humorous prediction. Many a time I have I thought of that lecture of Mark Twain. It ought to have been published. I have read all his books, and I never saw anything in any of them better than this."—San Francisco Examiner.

How Fashions Originate.

I have always been interested in what I may call the genesis of fashion, and happening some five or six years ago to meet at the house of a well known enterprising London publisher, a young Frenchman who was, I was told, the editor (that is to say, the publisher) of some half a dozen of the best Paris fashion magazines, I ventured to ask him for some details of how he, month after month, presented his subscribers with a series of new hats and dresses and bonnets and all the rest of it. He proved most communicative in his reply, and I learned that he kept on the establishment, not a poet like Mr Moses, but two artists of repute, whose work it was to design new shapes and combinations of colors and forms.

As to the source of their inspiration, he admitted that they not unfrequently went to the back volumes of the firm's fashion magazines, of which there were files reaching back to the very beginning, and having evolved a new bonnet or dress out of his inner consciousness, or by altering or developing some long forgotten mode of the past, the artist has done his share of the work. The next thing to be done, according to my informant, was to induce some well known leader of Parisian society or popular French actress to adopt one of the new shaped hats or costumes, or whatever it might be. This accomplished, the success of a new mode was often assured, just as the success of a new song is often secured if some famous vocalist can only be induced to sing it in public.—Figaro.

Is Insect a Synonym for Man?

Is "insect" a good synonym for man? The poets think it is, but I confess I do not agree with them. Not because the word is itself absurd as applied to creatures with solidly continuous bodies like men and women for poetry does not of necessity concern itself with the real meanings of words, but because I am no pessimist, and think much too well of my kind to allow that human beings are either reptiles, vermin or insects. What "vermin" are I do not know. In western America the red Indians are called vermin by the blackguard whites. In Australia "wild horses" are vermin, so on the Continent are wolves; in our English game preserves so are hawks, owls, jays and weasels. Professional "vermin" killers mean by the term moles and rats. Patent "vermin" killing powders and pastes are directed against black beetles and crickets. In hospitals "vermin" means lice. So that anything between a red Indian and a louse may be "vermin."—Gentleman's Magazine.

A Necklace of Human Fingers.

A curious and interesting relic of Indian barbarism was received at the war department a few days ago. It consisted of a necklace of human fingers. Originally there were eleven fingers strung together after the manner of necklaces of bears' claws, but three of them had been lost. This ghastly adornment was captured in an attack on the northern Cheyennes in 1876, and each finger represented a life taken by the owner, the big medicine man of the tribe. The fingers had been preserved by opening the skin, removing the bones, scraping away all the tissues and fatty substances, replacing the bones, and subjecting the skin to some tanning process. The necklace was sent to West Point by Capt. Bourke, who is now engaged in preparing some historical matter relating to the Indians. It was brought from West Point here in order that it might be reproduced in paper mache at the Smithsonian institution.—Washington Cor. New York Sun.

Women on Board Yachts.

Women fit into yachting better than men, for the most part, strange as it may seem. Probably one reason is that they are more used to leisure and meet it more gracefully; another may be that the Boston woman naturally scintillates with effervescent brilliancy, and makes a charming guest at all times and places. However it may be, the femme d'esprit is always to be found among the guests of a yachting party, as it is recognized that the talent par excellence on board a yacht—it wears best and is oftenest in requisition. The sunshiny, merry girl, who looks on life as one long dream of joy, is always of the yachting party. She need not be beautiful, but she must have that joyous laugh of youth that, notwithstanding her training in that center of serious and intellectual culture, the Boston girl, by the grace of kindly nature, still retains, her reputation to the contrary notwithstanding.—Boston Post.

Conditions of Life.

At a recent meeting of the London Anthropological Institute, Dr George Harley sought to prove that the conditions which have increased man's comfort and stimulated his mental faculties have lessened his vitality and recuperative powers, making him more liable to fatal injuries.—Arkansaw Traveler.

The Perfumery Trade.

Some kinds of perfumery are worth their weight in gold. The export of fine perfumery is principally from Grasse, Nice, Cannes and Bremen. The business is divided into two parts. The manufacturer extracts from the flowers their essential oils. The perfumer buys these oils, makes ades and extracts, and compounds them in several ways.

Only about a dozen of all the fragrant flowers in the world are used in the manufacture of perfumery, viz., the violet, rose, orange flower, jasmine, tuberose, cassie, lavender, thyme, rosemary, geraniums, jonquil and fennel. The rose and the orange are the most important. Of the innumerable varieties of the rose, only one is used, the Provence rose, single, pale pink, the most sweet smelling of roses, not hardy.

Picking for perfumery occurs in almost every month of the year. It is a paradoxical fact in the business that the bitter orange yields the best blossoms for perfumery. One ton of blossoms yields two pounds eight ounces of oil neroli. The fruit of the bitter orange yields a very fine essential oil, bigarade. It is used in many scents. The range tree, cultivated for its oil, lasts with care over 200 years.

One ton of the distilled leaves of the scented verbena geranium yields from 24 to 30 ounces of the essential oil. The flowers of the jasmine are picked just after sunset in July, and in the morning, as soon as the dew is off, in August. The jasmine is a peculiarly delicate flower. Its essential oil is so volatile that it cannot be extracted by distillation, the heated water decomposing it so that only a faint trace of the perfume is left in the water that passes through the refrigerant.

Like the jasmine, the oil of the tuberose cannot be extracted by distillation. The perfume of the cassie is also used in compounds. The process of manufacturing perfumes is in itself very interesting, especially to the ladies.

A ton of roses yields only two ounces of the attar. If kept at a temperature below 60°, attar crystalizes; if kept open to the air and light, it is easily volatized. Perfumed oils are made by putting fresh quantities of flowers into the finest of virgin olive oil from 20 to 30 different times. The essential oil of flowers has a strong affinity to lard or grease. The latter, rendered as white as snow, is perfectly saturated with the flowers. The process is repeated many times. In this way we have pomade of rose, orange, cassie and violet. The affinity of the perfume of flowers for alcohol is, however, stronger than than for grease. Pomades, immersed in alcohol, are rendered into extracts, the grease leaving the perfume. It is safe to say that, among the numerous articles of toilet, the manufacture of perfumed pomades, perfumed oils and high-priced perfumery generally is as a sealed book to many persons.

The Curfew Bell.

It will be remembered that the curfew is commonly said to have been introduced into England by William the Conqueror. By that monarch it was ordained, under severe penalties, that when the curfew bell rang at 8 o'clock in the evening all lights and fires should be extinguished. There are those who hold that this was merely the enforcing of an existing and very common police regulation to that effect. The absolute prohibition of lights after the ringing of the curfew bell was abolished by Henry I. in the year 1100, but the practice of tolling a bell at a fixed hour in the evening was continued, and this, which is still extant in some places, is a survival of the curfew of medieval times. At first the common hour was 7 o'clock, then it was gradually advanced to 8, and in some places to 9 o'clock; indeed, in Scotland, 10 o'clock was not an unusual hour. The curfew was a regulation most useful in those early days, when it was the custom to place the fire in a hole in the middle of the floor under an opening in the roof, to allow the escape of the smoke. When the family retired for the night, the fire was extinguished by covering it up; hence the term couvrefeu, or curfew. The regulation was also serviceable in obliging the people to keep in their houses, and thus preventing night brawls in the streets. It is believed that there is no historical authority for the popular tradition that the severity exhibited by the Conqueror in enforcing obedience to the curfew was more particularly designed to prevent the English from assembling in secret to plan schemes of rebellion against their Norman lords.

The Model Farm.

The Keota (Iowa) Eagle has at last found a western man who is satisfied with a fifty acre farm. His name is Artemus Fisher, and he lives one mile and a half south of Keota. The Eagle tells the story of his management and of his success as follows:

He keeps one team of horses, three first class cows, and a nice little drove of the best hogs. He milks his cows for the creamery, and they made him nearly $200 last year; will perhaps do better this year. He will sell $500 worth of hogs this year, and have thirty stockers to keep over. He has $200 worth of flax-seed to sell; has an abundance of hay and grain to keep his stock in first-class condition during the winter. He keeps everything in apple-pie order about his farm; his cows revel in clover up to their eyes; he attends to feeding, watering and milking as regularly as the clock strikes, hence he gets the best results with the least possible feed. He keeps his stock under cover, and never allows any animal to shiver in the fence corners. He has a barn that is a model of convenience and economy. It is snow-proof, and as warm as the old kitchen. He has a first class selection of fruit—not a large orchard, but a choice selection of the varieties that thrive and bear the best in this locality. Everything about the farm wears marks of intelligence, thrift and economy. Besides making a living for himself and the "old lady," he will sell at least $800 worth of stuff off his fifty acres this year, and not be exceeding former years either. There is no rush or hurry about this model farm. Everything goes off quietly and regularly. The expenses are very small and the gains sure.

How to Cure Sore Throat.—"One who has tried it" communicates the following seasonable item about curing sore throats to the New York Herald: "Let each one of your half million readers buy at any drug store one ounce of camphorated oil, and five cents worth of chlorate of potash. Whenever any soreness appears in the throat put the potash in half a tumbler of water, and with it gargle the throat thoroughly; then rub the neck thoroughly with the camphorate oil at night before going to bed, and also pin around the throat a small strip of woolen flannel. This is a simple, cheap and sure remedy.

Magnetic Storms.

Remembering the influence which the sun has been found to exercise upon the magnetic needle, the question will naturally arise, has the sun anything to do with magnetic storms? We have clear evidence that he has. On the 1st of September 1859, Messrs. Carrington and Hodgson were observing the sun, one at Oxford and the other in London. Their scrutiny was directed to certain large spots which at that time marked the sun's face. Suddenly a bright light was seen by each observer to break out on the sun's surface and to travel, slowly in appearance, but in reality at the rate of about 7,000 miles in a

Now it was found afterward that the self-registering magnetic instruments at Kew had made at that instant a strongly marked jerk. It was learned at that moment magnetic storms prevailed at the West Indies, in South America, and in Australia. The signal-men in the telegraph stations at Washington and Philadelphia received strong electric shocks; the pen of Bain's telegraph was followed by a flame of fire; and in Norway the telegraphic machinery was set on fire. At night great auroras were seen in both hemispheres. It is impossible not to connect these startling magnetic indications with the remarkable appearance observed on the sun's disk.—Prof Proctor.

THE WEAKEST PART.

It is a general principle that local disease attacks the weakest part of the unfortunate victim at the time he may be exposed to the attack. This may be more satisfactory to the theorist than to the sufferer. The latter has often asked "But why should the part be weaker than any other?" That is a wise remedy that tends to strengthen all the weaker parts, and thus enable them not only to cast off the diseases, but guard them from the encroachments of other disease.

For this purpose the Compound Oxygen has no equal. If you wish to know more of this Treatment, you can easily be gratified by addressing Drs. Starkey & Palen, 1529 Arch street, Philadelphia, Pa., for their Brochure, an interesting book of 200 pages, and it will be sent to you free.

Feathered Slaves

No people are more ingenious than the Chinese in the minor arts of life. That they have succeeded in training birds to fish is a striking example of their ingenuity and patience. Instead of carrying nets, the fishermen provide themselves with a large number of cormorants which perch on the edge of the boats. It is a curious spectacle to see these creatures engaged in fishing, diving into the water and always coming up with a fish in their beaks. As the Chinese fear the vigorous appetites of their feathered servants, they fasten around their necks an iron ring, large enough to allow their breathing but too small to admit of the entrance of the fish they seize; to prevent their straying about in the water and wasting the time desired for their work, a cord is attached to the ring and to one claw of the cormorant by which he is pulled up when inclined to stay too long under water. When tired he is permitted to rest for a while; but if he abuse the indulgence and waste his time, a few strokes of the bamboo recalls him to duty, and the poor diver resumes his laborious occupation. In passing from one fishing ground to another, the cormorants perch side by side, so as not to disturb the equilibrium of the frail vessel.

A hotel in Boston built of stone and brick 96 and 69 feet frontage with basement and seven stories above the sidewalk, was moved nearly 100 feet in order to make a change in the street. One side was supported by eight granite columns twelve feet high, the whole building weighing 5,000 tons beside the furniture. The occupants of the stores and the hotel were not disturbed in the removal.

K.

KING OF THE BLOOD

The Most Thorough Purifier of the Blood Yet Discovered.

Cures all Humors, from a Common Boil to the worst Scrofula.

It purifies the Blood.
It invigorates the Liver.
It regulates the Bowels.
It strengthens the stomach.
It gives vivacity in place of lassitude; cheerfulness in place of gloom, and robust vigor in place of debility.

Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Disordered Liver, Constipation, Nervous Affections, General Debility, in short all the numerous diseases and discomforts caused by impure blood are speedily conquered by this powerful corrector, the chief and sovereign of all ancient or modern medical discoveries—KING OF THE BLOOD.

Its name is its best description as it is a royal dispenser of the blessings of health and vanquishes the foes that lurk in the blood.

It banishes PIMPLES, SALT RHEUM, SCALY ERUPTIONS, ULCERS, SCALD HEAD, FEVER SORES, and all SCROFULOUS DISORDERS.

It checks CONSUMPTION in its early stages. It has frequently cured it when advanced.

It disperses TUMORS and CANCERS without the Surgeon's knife.

It cures DROPSY, general or partial.

It cures FEMALE WEAKNESS and DISEASE.

It reduces in a safe and effectual manner all swellings, external or internal.

It eradicates the effects of Venereal Disease and Mineral Poisons and establishes a sound constitution.

Many certificates, much further information and full directions to cure, will be found in the pamphlet, "Treatise on Diseases of the Blood," in which each bottle is enclosed.

Price $1 per bottle containing 32 ounces, or 50 doses. Sold by every druggist in medicine.

If your druggist does not happen to have it on hand, rest assured he will order a supply of it for you rather than be disappointed. Insist on his doing so, and if he demurs, address us, and we will see that you are not imposed upon.

D. RANSOM, SON & CO., Proprietors,
BUFFALO, N. Y.

THOS. S. SPRAGUE & SON. PATENTS DETROIT, MICH.

PATENTS obtained in U. S. and all foreign countries. Examinations made. Licenses and assignments drawn. Infringements prosecuted in all Federal courts. Advice and pamphlets free. Scientific expert validity opinions given. No models required. Established A. D. 1865. Thos. S. Sprague & Son, 37 Congress Street West, Detroit, Mich.

JAS. H. POTTER,

Manufacturer of all kinds of

FURNITURE!

Order work a specialty.
Turning done to order.

RAILROAD TIME TABLES.

L. S. & M. S. RAILROAD.

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	No. 115. Mail.	No. 117. Express.	No. 101 Accom.
Jackson
Napoleon	6 36	2 48	1 47
Norvell	6 42	2 55	2 00
Manchester	6 57	3 12	2 15
Clinton	7 04	3 21	2 30
Tecumseh	7 20	3 41	4 05
Adrian	8 08	4 45	5 00
Detroit	10 00	6 20
Toledo	11 00	5 40

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No. 114.	No. 116.	No. 100.
Detroit	7 30	4 30	8 00
Toledo	9 30	1 50
Adrian	10 05	5 12	9 35
Tecumseh	11 05	6 10	10 35
Clinton	11 20	6 24	10 50
Manchester	11 35	6 35	11 05
Norvell	11 50	6 48	11 20
Napoleon	12 00	7 00	11 30
Jackson	12 25	7 30	12 00

Fast Trains run on New Standard of Southern Time

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Coupon tickets can now be procured at this office over best routes to all principal points in the United States.

N. S. SATTERLEE, TICKET AGENT.
G. H. WORTHINGTON, SUPT. DETROIT DIVISION.

Cincinnati, Jackson & Mackinaw R. R.

MIDLAND DIVISION.

Passenger Time Table.

IN EFFECT AUG. 3, 1884.

GOING EAST.				Central Time.		GOING WEST.
No. 11	No. 3 Pass	No. 1 Pass	STATIONS.		No. 2 Pass	No. 4 Pass	No. 12
P. M.	P. M.	P. M.			A. M.	P. M.	A. M.
7 10	10 55	5 45	A. Toledo	L	8 20	5 20	6 00
7 30	11 05	6 00	Dundee		8 10	6 10	5 40
7 55	11 30	6 30	Britton		7 45	6 37	5 12
8 05	11 40	6 40	Ridgeway		7 35	6 45	5 02
8 16	11 52	6 50	Tecumseh		7 22	6 57	4 50
8 25	12 01	6 58	Tipton		10 07	7 06	12 40
8 40	12 15	7 10	Clinton		10 52	7 20	12 15
8 50	12 25	7 20	Addison		10 43	7 30	12 05
9 00	12 35	7 30	Devils Lake		10 34	7 39	11 57
9 15	12 50	7 45	Jerome		10 19	7 54	11 42
9 25	12 59	7 55	Hudson		10 10	8 04	11 32
9 35	1 08	8 05	Hanover		10 00	8 15	11 22
9 45	1 17	8 14	Pulaski		9 51	8 26	11 12
9 50	1 22	8 19	Homer		9 46	8 31	11 07
9 55	1 26	8 23	Ashland		9 42	8 35	11 03
10 10	1 40	8 35	Marshall		9 28	8 50	10 50
No. 7							No. 8
P. M.							A. M.
7 50			Marshall				7 15
7 30	6 50	12 12	Ceresco		12 42	9 41	7 35
7 20	6 40	12 03	L. Battle Crk	A	1 03	10 00	7 45
	A. M.					P. M.
7 01		12 03	Augusta		1 25		8 13
6 54		11 52	Yorkville		1 35		8 23
6 47		11 46	Richland		1 42		8 32
6 40		11 30	Doster		2 01		8 46
6 13		11 15	Monteith		2 20		9 12
5 59		11 01	Fisk		2 30		9 17
5 52		10 58	Kellogg		2 37		9 20
5 15		10 50	L. Allegan	A	2 50		9 28
P. M.		A. M.			P. M.		A. M.

No. 7 and 8 make close connections at Battle Creek with G. R. & I.

THE NEW SHORT LINE

BETWEEN

CHICAGO & TOLEDO

Commencing Sunday, Aug. 3, the Cincinnati, Jackson & Mackinaw R. R. (formerly M. & O.) in connection with the C. & G. T. R. R. via Battle Creek, will inaugurate through Pullman palace car service between Toledo and Chicago, making direct connections with roads out of Chicago for the West, Northwest, and Southwest. Train will leave Tecumseh going west 1 22 P. M., arriving in Chicago at 8.10 A.M.; returning will leave Chicago at 8.15 P.M. and arrive in Tecumseh at 5.33 A.M. For further particulars in regard to berths, rates, etc., call at city ticket office or R. Allen at depot.

TRAIN CONNECTIONS.

No. 2 connects with the G. R. & I. at Jackson, and at Allegan with the C. & W. M. Ry. for Grand Rapids, Muskegan, and points north. No. 4 makes close connection at Britton with the Wabash & Western Ry. for Detroit, and No. 1 makes close connection with the Wabash & Western Ry. train from Detroit. All trains connect at Toledo with the W. & L. E., C. H. V. & T., L. S. & M. S., Wabash Ry., Pa. Co., and all railroads diverging. Connections are also made at Dundee with the T. A. A. & N. M. at Tecumseh, Jerome, Hanover, Homer and Allegan with the L. S. & M. S. Ry., and at Battle Creek with the C. & G. T. RY.

H. B. JOHNSTON, Traffic Manager. T. C. M. SCHINDLER, Gen'l Pass. Agt.

F. ALLEN, Station Agent. A. E. KENNEDY, City Ticket Agent.

TAKE THE WABASH ROUTE.

TRAINS GOING EAST.

LEAVE BRITTON:
*Atlantic Express, limited	4 55	A.M.
Detroit Accommodation	8 00	"
*Niagara Falls and Boston Express	10 19	"
*New York Limited Express	10 21	P.M.
Way Freight	8 45	"

TRAINS GOING WEST.

St. Louis, Indianapolis & Louisville	10 35	A.M.
*Chicago & St. Louis Limited Express	3 10	P.M.
Adrian Accommodation	5 51	"
*Pacific Express, Limited	11 07	"

Trains marked * are daily, all others daily except Sunday.

☞ Limited express trains stop only for R. R. crossing at Britton.

Tecumseh passengers desiring to travel by the popular Wabash make excellent connections at Adrian, and from there can secure through Pullman sleepers to Boston. Through solid trains to New York. 2 solid through trains to Chicago, making direct connections for all points west and northwest. Through coaches and sleepers to St. Louis, making direct connections for all points in Kansas and the great southwest.

Fast Time, Magnificent Equipment, Elegant Designs of Chair, Parlor, Sleeping and Dining Cars on all through trains.

H. D. ARMSTRONG, Mich. Pass. Agt., Jackson, Mich.
WM. F. BRADLEY, Agent, Adrian.
F. CHANDLER, Gen'l Pass. and Tkt. Agent, St Louis Mo

The Great English Prescription.

A successful Medicine used over 30 years in thousands of cases. Cures Spermatorrhea, Nervous Weakness, Emissions, Impotency, and all diseases caused by abuse, BEFORE indiscretion, or over exertion. Six packages guaranteed to Cure when all others Fail. Ask your Druggist for The Great English Prescription, take no substitute. One package $1. Six $5. by mail. Write for Pamphlet. Address Eureka Chemical Co., Detroit, Mich.

Sold in Tecumseh by DR. GEO. FERGUSON.

EYESIGHT—SAVE IT

Use Proper Spectacles. Nothing is so much injured as poor eyesight, and yet it is the easiest to preserve if obtained by using perfect spectacles properly fitted. Send direct to the manufacturing optician, who has had use of which from 40 to 60 years, and who makes the most improved spectacles and eyeglasses, with the best lenses, and sells at a price equal to any dealer who does not manufacture. Persons who have been injured by improper glasses can be adjusted to suit them by this house. Address GEO. B. BRIGDEN (Opt.), 105 Main St., Norwich, Conn.

ADVERTISERS

can learn the exact cost of any proposed line of advertising in American papers by addressing Geo. P. Rowell & Co., Newspaper Advertising Bureau, 10 Spruce St., New York. Send 10cts. for 100-Page Pamphlet.

DURING HOT WEATHER.

[illegible] PHYSICIAN

[illegible] Wedded With Every [illegible] —What Not to Drink—

[illegible]

Observe the Birthdays.

[illegible] birthday of each member of the family be always remembered when it comes. Let there be something a little out of the ordinary routine in the arrangement of the table, cookies fashioned as Johnny likes them best—one of Frank's favorite plum puddings, or Julia's special liking, a loaf of ginger cake, or a wonderful [illegible] such as only mamma can make.

Then there must be presents. Sometimes people may think they cannot be afforded, but neither. The little one needs shoes, dresses, aprons and many other things. Purchase one or more for the birthday. It will seem just as much a present to the recipients as though they were not obliged to have it.

[illegible] a set of furs or a pair of skates, should the birthday occur in the winter, a pretty little dinner basket, or if the parents can afford it, a little gold band for one of the white fingers, a necklace, a watch with a shining chain, or the pony that has been wished for so long.

Encourage the little ones in giving to each other and also remember father and mother's birthday; believe me it will be bread cast on the waters; the day will only be a few ere some returns, and there will be a never failing supply of pleasure as long as you and your children live.

A Pretty Story

"I believe in a providence" said Victor Hugo to a company gathered around him in the Rue de Clichy, "because I am a providence myself." Being asked for an explanation, the poet replied: "We caught a mouse yesterday evening. His death sentence was already pronounced, when my little granddaughter, Jeanne, with eyes glistening with tears, begged for the life of the gray prisoner. Her mother hesitated whether to listen to the dear little advocate or not, and in her doubt said, 'Grandfather shall decide.' So they came to me. For a moment I held the power of life and death over the diminutive creature, and I thought: The heavenly providence may find itself in my situation when the fate of a being of a higher order is to be determined. Naturally I set the mouse free; for when a man undertakes the role of providence on a small scale, he should at least imitate generosity."

A Bird that Turns Somersaults.

There's a pretty little bird that lives in Africa, and is called the Fork-Tailed Parus. He is about as big as a robin, and has a red beak, yellow legs, black tail, and red-and-yellow wings. Nearly all the orders are in his dress, you see, and he is a gay fellow. This bird has a trick known by no other birds that ever I heard of. He turns somersaults! Not only does he do this in free life on the trees, but also after he is caught and put into a cage. He throws his head far back, and over he goes, touching the bars of his cage, and alighting upon his feet on the floor or on a perch. He will do it over and over a number of times without stopping, as though he thought it great fun. All his family have the same trick, and they are called Tumblers. The people of China are fond of keeping them in cages and seeing them tumble.

Good Advice for Everybody.

1. Never, under any circumstances assume a responsibility that you can avoid consistently with your duty to yourself and others.

2. Base all your actions upon a principle of right; preserve your integrity of character, and in doing this never reckon on the cost.

3. Remember that self interest is much more likely to warp your judgment than all other circumstances combined; therefore look well to your duty when your interest is concerned.

4. Never make money at the expense of your reputation.

5. Be neither lavish or niggardly. Of the two, avoid the latter. A mean man is universally despised, but public favor is a stepping stone to preferment therefore generous feelings should be cultivated.

6. Say but little, think much and do more.

7. Let your expenses be such as to leave a balance in your pocket. Ready money is a friend in need.

8. Avoid borrowing and lending.

9. Wine drinking and cigar smoking are bad habits; they impair the health and pocket, and lead to a waste of time.

10. Never relate your misfortunes, and never grieve over what you cannot prevent.

11. Cultivate promptness in deciding upon matters that come before you; there are few objects more disagreeable than an undecided, vacillating man. Consider thoughtfully, but decide promptly.

12. Never break a business engagement of any kind, if it be possible to meet it. Let nothing cause you to become careless of business or to be tardy and unpunctual.

13. Let truth and an unwavering faith in God underlie all your motives and actions.

[illegible] GIRLS.—The poorest girls in the world are those who have never been taught to work. There are thousands of them. Rich parents have petted them; they have been taught to despise labor, and depend upon others for a living, and are perfectly helpless. If misfortune comes upon their friends, as it often does, their case is hopeless. The most forlorn and miserable woman upon earth belongs to this class. It behoves parents to protect their daughters from this deplorable condition. They do them a great wrong if they neglect it. Every daughter should be taught to earn her own living. The rich as well as the poor may be reduced to want. The school of poverty teaches the lesson very hard to the poor and the poor rich. Still it is no disadvantage to the rich and is indispensable to the poor. Well-to-do parents should educate their daughters to work; no return is more imperative than this.

[illegible]

A Rare Talent.

The faculty of drawing out of persons with whom [illegible] conversing the best there is in them [illegible] better things even than they suppose themselves capable of—is the rare gift with which Nature has endowed some women. George Eliot was a most charming person in conversation, though she was a woman of few words, because of her intuitive insight into the thoughts of others [illegible] put her in possession, not of what they said, but of what they would fain have said, and she would go improve upon it, that ordinary people went away charmed with her who had made them for once at least feel themselves to be wise. Long afterwards, perhaps, she would call to her memory some [illegible] or witty things [illegible] to have said, and which they themselves never would have said but for her quick stimulus.

THE BEST PHYSICIAN OF THE WORLD

T. A. Crawford says: "I have had the worst form of Eczema two years, and found no relief from some of our best physicians who have made this disease a specialty. I was persuaded to try B. B. B. (Mixture of Blood Balm). The relief [illegible] was like a charm and I am well. I think Papillon, one of the [illegible] Try Papillon Cream of Hay Skin Cure when all others fail. Large bottles $1.00.

For sale by A. S. Doty.

"FIRE AWAY, FLANAGAN."—Cromwell having matched his army southward, came to a castle garrisoned by some rebels, under command of a Flanagan, who sent Cromwell a violent philippic, ending with an order to quit the place, or he would open his cannon on the English forces. Cromwell returned the note, with his reply written in the corner of the missive: "Fire away, Flanagan." The laconic reply so frightened the redoubtable Flanagan that he fled without firing a shot.

TOO UTTER, TOO VERY, ETC.—This just now popular and novel style of slang, originated in the London Punch, and was to ridicule the pretentions of the very exquisite pretenders to art and aesthetic culture, whom that paper also travesties in pictures. It was first employed to satirize in pictures and verbal jests one Oscar Wilde, a young poet in London, who is greatly given to affectation, such as parading the street with a white lily in his hand, and writing very extravagant verses. The phraseology of Punch is copied by writers who want to indicate that anything is very pretentiously aesthetic or artistic.

Don't trifle with any Throat or Lung Disease. If you have a Cough or Cold, or the children are threatened with Croup or Whooping-Cough, use Acker's English Remedy and prevent further trouble. It is a positive cure, and we guarantee it. Price 10 and 50c. C. A. WRIGHT & CO., Druggists.

THE GIANTS' CAUSEWAY.—The Giants Causeway is in the County Antrim, on the northeast coast of Ireland, between Benmore Head and Port Rush. For one seven or eight miles along that coast there are cliffs of basalt, many of which are made up in great part of rude vertical columns, which alternate with layers of amorphous beds of the same class of rocks, and ranges of these in places reach the height of 400 or 500 feet. When these are viewed in front from the sea they suggest rude resemblances to architectural forms. The name of Giants' Causeway is often applied to the whole coast range, although it is properly applicable to but a small portion of it. It is a platform of basalt, composed of closely arranged columns, ranging from 15 to 36 feet in height, and it extends from a steep cliff down into the sea, till it is lost below low-water mark. Its length exposed at low-water is about 600 feet, and it is divided into three portions, called the Little, Middle, and Large or Grand Causeway.

If you would enjoy your dinner and are prevented by Dyspepsia, use Acker's Dyspepsia Tablets. They are a positive cure for Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Flatulency and Constipation. We guarantee them. 25 and 50 cents.

C. A. Wright & Co., Druggists.

"Say," said Berkey to his wife yesterday at dinner, "you didn't say anything to anyone about what I was telling you night before last, did you? That's a secret." "A secret? Why, I didn't know it was a secret," she replied kind of regretfully. "Well, did you tell it? I want to know." "Why no, I never thought of it since. I didn't know it was a secret."

A LETTER LIST

Tecumseh.

Remaining unclaimed for in the Postoffice at Tecumseh, Aug. 17, 1887:

Gillett, Mrs. L. M. — Hills, Miss Mary L.
Howe, Mr. Eugene — Lovejoy, Miss Della
— — — Van Pelt, Louis A.

Persons calling for letters in the above list will please say "Advertised."

C. A. STACY, P. M.

ROYAL

BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity, strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and cannot be sold in competition with the multitude of low test, short weight, alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans. ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 106 Wall St., N. Y.

TIME SCHEDULE.

MAIL CLOSES		MAIL ARRIVES
[illegible]	L. S. & M. S. EAST	[illegible]
[illegible]		3.21 p.m.
	NORTH.
10.45 a.m.		11.00 a.m.
		9.15 p.m.
	C. J. & M. R.R.—WEST.
9.35 a.m.		1.40 a.m.
		5.02 p.m.
	EAST.
9.15 a.m.		8.35 a.m.

C. A. STACY, P. M.

ANIMAL CATCHING DEVICE.

With this simple tool one man and a boy 10 years of age can hold and ring the most vicious and largest hog with ease. It can be used for handling hogs for all purposes, and sheep as well. In washing or shearing sheep, put the catcher loose in the handle, then reach out and catch the sheep without disturbing the flock, as it is catching by the leg. There is no danger of breaking the leg, the device being pulled out from the handle when on the leg of the animal. On receipt of $1.25 I will send to any address postpaid the Catcher with twitch to hold the nose of the hog to ring. Catcher without the handle for $1.00. Large profits to good agents. Send for circular.

C. F. MORLEY,
Inventor and Mfg., Tecumseh, Mich.

STEKETEE'S NEURALGIA DROPS

A New Discovery. Price Only 50c. Per Bottle.

HAS NEVER FAILED TO CURE.

This valuable remedy is not only a sure cure for Neuralgia, but has proved wonderful when used as an injection in the following diseases:

LOCAL DISCHARGES, or WHITES, ULCERS, SWELLINGS, and NEURALGIA of the WOMB or BOWELS.

Try this remedy and you will use no other. The expense is [illegible] WOMB [illegible] once relieved by its use.

LADIES READ THIS!

"After Fourteen Months."

[illegible] Mr. Steketee—Sir: After having for 14 months suffered [illegible] I [illegible] Steketee's Neuralgia Drops. The first [illegible] medicine was the only relief I got [illegible] MRS. VESTA PRAWITT.

"Doctors Could Not Help Her."

Mr. G. B. Steketee—Sir: [illegible] Michigan, June 21, 1886. [illegible] Steketee's Neuralgia Drops. My wife [illegible] from inflammation and [illegible] Doctors could not help her, but [illegible] doses of your Steketee's Neuralgia Drops cured her. Very truly yours, WILLIS J. MILLS.

Ask your druggist for Steketee's Neuralgia Drops. If not for sale by your druggist I will send it express paid, to any address on receipt of $1. Six bottles for one dollar and fifty cents. For Sale by all Druggists.

MAKE YOUR OWN BITTERS.

A four ounce package of STEKETEE'S DRY BITTERS will make one gallon of the best Bitters known, which will cure Indigestion, Pains in the Stomach, Fever and Ague, and acts upon the Kidneys and Bladder, and is the best Tonic known. Can be used with or without Spirits. Full directions on each package. By mail, Price only 25 cents. U. S. Stamps taken in payment. Address

GEO. C. STEKETEE,
89 Monroe St., Grand Rapids, Mich.
MENTION THIS PAPER.

Deafness Can't be Cured

by local applications, as they can not reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucus lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed, you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflamation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed for ever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucus surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that we can not cure by taking Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circular, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.
Sold by Druggists, 75 cents.

MORTGAGE SALE.

ON the 5th day of November, 1884, John W. Brown mortgaged to Auburn Weatherby all that tract or parcel of land situate in the township of Fairfield, county of Lenawee and state of Michigan known and described as the north half [illegible] of the north half [illegible] of the southwest quarter [illegible] of section [illegible] in township number eight south, of range three east, containing forty [illegible] acres of land be the same more or less, to secure the payment of Six Hundred dollars [illegible] year from date with interest, at ten per cent [illegible] Several payments have been paid on said mortgage among which was one of Seven Hundred Dollars August 7th, 1886, and one of Three Hundred and Forty-five dollars, June 6th, 1887. Said mortgage was on the 5th day of November, 1884 duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for said county of Lenawee, Liber [illegible] of Mortgages on page [illegible] Default has been made in the conditions of said mortgage by which the power of sale in said mortgage contained has become operative. There is now claimed to be due and unpaid on said mortgage the sum of Four Hundred and Eighty-nine and 4/100 dollars, and no proceedings have been instituted to collect the same at law or in equity. Notice is therefore hereby given that by virtue of said power of sale and of the statute in such case provided, the said mortgaged premises above and in said mortgage described will be sold at public vendue to the highest bidder at the east front door of the County House in the city of Adrian in said county, on Saturday, the [illegible] day of November, [illegible] at [illegible] o'clock in the afternoon, to satisfy the amount of said mortgage [illegible] interest, and charges of this sale, costs, and twenty five dollars attorney fees as provided for by law and the mortgage.

Dated Aug. 11, 1887.

AUBURN WEATHERBY,
Mortgagee.

Severn A. Comstock,
Attys. for Mortgagee.

Aug 11

COMPLEXION PR. HEBRA'S VIOLA CREAM

Without injury positively removes Freckles, Liver-moles, Pimples and Blemishes of the skin. Is not a wash or powder but a remedy to cure. Sold by Druggists. G. C. BRIGGS & Co., Prop's, Toledo O.

TRADE MARK REGISTERED.

DRS. STARKEY & PALEN

OXYGEN NOT A DRUG

1529 Arch Street, Philad'a, Pa.

A Well Tried Treatment

For Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Hay Fever, Headache, Debility, Rheumatism, Neuralgia and all Chronic and Nervous disorders.

"The Compound Oxygen Treatment," Drs. Starkey & Palen, No. 1529 Arch St., Philadelphia, have been using for the last seventeen years, in a beneficial adjustment of the elements of Oxygen and Nitrogen, macerated, and the compound is so reduced and made portable that [illegible]

Drs. Starkey & Palen have the liberty to refer to the following named well-known persons who have used their treatment:

[illegible] Philadelphia.
Rev. Victor L. Conrad, Editor Lutheran Observer, Philadelphia.
Rev. Charles W. Cushing, D.D., Rochester, N. Y.
Hon. Wm. Penn Nixon, Editor Inter-Ocean, Chicago.
Rev. A. M. Moore, Editor The Centenary, Lancaster, S. C.
W. H. Worthington, Editor New South, Birmingham, Ala.
Judge H. P. Vroonman, Quenemo, Kan.
Mrs. Mary A. Livermore, Melrose, Mass.
Judge R. S. Voorhies, New York City.
Mr. E. C. Knight, Philadelphia.
Mr. Franz Shidoh, Winchcob, Philadelphia.
Hon. W. W. Scheuber, Easton, Pa.
Edward L. Wilson, 845 Broadway, N. Y., Ed. Philadelphia Photographer.
Fidelia M. Lyon, Waimea, Hawaii, Sandwich Islands.
Alexander Ritchie, Inverness, Scotland.
Mrs. Manuel V. Ortega, Freshillo, Zacatecas, Mexico.
Mrs. Emma Cooper, Utilla, Spanish Honduras, Central America.
J. Cobb, U. S. Consul, Casablanca, Morocco.
M. V. Ashbrook, Red Bluff, Cal.
Ernest Turner, Nottingham, England.
Jacob Ward, Bowral, New South Wales.
And thousands of others in every part of the United States.

"Compound Oxygen—Its Mode of Action and Results," is the title of a new brochure of 200 pages, published by Drs. Starkey & Palen, which gives to all inquirers full information as to this remarkable curative agent and a record of several hundred surprising cures in a wide range of chronic cases, many of them being abandoned to die by other physicians. Also "Compound Oxygen, Its Origin and Development," an interesting book of 100 pages. Both or either will be mailed free to any address on application. Read the brochure.

DRS. STARKEY & PALEN,
No. 1529 Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic R. R.

"THE SOO-MACKINAW SHORT LINE."

The only direct route to Marquette and the iron and copper regions of the upper peninsula of Michigan.

Two through express trains each way daily, making close connections [illegible] depots at all points.

New, Elegant and Commodious

WAGNER PARLOR CARS AND Superb Wagner Sleeping Cars.

Built expressly for this [illegible] service.

The territory traversed is famous for

UNEXCELLED HUNTING AND FISHING

Tickets for sale at all [illegible] Maps, folders, [illegible] address, E. W. [illegible] Ticket Agent, Marquette, Mich.

LAKE SUPERIOR TRANSIT COMPANY

[illegible] Detroit for [illegible] Superior ports, Mondays, Wednesdays, Thursdays, Fridays, and Saturdays [illegible]

For Cleveland and Buffalo—Sundays, Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays [illegible] Washburn and return for St. Paul, Minneapolis, Pacific Coast points, via Northern Pacific R. R., Manitoba [illegible]

Baggage checked through [illegible]

For tickets and [illegible] apply to A. J. WHITING, [illegible] Agent, Detroit, or West Arcade [illegible] Cleveland and Buffalo, Detroit, Mich.

THE CELEBRATED HAMBLETONIAN STALLION

GIPSY CHIEF

Will stand for service at the

EXCHANGE HOTEL

In Tecumseh, on FRIDAY afternoon and SATURDAY of each week, the balance of the time at the Mill in Bridgewater.

Call and get terms or address the proprietor.

CHAS. KOERNIG,
River Raisin, Mich.

SALESMEN WANTED. Permanent positions guaranteed with SALARY AND EXPENSES PAID. Any disciplined man can succeed with us. Liberal and attractive terms. Stock complete, including many fast selling specialties. Outfit free. Address, (Name this paper.) BROWN BROTHERS, NURSERYMEN, Chicago, Ill.

THE GRAND RAPIDS HERD HOLSTEIN-FRIESIANS!

About 100 HEAD of both sexes and all ages. Several head of

BULLS READY FOR SERVICE

Eight two years old, choice cows and Heifers, bred to my prize winning bulls, PRINS ALBERT and DON-JO CAPRIC, who have no superiors. A few of young pair not akin for foundation stock. Every head registered and guaranteed pure bred. Write for catalogue and prices and state age and sex desired, or come and see the herd. M. L. SWIFT, Breeder and Importer. Mention this paper. Grand Rapids, Mich.

N.Y. & N.E. SHOE MF'RS SELLING AGC'Y. 182 JEFF. AVE. DETROIT. WRITE FOR PRICE LIST. BOOTS, SHOES RUBBERS & FELTS.

THIS PAPER [illegible] ROWELL & CO. [illegible] NEW YORK

WARNER BRO'S

THE superiority of Coraline over horn or whalebone has now been demonstrated by over six years experience. It is more durable, more pliable, more comfortable, and NEVER BREAKS.

The immense sale of these Corsets is now over 7000 daily.

Beware of worthless imitations boiled with various kinds of cord.

None are genuine unless "Dr. Warner's Coraline" is printed on inside of the steel cover.

FOR SALE BY ALL LEADING MERCHANTS

WARNER BROS., 357 & 359 State St., CHICAGO, ILL.

THE STAR

A Newspaper supporting the principles of a Democratic Administration.

Published in the City of Ionia

WILLIAM DORSTHEIMER, Editor and Proprietor.

Daily, Sunday, and Weekly Editions.

THE WEEKLY STAR,

A Sixteen-page Newspaper issued every Wednesday.

A clean, pure, bright and interesting FAMILY PAPER.

It contains the latest news, down to the hour of going to press.

Agricultural, Market, Fashion, Household, Political, Financial and Commercial, Poetical, Humorous and Editorial.

THE DAILY STAR,

[illegible]

PAINT

By using COIT'S ONE-COAT BUGGY PAINT. Paint Friday, run it to Church Sunday. Eight Fashionable Shades: Black, Maroon, Vermilion Blue, Yellow, Olive Lake, Brewster and Wagon. No Varnishing necessary. Dries hard offenders. "Shine," One Coat and you is done with a "shine." One Coat and you is done.

YOUR BUGGY

Tip top for Chairs, Lawn Seats, Sash, Floors, Baby Carriages, Curtain Poles, Furniture, Front Doors, Store fronts, Screen Doors, Boats, Manitou Iron Fence, in fact everything. It is the thing for the ladies to use about the house.

FOR ONE DOLLAR

COIT'S HONEST

Are you going to Paint this year? If so, don't buy a [illegible] containing water or benzine, [illegible] money for north oil [illegible] COIT'S PURE PAINT [illegible] warranted to be HONEST, GENUINE LINSEED OIL [illegible] and [illegible] with water and benzine. Beware of brand and take no other. [illegible] warrant it to wear 2 YEARS with 2 COATS. Our [illegible] Latest Styles taught on the last page. [illegible] sold in the West and Northwest. [illegible] to be best of HONEST PAINT and never regret it. This is the wise [illegible]

HOUSE PAINT

COIT'S FLOOR PAINT

Paint that never dries [illegible] Next time call for COIT'S FLOOR PAINT. [illegible] warranted to give satisfaction. [illegible] WONT DRY STICKY.

A MAN WHO USES COIT'S PAINT NEVER SWEARS

DANDRUFF [illegible] of the scalp, causes an intolerable itching, destroys the roots of the hair, [illegible] ness. Ladies take notice. [illegible] this Dr. Weston, box [illegible] New Haven, Conn., and receive by return mail prepaid a treatment that will certainly cure the [illegible] Scurfy, stop the hair falling out & prevent BALDNESS.

$1000 DRUG STORE FOR SALE.

Corner store on Gratiot avenue. Fine [illegible] trade. A splendid opportunity for a [illegible] For particulars address [illegible] Detroit, Mich.

TO ADVERTISE [illegible] JUDICIOUSLY [illegible] ADVERTISING, CHICAGO.

The Tecumseh Herald.

VOL. XXXVIII—NO 13. TECUMSEH MICHIGAN, THURSDAY MORNING, AUGUST 25, 1887 WHOLE NO. 1941

70 PIECES 70

NEW

DRESS GOODS

JUST OPENED.

Also a New Lot of

REMNANTS!

On sale each week at

W. & S. W. Anderson & Co's.

Everything on the

BOOM-BOOM

AT THE

GRAND CENTRAL SUPPLY STORE.

GROCERIES, CROCKERY, GLASSWARE, TEAS, SUGARS, SPICE.

PRICES LOWER THAN EVER.

HENRY McCLURE.

O. B. DeWOLF, Pres. H. M. TEMPLE, Sec'y and Treas. S. W. TEMPLE, Vice Pres. and Gen'l Mgr

THE OHIO & MICH. COAL & MFG. CO.,

COAL.

LUMBER LATH AND SHINGLES

MANUFACTURERS OF

Doors, Sash, Blinds, Mouldings,

Scroll Work, Turned Work, Modern Interior Finish.

GET ESTIMATES BEFORE BUYING.

OFFICE CORNER R. R. AND SHAWNEE STS.

Yards and Factory on Pearl and Shawnee sts., near L. S. & M. S. Depot.

TECUMSEH, MICH.

NEW BEDROOM SUITS

PARLOR SUITS!

Patent Rockers, Reed Rockers, New Couches,

And a big stock of Fine and Medium

FURNITURE!

Invite all who are in want of good Furniture to look through my rooms and examine goods and notice the low prices. Remember, I have not moved back, but still occupy the largest store on the street for the last 18 years. You are told I don't enjoy the business for want of room. THAT IS SO.

Undertaking a Specialty!

Night Calls, Day Calls, and all kinds of calls promptly attended to. New Styles of Caskets in stock, and something entirely new for the times.

WM. McCOWEN.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

RIDGEWAY RAMBLES.

The late rains make pasture grass up a little.

Farmers are busy plowing since the rains.

Those who are digging potatoes report a small yield and little potatoes.

The masons are at work on the cellar wall of Chas. Underwood's new house he is building on his fine farm west of the village.

H. J. Williams began laying slate on the Library, Monday.

Sherley Smith picked 13 large willow baskets full of pears from one tree last week. He thinks they are of the "Beauties of San Francisco" variety.

Vernie Barrett had a light Paralytic shock Friday afternoon, but was able to be out in a few hours.

Prof. J. D. Huston of Cherry Hill, made his many friends a visit Friday and Saturday, and took his place in the box for games between Onsted and Tipton ball teams, who played our team Friday and Saturday.

The annual school meeting for Dist. No. 1, will be held a week from next Monday Evening, Sept. 5th, '87.

Johnny Yates fell one day last week in his father's barn, and was quite badly hurt, and out little hopes of his recovery.

Hattie Osborn has been quite sick with scarlet fever for the past week, but is on the gain at this writing.

P. H. Montgomery has been suffering terribly for the past two weeks with blood poison in the right arm, caused by being pricked on the finger with a tooth of a buck saw.

Mrs. Lancaster of Clinton visited J. C. Palmer and family last Sunday.

Elmer Linn and wife are visiting friends at Sumpter this week.

Prof. E. A. Wilson left for Mt. Pleasant for a few days visit, after which he will go to Petoskey, as he has accepted the Superintendency of the Union School there for the next year. He has our best wishes for success in his new field of labor.

Rodney Palmer of St. John, a member of the Bicycle Cornet Band, made a trip on his cycle from St. John a few days since, and called on friends in this vicinity.

Mrs. B. D. Palmer of St. John visited at Lester Osgood's last week.

Rev. D. R. Shier, of Manchester, will assist Rev. W. J. Clack in the last quarterly meeting services for the present conference year, next Sunday morning.

Mrs. G. W. and Clarence Jackson of Tecumseh, are visiting friends in the village at present. Wash went to Ithaca Monday to see to his Northern investment.

Rumor says that the Smith Battery of Damascus are anxious to meet our ball team in a friendly game.

Jesse Potter went to Toledo Monday on business.

Sunday evening Lon Sisson and young St. George and Ed. Reeves were running horses up the turnpike from the east. Sisson's horse turned so short to go north that the buggy, and occupants and horse were thrown out to the ground. The buggy was broke quite badly. Too much 40 rod was the cause.

Dr. D. W. Loree received a telegram Tuesday, to counsel with Dr. Jones of Petersburg, over Burt Johnson who is very sick with a [illegible] brain fever.

Mrs. Wm. Beeyers is on the sick list at this writing.

The Hunter Brothers who are repairing Wm. Andrews barn, had a scaffold give away Tuesday, letting them fall a distance of 15 feet. One of them received some bruises about the ribs and a sprained wrist.

Miss Ella Pinchem of New York and Mrs. Isaac Pennington visited Mrs. Ruth Waring last Friday. Miss Pinchem starts for Bulgaria in a few days as a missionary, where she is to remain at least three years to attain the language of that people preparatory to missionary work. She is a young lady of unusual attainments and a very dear friend of Mrs. Pennington's.

As the Wolf Creek ball team sent word that they would not be here Saturday P. M. for a game as agreed, our team sent a challenge to the Tipton team, who presented themselves on the diamond at 2:30 P. M. for a social friendly game. It was a fine practice game all through. Our team respected the Tipton Boys very highly for the gentlemanly manner they accepted and played the game. Score 14 to 2 in favor of our team.

As announced last week, the Onsted Base Ball team came down on the 9:30 A. M. train Friday, and a little after 2 P. M. the game was called with the visiting club at the bat. The game was quite close and interesting, and stood tie, when the visitors went to bat on the ninth innings the first man fouled out, second and third made a hit, and Jennings came to bat put a grounder to the short stop, who made an attempt to put the runner from second to third out, when he, the runner, turned off from the line and passed by; then the short stop threw to second and put a runner out, which our club claims made them out, but the Umpire would not make a decision, and after a little kicking for their rights, our club offered to take their positions and get out another man, but the Onsteders had packed up their bats and were making way for the village, having the game a tie, with them one innings the lead. We have learned since, that they had some of the Wolf Creeks to help them. We have been informed that our boys will give the Onsted and Milan teams the use of their grounds for a game any time they will play.

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Onsted	0	2	2	1	8	4	2	0	0	—19
Ridgeway	1	3	1	3	1	8	1	1	*	—19

One would think by the amount of foul air the Wolf Creek dress parraders displayed the day our ball team were at Clinton, that they were the bullies of Southern Michigan, and were not easily bluffed. But it is a true saying that a barking dog never bites, and so it was with them, when they stepped up to our manager, and challenged our team for a game, and after setting the day themselves to meet our team on our grounds, the time being set last Saturday, P. M. resorted to the baby act, and sent word that they thought our boys had thrown up the game with them when they made the arrangements with Onsted for a game. We have only this to say to them, and that is, they will find our boys regard their reputation and word more than to crawl out of an engagement with any club in a baby act, rather than to be beaten.

The Ladies of the W. C. T. U. have been preparing a literary and musical program which will be presented to the public, Tuesday evening, Aug. 30, at Cottage Hall. They have secured W. F. Barnum of Adrian, who will give some of his fine whistling solos, that will make the entertainment a fine treat.

PROGRAM.

Music—Society.
Recitation—Loina Wiggins.
Reading—Ella Waring.
Whistling Solo—W. T. Barnum.
Recitation—Lulu Rappleye.
Duet—Flota Smith, Lulu Sutton.
Recitation—Hattie Russell.
Whistling Solo—W. T. Barnum.
Declamation—Elmer Linn.
Music—Quartette.
Essay—Nettie Wilson.
Whistling Solo—W. T. Barnum.
Reading—Goye.
Duet—Belle Barlow, Clara Housman.
Recitation—Lou Smith.
Whistling—W. T. Barnum.
Dialogue—Ten Little Boys.
Music—Quartette.
Admission—10c. adults; 5c. children under 10 years.

ONSTED ODDS.

Mrs. Crosby, of Napoleon, is visiting friends in this vicinity.

David Corwin has commenced to build a house on his lot at Onsted.

Jerome Snow has gone to Findlay Ohio, to work at the Mason's trade.

Jonathan Hand started Tuesday for a trip of three weeks in the northern part of the state.

William Onsted intends starting on Friday, to visit a few weeks at St. Johns and other places in that vicinity.

Arthur Kishpaugh and wife, Mrs. Jesse Gibber and daughter and Frank Secor, started Monday for their new home in Kansas.

The Onsted Base Ball team were victorious at Ridgeway last Friday. The score as declared was nine to nothing.

Denis Austin has moved into H. F. Verrier's house. Mrs. Verrier intends to go to Indiana to spend the winter. We understand that Mrs. Austin will run the millinery business and also put in a stock of dry goods.

BRITTON BUDGET

Nice rain Sunday night.

Fred Eveiby was home Friday.

The masons are at work on L. S. Osborn's new house.

There was a small congregation at the church Sunday evening on account of the weather.

The carpenter work is nearly done on Geo. Bachmans new house and it will soon be ready for the masons.

Richard Wiggins is on the sick list.

Once more the sound of the anvil is heard in the village blacksmithshop, but the boss hums a trifle the hammer now.

Burnham & Porter, of Deerfield, are buying and shipping oats from this station.

One second nine played another game of ball with our boys Saturday, the score standing 9 to 3.

Mr. Osborn has bought a house of Lyman Hause, which he will move to Britton. He is bound to build the town up.

The church is to be papered this week. C. A. Wright of Tecumseh, took the job.

The Eagle has a new correspondent at Holloway. Y. G. Florence has taken Mr. Holders place. We only wish that he will take the interest that Holder did in gathering news.

LAKE RIDGE LACONICS.

Yes it did rain, but not enough to make good plowing or to help potatoes. Farmers are alternating between threshing and attending picnics and excursions.

A. F. Gordon was the guest of Orrel Harmon, Saturday and Sunday.

Frank Gilmore and Uncle Horace Gray attended the Supervisors reunion and stopped over to the farmers' union picnic.

Miss Edith Carter is visiting friends in Hudson and will remain till after the farmers' picnic the 25th.

Master Clarence Osgood of St. Johns who has been rusticating among friends here for several weeks returned home this week.

A band of emigrants camped on the school grounds over Sunday.

Clarence Maynard, fell from a stoop the 19th, fracturing an arm.

The Lake Ridge kids, played the Hickory Street Kids at a picnic in Wm. Lees grove the 20th. Score 17 to 11 in favor of Lake Ridge.

Ed Reeves, brakeman on the T. A. A. R. R. is at home nursing a thumb and finger from a smash between the bumpers.

John Yates lies in a critical condition from injuries received in falling from the hay mow onto the barn floor a distance of about twelve feet.

THE BAND TOURNAMENT.

Prof. Skinner attended the band tournament which was held at Bellevue, Ohio, last week. The organization is called the Mich. and Ohio Band Association and is composed of twenty or more bands in Northern Ohio and Eastern Michigan. At least 6000 people were in attendance, and it was the biggest day Bellevue has seen for many years.

A free dinner was served by the citizens to all the bands. A grand street parade was held in the afternoon. It was voted to hold the next annual meeting in Tecumseh on the third Thursday in August 1888—Aug. 16th. At the business meeting our Tecumseh band carried off the honors, the election resulting as follows:

President—H. B. Root, of Tecumseh, Mich.

Vice Pres.—L. E. Mitchell, of Palmyra, Mich.

Sec. and Treas.—J. H. Smith, of Tecumseh, Mich.

Musical Director—A. C. Poheme, of Monroe, Mich.

Assistant Director—C. Skinner, of Tecumseh.

Among the Notes of the tournament as published in the Bellevue Local News we gather the following:

"The G. A. R. band of Bellevue, will run an excursion train from this city to Tecumseh next year for the tournament, and gather up a big crowd along the road.

It was Bellevue's greatest day for several years.

The Monroe, Mich. Band the originator of the association, is composed of a lot of gentlemen.

Mr. Skinner, of the Tecumseh Band, and assistant musical Director, besides knocking fine wind out of a brass instrument, can knock about fifty square feet of oxygen crazy when he is on the floor to address the crowd, but he gets there just the same.

Prof. Skinner represented our band at the tournament and it is due to his skillful management that Tecumseh was chosen as the place of meeting next year."

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The Best salve in the world for cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns and all skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. FOR SALE BY C. A. Wright & Co.

The Track is up for the Deerfield fair, well

A group of encouraging [illegible] strong base ball clubs.

At Night always have Acker's Baby Soother at hand. It is the only safe medicine yet made that will remove all infantile disorders. It contains no Opium or Morphine, but gives the child natural ease from pain. Price 25 cents. Sold by C. A. WRIGHT & CO., Druggists.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSONS.

Lesson for August 28.

MERCY WITHOUT DISPLAY.—MATT. VI. 1-15.

NOTES.—"Your righteousness."—This is a better reading than "alms" of the Old Version. It properly means any kind of righteousness, alms-givings prayer or fasting, but especially alms—and the word righteousness, in Hebrew, came to mean, chiefly, almsgiving.——"Thou doest alms."—The first specification under "righteousness"——"Sound not a trumpet."—This does not mean that the Pharisees actually did sound a trumpet before them when they were about to give alms, but they made as much display as they could.——"They have received their reward.—It has already come in the notoriety they sought; and they need not expect any more from God.——"Let not thy left hand know."—Here is a similar strong expression to that about the trumpet. The left hand, and its closest fellow, is chosen to be observed.——"Shall recompense thee."—Omit "openly." The idea is not openly, but in future.——"In the corners of the streets."—It is now an extremely common to see such praying in the East.—"As the Gentiles do."—Here it is not the hypocrites of the Pharisees, the heathen are criticised. The heathen repeat petitions over and over again.——"After this manner."—Not as the only form of prayer, but as an example of simplicity in approaching a Father, and asking for truly desirable things.——"Hallowed be thy name."—The "name" implies the one named; and here the prayer is that God may be treated as reverently and obeyed as dutifully as he in his holiness requires.——"Thy kingdom come."—It had begun, but was not fully come. Its completeness would not be until Christ's victory over the world should be complete.——"Our daily bread."—This is not a literal translation, but it gives the substantial idea. The word translated "daily" is an ambiguous one, and may mean "for the coming day, or "necessary, or there may even be a transition here to the spiritual food needed.——"Have forgiven."—Not "forgive," in the sense of may forgive, but have already forgiven, in accordance with the direction in the preceding lessons.——"Bring us not into temptation."—Especially where there would be such a trial as to endanger their faith. Then any temptation.——"The Evil One."—Whether the ambiguous words "the evil" is neater, and means any evil thing, or masculine, and means Satan, is much discussed. The idea is about the same.

INSTRUCTION.—A desire of praise in our good deeds, and a tendency to do them for the sake of praise, forms one of the most subtile temptations. So Christ says: Take heed. To avoid this danger we must watch very carefully against it, especially if our good deeds have to be public.

We have to be seen of men. We are bidden to be a city on a hill or a light on a stand that cannot be hid. Preachers, teachers, scholars, all have to do duties in public. We must speak and pray in public. We must even give in public often. But it must not be to be seen of men.

One reward is enough. Either man's praise or God's praise. Whichever we work for we can get. The question is which is the more valuable.

It is much to work for God because it is good. It is also right to work for good because God will approve and reward it. There is nothing small or selfish in the latter, since we seek God's approval because he is good.

The first righteousness in which we are to avoid display is doing good to others, in alms. This sort of display is made when people see to it that their gifts get into the papers. They are helped in it by the officers of benevolent societies or of institutions, who publish great gifts so as to encourage others to give, or name colleges or professorships after the donors. If one takes special delight in such notoriety, he sins.

The second righteousness in which we are to avoid display is worship. But one who does not pray in public is not very apt to pray in private. It is hypocrisy to boast of making an show of public worship when one does no private worship.

To pray and to say one's prayers are two different things. The latter can be done with no prayer. Children should be taught to say their prayers, but to pray at the same time.

Especially should we attempt in public worship to join in the petitions and most of all when the Lord's Prayer is repeated. That is so familiar that the attention flags and the lips only repeat it. Give your whole attention to it when you repeat it, and so to such common petitions as asking God's blessing at table.

Come to God as a father in prayer. He is ruler, judge, teacher, but most of all our loving Father. Remember that we can come to him with confidence and affection.

THE TECUMSEH HERALD.

Issued Every Thursday Morning

BY S. C. [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible]

gain

EY'S

URE

VORKMANSHIP.

KINDS.

ces for Cash. I keep

RTAKING

f the new INDESTRUCTABLE taking in all Branches ABLE.

RE & CO.,

& Co.,

sh and Doo

MATERIAL.

ing to Orde
d Depot,
IIGAN.

Adrian,
Children's Cab
tures, Etc.

Southern Mich
Feet of Flooring in
are for quality.

all competition in LOW
articulars represe
s to examine

VERY FINE.

HOLIDAY PRES

Send one of Sheet Music, Vocal or Band, Instrument catalogue, or any address.

N.W.AYER & SON
ADVERTISING AGENTS
TIMES BUILDING PHILADELPHIA
Cor. Chestnut and Eighth Sts.
Advertisements for this Paper,
ESTIMATES FOR NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING
AT Lowest Cash Rates FREE
Address for AYER & SON'S MANUAL

NEWSPAPER is on file in Philadelphia at the Newspaper Advertising Agency of Messrs. N. W. AYER & SON, our authorized agents.

KASKINE.
(THE NEW QUININE.)

GIVES
Good Appetite
New Strength
Quiet Nerves
Happy Days
Sweet Sleep.

A POWERFUL TONIC
which a delicate stomach will bear.
A SPECIFIC FOR MALARIA,
RHEUMATISM,
NERVOUS PROSTRATION,
and all germ diseases.
A SCIENTIFIC AND SUCCESSFUL
TONIC. Superior to quinine.
Kaskine gave me dyspepsia, and malaria followed. I got thin to be carried up and down stairs, thought I would die. Three bottles gave me new life. I am now in good health. I owe my recovery, and life itself, to the use of this great and efficient tonic. J. Bonstock, 139 East 71st st.,
N. Y. Malaria and dyspepsia greatly weakened me, and destroyed her health. Malaria and every known remedy failed to cure her. I heard of Kaskine, procured the medicine, cured her health and strength, and she has enjoyed good health for four years.
Brown, N. Y.
Many other testimonials from prominent persons, giving full details of application.
Kaskine and can be used by any druggist. $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5.
Address, Kaskine Co., 14 Warren st., New York.

PARKER'S
HAIR BALSAM
The popular favorite for dressing the hair. Restoring color when faded or fading. Cleansing and healing the scalp, stops the hair coming out, and leaves it soft and glossy. 50c. at Druggists.

CORNS.
Quickest, surest and safest cure for Corns, Bunions, &c.
Ensures comfort to the feet. Never fails.
Sold by all Druggists. Hiscox & Co., N. Y.

MARVELOUS
MEMORY
DISCOVERY.
Wholly unlike artificial systems.
Any book learned in one reading.
Endorsed by Mark Twain, Richard Proctor, Scientist; Hons. W. W. Astor, Judah P. Benjamin, Minor, etc. Class of 100 Columbia Law students; two classes of 200 each at Yale; University of Penn. Phil., and 400 at Wellesley College, etc., and engaged at Chautauqua University. Prospectus post free from
PROF. LOISETTE, 237 Fifth Ave., New York.

DEAFNESS Its causes and a new and successful CURE at your own home by one who was deaf 28 years. Treated by most of the noted specialists without benefit. Cured himself in three months, and since thousands of others. Full particulars sent on application. 11 West 31st St., New York City.

Agric'l Rural Implement
DEPOT.
C. A. SLAYTON
Prices lower than ever before on all kinds of farm machinery. My stock is complete, but will only mention a few articles.
SOUTH BEND, BURCH, WIARD, GALL, OLIVER. Walking.
PLOWS.
THE CASSADY AND SOLID COMFORT
SULKY PLOWS.
Kalamazoo Spring Tooth Harrow,
THE ACME PULVERIZING HARROWS.
CULTIVATORS { Elwood, New Robbins, Albion, Buckeye.
Buckeye, Superior, Junior, Roller. GRAIN DRILLS
KEMP'S MANURE SPREADER.
Studebaker, Jackson and Flint
WAGONS.
GREAT BARGAINS IN Carriages and Platform Spring Wagons.
Headquarters for Lime, Cement, Salt, Coal, Plaster and Plastering Hair Grain, Flour, Feed, and Field Seeds.

Tecumseh Herald

THE WEAVING OF TCHI NIU.

There is a loom of wondrous power,
There is a fabric, silken spun,
Soft as the petals of a flower
Bright as the gates of the sun.
As from the loom the fabric flows
And slow its lustrous shades unfold,
A picture on its surface glows
In ever changing hues of gold.

There barges from the gates of dawn
Their pennons wave in royal state;
There knights in armor, in unspan drawn,
Are jousting at the jousting gate;
And woven in its shifting glow
Are jewel fleets and lotos isles,
And there the pearly sycamore blows
The jasmine flower its fragrant perfume;
Such fabric wove from each new day
With phrases lifted in Tchi Niu's loom,
Some have in long ago Cathay,
With shuttles moved by touch of love.

Poet, that is that the sale of Tong
In words that haunt, in tones that thrill,
Thinkest a young fancies round us throng
As by a necromancer's will,
O, whisper where the loom is hid,
And where the fabrics wrought of gold,
And where the chest with carven lid
For which Hans is never old!

—Times-Democrat

JESS.

By H. RIDER HAGGARD,

Author of "King Solomon's Mines" Etc.

"Yes, Miss Bessie, Natal is still English, for the present, even it will be Dutch; but I am sorry that I cannot let you go there now. My orders are to keep you both prisoners and to try you under court martial. The wagon house," he went on, quickly, "with the two little rooms on each side of it, has not been touched by the fire. I will have them made ready for you, and as soon as the heat is less you can go there;" and, turning to the men who had followed him, he gave some rapid orders, which two of them departed to carry out.

Still the old man made no comment; he did not even seem indignant or surprised; but poor Bessie was utterly prostrated and stood helpless, not knowing what to say to this terrible, remorseless man, who stood so calm and unmoved there before them.

Frank Muller paused a while to think, stroking his beard as he did so, then turned again and addressed the two remaining men behind him.

"You will keep guard over the prisoner," indicating Silas Croft, "and suffer none to communicate with him by word or sign. As soon as it is ready you will place him in the little room to the left of the wagon house, and see that he is supplied with all he wants. If he escapes, or converses, or is ill treated, I will hold you responsible. Do you understand?"

"Yah, meinheer," was the answer.

"Very good; be careful you do not forget. And now, Miss Bessie, I shall be glad if you can give me a word alone"——

"No," said Bessie; "no, I will not leave my uncle."

"I fear you will have to do that," he said, with his cold smile. "I beg you to think again. It will be very much to your advantage to speak to me, and to your uncle's advantage also. I should advise you to come."

Bessie hesitated. She hated and mistrusted the man, as she had good reason to do, and feared to trust herself alone with him.

While she hesitated the two Boers under whose watch and ward Muller had placed her came and stood between him and her, cutting her off from him. Muller turned and walked a few paces—ten or so—to the right, and in desperation she followed him. He halted behind a bushy orange tree of some eight years' growth. Over its rising sun, she stood there waiting for him to speak. They were quite close to the others, but the roaring of the flames of the burning house was still sufficiently loud to have drowned a much more audible conversation than theirs.

"Well, Miss Bessie, I have to say to me?" she said at length, pressing her hand against her heart to quell its throbbing. The wretch's insolence to her mind was even greater than she was trying to convince herself it was.

"Miss Bessie, for all these years I have loved you, I have asked you to marry me, I have asked you twice, and twice you refused me."

"Mr. Frank Muller," she answered, her spirit rising with the occasion, "I think you for some other, and the only answer that I can give you is that I am grieved for all the pain I"

"There, there, I said, I love you, women are not often loved. You are always in my mind by day and by night. Everything I do, every step I take, is for your sake. I have sold and sold to love. I am doing it for the sake of the whom I mean to marry. Things have changed in this country. The revolution has been successful. It was I who gave the casting vote, I, I, I, who gave it for you. I am now a great man and shall one day be a great. You will be great with me. Think what you say."

"I have thought, and I will not marry you. You dare to come and ask me to marry you over the bodies of my kinsfolk, of which you have disposed, and pay poor of money! I hate you! I hate you! I will not marry you! I hate you! I hate you! I would rather marry a Kaffir than marry you, Frank Muller, however great you may be."

"I WOULD RATHER MARRY A KAFFIR THAN MARRY YOU, FRANK MULLER."

He smiled. "Is it because of the Englishman Niel that you will not marry me? He is dead. It is useless to cling to a dead man."

"Dead or alive, I love him with all my heart; and if he is dead, it is at the hands of your people, and his blood rises up between us."

"His blood has sunk down into the sand. He is dead, and, I am glad that he is dead. Once more, is that your last word?"

"It is."

"Very good. Then I tell you that you shall marry me or"——

"Or what?"

"Or your uncle, the old man you love so much, shall die!"

"What do you mean?" she said, in a choked voice.

"What I say, no more and no less. Do you think that I will let one old man's life stand between me and my desire? Never. If you will not marry me, Silas Croft shall be put upon his trial for attempted murder and for treason within an hour from this. Within an hour and a half he shall be condemned to die, and to-morrow at dawn he shall die, by wagrapt under my hand. I am commandant here, with power of life and death, and I tell you that he shall certainly die—and his blood will be on your head."

Bessie grasped at the tree for support.

"You dare not," she said; "you dare not murder an innocent old man."

"Dare not!" he answered; "you must understand me very ill, Bessie Croft, when you talk of what I dare not do for you. There is nothing," he added, with a thrill of his rich voice, "that I dare not do to gain you. Listen: promise to marry me to-morrow morning. I will get a clergyman here from Wakkerstroom, and your uncle shall go free, as air, though he is a traitor to the land, and though he has tried to shoot a burgher after the declaration of peace. Refuse, and he dies. Choose now."

"I have chosen," she answered with passion, "Frank Muller, perjured traitor—yes, murderer that you are, I will not marry you!"

"Very good, very good, Bessie; as you will. But now one more thing. You shall not say that I have not warned you. If you persist in this your uncle shall die, but you shall not escape me. You will not marry me? Well, even in this country, where I can do most things, I cannot force you to do that. But I can force you to be my wife in all but the name without marriage; and this, when your uncle is still in his bloody grave, I will do. You shall have one more chance after the trial, and one only. If you refuse he shall die, and then, after his death, I will take you away by force, and in a week's time you will be glad enough to marry me to cover up your shame, my pretty!"

"You are a devil, Frank Muller, a wicked devil; but I will not be frightened into dishonor by you. I had rather kill my self. I trust to God to help me. I will have nothing to do with you," and she put her hands before her face and burst into tears.

"You look lovely when you weep," he said, with a laugh; "to-morrow I shall be able to kiss away your tears. As you will. Here, you!" he shouted to some men, who could be seen watching the progress of the dying fire, "come here."

Some of the men obeyed, and he proceeded to give instructions in the same terms that he had given to the other two men who were watching old Silas, ordering Bessie to be instantly incarcerated in the corresponding little room on the other side of the wagon house, and kept strictly from all communication with the outside world, adding, however, these words:

"Bid the burghers assemble in the wagon house for the trial of the Englishman, Silas Croft, for treason against the state and attempted murder of one of the burghers of the state in the execution of the commands of the triumvirate."

The two men advanced and seized Bessie by both arms. Then, faint and overpdwered, she was led through the little plantation, over a gap in the garden wall, down past the scorched syringa trees that lined the roadway that ran along the hillside at the back of the still burning house, till they reached the wagon house with the two little rooms which served respectively as a store and harness room. She was then thrust into the store room, which was half full of loose potatoes and mealies in sacks, and the door locked upon her.

There was no window to this room, and the only light in it was such as found its way through the chinks of the door and an air hole in the masonry of the back wall. She sank on a half emptied sack of mealies and tried to reflect. Her first idea was of escape, but she soon realized that that was a practical impossibility. The stout, yellow wood door was fastened upon her, and it scarcely stood before it. She cleared a hole through the air hole in the back wall, but there another sentry was posted. Then she turned her attention to the wall that divided the room from the wagon house. It was built of sun-dried bricks, of a rough workmanship, and had cracked from the sun, as the bricks do, so that she could hear anything that went on in the next room, and even see the people who might be in it. But it was far too strong for her to hope to make an breach through, and even if she did, it would be useless, for there were armed men in the other beside—how could she run away at all, let alone without the knowledge?

CHAPTER XXIX.

CONTINUED TO DEATH.

Half an hour passed in silence, which was only broken by the voices of the sentries as they talked to one another, or stood up and down, or by the occasional fall of some half cremated timber in the ruins of the burned out house. Presently the sun rose in the sky and shone down on the hillside and the little plantation above, and the sentries, who had been standing in front of the wagon house, began to take a little more interest in what was going on. Through a crack in the door Bessie could see them talking to the men who had been in charge of the wagon house, and pointing up the road that led to the farm. Then they fell back, and a cart came down the road, and was drawn up in front of the wagon house. Then there was a long pause, during which Bessie could see the men talking together, and gesticulating, and at last they seemed to have come to a decision, for they fastened up the wagon house door, and all three climbed into the cart and drove off, leaving the wagon house with the door fastened and the sentries standing in front of it. Then they drove on to the farm, where they stopped for a little while, and then they came back, and stopped at the wagon house door, and Bessie could see that they were talking to her uncle. Then they left him, and drove on to the place where the Boers were assembled, and there they stopped for a long time, and Bessie could see that they were talking to a man who was standing in the middle of them, who was dressed in a long black coat and a broad hat, and who, she thought, looked like a clergyman. Then they came back, and stopped at the wagon house door, and Bessie could hear the key turned in the lock, and the door was thrown open, and she was ordered to come out. She obeyed, and found herself face to face with Frank Muller and a crowd of people.

"Prisoner," said Muller, pointing to a place in front of the wagon, "you are charged with high treason against the state, and with the attempted murder of one of the burghers of the state in the execution of the commands of the triumvirate. What have you to say to this charge?"

"I am an English subject. I only defended my house after you had murdered one of my servants. I deny your jurisdiction over me, and I refuse to plead."

Frank Muller made some notes in his pocket book, and then said, "I overrule the prisoner's objection as to the jurisdiction of the court. As to the charges, we will now take evidence. Of the first charge no evidence is needed, for we all know the fact flying. As to the second, Hans Coetzee, the assaulted burgher, will now give evidence. Hans Coetzee, do you swear in the name of God and the republic to speak the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth?"

"Almighty, yes," answered Hans, from the cart on which he had enthroned himself, "so help me, the dear Lord."

"Proceed."

"I was driving the horse of the prisoner, to arrest him in obedience to your worship's commands, when the prisoner lifted a gun and fired at me. The bullet from the gun struck me on the ear, cutting it and paining me to much. Look at my ear, and see the evidence I have spoken."

"That's right, there is no ear," said some of the men on the wagon.

"Prisoner, have you any question to ask the witness?" said Muller.

"I have no question to ask. I deny your jurisdiction."

"The prisoner declines to question the witness, and again pleads to the jurisdiction, a plea which I have overruled. Gentlemen, do you desire to hear any further evidence?"

"No, no."

"Do you then find the prisoner guilty of the charges laid against him?"

"Yes, yes," from the wagon.

Muller made a further note in his book and then went on:

"Then, the prisoner having been found guilty of high treason and attempted murder, the only matter that remains is the question of the punishment required to be meted out by the law to such wicked and horrible offenses. Every man will give his verdict, having duly considered if there is any way by which, in accordance with the holy dictate of his conscience, and with the natural promptings to pity in his heart, he can extend mercy to the prisoner. As commandant and president of the court the first vote lies with me; and I must tell you, gentlemen, that I feel the responsibility a very hearty one in the sight of God and my country; and I must also warn you not to be influenced or overruled by my decision, who am, like you, only a man, liable to err and be led away."

"Hear, hear," said the voices on the wagon, as he paused to note the effect of his address.

"Gentlemen and burghers of the state, my natural promptings in this case are toward pity. The prisoner is an old man, who has lived many years among us like a brother. Indeed, he is a 'voortrekker,' and, though an Englishman, one of the fathers of the land. Can we condemn such a one to a bloody grave, more especially as he has a niece dependent upon him?

"No, no," they cried, in answer to this skilful touch upon the better strings in their nature.

"Gentlemen, these sentiments do you honor. My own heart cried but now, No, no, whatever his sins have been, let the old man go free. But then came reflection. True, the prisoner is old; but should not age have taught him wisdom? Is that wisdom is not to be given to youth to be forgiven to the rope experience of many years? May a man murder and be a traitor because he is old?

"Gentlemen, I read the thoughts on the wagon.

"You think, if he be spared, he may be a good citizen of the land. Should he be, there are hundreds on hundreds of men to betray it into the hands of the cruel, crafty Englishman. For, gentlemen, the fact that this prisoner fired upon me, we must remember, is nothing, a light fault in his general character, that the prisoner was the man who was the leader of the party who drove the first to Sekukuni's country in the second and most disastrous war against the Kaffirs. Should such a man be given a chance of doing harm to his fellow creatures? Therefore, on this point, I think, there can be no mercy."

"That is so," said the chorus, with particular emphasis, and it seemed that the speaker had been successful in bringing the men over to his side.

"There is one more thing to this man is a traitor. He was one of those who, when the Boers were fighting for their lives against the Kaffirs, sold ammunition to the Kaffirs, and, when the war was over, demanded payment for it from the Boers, who had saved his life. Such a man is a traitor to his country, and he should be treated as a traitor. Gentlemen, I have spoken. The prisoner has been found guilty of high treason and attempted murder, the only punishment

Tecumseh Herald

TECUMSEH, MICH., AUG. 25, 1887.

THE CONNECTICUT REVIEW

A Rainy Day, but a Good Gathering and an Interesting Program.

Wednesday, Aug. 17th, was the day selected for the annual reunion of the present and past officers and Brazee's Grove Hotel was the place. The morning was ushered in with a cloudy sky and by seven o'clock a drizzling rain began which continued with but slight intermission until long after the afternoon. It was the first good soaking rain this section had been favored with in about six weeks and hence did a vast amount of good, although it sadly disarranged the program in question. Mr. Brazee had his grove in readiness to accommodate a large crowd, but exercises out of doors were out of the question. The spacious veranda of the Hotel was utilized and here the exercises were held.

A full and interesting program was presented to a large gathering. The fact that so respectable a number were present on such a stormy day, nearly every town in the county being represented, demonstrated that these reunions have struck a responsive chord, and they can be made a permanent thing in future years.

The assemblage was called to order on the porch promptly at two o'clock by the President, D. D. Sinclair. All the benches and chairs in the house were brought into requisition, and most of the gentlemen present occupied the dining room. In the absence of the Secretary, D. A. Bixby, Lyons county clerk, Hunter was chosen to fill the position.

ADDRESS OF WELCOME.

The president was as follows:

[illegible]

[illegible] and county officers I would most respectfully say to you, welcome.

[illegible] that I am in the presence and surrounded by old [illegible] of sterling worth [illegible] and by many [illegible] have had the honor of being [illegible] years gone [illegible] the duties of the hour. [illegible] that whatever I [illegible] or that I should [illegible] whatever I may fail in [illegible] your [illegible] will overlook, and [illegible] for the good in good of this [illegible] W.E. fall's supply.

[illegible] of the first year [illegible] organization, we have here [illegible] a though under unfavorable [illegible] circumstances, to profit by the experiences of the past, and with high [illegible] of the future.

I shall not detain you with any extended remarks, but surrender the time to the distinguished gentlemen who will address you, as indicated in the program.

The Raisin Glee Club followed with a quartette entitled, "Friendship, Love and Song." This Club has lost none of its popularity. The members are W. E. Wilson, 1st. tenor; Arthur Green, 2d. tenor; Spencer Lester, 1st. bass; C. H. Beardsley, 2d. bass; Miss Nina Underwood, organist. The entire musical part of the program was rendered by the club in a highly creditable manner.

Orsamus Lamb, of Adrian, delivered the

ADDRESS OF WELCOME.

After referring to the pleasant surroundings under which the Association had assembled, the history of the previous meeting, and the feelings of gratitude which should animate all present, the speaker continued:

We [illegible] friends, who remind us that time has been stealthily "whitening your early manhood locks" with the silvery sheen of age, undermining your existence until your steps are less certain, the eye less vigilant, and the hand less sure and cunning than of yore—yet the soul looks forth from this earthly casket, with all the genuine manhood of the past, beautified by the chastening hand of time, and adorned by a ripe experience, better to look upon than "apples of gold set in pictures of silver," and grander by far than all the pleasing pageantry of kings; because we know that "within the hollow circle of a crown which rounds the temples of a king, Death keeps his court." But the memory of those we cherish shall live forever.

To the younger members of this association we look with pardonable pride and hope, believing that in their hands shall be safely entrusted our welfare and mutual interests; and thus we welcome them in that spirit of regard and respect which their position commands.

And here are the aged matrons, who, side by side with their enterprising husbands, have heroically met the perils and privations of the early settlers' lot, patiently battled with the adversities of life, faithfully cheered them on in their toil and manly usefulness, kindly aided them by wise counsels when the clouds of adversity lowered, and rejoiced when we smiled upon them. To those we tender a right royal welcome, accompanied with a prayer that their remaining days may be as tranquil and happy as their early ones have been laborious and eventful.

To the younger ladies who have come up hither to grace this festive scene, we extend that warm welcome due to a pure womanhood, and humbly pray that the choicest blessings of life may be meeted out to one and all, ultimating in lives as successful and honorable as those of their predecessors, who are nearing the sunset of life.

And last, but not least, we say to the heroes of the blue, who bared their bosoms to the lead and iron hail, stood unappalled where "the noise of battle hurtled on the air," unflinchingly faced the cannon's mouth and heard its thunder, boldly met the chivalry where the dim clouds of war and the fiery flashes of carnage were all around you, we say thrice welcome.

And now permit me to yield my place to the distinguished gentlemen who are to succeed me according to the programme of arrangements, who will richly entertain you.

THE RESPONSE

Was given by Hon. Norman Geddes, Judge of Lenawee. The Judge's remarks were exceedingly interesting and we regret that lack of space prevents our publishing them entire. We give the closing portion of them.

The example of Chicago in the election of a mayor without reference to party distinctions, subjugating these for the best interests of the city, may well be imitated by other cities and municipalities. And while the county of Lenawee can point with just pride to its official records during the sixty years of its organization, as containing no evidence of fraud or defalcation on the part of its officers, it by no means follows that there should be less of vigilance and watchfulness on the part of the sovereign people than there has been in the past. Eternal vigilance is the price of good government, as well as of liberty.

In the dark days of the rebellion, when treason had raised its fratricidal hand, to destroy the best government on earth there was aroused a patriotism that sent our citizen soldiers to the front, to subdue and crush the monster, and save our country, and it was because of this patriotism that the decree went forth that this government, "a government of the people, by the people and for the people, should not perish from the earth." Such patriotism is no less needed in time of peace, and in a republic like ours, must ever assert its self in the handling of each incumbent, ability to perform, and an honest discharge of the duties pertaining to each office, people on the such position high or low. When this is done then will our country have realized its true mission, and the statute standing in the harbor of New York, with its torch raised toward heaven, shall truly represent to the nations of the earth this nation as a nation of "Liberty enlightening the world."

The Judge closed with an eloquent tribute to the noble men and women, the pioneers of the commonwealth, who had by their industry and frugality laid the corner stone of the present great structure, of which all were proud. What "industry" and "frugality" had accomplished in the past, they would accomplish to a still greater degree in the future. Success and continued prosperity can only be maintained by the continued exercise of these virtues.

The Glee Club followed with a song in character entitled "Jolly Jonathan."

Judge Stacy followed with a few biographical recollections. As his remarks were mostly impromptu we can reproduce only a portion of them.

In 1824 the first family landed in Tecumseh. In the summer and fall a few more came to what is now Blissfield. In 1826 the county was organized by an act of the legislative council of Michigan. In 1829 the first board of supervisors was organized. At the meeting of the board in the fall of 1831, twelve members were present. The meeting was held in Tecumseh. The following officers were elected in the fall of 1836: Sheriff, Joseph H. Cleveland; register of deeds, P. J. Spalding; county clerk, S. C. LeBaron; judge of probate, A. R. Tiffany; county treasurer, Charles Hewitt. Of these men and the pioneer board, Joseph H. Cleveland and Rollin Robinson, of Palmyra, who was supervisor in 1837 and 1839, are the only survivors.

The following named have severally served as chairmen on the board of supervisors from 1852 to 1886.

City of Adrian—D. B. Dorrance, 1852.
" " —Dr. F. J. Spalding, 1854.
" " —N. W. Cole, 1865.
" " —Chas. W. Hunt, 1869.
" " —D. D. Sinclair, 1870.
" " —N. Vanblunk, 1875.
" " —Benson Loomis, 1879.
" " —Jesse H. Warren, 1881.
Town of Adrian—Richard Kent, 1853.
" " —Jonathan Kent, 1855.
Tecumseh—John Miller, 1855.
" —Alfred D. Hall, 1876.
Franklin—G. D. Perry, 1856.
" —D. W. Lowe, 1884.
Seneca—Elias J. Boardman, 1856.
" —S. E. Sessions, 1878.
Medina—Seth Green, 1858.
" —Chas. A. Jewell, 1886.
Madison—T. J. Moore, 1860 and '68.
Ridgeway—J. Lowe, 1862.
Ogden—I. S. Hodges, 1863.
" —Thomas McComb, 1884.
Raisin—A. Sharp, 1864.
" —Jacob Sutton, 1880.
Rollin—Lorenzo Palmer, 1865-71.
" —Ira Swaney, 1877.
Blissfield—Chas. E. Mickley, 1866.
Palmyra—W. B. Hill, 1872-1882.
Franklin—Avery A. Dolbear, 1873.
" —S. H. Raymond, 1886.
" —Geo. E. Knapp, 1874.
Bloomer—M. H. Cogswell, 1880.

The Glee Club gave a quartette "The Golden Years are Passing By."

HISTORICAL ADDRESS.

C. H. Dewey presented a few historical reminiscences which are herewith given in part.

The county of Lenawee was laid out in 1822 and attached to Monroe until it got strong enough to care for itself.

The first settlement in the county was at Tecumseh by Musgrov Evans, Gen. Brown, Stetson, Rathbone and Lowry, which occured in 1823.

The first land occupied was where the Globe mill now stands, by Mr. Evans at Tecumseh in 1824.

In 1824 there were many settlers come into the county at Tecumseh, Logan and Blissfield, and the county seat was established at Tecumseh, then the most important place in the county.

Mr. Evans built the first house in the county near where the Brownville mill stands, of logs and bark, flooring split with wedge and beetle from logs.

Gen. Brown built the first frame house in 1825.

Mr. Osborn raised and had ground the first wheat in the county in 1826.

Thus commenced the settlement of Lenawee county with a few families at Tecumseh, Logan and Blissfield which were all the towns in the Co. at this date, 1829.

The organizing of the county occurred in 1826.

The first deed given for land was Jan. 31st, 1827, and recorded Feb. 1st, 1827.

During the years 1829 to 1827, Deerfield now Adrian, and Blissfield were settled. The former by Addison J. Comstock, son of Darius Comstock, who had settled in what is now known as the Valley. Elias Dennis, John Clifford and Noah Norton, thus began the settlement here so largely developed since.

Blissfield, in 1827, contained Palmyra, Ogden, Riga, and the territory south of the Maumee river, was settled by Henry Bliss who named the town Blissfield. Gideon West was the next settler, after which was Geo. Giles, Almond Harrison and Samuel Buck.

The first wedding occurred Nov. 23, 1826, the magistrate coming 30 miles to do the work. Later—Wm. Kedsie, Mr. Clark, Jonas Ray, Ezra Goff.

The first school house was built in 1827.

The first school house at Kedzus grove was built in 1829. First teacher was Miss Caroline A. Bixby.

The first organization of a military Reg. was by Gen. Cass, at Tecumseh in 1829. J. W. Brown was made Col.

The first paper printed at Adrian by R. W. Ingals, Oct. 1834.

The places of worship at this early date, were dwelling houses and log school houses. Noah M. Wells preached the first sermon in the county at Tecumseh in 1825.

The Court House with all its valuable papers was burned 1852, and for more than 30 years the county was without a court house.

1832 the first Presbyterian church was built at Adrian. The year following, 1833, the Episcopal church was built.

Of the Schools: They have grown from 2 school dists. and 46 scholars in 1829 to 224 dists. with between 15000 and 16000 scholars at the present.

The population of the county from the first census, 1830, at that time about 1400 inhabitants to now 50000, with 22 townships, 1 city, 6 incorporated villages and many more of a less size.

There are 4,500 farms, with a valuation of property in the county of not less than $40,000,000. Such has been the progress of Lenawee county, all made in 60 years.

Impromptu speeches by Wm. Blackmar, of Jackson county; Rollin Robinson, of Palmyra; C. R. Miller, Esq. and Wm. Humphrey, of Adrian, followed.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

The following officers for the next reunion were elected:

President—D. D. Sinclair.
Vice President—Orsamus Lamb.
Secretary—T. M. Hunter.
Treasurer—Chas. H. Dewey.

These officers were instructed to elect an executive committee.

Among the past and present officials who registered their names at Brazee's that day were G. W. Fleming, A. D. Hall, C. B. Stebbins, P. Wyman, J. W. Patton, Henry Bowen, C. L. Becker, M. P. Stockwell, R. L. Rogers, J. Knapp, B. Seger, A. K. Whitmore, C. R. Miller, Peter Miller, J. W. Crandall, Danforth Keyes, Frank Gilmore, M. Howard, Horace Grey, J. W. Bradner, W. L. Rogers, Rollin Robinson, W. L. Corbett, Norman Geddes, C. H. Dewey, Frank Teachout, Loss Parsons, [illegible], T. M. Hunter, D. D. Sinclair, Horace Holdredge, A. G. Hall, J. W. Finch, H. S. Russell, Wm. Jibb, O. Lamb, B. Kent, S. C. Stacy.

Besides these many attended the exercises who put up at other hotels about the lake, and the spectators in attendance probably exceeded the officials in numbers. The program consumed fully two hours and all present voted it a grand success and resolved to be on hand again next year.

GOOD ENOUGH FOR HIM.

Mr. Asa B. Rowley, Druggist, was induced to try some of the Papillon Catarrh Cure by his customers, after several physicians predicted he would soon have consumption from an aggravated case of Catarrh. He says: "The result was unprecedented. I commenced to get well after the first application, and am now, after a few weeks, entirely cured." Papillon extract of flax. Catarrh Cure will do all that is claimed for it. Large bottles $1.00.

For sale by A. S. Doty.

The American Agriculturist for September, 1887, is a richly illustrated number, opening with a spirited engraving, by Cary, entitled "Coming Home from the Fair." Another full page engraving represents a pack of bloodhounds on the trail. Prominent among the other illustrations are a life-like portrait of Peter Henderson, plans of building, domestic animals, new implements and devices for facilitating work on the farm, in the garden, and household.

Extra copies of the HERALD for sale this week. Let every subscriber secure a copy and send for the free pattern advertised elsewhere.

Miss Minnie Foote, of Farmer Village, N. Y. is spending three weeks with the family of L. S. Osborn and other acquaintances in this vicinity.

Rufus Adams went to Ypsilanti a few days ago to receive medical treatment. His friends were shocked to receive word last Saturday of his death. The funeral occurred on Tuesday. A fitting obituary notice will appear next week.

VanTines & Goodrich's base ball nine played Hugh's Celery club yesterday afternoon. The celery eaters was pounded out of the box by a score of 53 to 19. Aten and McGuire were the battery for the celery eaters and Van and Goodrich for the opposing nine.

The annual encampment of the G. A. R. Association of Southern Mich., which occurs at Adrian Aug. 30, 31, and Sept. 1 and 2, promises to be a most successful gathering. In addition to the program already given in the HERALD, a regiment of State troops will take part in the dress parade on Thursday, Sept. 1, making one of the finest military displays ever witnessed in Southern Michigan.

The third part of Rebecca Harding Davis's series of papers, called "Here and There in the South," in the September Harper's, leads her party of travelers along the Gulf from Mobile, stopping at Biloxi, the health resort, at the Beauvoir plantations to call on Jefferson Davis, and at the picturesque little villages which line the coast. In New Orleans the visitors wander among the fascinating beauties and the quaint incongruities of the Crescent City. W. Hamilton Gibson's charming illustrations make the article unusually attractive.

A young man hailing from the village of Tecumseh, drove into Adrian yesterday morning, and hitched his horse on Pearl street, about 5:30 o'clock. The animal stood there all day and night, and this morning fell down, from hunger and exhaustion. Marshal Underhill gave the animal some feed to-day, and about 1 o'clock this afternoon arrested her owner. He claimed that a friend had agreed to drive the animal home for him, and that he supposed it was safe in his barn. He was released on payment of costs in the case.—Adrian Times.

Location of New School-Houses.

Select a site that is accessible to all. Shelter and sunlight; those facing to the West and South are the most desirable. 2. See that the location is elevated; not low and damp. 3. If in a city, ascertain whether the building is on natural or "made" soil. The latter is very unhealthy. 4. Have as much open ground around the school-house as possible. A school-house with a yard however small is much more pleasant than one without a yard; and have a garden if possible. 5. Ascertain with a certainty that the drainage is good. 6. Observe whether there are any bodies of stagnant water, or other contaminating influences near, and whether the prevailing direction of the wind will carry unwholesome vapors to the school-house. 7. Never choose a location so thickly surrounded with trees that the sun can never penetrate to the rooms. Such places are very unhealthy. 8. Be sure that the water supply is abundant and pure in every respect.

Everything which belongs to pure, healthy blood is imparted by Hood's Sarsaparilla. A trial will convince you of its merit.

Some Foolish People

Allow a cough to run until it gets beyond the reach of medicine. They often say, Oh, it will wear away. But in most cases it wears them away. Could they be induced to try the successful remedy called Kemp's Balsam, which we sell on a positive guarantee to cure, they would immediately see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial size free at Baker & Hall.

FULL WEIGHT PURE
DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER
MOST PERFECT MADE

Used by the United States Government. Endorsed by the heads of the Great Universities as the strongest, purest, and most Healthful. Dr. Price's the Only Baking Powder that does not contain Ammonia, Lime or Alum. Sold only in cans. PRICE BAKING POWDER CO. NEW YORK. CHICAGO. ST. LOUIS.

THOS. S. SPRAGUE & SON. PATENTS. DETROIT, MICH.

PATENTS OBTAINED in U. S. and all foreign countries. Examinations made. Licenses and assignments drawn. Infringements prosecuted in all Federal courts. Advice and pamphlets free. Scientific expert validity opinions given. No models required. Established A. D. 1866. Thos. S. Sprague & Son, 37 Congress Street West, Detroit, Mich.

EVERYTHING
EVERYTHING
EVERYTHING
AT AND BELOW COST FOR 30 DAYS.

To make room for Fall Stock we will offer extremely low prices until Sept. 1st.

Suits 25 per cent. off.
Pants 25 per cent. off.
Children's Clothing 25 per cent. off.

Everything pertaining to men's wear at correspondingly low prices. Now is the time to procure a winter outfit cheap.

STRONG & McNAIR.

WE HAVE JUST RECEIVED WE HAVE
ANOTHER FINE LOT OF
CANNED CHICKEN, TURKEY, HAM, BEEF, MEATS
SALMON,
SARDINES,
PICKELS,
MUSTARDS,
RELISHES AND SAUCES.
Also a full line of
FRESH AND CANNED FRUITS.
H. E. ANDERSON.

A Great Offer!
PATTERN FREE.

Frederica Jacket.

A HANDSOME GIFT TO OUR LADY READERS.

By special arrangement with W. Jennings Demorest, publisher of Demorest's Monthly Magazine, 15 East 14th st., New York, we are enabled to make all of our lady readers a handsome present. By inclosing (as directed therein) the coupon order found below, the sender will receive by mail a Pattern of this graceful jacket, and of the size she may select.

The pattern will be perfect in every particular, the name of W. Jennings Demorest being sufficient guarantee that it will be all that is claimed for it.

Cut this coupon out by the—blank—and mail as directed.

COUPON ORDER.

Good for ONE Pattern of the Frederica Jacket, Bust Measure, 34, 36, 38 or 40 ins.

(Mark a pen or pencil through the size desired.)

If sent with 2 cents postage for return postage, to DEMOREST'S MONTHLY MAGAZINE, 15 East 14th Street, New York, before January 1, 1888.

This pattern will be a full size pattern of the size desired, and is furnished by special arrangement with the TECUMSEH HERALD, Tecumseh, Mich.

The holder of this coupon may be assured of the value of the pattern, as it is sent as a sample of those furnished through the coupon system in the Fashion Department of Demorest's Monthly Magazine.

In sending this coupon to obtain the pattern, please fill out the following blank:

W. JENNINGS DEMOREST:

Inclosed find the coupon order and 2 cents for postage, for which please send me Frederica Jacket of the size marked out above.

Name .....
Street .....
Town .....
State .....

(Do not enclose a letter with this coupon, simply fill it out as directed, and inclose 2 cent stamp.)

MARLIN Magazine Rifle.
For large or small game, all shots. The strongest shooting rifle made. Perfect accuracy guaranteed, and the only absolutely safe rifle on the market.
BALLARD GALLERY, SPORTING AND TARGET RIFLES, world renowned. Send for illustrated catalogue. MARLIN FIRE ARMS CO., New Haven, Conn.

HING
R 30 DAYS will offer extra
t, 1st.
ent. off.
wear at corn
the time to cheap.
cNAIR,
VED WE HAVE OT OF MEATS
UCES.
Offer!
SON.
RUITS.
REE.
OSOME
FT
OUR EADERS.
with W. Jennings
est's Monthly Maga
ork, we are enabled ers a handsome pre therein the coupo
der will receive by Jacket, and of the
fect in every par
s Demorest beg ill be all that y the—blanket
R.
sure. 34, 36, 38 or 40 in ired.
MONTHLY MAGAZINE, $3 PER 1886. is furnished by special patterns, as it is shion Department of the following blank which please send me
BEST IN THE WORLD.
ed. Send for Haven, Conn.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

FOR SALE.—Span of good work mules, one four year old brown mare by Seneca Chief, one saddle pony, ten Jersey heifer calves, two Jersey bulls, side spring buggy, also peaches, pears and grapes.
JOHN T. CLARK, Clinton, Mich.

10,000 wanted at the Tecumseh Fruit Evaporating Co's. Highest cash price paid. Enquire of Geo. Heesenayr DOLPH BREESE S.

BOARDERS WANTED.—I will take boarders by the day or week, at reasonable rates. Call at my house on Logan st.
MRS. LYMAN THORPE.

NEW STAGE FOR SAND LAKE.—I have rigged up a fine spring wagon, which I will run to Sand Lake during the season. Will make a specialty of private parties, and will go any day in the week parties may wish. Fare for the trip, 50 cts. Leave word at my house or at Strong & McNair's store.
H. H. WESTCOTT.

FOR SALE.—I have for sale 61½ acres of timberland situated in section one of the town of Ridgeway. Parties desiring to buy may have either the timber alone, or both together. For further information enquire of
GEO. PRICE, Tecumseh.

TAKE NOTICE.—Having decided to move from Tecumseh I shall be greatly obliged to all who are indebted to me if they will call at Chas. Burridge's law office and make a settlement as soon as possible.
July 5th, 1887. R. B. HOUSE.

A GOOD CHANCE.—Owing to the continued illness of my mother, I am compelled to dispose of my Confectionery, Ice Cream and Restaurant business, and return east. It is needless to dwell on the merits of the business as everyone can see for themselves what it is. I will sell for cash or give time on part payment with good security. I. G. HAWSON.

PURE CIDER VINEGAR.—I have a quantity of pure cider vinegar for sale.
ABNER WILSON.

FOR SALE.—A desirable residence corner Pearl and Shawnee sts. Enquire on the premises. P. C. TEPLE.

FOR SALE.—The property opposite the HERALD office now used as a saloon and residence, and also the house and lot next north of Palmer's furniture factory. The title to the above property is all right, and terms and payment will be made to suit purchaser. For particulars enquire at HERALD OFFICE.

FOR SALE.—I offer my place for sale cheap, located just west of Abner Wilson's farm on Chicago turnpike, in Tecumseh. Good house and barn and two acres of land. For price, terms, etc., call on Abner Wilson or on the undersigned on the premises. Household goods will also be sold.
WILLIAM SMITH.

TO SAND LAKE.—I will run a carriage from Tecumseh to Sand Lake on TUESDAYS, THURSDAYS AND SATURDAYS, from September 1st.
Fare 75 cents for the round trip. Parties wishing passage will be called for at their residence if orders at the postoffice.
ASA HOWE.

STEEL SCUFFLERS.—An indispensible tool for farmers and gardeners for attaching to plant and other cultivators. Made from best spring steel, and warranted to work.
W. P. DEMING, Tecumseh, Mich.

WANTED.—One agent in each of the following counties viz: Hillsdale, Monroe, Lenawee and Washtenaw, to sell my Spring Bed Elevated head rest. Best bed made. Covered patent. Exclusive sale to Agent. For terms apply to J. S. KINNEY, Tecumseh.

Hudson wants a Union depot.

Xavier Fowler of Ann Arbor was in town Sunday.

Miss Davis of Detroit is spending the week at Jas. Jones'.

B. P. Anderson is gaining daily and expects to be out again soon.

Frank Aten and Lottie are visiting friends at Jacksn this week.

Mrs. C. J. Weir of St Thomas, Ont is visiting friends in the village.

James A. Boyd is taking a vacation up in the Lake Superior country.

The "Chicago Flier" over the Mackinaw line is being well patronized.

Jennie and Mary Aten of Deerfield are guests of J. H. Aten's family this week.

Archie Sherrard is in town this week. He is now traveling for a Jewelry firm.

Chas. A. Dewey, of Cambridge, was in town last week and favored the HERALD with a call.

All indications point to a fine day and a large gathering at the 18th Reunion to morrow.

Gov. Luce will arrive in Tecumseh over the Mackinaw line, on the 9:45 train Friday morning.

Our base ball club has won a game at last. Now that luck has turned we may expect better work from them.

Mrs. Hettie Brewer and Miss Allie Brewer are spending a couple of weeks with friends in Howard City, Mich.

We try the experiment this week of going to press early Thursday morning. If the plan works well, we shall adopt it regularly.

The cottagers on the west side of Sand Lake are putting up an ice house of their own which they will fill next winter.

Geo A. Kies was agreeably surprised last Monday evening by a number of his masonic friends and presented with a gold headed cane.

Geo. W. Stacy, of East Buffalo, spent two days at the old home this week. He reports business good down at the cattle yards.

S. F. Marstellar has put in a fine new stock of marble and granite at his store rooms on Railroad street. His business is good this season.

Mrs. L. G. North and daughter Bonnie, started last Tuesday morning for Waverly, N. Y. They will stay several weeks visiting at Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Gridley's.

Jay A. Santus has received the appointment of Deputy Sheriff from Sheriff Whitmore, and Jay is now prepared to "serve the papers" according to law.

The Flint Daily News of August 16th contains a lengthy review of the business of that city during the past year, which makes a splendid showing. The edition for that day is 7200 copies.

THE TECUMSEH HERALD

TECUMSEH, MICH., AUG. 25, 1887.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

trip to Ithica Monday morning.

Wallace Peters, of Blissfield, was the guest of D. W. Clark last Friday.

Rev. F. Adkins is spending a few days at his old home in Elyria, Ohio.

Jno. Thurlby rejoices in the advent of an 8 pound girl. It arrived last Friday.

Heesen's Fruit Canning building is completed and business will be actively begun in a few days.

The repairs on the Central school building are about completed. The interior will be almost as good as new.

Mrs. J. C. Cochran, of New York City returns home this morning. She has been visiting at T. C. Cranes for the past three weeks.

Ed Rogers is on the road inspecting lumber for A. W. Shayton in Southern Mich., and Mr. Heasley in Northern Mich.

A 10c dance will be given at Armory hall all day Friday, the proceeds to be for the benefit of Co. C. Good music will be in attendance.

The HERALD job rooms turn out another eight page program this week for circulation to-day at the Farmers Picnic at Beardsell's landing.

Carrie Hoag left for Jersey City yesterday. She will extend her visit thence to Washington and be gone from home about two months.

There will be a blanket matinee at the Fair Grounds in Adrian on Wednesday, Aug. 31st. Running race half mile heats, best 2 in 3. No entrance fee will be charged.

The catalogue of the Michigan Military Academy at Orchard Lake for the current year has been received. It shows that institution to be in a prosperous condition.

Henry Mensing & Co. will start their new evaporator works in the skating rink building in a few days. The building will be put in readiness after the reunion is over to-morrow.

Wood's Railway Guide for August is at hand. It should be on the table of every counting room and business office in Michigan. Terms $1.00 per year. Published by John R. Wood, Detroit.

A. W. Mills has rented his corner store to a strong financial firm, who will, about Sept. 10th, put in a larger stock of goods in the clothing and gents furnishing line, than it ever before contained.

Tecumseh and Tipton base ball clubs crossed bats at the the formers grounds last Saturday morning. The home club came out ahead by a score of 17 to 3. Beebe pitched a splendid game, striking out 18 men.

There will be no meeting of the W. C. T. U. this week, on account of the reunion. A full attendance is desired at the meeting next week, as there is important business to be brought before the society.

Mrs. E. M. Conklin, of Wichita, Kan., who has been sojourning in this vicinity about two months, expects to start for home next Wednesday. The Doctor is building up a fine practice in this thriving western town.

Mrs. Amy Hopkins and daughter Hattie from Banner Ranch, Johnson Co., Wyoming, four miles from old Fort Phil Kearney, near the Crow reservation, have been spending some time with her neice, Mrs. H. E. Stout and friends in this vicinity.

The Toledo Weekly Bee will be enlarged on September 1, to an eight column quarto—64 columns. It will also be printed from new type. The price will be 25 cents until January 1, 1888. It is a splendid family paper. Try it.

"Uncle Joe" Herbison, of Franklin, who has been in poor health for some months, passed away last Monday. The funeral was largely attended on Tuesday. Uncle Joe was one of the early settlers of this township and had performed much hard work in his day.

Mrs. Anna G. Baylis died at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. E. H. Thorpe in Milan, on the 19th inst. She came to Tecumseh nearly fifty years ago and resided here for many years. The funeral was held at St. Peters Church last Tuesday and the remains were deposited in the family lot in our Tecumseh cemetery. And thus another of the old pioneer residents has gone.

About a week ago little Ina Putnam, daughter of Ed. Putnam, dropped a pair of shears on her foot while at play. The injury was not considered serious at the time, but blood poisoning set in and she grew rapidly worse until last Monday night when death relieved her of her sufferings. The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon at five o'clock. Ina was a bright child, about eight years of age, the pride and joy of her parents, whose hearts are wrung with anguish over her sad and sudden death. The sympathy of the entire community reaches out towards them in their bereavement.

Co. C. M. S. T. will attend the Adrian encampment.

Mrs. Bert Waring is suffering from an attack of typhoid fever.

H. M. Temple went to Cleveland last Saturday on a business trip.

A. W. Shayton returned last Saturday from a three weeks trip up north.

The drought seems to be about over. Signs of rain amount to something now.

Lucius Lilley and wife and L. P. Tribou and wife, spent Sunday at Sand Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Al. H. Ford of Ionia, came down Wednesday to attend the funeral of little Ina Putnam.

Will Hayden went to Sand Lake Saturday evening to spend the Sabbath at the Hayden cottage.

A. W. Haight, of Adrian, accompanied a party of Tecumseh people to Sand Lake last Saturday.

A big Catholic picnic went over the Mackinaw from Toledo to Devil's lake Tuesday. Twenty coaches were filled.

A new Singer sewing machine for sale cheap. Never been used. Call at the HERALD office and examine it.

C. F. Patterson, the popular landlord of the Lilley House was taking a respite from labor this week at Sand Lake.

Mrs. Ed. C. Baird and Misses Elida James and Attie Satterthwaite were at Sand Lake the fore part of the week.

Robert Campsie, of Detroit, formerly of the Adrian Press office, was in town Tuesday. He is now a conductor on the Detroit street railway.

Read our great offer in another column. A pattern free to every lady who sends the coupon according to instructions to Demorest's Magazine.

The next general excursion train to Devil's Lake will run over the Mackinaw line on Sunday, Aug. 28th. The train will pass this station at 10 A. M. Fare for the round trip, 40 cents. The Tecumseh City band will go to the lake on that day.

On Wednesday next, Aug. 31st, the Union S. S. picnic will be held at Allens grove, Devils Lake. Fare for the round trip including boat ride to the grove will be 30 cents. Trip round the lake for 10 cents. The regular morning train will convey excursionists west and a special will return at night.

Jones & Hazlett have now got fairly started in their new quarters, and judging from the way business poured in upon them the first week, they have struck a good taking. They have a nice store, a clean, new stock and they can do first-class work. These advantages combined ought to insure them a good trade.

Boom! Boom! Boom! I have just surveyed out ten beautiful Building lots facing north on Patterson street. These lots will be sold at private sale for the next thirty days, when those remaining will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder. Now is your chance to get a home cheap.
J. W. PATTERSON.

The Detroit Weekly Tribune was never in its history more prosperous and popular than at the present time. It is recognized as a great Michigan newspaper, with no superior in value for Michigan readers. Every family in this country, should take a home paper for local news, and in addition a paper that covers the whole state in its news gathering. Therefore, take the HERALD and the Detroit Weekly Tribune. We will supply the HERALD and the WEEKLY TRIBUNE four months on trial for 50 cents. Send in your orders.

Regarding the outbreak of Texas fever among a herd of cattle shipped from Chicago to Adrian, Brad Gibbons, of the Michigan Farmer, who is an authority on the subject, says: "Both the dealer who brought them, and the railroad company which carried them, are liable for heavy damages to the state. Under the law passed by the legislature in 1885, the governor may issue a proclamation prohibiting the importation of any live stock of the diseased kind into this state. In pursuance of this authority, in December last, Gov. Alger, by proclamation, prohibited the importation of any Cook county (Chicago) cattle. At that time some 6,000 cattle were quarantined there. This prohibition has never been raised, and consequently is in force to-day."

A dispatch from Jackson to the Detroit Tribune says: The Cincinnati, Jackson & Mackinaw has the right of way secured as far as Hudson, south of the Michigan & Ohio, and expects to reach the tracks of that road in a few days. President Marble writes that the last purse raised provided cash for 82½ miles of road. When the Michigan & Ohio tracks are reached 56 miles of the money will have been used. The remaining 26½ can be applied here, thus completing the right of way to this city by fall. That is President Marble's wish. If Jackson should pay in what is expected the funds will probably be used on the extension from Allegan to Saugatuck, 25 miles, or in buying the right of way into Toledo, a distance of 23 miles, now covered by the tracks of another line.

PEOPLES UNION PICNIC.

FIRST ANNUAL REUNION AT ALLEN'S ISLAND GROVE ON DEVILS LAKE.

A Fine Day. A Large Gathering and an Interesting Program. Superior Music.

The second meeting and first annual reunion of the Peoples' Union Picnic Association took place Thursday Aug. 18th, at Allen's Island Grove, at the North end of Devils Lake. The day could not have been more aptly chosen. A soaking rain on the preceding day had cooled the atmosphere and laid the dust, leaving nothing to be desired in that direction. The officers were equally fortunate in selecting their location. Allen's Island Grove has all the natural advantages for a first-class picnic ground, and the improvements put upon it during the past year by Mr. Allen made it superior to any other ground on the borders of the lake for this purpose. The grove itself is nicely shaded and is kept clean and free from undergrowth. Clear spring water in abundance is at hand. A new ice cream parlor and candy stand has been erected. A large speaker's stand has been built, and table room to accommodate three thousand people has been provided.

The morning train from Battle Creek brought a goodly number, and teams began to arrive on the grounds at an early hour in the forenoon. The morning train from the East brought four coaches containing about eight loads of passengers. The Brooklyn band was in waiting at Allen's Hotel, and leading the way they marched down to the dock and on board the steamer Tecumseh Chief, the crowd following. Many people took passage on the City of Hudson and Maple City, both of which were well filled. Upon arriving at the grove we found a large gathering already congregated there, and preparations were at once made for dinner. The hour between noon and one o'clock was employed providing for the inner man, and all seemed to be well filled. At one o'clock the various steamers on the lake began to arrive from the different hotels and all came loaded to the gunwale with passengers which were added to the throng already in the grove. By two o'clock the boat loads had all arrived, the assemblage was called to order by the President of the Day, Loss Parsons, and the "feast of reason" began.

The Literary and Musical Program.

Which occupied about three hours was one of special merit and commanded the closest attention throughout.

The vast throng was called to order by the Brooklyn cornet band which did excellent service during the entire day. Following this was singing "Better times are Coming" by the Raisin Glee Club and prayer by the Rev. Mr. Elliott, of Jackson.

The band then played another piece, and Mr. A. G. Hall, of Raisin, stated that it would be necessary to raise $50 by contribution to defray the expenses of the day, and a committee which had been previously appointed for the purpose circulated through the crowd to secure the wampum. Meantime the Franklin Glee Club discoursed "Friendship, Love and Song" in pleasing style.

Dr. Geo. Howell then welcomed the multitude in a few brief, but well chosen words, in the course of which he congratulated the people upon the achievements of the past quarter of a century. He had spent 25 years of his life farming, and believed that those engaged in the profession of agriculture received less compensation for their labor than any other class of men. Man must excel if he would succeed in any calling. The joy of life is received in installments, its victories won step by step, and to-day we take a step in the direction of recreation, pleasant relations and mutual sympathy by associating together at this annual Union picnic of the sovereign people. To this end the assembled people were welcomed, and admonished in glowing language to seize upon the pleasant and beautiful in life as well as the more substantial but less pleasing elements.

"Crib mo dat water melon" is a comic song and was rendered in appropriate style by the Raisin Glee Club.

Judge C. A. Stacy then stated that the Hon. Edwin Willitts, whose name appeared on the program for the principal address of the day was unable to be present on account of sickness in his family, and introduced Hon. Thos. F. Moore in his stead.

Mr. Moore said that he had come to this picnic for the purpose of listening to the president of our Agricultural college, a man who was educated, and well trained in oratory. To take the place of such a character and that without a moment's preparation was a position trying in the extreme. Our assembling would not be in vain, old ties would be strengthened and new ones formed to the good of all. There were present those who had been residents of the state over fifty years and the work they had wrought was indeed marvelous. The country people are the pillars of success, and the stability of the state is based upon its Agricultural resources. In the course of his remarks upon the developments of the country the speaker referred to Lenawee county in particular, and stated she was second to no county in the state or nation in point of extent and variety of her agricultural products. Also that in science and education she was fully up to the average. Some may despond for the time being because of the drouth, and its effect upon crops etc., but the actual necessities of life have not yet been denied us. God understands our needs best and prosperity will yet crown the efforts of an appreciative, honest people. Wrongs still exist in our interests both public and private; the people must adjust them as they have done in the past. America is the sun-light of the earth to lay and her people should understand her necessities and act accordingly. Our interests are not in the past, but in the present and future. This is a wonderful age. Change is written upon everything. New necessities arise and new methods are invented to meet them, everything is done with a rush, and in order to meet the future demands of home and state, our sons and daughters should be educated. Educated for the progressive age they live in, inspired to discharge well each day's duty. Congress was largely made up of lawyers, and for the reason that their education and inclinations impelled them forward, while others shrank back. This was wrong, and the system of education adapted by the Agricultural College would have a tendency to correct that wrong by placing farmers in the councils of the nation. One class pays well for all it possesses, while another does not, and because of existing inequalities. Let them be removed as speedily as possible. Let man find his duty and do it well. The country will then prosper and peace prevail among her citizens.

Mr. Moore is an old stager at talking to farmers on farm topics. He was engaged in that business as long as twenty years ago, and no one would have mistrusted from the character of his talk but what he had had ten days' preparation. His points were well put, and his speech made an excellent impression.

The band then played another piece and C. A. Stacy was introduced. The Judge had evidently partaken of a sumptuous dinner and was in excellent condition for speaking. Having been a resident of Lenawee County for over fifty years, he is well acquainted with its early history, and the names mentioned of pioneer residents and recountal of new country incidents combined to make his address intensely interesting, especially to the older members of the audience. The early settlers of Lenawee county possessed the elements of civilized life, they stood on terms of mutual equality, and laid the foundation for universal prosperity. Our wealth has not been imported, but is home made. We should be grateful to our ancestors for the habits of industry and purity of life transmitted to their offspring. Let those present do likewise and thus contribute to the growth and stability of a great common wealth. Fifty years ago a higher education was the exception because of the attending expense, but now a University education is within the reach of all. Success is possible for all, and intelligent work, the medium through which it is to be attained.

"Listen to the Mocking Bird" was then whistled and sung by Miss Lizzie Smith, of Franklin, in a truly pleasing style. At the close of this exercise one of the County seat reporters hastily enquired if the young lady was "engaged," and receiving an answer in the negative he immediately lost all interest in pencil pushing and vanished. When last seen he was earnestly soliciting an introduction to the fair charmer at the hands of a friend.

Following the music came an address at some length by Hon. C. H. Dewey, of Cambridge, which consisted mainly in a recital of personal recollections and pioneer reminiscences. Some valuable data were given and we regret much that we cannot reproduce it from the original manuscript.

Willard Crittenden and Anna Alexander, of Franklin, then sang "Who's to blame?" to the delight of all, and the Franklin Glee Club responded to the prolonged encores, with "Twenty Years Ago."

Mrs. R. H. Whitney, of Adrian, recited an original poem entitled "Fifty Five Years Ago."

The Raisin Glee Club caused everybody in the grove to "Hear dem Bells," and Grant Fellows of Hudson, was introduced. Coming on the platform at this stage of the exercises one labored under a serious disadvantage, but Mr. Fellows address was replete with fresh practical thought notwithstanding, and his pleasing address sufficed to make it doubly interesting.

"Jolly Jonathan" was then introduced by the Raisin Glee Club and Wm. S. Blackmer, of Napoleon, gave a short talk upon the rise and progress of our institutions between the years 1820 and 1887. He mentioned the great gain to the state which took place when Toledo was conceded to Ohio, and Michigan's northern peninsula was annexed.

Judge Stacy stated that the territory represented by the organization included Lenawee, Hillsdale and Jackson counties; also, that officers for the ensuing year should be chosen from the same. The following is a list of the new officers:

President—Loss Parsons, of Woodstock.

Vice Pres.—Robert Wooden, of Cambridge.

Sec.—J. H. Underwood, of Addison.

Treas.—Don. C. Richards, of Cambridge.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

A. G. Hall, of Raisin; Chauncy Cooper, of Cambridge; R. H. Rogers, of Medina; D. W. Love, of Franklin; J. M. Griswold, of Brooklyn.

The band played another piece and the audience dispersed.

The Aftermath.

The attendance was variously estimated at from 2000 to 4000. Doubtless there were 4000 persons on the grounds during the day. The number present at 2 o'clock in the afternoon would probably reach 3000.

For the first attempt of a new organization the meeting can be set down as an unqualified success. With the experience gained this year, the officers can get up a rouser next season.

The officials of the C. J. & M. lent the enterprise their assistance, and granted all favors asked for in the way of excursion rates and special trains.

The steamer "Tecumseh Chief" is a dandy. It carries a good load, is a new safe boat, and is almost as easily managed as a row boat.

The failure of President Willitts to appear caused some disappointment, but no blame can be attached to him. His absence was caused by the serious illness of his daughter.

The Brooklyn Band had its full complement of 18 men, and presented a fine appearance in their nobby uniforms. Their music too, was of a superior order. They put in a faithful day's work and executed some very difficult selections in a creditable manner.

The vocal music by the two Glee Clubs made a very important addition to the program. The spirit of rivalry between them spurred them on and they both surpassed themselves in their efforts.

Although some of the speakers failed to come to time, the program was admirably filled in with volunteers and it was full long enough. It continued full three hours, and we never heard a better program presented on such an occasion.

Coller's little witch of a steamer did good service. It is the fastest boat now on the lake.

Hon. T. F. Moore's speech came very opportunely. It was a splendid effort for an off hand address.

The short talks were all well received, and Mrs. Whitney's recitation commanded the closest attention.

The crowd was gathered from quite distant points. We saw people there from Battle Creek and Homer, from Napoleon and Brooklyn, from Hudson Medina, Fairfield and Adrian, Clinton and Manchester, Tecumseh, Raisin, Ridgeway and Franklin were represented by large delegations. The towns about the lake all sent large numbers.

The hotels about the lake all did a thriving business on that day. All of them entertained many guests the night before who had remained over from the Supervisor's Reunion.

The meeting missed the genial countenance and active assistance of Secretary Underwood. He was detained at home by the illness of his wife who was seriously injured in a runaway accident only a few days before. The help previously rendered by him did much toward making the meeting a success.

Most of the officers were re-elected. Their work was well done this year but they intend to improve upon it next season.

Allen's grove is a beautiful place for such a gathering, and it is destined in time to become the most popular picnic grove on the shores of the lake.

The programs circulated during the day, which were printed at the Tecumseh HERALD job rooms, occasioned much favorable comment. They were in the form of an eight page pamphlet and contained cards of the leading business firms of Tecumseh and Addison.

—Our location is the finest.
Our facilities the best,
Our experience the Greatest.
Our Prices Reasonable,
Our Work first-class,
And those who try are always suited.
Call and see for yourself.
BROWN the Photographer.

—The White and Domestic Sewing Machines have superior furniture and attachments to all others. Call and see them and the class of work that they will do, before buying.
Mrs. M. P. BROWN,
Agent at Tecumseh.

—An elegant line of Cabinet frames both for side wall and easel back, for sale very cheap at A. J. Coddington's.

—Sewing machines—Needles, oil, and attachments at
M. P. Brown's Art Gallery.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

FRED B. WOOD, ATTORNEY AT LAW. Collections [illegible] Office over W. S. W[illegible] Tecumseh, Mich.

PHYSICIANS.

J. MAY BEARSE, M. D., [illegible] Tecumseh, Mich.

C. M. WOODWARD, M.D. [illegible] Office [illegible]

DENTISTS.

[illegible]

HOTELS.

[illegible] MICHIGAN.

LENAWEE CARRIAGE FACTORY

J. R. HILLEY

Carriages, Buggies,

SURRIES. SPRING WAGONS.

ROADCARTS

SULKIES. CUTTERS. ETC.

Pearl Street,

TECUMSEH, MICHIGAN

M. L. RICE,

UTICA, MICHIGAN,

Dealer in High Class Thoroughbred Poultry. Eggs for hatching. Send for Illustrated Circular, Free.

W. W. MARSH,

Proprietor of

Railroad Street Meat Market!

Fresh and Salt Meats constantly on hand.

GIVE ME A CALL

LADIES TREATMENT FREE.

SCOTT'S EMULSION OF PURE COD LIVER OIL

With Hypophosphites Lime & Soda

Almost as Palatable as Milk.

[illegible]

TO MACKINAC.

SUMMER TOURS.

[illegible] New York

DETROIT, MACKINAC ISLAND

DETROIT AND CLEVELAND.

[illegible]

Detroit & Cleveland Steam Nav. Co.

[illegible]

Miss B. Stevens & Co.

PENSIONS! Abstr[illegible] Building.

DETROIT, MICHIGAN.

THIS PAPER [illegible] on file at [illegible] Newspaper Advertising Bureau (10 Spruce Street), where advertising contracts may be made for it in NEW YORK.

DISILLUSION.

[illegible]

THE GOLDEN CAT.

[illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible]

The Great Healer of all Inflamed Injuries and Disorders.

Acts like the most wonderful charm, while the unparalleled demand with which it meets attests its virtues as the greatest medicine of the age for outward application.

The most incredulous are convinced, and the most skeptical are compelled to believe in the power of this great remedy.

WHAT IT CURES:

All Sores, Cuts, Bruises, Sprains, Burns, Sore Throat, Lameness, Rheumatism, Piles, Inflammation of Lungs and Bowels, Bronchitis, Croup, Salt Rheum, Chilblains, Affection of the Spine, Erysipelas, Nervous Irritation, and all disorders attendant with inflammation.

It never fails to restore the natural functions of the skin and equalize the circulation of the blood. By this means a controlling power is gained over the most malignant forms of disease. It penetrates to every portion of the human frame; every bone, muscle, vein, nerve and ligament is searched out and made sensible to its soothing and healing influence. Hence it copes readily with internal as well as external diseases.

Over 40 Years.

This Ointment has been used by the people throughout the United States, and our confidence in its qualities is such that as we have no space here to insert any of the numerous certificates of cures which we have from all parts of the country, we simply ask those readers of this notice who have ever used this Ointment, to frankly state their experience with it to inquiring friends. It but one in a hundred would do this we should be perfectly satisfied with the result. Full directions for use will be found on pamphlet around each bottle.

Price 25 and 40 cents per bottle. Sold by all dealers in medicine.

D. RANSOM, SON & CO., Prop's
Buffalo, New York.

THE

ELDREDGE

"B"

SEWING MACHINE WITH Automatic, Self-threading Cylinder Shuttle.

No. 3.

The ELDREDGE "B" is sold with the guarantee of being the BEST that can be MADE.

AGENTS WANTED.

ELDREDGE MANUFACTURING CO.

303 and 305 WABASH AVE., CHICAGO, ILL.

B. F. STEINHOFF'S

Dental Rooms.

OVER BAKER & HALL'S.

GAS FOR EXTRACTING.

THE LOWEST PRICES for THE BEST WORK

PATENTS!

Caveats, Trade Marks and Copyrights

Obtained, and all other business in the U. S. Patent Office attended to for MODERATE FEES.

Our office is opposite the U. S. Patent Office, and we can obtain Patents in less time than those remote from Washington.

SEND MODEL OR DRAWING. We advise as to patentability free of charge and make NO CHARGE unless we obtain patent.

We refer to Postmaster, Supt. of Money Order Div., and to officials of the U. S. Patent Office. For circular, advice, terms and references to actual clients in your own state or county, write to

C. A. SNOW & CO.,
Opposite Patent Office Washington, D.C.

C. A. Wright & Co.,

Wall Paper

AND

Decorations.

A. Wright & Co.

PATENTS OBTAINED in U. S. and all foreign countries. Examinations made. Opinions and assignments drawn. Infringements prosecuted in all Federal courts. Advice and pamphlets free. Scientific expert. Validity opinions given. No models required. Established A. D. 1856. THOS. S. SPRAGUE & SON, 7 Congress Street West, Detroit, Mich.

SPRAGUE'S PATENTS DETROIT, MICH.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

Don't Experiment.

You cannot afford to waste time in experimenting when your lungs are in danger. Consumption always seems, at first only a cold. Do not permit any dealer to impose upon you with some cheap imitation of Dr King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, but be sure you get the genuine. Disease can make more profit he may tell you he has something just as good, or just the same. Don't be deceived, but insist upon getting Dr King's New Discovery, which is guaranteed to give relief in all Throat, Lung and Chest affections. Trial bottles free. Large bottles $1.

C. A. Wright & Co.

A Sunday-school teacher asked a little girl of her class if she had been baptized. "Yes," said the little girl, "two times." "Two times! Why, how could that be?" "It didn't take the first time," said the little girl.

"Scarlet Fever"

Having appeared in our village Darby's Prophylactic Fluid was used for disinfecting the College buildings. The disease never went beyond a single case, either in the College or elsewhere, where the Fluid was used.—Rev. Pres. G. F. Price, Auburn, Ala.

Darby's Fluid dispel all forms of epidemic diseases by destroying the spirits or germ poison that cause contagion.

"Let us dine together," said the native king to the missionary. "With great pleasure," replied the good man, "but I must be the host." "I have planned it differently," said the king, with a bleak light in his eye, "you shall be the dinner."

Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites.

For children and Pulmonary Troubles. Dr. W. S. Hoy, Point Pleasant, W. Va., says: "I have made a thorough test with Scott's Emulsion in Pulmonary Troubles and General Debility, and have been astonished at the good results, for children with Rickets or Marasmus it is unequalled."

It was a mighty easy thing for Horace Greeley to counsel the young men to go West, but it is doubtful if he knows anything about the country. One Kansas cyclone or Nebraska blizzard would have changed his tune in quick time.

English spavin liniment removes all hard, soft, or calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavin, curbs, splints, sweeney, strains, sore and swollen throat coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle. Warranted. Sold by Baker & Hall, Druggists, Tecumseh Mich.

Itch, mange, and scratches of every kind on human or animals cured in 30 minutes by Woolford's Sanitary Lotion. This never fails. Sold by Baker & Hall, Druggists, Tecumseh Mich.

The Grand Ledge mills complain of lack of [illegible].

Drunkenness or the Liquor Habit Positively Cured by Administering Dr Haines' Golden Specific.

It can be given in a cup of coffee or tea without the knowledge of the person taking it; is absolutely harmless and will effect a permanent and speedy cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or an habitual drunkard. Thousands of drunkards have been made temperate men who have taken Golden Specific in their coffee without their knowledge, and to day believe they quit drinking on their own free will. IT NEVER FAILS. The system once impregnated with the Specific it becomes an utter impossibility for the liquor appetite to exist. For full particulars, address GOLDEN SPECIFIC CO., 185 Race st., Cincinnati, O.

Omaha Invalid—"Oh, dear, so the doctor has sent me more pills." Husband—"Pills?" I'm sure by their looks they are blue mass pills, too. But how big they are." "Great Esculapius! Are you talking about the contents of that box? I sent you that myself. Those are not pills, they are new peaches."—Omaha Herald.

Can't Sleep Nights is the complaint of thousands suffering from Asthma, Consumption, Coughs, etc. Did you ever try Acker's English Remedy? It is the best preparation known for all Lung Troubles, sold on a positive guarantee at 10c., 50c.

C. A. Wright & Co., Druggists.

Mrs. Hayseed whose son is at college—"George writes that he is taking fencin' lessons." Mr Hayseed—"I'm glad o'that. I'll set him a diggin' postholes when he gits home."—New York Sun.

It is So

That we are daily guaranteeing Kemp's Sarsaparilla to the people. After taking three-fourths of a bottle without relief, we will refund the money. It is the greatest and best remedy in the market for cleansing the blood and giving you a new lease of life. A well-known business man informs us he has gained 8 pounds on two bottles of this Sarsaparilla. Price 1.00. For sale by Baker & Hall.

Little girl studying Sunday-school lesson—third chapter of Matthew—"Uncle Henry, what did John wear a leather griddle for?" "A leather griddle! Why, what do you mean?" "Why, it says here, 'and the same John had his raiment of camel's hair and a leather griddle about his loins, and his meat was locusts and wild honey.' Oh I see! To cook his locusts on." And away she went to Sunday-school.

Old and reliable Medicine are the best to depend upon. Acker's Blood Elixir has been prescribed for years for all impurities of the blood. In every form of Scrofulous, Syphilitic or Mercurial diseases, it is invaluable. For Rheumatism, has no equal.

C. A. Wright & Co., Druggists.

Travel in St. Petersburg.

If civilization is to be estimated by facility of locomotion, St. Petersburg is decidedly behindhand. The streets, although very wide, are abominably paved with kidney potato stones—a bad material to begin with, and here very badly laid down, and, besides, there is very often a gutter in the middle of a street crossing, which would throw one of the tiny droshky but for the precautions taken by the natives. The droshky [illegible] cab, even worse than a Dublin car. It is like a very small victoria; the horses is slow, the driver is generally very stupid, there is barely room for two persons and no protection of any kind. As you scuttle along the gauge you are so jolted at first as to wish to use the unspeakable vile language for which the place is the shadowy fantasy beyond and know the mysteries that the [illegible] know.

When we come to think seriously on the subject, it is a curious, disagreeable thing to be so ignorant of life as we are. Why, frequently, mysteries so long, so dark, so complicated, so perplexing, that we cannot even know ourselves. And yet one thing is pretty certain, it seems to us, and every one of us can say with a very comfortable degree of assurance—I am, although a small number of our great and shining lights have expressed themselves doubtful of even that.

Suppose some time, you or ourself, friend reader, should wake up and find we were somewhere else and learn that this earthly existence had been all "in our mind," as slang parlance hath expressed it. It would be strange would it not? And yet a dream seems even as real as this sometimes. But enough of conjecture such as this. We will take it for granted that all things ARE. There is room enough for guesswork left after that.

Not very long ago, you and the rest of us were babies, nothing but squalling, ugly looking little chunks of incipient humanity. We have ceased to be such, and can never be babies any more. Let us be thankful.

From babies in long clothes, as we grew older, we graduated, some into petticoats and some into breeches. We became school children. That was an epoch in our existence which we probably will never forget. What good times we used to have. How we played together; how we quarreled; how the breeches and petticoats fell in love with each other and then fell out again. We can recollect how we felt the first time we fell a victim to the tender passion. For a long time we worshipped at a distance, but when we found that our feelings were reciprocated we seemed to walk on air; and when we found an opportunity to perform the first osculation of our life—Gosh—but words are inadequate to express what feelings the operation gave rise to. We've got a lock of her hair yet, but she is married now, and to some other fellow. With one slight modification this has probably been the experience of the majority. But those halcyon days are a thing of the past. As someone once remarked—How time flies, fugit, and right here perhaps it would be appropriate to quote Shakespeare:

"This world, you know
As well as I, is a common theatre
Where each man must play a certain part."
[illegible]

Perhaps the immortal William never wrote those words; in fact there is some doubt expressed as to whether W. S. was himself, or somebody else. But the sentiment is good, and his "shade" need not get "upon its ear" because we have imputed it to him.

But here we are—men and women—and what the past has been we may as well relegate to some comfortable little nook in our memory and shut it. What the future is to be we ourselves in most decide, for are we not "the architects of our own fortune?" The best way to do it is perhaps, to

"Trust not too much to your present friends,
But wait and see how the wind blows and bends,
Be not too hasty to trust or love,
Hear much, speak little, and prove all things,
Let a thing stand and fall
Where it must for your life,
Shape your course by the stars,
Learn to wait and to wish."

A Regular "D. B."

Not long ago a well-known newspaper man took a day board at the Sherman House, says the Chicago Times. He was at home in the place, and was a privileged character. One day he sauntered behind the office counter into the regions that are supposed to be sacred to gentlemen who wear diamonds and address congressmen, governors, tourists, porters, newsboys and other statesmen by their first names, when his eye happened to catch sight of his own name on a slip with others over the book-keeper's desk. He would not have given it a passing thought had not the letters "D. B." been attached. He "flew off the handle" on the instant, and demanded an interview with the proprietor. That august functionary was found, and to him the irate journalist addressed a few remarks. "Do I owe you anything?" he asked. "No, sir," was the prompt reply. "I have paid my bills all right so far as you know, haven't I?" "Certainly. I have no complaint to make."

"Then why do you permit your clerk to post me over his desk as a 'D. B.?'"

"I do not; there must be some mistake."

The journalist assured him that there was no mistake, and that he had seen the objectionable and significant letters with his own eyes. The more he thought of it the madder he got. The proprietor could not pacify him until he promised to have the matter investigated and the guilty man punished. It was found that the night clerk had perpetrated the outrage, and that evening the injured citizen took an early opportunity to take him to task. "What did you mean by putting 'D. B.' after my name?" inquired the newspaper man. "O, go away," he replied, thinking his interlocutor was "chaffing," as was his custom. "don't bother me." "No, I won't go away, and I demand a civil answer to my question."

The clerk looked up and saw an angry man in front of him. Then his countenance was suddenly bisected by a grin, and he doubled up like a man with the colic. "You took day-board, didn't you?" he inquired, as soon as he regained his composure. "Yes, I did, and I have paid for all the day board I have enjoyed." "So you have," was the soothing response, "but just come around here a minute, till I show you something. You see you are in good company. You are an associate of several millionaires and railroad magnates. They are each and every one designated the same way, 'D. B.' That is short for day-board. Regular boarders are marked 'R. B.'"

The journalist spent a week's salary trying to bribe his auditor with liquid nourishment to keep still, but like all good things the joke leaked.

It isn't the number of immigrants who reach our shores which is affecting the country so much as how they behave after they get here. They all seem to want to start a saloon or run for office.

An Editor's Reflections.

The editor of the Lockport Phœnix is responsible for the following. Who has not thought in about the same strain? And in our sober moments too:

Every once in a while something or other occurs which brings up before us feelings of other days; we are solemn—we indulge in retrospection and dream of "what might have been." [illegible] mood, other serious thoughts succeed, one to another and we are prone to reflect on such sayings of the proverb-makers as "An hour once lost is gone forever," "What's past can never be recalled," etc., and we speculate as to the future even so much as to wish to know the inscrutable will that ordains that the hope is in the shadowy fantasy beyond and know the mysteries that lie behind it.

When we come to think seriously on the subject, it is a curious, disagreeable thing to be so ignorant of life as we are. Why, frequently, mysteries so long, so dark, so complicated, so perplexing, that we cannot even know ourselves. And yet one thing is pretty certain, it seems to us, and every one of us can say with a very comfortable degree of assurance—I am, although a small number of our great and shining lights have expressed themselves doubtful of even that.

Suppose some time, you or ourself, friend reader, should wake up and find we were somewhere else and learn that this earthly existence had been all "in our mind," as slang parlance hath expressed it. It would be strange would it not? And yet a dream seems even as real as this sometimes. But enough of conjecture such as this. We will take it for granted that all things ARE. There is room enough for guesswork left after that.

Not very long ago, you and the rest of us were babies, nothing but squalling, ugly looking little chunks of incipient humanity. We have ceased to be such, and can never be babies any more. Let us be thankful.

From babies in long clothes, as we grew older, we graduated, some into petticoats and some into breeches. We became school children. That was an epoch in our existence which we probably will never forget. What good times we used to have. How we played together; how we quarreled; how the breeches and petticoats fell in love with each other and then fell out again. We can recollect how we felt the first time we fell a victim to the tender passion. For a long time we worshipped at a distance, but when we found that our feelings were reciprocated we seemed to walk on air; and when we found an opportunity to perform the first osculation of our life—Gosh—but words are inadequate to express what feelings the operation gave rise to. We've got a lock of her hair yet, but she is married now, and to some other fellow. With only slight modifications this has probably been the experience of the majority. But those halcyon days are a thing of the past. As someone once remarked—How time flies, fugit, and right here perhaps it would be appropriate to quote Shakespeare:

"This world, you know
As well as I, is a common theatre
Where each man must play a certain part."
[illegible]

Perhaps the immortal William never wrote those words; in fact there is some doubt expressed as to whether W. S. was himself, or somebody else. But the sentiment is good, and his "shade" need not get "upon its ear" because we have imputed it to him.

But here we are—men and women—and what the past has been we may as well relegate to some comfortable little nook in our memory and shut it. What the future is to be we ourselves must decide, for are we not "the architects of our own fortune?" The best way to do it is perhaps, to

"Trust not too much to your present friends,
Let the dead past bury its dead,
Act, act in the living present,
Heart within and God overhead."

Let a thing stand and fall
Where it must for your life,
Shape your course by the stars,
Learn to wait and to wish."

Charles Sumner's Plain Living.

His digestion was good up to the last. Before his injuries he used to pride himself on this: nothing hurt him. He always breakfasted quite lightly and never took lunch. After he became an invalid he learned his limitations and respected them. But before, while he lived plainly as a rule, the late and heavy dinners that he attended, as he used to say, "in his official capacity," never troubled him. He had a childlike love for sweets, and often bought chocolate creams and the like. Indeed, I rather came to look for the share he often poured on my desk from a paper cone of confectionery purchased on his way home from the senate. He seemed somewhat sensitive as to this taste, if one might judge from the pains he sometimes took to defend it. He hoped he would never outgrow his sweet tooth, for so long as it remained he was sure of his digestion.

But this was his only dissipation. He did not smoke—not that he couldn't, but rather that he wouldn't. Still, when he gave or was present at dinners, and cigars came on with the wine after the removal of the cloth, he would light up with the others rather than to be a spoil-sport, but I doubt if he ever smoked a whole cigar.

While Sumner had a critical taste for wines, he took wine only at meals, and then in moderation. He didn't know spirits by their taste. Once when he found that one of his clerks had a flask of whisky in his valise, provided for the journey on which he was about to start, he asked a morsel as a curiosity, and after choking himself with a swallow taken neat, said it was the first time he had ever tasted whisky, and he rather thought it would be the last.—Arnold Burges Johnson in The Cosmopolitan.

Paris' Doll Making Industry.

The making of dolls is one of the principal industries of Paris, the masterpiece of the trade being a marvelous creature consisting entirely of paper, with a porcelain head. This belongs to quite a new race of dolls, which has driven the old ones out of the Parisian market.

In making them a fine paper pulp is used, and the doll is molded bit by bit. One workman does nothing but shape the arms, another has charge of the feet, and so on with the entire body. Elastic bands are inserted in the arms and legs to hold them together, and the joints are made to work so perfectly that a lead weight in any position in which it is placed.

The porcelain head is more difficult to make than the body. After being molded the heads are placed in an oven and cooked for twenty-seven hours. They are then rubbed with pumice stone, polished, and painted with the greatest care. The eyes are made as carefully as are human artificial eyes, and the hair is wool from wild goats in the mountains of Thibet. To finish one of these dolls the labor of thirty different persons is required.

Connected with every large manufactory are dressmakers, milliners and shoemakers, who work at their own homes. One manufacturer displays over 300 different costumes every year. There are toilets for every conceivable occasion, including marriages and balls, and all the fashions of the day are scrupulously reproduced.—Youth's Companion.

A Transparent Mirror.

A forgotten chemical product, brought out by Dode more than twenty years ago, is now preserved in a Paris museum. It is a transparent reflector, in which the image of an object may be viewed as in a mirror, or through which the object itself may be seen as through common glass. It is simply a piece of glass covered with a thin layer of platinum. It was prepared by combining a mixture of platinic chloride and essence of lavender and borate and oxide of lead, spreading the whole on the glass with a fine brush, and then baking in a muffle at a low, red heat. This old discovery ought to serve some useful purpose.—Arkansaw Traveler.

Fat and Sleek Waiters.

There is a fat restaurateur on Sixth avenue who insists that all his waiters shall be fat and sleek. "Why?" he repeated the other day. "Well, I believe that customers are attracted by men who have the appearance of being well fed. Besides, fat waiters are not so irritable as lean ones and are more obliging. My fat waiters have done much to advertise my grub."—New York Sun.

Strain of City Life.

The intensity of the strain of city life is suggested by the fact that while from 1872 to 1882 the population of Chicago increased 3.1 times, and the death rate 3.7 times, the deaths from nervous diseases increased 20.1 times.—Frank Leslie's.

Sportsmen have flocked into northern California in such numbers that old residents say there are now more deer in a given region in the streams, and thirty or forty miles to one deer.

In Germany the school history relates to events down to 1872 only. In this country it goes down to 1886.

How They Meet and Part.

A gentleman lately took down verbatim the conversation of two fashionable ladies during a morning call—viz: "How do you do, dear?" "Pretty well, thank you." (They kiss.) "How have you been this age?" Pretty well. How have you been?" "Very well, thank you." "Pleasant to day." "Yes, very bright, but had a shower yesterday." "All your family [illegible] is yours?" "Oh, very well thank you." "Have you seen Mary B. lately?" "No, but I have seen Susan C." "You don't say so! Is she quite well?" "Yes, very well. I believe." (Rising.) "Must you go?" "Yes, indeed. I have several calls to make." "Do call again soon." "Thank you; but you don't come near us often, do you?" "Oh! you should say so, dear. I'm sure I'm very good." "Good bye." "Good bye, dear."—Exchange.

Gale's great gives the following pointedly to the above:

"Yes, and after visiting that the gentleman discovered the strain upon his mental faculties had been so severe, he went out to brace up." Just as he reached his destination and a friend from out of town, when the following conversation was overheard and taken down by the writer, as an example for women of men's "wit and wisdom." "Hellow! old fellow, how are you?" (They shake.) "First rate, how are you?" "Tip-top!" "When d'e get in?" "Just now." "Have something?" significantly.) "Well—yes, don't care if-do." (They step into a saloon, after cautiously looking around, to make sure no outsiders are about, to see they are breaking their pledge—pause—they emerge, innocently wiping their mouths, before putting into them their lighted cigars, and being primed," resumed:) "How's yer folks?" "All well; how's yours?" "All flourishing now; youngest boy had diphtheria, but all right now." "Crops good up your way?" "Well, yes, pretty fair." How do politics look?" "Bad—very bad—all democrats up our way; big democratic majority. (Takes out his watch.) "Thunder! ten minutes to 12.—must be off—got to see a man at 12." "Can't you come up to the house and take dinner?" "No, guess not to-day—got several pressing business engagements. Good bye." "Good bye." They again wring hards, and then rush away from each other as if fearing they might have to stand another treat.

NINTY RECORD BOOKS!!

"Is it possible? Why I had no conception of the extensive use and popularity of this treatment. What! ninty record books, of seven hundred pages each, in which are recorded all alphabetically the forty one thousand cases of patients who have been and are using the Compound Oxygen Treatment?" Such was the exclamation and surprise of a recent visitor to the principal office of Drs. Starkey & Palen, No. 1529 Arch street, Philadelphia. This office is open from 9 A. M. till 5 P. M. daily, five days in the week, to and which it is expected for themselves the extent and growth of this deservedly popular treatment. Not is it any wonder that its almost incredible success should have induced charlatans to imitate it and try to palm upon the public a clear imitation as being similar and equally good and pure! But none are genuine without the names of Drs. Starkey & Palen being stamped on the bottle. For a full history of this Treatment, address to Drs. Starkey & Palen, 1529 Arch street, Philadelphia, Pa., and it will be sent free.

THE MODEST FATHER.—"Father," began a young Detroiter the other evening, "were you in the war?"

"Yes, my son."

"Was it awful?"

"Yes."

"Lots of dead and wounded men?"

"Yes."

"Did you kill many?"

"Well, I shouldn't like to answer that question."

"Are you very modest, pa?"

"I hope I am too modest to brag."

"That was what Mr. Smith meant, then, when he was telling the men down at the drug store that you hadn't any war record to brag of."

"He d—ch? Smith is a liar!"

"That's what I thought. He told the men that you run so fast he couldn't catch you on horseback, and any boy knows that a horse can catch a man with a stiff knee."

KING OF THE BLOOD

The Most Thorough Purifier of the Blood Yet Discovered.

Cures all Humors, from a common tion to the worst Scrofula.

It purifies the Blood.
It invigorates the Liver.
It regulates the Bowels.
It strengthens the Stomach.
It gives vivacity in place of lassitude; happiness in place of gloom, and robust vigor in place of debility.

Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Disordered Liver, Constipation, Nervous Affections, General Debility, in short all the numerous diseases and constitutions caused by impure blood are speedily conquered by this powerful corrector, the only [illegible] known, and all decoyed or modern [illegible] KING OF THE BLOOD.

It is indeed its best description as it is a royal dispenser of the blessings of health and conquises the foes that lark in the blood.

It banishes impurities, [illegible] Eruptions, [illegible] Scrofula, [illegible] Sores, [illegible] Swellings, [illegible] Sores, [illegible] Blotches, [illegible] Skin Diseases, [illegible] Scurvy, [illegible] Humors, [illegible] Pimples, [illegible] Boils, [illegible] Tumors, [illegible] Tetter, [illegible] Salt Rheum, [illegible] Ulcers, [illegible] Mercurial Disease, [illegible] Blood Poison, [illegible] Sick Headache, [illegible] Female Complaints, [illegible] Nervous Complaints, [illegible] Sleeplessness, [illegible] Dyspepsia, [illegible] Biliousness, [illegible] Kidney Complaints, [illegible] Dropsy, [illegible] Urinary Complaints, [illegible] Dropsical Swellings, [illegible] Rheumatism, [illegible] Gravel, [illegible] Blood Taints, [illegible] Pimples, [illegible] Blotches

TEMPERANCE COLUMN.

Edited by a Committee of the W. C. T. U.

THE OLD MAN'S WARNING.

BY MRS. N. C. ALLEN.

[illegible] Kate, it is no use to ar[illegible] It I should be as fussy as you [illegible] my acquain[illegible]

"As those in my class take a [illegible] a little wine on very s[illegible] and if, as you say, it [illegible] them it certainly hurts no one [illegible]

"No, sir!" interrupted Kate, [illegible] John Harris and Arthur Wilson. Wilson [illegible] wine.

"Well, suppose they follow, make [illegible] to your little tipples. We [illegible] think of them as members of [illegible] only when we are in the [illegible] rooms. At the high-toned [illegible] I don't see what [illegible] want to worry for. A little wine [illegible] harm any one.

"Pshaw!" said Kate, while the tears [illegible] "people [illegible] have a glass or two and more. [illegible] What was a poor mother [illegible] if you should get drunk.

"There, crying again, you silly girl! [illegible] is foolish enough to get [illegible] it is a known fact and no one [illegible] stop your fuss[illegible] Walter Stone, Jr., having [illegible] satis[illegible] for the hundredth time, soon [illegible] the usual emphatic period, by [illegible] the ball door.

Walter and Walter Stone were the only [illegible] who was a business [illegible] to look to [illegible] became interested in his children, and a woman whose health would not permit her to fill a mother's place [illegible] was the place of both mother and father. Will was preparing for college and was anxious to retain the [illegible] of his classmates, who were nearly all sons of wealthy men. Kate had carefully concealed from her mother the fact that these glass mates were not all strictly temperate; and, as she knew she could not rely upon her father's help, had been trying, alone, to shield her brother from temptation. Will was kind hearted, and [illegible] her; but, on this one point, refused to be influenced by her advice, always ending a conversation on the subject with the assertion that a "little wine" was not injurious, and if large quantities marring a person, he won't be the only sufferer. Though she had never seen in aught that intemperance was one of the greatest of all evils, Kate had seen and heard enough to convince her that a larger part of the world's woe is caused by strong drink, and that no young man who uses wine is safe. After her brother left, she felt almost discouraged. She knew that the "good little times" of which he had spoken came her frequently, than the year before, and that these young men were forming habits which must prove a bitter curse to them. She could [illegible] from the village people in arousing an interest in "temperance" reform; and though they were [illegible] temperance subjects with [illegible] sly [illegible] it was [illegible] a dead letter. It seemed to her, as she saw Will go down the street, toward the home of [illegible], the richest and most [illegible] boy in his class, that her trouble was greater than she could bear, for she knew Leslie's influence was all on the side of wine. Just then her eye fell upon two bottles which her pastor's wife had given her. She read the last words of one, bearing the title, "Beware!"

"Can it be possible that I [illegible] shall?"

[illegible] rest in peace [illegible] are.

The other part [illegible] as follows: [illegible] After this had [illegible] "Now, dear Harry and [illegible] Will [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] Kate [illegible] laugh. The [illegible] pretty tall kind of a [illegible] Fun Kate's [illegible] much [illegible] of [illegible]

[illegible]

not come from the North Pole. Better for me if I had, for I imagine the soul killing wine cup would not have ruined me there. Look at me! tall, [illegible] and earn good wages—old as I am—but not a single step can I take without terrible pain, and only by the help of crutches or canes; and wine did the [illegible]

"But, sir," said Leslie, about to detail his favorite hobby, "but, sir,"

"No," interrupted the old man, shaking his white head, "you need not say 'But, sir,' to me. Don't I know I know I never drank to that [illegible] was as well as you are to have what I took that [illegible] across [illegible] down in Connecticut. Twenty years ago, [illegible] had been to a wedding where wine was [illegible] water, and he drank, and drank, and drank until he was [illegible] as to [illegible] as the Prince of Darkness would be. And the worst of it was, he thought he was all right, and the passengers on that long train supposed they were safe. In the gray of the morning we came to a drawbridge. It was up to let a sloop pass through, but he took no notice of the signal, nor was he roused until the train, running as [illegible] as death, plunged to the black gulf in full sight and [illegible] Young man, that was an awful hour. Wine had controlled that train. Some folks think liquor only hurts those who drink it, but I tell you it murders thousands who never touch it. It broks the hearts of thousands more. It makes idiots, paupers, maimed for life and a load of [illegible] of thousands more. It it would only stop when it had sent the drunkards themselves to the penitentiaries and insane asylums; when it had ruined their bodies and souls, and sent them into a hopeless future, for no drunkard can inherit the kingdom of Heaven—if it would only stop then, the world would not be as full of woe as it is to-day, but it never stops; it never stops and it never will, until you, boys and girls, too, create a public sentiment which will lay the axe at the root of the tree, and stop the manufacture of the poison. Till then, we must mourn for the millions slain.

"In that dreadful morning hour our express train of fifteen cars went thundering on, and on, toward destruction. The danger, seen too late, could not be averted. The engineer reversed the engine and whistled down breaks, then, leaped and escaped, but half the cars went into the chasm. I could not forget that hour even if I had not lived in pain ever since—the awful plunge, the agony, the groans of anguish, the frantic cries for help, the dying struggles, I have dreamed of them by the hour. Wives were made widows, children orphans, and fathers and mothers childless, all because one young man insisted that there was no harm in drinking a little wine. He repented. Yes! The thought of that awful scene tormented him day and night, until, at last, he took poison and killed himself; but this sorrow did not restore the scores of murdered victims to their friends, nor did it give health and strength to the three hundred who were maimed, some of them worse than killed, for they have lived in constant and excruciating pain. The plunge into the cold water, and the injuries received, caused a severe sickness and this lameness, so, as you see, I cannot take a step without help. Go your way, my young friends, but let me warn you an old man's warning. Beware of alcohol, whether in wine, beer, cider or stronger drinks. You have no right to throw away the talent God has given you. You have [illegible] you and you have no right to run the risk of ruining or murdering those whose lives may be entrusted to your care. Do not be satisfied with abstaining from strong drink yourselves, and those who [illegible] perhaps as much will power [illegible] by your present and example and you can save even one [illegible] Heaven. The effort will give you a [illegible] throughout eternity. No pain [illegible] himself. Your influence will [illegible] ever make it felt for good. Remember the old man's warning.

As the boys turned away Kate saw [illegible] the stranger [illegible] appear the merry [illegible] with such a laugh. The [illegible] pretty tall kind of a [illegible] Fun Kate's [illegible] much [illegible]

[illegible]

Before Leslie could reply, a party of their young friends came to meet them, but Kate was thoroughly in earnest, and her pleadings finally prevailed. A band was formed which did much toward awakening a widespread interest in the temperance work, and banishing liquor shops from the village.

FINDLAY, Ohio, Aug. 15th, '87.

EDITOR OF THE HERALD:

In my letter of Aug. 4th "one wing should have been gas sprout street lamps." We will replace four street lamps "should have been eight street lamps." Through your stove should have been through your stove. You will discover that these errors make quite a difference in the sense of the article.

The manufacturing institutions of Findlay are numerous and quite extensive. Within one year thirty two natural gas wells have been located here and put to actual operation. These consist of glass factories for the manufacture of table ware and window glass; steel tool factory; extensive foundries and machine shops; sash, door and blind factory; lime kilns &c. The only fuel used is gas. The boilers are heated by means of one or two as the size of the boiler requires—pieces of gas pipe, placed horizontally in the fire box beneath the boiler. This pipe is perforated its entire length with two rows of holes, varying in size from an eighth to a quarter of an inch, along the sides and a little above the center of the pipe, in order to give an equal distribution of heat. These pipes are connected with a pipe running down through the bottom of the firebox out into the engine room and from there to the main in the street. Where the pipe extending to the building joins the main is a valve by which the quantity desired can be regulated, or where the supply can be entirely cut off. In the engine room in a convenient position for the use of the engineer is a valve regulating the gas for the boiler. To ignite the gas a little burning paper or shavings is placed in the fire box and the gas gradually turned on to the required quantity. In like manner these pipes are extended under the cupolas at the foundries, lime kilns, glass factories, &c. In like manner also, are they placed in stoves. The heat of this burning gas is very intense. To illustrate: the firm with whom I am engaged run all the machinery necessary for the manufacture of sash, doors blinds &c., also, for planing, sawing, matching and re sawing lumber, and all the gas they use is let under the boiler through a less than quarter inch hole. The average amount of steam carried is eighty pounds. The engine is forty horse power. I have not heard of an accident anywhere in the city from the use of this gas. Of course there is danger, and great care must be taken in handling it.

In this section the gas is brought to the surface through solid rock, from a depth of from twelve to eighteen hundred feet. The force with which it escapes indicates the almost, if not quite, inexhaustible force which this mass of rock is constantly resisting. How long it has stood this pressure may be a question of some importance, but the one as to the length of time it may yet stand it, is of vast importance to the inhabitants of the great gas regions. Some writers predict a dire catastrophe to all of this section of country by a general explosion, upheaval, a rushing in of the waters of Lake Erie and the formation of a great inland Sea. This may come to pass but the Findlayites don't seem to care worth a cent. They go on boring and burning just the same. I do not believe that a single one of these reckless fellows has any idea of plugging up a single well. Of course I am not afraid" but as the blizzards of Dakota are more agreeable to my phlegmatic constitution I shall soon depart for that territory and if the grand finale of all this gaseous business comes during my lifetime I shall be out of danger and can tell my grandchildren of this summer spent in a city then underneath the sea.

NEW BUILDINGS.

The new business blocks put up here this season up to date will number at least seven hundred and the number is increasing every day. Many of these houses are rented as soon as the foundation is laid, some are completed before one brick is ready to move in. Most of the brick houses contain five rooms, three down stairs and two up stairs, and are furnished with gas fixtures, a well and cistern. They rent for from ten to twelve dollars a month. I think that four-fifths of [illegible] this [illegible] W. P. Stockton.

—Call at J. S. Kinney's store and see those fine marble, indestructible caskets on exhibition. Also a new spring bed with elevated head rest. The best in the market for invalids. Manufactured by J. S. Kinney.

—If you want a first class sewing machine call on Mrs. M. P. Brown and see the New Domestic, The White and The Wheeler. Prices reasonable and terms easy.

—If you want any painting, graining or paper hanging done call on D. Holmes. Good work guaranteed. Terms reasonable. Leave orders at Bauer & Bates, or C. A. Wright's, Tecumseh. A. D. Holmes.

—A few back numbers of Harper's Monthly, and other magazines, for sale at one half the regular prices at A. J. Coddington's.

BEHAD SALT RHEUM FOR 20 YEARS.

A. Manuel, Asst Supt. A. B. Agt., C. R. I. & P. R. R. writes: "For Twenty years I have been afflicted with Salt Rheum in a most serious form. During the winter season, my hands have been in such condition that I was unable to dress or undress myself without assistance, and I have not had gloves or bandages off my hands for about four months until I began using Papillon Extract of flax Skin Cure. I certainly think it has cured my hands." Large bottles $1.00. For sale by A. S. Doty.

Scribner's Magazine for September opens with a fully illustrated article on "The Modern Nile," by Edward L. Wilson, one of the most enthusiastic and skilful of travellers and photographers, whose previous journeys with his camera in out of the way places have attracted very favorable attention through the articles which he has written about them and the lectures which he has delivered in many places. In this article Mr. Wilson describes a Nile journey from the Delta a thousand miles to the Second Cataract, not in the conventional manner of the ordinary traveller, but from the fresh point of view of an experienced and thoughtful observer. He gives entertaining and picturesque descriptions of Edfou, Thebes, the island of Philæ, Memphis, Luxor, and other famous Nile sites and ruins.

The reason why Acker's Blood Elixir is warranted, is because it is the best Blood Preparation known. It will positively cure all Blood Diseases, purifies the whole system, and thoroughly builds up the constitution. Remember, we guarantee it. C. A. Wright & Co., Druggists.

MARRIED.

ATEN—HAND—At the residence of Howard Hand in Wheatland Sunday August 15th 87, by the Rev. O. F. Winton, Fredric W Aten of Tecumseh, to Miss. Ella May Hand of Macon.

SHAW—MERRITT—At Hanover, New Hampshire, August 17, 1887, Prof. George Wright Shaw of Whitman college, Walla Walla, Wash. Ter. and Miss E. May Merritt, grand daughter of the late T. T. Romeyn, of this place.

LETTER LIST

Tecumseh,

Remaining uncalled for in the Postoffice at Tecumseh, Aug. 25, 1887:

Dilor, Mr. P. E. Roxbury, Miss Mary

Persons calling for letters in the above list will please say "Advertised."

C. A. STACY, P. M.

TIME SCHEDULE.

MAIL CLOSES	L. S. & M. S.—SOUTH.	MAIL ARRIVES.
7.00 a.m.		7.20 a.m.
4.30 p.m.		3.41 p.m.
	NORTH
10.45 a.m.		11.05 a.m.
		9.15 p.m.
	C. L. & M. R. R.—WEST.
9.35 a.m.		10.00 a.m.
		7.02 p.m.
	EAST.
9.15 a.m.		9.35 a.m.
2.35 p.m.		8.00 p.m.

C. A. STACY, P.M.

PAINT

Be sure you get a CAN ONE-DAY BUGGY PAINT

YOUR BUGGY

FOR ONE DOLLAR

COIT'S HONEST

COIT'S PAINT NEVER SWEARS

HOUSE PAINT

COIT'S FLOOR PAINT

DRY STICKY

N. W. AYER & SON

ADVERTISING AGENTS

PHILADELPHIA

Are prepared to contract for Advertising in the Newspapers at Lowest Cash Rates.

AYER & SON'S MANUAL

THIS PAPER is on file at the Agency of N. W. AYER & SON, our authorized agents.

ROYAL

BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity, strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and cannot be sold in competition with the multitude of low test, short weight, alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans. ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO. 106 Wall st. N. Y.

ANIMAL CATCHING DEVICE.

Why this simple tool gives each and a boy 10 years of age can hold and ring the most vicious and cracked hog without ears. It can be used for handling hogs for all purposes, and sheep as well, in washing or shearing sheep, put the catcher loose in the handle, then reach out and catch the sheep without disturbing the flock, always catching by the leg. There is no danger of breaking the leg, the device being pulled out from the handle when on the leg of the animal. On receipt of $1.25 I will send to any address not paid the Catcher with twitch to hold the nose of the hog to rise. Catcher without the handle for $1.00. Large profits to good agents. Send for circular. C. F. MORLEY, Inventor and Mfg., Tecumseh, Mich.

STEKETEE'S NEURALGIA DROPS

A New Discovery. Price Only 50c. For Sale.

BIG REWARD PAID TO ONE

This valuable remedy is now offered to the public for the first time. Neuralgia, Sick Headache, Nervous Prostration in the future, Hysteria, Sleeplessness, Nervous Headache, Female Weakness, Dizziness, Fits, Nervous Irritation, Hysteria

The Tecumseh Herald.

VOL. XXXVIII NO 14. TECUMSEH, MICHIGAN, THURSDAY MORNING, SEPTEMBER 1 1887 WHOLE NO. 1912

70 PIECES 70

NEW

DRESSGOODS

JUST OPENED.

Also a New Lot of

REMNANTS!

On sale each week at

W. & S. W. Anderson & Co's.

Everything on the

BOOM-BOOM

AT THE

GRAND CENTRAL SUPPLY STORE.

GROCERIES, CROCKERY, GLASSWARE,

TEAS, SUGARS, SPICE.

PRICES LOWER THAN EVER.

HENRY McCLURE.

O. B. DeWOLF, Pres. H. M. TEMPLE, Sec'y and Treas. S. W. TEMPLE, Vice Pres. and Gen'l Mgr

THE OHIO & MICH. COAL & MFG. CO.,

COAL.

LUMBER LATH AND SHINGLES

MANUFACTURERS OF

Doors, Sash, Blinds, Mouldings,

Scroll Work, Turned Work, Modern Interior Finish.

GET ESTIMATES BEFORE BUYING.

OFFICE CORNER R. R. AND SHAWNEE STS.

Yards and Factory on Pearl and Shawnee sts., near L. S. & M. S. Depot.

TECUMSEH, MICH.

NEW BEDROOM SUITS

PARLOR SUITS!

Patent Rockers, Reed Rockers, New Couches,

And a big stock of Fine and Medium

FURNITURE!

I invite all who are in want of good Furnitnre to look through my rooms and examine goods and notice the low prices. Remember, I have not moved back, but still occupy the largest store on the street for the last 13 years. You are told I don't enjoy the business for want of room, THAT IS SO.

Undertaking a Specialty!

Night Calls, Day Calls, and all kinds of calls promptly attended to. New styles of Caskets in stock, and something entirely new for the times.

WM. McCOWEN.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

RIDGEWAY RAMBLES.

Mrs. Wm. Pilbeam is under the Doctor's care at present.

Another case of scarlet fever in Joe Osborn's family.

Florine Rappleye of Dundee, is visiting in this vicinity.

Claude Marsteller of Clinton, spent several days at the home of Nellie Freer last week.

Misses Willitts and Harrington of Blissfield, visited at W. R. Wilson's last Sunday.

Alfred Putnam and Allie McNeal of Milan, were the guests of Mrs. John Arner and family over Sunday. Miss McNeal will leave for Thompson, Schoolcraft Co., Mich., to teach, the coming year.

Mrs. W. P. Cadmus and Bertie returned from their visit in York State last week Wednesday.

Belle Barlow Sundayed with some of her music pupils at Dundee.

Wm. Campbell of St. John, accompanied Uncle Houseman home last week and spent a few days with relatives here.

Fred Kotts of Manchester, was the guest of Nellie Rappleye over Sunday.

Will Allen who is night Agent at Battle Creek for the C. J. & M., spent Sunday at his parents.

Editor Stacy of the HERALD, and Miss Stacy, Assistant P. M., were in the village on business Tuesday evening and attended the W. C. T. U. entertainment.

Daniel Sink and wife of Cloverdale, Sonoma Co. California, and Mrs. Wm. Sink and children of Toledo, have been visiting at Ezra Sink's for a few days.

The President of the ladies' church social informs us that we may lookout for a pumpkin pie social at her home in the near future. All lovers of that kind of a pie must not fail to be present, for Mrs. Wilson's pies are of a superior quality and enormous in size.

A Macham and daughters and Ada Bethel of Holloway, gave Agent Sutton and family a call on Sunday.

Mr. & Mrs. Montgomery, in company with Etta Low, left for Bellvue, Saturday for a few days visit.

The attendance at the entertainment given at Cottage Hall, by the W. C. T. U., was among the best of the many given by the ladies of the village and vicinity, and is worthy of much praise. The exercises began by singing and Prayer, followed by a choice and interesting selection of declamations, recitations, readings, essays, being interwoven by solos, duetts and quartetts. W. F. Barnum of Adrian, furnished some very fine whistling solos with guitar accompaniments. The program was very instructive and interesting all through. The society took in $9 00, but might have had a much larger audience if it had been properly advertised.

The official Board of the M. E. church have decided to arrange for a festival and donation next neek Wednesday evening, Sept. 7th, to which an invitation is extended to everybody to attend. A preliminary meeting is called to meet on Friday evening this week at the residence of Dr. D. W. Loree, to appoint committees, etc. See bills for further announcement.

FRANKLIN FACTS.

Mrs. Mettie Best of southwestern Arkansas is visiting her aunt, Mrs. G. W. Allen.

The funeral of Joseph Herbison, an old and respected citizen, took place at his home on the 23 inst.

Miss Libby Pitcher of Tipton, whose life has hung as by a thread for several days is reported better.

Mrs. Sim. Whelan is very sick.

Mrs George Allen is no better.

Mrs. G. W. Allen is slowly convalescing.

Colett Brown has moved to Jackson.

Miss Nina Allen is the happy posessor of a lovely mocking bird, the gift of Mrs. Best.

ONSTED ODDS.

Geo. Hines bought and shipped four thousand dozen eggs last week.

Frank Aldrich is or ought to be the happiest man in town. It is a girl.

John Smith and family, of Charlotte, are shaking hands with their many friends here.

Fred Snow went to Findlay Monday to work at his trade. His father has been there several days and reports lots of work.

School will commence in Dis. No. 5 next Monday. Harry Wood of Geneva is the teacher.

Curtis and Kane are taking an inventory of their stock this week.

The Onsted Ball boys say that if the Ridgeway ball club want to cross bats with them again, to set the date that they will appear at Onsted, and if there is no previous engagement, will meet them at any time and will try and have a field large enough so that a hit that ought to be caught by a fielder will not stretch into a home run, while the fielder is hunting up the ball in the corn.

LAKE RIDGE LACONICS.

The fall term of school will commence Monday the 5th.

John Howe of Sanford, Midland county, is shaking hands with friends and neighbors here, and will remain till after the encampment at Adrian.

Mrs. Jas. Osgood of St. Johns, came out Monday.

Daniel Sink and family, Cloverdale, Cal., and Mrs. Wm. Sink of Toledo, O. are visiting their nephews, Albert and Ezra Sink of Lake Ridge.

Julia Henry of Lake Ridge, and Geo. Cornville of AuSable, law partner of C. R. Henry, were united in wedlock last Wednesday. Their wedding tour will extend to Mackinaw.

G. Squires youngest child had its face cut in being run over by a calf, Monday, requiring several stitches. Dr. Nelson fixed it up.

Mary Mellon is suffering from blood poison in a finger, from a wound inflicted by the point of shears.

Two cases of scarlet fever at J. W. Osborn's.

Frank Miller is sick.

Martha St. George, is down with dysentery.

Geo. Kemp is quite sick with malarial fever.

John Yates is no better. Dr. Stevenson of Adrian, was called in council Wednesday.

Carrie Tolbert of Dakota, formerly of this township, died Monday,

DEATH OF RUFUS ADAMS.

It is with truly sad heart that we record the death of this esteemed and valued and honored citizen of Tecumseh. His death occured at Ypsilanti, whither he had gone witn the hope of receiving benefit from treatment there, especially from the effect of the mineral spring. He ratnér grew worse, and rapidly declined. His wife was sent for and afterward his daughters and other friends and relatives, who were at his bedside in the closing scene. The cause of his failing health for months past, and of his death, was cancer of the stomach. His sufferings were great, but he was able to recognize and freely converse with his friends to the last, and anticipated with calmness and with joy his entrance into the heavenly rest. He passed away to the heavenly home on Sunday morning, August 21st, 1887, aged 54 years. The remains were brought to Tecumseh, the interment was from his late residence on the afternoon of the 23rd. The funeral services were conducted by his pastor, Rev. F. Adkins, who sought to bear the deceased brother's personal message to the surviving friends from the words of (Acts 21. 18, 19.) "Ye know * * * after what manner I have been with you at all seasons, serving the Lord with all humility of mind, and with many tears and trials which befell me." These words seem to be truly appropriate to the testimony of this good man's life. Mr. Adams was born in Tioga, Pa., and when he was only four years old his father's family removed to Tecumseh. With the exception of a few years residence in the far West, his life since that time has been passed in this place. He was one of a family of nine children by the first marriage of his father, Dea. Isaac Adams, only three of whom survive, viz: Mr. Oscar P. Adams of Oregon, Mrs. Williams of Allegan, and Mrs. O. B. DeWolfe of this city. He was twice married. First to Miss Mary E. Chadwick, April 25, 1865, the mother of his two surviving daughters, and who preceded him to the heavenly home many years ago. April 4th 1877 he was married to Miss Ella M. Jones, whose kindly ministrations in the years of decline and suffering have helped to cheer and sustain him. He was converted to Christ and baptized into the fellowship of the Baptist Church of Tecumseh Aug. 13, 1849. He has been a consistent and valuable member of this church therefore (except a brief interval, during a residence in the west) for a period of thirty-eight years. During this period, in all circumstances and conditions his fidelity and devotion put to the test have been confirmed. And the record of his life is a clear Christian testimony. He was a man of firm, decided conviction, and great steadfastness in adherence to conviction. He was of modest and undemonstrative disposition, but warmly attached to his home and friends, and faithful in his religious duties, and strong in his Christian faith. He was a man of true unobtrusive piety, and dying beheld like Stephen, "the heavens opened, and the Son of man standing on the right hand of God." His death will be a serious loss to the church of which he was a faithful member, and also to the community of which he was a respected and trusted citizen. The sympathy of all these is cordially tendered to the widow and daughters and other immediate friends in their affliction."

Perhaps you never thought of it, but the most touching thing in nature is a dog's nose.

BASE BALL MUSIC FROM ONSTED.

ONSTED, Mich., Sept. 29, '87.

EDITOR HERALD:—I see by your paper of the 25th inst. that the Ridgeway Base Ball club are apparently on their muscle. Now in justice to the Onsted club, I would like to say that if the Ridgeway correspondent had not drawn so much on his imagination and stuck closer to the truth, his article in the Ridgeway Rambles would have been of a different tone. They are correct on some points, and on others are sadly deficient. In regard to the ninth innings between the Onsted and Ridgeway clubs, it is as he said; the first man fouled out; second and third men made their bases, and fourth man struck a grounder to short stop, but he forgot to state the position of the short-stop at that time. He stood on the line from second to third base, making it impossible for the runner to reach third base without going around him. Now if the correspondent will look over the rules governing base ball, he will find the base runner dare not run into a player while attempting to field a ball, neither durst he run in front; so it is plainly to be seen that he must leave the line and go behind the fielder. But perhaps the Ridgeway club wanted him to stop and wait until the fielder caught the ball and put him out. The Umpire was watching that play very closely, and called the runner safe on third. The correspondent states that the Umpire would not make a decision. That is a mistake, and whether wilful or not, I cannot say. After the Ridgeway club had done their "little kicking" the Umpire ordered them to play and they refused. Now, the Ridgeway club are not such fools that they did not know the penalty of refusing to play. The score declared by the Umpire to be 9 to 0 in favor of the Onsted club, which was in accordance with the rules governing such cases, where either club refuses to play after being ordered to do so by the Umpire. It seemed as if it was the whole aim of the Ridgeway club to cripple the Onsted club, or to "kick" them out. There was not a baseman in the Onsted club but that was knocked down by being run into while on their bases, and to an outsider it looked as though purposely done to cripple some of them, and so weaken the club, and as for "kicking" I think the Ridgeway Club takes the lead. In the south during the war, it was claimed that a goverment mule could do more kicking, in the shortest space of time, than any other of the known brutes in existence, but of course at that time the Ridgeway Club was not known. Still I think the mule has the cleanest record, for they will not kick without cause, while with the aforesaid Club it is just the reverse. Now as to there being any Wolf Creeks, with the Onsted Club, it is well known there was not, and I seriously doubt the Ridgeway Club ever being so informed. Now a word about the Umpire, it was Mr. F. Daniels, of Tipton. He is a man pretty well known as he has umpired a great many games, and has the name of being as square a man as ever stood behind the Home Plate, and the Ridgeways are the first and only Club I ever heard say a word to the contrary. I understand that the Onsted club are ready to meet the Ridgeways again on the Diamond, but prefer not to play in a lane or cornfield.

SCORER.

BRITTON BUDGET.

Farmers are busy threshing.

Osgood Bros. are busy getting their cider mill ready, expecting a big run this fall.

The brick work is done on the Dakin Block at last. Joe has had a hard time getting the brick.

Some of the second nine boys went to Ridgeway last Friday to play with the kids there, and got beat of course.

The ship timber is being loaded at this place. It is a sight to go down and see them handle those sticks.

Mrs. Chas. Hoagland is very sick; was taken Wednesday morning.

A tramp came along the other day and lettered the restaurant screen door for his dinner. The flies won't dare go near now, the letters will surely scare them away.

Jas. Riley has been slashing paint all over T. V. Hoagland's barns, and will go to John Wiggin's next.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The Best Salve in the world for cuts, Bruises, Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chilblains Corns, and all skin Eruptions, and postively cures Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box FOR SALE BY C. A. Wright & Co.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSONS.

Lesson for September 4

TRUST IS OUR HEAVENLY FATHER.—MATT. vi, 24-34

NOTES.—"No man can serve two masters."—This verse continues the thought of the previous verse about the eye being either light or darkness. An alternative is set before us, that of either being in the kingdom, or out of it.—"Either . . . or."—If for "the one" and "the other" we substitute the first, and the second, we will make the idea clearer. He will either hate the first and love the second, or he will hold to the first and despise the second.—"Ye cannot serve God and Mammon."—This explains the preceding verses. Those who accept the Kingdom which is coming serve God; those who reject it for worldly reasons are servants of Mammon, who is the devil who presides over worldly wealth, and so personifies money.—"Therefore . . . be not anxious for your life."—Servants of Mammon are anxious for this life; servants of God are not. "Therefore," if ye are servants of God don't be anxious for the things of this world as the servants of Mammon are. The word "anxious" refers to worry and fretful anxiety which does not trust God perfectly, that he will care for us.—"What shall we eat." Here Christ specifies necessary wants as those at we are not to be anxious. this would apply literally to those sent out, like the apostles; but in a real sense it applies to all disciples, although man must devote much thought and care to the supply of daily wants; but it must be a trustful care.—"Is not the life more than the food?"—If so, much more is spiritual life than food.—"And the body than the raiment?"—If the body is more than the raiment, much more is the soul.—"Your heavenly father feedeth them."—This must not be interpreted as if all disciples were to stop working and trust God for food. The commonest bird of the East is the so-called English sparrow, which flies in great flocks.—"One cubit to his stature."—The marginal reading "age" is quite as good.—"The lilies of the field."—Probably no one flower was called lily, but showy bulbous flowers, like an iris or a gladiolus.—"Solomon . . . not arrayed like one of these."—The iris has a rich, royal purple color, and the gladiolus had rich colors.—"Cast into the oven."—Into the large earthenware oven to heat it, to cook the bread on the sides.—"Do the Gentiles seek."—Who are worshipers of idols, like mammon.—"The morrow will be anxious for itself."—It will bring its own occasions for anxiety; so do not borrow trouble.

INSTRUCTION.—We not only can choose our masters, but we must. It is the most important thing we have to do, to choose what master we will serve. Christ came offering the new service of himself and his kingdom to people who were living for this world. That same service is open to us. To enter upon it is what is called conversion.

We are all either Christians or we are not Christians. We may be very poor Christians, or we may not be earnest in the service of the world, but we are one thing or the other. We are bidden in Scripture to choose whom we will serve, and then to make our calling and election sure. Let one who is a Christian be a decided one.

Yet, though Christ says we cannot serve two masters, a great many people do seem to serve two masters. They are members of the Church, professed followers of Christ, yet one cannot tell them from the world by their lives. God will decide, not we.

Christ loved to speak paradoxically so as to arouse attention. He would use language true in one sense, which he meant, but not in another. Of course, we must be anxious to care for ourselves and our dependents. We must take great pains for food and drink and clothing. We must not be like the birds and lilies, because we must toil and spin. The Scripture says that if a man will not work neither shall he eat. We are bidden to labor six days. Christ's language seems to contradict all this, but we must take him as he means, and not always literally. In the same way we must not hate father and mother, and Christ did not mean to command us to.

If one is rightfully anxious for food and clothing, much more must he be anxious about his soul's food and raiment. Christ teaches us that the anxiety we must feel for physical things is infinitly less than what we should feel for righteousness.

A Christian hopefulness should make a Christian more encouraged to carry on his business earnestly and successfully.

THE TECUMSEH HERALD.

Issued Every Thursday Morning

BY S. C. STACY.

Office in The New Herald building, one door East of the Opera House, Tecumseh, Mich.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

One year, (with Advance) $1.50
Six months " " 75

Twenty-five cents will be added to the subscription price for each three months that payment may be delayed.

ADVERTISING RATES

Business Notices, 5 cents a line for each insertion.

Special notices, fifty cents an inch for each insertion.

Rates in regular advertising form and terms made known at the office, by mail.

Entered at the Post Office at Tecumseh, Michigan, as second class matter.

TECUMSEH, THURSDAY, SEPT. 1

A BULLDOG IN TRAINING.

Long Walks—Worrying the Bag—Turning the Wheel—Reduced in Flesh.

A dog is usually in [illegible] weeks and it will [illegible] Lady [illegible] powered [illegible] days [illegible] dog [illegible] dress. He gets a [illegible] of meat, [illegible] a praiser on [illegible] to pay [illegible] the dog to will [illegible] wash [illegible] the dog [illegible] the [illegible] the [illegible] the

E'S
ECIAL XTRACT

emon, Orange, Rose, Almond fruits, flavor delicious

ANILLA FOR RING EXTRACT.

RE & CO.,

& Co.,

ash and Dry
MATERIAL.
ing to Order
nd Depot.
HIGAN.

Adrian,
Children's Co
xtures, Etc.
in Southern Michigan
Best of Flooring care for quality.
S VERY FI

ASKINE.
THE NEW QUININE.)

GIVES
Good Appetite
New Strength
Quiet Nerves
Happy Days
Sweet Sleep.

A POWERFUL TONIC
the most delicate stomach will bear.
SPECIFIC FOR MALARIA,
RHEUMATISM,
NERVOUS PROSTRATION,
And all germ diseases.
MOST SCIENTIFIC AND SUCCESSFUL
FEBRIFUGE. Superior to quinine.
Rev. Thomas Rector Grace Church, Haven, writes: "I cordially endorse Kaskine as what you claim, an excellent substitute for quinine."
Mr. ... had of serious form of malaria and confined to her bed for months. Kaskine ... and around in a few days, and in a ... restored her.
In the malarial districts of Maryland I ... with quinine and other remedies ... I was greatly reduced when I ... Its curative powers were a revelation to me. It cured me and I ... a return of the troubles. (Prof.) J. ... B.A., Asst. Chemist, Maryland Agricultural College.
From the above persons, having full de... will be sent on application.
... is not to take and can be used ... without medical advice. $1 per bottle, ... for $5.
... on receipt of price.
... Warren St., New York

PATENTS E. A. LEHMANN,
Washington, D. C.
Send for circular.
... the Largest and Best Equipped
BOWLERS' ROLLERS ESTABLISHMENT
in the United States.
D. J. REILLY & CO.,
... and 324 Pearl Street, New York
Satisfaction guaranteed. —Best references.

CANCER Its causes and a new and successful cure. CURE at your own home ... who was deaf 28 years. Treated by the noted specialists without benefit ... in three months, and since ... of others. Full particulars sent free.
No. 41 West 3rd St., New York City.

CONSUMPTIVE
... Bronchitis, Asthma, Indigestion! Use ... GINGER TONIC without delay. It ... and is the best remedy ... and diseases of ... exhaustion. The ... and slow's drug ... Prevent their health by ... Ginger Tonic, but delay is dangerous. It is invaluable for all pains ... of the stomach and bowels. 50c. at druggists.

Farm Implement
DEPOT.
C. A. SLAYTON

... SHERBERT
... BUCH
... WIARD
... SALL
... OLIVER
Wonderful
THE ... AND SOLID COMFORT
SULKY PLOWS.
... Spring Tooth Harrow,
CULTIVATORS
GRAIN DRILLS
... MANUFACTURER AND DEALER IN
... Wagons, Jackson and Flint
WAGONS.
GREAT BARGAINS IN Carriages and Platform Spring Wagons.
Headquarters for Lime, Cement, Salt, Coal, Plaster and Plastering Hair Grain, Flour, Feed, and Field Seeds.
... PORTER
... ADMA
... PAINTING

... Music Boxes
... of Sheet Music ... or Band Instruments ... any address.

Lake Shore & Michigan South, South Shore & Atlantic R. R.
... NEW SHORT LINE
... Marquette and Chicago ... at all points.
WAGNER PARLOR CARS
AND
Superb Wagner Sleeping Cars.
... TRAVELLED HUNTING AND FISHING
... tickets for sale at all points in this ... E. W. ALLEN, General Passenger and Ticket Agent, Marquette, Mich.

Tecumseh Herald

DIAMONDS AND PEARLS THOU HAST.

Diamonds and pearls thou hast,
Life's joys are ever dear,
And thou hast ever been most beautiful—
My love, what will thou more?

My heart has given undying songs
... to pluck those eyes of mine—
My love, what will thou more?

And with those wondrous eyes hast thou
Diamonds and pearls, love,
And yet ... what dost thou more?

JESS.

By H. RIDER HAGGARD,

Author of "King Solomon's Mines" &c. &c. Etc.

... CHAPTER ... Jess to the Lower Hut

... Would they escape? What could be the end except misery? It should go no further, far as it had gone, that she swore; no, not if it broke her heart and his, too. The conditions were altered a little, and the memory of those dreadful and wonderful hours when they two swung upon the raging river and exchanged their undying troth, with the grave for their altar, must be a memory and nothing more.

She recovered and walked back to the spot where she had left John an hour before. He was employed when she reached him in saddling up the horses ... the ... and bridles that he had collected from the carcasses of the horses ... the lighting ... had ...

"Hullo, Jess, you look quite heart. Have you dried your ... he said. "I have ... a ...

"Yes," she answered.

He looked at her. "Why, dearest, you have been crying. Come, hope ... black ... but ... Anyway, we have ... all ... for ..."

"John," said Jess, simply, ... "I ... that. Things ... We ... and ... now we ... the ... Besides," she ... of ... "perhaps that ... I should think ... to ... and of ... John's ... impression ... they were ... presently ... sent into ... "My dearest Jess," he said, ...

... "Why ... been ... John, we ... but ... without you ... shall I do."

Her ... was very ... affected ... not ... "Would ... a ... black ... my ... "No ... passionately, "I will not have ... You shall ... to me that you will ... heart ... to Bessie. I will not ... her ... disloyal. We have ... Rose, who ... Rose ... Jess ... "Rose ... Jess ... "Rose ... Jess ... "

THE TECUMSEH HERALD.

Issued Every Thursday Morning

BY S. C. STACY.

Office in the New HERALD building, one door east of the Opera House, Tecumseh, Mich.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

One year, cash in advance, $1 50
Six months " " " 75

Twenty-five cents will be added to the subscription price for every three months that payment may be delayed.

ADVERTISING RATES.

Business locals, thirty cents a line for each insertion.

Special notices, fifteen cents an inch for each insertion.

Rates on general advertising or on terms of contracts made known at the publishing room.

Entered at the postoffice at Tecumseh, Michigan, as second class matter.

TECUMSEH, THURSDAY, SEPT. 1

A BULLDOG IN TRAINING.

Long Weeks Worrying the Bag—Turning the Wheel—Reduced in Flesh

A dog is usually in training six or eight weeks and it will cost about $60. The first thing a good trainer does is to give the dog some powdered aloes [illegible] day or two after that he gets a dose of sulphur and cream tartar, and either this or powdered [illegible] is given every few days during the ensuing week or two days. It is for the dog is reduced in [illegible] He gets [illegible] and for the first week [illegible] mixed with half a teaspoonful [illegible] carefully examined. During the whole [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] the dog's [illegible] and [illegible] the sides [illegible] the ribs [illegible] the dog [illegible] the ribs [illegible] the dog [illegible] the ribs [illegible] the dog

ASKINE.

THE NEW QUININE.

GIVES
Good Appetite
New Strength
Quiet Nerves
Happy Days
Sweet Sleep.

A POWERFUL TONIC
The most delicate stomach will bear.
SPECIFIC FOR MALARIA,
RHEUMATISM,
NERVOUS PROSTRATION,
And all germ diseases.
MOST SCIENTIFIC AND SUCCESSFUL PURIFIER. Superior to quinine. Rector Grace Church, Ravenna, Mich., certainly endorses Kaskine as what you claim, an excellent substitute with none of its bad effects. I had a serious form of malaria and was confined to her bed for months. Kaskine cured her. I recommend it to my friends and around in a few days, and in a few days cured her.
In the malarial districts of Maryland, I am in the habit of worst forms of malarial fever, and never succeeded with quinine and other remedies as well. I was greatly reduced when I took Kaskine. Its curative powers were a revelation to me. It cured me and I have had a return of the troubles. (Prof.) J. M. H.A., Ass't Chemist, Maryland Agricultural College.
Testimonials from the above persons, giving full details, will be sent on application.
Kaskine is given out to take and can be used without medical advice. $1 per bottle, 6 bottles for $5.
Sent by mail on receipt of price.
KASKINE CO., 7 Warren St., New York

PATENTS P. A. LEHMANN, Washington, D. C. Send for circular.
Is the Largest and Best Equipped BOILERS' ROLLERS' ESTABLISHMENT in the United States.
D. J. REILLY & CO., 203 and 205 Pearl Street, New York
Satisfaction guaranteed. Best references.

DEAFNESS Its causes and a new and successful CURE at your own home by one who was deaf 28 years. Treated by all the noted specialists without benefit. Cured himself in few months, and since cured hundreds of others. Full particulars sent free. No. 11 West 31st st., New York City.

CONSUMPTIVE
Coughs, Bronchitis, Asthma, Indigestion! Use BAKER'S GINGER TONIC without delay. It is a wonderful cure, and is the best remedy for all pulmonary diseases, and shows marked effects in a few days. Ginger Tonic, but to-day is done. It is available for all pains of the stomach and bowels. 50c. at druggists.

Agricultural Implement DEPOT.
D. A. SLAYTON

THE EASY AND SOLID COMFORT SULKY PLOWS.
Spring Tooth Harrow,
CULTIVATORS, GRAIN DRILLS
Wabash, Jackson and Flint WAGONS.
GREAT BARGAINS IN Carriages and Platform Spring Wagons.
Headquarters for Lime, Cement, Salt, Coal, Calcined Plaster and Plastering Hair Grain, Flour, Feed, and Field Seeds.

ROMA BANG

Sheet Music
Band Instruments
Send for Catalogue and Price List.

Chicago, South Shore & Atlantic R. R.
WAGNER PARLOR CARS AND Superb Wagner Sleeping Cars
ILLUSTRATED HUNTING AND FISHING
W. H. ALLEN, General Passenger and Ticket Agent, Marquette, Mich.

Tecumseh Herald

DIAMONDS AND PEARLS THOU HAST.

Diamonds and pearls thou hast,
Life's joys up in the gear,
And thou hast eyes most beautiful—
My love, what will thou more?

My heart has [illegible]
Like waves upon the shore,
And all to praise those eyes of thine—
My love, what will thou more?

And with these wondrous eyes hast thou
Tormented me for sore,
A drinking of my life's live stream—
My love, what will thou more?

[illegible]

JESS.

By H. RIDER HAGGARD,

Author of "King Solomon's Mines," "She," Etc.

What would be the end of it, supposing they escaped? What could be the end, except misery? It should go no further, far as it had gone, that she swore, no, not if it broke her heart and his, too. The conditions were altered again, and the memory of these dreadful and wonderful hours when they two swung upon the raging river and exchanged their undying troth, with the grave for their altar, must be a memory and nothing more.

She rose and walked back to the spot where she had left John an hour before. He was employed when she reached him in saddling up the second of the two gallys with the saddles and bridles that he had removed from the carcasses of the horses which the lightning had killed.

"Hullo, Jess, you look quite smart. Have you dried your clothes?" he said. "I have after a fashion."

"Yes," she answered.

He looked at her. "Why, darling, you have been crying. Your eyes are black enough, but it is not [illegible]. At any rate, we have got off with no [illegible] so far."

"John," said Jess, [illegible] must be no more of that. Things have changed. We were dead last night, now we have come to life again. Besides," she added, [illegible] of a laugh, "perhaps you will [illegible] to-morrow. I should think we [illegible] to be cured of our misfortune."

John's face fell, as though [illegible] impossible and most strange [illegible] they were placed, physically and [illegible] sweet in his mind.

"My darling Jess," he said, [illegible] dead."

She [illegible] "[illegible] there need be no more of that [illegible] you talking about. Upon the [illegible] dead to me. [illegible] should have [illegible] she wished [illegible] Why did we not [illegible] been happy now, [illegible] John, we must part, and what shall I do without you? what shall I do?"

Her distress was very pitiful, and [illegible] affected him [illegible] not to feel [illegible]

"Would it not be best [illegible] of us?" he said at last. "I should feel a blackguard [illegible] of it, but upon my word I have a most [illegible] it."

"No, no," she cried passionately, "I will not have you do it! You shall swear to me that you will never breathe a word to Bessie. I will not, [illegible] be ruined. We have sinned, and [illegible] Bessie and [illegible] I [illegible]

[illegible] knowing what to [illegible] the way out [illegible] Bessie in the other way out [illegible] cept the wild game. Should they come across houses they would be able to avoid them, and their male inhabitants would probably be far away from home on business connected with the war.

Accordingly they rode ten miles or more along the bank without seeing a soul, when they reached a space of bubbling, shallow water that looked fordable. Indeed, an investigation of the banks revealed the fact that a loaded wagon had passed the river at no distant date, perhaps a week before.

"[illegible] Jess, this will try it." And without further ado they plunged in.

In the center of the stream the water was strong, and deep, and for a few yards took the horses off their legs, but they struck out boldly till they got their footing again, and after that there was no more trouble. On the farther side of the river John took counsel with his compass and steered a course straight for Moltenstein. At midday they offsaddled the horses for an hour by some water, and ate a small portion of their remaining food. Then they unsaddled and went on across the lonely, desolate veldt. No human being did they see all that long day. The wild country was only tenanted by great herds of thundering game that came rushing past like squadrons of cavalry, or halted and there, by coteries of vultures, kissing and fighting furiously over some dead buck. And so at last twilight came on and found them alone in the wilderness.

"Well, what is to be done now?" said John, pulling up his tired horse. "It will be dark in half an hour."

Jess said from her saddle as she answered, "Get off and go to sleep, I suppose."

She was quite right; there was absolutely nothing else that they could do, so John set to work and hobbled the horses, tying them together for further security, for it would be a dreadful thing if they were to stray. By the time that this was done the twilight was gathering into night, and the two sat down to contemplate their surroundings with feelings akin to despair. So far as the eye could reach there was nothing to be seen but a vast stretch of dreary plain, across which the night wind blew in dreary gusts, making the long grass ripple like green. There was absolutely no shelter to be had, nor anything to light the moonless, [illegible] a coupling [illegible] John [illegible] one of the ant-heaps and [illegible] on the other, and thus [illegible] the daylight [illegible] the sky.

[illegible] "I think that we had better [illegible] John, hardly [illegible] it would [illegible] Jess, [illegible] John [illegible] was not the [illegible] keep them [illegible] and [illegible] Jess [illegible] the hitching [illegible] for hours [illegible] sleep was impossible, and neither without speaking, and yet [illegible] the golden moonlight shone [illegible] dew took fire and [illegible] as well as his half [illegible] Jess [illegible] the horses, which were [illegible] away [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] ished wit, which they chiefly exercised at the expense of poor Jess, whose appearance was, as may well be imagined, exceedingly wretched and forlorn; so much so that it would have moved the pity of most people. But these specimens of the golden youth of a simple pastoral folk found in it a rich mine of opportunities. They asked her if she would not like to ride straddle legged, and if she had brought her dress from an old Hottentot who had done with it, and if she had been rolling about tipsy in the veldt to get all the [illegible] of this unparalleled occasion to be witty at the expense of an English lady in sore distress. Indeed, one gay young dog, called Jacobus, was proceeding from jokes linguistic to jokes practical. Perceiving that Jess only kept her seat on the man's saddle by the exercise of a certain family of balance, it occurred to him that it would be a [illegible] to upset it and make her fall upon her face. Accordingly with a sudden twist of the rein he brought his horse sharply against her wearied animal, nearly throwing it down, but she was too quick for him, and saved herself by catching at the mane. Jess said nothing, indeed, she made no answer to her tormentors, and fortunately John understood very little of what they were saying. Presently, however, the young Boer made another attempt, putting out his hand to give her a sly push; and, as it happened, John saw it, and the sight of this indignity made the blood boil in his veins. Before he could reflect on what he was doing he was at [illegible] of the man, and, catching him by the throat, had hurled him backward over his crupper with all the force he could command. The man fell heavily upon his shoulders, and certainly there was a great hubbub. John drew his revolver, and the other Boers raised their rifles, and Jess thought that the [illegible] was at end of it and put her hand before her eyes as [illegible] John fell [illegible] flash of [illegible] And indeed, in another second a dead man would have lain all over had not [illegible] who had taken the pass interposed, for fear lest being that he had witnessed [illegible] and fled before fellow [illegible] a desert near at hand [illegible]

"Leave them alone and put down those guns, [illegible] It served them right [illegible] Anyhow [illegible] and [illegible] you [illegible] of [illegible] a bullet [illegible]

As [illegible] in every hand [illegible] to his horse [illegible] with [illegible] of [illegible] I got to the left of your path—for the wind is blowing from the right—and waited till you had passed, and winded you. Then I knew who you were for certain—either you or Missie Bessie, but Missie Bessie is shut up, so it could not be her."

"Bessie shut up!" ejaculated Jess, not even pausing to marvel at the doglike instinct that enabled the Hottentot to identify her. "What do you mean?"

"This way, missie, come this way and I will tell you," and he led her to a fantastic pile of rocks in which it was his wild hut to sleep. Jess knew the place well, and had often peeped into, but never entered, the Hottentot's kennel.

"Stop a bit, missie. I will go and light a candle. I have some in there, and they can't see the light from the outside," and accordingly he vanished. In a few seconds he returned, and, pulling her by the sleeve, led her along a winding passage between great boulders, till they came to a hollow in the rocks, through which the cool sea the light shining strong in his hands and knew Jess was safe through and Jess followed him. He found

[illegible] JESS FOR LONGER WAY

[illegible] leisurely up and down. For a couple of minutes or so they stopped thus, not knowing what to do, when suddenly a man came round the corner of the building holding a lantern in his hand. On seeing the lantern Jess' first impulse was to fly, but Jantje, by a motion, made her understand that she was to stop still. The man with the lantern advanced toward the other man, holding the light above his head, and looking dim and gigantic in the mist and rain. Presently he turned his face, and Jess saw that it was Frank Muller himself. [illegible] thus for a moment waiting till the sentry was [illegible]

[Continued.]

Give Them A Chance.

That is to say, your lungs. Also all your breathing machinery. Very wonderful machinery it is. Not only the larger air passages but the thousands of little tubes and cavities leading from them.

When these are choked and choked with matter which ought not to be there, your lungs cannot half do their work. And what they do they cannot do well.

Call it cold, cough, croup, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption or any of the family of chest and nose and head and lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be got rid of. There is just one sure way to get rid of them. That is to take Boschee's German Syrup, which any druggist will sell you at 75 cents a bottle. Even if everything else has failed you, you may depend upon this for certain.

A pretty well-aimed bang is something to hear.

It was a mighty easy thing for Horace Greeley to coax the young men to go West, but it is doubtful if he knows anything about the country. One Kansas cyclone or Nebraska blizzard would have changed his tune in quick time.

The Chicago people hope to become proud by sending the bad men to the penitentiary. They succeed, but the result will be [illegible] only of a [illegible]

The Oft Told Story.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Purifies the Blood

Hood's Sarsaparilla

100 Doses One Dollar

WONDERFUL SUCCESS.

THE HOUSEHOLD HERALD

Demorest's Magazine

BOTH FOR ONE YEAR, $3.00 THREE DOLLARS

DEMOREST'S THE BEST

AND BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT COMBINED WITH THE Tecumseh Herald at $3.00 Per Year.

[illegible]

CHAPTER XXV.

[illegible]

Tecumseh Herald

TECUMSEH, MICH., SEP. 1, 1887.

THE BOYS IN BLUE.

TWENTIETH ANNUAL REUNION OF THE EIGHTEENTH REGIMENT MICHIGAN INFANTRY.

The Morning Program and Election of Officers—The Banquet and Camp Fire—The Most Interesting Reunion in the History of the Regiment.

On the 20th day of August 1862, the 18th Reg. of Mich. volunteer infantry was mustered into the U. S. service at Hillsdale, and left their rendezvous with over one thousand men. Five years later they formed a regimental organization and held their first reunion after the war. Last Friday was the day for their annual meeting—Aug. 26th—and upon that day occurred the 25th anniversary of their muster in and also their 20th annual reunion. Over 150 of the old comrades answered to roll call on that day and the program from first to last was a crowning success.

The proceedings in detail are given below.

The weather in the morning looked somewhat threatening but it cleared up about eight o'clock, and the merchants set to work to decorate their stores. Bunting and flags were displayed on near ly every business block in town until Chicago street presented a decidedly holiday appearance. A stranger might have supposed that we were holding a second 4th of July here this year. At 9 the City band appeared in full uniform and paraded town to the C. J. & M. depot with Co. C and a delegation of old soldiers to meet Gov. Luce who arrived from the west on that train. The Gov. was escorted up-town in appropriate manner and alighted at the Lilley House where he informally received many of our citizens and the comrades of the 18th who came from all parts of the land. During the entire forenoon the streets were lined with people, and every arriving train brought a good quota of visitors. During the morning the stream of humanity wended its way toward the Lake Shore depot, where it assembled in Armory Hall, and proceeded thence to the band and Co. C, they marched to the Opera House where the preliminary meeting was held.

THE BUSINESS MEETING.

In the absence of the President and Vice, the second Vice President H. W. Stevens called the boys to order and announced that the meeting was ready for business.

Secretary Darwin then read the minutes of the last reunion and they were approved as read.

The Tecumseh Glee Club, a vocal sextette, sang "We were comrades together in the Days of the War." It brought down the house and in response to an encore they gave "The Soldiers' Chorus."

Prayer was offered by Chaplain Barnes of Beer's Post.

The treasurer made his report, showing $1,30 on hand which was accepted and adopted.

On motion, the annual dues hereafter were fixed at fifty cents.

The roster of the comrades present was then perfected. This consumed some time. The roster was arranged by companies, and must have been strictly accurate and complete.

It showed a total number on hand of 152 comrades as follows:

Company A.—T. O. Sturgis, H. W. Edmonds, F. E. Hindes, E. W. Sloan, E. W. Benson, G. J. Johnson, John H. Dean, Samuel Hatzig, N. M. Perkins, W. T. Cerry, W. A. Weatherhead, Ezra Bower.

Company B.—J. D. Hinckley, F. M. Bond, G. Hollings, J. R. Davis, I. L. Davis, A. Shafer, R. R. French, D. Lemley, Horace Palmer, M. D. Wood, D. C. LeBaron, I. W. Robertson, David Piper, J. J. Ingersoll, Luther Fry, Wm. H. Hart, Edwin Young, Francis Wright, Wm. R. Shall, O. J. Avery, P. W. Bates.

Company C.—Wm. B. Meyers, Wm. H. Marshall, E. L. Bacon, Thomas Dunphey, Henry Batchelor, J. P. Rankin, John Brewster, David Crockett, W. S. Walker, C. E. Rogers, E. C. Gilbert, H. Willey, O. Kelley, Fred Bay.

Company D.—Myron W. Reed, Wm. G. Henry, Luther Wolcott, D. J. Watkins, J. C. Reeves, Alex. Kent, L. Barnes, J. H. Purdy.

Company E.—W. Millspaugh, Miles E. Baldwin, Geo. McKinney, Wm. H. Allen, W. H. Colvin, Wm. Smith, George W. Burroughs, E. Ockeran, J. H. Lewis, H. F. Crane, I. VanWey, D. S. Love, W. M. Collin, Charles Orford, Chas. Pawson, Theo. Crane, H. C. Ingraham, Thomas Wyrill, Geo. Owen, J. G. Edwards, Wm. Wyrill, John Jackson, Brighton, C. E. Wood, [illegible] Cushing, H. F. Hathaway, Albert Caldwell, Geo. Hayden, A. W. Slayton, Walter Greenfield, C. K. Spafford, Carson, Miles VanWey.

Company G.—[illegible] Corbin, Edwin Capp, H. H. [illegible], E. [illegible], D. Shangle, O. H. Brown, Geo. Spalding.

Company H.—[illegible] Emery, [illegible], Wesley Brooks, [illegible] Brown, [illegible] Lapp, Carlos Allen, [illegible] Hopkins, [illegible] Hopkins, [illegible] Hopkins

THE TECUMSEH HERALD.

TECUMSEH, MICH., SEPT. 1, 1887.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

SEED WHEAT.—I have a quantity of very choice Diehl-Mediterranean wheat for seed. Will ship to any person sending bags to put it in at $1.00 per bushel. Sample of the wheat at C. A. Slayton's. ALEX. SHERRARD, Homer, Mich.

DISSOLUTION NOTICE.—The partnership heretofore existing between Chas. T. Clark and Wilmot P. Cotton, of Macon, in this day dissolved by mutual consent. All accounts due the late firm are payable to Chas. T. Clark, who will continue the business, and all accounts against the late firm, will be payable by the said Chas. T. Clark. CLARK & COTTON.
Dated Aug. 31, 1887.

FARM FOR SALE.—I offer my farm in Newburg for sale—17½ acres with good buildings and orchard. Will be sold at a bargain. Enquire on the premises or at the HERALD office for particulars. GEO. W. STACY.

LOST.—A lady's gold breast pin with garnet setting. Finder will receive a reward by leaving it at the office of L. G. NORTH.

SCHOOL MEETING.—The annual meeting of School Dist. No. 7 of the township of Tecumseh, for the election of school district officers and for the transaction of such other business as may lawfully come before it, will be held at the Central School building on Monday, the 5th day of September, 1887, at 7:30 o'clock P.M.
Dated this 25th day of August, 1887.
L. G. NORTH, Director.

FOR SALE.—Span of good work mules, one four year old brown mare by Seneca Chief, one sight pony, tea Jersey heifer calves, two Jersey bulls, side spring buggy, also peaches, pears and grapes.
JOHN T. CLARK, Clinton, Mich.

10,000 BUSHELS OF APPLES wanted at the Tecumseh Fruit Evaporating Co's. Highest cash price paid. Enquire of Geo. Heesen or DOLPH HEESEN.

NEW STAGE FOR SAND LAKE.—I have rigged up a fine spring wagon which I will run to Sand Lake during the season. Will make a specialty of private parties and will go any where in the week parties may wish. Fare for the trip, 50 cts. Leave word at my house or at Loving & McNair's store.
H. H. WESTCOTT.

FOR SALE.—I have for sale 61¾ acres of timber land situated in section one of the town of Ridgeway. Parties desiring to buy may have either the timber alone, or both together. For further information enquire of
GEO. PRICE, Tecumseh.

TAKE NOTICE.—Having decided to move from Tecumseh I shall be greatly obliged to all who are indebted to me if they will call at Thomas Burridge's law office and make a settlement as soon as possible.
July 7th, 1887. R. B. HOUSE.

A GOOD CHANCE.—Owing to the continued illness of my mother, I am compelled to dispose of my confectionery, ice Cream and Restaurant business, and return east. It is useless to dwell on the merits of the business everyone can see for themselves what it is. I will sell for cash or give time on part payment with good security. I. G. RAWSON.

PURE CIDER VINEGAR.—I have a quantity of pure cider vinegar for sale.
ABNER WILSON.

FOR SALE.—A desirable residence corner Pearl and Shawnee sts. Enquire on the premises. P. C. TEMPLE.

FOR SALE.—The property opposite the HERALD office now used as a saloon and office, and also the house and lot next north, Baker's furniture factory. The title to the property is all right, and terms and payments will be made to suit purchaser. For particulars enquire at HERALD OFFICE.

FOR SALE.—I offer my place for sale cheap, located just west of Abner Wilson's farm on the Tipsico, in Tecumseh. Good house and about two acres of land. For price, call on Abner Wilson on the premises. For the premises. Household goods for sale too.
WILLIAM SMITH.

TO SAND LAKE.—I will run a carriage to Sand Lake on SUNDAYS AND SATURDAYS, as long as the weather is fair. Parties wishing to go to the Pentagrip, Parties wishing to be carried for at their residence will be carried for the price.
ASA HOWE.

STEEL SCUFFLERS.—An indispensible tool for farmers and gardeners for attaching to hoes and other cultivators. Made from best spring steel, and warranted to work.
W. P. DEMING, Tecumseh, Mich.

WANTED.—One agent in each of the following counties, viz.: Hillsdale, Monroe, Washtenaw and Lenawee, to sell my Spring Bed with elevated head rest. Best bed made. Covered by patent. Exclusive sale to Agent. For terms apply to J. S. KINNEY, Tecumseh.

Jas. Glasgow and wife spent Saturday and Sunday in Cambridge.

Tecumseh Council, No. 634, Royal Arcanum, will convene for regular duty on Tuesday evening next at 7:30 P. M.

Minnie and Maggie Glasgow returned home this morning from a two weeks visit with friends in Cambridge and Brooklyn.

Wm. Wyrill was among the old Tecumseh boys who attended the reunion. And he seemed as young as he was twenty years ago.

Fred Landgraf pays Tecumseh a visit once in a while and he generally brings along a Domestic sewing machine for some customer. He still runs the Domestic through this section.

John Ed. McCollum has sold out his business in Ionia and is spending a few days at Clinton, and Tecumseh, with his family. He is looking for a favorable opening to embark in business again.

Services at the Presbyterian church next Sabbath, morning and evening, conducted by the pastor. Prayer meeting at 6:30, one hour before the evening service. Subject, at night, vacation reflections.

The N. Y. and N. E. Shoe Mfrs. Selling Agency, 180 & 182 Jefferson Ave. Detroit, have just issued the most complete catalogue and price list of Boots & Shoes and Rubbers. We would advise all merchants to write for one.

We visited Ridgeway on Tuesday evening and remained to see the entertainment given at Cottage Hall by the W. C. T. U. It was a very fine program for home talent alone. We were well entertained and we acknowledge to L. D. Arney and Le Roy [illegible]

[illegible]

THE TECUMSEH HERALD.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

Mrs. Addie Fisher is visiting friends in Detroit.

W. Stearns, of the Adrian Press was in town Friday.

The new peach crop is coming into market lively now.

Lamont C. Bidwell was visiting at the old home last week.

Mrs. W. A. Brown returned from a visit to Dexter this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Potter of Ridgeway were in town Sunday.

Geo. W. Stacy of East Buffalo spent a portion of last week at home.

John F. Hicks has been under the weather for several days but is on the mend now.

The Annual school meeting will be held next Monday evening at the Central Building.

Miss Maud Eccles returned from an extended visit with friends at Chicago last Thursday.

The store occupied by Jones and Hazlett's tailor shop is having a new plate glass front put in.

Joe Waring's residence is getting to small for his family needs and a large addition is being built thereto.

Prof. Martin Palmer of the Flat Rock school, an old Ridgewav boy, gave the Herald a call on Tuesday.

Mrs. E. D. Tayer and Mrs. Reuben Cooley, of Adrian visited at George Chidesters, last Friday and Saturday.

The Onsted and Ridgeway base ball clubs are crossing quills on the base ball question. Better cross bats, gentlemen.

Delos Le Baron of Toledo was one of the old 18th. boys here last Friday, and no one enjoyed the festivities more than he did.

The G. A. R. Encampment at Adrian opened very auspicously Tuesday and the attendance increased yesterday. To-day is expected to be the big day.

Jim Dunnigan and Verne Comfort have purchased the dray lately owned by Billy Smallidge and will run the business in partnership in the future.

We have received a communication from Wolf Creek, on the baseball controversy. As no signature was attached we are compelled to decline its publication.

G. W. Jackson was at Howell last week visiting Wm. Snedicor's family. Mr. Snedicor is buying eggs for Williamson and is working up a fine business there.

A. P. Coddington brought a branch of a plum tree into our office the other day which was a sight. The cutting was 15 inches in length and contained 49 large fine blue plums.

Mrs. Eliza Miller and son Albert were visiting at W. B. Hoags, last week. Albert became blind when two years of age from scarlet fever and is now attending the blind school at Lansing.

The Tecumseh City band went to Devils Lake on the excursion train last Sunday. The trains from the East and the West were well filled, and it proved to be a delightful day for boat riding.

J. A Curry has been making some improvements at his tonsorial parlor. He has changed the shelving, put in a new paper table, sink and mirror and varnished over all the furniture. It is a very tasty appearing room now.

The Pastor of the Universalist Church having been requested, will on next Sunday morning at 10:30 repeat his sermon on dropped stitches. At 7:30, evening, a discourse on the property of Truth, text John 8:32. Public invited.

During a short visit to Adrian Monday we called on B. S. Barnes at his furniture factory and found him overrun with business. He now has about one hundred men in his employ and is short of good hands. He needs 3 or 4 first class cabinet makers at once.

The best game of ball that has been played on the home grounds this season occurred last Tuesday between Clinton and Tecumseh nines. It was a close and stubborn contest on both sides but Clinton was too much for the home nine and came out ahead by a score of 10 to 11.

Jacob G. Roberts has gone to Minneapolis to confer with some high railroad officials about his new patent snow plow. He was exhibiting the working of his apparatus and expects to negotiate the patent to some of the Railroads [illegible]

[illegible]

Don't forget the Tri—State Fair, at Toledo, next week, Sept 5th to 9th. inclusive.

Rev. W. P. Wastell of Clinton honored the Herald sanctum with a call last Saturday.

[illegible] of Tecumseh Lodge No. 61 F. A. M. to morrow Friday evening.

Dr. H. Peters of Cleveland Ohio, was calling upon his old Tecumseh friends last Thursday and Friday.

The annual meeting of the Library Association will be held at the Library room on Monday evening September the 12th.

The next regular meeting of the Myrtle Club will be held at the Universalist Church this evening Sept. 1 87—all invited.

The Lenawee County Fair will be held Sept 27, 28, 29, and 30. The indications now point to a very successful exhibition.

The Pulpit of the Baptist Church will be supplied next Sunday by Mr. Des Autels, of Kalamazoo College, formerly of this place.

A. W. Haight is working up a fine Insurance business at Adrian. He now represents 15 fire companies and the Metropolitan Plate Glass Co.

The fall meeting of the Detroit Driving Club will be held Sept 20, 21, 22, and 23. For information or programs address D. J. Campau, Detroit, Mich.

Geo. Hollister is raising some very fine celery this season. We saw a sample the other day at H. E. Anderson's grocery store that capped the climax.

We have received from B. B. Morley the premium list of the Pratt Co. Kansas, Fair. Burt is in the loan and real estate business at Pratt and is doing well there.

The School board would be pleased to have the residents of this District, to visit the Central School building during Friday and Saturday of this week and see how their money has been expended.

N. B. Bacon Esq. of Toledo, spent last sabbath with Mrs. Bacon and the children, who are boarding at Mrs. E. B. Wood's. He returned Monday afternoon. Mrs. Bacon will remain here another week.

John Mc. Kinney of Indianapolis was out to attend the reunion last Friday. He halted in Toledo, to visit his son Truman, and is taking in the encampment at Adrian this week before his return home.

We have received a program of the Hillsdale County Fair which will be held Oct. 4, 5, 6, and 7. These Fairs are among the first in the State, and are second only to the State Fairs. Col. F. M. Hollaway is still Secretary of the Society.

As the score now stands Wilson Mathews is ahead on big eggs. He laid two on our counter early Tuesday forenoon which measured 7 by 8¼ and 7½ by 9 inches respectively. They were the product of a white Brahma pullet.

W. B. Hoag exhibited a corn stalk raised on the flat of Abe Hanfords old place in front of our office on Monday. The entire stalk was 13 feet long, and the distance from the root to the bottom of the first ear of corn was 8½ feet. Next.

The new Chicago train over the Mackinaw line is becoming very popular. It is the only road running Pullman Sleeping and Dining Cars between Toledo, and Chicago. Breakfast is served on the Dining Car before reaching Chicago.

Henry C. Ingraham came all the way from New Jersey, to attend the reunion. He is now engaged in the manufacture of a patent grinding machine, one of his own inventions, and is evidently prospering. His business was calling him back, and he remained here only two days.

Jas C. Wheeler of Detroit, was one of the old Tecumseh boys who attended the reunion. He was a private of Co. I, and was sworn in by Scove Stacy, in the office now occupied by J. H. Smith, over Heesen's store.—Jim has a position in the collector's office in Detroit.

Co. C. and the Tecumseh band took the train for Adrian this morning with a big crowd. Their ebony mascot, Theo. Wood, accompanied them in full uniform. Most of our G. A. R. boys have been there since Tuesday.

THE OHIO FARMER, of Cleveland, O. has an advertisement in another column of this issue which our readers will do well to read. We cheerfully recommend the paper to all as being exactly as represented. Try it the remainder of the year for only 25 cts.

The Sunday School picnic [illegible] lake yesterday was [illegible] [illegible] the day was delightful [illegible] [illegible] the grove [illegible] without [illegible] on a boat ride [illegible] the afternoon for ten cents each.

THE BOYS IN BLUE.

From the Fourth Page.

Geo. H. Thomas, the rock of Chickamauga.

The Raisin Glee Club sang "We Drank from the same Canteen."

Hon. Jno. R. Boles was also absent and his place was very ably filled by T. M. Hunter, of Adrian, who responded to "Michigan in the War."

Ladies and Gentlemen.—Circumstances over which I had no control prevented my taking part in the grand struggle in which you participated. I was engaged in the service of "light infantry." I have sometimes thought that the greatest misfortune of my life was that I was not born 25 years earlier, and then perhaps the greatest blessing that I was not, for it was my misfortune to be born under Southern skies. Michigan gave to her country 90,000 heros. Who can tell sorrows that they entailed. Gone in the great struggle for life. We have seen them part with those whom they love. Some of them walk in the quiet shades, some are bending over cradles kissing babes, some are parting with mothers who press them to their hearts again and again, some are taking leave of wives and endeavoring to drive away awful fears. History also says that this grand old county also gave to the service 4000 men. We point with pride to the part Michigan took in the war.

Capt. Allen, of Ypsilanti, was then called upon to respond to the toast, "Michigan is On Guard To-night." The Captain thought that the members of the old 18th had heard him speak enough, and he proposed to change the program slightly. With the assistance of Miss Ella Hall, Mrs. Jones, of Ridgeway, and J. S. Strong, of this village, the song, "American Ensign" was sung with very pleasing effect. An encore brought out "John Brown's Body" in which the whole audience joined.

After music by the Tecumseh Glee Club, Washington Gardner, of Jackson, responded to "The G. A. R."

He said the G. A. R. was the best known organization in this country. It was 25 years since the 18th Reg't was mustered in and they heard of it before that. It is the most democratic organization in this country, at the same time the most exclusive. I was in the hall that Gen. Grant was initiated in, and you may see that anyone, from the private to the general could become a member; so that in this sense we say it is a most democratic one, for all soldiers of good record are eligible to membership.

The City band and Clinton Glee Club rendered some fine instrumental and vocal music, and then "The Patriotic and Noble Women of the War" was responded to by Capt. M. W. Reed.

Mr. Reed though that the soprano and alto made as much sweet music in this world as the bass and tenor. It pleased me to see the sentinel monument standing there to day, and it occurred to me that it would be a good idea to have the entire family, the wife, mother and children there also. If the merits were measured, it would be evenly divided between those who were home and those in the battle. When the bullet went through the soldiers at the battle it seemed to go right on through to the home. It would be worth while if I had the entire evening to show the effect of women in softening the hard lines of war. War is cruel, but it has been refined, and it has been refined by the pity of woman.

In responding to the toast, "The 18th," Gen. C. C. Doolittle said he had always been brought up with the understanding that it was very bad taste for parents to say very much about their children's qualities, and it would have been better for some one else to tell about the good qualities of the 18th Mich. When we first went to the war a great many people thought that it was a dress parade. I was one of that kind. The men who went knew that it would be a time of suffering and sorrow. The 18th Reg. was one of Michigan's regiments of which the state may well be proud. The 18th was one of the best regiments that left the state. I am glad to see so many members here to night.

After the Tecumseh Glee Club had sung "The Soldiers' Chorus," Gen. Geo. Spaulding responded to the toast "Hard Tack." He thought it was the most patient audience he had ever seen, and at this time of the evening, to try to make the boys think that hard tack was good. I can't do it. My commander was the Hon. Henry Waldron now gone. That is 25 years ago, and I feel that I am comparatively the oldest man in the audience. The girls sang the chorus. Hard Tack. Boys are there [illegible] not too old to see the [illegible] singing. [illegible] serving for what [illegible] [illegible] hard tack. You remember [illegible] had Tecumseh money and banks [illegible] money and passed it off on the unsuspecting Southern people for their silver. You were members of the 18th then, and they thought it was better than greenbacks.

The last toast on the program was the "War Correspondent" to which S. C. Stacy briefly responded.

THE TATTOO.

Although this report has exceeded its allotted space, we cannot close it without making special mention of the committees who had the arrangements in charge. To the efficient and faithful work of H. W. Stevens, the chairman of the local committee, the success of the affair was in a great measure due. Honor to whom honor, and Mr. Stevens certainly deserves a big slice of credit in this case. The ladies who had charge of the banquet fulfilled the duties assigned them admirably. Those who so liberally donated provisions will be remembered with especial gratitude by the guests who assembled in the banquet hall. In supplying eatables, the committee was greatly in debt to the farmer's wives in this and other towns. The camp fire program in the evening was long enough and strong enough for two full evenings, and the Opera House was densely packed during the entire performance. Tecumseh bid the 18th boys welcome when they came, treated them to the fat of the land while they stayed and bid them God-speed when they left for their homes. It will long be remembered as a red letter day in the local annals of our village.

CARD OF THANKS.

In behalf of all the survivors of the 18th Mich. Reg., who participated in the late reunion at Tecumseh, Aug. 26th, 1887, I am requested, through the Press of Tecumseh, to return to you the citizens of Tecumseh, Raisin, Franklin, Clinton, Macon and Ridgeway, their heartfelt thanks and gratitude for the magnificent reception given on their annual reunion; and to the business men of Tecumseh who so generously contributed to the call for aid to help defray expenses; to the noble women who labored hard and long in preparing the banquet; to all the Glee Clubs who rendered their patriotic songs, and to the Band, the pride of Tecumseh; to the Press whose freely advertised in our interest; to Co. C., State Troops, whose gentlemanly and manly bearing won credit and honor for themselves; to Beers Post, G. A. R., who threw open their post room and made it our headquarters in Fraternity, Charity and Loyalty to all, and especially to comrade J. D. Shull, detailed as Toast Master, who distinguished himself as the sharp shooter of the evening. Yours in behalf of the 18th.

H. W. STEVENS,
Chairman of Committee.

The committee in Raisin wish to return many thanks to the people of that township for their liberal donation to the 18th Mich. in food etc.

MILES E. BALDWIN.

SUGGESTIONS TO PUPILS.

Next Monday, Sept. 5th, school will begin again. Examinations for admission will be held in the Superintendent's Office in the Central Building on Friday and Saturday of this week. All students who have to be examined before entering school should be on hand on the above named days. All members of the High School, whether they have to be examined or not, should come on those days for their classification.

Pupils will please bear in mind the following changes:

Ninth grade pupils, or first year pupils in the High School, will occupy the room heretofore occupied by the 8th grade pupils; 8th grade pupils the room heretofore occupied by 7th grade pupils; the 7th grade pupils the room heretofore occupied by the 6th grade pupils; and the 6th grade pupils the room heretofore occupied by the 5th grade pupils. Let it be borne in mind therefore that all sixth grade pupils must report to Miss Kyle in the East Branch building.

Pupils holding promotion certificates should be sure to take them along when they enter school. This enables teachers to classify pupils without reference to the record books.

Do not take ink with you, as you will be supplied with it at the building.

COUNTY PIONEER SOCIETY

The seventh annual meeting of the Lenawee County Pioneer Society will be held at Congregational church, Blissfield, on Friday, Sept. 2nd, commencing at 10 o'clock, at which time [illegible]

[illegible]

THE CENTRAL SCHOOL BUILDING.

When our teachers and pupils enter the Central School on Monday next they will find a building almost as good as new. The repairs which have been in progress during the vacation much, not only to the appearance, but also to the comfort and healthfulness of the building. All the rooms have been papered and painted, new floors laid in a portion of them and new single desks of the latest pattern placed in all but one East room which was already provided with single desks. Additional blackboards have been constructed in some of the rooms. The rooms, decked with the new ceiling and side wall decorations, present an elegant appearance.

But the greatest improvement consists in the new heating and ventilating arrangements. Two furnaces of the Ruttan-Smead pattern have been constructed in the basement, each of which will warm three rooms. A mammoth chimney runs up through the center of the building, which is used for a smoke stack and ventilating shaft, which contains 40,000 brick enough to build a good-sized dwelling house. The theory of the ventilation is this: Cold air is drawn from outdoors into the heating chamber surrounding the furnace. Flues placed in the base board of the room connect with a ventilating flue under the floor which leads to the chimney. The foul air, which drops to the floor, escapes through these flues and the draft in the chimney carries it away. The warm air from the furnace can thus fill the room quickly. The entire air in a room is changed every fifteen minutes. Twelve square feet of warm air is propelled into a room each minute, the theory being to propel a large amount of warm air into the room instead of a small amount of hot air. It is believed that the building will be thoroughly warmed and ventilated by this process, in the coldest weather something that has never been done since the building was occupied. The same teachers will fill the high school positions as last year. We shall expect a very successful year's school with the term that opens next Monday.

Card of Thanks.

Permit us through the HERALD to express our sincere thanks to the many kind friends who remembered us in our affliction and sympathized with us in the bereavement of our dear little Dan.

EDWIN A. PUTNAM,
MINNIE E. PUTNAM.

—Go to Perry Hosmer's for School Books.

—Legal Blanks at Hosmer's.

—Spectacles of the first quality at Hosmer's.

—If you want a first class watch buy a Rockford of S. P. Hosmer, Tecumseh Agt.

—Our location is the finest,
Our facilities the best,
Our experience the Greatest.
Our Prices Reasonable,
Our Work first-class,
And those who try are always suited.
Call and see for yourself.
BROWN the Photographer.

—The White and Domestic Sewing Machines have superior furniture and attachments to all others. Call and see them and the class of work that they will do, before buying.
Mrs. M. P. BROWN,
Agent at Tecumseh.

—An elegant line of Cabinet frames both for side wall and easel back, for sale very cheap at A. J. Coddington's.

—Sewing machines—Needles, oil and attachments at
M. P. Brown's Art Gallery.

—Call at J. S. Kinney's store and see those fine marble, indestructible caskets on exhibition. Also a new spring bed with elevated head rest. The best in the market for invalids. Manufactured by J. S. Kinney.

—If you want a first class sewing machine call on Mrs. M. P. Brown and see the New Domestic, The White and The Grand. Prices reasonable and terms easy.

—If you wish any painting, graining or paper hanging done call on D. Holmes. Good work guaranteed. Terms reasonable. Leave orders at Baker & Hoag's or C. S. Wright's. Tecumseh. D. HOLMES.

[illegible]

WORTH IS WHAT IT COSTS.

[illegible]

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

FRED B. WOOD, ATTORNEY AT LAW, Collections and Conveyancing. Office over W. & S. W. Arms, Adrian, Lenawee Co., Mich.

C. A. STACY, Attorney at Law and Solicitor in Chancery. Office in HERALD Block.

PHYSICIANS.

LEMAN BARNES, M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office and Residence, Adrian, Mich.

C. M. WOODWARD, M.D., Office and Residence [illegible]

MISCELLANEOUS.

DAVE MACHAM, [illegible] Harness and Saddlery.

JAMES A. TURRY, [illegible] Chicago.

CHAS. A. WALDRON, [illegible]

HOTELS.

BENEFIT HOUSE, [illegible]

CENTRAL HOTEL, ADRIAN, MICH.

LENAWEE CARRIAGE FACTORY

Carriages, Buggies,

[illegible] MICHIGAN.

[illegible] Market.

LADIES' TREATMENT FREE.

SCOTT'S EMULSION OF PURE COD LIVER OIL

Almost as Palatable as Milk.

ALL DRUGGISTS.

GO TO MACKINAC SUMMER TOURISTS

DETROIT, MACKINAC ISLAND

DETROIT AND CLEVELAND

Detroit & Cleveland Steam Nav. Co.

Alex. B. Stevens & Co.
PENSIONS! Attorneys, Solicitors, DETROIT, MICHIGAN.

TO ADVERTISE JUDICIOUSLY CONSULT LORD AND THOMAS NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING AGENTS, CHICAGO, ILLINOIS.

MUSIC.

[illegible]

A HARD PART TO PLAY

[illegible]

No feeling for art! What a low, mean, spiteful, wicked thing to say. And the [illegible] toward me with both hands outstretched, [illegible] he held home in such a loving clasp, [illegible] he looked at me with eyes which I [illegible] desperate [illegible] [illegible] reading just such another tale [illegible] on his own face [illegible] when the knock sounded with [illegible] Miss Chichester [illegible] [illegible] another room, [illegible] I have [illegible] [illegible] I would promise to be his darling [illegible] though far more beautiful [illegible] I would not dislike [illegible] [illegible] Mrs. Chichester [illegible] [illegible] I had an [illegible] I [illegible] [illegible] I was still [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

The Great Healer of all Inflamed Injuries and Disorders.

It is constantly effecting the most wonderful cures, while the unparalleled demand with which it meets, stamps it at once as the greatest medicine of the age for outward application.

The most incredulous are convinced, and the most skeptical are compelled to believe in the power of this great remedy.

WHAT IT CURES.

All Sores, Cuts, Bruises, Sprains, Burns, Sore Throat, Lameness, Rheumatism, Piles, Inflammation of Lungs and Bowels, Bronchitis, Croup, Salt Rheum, Chilblains, Affection of the Spine, Erysipelas, Nervous Irritation, and all disorders attendant with Inflammation.

It never fails to restore the natural functions of the skin and equalize the circulation of the blood. By this means a controlling power is gained over the most malignant forms of disease. It penetrates to every portion of the human frame; every bone, muscle, vein, nerve and ligament is touched or and made sensible to its soothing and healing influence. Hence it copes readily with internal as well as external diseases.

Over 40 Years.

This ointment has been used by the people throughout the United States, and our confidence in its qualities is such that as we have no space here to insert any of the numerous certificates of cures which we have from all parts of the country, we simply ask those readers of this notice who have ever used this Ointment, to frankly state their experience with it to inquiring friends, if but one in a hundred would do this we should be perfectly satisfied with the result. Full directions for use will be found on pamphlet around each bottle.

Prices 25 and 50 cents per bottle. Sold by all dealers in medicine.

D. RANSOM, SON & CO., Prop's
Buffalo, New York.

THE

ELDREDGE

"B"

SEWING MACHINE

with Automatic Self-threading Upper Shuttle

No. 3.

The ELDREDGE "B" is sold with the guarantee of being the BEST that can be MADE.

AGENTS WANTED.

ELDREDGE MANUFACTURING CO.

363 and 365 WABASH AVE.,
CHICAGO, ILL.

B. F. STEINHOFF'S

Dental Rooms.

OVER BAKER & HALL'S.

GAS FOR EXTRACTING.

THE LOWEST PRICES for THE BEST WORK

PATENTS!

Caveats, Trade Marks and Copyrights

Obtained, and all other business in the U.S. Patent Office attended to for MODERATE FEES.

Our office is opposite the U.S. Patent Office, and we can obtain Patents in less time than those remote from Washington.

SEND MODEL OR DRAWING. We advise as to patentability free of charge and make NO CHARGE unless we obtain patent.

We refer here to Postmaster, Supt. of Money Order Div., and to officials of the U.S. Patent Office. For a copy of our latest advice, terms and references to actual clients in your own state or county, write to

C. A. SNOW & CO.,
Opposite Patent Office, Washington, D.C.

C. A. Wright & Co.,

Wall Paper

AND

Decorations.

C. A. Wright & Co.

PATENTS OBTAINED in U. S. and all foreign countries. Examinations made. Licenses and assignments drawn. Infringements prosecuted in all Federal courts. Advice and pamphlets free. Scientific expert validity opinions given. No models required. Established A. D. 1865. Thos. S. SPRAGUE & SON, 37 Congress Street West, Detroit, Mich.

S. S. SPRAGUE & SON PATENTS DETROIT, MICH.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

Many a man is the architect of his own fortune, but never gets enough money to build.

Greatly Excited.

Not a few of the citizens of Tecumseh have recently become greatly excited over the astounding facts, that several of their friends who had been pronounced by their physicians as incurable and beyond all hope—suffering with dreaded monster Consumption—have been completely cured by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, the only remedy that does positively cure all throat and lung diseases, Coughs, Colds, Asthma and Bronchitis.

Trial bottles free, large bottles $1.

C. A. Wright & CO.

A welding ceremony shouldn't pass off too smoothly. For instance, there should be a hitch of some kind.

Chronic Cough and Cold

and all diseases of the Throat and Lungs can be cured by the use of Scott's Emulsion, as it contains the healing virtues of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites in their fullest form. "I consider Scott's Emulsion the remedy par excellence in Tuberculous and Strumous Affections, to say nothing of ordinary colds and throat troubles."—W. R. S. Connell, M. D., Manchester, O.

It is when the dramatist is most actively and profitably employed that he is looking for a situation.

Doctor's Bills.

Nearly all diseases originate from inaction of the liver, and this especially is the case with cures not fever, intermittent fevers, and malarial diseases. To save doctor's bills and ward off disease take Simmons Liver Regulator, a medicine that increases in popularity each year, and has for some time the most popular and best endorsed medicine in the market for the cure of liver or bowel diseases. Telegraph, Dubuque, Iowa.

Farmer Miggins refused to clean his chimney, "because," he said, "it was as dirty as it is."

When everything else fails, Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures.

Perhaps you never thought of it, but the most touching thing in nature is a dog's nose.

English spavin liniment removes all hard, soft, or callous lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavin, curbs, splints, sweeney, stifles, sprains, sore and swollen throat, coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle. Warranted. Sold by Baker & Hall, Druggists, Tecumseh Mich.

An aeronaut generally lives in the air.

Itch, mange, and scratches of every kind on human or animals cured in 30 minutes by Woolford's Sanitary Lotion. This never fails. Sold by Baker & Hall, Druggists, Tecumseh Mich.

Perplexity is the father of profanity.

Drunkenness or the Liquor Habit Positively Cured by Administering Dr Haines' Golden Specific.

It can be given in a cup of coffee or tea without the knowledge of the person taking it; is absolutely harmless and will effect a permanent and speedy cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or an alcoholic wreck. Thousands of drunkards have been made temperate men who have taken Golden Specific in their coffee without their knowledge, and to-day believe they quit drinking on their own free will. IT NEVER FAILS. The system once impregnated with the Specific it becomes an utter impossibility for the liquor appetite to exist. For full particulars, address GOLDEN SPECIFIC CO., 185 Race st., Cincinnati, O.

"These," said the fisherman, as he pointed to his wares, "represent my net profits."

If you would enjoy your dinner and are prevented by Dyspepsia, use Acker's Dyspepsia Tablets. They are a positive cure for Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Flatulency and Constipation. We guarantee them. 25 and 50 cents. C. A. Wright & Co., Druggists.

"Born to blush unseen."—Negroes.

What are Suppositories?

A. G. Rose, from New London, Conn., writes: Send me two boxes of your Kemp's Pile Suppositories by mail. Our druggist is out. They are for a friend. I tried everything without help, but the Suppositories cured me.

The treatment is new and within reach of all, and would advise the affected to give them a trial. For sale in Tecumseh by Baker & Hall, at 50c per box.

The crow is the most rational of bipeds. It never makes a noise without caws.

Babies that are fretful, peevish, cross, or troubled with Windy Colic, Teething Pains, or Stomach Disorders, can be relieved at once by using Acker's Baby Soother. It contains no Opium or Morphine, hence is safe. Price 25 cents. Sold by C. A. Wright & Co., Druggists.

A shore dinner—eating the sand which is there.

A FAVORITE WITH THE FAIR SEX.

Papillon (extract of flax) Skin Cure is superior to all the much-vaunted skin beautifiers with the advantage of being beneficial, and not like several preparations usually sold, which are very poisonous. It will remove inflammation, chafing and roughness of the skin, sunburn, freckles and unseemly blotches, and leave the skin fair and soft as an infant's. An indispensable necessity for the complete toilet. Large bottles $1.00.

For sale by A. S. Doty.

It isn't the number of immigrants who reach these shores which is affecting the country so much as how they behave after they get here. They seem to want to start a saloon or run for office.

STEERAGE EXPERIENCE.

HARDSHIPS OF THE SEEKERS FOR HOMES IN A NEW LAND.

An Emigrant Gives Interesting Details of his Trip.

Health and Decency—Incidents of the Passage.

A gentleman from the northern part of Missouri, who was in Omaha two days of last week, is a living exemplification of the advantages which the land of the free and the home of the brave possesses for men of all nationalities. A few years ago this gentleman landed in this country, one of a number of tired and wretched immigrants. Today he is an assessor of the county court of a prosperous Missouri county, in which he has made considerable money as well as many friends.

The scene on the pier previous to the departure of a vessel is an exciting one, he said, "It is crowded with emigrants all in a confused and excited state, reminding one of a frightened flock of sheep. The majority are perhaps English, Irish and German, though nearly all nations are represented. Each emigrant has a contract ticket which, in consideration of the current rate of fare, stipulates for his transportation to New York, together with a full supply of wholesome provisions, cooked and served by its stewards. The passenger is required to provide himself with bedding and cooking utensils. In my time the weekly allowance of food for adults was prescribed by the government and printed on the contract ticket. As I remember it, it was 21 quarts of water, 3 1-2 pounds of bread, 1 pound of wheaten flour, 1 1-2 pounds of meal, rice and peas, 2 pounds of potatoes, 3 1-4 pounds of beef, 1 pound of pork, 2 ounces of tea, 1 pound of sugar and salt, pepper, mustard, vinegar and [illegible] and barth [illegible] emigrants, and they are given furnished on deck with the exception of a gridiron, which [illegible] exposes them to infection, [illegible]

What is the general [illegible] these people [illegible] while at sea? [illegible]

While [illegible] Mission officers [illegible] worthy of [illegible] but as a rule [illegible] of [illegible] way [illegible] There is [illegible] Fall Rivers [illegible] are all [illegible] dirty women [illegible] are [illegible] the [illegible] the [illegible] the

THE FARMERS PICNIC

Big Day for all Classes—From 15,000 to 20,000 People in Attendance—Some of the Sayings and Doings.

The 19th annual meeting of the Hillsdale and Lenawee County Farmers' Association was held at [illegible] on Friday last, pursuant to adjournment. A very large and [illegible] gathering was present, [illegible] for, enjoyed and [illegible] in farmer's parlance. [illegible]

[illegible]

Early in the morning teams from the country began to turn in at the gate, and before another day dawned fifty 1000 vehicles had come and gone. The C. J. & M. Ry. brought large numbers from both ways, and every steamboat on the lake was brought into requisition in transferring the pleasure seeking multitude to the grounds. Many came on foot from the other hotels on the shore of the lake, and at two o'clock those competent to judge, variously estimated the attendance from 15,000 to 20,000 souls.

THE GROVE

Which had been especially fitted up for the occasion was packed with people from one side to the other, and who represented nearly every class and calling known to civilized life. The various refreshment stands, amusements, games, side shows, auction sales, etc., were well patronized. From noon until two o'clock the time was largely taken up by obtaining refreshments for the inner man. The many long lines of tables were all loaded with eatables such as only Michigan soil can produce, and Michigan matrons prepare. Thousands adopted the basket plan, others patronized the hotel, and still others the tables of the Rollin W. C. T. U., which did an excellent business and to universal satisfaction. On such occasions people are apt to be oblivious to the fact that there are but sixty minutes in an hour, and before many were aware of it the appointed time arrived for the

LITERARY EXERCISES

Which had been placed at [illegible], and stayed, and occupied over two hours time. They were of a superior order and commanded general attention. The audience was called to order by the North Adams band. The next was music, surface, followed by prayer by Rev. John Shepard. Pres. Perry Knapp then delivered his address of welcome, which showed careful preparation and contained many valuable suggestions. After the President's address, Gov. Luce was introduced amid the cheers of the audience, and delivered a stirring address which held their close attention throughout.

H. C. Pratt, of Fairfield, made a short speech in the absence of Hon. Edwin Willits, of the Agricultural College, after which Hon. John K. Boies, of Hudson, gave a short talk.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year.

Pres.—S. W. Curtis, Hudson.
Vice Pres.—Wm. Wright, Adrian.
Sec.—Wm. H. Wiggins, Adrian.
Treas.—Homer H. Decker, Rome.

DIRECTORS.

Albion—Harry Gray.
[illegible]—Charles Mumford.
Hudson—Harvey Smith.
Medina—Geo. W. Moore.
Ridgeway—M. Brown.
Woodstock—A. C. Osborn.
Tecumseh—C. A. Blackmar.
Rome—A. L. VanAtken.
Dover—James A. Shepard.
Seneca—A. Manchester.
Adrian—Geo. Wilcox.
Wright—E. J. King.
Ransom—David Conner.
Pittsford—J. B. Patterson.
Wheatland—E. G. Church.
Somerset—F. H. Smith.
Madison—Calvin H. Crane.
Jefferson—Charles Kingsmeth.

What Drug Will Scour These English Hence

Wicked Macbeth, who murdered good King Duncan, asked this question in his despair. Thousands of victims of disease are daily asking "What will scour the impurities from my blood and bring me health?" Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will do it. When the purple life tide is sluggish, causing drowsiness, headache and loss of appetite, use this wonderful vitalizer, which never fails. It forces the liver into perfect action, drives out superfluous bile, brings the glow of health to the cheek and the natural sparkle to the eye. All druggists.

Fine weather for farm or other work.

TEMPERANCE COLUMN.

Edited by a Committee of the W. C. T. U.

WHO IS TO BLAME?

To blame for what? Why for the untold misery occasioned by the use of [illegible] or [illegible]. One thing is certain, and that is, first somebody or everybody is fearfully at fault in this matter. It surely is not right. The instrument itself, alcohol is entirely harmless as a mere agent. It cannot [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

The Tecumseh Herald.

VOL. XXXVIII.—NO. 15. TECUMSEH, MICHIGAN, THURSDAY MORNING, SEPTEMBER 8, 1887. WHOLE NO. 1913

70 PIECES 70

NEW

DRESSGOODS

JUST OPENED.

Also a New Lot of

REMNANTS!

On sale each week at

W. & S. W. Anderson & Co's.

'87 For Season of '87

We shall continue to handle the celebrated

GARLAND

STOVES and RANGES.

And the Genuine

ROUND OAK

The unprecedented demand for these justly popular goods renders it almost impossible for the manufacturers to supply the demand. Call early and supply your wants and avoid delay.

SATTERTHWAITE BROS. & BOYD.

Everything on the

BOOM-BOOM

AT THE

GRAND CENTRAL SUPPLY STORE.

GROCERIES,
CROCKERY,
GLASSWARE,
TEAS,
SUGARS,
SPICE,

PRICES LOWER THAN EVER.

HENRY McCLURE.

M. DeWOLF, Pres. H. M. TEMPLE, Sec'y and Treas. S. W. TEMPLE, Vice Pres. and Gen'l Mgr

THE OHIO & MICH. COAL & MFG. CO.,

COAL.

LUMBER LATH AND SHINGLES

MANUFACTURERS OF

Doors, Sash, Blinds, Mouldings,

Scroll Work, Turned Work,
Modern Interior Finish.

GET ESTIMATES BEFORE BUYING.

OFFICE CORNER R. R. AND SHAWNEE STS.

Yards and Factory on Pearl and Shawnee sts., near L. S. & M. S. Depot.

TECUMSEH, MICH.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

RIDGEWAY PARBLES.

Coal is being put in the stores quite rapidly in this vicinity.

Whooping cough is in some families in Dist. No. 5.

Mrs. John Palmer is under the Doctor's care at present.

A little daughter of A. E. Palmer was quite sick with cholera-infantum, Sunday.

Next Sunday will be Rev. W. J. Clack's farewell address.

L. V. Dibble of Leader Lake, Mich., who has been very sick for several weeks, is visiting relatives here at present.

Joseph Billmeyer of Raisin, was in the village Friday evening calling on friends.

Jay Santus went to Essex, Clinton Co., last week, to visit his brother Finlay.

Minnie Barrett left for a visit with friends at Charlotte last week Thursday.

Several from the village attended the encampment at Adrian last week.

Mrs. Cheever and Mrs. Acel Smith spent several days with Adrian friends last week.

Anna Smith, who has been with her sister, Mrs. H. Brown, at Grand Ledge for some time, returned home a few days since.

Eugene Clarkson of Detroit, spent Sunday at his old home.

Mrs. Morris Kelley went to Dundee last week for a few day's stay with friends.

Weddie Bush returned Thursday of last week from a two week's hunt in the vicinity of Duluth, Minn., and reports a fine time.

Mrs. Nathan Ellis of St. John, is visiting her brothers, E. C. and John VanVleet, and sisters, Mrs. Minor Davidson and S. A. VanVleet, at present.

Ira Dean Loree and Louisa Matilda Arner enjoyed a pleasant ride Saturday evening calling on friends in the vicinity of Tecumseh.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Swick and children spent Sunday at the home of David Harrison. They like their new home near Milan very much.

Ellsworth Russell, wife and son, of Tecumseh, spent Saturday and Sunday at W. P. Cadmus.

Prof. Martin Palmer returned to Flat Rock last Friday. He will superintend the school there the coming year.

Chas. Gripton went to Toledo Monday on business, and Jesse Potter went on Tuesday. They took the flyer at 5:43 A. M.

Ida Pocklington will attend school the coming year at the Valley Seminary, and Dean Loree and Ed. Palmer will attend at Tecumseh.

The village school begins next week with Prof. Huston and wife at the helm.

Hannah Gibson lost a satchel, Sept. 5th, containing a paisley and zephyr shawl, north of the village.

Mrs. Ida Lawton, whose dress-making rooms are found at her sister's, Mrs. Potter's, informs us that she will do plain sewing either at her home or at the homes of her patrons. We sincerely hope persons in need of such sewing will give Mrs. Lawton a call, as she is left with two little children depending on her for a maintenance.

BRITTON BUDGET.

Mrs. Wm. Prindle is on the sick list.

School meeting last Monday night.

Isaac Smith, Jr., of Albion, Ill., is visiting friends in and near the village.

School commenced last Monday morning with Miss Mone Bowerman as teacher.

Two car loads of hogs were shipped from here Saturday and two Tuesday.

An invoice is to be taken of the goods in McClure & Co's store at this place, this week.

Morris Britton, the agent of the W. St. L. & P. at Milan, is going to take a two months' rest. He came home last week.

The W. C. T. U. will meet next week at the home of Mrs. Chas. Smith on Thursday evening. All are invited.

Britton first nine and their opponents played a game of ball Saturday afternoon. It was the first game that they have played and there will be another on the ground next Saturday.

UNITED ODDS.

Mrs. Fannie Spoulding of Richland, has been calling on Onsted friends.

Frank Miller of Mt. Morris, N. Y., was in town over Sunday.

Granville Lyman of Brooklyn, was here Monday.

There will be a Missionary concert at the church next Sunday evening.

M. L. Gallup has been painting a fine hearse out for Mrs. O. Austin.

Pay Weekert of Nagelson, spent Saturday and Sunday with his sister, Mrs. Kaye.

Mrs. Florence Vile of Jonesville, is visiting at her old home.

Mr. Angel and his daughter, Mrs. Sarah French of Dundee, Kent Co., have been visiting at Samuel White's.

Snow Marlatt has been quite sick, which has prevented his commencing his school in Dist. No. 9.

Ezra Horton lost his only cow Saturday evening. Frank Teachout was collecting cash to assist Mr. Horton in purchasing another cow.

Mrs. Alzina Russell died Sunday morning. She has been suffering with consumption for a long time. Her husband died suddenly last winter. They leave three small children.

BICYCLE ROUTE.

TECUMSEH TO JONESVILLE.

Total Dist.	Dist. Towns.	Stations.	Material.	Condition.
		Tecumseh
6	6	Tipton	Gravel	Good
12	6	Springville	Gravel	Hilly but hard. Good if repaired.
20½	8½	Devils Lake	Little sand hard gravel	Good but smooth
25	4½	Addison	Little sand gravel, hilly	Fine. Speed.
29	4	Wheatland Center.	Clay, gravel hilly.	Fine.
35	6	North Adams	Gravel	Fine. Speed.
43	8	Jonesville	Light sand	Good downgrad.

From Springville turn to L for nearly 2 miles to second four corners; find a little sand here but all rideable. Crossing under C. J. & M. R. R. bridge, turn R to end of road past Onsted church, on N side of road; road angles to L of Onsted 5½ miles to Devils Lake, hilly, but hills are smooth and hard. Allen's Hotel, L. A. W. Hotel, 25 per cent. discount to L. A. W. Go S. road angles to R. to Addison 4½ miles. Pass through Addison to second turn to L; here follow telephone poles to Wheatland Center, 4 miles. At Wheatland Center turn R to North Adams, 6 miles; pass through North Adams going W. follow road keeping in R to catering corners; take R hand fork, angling road to R, then to L, to first turn to R, on East St.; at Chicago St. turn to L to hotel. The "Grosvenor," Mrs. Dunham, Proprietor, is the L. A. W. Hotel, one half rates to L. A. W.

CONSUL.

PROBATE COURT.

Following is the record of business transacted at the probate court for the week ending Aug. 30, 1887.

Estate of Lauren Ayers, deceased; petition for probate of will; hearing September twelve.

Estate of Matilda Ferguson, minor; nomination of guardian filed; order of appointment.

Estate of David Hatch, deceased; testimony taken and filed; order of continuance until August thirty-one, at 8:30 o'clock a. m.

Estate of Patrick Welch, deceased; warrant and inventory filed.

Estate of Eva Niblack; minor; release of guardian filed; order of discharge.

Estate of Phebe Huldah Bailey, deceased; petition for probate of will and codicil; hearing September twelve.

Estate of Edward Gillen; deceased; warrant and inventory filed.

Estate of Mary E. Dibble, deceased; petition for license to sell real estate; hearing September nineteen.

In the matter of Polly Camp, an indigent insane person; affidavit for admission to asylum; order of hearing; proof of service of hearing, and testimony taken and filed; order for admission.

Estate of Comfort Rogers, deceased; affidavit of publication; proof, will and probate; refusal of executor to act; administrator with the will annexed appointed; bond filed; letters issued; order appointing appraisers and commissioners.

In the matter of Delia Ann Clark, et al., alleged dependent children; order of continuance until September six at nine o'clock a. m.

Estate of Mary J. Cook, an alleged incompetent person; petition for appointment of guardian filed; hearing September nine.

Estate of John Rogers, minor; nomination of guardian; order of appointment.

Estate of Emmons Rogers, minor; nomination of guardian; order of appointment; bond filed; letters issued.

In the matter of John Lyon, an indigent insane person; application for admission to asylum; order of hearing; proof of service and testimony taken and the order for admission to asylum.

Estate of Lena Davis, an incompetent person; guardian's bond on sale of real estate filed.

Estate of John Lohman, deceased; citation issued; warrant and report; citation issued for publishing and posting notices; notices returned; petition for sale of water rights; order that notice be given; hearing November fifteen.

Estate of Sarah Ann Lewis, deceased; petition for sale of real estate; hearing November fifteen.

Estate of Alexander Fisher, deceased; affidavits of publication, expenses, proof and allowance of claims; order of publication; hearing November eighteen.

Estate of Irene L. Ayers, an insane person; petition for sale of real estate; order of hearing, and that notice be given; hearing November fifteen.

Estate of Lorin M. Chapin, deceased; affidavit of publication; administrator appointed; bond filed.

Humors run riot in the blood at this season. Hood's Sarsaparilla expels every impurity and vitalizes and enriches the blood.

THE BLOW LAST TUESDAY.

The storm last Tuesday afternoon was one of the most severe that has been in this section for many years. The wind came from the west and was accompanied by large quantities of water, which poured down in torrents, inundating everything in its path. At Blissfield the rain came down in torrents, quantities of water flooded the streets, and many of the brick sidewalks were washed from their foundations. The storm was felt in this village, but not to the extent it was in other places. The rain came down in torrents, inundating everything in its path. At Blissfield the rain came down in torrents, quantities of water flooded the streets, and many of the brick sidewalks were washed from their foundations. The storm was felt in this village, but not to the extent it was in other places.

Yesterday afternoon at five o'clock we had one of fifteen minutes duration, when cellars seemed to be the most comfortable room in the house, and many fled to them there. Miles of fence were prostrated, and farmers had to keep stock in barns through the night. The wheels of C. Mitchell and L. B. Adams's windmills were torn off, the barn doors of C. D. West were smashed in, and straw stack scattered. Many fruit trees were torn out by the roots, apples and pears are on the ground. John Valentine's corn crib lies bottom up, and all his high fences lie flat. M. T. Nickerson's shed, just placed on a new foundation, was moved six feet. The schoolhouse at Randolph's Corners lost part of its roof and a gable blown in. Forest trees and trees beside the roads are in numerous places flat. E. P. Alger and Fred Hoadly had hay stacks tipped over. Farmers are sending for help to repair their fences, and much stock will have to be kept in stables and yards, through the day, and perhaps longer. Norman Myers has one mile of fence to repair, and a busier time was never known here.

HOME FOR INCURABLES.

In the City of Brotherly Love is an institution they call "The Home for Incurables." Though in itself a noble monument of charity, it is never the less a sad condition to be in that any one should feel obliged to confess himself incurable. It is no disgrace to be poor, and so long as health is spared, the poorest may bravely fight off poverty; but, to be a helpless invalid, the greatest wealth will not compensate for the loss, nor make the condition a happy one. Yet it is a fact that many, very many of these incurables might, should or may have saved from their fate, had they resorted to a safe yet powerful treatment. Thousands who have been given up by members of the medical fraternity, have been saved and restored to health and vigor by the Compound Oxygen Treatment.

One of those given up to die, in Steamburg, N. Y., writes May 24, 1886: "Last February I met a friend, one of your patients. As soon as she saw what a cough I had she exclaimed, 'Compound Oxygen is what you want!' On her advice I consented to get it, but I did not get it to begin asking until March 11, although my left lung seemed all stopped, so that the least exertion made me pant; besides, there were other consequent conditions. Such was the help, decided, positive that inside 1 took it a week I told a friend I was going to get well, with much confidence.

"I wish to emphasize the great work this remedy has done for me. I am so glad I got it, when I believe it has saved my life."

Those who want to know more about the Compound Oxygen which achieved such felicitous results in this chronic case, will do well to write to Drs. Starkey & Palen, 1529 Arch street, Philadelphia, Pa., and ask for their Brochure, which is sent free to applicants.

A distinguished scholar and writer recently said: "I flounder in a sea of scraps." In these days, when the papers contain so many fine sentiments, beautiful descriptions, touching incidents, items of importance, and matters of permanent interest, culled from all departments of life, there is scarcely a day in which something does not strike the eye which the reader wishes to preserve, in order to remember and perhaps to use. One of the first things a bright boy or girl should make is a scrap-book of things which interest most. If you have no book, put your selections in different envelopes, according to subjects. The newspaper is a circulating library with little of everything in it, and a little for everybody. Make sure of your part of it as you read.

Darbys Prophylactic Fluid.

Use it in every sick room. Will keep the atmosphere pure and sweet, scent, removing all bad smells in any source.

Will destroy all disease germs, infection from diphtheria and Contagious Diseases.

Recommended and prescribed by Martin Sims, M. D., N. Y. Sold by druggists. "I am convinced from clinical results that Darbys Prophylactic Fluid is a most valuable disinfectant."

Bradley's Vapo-Cresolene.

The best remedy in the world for Croup, Whooping Cough and all throat troubles. Cresolene Comes and all Sick Rooms. Sold by druggists. Lists sent free. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. FOR SALE BY C. N. Wright & Co.

An enterprising woman at Cottage City has opened a dairy school and "teaches ladies how to milk."

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSONS.

SUNDAY, SEPT. 11. MATT. XI. 25-30.

GOLDEN TEXT. "Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me; for I am meek and lowly in heart: and ye shall find rest unto your souls." Matt. xi. 29.

"Thou art worthy, O Lord, to receive glory and honor and power: for thou hast created all things, and for thy pleasure they are and were created." Rev. iv. 11.

"Thou art worthy to take the book, and to open the seals thereof: for thou wast slain, and hast redeemed us to God by thy blood out of every kindred, and tongue, and people, and nation." Rev. v. 9.

"Thou art worthy to receive honor and glory

THE TECUMSEH HERALD.

Issued Every Thursday Morning

BY S. C. STACY.

Office in the New HERALD Building, one door East of the Opera House, Tecumseh, Mich.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

One year, cash in advance, $1 50

Four months, " " "

gains

EY'S

URE

FORKMANSHIP.

KINDS

es for Cash. I keep

RTAKING

f the new INDISTRUCTABLE
Prices Reasonable.

E & CO.,

& Co.,

sh and Down

MATERIAL.

ng to Order.
Depot.
IGAN.

drian,

hildren's Clothing

ures, Etc.

Southern Michigan
Feet of Floor
are for quality.

competition in LOW
rranted to represent to examine

VERY FINE.

as they enjoy
uth's Bile Beans.

The original Photograph
panel size, of this picture sent on receipt of 10c. in stamps. Address,
BILE BEANS,
St. Louis, Mo.

Price, 25 cents per box.
Sold by druggists.
ST. LOUIS, MO.

London Ont., Canada.

patronize home industry
se. Shorthand and Typewriting
se. Special class to suit
AVIS, Principal, Toledo, O.

HOLIDAY PRESENTS
GRAND
Packing and Shipping
OUTFIT.

KASKINE.
(THE NEW QUININE.)

GIVES
Good Appetite
Quiet Nerves
Happy Days
Sweet Sleep.

A POWERFUL TONIC
that the most delicate stomach will bear.
A SPECIFIC FOR MALARIA,
RHEUMATISM,
NERVOUS PROSTRATION,
And all germ diseases.
THE MOST SCIENTIFIC AND SUCCESSFUL
BLOOD PURIFIER. Superior to quinine.
Rev. Wm. Lucas, Rector Grace Church, Ravenna, Ohio, writes: "I cordially endorse Kaskine as being just what you claim, an excellent substitute for quinine with none of its bad effects. Mrs. Lucas had a serious form of malaria, and was confined to her bed for months. Kaskine put her up and around in a few days, and in a short time cured her."
Living in the malarial districts of Maryland I became a victim of worst forms of malarial fever. Dosed myself with quinine and other remedies without avail. I was greatly reduced when I tried Kaskine. Its curative powers were a marvel of revelation to me. It cured me and I believe my last days of misery. (Prof.) J. Allen Bird, R.A., Asst. Chemist, Maryland Agricultural College.
Letters from the above persons, giving full details will be sent on application.
Kaskine is pleasant to take and can be used without special medical advice. $1 per bottle, six bottles $5, delivered by express on receipt of price.
KASKINE CO., 38 Warren st., New York

PATENTS F. A. LEHMANN,
Washington, D. C.
Send for circular.
To the Largest and Best Equipped
HUNTER'S ROLLERS ESTABLISHMENT
in the United States.
D. J. MURRAY & CO.,
Nos. 91 and 93 Water Street, New York
Rollers low. Satisfaction guaranteed. Best references.

CURE FOR CONSUMPTIVE
If you have Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, Indigestion! Use
PARKER'S GINGER TONIC without delay. It is a wonderful remedy and is the best remedy for all affections of the throat and lungs, and diseases arising from impure blood and exhaustion. The feeble and those threatened with consumption will find in it a strengthener against disease, and slowly drifting to the grave, will in many cases recover their health by using the Ginger Tonic, but delay is dangerous. Take it in time. It is invaluable for all pains and disorders of stomach and bowels. 50c. at druggists.

DEAFNESS Its causes and a new and successful CURE at your own home by one who was deaf 28 years. Treated by leading aurists without benefit. Cured himself in three months, and since cured others. Full particulars sent free. Address, No. 41 West 31st st., New York City.

Agricultural Implement
DEPOT.
C. A. SLAYTON
is prepared to make lower prices than ever before on first class implements. My stock is complete, but will only mention a few articles.

PLOWS. { SOUTH BEND, BURCH, WIARD GALE, OLIVER. } Walking.

THE CASSADY AND SOLID COMFORT SULKY PLOWS.
Kalamazoo Spring Tooth Harrow,
"ACME" PULVERIZING HARROWS.
CULTIVATORS { Elwood, New Robbins, Albion, Buckeye.
Buckeye, Superior, Monitor, Roller, } GRAIN DRILLS
KEMP'S MANURE SPREADER.
Studebaker, Jackson and Flint
WAGONS.
GREAT BARGAINS IN Carriages and Platform Spring Wagons.
Headquarters for Lime, Cement, Salt, Coal, Cal. Plaster and Plastering Hair Grain, Flour, Feed, and Field Seeds.

PIANO PURCHASERS WANT TO SAVE MONEY
SEND FOR CATALOGUE TO
HARDMAN PIANO
WAREROOMS
CHARLES H. HARDMAN
DETROIT

WILCOX & WHITE
MUSIC CO.
Catalogue of Sheet Music, Musical Handbook or Band Instruments, free to any address.

Lake Huron, South Shore & Atlantic R. R.
"THE SOO-MACKINAW SHORT LINE."
The only direct route to Marquette and the iron and copper regions of the upper peninsula of Michigan.
Through express trains each way daily, making close connections at union depots at all points.
New, Elegant and Commodious
WAGNER PARLOR CARS
AND
Superb Wagner Sleeping Cars,
built expressly for this line, on all express trains.
The territory traversed is famous for its
UNEXCELLED HUNTING AND FISHING.
Tickets for sale at all points via this route. For maps, folders, rates, and information, address, E. W. ALLEN, General Passenger and Ticket Agent, Marquette, Mich.

Tecumseh Herald

JESS.

By H. RIDER HAGGARD,

Author of "King Solomon's Mines," "She," etc.

"You can go to your supper," he said. "Come back in half an hour. I will be responsible for the prisoners till then."

The man growled out no answer, something about the rain, and then departed round the end of the building followed by Muller.

"Now then, come on," whispered Jantje; "there is a hole in the store room wall, and you may be able to speak to Missie Bessie."

Jess did not require a second invitation, but slipped up to the wall in five seconds. Passing her hand over the stonework, she found the air hole, which she remembered well, for they used to play bo-peep there as children, and was about to whisper through it, when suddenly the door at the other end opened, and Frank Muller entered, bearing the lantern in his hand. For a moment he stood on the threshold, opening the slide of the lantern in order to increase the light. His hat was off, and he had a cape of dark cloth thrown over his shoulders, which seemed to add to his great breadth, and the thought flashed through the mind of Jess as she looked at him through the hole and the light struck upon his face and form, and glinted down his golden beard, that he was the most magnificent specimen of humanity she had ever seen. In another instant he had turned the lantern round and revealed her dear sister Bessie to her gaze. Bessie was seated upon one of the half empty sacks of mealies, apparently half asleep, for she opened her white blue eyes and looked round apprehensively like one suddenly awakened. Her golden curls were in disorder and falling over her fair forehead, and her face was very pale and troubled, and marked beneath the eyes with deep blue lines. Catching sight of her visitor, she rose hurriedly and retreated as far from him as the pile of sacks and potatoes would allow.

"What is it?" she said, in a low voice. "I gave you my answer. Why do you come to torment me again?"

He placed the lantern upon an upper sack of mealies, and carefully [illegible] he answered, Jess could see that he was taking time to consider.

"Let us recapitulate," he said at length in his full, rich voice. "The position is this: I gave you this morning the choice between consenting to marry me to-morrow and seeing your old uncle and benefactor shot. Further, I assured you that if you would consent to marry me your uncle should be shot, and that I would then make you my wife, dispensing with the ceremony of marriage. Is that not so?"

Bessie made no answer, but he continued, his eyes fixed upon her face and thoughtfully stroking his beard.

"Silence gives consent. I will go on. Before a man can be shot according to law he must be tried and condemned according to law. Your uncle has been tried and has been condemned."

"I heard it all, cruel murderer that you are," said Bessie, lifting her head for the first time.

"So! I thought you would, through the crack. That is why I had you put into this place; it would not have looked well to bring you before the court," and he took the light and examined the crevice. "This place is badly built," he went on, in a careless tone; "look, there is another space there at the back," and he actually came up to it and held the lantern close to it so that the light from it shone through into Jess' eyes and nearly blinded her. She shut them quickly, so that the gleam reflected from them should not betray her, and then held her breath and remained as still as the dead. In another second he took away the light and replaced it on the mealie bag.

"So you say you saw it all. Well, it must have shown you that I was in earnest. The old man took it well, did he not? He is a brave man and I respect him. I fancy that he will not move a muscle at the last. That comes of English blood, you see. It is the best in the world, and I am proud to have it in my veins."

"Cannot you stop torturing me and say, what you have to say?" asked Bessie.

"I had no wish to torture you, but if you like I will come to the point. It is this. Will you now consent to marry me to-morrow morning at sun up, or am I to be forced to carry the sentence on your old uncle into effect?"

"I will not. I will not. I hate you and defy you."

Muller looked at her coldly, and then drew his pocketbook from his pocket and extracted from it the death warrant and a pencil.

"Look, Bessie," he said. "This is your uncle's death warrant. At present it is valueless and informal, for I have not yet signed, though, as you will see, I have been careful that everybody else should. If once I place my signature there it cannot be revoked, and the sentence must be carried into effect. If you persist in your refusal I will sign it before your eyes," and he placed the paper on the book and took the pencil in his right hand.

"Oh, you cannot, you cannot be such a fiend," wailed the wretched woman, wringing her hands.

"I am sure you you are mistaken. I both can and will. I have gone too far to turn back for the sake of one old Englishman. Listen, Bessie. Your lover Nigel is dead, that you know."

Here Jess leaned the wall a little inclined to cry out. It is a [illegible] fact, remembering the absolute necessity of silence, she did not.

"And what is more," went on Muller, "your uncle does so too, for he died two days ago."

"Jess dead! Jess dead! It is not true. How do you know that she is dead?"

"Never mind; I will tell you when we are married. She is dead, and except for your uncle you are all alone in the world. If you persist in this she will soon be dead too, and his blood will be upon your head, for you will have murdered him."

"And if I were to say yes, how would that bring him?" she cried, wildly. "He is condemned by your court martial—you would only deceive me and murder him after all."

"On my honor, no. Before the marriage I will give the warrant to the pastor, and he shall burn it as soon as the service is said. But, Bessie, don't you see that those fools who tried your uncle are only like clay in my hands? I can bend them this way and that, and whatever the song I sing, they will echo it. They do not wish to shoot your uncle, and will be glad, indeed, to get out of it. Your uncle shall go in safety to Natal, or stay here if he wills. His property shall be secured for him, and compensation paid for the burning of his house. I swear it before God."

She looked up at him, and he could see that she was inclined to believe him.

"It is true, Bessie, it is true—I will rebuild the place myself, and if I can find the man who fired it he shall be shot. Come, listen to me, and be reasonable. The man you loved is dead, and no amount of sighing can bring him to your arms. I alone am left—I, who love you better than life, better than man ever loved a woman before. Look at me, am I not a proper man for any maid to wed, though I be half a Boer? And I have the brains, too, Bessie, the brains that shall make us both great. We were made for each other—I have known it for years, and slowly, slowly, I have worked my way to you till at last you are in my reach," and he stretched out both his arms toward her.

"My darling," he went on, in a soft, half dreamy voice, "my love and my desire, yield, love, yield. Do not face this new crime upon me. I want to grow good for your sake, and have done with bloodshed. When you are my wife I believe that the evil will go out of me, and I shall grow good. Yield, and never shall woman have had such a husband as I will be to you. I will make your life soft and beautiful to you as women love life to be. You shall have everything that money can buy and power bring. Yield for your uncle's sake, and for the sake of the great love I bear you."

As he spoke he was slowly drawing nearer Bessie, whose face wore a half fascinated expression. As he came the wretched woman gathered herself together and put out her hand to repulse him. "No, no," she cried, "I hate you—I cannot be false to him, living or dead. I shall kill myself—I know I shall."

He made no answer, but simply came always nearer, till at last his strong arms closed round her shrinking form and drew her to him as easily as though she were a babe. And then all at once she seemed to yield. That embrace was the outward sign of his cruel mastery, and she struggled no more, mentally or physically.

"Will you marry me, darling—will you marry me?" he whispered, with his lips so close to the golden curls that Jess, straining her ears outside, could only just catch the words.

"Oh, I suppose so; but I shall die—it will kill me."

He crained her to his heart and kissed her beautiful face again and again, and at moment does hearing the footsteps of the sentries sentry and saw him have got of her. Jantje, too, caught her by the hand and dragged her away from the wall, and in ten seconds more she was once more sitting on the sacks beyond the [illegible]. She [illegible] and put out her hand to feel for her lover, and had thought her dear sister's heart at the price of her innocent old uncle's life, would be [illegible]. All her weariness was forgotten in the new and rich virtue she had seen and heard, and the knowledge of what had been done and what was about to be done. She even regretted passionately, and swore that Jantje should never marry Bessie while she lived to prevent it. Had she been a bad woman she might have seen herein an opportunity, for Bessie once married to Muller, John would be free to marry her, for to Bessie she never even stood for [illegible]. Whatever other motives may have been, she was a [illegible] woman, for she was, and would have died for her sister. Jantje, too, was [illegible] in the matter, and [illegible] "Jess, I swear to God I will save John and Bessie, and you too, if I can."

"I believe it," said Jess.

Jantje turned about, and then [illegible] a puddle. The light of candles [illegible] was, however, was [illegible] from the [illegible] on the other [illegible] four inches long. Jess, in that [illegible] way in which trifles do strike us [illegible] the mind is undergoing a severe strain, instantly remembered that for years she had been able to discover what became of the cold pieces of the candles used in the house. Now the mystery was explained.

"Now go outside and leave me. I want to think."

The Hottentot obeyed, and, seated there upon the heap of skins, her forehead resting on her hand and her fingers run through her silky hair, now wet with the rain, she began to review the position. It was evident to her that Frank Muller would be as good as his word. She knew him too well to doubt it for a moment. If Bessie did not marry him he would murder the old man, as he had tried to murder her and John, only this time judicially, and then abduct her afterward. Bessie was the only price that he was prepared to take in exchange for her uncle's life. But it was impossible to allow Bessie to be so sacrificed. The thought was horrible to her.

How, then, was it to be prevented? She thought again of going down and confronting Frank Muller, and openly accusing him of her attempted murder, only, however, to dismiss the idea. Who would believe her? and if they did believe, what good would it do? She would only be imprisoned and kept out of harm's way, or possibly murdered without further ado. Then she thought of attempting to communicate with her uncle and Bessie, to tell them that John was, so far as she knew, alive, only to recognize the impossibility of doing so now that the country was back. Besides, what object could be served? The knowledge that John was alive might, it is true, nerve up Bessie to resist Muller, but then the sole result would be that the old man would be shot. Dismissing this from her mind, she began to consider whether they could obtain assistance. Alas! it was impossible. The only people from whom she could hope for help would be the natives, and now that the Boers had triumphed over the English for the much she had gathered from her captors and from Jantje, it was very doubtful if they would dare to help her. Besides, at the best, it would take two days for hours to collect a force, and that would be too late. The thing was hopeless. Never could she see a way of flight.

"What," she sent aloud to herself, "what is there in the world that will stop a man like Frank Muller?"

And then a for an instant the inspiration in her brain as the sight of a human [illegible].

"Death."

Death, and death alone, would stop him. For a minute she kept the idea in her mind till she was familiarized with it, and then was driven out by another that followed swiftly on its track. Frank Muller must die, and one before the morning light. By no other process in nature could the Colonial be rent out of Bessie's life. It [illegible] If he were dead he could not marry Jess, and if he died with the warrant in his pocket their uncle could not be executed. That was the answer to the riddle, and a terrible one it was.

But after all it was just that he should die, for had he not murdered and attempted murder? Surely if ever a man deserved a swift and awful doom it was Frank Muller.

And so this apparently helpless girl, crouched upon the ground a [illegible] and despoiled fugitive in the miserable hiding place of a Hottentot, arraigned the powerful leader of men before the tribunal of her conscience and without pity, or without wrath, passed upon him a sentence of extinction.

But who was to be the executioner? A dreadful thought flashed into her mind and made her heart stand still. But she dismissed it. She had not come to that yet. Her eyes wandered round the kennel and lit upon Jantje's assegais and sticks in the corner, and then she got another inspiration. Jantje should do the deed. John had told her one day—told her, when they were sitting together in "The Palatial" at Pretoria—the whole of Jantje's awful story about the massacre of his relatives by Frank Muller twenty years before, of which, indeed, she already knew something. It would be most fitting that this fiend should be removed off the face of the earth by the survivor of those unfortunates. There would be a little poetic justice about that, and it is so rare in the world. But the question was, would he do it? The little man was a wonderful coward, that she knew, and had a great terror of Boers, and especially of Frank Muller.

"Jantje," she whispered, putting her head towards the bee hole.

"Yes, missie," answered a hoarse voice outside, and next second his monkey like face came creeping into the ring of light, followed by his even more monkey like form.

"Sit down there, Jantje. I am lonely here, and want to talk."

He obeyed her, with a grin. "What shall we talk about, missie? Shall I tell you a story of the time when the beasts used to speak like I used to do years and years ago?"

"No, Jantje. Tell me about that stick—that long stick with a knob on the top, and the nicks cut on it. Has it not something to do with Frank Muller?"

The Hottentot's face instantly grew evil. "Yah, yah, missie!" he said, reaching out a skinny claw and seizing the stick. "Look, that big notch, that is my father, Baas Frank shot him; and that next notch, that is my mother, Baas Frank shot her; and the next one, that is my uncle, an old, old man, Baas Frank shot him, too. And these small notches, they are where he has beaten me—yes, and other things, too. And now I will make more notches,—one for the house that is burned, and one for the old Baas Cradt, my own Baas, whom he is going to shoot, and one for Missie Bessie." And without further ado he drew from his side a very large, white handled hunting knife, and began to cut them then and there upon the hard wood of the stick.

Jess knew this tone of old. It was Jantje's peculiar vein, the chief joy of his narrow little life. He had boasted to her from the Zulu days, when her uncle had given him to her as her own slave, of the Zulu had got [illegible] who came down from the [illegible]. As a matter of fact it was a Sheffield knife, manufactured from soft material [illegible] like a razor, and [illegible] popular [illegible] was about a foot long, [illegible] running the length of the blade and very heavy.

"Stop, stop, Jantje, and let me look at that knife."

He [illegible] and put it into her hand.

"I feel that would kill a man, Jantje," she said.

"Yes, yes," he answered; "one down it has killed many men."

"It would kill Frank Muller, now, would it not?" she said, suddenly leaning forward and fixing a look of [illegible] upon the little man's [illegible] orbs.

"Yah, yah," he said, starting back, "it would kill him dead. Ah! What a thing it would be to kill him!" he added, with a fierce hatred [illegible].

"He killed your father, Jantje."

"Yah, yah, he killed my father," said Jantje, his eyes [illegible] with rage.

"He killed your mother."

"Yah, he killed me, my mother," he repeated after her with deeper fervor.

"And your uncle. He killed your uncle."

"And my uncle, too," he wailed on, rocking his form and twirling his long assegais [illegible] of subdued scream. "But he will die, he will die, the old Englishwoman, his mother, and it when the down was taken, and the devils never lie. Look!" I draw Baas Frank's circle in the dust with my toe, and listen, I say the words—I say the words," and he muttered something rapidly, "and I, old witch doctor taught me how to do it, and what to say. Once before I did it, and there was a stone in the way, now there is no stone, look, the ends meet. He will die in blood! He will die soon. I know how to read the circles, and he gnashed his teeth and sawed the air with his clinched fists.

"Yes, you are right, Jantje," she said, still holding him with her dark eyes. "He will die in blood, and he shall die to-night, and you will kill him, Jantje."

The Hottentot started, and turned pale under his yellow skin.

"How?" he said, "how?"

"Bend forward, Jantje, and I will tell you how," and she whispered, for some minutes into his ear.

"BEND FORWARD, JANTJE, AND I WILL TELL YOU HOW."

Yes! yes! yes!" he said, when she had done. "Oh, what a fine thing it is to be clever, like the white people! I will kill him tonight, and then I will cut out the notches, and the ghosts of my father and my mother and my uncle shall see and be glad in the night as they creep on, when I am asleep."

CHAPTER XXXIII

VENGEANCE

For three or four minutes more they sat side by side, and then the Hottentot rose to go. He had got his low things were among the Boers' cattle, and see Anna Frank Muller's house, of course. As soon as he had gone, Jess lay down to try to compose herself to sleep, and it when the down was taken, and the devils never lie. Look!" I draw Baas Frank's circle in the dust with my toe, and listen, I say the words—I say the words," and he muttered something rapidly, "and I, old witch doctor taught me how to do it, and what to say. Once before I did it, and there was a stone in the way, now there is no stone, look, the ends meet. He will die in blood! He will die soon. I know how to read the circles,"

Tecumseh Herald

TECUMSEH, MICH., SEP. 8, 1887.

A TRIP TO MACKINAC ISLAND.

With grip in one hand and a pail of [illegible] in the other, I boarded the 4.05 P. M. Northern bound train and arrived in Mackinaw City at 9 P. M. Was met at the train by G. P. Harmon of the firm of Palmer & Harmon, and the two Miss Palmer and was escorted to the residence of M. Palmer where I found home. Attending to the wants of my wife, who was very sick, I remained in the city a few days rusticating on the point of the Straits which by the way, is a very pleasant place to while away the time in a hot sultry day when the mercury is 100 in the shade, for the breeze that is wafted across the straits is very fragrant. I visited many places of interest among which is the old Fort Mackinaw, which was situated on the south side of the straits, about one mile west of the Present site of Mackinaw City. On the 2d. of June 1763, seventy-two of the garrison were butchered, having foolishly thrown open the gates of the fort and were carelessly witnessing a very interesting game of ball being played by the Indians purposely to draw attention. There is nothing, however, left to indicate that a fort even was there, having been dug over many times for hidden treasures, but few of which are found.

Two pontoons and a barge belonging to Port Huron, used for raising vessels, had been to Cheboygan to raise the steam barge Chamberlin that was sunk last fall by a collision, but they failed to raise her. In attempting to return to Port Huron they were driven by a gale to Mackinaw City.

The Chicago Shield had a barge stationed in the straits several days, watching the vessel Edward Baker, on which he supposed his escaped moonlier McGrigle was, but the Blake evaded him and landed his precious freight safely on Canadian soil.

The Cheboygan base ball club played the Mackinaws, July 30th, and beat them on a score of 14 to 5.

On the 27th I boarded the steam ferry-boat Algoma for Mackinac Island in order to take a peep at Plank's Grand Hotel. It is 600 ft. long, situated about half a mile west of the village, on an elevation of about 100 ft. above the sea level. It is designed to accommodate 1,000 persons, but capacity at present. Its most imposing feature is the piazza, spacious and upheld by a lofty colonnade. The view from it is very fine. The Straits of Mackinaw lay open before the spectator. Lake Michigan to the right, Lake Huron to the left, the upper Peninsula on one side—not fully visible without going around the corner—and the lower Peninsula stretching its green timbered shores which seem blue in the distance for miles and miles to the southward. Bois Blank and Round Islands in the foreground hide from view the steamers approaching from below—as the region of Detroit is called—but the tell tale smoke floating over the land, gives sufficient notice of the coming, and no one is taken by surprise at the sudden appearance of the steamer as she clears the point in a scenic way. Steam and sail are constantly passing through the Straits, and everywhere may be seen the swift unexpressable Mackinaw sailboat carrying pleasure seekers to Les Cheneaux and other fishing resorts on the upper Peninsula. The new grand Hotel is richly furnished, the rooms spacious and most of them have pleasant outlooks. Little balconies project from the windows where two or three may sit comfortably and listen to the music of the band and gaze at the movements on the piazza below. The name of the grand Hotel is simply the New Inn, but this old-fashioned plain English designation is put to scorn by the large golden inscription which names the dining room Salle à Manger, as if to repudiate both the far famed French cuisine and the old fashioned English inn. The people of Mackinac speak of the new hotel as the Plank House, the standard being Mr. John G. Plank of great repute as a Boniface. The opening of the new hotel has really approved the business of the older houses all of them being thronged to overflowing the season. The quaint old Mission House with its narrow passageways and strange nooks and corners is as full as it can crowd as ever. It was built or nothing for a year's Indian school and was the home of the Pioneer Missionary, Rev. W. M. Ferry. His son, Thomas W. Ferry, Congressman and U. S. Senator from Michigan, was born in the Mission House. T. W. Ferry, formerly of Detroit, whose name is a household word throughout Michigan, was instrumental in securing the Mackinac Island reservation as a National Park. This first step in the improvement of Mackinac Island has been followed by the efforts of Senators Palmer and Conger and the Michigan Congressmen in procuring for the sale of Bois Blanc Island, heretofore held as a timber reserve, the proceeds to go for the construction of a Boulevard around the Island of Mackinac, as above mentioned, which sale took place Aug. 24, 1887.

The John Jacob Astor House, near the steamboat landing, was originally the headquarters of the American Fur Company. The account books and letters of the company as kept at this station, are still preserved and exhibited. They contain letters in French and English from men of distinction in the early settlement of this country, which are highly prized as a curiosity. There is a fine assembly room connected with the house, and both are elegantly furnished. There are other hotels and several boarding houses all well patronized.

A plat of ground has been laid out into lots as a site for cottages. The Government leases the ground at low rental, requiring the tenants to conform to certain regulations. The commanding officer of Fort Mackinaw has the charge of the grounds and executes the leases. Several cottages have been built upon the lots by Detroit parties. Perhaps the most comfortable location on the Island is Cedar Point, near Robinson's Folly, owned by Alanson Sheeley and Jacob Farrand of Detroit, each having cottages there. On the western part of the Island a tract of land owned by the late Gardner Hubbard has been platted and lots have been sold and several cottages built thereon. Senator Stockbridge has a beautiful summer residence. Stockbridge is one of the bright lights of the Island, of whom great things are expected by the residents of the Island. He talks of a race course and various other improvements of the National Park. He can do it if he likes, as he is the owner of a large stock farm and many fine horses, also great influence with other gentlemen horse dealers. There are many wonderful things of nature's own providing, among which is Arch Rock, Sugar Loaf, Chimney Rock, Lover's Leap, and Devil's Kitchen. Between Lover's Leap and Devil's Kitchen is a cold stream of water gushing out of the rock, perhaps like the one that followed the Israelites through the wilderness. At any rate our party took their lunch near that cold stream, where we could catch the water in our tin cups. The descent is so steep that in order to get down to the Devils Kitchen, you will have to roll down or go a little further along and go down a flight of steps of 144 in number. The present Fort Mackinaw is on a high eminence, commanding the whole Straits. A person can stand up there and inhale more oxygen in one hour than he can get in Southern Michigan in a week.

O. H. KELLOGG.

HOW CHICKENS GET OUT OF THE SHELLS.

I noticed an article in the HERALD of Aug. 11th, under the above caption copied from the American Farm Journal. The same article made the full rounds of the press about two years ago, and I presume has started on its second round.

I wish to say that its author must be the greenest of all the green chickens that ever attempted to chirp, for there is not a word of truth in it from first to last. He must have lived in the dark days before the advent of incubators, when people had but little chance to observe "how chickens get out of the shells."

In the first place, he says that the chicken "pecks against the shell on the inside, with its bill until it forces a small hole." Now what is the fact? On the top and near the end of the upper mandible of every chick is a small sharp point or horn, which you can feel with the finger when the chick is first hatched, and drops off when it is two or three days old. As the time for hatching approaches, the chick fills the shell so full, and is wedged in so tight that it could not stir its bill if it tried. This pressure forces the sharp point above described, through the shell and breaks it. If the chick is not provided with this sharp point, or if by any chance its beak is alongside to the shell, which sometimes happens, it never sees day light, as it has no means of breaking its prison walls.

Next he says, "after he has got his opening he commences a tobogging motion with the point of the upper bill, until he has worked his way almost around." What nonsense. As I have said, the chick has no bill, but a little sharp point on the top of the upper bill, and it would be some progress toward the end sought if the bird should do as he tells it. The bird is when it has attained an opening sufficient to enable it to get its head out, it begins to peep, and the expansion of the lungs of the bird, by new accession of air, and exertion of the cart and the shell breaks and the chick is released.

Wood Nonpareil.

That wonderful chicken story, the product of Kansas, is again in print, and the more it is heard from the more it is believed. It has been threshed out to death without a peer. We are perfectly satisfied that the proprietor has due credit for his invention, and publish it for the benefit of those who have not read it. Call at our store. Respectfully,

Baker & Hall.

THE G. A. R. ENCAMPMENT

The encampment of G. A. R. Posts held at Adrian was the most notable one yet held in the history of the Southeastern Association. Lawrence Park where the tents were pitched was roomy enough for all purposes and being central in location proved a very good place for the camp.

The city was clothed in her holiday attire. The business streets were elaborately decorated, hundreds of yards of bunting and thousands of flags floating in the breeze. The Court House and City Hall were covered with red, white and blue. Many banners were stretched across the streets and private residences all over the city were handsomely draped.

Across South Main street was stretched a huge flag, which attracted a great deal of notice. It belonged to the old flagship Hartford, Admiral Farragut's ship, and is now owned by Maj. S. Howell, of Adrian. The flag floating over the camp was that which first waved over Atlanta after its surrender.

The register of veterans names showed 1268 in attendance during the week.

The Wednesday's program was a fine one.

Gov. Luce arrived on the train from the west Wednesday evening and Gov. Alger Thursday morning. Letters of regret were received from Gen. Sheridan, who wrote that it was impossible for him to be present, as he had advised Col. Eldredge some time ago.

In the afternoon a guard at the gate reported to the treasurer's office that "The father of Gen. Custer is at the gate and desires to come in, but has no team permit." "Admit him," promptly shouted the captain; "Gen. Custer's father has the freedom of this camp, and every honor we can show him—admit him." It is needless to say that the venerable gentleman was the recipient of the most marked and flattering attention on the part of the veterans everywhere.

Dress parade was witnessed by an immense throng, and fully 1,200 veterans were in line.

At dress parade a letter from Gen. Black, Commissioner of Pensions, was read asking for a duplicate roster of every regiment or post with the postoffice address of comrades that it might enable the Department to aid soldiers in securing evidence in pension claims.

THE BIG DAY.

At 10 o'clock Thursday morning the streets of the city were crowded as they never were before, awaiting the grand parade which was the order of the day. The parade was well worthy the effort made to witness it. Led by a fine military band, six companies of State militia took the van, and their appearance was dwarfed by the 44 Grand Army posts that were in the line. Several regiments preferred to march as regimental organizations and did so with very full ranks. Notably was this the case with the Eleventh Michigan cavalry and the 18th infantry. The various civic societies and citizens' turnouts swelled the procession to nearly a mile in length, and on its return to Winter and Maumee sts. it was reviewed by the governor and distinguished guests.

At 2 o'clock Mayor Kaiser delivered the address of welcome in a grove on the banks of the river. The expectation was that the addresses were to be on the grounds and the grand stand was packed with a disappointed audience. The change was made on account of the intense heat of the sun.

Gov. Luce made an address, as did also Gen. B. M. Cutcheon and ex Gov. Alger.

TECUMSEH REPRESENTATIVES.

Tecumseh was well represented, especially on Thursday, and her representatives acquitted themselves with credit.

Beer's Post was present during the entire encampment, and turned out a hundred men in the big parade. It was one of the finest appearing Posts in the line.

Co. C, and our City band went down on Thursday. The company appeared in line with nearly thirty men. The boys never marched better or made a finer appearance. Capt. Wood was well pleased with their behavior both on and off the parade.

There were five bands of music there on Thursday, but it is no flattery to say that the Tecumseh band carried off the honors. Long time will elapse before the Grand Army will again have such a good time. Post and Corps talk about it with bated breath. Capt. Wood, Lieut. Hunter and Sergt. Major Wood deserve the thanks of the Post for the manner in which they managed the affairs of the company. Tecumseh was represented in the Grand Army Post of Adrian by a good number of our citizens, who report a good time. Comrade Lyons, of Post 12, Tecumseh, was elected Senior Vice Commander of the Department of Michigan, and Comrade Stanley, of Post 12, was elected Senior Vice Commander of the Department of Ohio. Comrade Stanley is the young man who ran against Comrade Kelton, Adjutant General of Ohio, for the position of Senior Vice Commander of the Department of Ohio, and was defeated by a few votes. Comrade Stanley is a young man who is a rising man in the Grand Army, and will be heard from in the future. He is a young man who is a rising man in the Grand Army, and will be heard from in the future. He is a young man who is a rising man in the Grand Army, and will be heard from in the future. He

HIN
G
OR 30 DAYS.

will offer extra
pt. 1st.

ent. off.

wear at cor
s the time to cheap.

cNAIR

M SUITS

SUITS

s, New Couchs
nd Medium

URE!

k through my rooms
member, I have no on the street for joy the busi-
S SO.

ecialty!

ptly attended to. N
new for the tim

VEN.

LL!

HOUSE

ck of

THING,

AND GOODS

GOOD

ARGAI

artments

e Season.
ods.

Times

OF

EN.

ecumseh

SPECIAL NOTICES.

FOR SALE CHEAP. The residence formerly occupied by Nathan Morse on Ottawa. Must be sold to settle the estate.
F. B. WOOD, Executor.

SHROPSHIRE RAMS for sale registered and unregistered. ELLIOTT GRAY.

WILL SHIP. I have a quantity of very choice Red Mediterranean wheat for seed, will ship to any person sending bags to put it in at 60c per bushel. Sample of the wheat at Clay Co's.
ALEX. McGERRARD,
Homer, Mich.

FARM FOR SALE.—I offer my farm in Newburg for sale—140 acres with good buildings and orchard. Will be sold at a bargain. Inquire on the premises or at the HERALD office for particulars. GEO. W. STACY.

LOST.—A ladys gold breast pin with garnet setting. Finder will receive a reward by leaving it at the office of I. G. NORTH.

FOR SALE.—Span of good work mules, one four year old brown mare by Seneca Chief, a sable pony, ten Jersey heifer calves, two spring bills, side spring buggy, also peaches, pears and grapes.
JOHN T. CLARK, Clinton, Mich.

50,000 BUSHELS OF APPLES wanted at the Tecumseh Fruit Preserving Co's. Highest cash price paid. Enquire of Geo. Heesen or DOLPH HEESEN.

NEW STAGE FOR SAND LAKE.—I have fitted up a fine spring wagon which I will run to Sand Lake during the season. Will make a specialty of private parties and will go any day in the week parties may wish. Fare for the trip $1.75. Leave word at my house or at Stocks & McNair's store.
H. H. WESTCOTT.

FOR SALE.—I have for sale 61¾ acres of timber land situated in section one of the town of Ridgeway. Parties desiring to buy may have either the timber alone, or both together. For further information enquire of
GEO. PRICE, Tecumseh.

TAKE NOTICE.—Having decided to move from Tecumseh I shall be greatly obliged to all who are indebted to me if they will call at Miss Burdick's law office and make a settlement as soon as possible.
Aug 7th, 1887. R. B. HOUSE.

A GOOD CHANCE.—Owing to the continued illness of my mother, I am compelled to dispose of my Confectionery, Ice Cream and Restaurant business, and return east. It is useless to dwell on the merits of the business as everyone can see for themselves what it is. I sell for cash or give time on part payment with good security. L. G. RAWSON.

PURE CIDER VINEGAR.—I have a quantity of pure cider vinegar for sale
ABNER WILSON.

FOR SALE.—A desirable residence corner of Pearl and Shawnee sts. Enquire on the premises. P. C. TEMPLE.

FOR SALE.—The property opposite the HERALD office now used as a saloon and restaurant, and also the house and lot next north of Pratt's furniture factory. The title to the first property is all right, and terms and payments will be made to suit purchaser. For particulars enquire at HERALD OFFICE.

FOR SALE.—I offer my place for sale cheap, located just west of Abner Wilson's farm on the Pottawatomie, in Tecumseh. Good house and barn and two acres of land. For price, terms, etc., call on Abner Wilson or on the undersigned on the premises. Household goods also to be sold.
WILLIAM SMITH.

WHEEL SCUFFLERS.—An indispensable tool for farmers and gardeners for attaching to wheels and other cultivators. Made from best steel, and warranted to work.
W. P. DEMING, Tecumseh, Mich.

WANTED.—One agent in each of the following counties, viz.: Hillsdale, Monroe, Washtenaw and Lenawee, to sell my Spring Bed which sells on sight. Best bed made. Coy-ered patent. Exclusive sale to Agent. For terms apply to J. S. KINNEY Tecumseh.

Harry Sod spent last Sabbath at home.

E. C. Baird, of Dayton, Ohio, is visiting this week in Tecumseh.

Mr and Mrs. G. D. Perry returned from their Petoskey trip last Saturday.

A Dedance will be given by Co. C. next Saturday evening at their Armory.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Root returned home Saturday afternoon from their trip to Petoskey. Miss Jennie Root got back yesterday.

The Rev. Mr. Breed, of Ann Arbor, will preach in the DeSpelder church, Sunday Sept. 11th at 10:30 o'clock A. M. and at South Macon at 3 P. M.

Dogs destroyed a number of Tom Reed's sheep on his farm west of the village last week, and Tom has vowed vengeance and will shoot any dog seen on his premises. Hunters, take warning.

M. S. Fay, the milk-man, didn't call on his patrons as usual Monday afternoon. He simply couldn't. His team got scared in the rear of Scofield's machine shop, run over a post, and quickly emptied several cans of the contents on terra firma, besides badly damaging the wagon. Mr. Fay jumped out in time to save his own milk.—Morenci Observer.

DR. BENNETT will be at the Lilley House Monday, Sept. 12. Asthma, hay fever, dyspepsia, head and back aches, constipation and all that comes from it, all easily cured by his new mode of treatment. "Never fails." Hernia or rupture radically cured in one week, be they 5 or 75 years of age. If the 200 within 2 miles of Tecumseh post office is there on that wishes to come and see how this is done, then look at the results already given.

The Society of the Army of the Tennessee holds its twentieth Annual Reunion in the City of Detroit, on September 14th and 15th next. This army, with its great record, from Forts Henry and Donelson to Atlanta and the sea, had for its commanders some of the good generals of the war. General Sherman is President of the Society and will attend the Reunion. General Sheridan, Mrs. Logan and other distinguished guests will also be present. The exercises comprise Business Meetings, Parade, Battle Relics, Annual Meeting, Banquet, Reception, etc. All railroads in the State grant special rates of one fare for the round trip to all who apply. No special invitations are necessary. The citizens of Detroit extend a cordial invitation to every old soldier in Michigan, as well as the people generally, to visit their city at that time and meet the veterans of the Army of the Tennessee.

THE TECUMSEH HERALD.

TECUMSEH, MICH., SEPT 8 1887

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

A. W. Slayton is looking up lumber at Lansing this week.

Fred Burger was home Sunday. He is now working at Adrian.

The street signs of Hudson are painted on the street lamps.

The Clinton Woolen Mill proprietors are experimenting on the use of oil for fuel.

Dan Covell, of Dundee was shaking hands with his Tecumseh friends last Saturday.

"Old Soldier" from Macon, should remember to sign his name when he writes communications to the press.

The Brooklyn fair comes next week, on the 14th, 15th and 16th. The prospects are favorable for an excellent show.

We are glad to see Berf. Anderson at his old place behind the counter. He has entirely recovered from his recent illness.

The Ladies' Social of the Baptist church will serve supper at the chapel ~~this Thursday evening, at 6 o'clock.~~ All are invited.

Four hundred and seventy bushels of peaches were transferred from the Jackson branch train at Lenawee Junction, last Monday afternoon.

Young men don't forget to look at those beautiful building lots on Patterson street. Now is the time to secure you a home cheap.
J. W. PATTERSON.

Chas. Eldredge has gone to New York, having been summoned to his old home by the sickness of his sister. He will probably be gone two or three weeks.

One hundred pupils were enrolled in the High School last Monday, the first day of the term. The entire enrollment last year in the same department was ninety-two.

J. L. Remington left at our office on Monday, two fine specimens of ripe strawberries. His second crop is coming along finely, although he has not picked enough yet for a meal.

The Echo, which is the weekly edition of the Detroit Evening News is one of the best literary and general newspapers in the West. The HERALD and the Echo will be clubbed together for $2,00.

The Gardener's Monthly for September is at hand and is replete with valuable information for the market gardener and fruit grower. Write for a sample copy to C. H. Marott, 814 Chestnut street, Philadelphia.

Mrs. N. Reeves, Anna Reeves and Grace M. Spafford, of Ann Arbor—who were visiting friends at Clinton—together with Mrs. S. Howell, of the latter place, drove over and called upon their friends and relatives here, Tuesday afternoon.

The Morenci fair will be held Oct. 4th to 7th inclusive. It is held somewhat late, but will be none the less meritorious on that account. The Morenci fairs are always worth attending and they promise a better exhibition than ever this year.

Geo. Heesen has relinquished the agency of the American Express Company, and Burt Conklin has taken the same. The office has been removed to Clark's grocery store. Burt will be a good man for that position and we wish him abundant success.

We have just received a large invoice of Japanese napkins—the old style made of paper and a new style called "Japanese Crepe." This latter is an elegant napkin. The ladies are invited to call at the HERALD office and examine the assortment.

It is rumored that a Cincinnati syndicate is buying up all the vacant land on Devils lake, adjacent to the proposed junction of the C. J. & M. railroad with the old, intending to lay it out in town lots. It is also said that a magnificent summer hotel is in contemplation.

Dr. C. M. Woodward and family returned yesterday from their eastern trip, and he is again at his post ready for business. This is the first vacation he has taken in over eleven years. He had a delightful visit at Waterloo, New York, where he practiced medicine years ago. They were sorry to leave him return, but Tecumseh is his home and here he intends to remain.

The Art Amateur for September contains an attractive colored plate of Chrysanthemums by Victor Dangon, a charming study of a child's head by Ellen Welby, a large panel design of wood carving, china painting decorations for three plates, hare-bells, pomegranate flowers and crab apples and a "satchel" vase, dandelions, a page of outline figure sketches, and one of monograms by P. "My Note Book" is full of pointed paragraphs, and the art notes and answers to correspondents bristle with useful hints. It is no wonder that art lovers and students find The Art Amateur indispensable. Price 35 cents, $4.00 per year. Montagu Marks, Publisher, 23 Union Square New York.

Wm. Bresie was called to Cleveland this week on business.

I. Ames, of Ypsilanti, is visiting his brother M. Ames and family, this week.

Mrs. E. Landon started today for Vermont to spend the winter with her daughter.

Lydia Crowell, who has been enjoying the vacation with relatives in the Forest City returned last week.

Mr. E. H. Custer returned to his home in Monroe last Monday, after a visit of several weeks at Lieut. Elliott Gray's.

Mr. A. VanAntwerp and family start next Monday for Denver, Col., with the expectation of making that city their future home.

Eli Knight, an old and esteemed resident of Franklin, died this morning from cholera morbus, after an illness of only one day.

Mrs. Dr. Bolger and daughter Hattie, of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Mrs. King, of Hudson, are guests of Mrs. D. P. Spaulding, this week.

The Lake Shore road will sell round trip tickets at single fare rates for the State Fair at Jackson. The attendance from this section will doubtless be large.

The proposed new village on the west shore of Devil's lake has been christened "Cheesekau," by Mrs. Gen. Steadman and Mrs. Gen. Rice, of Toledo, after a brother of the celebrated chief, Tecumseh.

J. M. Burleson, of Macon, has placed the HERALD boys under obligations to himself for a basket of those delicious grapes of his own raising. They were prime. We understand now how he utilizes that family of boys.

Wm. L. Stewart, of Sturgis City, Dakota, in ordering the address of his HERALD changed says: The HERALD is a companion and friend to me and I look eagerly forward to the mail that brings it. I cannot do without the news of old Lenawee.

The piston rod of the engine in Henry Smith's paper mill broke last Monday afternoon and one end flew back and broke the cylinder head into several pieces. Nat Boke, the engineer, had just stepped back from the cylinder a minute before it broke and thus escaped what might have been a serious accident.

Young Lew Jones, son of David Jones of this village, should be presented with a medal. Last Sunday little Wade Jones, Jas. Jones' child, while playing at the home of his grandfather, accidentally fell into the cistern, and would probably have been drowned but for the prompt action of Lew, who jumped down and rescued him.

The Lake Shore road will sell Excursion Tickets during the Chicago Exposition as follows: On Tuesday Sept. 14th, 20th and 27th and Oct. 4th, 11th and 18th. Good going only on date of sale and good to return until the following Monday. The rate from Tecumseh is $5.00, which includes ticket of admission to the exposition.

It is not altogether unlikely that Hudson will have a second railroad running north and south. A party of surveyors laid the route of the Columbus & Mackinac road through the east side of our village this week. The company is in a hurry to reach the straits, is backed by immense capital, asks no local aid, and railroad men say they may have cars running through Hudson before the C. J. & M. people do.—Hudson Gazette.

The September WIDE AWAKE has a vivid, valuable, timely article for which it is sure to be treasured, and for which it should be taken into every school room in America and into every home. We refer to "The Centennial of the Constitution of the United States," by Mrs. Annie Sawyer Downs. Describing graphically the making of the Constitution one hundred years ago Sept. 7, 1787, and profusely illustrated from photographs of original portraits and statues and relics in Independence Hall, views of the Hall, and fac similes of the signatures appended to the great document, from photographs of the original parchments furnished to the magazine from the State Department at Washington.

For C. J. & M. railroad news we refer our readers to the Waldron and Prattville correspondence, so far as Wright township is concerned. Work was commenced on the grade in Pittsford township last Monday and has since been pushed. North of this place the point of attraction has been the new Petosky at Devil's Lake, where over thirty city lots have already been sold. Col. Woods, the surveyor, has headquarters at the Comstock House, where he is in communication with the officers of the road and the men in charge of construction. Swaney and Albert, who are helping to secure right of way and sub lots, begin to assume the airs of railroad men and go about with a mysterious look on their faces, as though they knew where the cult was hid but would not tell. And thus the work goes on, and we are assured that before the new year the road will connect with the M. & O.—Hudson Post.

E. J. Hollister went to Chicago yesterday.

Remember the Brooklyn Fair next week.

The Adventists expect to organize a church at Morenci soon.

The Hudson Congregational church [illegible] Bradley, of Iowa.

The Judge of Probate has appointed A. W. Mills administrator of the estate of Henry Mesture.

Geo. Heesen swings a three column ad this week on the 4th page. It will do you good to read it.

James A. Boyd returned from his western trip last Friday, after an absence of about two weeks.

The Hero Pug excursion to Chicago, given by Meisland Bros. & Crane will take place on the 13th inst.

James C. Murray and wife, of Missouri, are making a visit of two or three weeks with their Tecumseh friends.

The HERALD and the Detroit Free Press will be sent four months on trial for fifty cents. Same rates on the HERALD and Detroit Tribune. Pass in your half dollars.

Secretary E. L. Mills, of Adrian, was in town yesterday circulating advertising matter for the county fair. He is confident of having a fine exhibition this fall.

Satterthwaite, Bros. & Boyd have the largest and finest assortment of stoves ever shown in this market. For further perticulars see their card on the first page.

An exchange aptly says: "An editor never carries any money with him for fear of robbers; he never leaves any at home for fear of fires. As a rule he leaves it in the pockets of his subscribers."

Rand McNally & Co's new county and township pocket map of Michigan is the best thing of the kind extant. It shows in detail the entire railroad system of the state and has an alphabetical list of all post offices, and townships.

A Deerfield young man had a bicycle which shone in all the glory of nickel plate. He passed a lumber wagon at great speed, but his little wheel hooked into the hind wheel of the buggy, and the result was a badly crippled machine and badly demoralized young man. The wheel is laid up for repairs.

THE GETTYSBURG PANORAMA.

The removal of the great panoramic picture of the Battle of Missionary Ridge recalls the time when three gigantic representations of the greatest events in American history were first introduced in our midst. "Gettysburg" has outlived "Missionary Ridge," and bids fair to become a perennial institution in Chicago. Hardly a week passes that does not bring hundreds of old combatants, Federal and Confederate, to look once more upon the crucial field of the mighty struggle, and to live o'er again the hopeful, anxious, fateful day. The first sensation of the visitor to this extraordinary exhibition is one that does not lose any of its freshness upon a subsequent inspection. Although aware, before entering, that he is looking at a building of 134 feet in diameter and 96 feet high, he finds himself, after ascending the little narrow stairs, in an open country stretching many miles in every direction toward the horizon. It is impossible to break the illusion involved in so splendid a triumph of perspective drawing. Then the accuracy of the landscape in every detail is such as to call forth the special plaudits of the Pennsylvanians, one of whom exclaimed the other day, "My God! look at our Blue mountains." The scenes of valor, of destruction, of carnage and of death upon which the spectator looks down seem never to lose the dread fascination. The real ground with a gun here, a broken ammunition wagon there, and a cavalry trumpet in the rear, the real snake fence and the real stone walls are so skillfully continued into the canvas that on slightly lifting his head one can hear the last agonizing cry of the rebel General Armistead as he falls in the moment of temporary victory. On come the contending hosts, despite the terrible gaps made in them by the enemy's artillery. Riderless steeds bewildered fly they know not where, dead and dying strew the field; innumerable instances of individual heroism fill the onlooker with admiration. As a whole and in every detail, the work is so unexceptionable that upon retiring from the bloody field, old heroes feel that they have fought their battles over again.—Chicago Evening Journal, Aug. 19th.

The life of a true Christian is like a rapid river; it flows on in a steady even course, the waters of the very middle of its surface, but the deep and current moves on undisturbed.

A bowl of good pea soup is as satisfying as a hearty dinner on a cold day. To make it add to a gallon of it, with a pint of peas and soak them over night; then boil in five pints of water, gently simmering three hours or so, until thoroughly soft. With a potato masher rub the soup through a colander or wire sieve. A pound of beef or ham bone may be boiled with the peas. The soup may be seasoned in various ways—with onions, cloves, pepper, etc.

THE ANNUAL SCHOOL MEETING.

The regular annual meeting of this district was held at the Central building last Monday evening. It began to be evident early in the day that something was in the air, and a large meeting was looked for. People were not wholly disappointed. The attendance was much larger than usual, about one hundred and fifty voters being present.

The Moderator, A. W. Mills, called the meeting to order at eight o'clock and announced the first business to be reading of the minutes of last special meeting. They were read by Director North and duly approved. The Director then presented his annual report, which was quite lengthy, as it included the bills of expenditure for all the recent repairs on the Central Building. This report was on motion accepted and adopted, and is herewith presented.

RECEIPTS

Balance on hand Sept. 6, 1886, as follows:
Apparatus fund	$ 185
Library "	350 02
General "	1092 65
Total School fund	$1627 97
Building fund	202 98	$1830 95
From primary school interest fund,		684 27
" one mill tax		1594 3[illegible]
" special tax as follows:
For general school purposes	$[illegible] 00
" building purposes	1719 00
" insurance	400 00	5800 00
From foreign tuition		546 00
" library fund		11 85
" dog money		9 70
" sale of old material		85 20
" Two bonds to J. S. Strong		2000 00
		$13217 54

EXPENDITURES.

For teachers' salaries	$5000 00
" janitor's "	440 00
" director's "	50 00
" library books	31 75
" apparatus	21 19
" fuel	375 84
" repairs	139 92
" incidentals	237 42
" insurance	351 00
" building purposes:
West branch indebtedness	$1013 00
General repairs	2174 25	4087 2[illegible]
Balance on hand Sept. 5, 1887:
Building fund	$ 884 73
Library fund	63 10
Apparatus fund	1 50
Insurance fund	19 00
For general purposes	7 1518 23	2485 36
		$13217 54

Bills immediately due from the building fund:

Isaac E. Sneed & Co., about	$10 [illegible]
Grand Rapids School Furniture Co.	17[illegible]
	$ [illegible]
Balance now in building fund	$ [illegible]
Deduct amount due	[illegible]
Prospective balance	$ [illegible]

Bills immediately due for repairs at E. Branch:

Grand Rapids S. F. Co.	$ [illegible]
Balance now in general fund	$ [illegible]
Deduct amount immediately due	[illegible]
Prospective balance	$ [illegible]

ITEMS OF EXPENDITURE IN DETAIL.

TEACHERS' SALARIES.

Mr. D. A. Hammond	$1200 00
Miss Ida A. Lamb	750 00
" Lytelle Whitney	400 00
" Mary E. Keeney	350 00
" Grace Wheeler	340 00
" Julia Shedd	300 00
" Nannie Kyle	340 00
" E. May Henderson	340 00
" Metta Adams	250 00
" Jennie Axtend	270 00
" Hettie Moeller	300 00
" Ida Tucker	250 00
" Minnie E. Jones	250 00
	$5000 00

JANITORS' SALARIES.

Thomas Wyrill	$120 00
Alonzo Turner	280 00
	$400 00

DIRECTOR'S SALARY.

I. G. North	$50 00

LIBRARY FUND.

RECEIPTS.

On hand Sept. 6, 1886	$50 [illegible]
Rec'd from township treasurer	11 85
	$[illegible]

EXPENDITURES.

Nov. 25, 1886—Encyclopedia Animal, 1885	$5 00
Dec. 14 " —Dictionary, Webs unabridged	9 25
Mar. 5, 1887—Bill of books, A. P. Coddington	18 50
Balance on hand	[illegible]
	$[illegible]

APPARATUS FUND.

RECEIPTS.

Amount on hand Sept. 5, 1886	$21 50
	$21 50

EXPENDITURES.

Feb. 2, 1887—Physiological charts of W. A. Demerest & Co.	$21 50
Balance on hand	[illegible]
	$21 50

ESTIMATES FOR ENSUING YEAR.

EXPENDITURES.

Teacher's salaries	$4000 00
Janitor's salary	440 00
Director's "	50 00
Incidentals	225 00
Repairs	300 00
Fuel	425 00
Bond due Feb. 2, 1888	2000 00
Interest on bonds	125 00	$8565 00

ESTIMATED RECEIPTS.

Mill tax	$1600 00
Primary money	700 00
Foreign tuitions	500 00
Special tax	5800 00	$8600 00

RECOMMENDATIONS.

The Board of Trustees recommend the length of time for which school shall be held in this district during the ensuing school year shall be [illegible] commencing Monday, Sept. 5, 1887, [illegible]

Also the special taxes be raised as follows:

For general school purposes	$ [illegible]
Bonds and interest thereon, due	[illegible]
Deduct amount immediately due	[illegible]
	$5800 00

Also that the balance of funds now in the insurance fund after the bond is paid be applied to the payment of all bills of school age now in the district.

I. G. NORTH, Director.

The report was, on motion accepted and adopted, including the recommendations of money to be raised.

The meeting then proceeded to the election of Trustees. Dr. Houser having removed from town and vacated his position, a vacancy existed for the year which was filled by Messrs. Mills and Bills. Term as trustees of their successors were to be chosen at this election. A. W. Mills, S. W. Anderson, P. A. Wright and O. P. Bills were appointed tellers.

Before [illegible] for Mills [illegible] choice [illegible] and Any [illegible] in balloting a large [illegible] every way to be [illegible] conducted the election with marked fairness and [illegible] [illegible] deserved [illegible] to some [illegible] made against the board of some of their recent electic tharts. His remarks evidently made a favorable impression.

The ballot was first taken to fill the vacancy. An informal ballot was taken with no choice. On the second or formal ballot Dr. Geo. Howell was elected by the following vote.

A. P. Coddington	[illegible]
J. D. Shull	12
A. James	33
F. Rossemans	9
Geo. Howell	80

The vote was then taken for a successor to A. W. Mills with the following result:

A. James	[illegible]
J. D. Shull	[illegible]
W. Anderson	[illegible]
Geo. Heesen	[illegible]
A. W. Mills	86

Mr. Mills having received a majority of all the votes cast he was, on motion, declared elected by acclamation.

The ballot was then taken for a successor to O. P. Bills, with this result:

A. James	[illegible]
A. P. Coddington	[illegible]
Joe Waring	1
Geo. Heeson	2
L. P. Tribou	42
O. P. Bills	78

Mr. Bills was thereupon declared elected as his own successor.

The re-election of Messrs. Mills and Bills was a compliment worthily bestowed. They have both been faithful and efficient members of the Board during their incumbency of the office, and during the last two years have performed a large amount of extra labor incident to building the West Branch school and the repairs on the Central.

Dr. Howell will fill Dr. House's vacancy in a most acceptable manner.

OBITUARY.

Joseph Herbison was born in County Antrim, Ireland, in the year 1812. His youth and manhood were passed in his native country and until he was 36 years of age, when he immigrated to this country. In 1848 he purchased and settled upon the farm in Clinton township now owned by E. A. Horton. He afterwards bought the farm in Tecumseh, now owned by the heirs of P. S. Waldron. After a residence of several years on the place he sold it to Mr. Waldron and bought the farm in Franklin upon which he resided until his death. He was a man of powerful build and robust health and was always a hard working man until two or three years prior to his death, when he was somewhat afflicted with rheumatism. He died Aug. 21st and the funeral was conducted at his residence in Franklin, on the 23d. He leaves a widow and a large family of grown up children to mourn his departure.

—Go to Perry Hosmer's for School Books.

—Legal Blanks at Hosmer's.

—Spectacles of the first quality at Hosmer's.

—If you want a first class watch buy a Rockford of S. P. Hosmer, Tecumseh Agt.

—Our location is the finest:
Our facilities the best,
Our experience the greatest,
Our Prices Reasonable,
Our Work first-class.
And those who try are always suited,
Call and see for yourself.
BROWN the Photographer

—The White and Domestic Sewing Machines have superior furniture and attachments to all others. Call and see them and the class of work that they will do, before buying.
Mrs. M. P. BROWN,
Agent at Tecumseh.

—An elegant line of Cabinet frames both for side wall and easel back, for sale very cheap at A. J. Coddington's

—Sewing machines—Needles for all and attachments at
M. P. Brown's Art Gallery.

—Call at J. S. Kinney's store and see those fine marble, indestructible caskets on exhibition. Also a new spring bed with elevated head rest. The best in the market for invalids. Manufactured by J. S. Kinney.

—If you want a first class sewing machine call on Mrs. M. P. Brown and see the New Domestic, The White and The Orchal. Prices reasonable and terms easy.

If you wish any painting, graining or paper hanging done call on P. Holmes. Good work guaranteed. Terms reasonable. Leave orders at Brown's Hardware or at A. Wright's Carpet store. P. Holmes.

A few back numbers of Harper's Monthly and other Magazines for sale at the Lake Shore reading room.

WHALINE AND WHALINE.

[illegible] Whaline [illegible] for the last two years amounts to [illegible] large bottles sold [illegible] $[illegible].

For sale by A. S. Doty.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

FRED B. WOOD, ATTORNEY AT LAW. Collections and Conveyancing. Office over A. & S. W. Anderson's store, Tecumseh, Mich.

C. A. STACY, Attorney at Law and Solicitor in Chancery. Office in Herald Block, Tecumseh, Mich.

PHYSICIANS.

LEMAN BARNES, M. D. Physician and surgeon. Office over A. S. Dodge's drug store. Residence Pottawatamie st., east, Tecumseh, Mich.

J. M. WOODWARD, M.D., PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON, Office at residence, Chicago St.

MISCELLANEOUS.

DAVE BACHMAN, Fashionable Barber and Hair Dresser. Shop on Railroad st.

JAMES A. CURRY, Fashionable Barber and Hair Dresser, shop in Richard's Block, Chicago st.

CHAS A. WALDRON, Veterinary Surgeon. All orders promptly attended to either by mail or in person. Office at Residence, one-half mile south west of Tecumseh.

HOTELS.

BURNETT HOUSE, Toledo, Ohio. This hotel has recently been refitted and refurnished with Elevator, and other modern improvements, and is a favorite resort for business men and pleasure travelers. Rates reasonable and graded according to rooms occupied.

CENTRAL HOTEL, ADRIAN, MICH. [illegible]

LENAWEE CARRIAGE FACTORY

J. R. HALEY

MANUFACTURER OF

Carriages, Buggies,

SULKIES, SPRING WAGONS,

ROAD CARTS

SLEIGHS, COTTERS, ETC.

TECUMSEH, MICHIGAN

M. L. BRIGGS,

UTICA, MICHIGAN,

Breeder of First Class Thoroughbred Poland China Pigs for Breeding. Send for Circular. Free.

W. W. MARSH,

Proprietor of

Railroad Street Meat Market!

Fresh and Salt Meats constantly on hand.

GIVE ME A CALL

LADIES TREATMENT FREE.

DR. MARY A. GREGG'S NEW TREATMENT FOR Chronic Diseases, the Discovery of that distinguished Physician and Nurse, who has received the thanks of thousands for curing this class of complaints in Private, as now being unsurpassed throughout the U.S. Sufficient medicine to complete a Month's Treatment will be sent free to any lady suffering from any of these diseases, viz.: Female Weakness and Irregularities, Leucorrhœa, Ulcers and Tumors, Stamps to cover actual charges.

THE NEW TREATMENT will positively cure any form of female disease, and the free trial is in many cases sufficient to effect a permanent cure.

It is put up in plain wrapper with full instructions for self treatment. Only one trial treatment will be sent to any address. Regular price $1.00. Address

GREGG REMEDY CO., Palmyra, N.Y.

SCOTT'S EMULSION OF PURE COD LIVER OIL And Hypophosphites of Lime & Soda

Almost as Palatable as Milk.

The only preparation of COD LIVER OIL that can be taken easily and tolerated for a long time by delicate stomachs.

AND AS A REMEDY FOR CONSUMPTION, SCROFULOUS AFFECTIONS, ANÆMIA, GENERAL DEBILITY, CONSUMPTIVE TENDENCIES, AND WASTING DISEASES OF CHILDREN it is unequaled.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

TO MACKINAC.

SUMMER TOURS.

Palace Steamers, Low Rates.

Four Trips per Week between

DETROIT, MACKINAC ISLAND

AND LAKE SUPERIOR PORTS.

Leaving Detroit every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday at 4 o'clock, for Mackinac, Marquette, Ontonagon, Houghton and Hancock.

DETROIT AND CLEVELAND.

Special Sunday Trips during July and August.

FOUR TRIPS PER WEEK BETWEEN

Detroit & Cleveland Steam Nav. Co.,

Special Sunday Trips during July and August.

Miles P. Stevens & Co.

PENSIONS! Abstract Building, DETROIT, MICHIGAN.

TO ADVERTISE and meet with success requires a knowledge of the value of newspapers, and a correctly displayed advertisement will enable you to advertise JUDICIOUSLY. CONSULT LORD AND THOMAS NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING, CHICAGO ILLINOIS.

THE BATTLE FOR VOTES.

PENNSYLVANIA DEMOCRACY TAKES ITS POSITION IN LINE

And Throws Its Colors to the Breeze—Candidates Put Forward and a Policy Outlined—Iowa Democrats Nominate a State Ticket Headed by Anderson—What the Resolutions Say.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Sept. 1.—The Academy of Music was crowded with delegates and onlookers at noon Wednesday when the Democratic state convention was called to order by the chairman of the state committee, Datus E. Salade. There was great interest in the convention exhibited by members of all parties, because of the belief that it might take on the tariff question, there being understood to be a fight going on between the Randall and anti-Randall men—or the protectionists and tariff reformers. Congressman Scott represented the tariff reformers and appeared as a delegate. Tow boxes were filled with the most prominent members of the party in the state and on the stage were the well-known politicians, among them United States Senator A. H. Dill, ex-Governor A. G. Curtin and Hon. W. U. Hensel, ex-chairman of the state committee.

ANDREW J. CURTIN.

The first preliminary business occupied A. Wilson Norris, and the usual committees were named. The vote on the matter being based upon the vote on the Randall question, Randall men were in a majority in the committees, and the former was declared the winner, and the action made unanimous amid great cheering.

When the committee on credentials for this ballot was ready to report, one member on account of its readiness to report, and when it was stated that the report was unanimous there was a great shout of satisfaction, and after it was read it was unanimously adopted. In reporting the platform Congressman Scott said the session of the Democracy had been most harmonious, which was greeted with cheers.

At 2 p. m. an attempt was made to adjourn until 3, but it was shouted down, and the nominations were proceeded with, B. J. McGinnis, of Lancaster, being nominated for treasurer, after which the convention, in a high state of enthusiasm, had with ringing cheers, adjourned sine die.

The platform starts out with a renewal of allegiance to the Chicago platform of 1884; quotes Cleveland's letter of acceptance of the nomination where he discusses his approval of the platform and that it is a plain statement of the party faith; declares that the president has faithfully adhered to the principles therein set forth; demands that the surplus in the treasury be used in the payment of the public debt, and that if any surplus remains it be given back to the people in the form of a reduction of internal revenue taxes and duties on imports, in any event with the strong assertion that Cleveland's administration, which has strengthened the public credit, [illegible]

[illegible]

Iowa Democrats.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Sept. 2.—The Democratic state convention was called to order Thursday at 12 o'clock in the Grand Opera house. Senator W. W. Paige was nominated for temporary chairman and in his speech gave the administration of President Cleveland a most cordial endorsement. Protection was denounced and tariff reform to a revenue basis demanded. Turning to state affairs, Senator Paige addressed himself to the state prohibitory law, characterizing it as a piece of infamous legislation promoting perjury, fostering a system of spies and informers, and making possible the violation of the sacredness of the home by reckless and irresponsible constables. He also denounced the Republican legislative apportionment as a gerrymander.

Col. Sells, of Blackhawk, was the choice for permanent chairman. He made several complimentary allusions to President Cleveland, which were cheered to the echo. After the adoption of the platform nominations followed, and were quickly disposed of, and the convention adjourned.

The following is the ticket: For governor, Maj. T. J. Anderson; lieutenant governor, J. M. Elder; supreme judge, Charles S. Fogg; superintendent of schools, Professor H. W. [illegible]

The resolutions commend President Cleveland's land, civil service, debt-reduction and generous pension policy, and favor further liberal provision, with safeguards against abuses; immediate revision of the tariff laws to a revenue basis; favors a liberal policy toward non-pauper foreigners; favors the bill against alien landholding and commends the vigorous prosecution of corporation by officials in New York and Chicago. The platform indorses local option and a minimum license of $500. The course of Gladstone and Parnell is commended.

Action of Iowa Greenbackers.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Sept. 1.—The greenback state convention met Wednesday afternoon in the Opera house, at Des Moines. There were about forty delegates present, but it was claimed that forty-six counties were represented. One element of the convention wanted to endorse the ticket nominated by the Union Labor party at Marshalltown, while another insisted on straight nominations. A compromise was finally effected by which the Greenback party in Iowa becomes a thing of the past. No ticket was named, but resolutions were adopted endorsing the Marshalltown platform and urging the farmers to immediately call a non-partisan state convention to place in an independent ticket in the field.

The New York Democracy.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 31.—The Democratic state committee met here at 12 o'clock today. After considerable skirmishing Frank Hiscock was secured to succeed Hon. E. N. Lockwood, of Buffalo, as member of the state committee. A vote on the place for holding the convention and Gov. Hill's Saratoga and Seal [illegible] was taken as the [illegible]

Methods to Carry the Campaign.

[illegible]

THE YIELD OF WHEAT.

What the Threshing Machine Tells of the Wheat Crop.

[illegible]

Dr. Talmage Tempted Parker.

[illegible]

DR. PARKER.

Mr. Beecher's health was not good when he left for Peekskill, where he will be joined by his and Mrs. Beecher. This over, the reverend gentleman will take a few days' rest and then, but just when he has not made up his mind. Dr. Parker will occupy Plymouth church pulpit on Oct. 2, and the eulogy on Mr. Beecher will be delivered in the Brooklyn Academy of Music on Oct. 4.

Resolutions of a G. A. R. Post.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Sept. 3.—The O. J. Crane post of the G. A. R., has adopted resolutions which designate that "this post looks with disapprobation and condemnation upon every demonstration of disrespect shown the legally constituted executive of the national government, the same being subversive of the foundation principles of the Grand Army as set forth in article II section 3, and, furthermore, we hope and trust that the department, in its convocation at St. Louis, will take such action as will demonstrate that the Grand Army is not an organization for political purposes or through which to manifest malice, hatred or illwill."

Murdered by His Employers.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 3.—Nicholas Morgan, living in lower Saltlick township, which adjoins this city, refused to show a number of his boarders to purchase in the labor demonstration on Saturday. Saturday evening he was attacked by a mob of four of the men and beaten with a club until he became insensible. He died Sunday. His assailants are unknown and [illegible] in the police and [illegible]

THE CRIMINAL CALENDAR.

Walter Tupper and Dr. Nelson of Auburn, Ind., are [illegible] for the murder of Nelson's wife. The murder and [illegible] on Sunday night. The murder was [illegible] Tupper [illegible]

[illegible]

A Mr. Hardy was [illegible] Wednesday night [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] Sunday night [illegible] Mrs. Dough[illegible] [illegible]

Mrs. Laura Boyd, [illegible] was married to her father, near Nappanee, Ind., Wednesday. She had been married and divorced [illegible] and her accomplice, Hyde, the [illegible] their crime.

Near Lebanon, Ohio, at 2 a. m. on Thursday, obstructions were found on the railway [illegible] an excursion train of seven cars and 400 passengers was to pass. The object was supposed to be robbery. Nobody was hurt.

In Cincinnati, Friday morning Frank Hammond, a butcher, was found lying near the stock yards, beside the dead body of Lizzie Tate, a widow. The pair [illegible] away to Chicago, but Hammond soon returned to his wife. It is supposed he first shot the widow and then himself.

A STAGNATION IN OIL.

THE ONCE RICH REGIONS OF PENNSYLVANIA DESERTED,

And the Palmy Days of the Pittsburg Market Departed—Elegant Mansions in Decay and Their Former Owners Struggling for a Living—Monopoly of the Standard Oil Company.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Sept. 3.—The oil regions that have produced petroleum worth many millions of dollars, are to-day in a pitiable condition. The owners of the wells are generally bankrupt, and in a few days the once active oil fields will be virtually idle. The only hope of the producers is to close the wells, stop the supply, and hope for the dawn of better times. The hand of monopoly has fallen heavily on the oil region.

[illegible]

[illegible] Standard Company [illegible] Pennsylvania [illegible] Standard Oil Company [illegible] Pennsylvania [illegible] Standard Oil Company [illegible] Pennsylvania [illegible] Standard Oil

MORTGAGE SALE.

...ay of November, 1884, John ... mortgaged to William Weath... a parcel of land situate in ... Springfield, county of Lenawee ... known and described as ... of the north half of ... ...ght south, of range three ... ...y (40) acres of land be the ... to secure the payment ... one year from date with int... annually. Several pay... on said mortgage amounting ... Hundred Dollars And ... ...ember, 1884 ... said mortgage ... ...gister of Deeds in and for ... ...ee in Liber 41 of Mortgages ... and 555. Default has been ... ...ns of said mortgage by reason ... said mortgage contains ... ve. There is now claimed ... on said mortgage the sum ... and Eighty-one and 1-100 ... ...ings have been instituted ... ...ce or in equity to recover ... ...ent or any part of said ... ...aged premises above and ... ...bed, will be sold at public ... ...bidder, at the east door ... in the city of Adrian, ...rday, the 11th day of November ... ...ock in the afternoon, to satisfy ... due on said mortgage, ... this foreclosure, and ... ...y fees, as provided for by law ... ...ated, 1884.

WILLIAM WEATHERBEE
O'MEALEY
Mortgagee.

...OF MARANDA DEWEY ...
...ICHIGAN County of Lenawee ...
...the Probate Court for the County ...
...den at the Probate office, in the ...
...Monday the 8th day of August ...
...one thousand eight hundred and ...
...Gaddis, Judge of Probate.
...of the estate of Maranda Dewey ...
...filing the petition, and ...
...administration of said estate be ...
...Barrage, or to some other ...
...Thursday, the 1st day of September, 1884, at ten o'clock ...
...ordered that the creditors of said deceased ... at August, A.D. 1884, are allowed ... examination and adjustment ...
...A. CHARLES BURRIDGE, ...
...WILLIAM A. BURNETT, ...
...Commissioners.

...RTGAGE SALE.

...default having been made ... A. D. 1881, executed by ... Lucy W. Wescott, ... certain pieces of land ... mortgage of Calhoun ... State of Michigan ... follows: The north ... quarter of section ... of land lying ... Springville, County ... lying to the plat ... of holding the ... of August, ... said day, to satisfy ... said mortgage, ... and expenses of sale ...

...SIONERS' NOTICE.

...TA of the Estate of Henry ...

...PER is on file in Fredericks... at the Newspaper Advertising Agency of ... & SON, our authorized Agents.

DR. A. TRASK'S
MAGNETIC OINTMENT.

The Great Healer of all Inflamed Injuries and Disorders.

It is constantly effecting the most wonderful cures, while the unprecedented demand with which it meets, stamps it at once as the greatest medicine of the age for outward application.

The most incredulous are convinced, and the most sceptical are compelled to believe in the power of this great remedy.

WHAT IT CURES.

All sores, cuts, Bruises, Sprains, Burns, Sore Throat, Lame back, Rheumatism, Piles, Inflammation of Lungs and Bowels, Bronchitis, Croup, Salt Rheum, Chilblains, Affection of the Spine, Erysipelas, Nervous Irritation, and all disorders attendant upon inflammation.

It never fails to restore the natural functions of the skin and equalize the circulation of the blood. In this means a controlling power is gained over the most malignant forms of disease. It penetrates every portion of the human frame; every bone, muscle, vein, nerve and ligament is reached and made sensible to its soothing and healing influence. Hence it copes readily with internal as well as external diseases.

Over 40 Years.

Testimonial has been used by the people throughout the United States, and our confidence in its qualities is such that as we have no space to insert any of the numerous certificates of cures which we have from all parts of the country, we simply ask those readers of this notice who have ever used this Ointment, to frankly state their experience with it to inquiring friends. Not one in a hundred would do this we should be perfectly satisfied with the result. Full directions for use will be found on pamphlet around each bottle.

Price 25 and 40 cents per bottle. Sold by all druggists in medicine.

D. RANSOM, SON & CO., Prop's
Buffalo, New York.

THE ELDREDGE
"B"
SEWING MACHINE WITH Automatic,
Self-threading
Upright
Shuttle

No. 3.

The ELDREDGE "B" is sold with the guarantee of being the BEST that can be MADE.

AGENTS WANTED.

ELDREDGE MANUFACTURING CO.
263 and 365 WABASH AVE.,
CHICAGO, ILL.

B. F. STEINHOFF'S
Dental Rooms.

OVER BAKER & HALL'S.
GAS FOR EXTRACTING.
LOWEST PRICES for THE BEST WORK

PATENTS!

Caveats, Trade Marks and Copyrights

Patents, and all other business in the U.S. Patent Office attended to. MODERATE FEES.

Our office is opposite the U.S. Patent Office and we can obtain Patents in less time than those remote from Washington.

Send MODEL OR DRAWING. We advise as to patentability free of charge and make NO CHARGE unless we obtain patent.

We refer here to Postmaster, Supt. of Money Order Div., and to officials of the U.S. Patent Office. For circular, advice, terms and references to actual clients in your own state or county, write to

C. A. SNOW & CO.,
Opposite Patent Office Washington, D.C.

C. A. Wright & Co.,

Wall Paper
AND Decorations.

C. A. Wright & Co.

PATENTS OBTAINED in U.S. and all foreign countries. Examinations made. Licenses and assignments drawn. Infringements prosecuted in all Federal courts. Advice and pamphlets free. Scientific expert. Validity opinions given. No models required. Established A. D. 1865. Thos. S. Sprague & Son, 37 Congress Street West, Detroit, Mich.

SPRAGUE & SON PATENTS DETROIT, MICH.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

GETTYSBURG is becoming quite a summer resort.

Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets Possess Powerful Potency. Pass Painlessly, Promote Physical Prosperity.

Renews Her Youth.

Mrs. Phoebe Chesley, Peterson, Clay Co., Iowa, tells the following remarkable story, the truth of which is vouched for by the residents of the town: "I am 73 years old, have been troubled with kidney complaint and haemorrhoids for many years; could not dress myself without help. Now I am free from all pain and soreness, and now able to do all my own housework and owe my thanks to Electric Bitters. I, having renewed my youth, pray for myself completely all diseases are gone."

Try a bottle, only 50c. at
C. A. Wright & CO.

An enterprising woman at Cottage City has opened a dairy school and "teaches ladies how to milk."

MAKE YOUR OWN BITTERS

One package of STEKETEE'S DRY BITTERS will make one gallon of the best Bitters known, which will cure Indigestion, Pains in the Stomach, Fever and Ague, and acts upon the Kidney's and Bladder, and is the best Tonic Known. Can be used with or without spirits. Its air the cheapest remedy known. Full directions on each package Sold by druggists or sent by mail, postage prepaid. Price only 25 cents. U. S. Stamps taken in payment. Address GEO. G. STEKETEE, Grand Rapids, Mich. This paper will say it is safe to send me money.

In this world of change, naught which comes stays, and naught which goes is lost.

It is a blind confidence to suppose yourself incapable of mistake. It is indeed a serious blunder to refuse to take Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup when you even suspect you have taken cold. Price 25 cents.

What a grand, great country this is with its vast territory, its big rivers, its pretty women, and its Veni Vidi Vici cure—Salvation Oil.

A wise man follows his nose; a fool follows his don't knows.

Chronic Cough and Cold

and all diseases of the Throat and Lungs can be cured by the use of Scott's Emulsion, as it contains the healing virtues of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites in their fullest form. "I consider Scott's Emulsion the remedy par excellence in Pulmonary and Strumous Affections, to say nothing of ordinary colds and throat troubles."—W. R. S. Conner, M. D., Manchester, O.

Don't send any bustles to the cyclone sufferers in Kansas and Nebraska. The women out there don't wear 'em. They catch too much wind.

English spavin liniment removes all hard, soft, or calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavin, curbs, splints, sweeny, ringbone, sitfles, sprains, sore and swollen throat coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle. Warranted. Sold by Baker & Hall, Druggists, Tecumseh Mich.

Itch, mange, and scratches of every kind on human or animals cured in 30 minutes by Woolford's Sanitary Lotion. This never fails. Sold by Baker & Hall, Druggists, Tecumseh Mich.

A fast man is very slow when it comes to paying his debts.

Drunkenness or the Liquor Habit Positively Cured by Administering Dr Haines' Golden Specific.

It can be given in a cup of coffee or tea without the knowledge of the person taking it; is absolutely harmless and will effect a permanent and speedy cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or an alcoholic wreck. Thousands of drunkards have been made temperate men who have taken Golden Specific in their coffee without their knowledge, and to day believe they quit drinking on their own free will. IT NEVER FAILS. The system once impregnated with the Specific it becomes an utter impossibility for the liquor appetite to exist. For full particulars, address GOLDEN SPECIFIC CO., 185 Race st., Cincinnati, O.

If you want to see a wild cat, simply hold up the domestic article by the tail.

The reason why Acker's Blood Elixir is warranted, is because it is the best Blood Preparation known. It will positively cure all Blood Diseases, purifies the whole system, and thoroughly builds up the constitution. Remember, we guarantee it. C. A. WRIGHT & Co., Druggists.

The Population of Tecumseh.

Is about 2,800 and we would say at least one half are troubled with some affection of the Throat and Lungs, as those complaints are, according to statistics, more numerous than others. We would advise all not to neglect the opportunity to call on us and get a bottle of Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial size free. Respectfully, Baker & Hall, Druggists.

At Night always have Acker's Baby Soother at hand. It is the only safe medicine yet made that will remove all infantile disorders. It contains no Opium or Morphine, but gives the child natural ease from pain. Price 25 cents. Sold by C. A. WRIGHT & Co., Druggists.

CERTAINLY THE BEST.

Papillon (Clark's extract of flax) Catarrh Cure, from an experiment, has grown to be the acknowledged superior of any remedy for similar purposes. Purely vegetable and scientifically prepared, it is absolutely harmless, and effects cures where all other known remedies and the most learned medical talent fail. That it is a favorite with all classes is evidenced by the fact that during the past two years, 86,000 gallons have been sold. Positively cures Catarrh, Hay Fever, Colds, etc. Large bottles $1,00.

For sale by A. S. Doty.

GARRETT DETHRONED.

THE BALTIMORE RAILWAY KING RESIGNS HIS SCEPTRE.

Drexel, Morgan & Co.'s Syndicate Gets a Ten Million Dollar Loan—The Monumental City People Surprised That They Were Not Consulted—Future Prospects.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—After a long conference of capitalists at the office of Drexel, Morgan & Co. Thursday the following was issued by the firm named: "A preliminary contract has been executed by and between the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad company, Drexel Bros & Co., and Richard Sharpe & Co., London, and their allied houses on this side. This contract provides for the acquisition of $10,000,000 B. & O. consolidated 5s, and $5,000,000 B. & O. preferred stock, for the purpose of paying off the entire floating debt of the company and placing it on a sound financial basis. The conditions are as follows:

First—The verification of statements, etc., as made.

"Second—That the management of the company shall be placed in competent hands, satisfactory to the syndicate.

"Third—That satisfactory contracts shall be made between the Baltimore & Ohio and the other roads for New York business, which shall remove all antagonisms between them on the subject and insure the permanent working of the Baltimore & Ohio in entire harmony with the other trunk lines; also to avoid the construction of expensive parallel lines north and east of Philadelphia."

The houses interested on this side are Drexel, Morgan & Co., Drexel & Co., Brown Bros., and Kidder, Peabody & Co.

A Surprise at Baltimore.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 3.—The announcement from New York to the effect that the Baltimore & Ohio road had been practically mortgaged to the extent of $10,000,000, and that the management of the road would pass over to Drexel, Morgan & Co., has created considerable excitement in this city and is the chief topic of conversation on the streets. The sale of the Baltimore & Ohio Express still occupied the public mind when this second surprise came like a thunderbolt. The officials of the road would add nothing to the information contained in the Drexel statement, but the announcement was a complete surprise to Mayor Hodge, and he could scarcely believe that the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad company would take such a step without consulting the city, which owns 32,000 shares of stock, upon the matter. He could not believe that the Baltimore & Ohio had such an immense floating debt as to require a loan of $10,000,000 to pay it off. He thinks the stability of the company, when brought over to a purely railroad business, is unimpaired.

There is a report current, which emanates from a semi-official source, that prior to his departure for Europe, Robert Garrett gave to John W. Mackay an option to purchase the Baltimore & Ohio Telegraph, said option to expire Sept. 10, inst.

The American publishes the following, editorial: "Since the Ives deal, this city has been prepared for almost anything in connection with the Baltimore & Ohio railroad; but, with all its philosophy it cannot help from being startled by the announcement that was published Saturday morning. The terms of the contract, which is a practical mortgage on the road, open the eyes of the people to the financial condition of the company. It discloses a floating debt of $7,000,000 and shows that the Baltimore & Ohio was very hard pushed for money. It is quite apparent that the enterprise which dragged the company down was its telegraph system. Before this system was pushed the road was prosperous. Since then its financial condition has gradually become worse, and the large expenses of the new Philadelphia road did not mend the situation. The present effect of the contract is to keep the Baltimore & Ohio down to its present terminus. The most radical change is the dethronement of President Garrett.

A Philadelphia Newspaper's Contribution.

PHILADELPHIA, PA., Sept. 3.—In its financial article relating to the contract entered into between the Baltimore & Ohio railroad and a syndicate of bankers, The Ledger says: "The policy of the syndicate as regards the telegraph, express, and sleeping car interests of the Baltimore & Ohio will be that the company shall be managed on the same basis as other trunk lines, and thus remove the antagonism that has arisen from the policy heretofore pursued. The express contract has already been disposed of, and while there is no necessity, so far as the debt of the company is concerned, for disposing of the others, they may or may not be sold, as shall be hereafter determined. Mr. J. Pierrepont Morgan, who effected the settlement of the West Shore railroad difficulty with the New York Central railroad, and several other similar important troubles between the trunk lines, and who was a principal negotiator in the contract, said: "It is scarcely possible to overestimate the importance of the negotiations, particularly as regards the trunk lines. The syndicate is composed of the houses mentioned, and they are each and all of them interested in the trunk lines through the various negotiations which they from time to time have made. They are now united to protect these interests as far as their influence and power lies."

Drowned in a Water-Spout.

FORT WORTH, Tex., Sept. 1.—At 4 a. m. Tuesday, in the town of Cleburne, a water-spout burst, converting Buffalo creek, a small stream, into a raging torrent. It rose fifteen feet in an inconceivably short space of time. A small house on its banks containing a family named Schmidt, father, mother and several children, and a man and wife boarding with them, was washed away and all were drowned. The Schmidt woman's body and four children were recovered. The Santa Fe railroad bridge was washed away, and trains can not get within three miles of the town.

Several towns in Michigan have been flooded with $1 and $2 bills ingeniously raised to $5, $10 and $20. William Arnold, of Durand, has been arrested.

BUSINESS NOTES.

W. St. Clair Ross & Co., paper manufacturers of Cincinnati, have failed, with liabilities of $40,000 and assets of $35,000.

The receiver of N. Matson & Co., jewelers, Chicago, has filed a schedule of their assets, the value of which is $244,271.70. The liabilities are estimated at $180,000.

A company of Pittsburg and New York capitalists has entered the field in opposition to the Standard Oil company. Pipe lines are being laid from Washington to Pittsburg. The company has a capital of $3,000,000.

The creditors of Maurice Rosenfield & Co., of Chicago, refuse to accept 25 cents on the dollar.

The business men of Fort Wayne, Ind., intend to get a supply of natural gas by pipeline from Blackford county, Indiana. The cost will be $100,000.

ITEMS OF GENERAL INTEREST.

Maud S. recently trotted the fastest mile that has ever been made with a wagon, doing the distance in 2:17¼. The trial took place at Mt. Holly, Bonner's track, Mr. Bonner himself being on the ribbons.

John A. Logan, long prominent in Iowa politics, died at his residence in the Marion Saturday.

Gov. Buckner was inaugurated governor of Kentucky at Frankfort Tuesday.

Capt. Jerome Bonaparte, late of the fourth Michigan cavalry, was killed on Jeff Davis, near Appomattox, and near Oakwood, Mich., late Saturday night.

Advices from Apia, Samoa, of the 4th of July, say the Germans had hoisted the German flag on the island of Upolu, and the English flag on the island of Savaii, the Fawn, flag-ship of Admiral Wilmot, being present.

The Ohio State Fair opened at Columbus Tuesday with a great rush of people. The exhibition of cattle, sheep and hogs is the finest ever seen in Ohio, and the display of fruit, grain, etc., is large and equal to any previous year.

The public debt was decreased about $5,000,000 in August.

Nineteen suits for damages growing out of the Chatsworth disaster, aggregating $127,500, have been entered in the Peoria circuit court.

The receipts at the Chicago stock yards for the last eight months amount to 1,193,772 cattle, 3,187,490 hogs, and 810,023 sheep. As compared with last year they show an increase of 259,094 cattle, an increase of 214,535 sheep, and a decrease of 92,122 hogs.

On a half mile track at Racine, Wis., Thursday, Jay-Eye-See trotted a mile in 2:17¾, and, had not a strong wind blown directly in the faces of the horse, it is thought he would have covered the distance in 2:15.

The 384 carriers employed by the Chicago postoffice delivered in August 5,197,219 letters, 49,622 registered letters, 255,514 postal cards, and 2,415,910 newspapers, etc. The collections of mail matter for the month were 4,109,640 letters, 982,416 local letters, 315,422 local cards, 1,462,910 mail cards, and 2,312,264 newspapers.

THE RED RIVER VALLEY ROAD.

An Important Statement Made by a Canadian Pacific Official.

MONTREAL, Aug. 30.—President Sir George Stephen, Sir Donald Smith, and vice President and General Manager Van Horne, of the Canadian Pacific railway, returned Monday from a trip over the lines. Speaking with regard to the construction of the MAP SHOWING THE PROPOSED ROAD.

Red River Valley railway, which had been disallowed by the Dominion government, Mr. Van Horne made the following important statement in answer to a question as to the policy of the Canadian Pacific railway toward the scheme: "We are not supposed to pursue any policy at all. That is a question between the Dominion and Manitoba governments. Of course we do not look upon the scheme with favor. We regard it as an unwarranted attack on the Canadian Pacific railroad and as dangerous to the interests of the entire country. The real promoters of that line are annexationists, and its completion will certainly be followed by a demand for the removal of the custom house. The Red River Valley railway in itself could do nobody but the province of Manitoba any harm, as the province must pay for it and support it, but the political consequences of its constructions, I believe, will be most serious. The annexation movement will, of course, first take the form of a movement for commercial union."

Stole Nearly $300,000.

SACO, Me., Sept. 1.—A young Napoleon of finance named Frank C. McNeilly, aged 19, has disappeared from this city with $270,000 in money and securities belonging to the Saco and Biddeford Savings institution, in which he had been employed as clerk. Only $8,500 of the plunder was in money, but $91,000 was in railroad, municipal, and other securities, probably negotiable, while $185,000 of United States registered bonds, constituting the remainder of the "booty," will be worthless luggage to the thief. McNeilly's retirement from the bank under such circumstances is a painful surprise to the confiding officers, who had trusted him implicitly.

THE MARKETS.

CHICAGO, Sept. 3.

Following were the quotations on the board of trade to-day: Wheat—No. 2 September, opened 69½c, closed 69c; October, opened 70⅝c, closed 70⅞; November, opened 72½c closed 72⅝c. Corn—No. 2 September, opened 41c, closed 41c; October, opened 41½c, closed 41⅝c; November, opened 41½c, closed 41⅝c. Oats—No. 2 September, opened 24c, closed 23½c; October, opened 24¼@24c, closed 24¼@24c; November, opened 25½c, closed 25½c. Pork—Year, opened $11.80 bid, closed $11.80; January, opened $12.70, closed $12.40. Lard—September, opened $6.42½, closed $6.40.

Live stock. The following were the prices at the Union stock yards: Hogs—Market opened active and firm, with prices 5c higher; light grades, $5.00@5.45; rough packing, $4.60@5.75; heavy packing and shipping lots, $5.20@5.55.

Produce—Butter—Elgin creamery, 20@22c per lb; select dairy, 17@19c; packing stock, 12½@13c. Eggs—Fresh candled, 13½@14c per doz. Poultry—Chickens, 12c per lb; ducks and turkeys, 8@9c. Potatoes—75@85c per bu. Apples—$1.50@2.00 per bbl.

New York.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.

Wheat—Steady; No. 2 red winter, 80½c; do October, 81c; do November, 82½c. Corn—Dull; No. 2 mixed cash, 51c; do September, 49½c; do October, 50c. Oats—Quiet; No. 2 mixed September, 27½c bid. Rye—Unchanged. Barley—Nominal. Pork—Dull; old mess, $11.00@11.25; new do, $10.50@10.75. Lard—$6.80 September, $6.77, October.

St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 3.

Wheat—Easy; No. 2 red cash, 69½c; September, 69½c; October, 71c; November, 73½c. Corn—Lower; cash, 37¾@38c; September, 38c; October, 38½c; November, 39½c. Oats—Lower; cash, 23½c; September, 23½c; October, 24½; November, 25½c. Whisky—$1.06. Pork—$10.00. Lard—$6.45.

Toledo.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Sept. 3.

Wheat—Quiet and firm; cash and September, 73½c; October, 75½c; November, 77½c; December, 78½c; May, 84½c. Corn—Easy; cash, 44½c; October, 41½c; May, 47½c. Oats—Easy; cash, 26c asked. Clover seed—Lower; cash, $4.40; October, $4.40; November, $4.40; December, $4.50.

Detroit.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 3.

Wheat—No. 1 white cash, 78c asked; No. 2 red cash, 71½c bid; September, 74½c; October, 75½c asked; December, 78½c; May, 84½c. Corn—No. 2, 45c nominal. Oats—No. 2, 20½c; No. 2 white, 23½c.

Milwaukee.

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 3.

Wheat—Dull; cash, 69½c; October, 70½c. Corn—Higher; No. 3, 48c. Oats—Dull; No. 2 white, 27c. Rye—Steady; No. 1, 45c. Barley—Weak; No. 2, 56c.

A Dressmaker's Experience.

DEAR SIRS: As Mr. Hinchman, the druggist, told you, I am a great friend of your remedy. I have used it at intervals during the past 12 years. It carried me safely through the critical period of change of life without a single sick day and it did great things for me in many ways.

I always recommend it where I see a case that needs it. It always does spiritually, often accomplishing more than you have ever claimed for it, and more than anyone would readily believe who did not personally know the reasons.

I now consider myself well, but I work hard at my business—dressmaking—and when I am tired and nervous a small dose of Zoa Phora quiets and restores me. I always have it by me.

Yours truly,
Mrs. Mary C. Chandler.

Battle Creek, Mich., Feb. 20, 1886.
To H. G. Cochran, Secretary.

A MAN WHO USES COIT'S PAINT NEVER SWEARS

PAINT

By using COIT'S READY MIXED PAINT you can paint your buggy, carriage, or any other vehicle, with a "shine" you never saw on your vehicle before.

YOUR BUGGY

Tip top for Chairs, Lawn Seats, Sash, House Frames, Carpenter's tools, in fact everything that requires paint, for it covers more surface, looks better, lasts longer, and is more durable than any other paint. It is the thing for the boys to use about the house.

FOR ONE DOLLAR

COIT'S HONEST

Are you going to paint this year? If so, don't buy paint containing water or benzine when for the same money you can get pure unadulterated COIT'S 100% PURE PAINT that is guaranteed to be an HONEST, GENUINE LINSEED-OIL PAINT and free from water and benzine. Demand this brand and take no other. Merchants handling it are our agents and authorized by us in writing to warrant it to wear 5 YEARS with 3 COATS or 3 YEARS with 2 COATS. Our Shades are the latest styles used in the East now becoming popular in the West, and so with the times. Try a trial of HONEST PAINT and you will never regret it. This to the wise is sufficient.

HOUSE PAINT

COIT'S FLOOR PAINT Dries with a hard finish. Paint that never dried beyond the sticky point, waste a week, spoil the job, and then swear! Next time call for COIT & CO'S FLOOR PAINT. 4 popular and durable shades, warranted to dry hard as a rock over night. No trouble. No swearing.

Try it and be convinced WONT DRY STICKY

CAUTION

K. S. L.

KING OF THE BLOOD

The Most Thorough Purifier of the Blood Yet Discovered.

Cures all Humors, from a Common Boil to the worst Scrofula.

It purifies the Blood.
It invigorates the Liver.
It regulates the Bowels.
It strengthens the Stomach.
It gives vigor in place of lassitude; cheerfulness in place of gloom, and robust vigor in place of debility.

Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Disordered Liver, Constipation, Nervous Affections, General Debility, in short all the numerous diseases and discomforts caused by impure blood, are speedily conquered by this powerful corrector, the chief and sovereign of all ancient or modern medical discoveries—KING OF THE BLOOD.

Its name is its best description as it is a royal dispenser of the blessings of health and vanquishes the foes that lurk in the blood.

It banishes PIMPLES, SALT RHEUM, SCALY ERUPTIONS, CLERKS, SCALD HEAD, FEVER SORES and all SCROFULOUS DISORDERS.

It checks CONSUMPTION in its early stages. It has frequently cured it when advanced.

It disperses TUMORS like CANCERS without the Surgeon's knife.

It cures DROPSY, general or partial.

It cures FEMALE WEAKNESS and DISEASE.

It reduces in a sure and effectual manner all swellings, external or internal.

It eradicates the effects of Venereal Disease and Mineral Poisons, and establishes a sound vigorous health.

Many certificates, much further information and full directions for using, will be found in the pamphlet, "Treatise on Diseases of the Blood," in which each bottle is wrapped.

Price $1 per bottle, containing 12 ounces, or 50 doses. Sold by all druggists in medicine.

If your druggist does not happen to have it on hand, request him to order a supply of it for you. It will be cheaper than for you to order direct of us, and less trouble.

D. RANSOM, SON & CO., Proprietors,
BUFFALO, N. Y.

WONDERFUL SUCCESS.

ECONOMY IS WEALTH.

All the PATTERNS shown in this paper during the year for nothing to subscribers, or from $1.00 to $4.00 by subscribing for

THE TECUMSEH HERALD

Demorest's Illustrated Monthly Magazine

With Twelve Orders for Cut Paper Patterns of your own selection and of any size.

BOTH PUBLICATIONS, ONE YEAR, $3.00 (THREE DOLLARS).

DEMOREST'S THE BEST Of all the Magazines.

CONTAINING STORIES, POEMS, AND OTHER LITERARY ATTRACTIONS, COMBINING ARTISTIC TASTE, WITH HOUSEHOLD MATTERS.

Illustrated with Original Steel Engravings, Photogravures, Oil Pictures and fine Woodcuts, making it the Model Magazine of America.

Each Magazine contains a supplement entitling the holder to a pattern selected from the fashion sheets, in that issue, and in addition to the regular patterns, a pattern worth from one to five dollars.

DEMOREST'S MONTHLY is justly entitled the World's Model Magazine. The Largest in Form, the Largest in Contents, TWO Dollar Family Magazine. Just will be the Twenty third year of its publication. It is continually improved and is universally acknowledged to be the foremost publication at the head of Family Periodicals. It contains 72 pages, large quarto, and is elegantly printed and fully illustrated. Published by W. Jennings Demorest, New York.

AND BY SPECIAL AGREEMENT COMBINED WITH THE

Tecumseh Herald at $3.00 Per Year.

N. W. AYER & SON
ADVERTISING AGENTS
TIMES BUILDING PHILADELPHIA
Cor. Chestnut and Eighth Sts.
Receive Advertisements for this Paper.
ESTIMATES FOR NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING FREE at Lowest Cash Rates
Send 10c. in stamps for AYER & SON'S MANUAL

RAILROAD TIME TABLES.

L. S. & M. S. RAILROAD.

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	No. 135 Mail	No. 137 Express	No. 139 Accom.
Jackson
Norvell
Manchester
Clinton
Tecumseh
Adrian
Detroit
Toledo

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	Mail	Express	Accom.
Toledo
Detroit
Adrian
Tecumseh
Clinton
Manchester
Norvell
Napoleon
Jackson

Trains on the Jackson, Lansing and Saginaw division leave Jackson for Saginaw and Bay City at 7:45 a. m. and 4:45 p. m. Arrive at Saginaw at 12:05 p. m. and 9:05 p. m. Leave Saginaw for Jackson at 6:45 a. m. and 2:45 p. m. Arrive at Jackson at 11:45 a. m. and 7:45 p. m.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Coupon tickets can now be procured at this station over best routes to all principal cities in the United States.

N. S. SATTERLEE, Agent.
G. H. WORCESTER, Supt. Detroit Division.

Cincinnati, Jackson & Mackinaw R. R.

MICHIGAN DIVISION.

Passenger Time Table.

IN EFFECT AUG. 3, 1884.

GOING EAST. No. 11 Pass.	No. 3 Pass.	No. 1 Pass.	Central Time. STATIONS.	GOING WEST. No. 2 Pass.	No. 4 Pass.	No. 12 Pass.
P. M.	A. M.	P. M.		A. M.	P. M.	A. M.
7 10	10 55	4 15	A. Toledo L.	8 20	8 20	6 00
6 20	10 0	3 30	Dundee	9 10	9 10	7 10
4 35	8 [illegible]	3 31	Britton	9 35	9 31	10 15
4 25	8 [illegible]	3 27	Ridgeway	9 41	9 40	10 35
3 16	8 50	2 [illegible]	Tecumseh	9 55	9 52	11 20
2 25	9 [illegible]	2 02	Tipton	10 05	7 00	11 45
2 00	9 51	2 50	Olsburg	10 22	7 22	12 15
1 30	8 [illegible]	2 25	Devil's Lake	10 44	7 36	12 35
1 15	8 45	2 [illegible]	Addison	7 [illegible]	7 16	1 15
12 10	8 20	2 10	Jerome	1 02	8 02	2 10
11 55	8 14	2 02	Moscow	1 [illegible]	8 14	2 30
11 25	8 [illegible]	1 33	Hillsdale	1 [illegible]	8 25	3 10
10 35	7 55	1 11	Pulaski	1 [illegible]	8 36	3 50
9 10	7 30	1 22	Homer	1 [illegible]	8 57	4 40
9 00	7 20	1 [illegible]	Eckford	12 [illegible]	9 09	5 00
8 20	7 10	12 50	Marshall	12 [illegible]	9 30	6 00
No. 7 P. M.						No. 8 A. M.
7 50			Marshall			7 15
7 40	6 50	12 42	Ceresco	12 42	9 41	7 [illegible]
7 20	6 40	12 22	L. Battle Crk A	1 05	10 00	7 45
A. M.				P. M.	P. M.	A. M.
7 01		12 03	Augusta	1 25		8 12
6 54		11 52	Yorkville	1 35		8 15
6 47		11 46	Richland	1 42		8 25
6 30		11 30	Bostwick	2 00		8 40
6 18		11 15	Mosherville	2 20		9 00
6 [illegible]	P. M.	1 00	Pitsburg	2 30		9 7
5 [illegible]		10 [illegible]	Ensign	2 [illegible]		9 14
5 45		10 [illegible]	Allegan A	2 50		9 25
P. M.		A. M.		P. M.		A. M.

No. 7 and 8 run daily except Sunday between Battle Creek and Allegan.

TRAIN CONNECTIONS.

No. 2 connects with the G. R. & I. at Allegan and at Morrison with the C. & W. M. Ry. for Grand Rapids. Also connects at Battle Creek with the Michigan Central R. R. for points east and west. No. 4 makes close connection at Battle Creek with the Chicago & Western Ry. for points west. At Hillsdale connects with the L. S. & M. S. Ry. for points east and west. At Jackson connects with the M. C. R. R. for points east and west. At Tecumseh connects with the Wabash Ry. for points east and west. At Morenci connects with the T. A. & N. M. at Tecumseh, Adrian and Morenci, Hemor and Morenci with the L. S. & M. S. Ry., and at Battle Creek with the G. T. Ry.

THE NEW SHORT LINE

BETWEEN

CHICAGO & TOLEDO

Connecting at Chicago with the Chicago & Michigan Lake Shore Ry. for points north, and at Jackson & Northern with the Michigan Central for points east and west. At Battle Creek, with the Michigan Central for points east and west. At Hillsdale with the L. S. & M. S. Ry. for points east and west. At Morenci with the T. A. & N. M. Ry. for points north and south. At Tecumseh with the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Ry. for points east and west. At Adrian with the Wabash Ry. for points east and west. At Toledo with the Wabash, Toledo & Detroit, Lake Shore & Michigan Southern, Toledo, Ann Arbor & North Michigan, Toledo & Ohio Central, Detroit, Toledo & Milwaukee, Cincinnati, Jackson & Mackinaw, Toledo, Saginaw & Muskegon, Flint & Pere Marquette, Toledo, Delaware & Grand Trunk Ry. for points east and west.

Through Sleeping Cars between Chicago and Toledo.

Through Tickets to all points east and west can be obtained at the office of the undersigned.

H. B. JOHNSTON,
General Manager.

F. ALLEN,
General Ticket Agent.

A. N. SHAW,
General Passenger Agent.

TAKE THE WABASH ROUTE.

TRAINS GOING EAST.

Atlantic Express, limited ... 7 [illegible] A.M.
Detroit Express ... 10 [illegible] A.M.
Niagara Express ... 3 [illegible] P.M.
New York Limited Express ... 7 [illegible] P.M.
Day Freight ... [illegible]

TRAINS GOING WEST.

St. Louis, Indianapolis & Louisville ... [illegible] A.M.
Chicago & St. Louis Limited Express ... 2 [illegible] P.M.
Adrian Accommodation ... [illegible]
Pacific Express, limited ... [illegible]

Trains marked daily, all others daily except Sunday.

The Limited Express trains stop only for R. R. crossing at Milton.

Tecumseh passengers desiring to travel by the popular Wabash route excellent connections at Adrian, and from there can secure through Pullman sleepers to Boston. Through solid train to New York. Solid through trains to Chicago, making direct connections for all points west and northwest. Through coaches and sleepers to St. Louis, making direct connections for all points in Kansas and the great southwest.

Fast Time, Magnificent Equipment, Latest Designs of Chair, Parlor, Sleeping and Dining Cars on all through trains.

H. D. ARMSTRONG, Mich. Pass. Agt., Jackson, Mich.
WM. F. BRADLEY, Agent, Adrian.
F. CHANDLER, Gen'l Pass. and Ticket Agent, St. Louis, Mo.

The Great English Prescription.

A successful Medicine used over 30 years in thousands of cases. Cures Spermatorrhea, Nervous Weakness, Emissions, Impotency and all diseases caused by abuse, or excess, BEFORE indiscretion, or over exertion. AFTER. Six packages Guaranteed to Cure when all others Fail. Ask your Druggist for The Great English Prescription, take no substitute. One package $1. Six $5 by mail. Write for Pamphlet. Address Eureka Chemical Co., Detroit, Mich.

Sold in Tecumseh by DR. GEO. FERGUSON.

EYESIGHT—SAVE IT!
Use Proper Spectacles.
Nothing [illegible] sight, and never [illegible] be realized by using improper spectacles properly fitted. Send 3 cent stamp for a pamphlet containing [illegible] Address G. TAYLOR BURDEN [illegible] Main St. Newark, [illegible] can learn the exact cost of any proposed line of advertising in American papers by addressing Geo. P. Rowell & Co., Newspaper Advertising Bureau, 10 Spruce St., New York. Send 10cts. for 100-Page Pamphlet.

ADVERTISERS

TEMPERANCE COLUMN.

Edited by a Committee of the W. C. T. U.

HISTORY REPEATING ITSELF

[illegible]

rights. The necessity and promising outcome for National Prohibition, pure and simple, has taken hold of [illegible] people, and nothing short of absolute Prohibition will satisfy them, and woe be to the mercenary and time-serving politicians who stand in the way.

[illegible] promotion of a wholesome outgrowth of purer patriotism and a higher Christian civilization to bless and ennoble every [illegible] and political interest. Then, and not till then, will our country rise to the lofty [illegible] and will then be its perpetuity and its exalted position [illegible] and nature designed for it. [illegible] Monthly for September.

Many Of the good things of life are lost to us alone on account of Dyspepsia. A Dyspepsia Tablet will cure Dyspepsia, Indigestion and Constipation. [illegible] guarantee at 25 and 50 cents. C. A. Wright & Co., Druggists.

[illegible] for a new and improved Liver Pill.

Acker's Blood Elixir is the only Blood Remedy guaranteed. It is a sure cure for Ulcers, Tumors, Syphilitic Poisoning. It purifies the whole system and banishes all Rheumatic and Neuralgic pains. We guarantee it. C. A. Wright & Co., Druggists.

The story is told of an old hunter in Michigan who lost his way in the woods a number of times while the country was new. At length he secured a pocket compass and its use was explained to him by a friend. But shortly afterward he lost his way again and lay out as usual. When found he was asked why he did not travel by the compass. He did not dare! he said. He wanted to go north, and he tried to make the thing point north, but it wasn't no use, I would shake, shake, shake round and point southeast every time.

[illegible] BREAKS.

The [illegible] however [illegible]

Beware of [illegible] with [illegible]

None are [illegible] unless "Dr. Warner's Coraline" is printed on inside of the steel cover.

FOR SALE BY ALL LEADING MERCHANTS.

WARNER BROS., 359 & 361 Broadway, cor. Broome Street, CHICAGO, ILL.

LETTER LIST

Tecumseh,

Remaining uncalled for in the Post Office at Tecumseh, Sept. 8, 1887.

Barnard Mr. Tho.	Field Mrs. J.
Brooks Miss Lou	Mason Master Fred
Cooper Mr. Henry	Thompson [illegible]

Persons calling for letters in the above list will please say "Advertised."

C. A. STACY, P. M.

TIME SCHEDULE.

MAIL CLOSES		MAIL ARRIVES
	L. S. & M. S. Sig'n
7:30 a.m.		7:30 a.m.
1:30 p.m.		1:30 p.m.
	NORTH
10:00 a.m.		9:00 a.m.
4:00 p.m.		3:00 p.m.
	C. J. & M. R. R. West
9:55 a.m.		10:00 a.m.
		5:45 p.m.
	EAST
9:55 a.m.		9:55 a.m.
5:45 p.m.		10:00 a.m.
		5:45 p.m.

C. A. STACY, P. M.

ROYAL

BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity, strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and cannot be sold in competition with the multitude of low test, short weight, alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans. ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO. 106 Wall St. N. Y.

HALL'S

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years Doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure now on the market. It is taken internally in doses from ten drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars, testimonials. Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by druggists, 75c.

CATARRH CURE

COMPLEXION SECRETS VIOLA CREAM

N.Y. & N.E. SHOE MFRS. SELLING AGCY. 182 JEFF. AVE. DETROIT. WRITE FOR PRICE LIST. BOOTS SHOES RUBBERS & FELTS.

FREE PRESS

The Weekly Detroit Free Press and The Household.

The Largest, Best and Cheapest of Weeklies.

Ten Pages of Reading Matter in Infinite Variety.

Each issue is a perfect cyclopedia of information. It contains all the telegraphic news brought down to the hour of going to press, Reliable Market Reports, Local and State News, Crisp, Original Editorials, Pungent Comment, Original Sketches, Stories of Travel and an unequaled selection of General Miscellany and Literary Matter, with THE HOUSEHOLD supplement for the ladies.

The Free Press is the Leading and Representative Paper of Michigan.

THE GREAT ONE DOLLAR $1. E PLURIBUS UNUM 1883 $1. PER YEAR.

FAMILY NEWSPAPER

That it is generally regarded as the most desirable and meritorious of Weeklies is shown by the fact that it has by far the largest circulation of any paper published in Michigan. No well regulated family will be without it. Price, only ONE DOLLAR a year.

SPECIAL BOOK OFFER.

We will send The Weekly Free Press for one year and any one of the Books named, postage paid, on receipt of amount quoted.

Every One His Own Lawyer	$1.80
World's Cyclopedia (illus.)	1.60
Popular History of the Civil War (illus.)	1.50
The Lives of Our Presidents (illus.)	1.50
What Every One Should Know. A Practical Recipe Book	1.50
Everybody's Paint Book; or, How to do Your Own Painting and Decorating	1.50
Allison's Webster's Dictionary and Dictionary of Electricity	1.50

DAILY FREE PRESS, $7.00 a Year. DAILY, 6 times a week, $5.50

SUBSCRIBE NOW—DON'T DELAY.

Liberal terms given for clubs. Send for Premium List and sample Copy. Local agents wanted.

The Free Press Co., Detroit, Mich.

FREE PRESS

WONDERFUL SUCCESS.

ECONOMY IS WEALTH

PATTERNS [illegible]

THE TECUMSEH HERALD

Demorest's Monthly Magazine

BOTH PUBLICATIONS [illegible]

$3.00 THREE DOLLARS

DEMOREST'S [illegible]

[illegible] Published by W. J. Demorest, New York,

AND BY SPECIAL AGREEMENT COMBINED WITH THE

Tecumseh Herald at $3.00 Per Year.

STEKETEE'S NEURALGIA DROPS

A New Discovery. Called Dr. Steketee's Neuralgia Drops.

HAS NEVER FAILED TO CURE.

This remarkable remedy is not only a sure cure for Neuralgia, but also a speedy relief when used as directed in the following diseases:

LOCAL DISCHARGES, or WHITES, ULCERS, SWELLINGS, and INFLAMMATION of the Kidneys or Bowels.

WOMEN

LADIES READ THIS!

"A little Fourteen Month Old."

"Doctors Could Not Help Her."

[illegible] Mich., June 9, 1886.

Mr. [illegible] your Steketee's Neuralgia Drops [illegible] with inflammation and numbness, [illegible] Doctors could not help her [illegible] a sample bottle of your Steketee's Neuralgia Drops cured her. Very truly yours, WILLIAM J. MILLS.

Ask your druggist for Steketee's Neuralgia Drops. If not satisfactory, or druggist I will send it express [illegible] U. S., three bottles for one dollar and fifty cents. For Sale by all Druggists.

MAKE YOUR OWN BITTERS.

A four ounce package of STEKETEE'S DRY HERBS will make one gallon of the best Bitters [illegible] which will cure Indigestion, Pains in the [illegible], Liver and Ague, and acts upon the Kidneys and Bladder, and is the best Tonic known. Can be used with or without spirits. Full directions with each package. By mail, Price only 25 cents. U. S. Stamps taken in payment. Address

GEO. G. STEKETEE,

89 Monroe St., Grand Rapids, Mich.

MENTION THIS PAPER.

ESTATE OF JOSEPH W. GRAY.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee, ss.

At a session of the Probate Court for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office in the City of Adrian, on Monday, the 5th day of September, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven.

Present, Norman Geddes, Judge of Probate.

In the matter of the estate of Joseph W. Gray, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition of Charles Barnard, executor of the last will and testament of said deceased, praying that he has paid the funeral expenses and debts of said deceased, and the expenses of administration on said estate, and is now ready to render his final account as such executor, and praying that said account may be allowed, for an assignment of the residue of said estate in accordance with the provisions of said will, and that he may be discharged and his bond canceled.

It is ordered, that Monday, the 3d day of October next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the examination of said petition and the hearing thereof; and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Probate Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, in said County, and show cause why the prayer of said petitioner should not be granted: And it is further ordered that said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said County, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

NORMAN GEDDES, Judge of Probate.

A True Copy.

A. E. BARNARD, Probate Register. sep8

COMMISSIONERS' NOTICE.

IN the matter of the estate of Henry Mulligan, late of Tecumseh, deceased.

The undersigned, [illegible] appointed by the Judge of Probate for the County of Lenawee, Michigan, commissioners [illegible] claims and demands of all persons against the estate of said deceased, do hereby give notice that we will meet for the purpose at the store of S. F. Hoover, in the village of Tecumseh, Lenawee County, Michigan, on Saturday, the 17th day of September, A. D. 1887, and on Monday, the 17th day of December, A. D. 1887, at 9 o'clock in the forenoon of each of said days, and that six months from the 17th day of September, A. D. 1887, are allowed by the undersigned for the creditors of said deceased to present their claims to us for examination and allowance.

Dated September 17, 1887.

S. FERRY HOOVER, GEORGE W. MALCOLM, Commissioners.

sep8

THE AMERICAN MAGAZINE.

BEAUTIFULLY ILLUSTRATED.

This Magazine portrays American thought and life from ocean to ocean, is filled with pure high-class literature, and can be safely welcomed in any family circle.

PRICE 25c. OR $3 A YEAR BY MAIL.

Sample Copy of current number mailed upon receipt of 25 cts. Back numbers, 15 cts.

Premium List with either.

Address, E. T. ZUZH & SON, Publishers, 150 & 152 Pearl St., N. Y.

THE CELEBRATED "A. P. DICKEY'S" FANNING MILLS

For [illegible] Wheat, Rye, Barley, Oats, Flax, Clover, Timothy, Millet, Corn, Beans, Peas, Potatoes, Onions, Beets, Carrots, Parsnips, Turnips, Cabbage, Sorghum, Broom Corn, Castor Beans, Sunflower Seed, Hemp, Tobacco, Cotton, Rice, Grass Seed, Flax Seed, Buckwheat, Sorghum Seed, Broom Corn Seed, Castor Beans, Sunflower Seed, Hemp Seed, Tobacco Seed, Cotton Seed, Rice Seed, Grass Seed, Flax Seed, Buckwheat Seed

The Tecumseh Herald.

VOL. XXXVIII.—NO 16. TECUMSEH MICHIGAN, THURSDAY MORNING, SEPTEMBER 15, 1887. WHOLE No 1944

600 New CLOAKS
New CLOAKS

Jackets, Newmarkets, Wraps, Plush Sacques, Misses and Children's Garments.

JUST OPENED.

NEW DRESS GOODS

ARRIVING DAILY.

NEW CARPETS.

NEW GOODS IN EVERY DEPARTMENT.
COME AND SEE THEM.

W. & S. W. Anderson & Co's.

'87 For Season of '87

We shall continue to handle the celebrated

GARLAND

STOVES and RANGES.

And the Genuine

ROUND OAK

The unprecedented demand for these justly popular goods renders it almost impossible for the manufacturers to supply the demand. Call early and secure your wants and avoid delay.

SATTERTHWAITE BROS. & BOYD.

Everything on the

BOOM-BOOM

AT THE

GRAND CENTRAL SUPPLY STORE.

GROCERIES,
CROCKERY,
GLASSWARE,
TEAS, SUGARS, SPICE,

PRICES LOWER THAN EVER.

HENRY McCLURE.

E. DeWOLF, Pres. H. M. TEMPLE, Sec'y and Treas. S. W. TEMPLE, Vice Pres. and Gen'l Mgr.

THE OHIO & MICH. COAL & MFG. CO.,

COAL.

LUMBER LATH AND SHINGLES

MANUFACTURERS OF

Doors, Sash, Blinds, Mouldings,

Scroll Work, Turned Work, Modern Interior Finish.

GET ESTIMATES BEFORE BUYING.

OFFICE CORNER R. R. AND SHAWNEE STS.
Yards and Factory on Pearl and Shawnee sts., near L. S. & M. S. Depot.

TECUMSEH, MICH.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

RIDGEWAY RAMBLES.

A little girl came into the village on old Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Smith died Monday morning of [illegible] infantum.

Whooping cough is making its appearance in [illegible] families in the village.

Upwards of twenty took the early train for Toledo to attend the Fair last week Thursday.

James Reynolds of LaSalle was in the village Saturday with a fine load of grapes.

Morris Britton, agent at Milan, was in our little burg last week.

Mrs. Wm. Campbell of St. Johns spent several days with her father, John Housman, and other relatives.

Our old friend and neighbor Rev. Peter Sharp, will occupy the pulpit next Sabbath.

Rev. W. J. Chevalett Tuesday morning to attend conference.

Gerard VanVleet is also attending school at Tecumseh this year.

Ellis Hight and Irving Bush left for the east last week Wednesday, Irving to begin school and Miss Hattie will stop at Saratoga with Mr. and Mrs. Bush who are there for Mr. Bush's health.

Esquire Wattin and wife of Dundee, spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. W. J. Clark.

G. W. Jackson and wife of Tecumseh, called on old friends last week.

W. H. Apter started Monday morning for a visit of several weeks among relatives and friends in Canada, N. Y. State, Pennsylvania and Ohio.

$1.75 will pay the round trip to Chicago during the exposition over the C. J. & M. R. R. leaving here on the flyer at 10 10 P. M.

The attendance at the chicken pie donation was not overly large but an amount of $15.00 and some cents was left by the faithful few, which, with the amounts pledged, puts the society with a new leaf and a clean page to begin a new year with.

Mrs. John Arner spent Thursday and Friday of last week with her old friends, C. T. Bateman and wife, at Toledo.

Our ball team are expecting a game of ball with the West Creek team or Clinton, on our own diamond, this week Saturday afternoon.

There are some, we are informed, who think the Pumpkin pie festival is this week Friday, but that is not so, it will be in the early part of October.

Prof. and Mrs. Huston arrived last Monday and secured rooms of Mrs. Emeline Smith, and started in Weedsville Wednesday morning.

The Hardware firm of Clement & Griffiths late dissolved, the latter buying out his interest to H. J. Williams. The firm will be known hereafter as Cornell & Williams, who are helpless to supply your wants on short notice, and guarantee perfect satisfaction. They will run the tin business in connection with the Hardware. While you are there step in the tin shop and hear some of Frank's jokes while he solds your old pants. Yates, etc.

BETTER SCHOOL

Corn is a drug at [illegible]

Nothing like a [illegible] summer.

I S Gleason has the wall full for a new house.

Mrs. Sarah Dickson went to Ann Arbor last week to spend a few days.

Rev. F. W. Burhans went to Saline last week to spend three days.

Hollinks sugar is [illegible] there.

Rev. Lee Wright, pastor of the Christian church, is going to spend this week with friends in Canada.

Wednesday evening, Sept. 7, Mr. Arthur Lum and Miss Mary Rose were married at the bride's parents in Tecumseh. We [illegible] success and happiness through life.

There were about fifty with took the train at Clinton to Toledo to attend the fair last Thursday.

Some of the boys started to form and organize a second nine here, but it did fail to connect some way.

ONSTEDDONS

Mrs. Mary Barrows, living in the southwest part of town, was found dead in her bed on the morning of Saturday last. Heart disease was the cause.

The Missionary Concert last Sunday evening was not as well attended as it would have been had it not threatened rain. The program was well carried out. The next concert will be at the Rome Center church next Sunday evening.

Onsted is getting to be quite a sporting town. Last Saturday there were two base ball games and a shooting match, Geo. Sugars being the champion shooter, hitting eight birds out of [illegible]. The Cornell base ball club met a defeat on the same day, the score being [illegible] to [illegible]. The Kids drew the largest crowd of spectators.

There will be a trial of skill between ten of the Rome shooters, and the same number of the Onsted shooters on Saturday the 17th at Onsted. Peoria blackbirds will be the game. A good time is expected.

Dennis Bunting and Miss Addie Johnson were married last Sunday, and on Monday evening the boys gave them a musical treat in the shape of an old fashioned tin pan bee.

NORTH EAST FRANKLIN.

Mrs. Ed Winnerell has been entertaining friends from Ohio.

Cassell Eddy was quite sick last week but is now able to be out again.

D. H. Yeomans and wife, and Levi Taylor and son of Liberty, visited recently at R. Taylor's.

Hugh Dougherty and wife are visiting in Jackson.

Tom Noon of Manchester is visiting his brother Joe Cummins. Joe was somewhat unnerved by a broken thumb, for which the "national game" was responsible.

Mary Cummins is teaching in Dist. No. 3. Miss Church is on duty in the Updyke district. Minnie Wisner is home from her school having bought an old fashioned summer term.

Two women this year invaded the sacred precincts of the school meeting in Dist. No. 7. No serious results followed, so far as can be ascertained. If the ladies feel a little lonely they may console themselves remembering how often gentlemen are in the minority at the weekly prayer meeting.

The hurricane that did such damage in Jackson and other places, last week, seems to have sent some of its outriders this way. A large maple at John Bunting's gate was uprooted by the wind and on R. Taylor's farm fences and a number of fruit trees were leveled, while some lively work was done through a narrow strip of the cornfield. We have heard of no other damage.

FRANKLIN FACTS

Farmers are busily engaged getting ready to sow wheat and some a few days ago. Many more will do so this week. Some farmers are getting a good deal more acreage than usual.

A much needed and substantial bridge has been erected on Main st. south of Mrs. Dawson's.

Mrs. E. L. Wisner who was unavoidably detained at home last year by sickness in her family, was with us last week.

The funeral of Hedgeley Knight was attended from his residence at Tipton last Sunday afternoon. Deceased had lingered some years of the great [illegible] which finally ended his life. That he was a man of many friends was evidenced by the very large and interested gathering of friends who set at his last resting place.

Farmers have taken advantage of good weather to commence their husbands' [illegible] and other work. Potatoes are [illegible] and undisturbed with [illegible] Letters [illegible] Many [illegible] and if everything [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] and [illegible] up.

[illegible] Wright [illegible] Methodist church [illegible] Sunday [illegible] Rev. Mr.

THE TECUMSEH HERALD.

Issued Every Thursday Morning

BY S. C. SPACY.

Office in the New HERALD Building, one door East of the Opera House, Tecumseh, Mich

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

One year, cash in advance	$1 50
Six months " "	75
Four months, " "	50

Twenty five cents will be added to the subscription price for every three months that payment may be delayed.

ADVERTISING RATES

Business locals, five cents a line for each insertion.

Special notices, ten cents an inch for each insertion.

Rates in general advertising or even contracts made known at the publishing room.

Entered at the post office at Tecumseh, Michigan, as second class matter.

TECUMSEH, THURSDAY, SEPT. 15

THE POLICY OF HIGH TAXATION.

The Republican Party for the return of the rebel flags was issued with the most excellent purpose and in the most patriotic spirit, but unfortunately it stimulated the appeal to the passions of the war and to the soldier vote, upon which the advocates of the distribution of the surplus rely. Denunciation of "rebels," of which the speeches of Governor FORAKER at Wheeling are the latest illustrations, is all in pursuance of a plan. It is meant to arouse the old war feeling, but it is all in the interest of the policy of retaining the high protective tariff. A tariff upon imports is a tax, but a merely protective tax upon imports is a very difficult one to defend when the revenue is redundant. In order to maintain it without exciting public indignation and protest, the surplus must be reduced, and this can be done either by spending the surplus or by repealing taxes which will leave those upon imports untouched. The latter course is more difficult than the former, because agreement upon details and methods is not easily accomplished. But if the surplus could be abolished by spending it in a way which would have a patriotic aspect, and which for that reason politicians would hesitate to oppose, the high protective tax would be safe.

This is therefore the policy of the high protectionists. The soldier feeling has been kindled in every way, and the soldier vote is to be massed by a promise to secure a general pension bill. The appeal will be made in the name of the country grateful to its heroic defenders. The object will be to maintain a high tariff tax. Every device is utilized to cover the President and his supporters with the odium of sympathy with the rebellion, of preference for rebels, and of hostility to Union veterans. The Grand Army of the Republic is being divided by this course into two political camps. This was shown plainly in the scene at Wheeling when Governor Wison reminded Governor Foraker that "the soldiers who went into the war were not all Republicans," and when some of the marching posts respected the portrait of the President which others insulted. The Republican platforms fan the flame vigorously. The Iowa platform denounces the Administration as unworthy and unpatriotic.

"In its discrimination against and its shameless abuse of Union soldiers, and the constant preference it has shown to the men who fought to destroy the Union; in its despotic use of the executive power to veto bills passed by Congress for the relief of Union soldiers and the DeMoines River land settlers; in its attempts to reverse the verdict of the war by a surrender of the rebel battle flags," etc.

The Pennsylvania platform comes straight to the point:

"The soldiers of the Union are worthy of the lasting gratitude and continued favor of a restored government, and the surplus of the Treasury cannot better be distributed than in the enlargement of the general pension list so as to include all honorably discharged soldiers of the Union army who may be in absolute need of public aid."

Meanwhile the National committee on Pensions of the Grand Army has prepared a bill placing upon the pension list

"all persons who served three months or more in the military or naval service of the United States during the late war of the rebellion, and who have been honorably discharged therefrom and who are now or may hereafter be suffering from mental or physical disability, not the result of their own vicious habits, which totally incapacitate them from the performance of manual labor.

The bill makes three months' service the ground of pension for disability, whether acquired in the service or not, and such a bill, together with the Blair educational bill, would undoubtedly dispose of the surplus, and leave the protective tax untouched. That the country desires or would sustain such a system of taxation is hardly possible. Both bills would be vetoed probably if introduced at the next session, and the question would then be carried to the Presidential election of 1888. So immense an expense would make the proposition necessarily one of the paramount issues of the canvas, and the Republican party would probably ask the support of the country upon a policy of enormous taxation for a general pension bill and for a general educational bill in order to maintain the public protection of certain private interests. That would not be an easy policy to defend before the American people.—Harper's Weekly.

FRAUD IN THE CUSTOM HOUSE.

New York Inspectors Charged with Being Implicated in Smuggling.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—Collector Magone is conducting an investigation into charges made against Gen. Van Schaick, John Pullman and other inspectors. These charges, if sustainted, may lead to the removal of the officials and the presentment of the charges to the grand jury. Last week A. J. Simendinger, said to be in the employ of the hatter of that name, arrived from Europe. In his baggage was a large quantity of hatters' goods and patterns valued at $1,353. The goods were seized and evidence was secured implicating an inspector in an attempt at smuggling. When questioned by the collector, Simendinger became so confused that he made under oath a revelation of his transactions during five years. In 1883, on the steamer Saale, he smuggled in $633 worth of goods; in 1884, on the Adriatic, $83 worth; in 1885, on the City of Brussels, $130 worth, and in 1886 he smuggled in $80 worth. He gave the names of several inspectors to whom he swore he had given bribes. The investigation will soon be completed.

DANIEL MAGONE.

SEPTEMBER CROP REPORT.

The Department of Agriculture's Estimate on Wheat, Corn, Etc.

WASHINGTON CITY, Sept. 10.—The statistical report of the department of agriculture for September, made public Saturday morning, says the average condition of winter and spring wheat when harvested is 82, against 87.8 last year and 72 in 1885. In the spring wheat region Dakota returns 89, a small gain; Minnesota and Wisconsin, 72, Iowa, 74, and Nebraska 76, a slight reduction from last month. The increase of acreage will make the difference still less between the present crop and that of 1886.

The average for rye is 82.9; that of oats, 83.4, against 85.6 last month,—showing slight decline. The average for barley is 85, against 86.2 last month. A reduction in buckwheat has occurred from 90 last month to 80.

There is a further loss in condition of maize from 80.5 to 72.3 per cent., four points lower than last year's crop in September. The memorable crop failure of 1881 was indicated by 60 in September and 66 in October, some improvement having resulted from more favorable conditions. The depreciation is nearly all in the west. The states of the Atlantic coast and those of the gulf, report larger crops than those of last year, already beyond the reach of disaster. In the seven corn surplus states the average of last month was 74, now 64. The figures are: Ohio, 68; Indiana, 64; Illinois, 57; Iowa, 73; Missouri, 67; Kansas, 41; Nebraska, 72. The average of New York and Pennsylvania is 96; of Georgia, 94; of Texas, 88; of Tennessee, 80, and of Kentucky, 60.

LOCKED HER CHILDREN IN.

A Negro Mother Gets Home in Time to Witness the Frequent Result.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Sept. 12.—A special to The Dispatch from Dealsville, twenty miles from here, tells of a horrible cremation which took place there Sunday night. A negro woman locked her four children, the eldest 8 years of age, in her cabin and went to church, when she returned the cabin was on fire. The piteous wails from the little ones within, when roasting to death, were still audible, but nothing could be done to extricate them from the flames, as the roof of the house had fallen in upon them. When the flames had spent their fury the charred remains of all four of the children were found in the debris.

Shot Dead at a Funeral.

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—As Mrs. Henry Seile, of Grosse Point, and a lady companion, were riding in a buggy Sunday afternoon in a funeral procession, about one mile west of that place, a shot, fired by one of a picnic party in the woods by the road side, struck her in the back almost instantly killing her. The procession was instantly broken up, and but for the influence of some cooler heads the picnic party would have been badly used. The party, six men and four women, who it is said were from Chicago, were arrested and locked up at Grosse Point. It is claimed that the party were the worse for liquor, and that they were shooting at a mark in a reckless manner.

THE CRIMINAL CALENDAR.

A scandal resembling in nastiness the famous London exposure of two or three years ago is said to have been discovered at Manchester, N. H. Several prominent business and professional men, and a few girls of ages from 11 to 16 years, are involved in the mess.

In the United States court at Jefferson City, Mo., Wednesday, two of the "Bald Knob" gang were convicted under the ku-klux law for beating, intimidating, and driving away homestead settlers. The gang has been terrorizing half a dozen counties in southern Missouri. Others of its members are to be tried.

After protracted religious exercises, John Thomas Ross, colored, was hanged at Baltimore, Friday. Ross had beaten to death an old white woman named Emily Brown, and sold her body to a medical college.

Friday, in Schenectady, N. Y., Thomas Knight, a molder, fatally shot Ida Wallace, a girl with whom he was talking in a restaurant. He admitted his intention to murder the girl.

Alexander Stanson, an aged citizen of Elgin, Ills., contrived a means of committing suicide Thursday that proved successful. He placed his gun on the railroad track, raised both hammers, attached strings to the triggers, lay down in front of the weapon, and pulled on the cords.

Philip Halfer, a wealthy carpenter of Springfield, Ill., shot himself Friday; he died shortly afterward. A few days ago he was arrested for wife-beating, and became very despondent over the matter. It was said his last marriage was bigamous, and when his first wife learned off it she took poison and died. Halfer, a short time before shooting himself, said his real name was Philip Hogman.

Alpheus Austin's family at Janesville, Wis., had a narrow escape from death by burning late Thursday night. A tramp set fire to the residence, and the flames had such a start when discovered that the inmates of the house had to get out by the roof.

PEOPLE DEMAND PROTECTION—PATENT MEDICINES.

What are they? As a general thing they are prescriptions having been used with great success by old and well read Physicians. Thousands of invalids have been unexpectedly cured by their use and they are the wonder and dread of Physicians and regular colleges in the U. S., so much so, that physicians graduating at Medical colleges are required to discountenance Proprietary Medicines, as through them the country doctor loses his most profitable practice. As a manufacturer of Proprietary Medicines, Dr. G. G. Green of Woodbury, N. J., advocates most cordially, in order to prevent the risk that the sick and afflicted are liable to, almost daily by the use of Patent Medicines put out by inexperienced persons for aggrandizement only, and the employing of inexperienced and incompetent doctors by which almost every village and town is cursed; and men claiming to be doctors who had better be undertakers, experimenting with their patients and robbing them of their money and health,—for the good of the afflicted that our goverment protect its people by making laws to regulate the practice of medicine by better experienced and more thoroughly educated Physicians, and thereby keep up the honor and credit of the profession, also form laws for the recording of recipes of proprietary Medicines, under examination and decision of experienced Chemists and Physicians appointed for that purpose by the Government, before they are licensed for general use. He would most freely place the receipt of Boschee's German Syrup and Green's August Flower under such laws, had he the proper protection, and thereby save the prejudice of the people, and avoid the competition and imitation of worthless medicines.—Copied from the Chicago Mail, Aug. 3, '87.

The Leading-Strings Fallacy.

From the moment a child is born, he is treated on the principle that all his instincts are essentially wrong, that nature must be thwarted and counteracted in every possible way. He is strapped up in a contrivance that he would be glad to exchange for a straight-jacket, kept for hours in a position that prevents him from moving any limb of his body. His first attempts at locomotion are checked; he is put in leading-strings, he is carefully guarded from the out-door world, from the air that would invigorate his lungs; from the sports that would develop his muscles. Hence, the peevishness, awkwardness, and sickliness of our young aristocrats. Poor people have no time to imitate the absurdities of their wealthy neighbors, and their children profit by what the model nurse would undoubtedly call neglect. Indian babies are still better off. They are fed on bull-beef, and kicked around like young dogs; but they are not swaddled, they are not cradled, and not dosed with paregoric; they crawl around naked, and soon learn to keep out of the way; they are happy, they never cry. If we would treat our youngsters in the same way, only substituting kisses and bread for kicks and beef, they would be as happy as kids in a clover field, and moreover they would afterward be hardier and stronger. Every week the newspapers tell us about ladies tumbling down stairs and breaking both arms; boys falling from a fence and fracturing their collar-bones. From what height would a young Comanche have to fall to break such bones—not to mention South-sea Island children and young monkeys? The bones of an infant are plastic; letting it tumble and roll about would harden the bony tissue; guarding it like a piece of brittle crockery makes its limbs as fragile as glass. Christian mothers reproach themselves with neglecting their duty to their children if they do not constantly interfere with their movements, but they forget that in points of physical education Nature herself is such an excellent teacher that the apparent neglect is really a transfer of the pupil to a more efficient school.

IMPORTANT.

When you visit or leave New York City, save Baggage Expressage and carriage Hire and stop at the Grand Union Hotel, opposite Grand Central Depot. Elegant rooms fitted up at a cost of one million dollars, reduced to $1.00 and upwards per day. European plan. Elevator. Restaurant supplied with the best. Horse cars, stages and elevated railroads to all depots. Families can live better for less money at the Grand Union Hotel than at any other first class hotel in the city.

LOST.—"I don't know where, I can't tell when, I don't see how—something of great value to me, and for the return of which I shall be truly thankful, viz.: a good appetite."

FOUND.—"Health and strength, pure blood, an appetite like that of a wolf, regular digestion, all by taking that popular and peculiar medicine, Hood's Sarsaparilla. I want everybody to try it this season." It is sold by all druggists. One hundred doses one dollar.

The editor who saw a lady making for the only seat in the car found himself "crowded out to make room for more interesting matter.

A Great Legacy

to bequeath to your children, is a strong, clean, pure constitution—better than wealth, because it will never prove a curse. You cannot give what you do not possess but mothers will find in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription a wonderful help—correcting all weaknesses, bringing their systems into perfect condition, so that their children, untainted, shall rise up to call them blessed! There is not a druggist in all the land But always Keeps a stock on hand.

"You girls want the earth," said a Trenton father, when one of his daughters asked him for six dollars for a new Jacket. "No, papa," said the ingenious child of twenty, "not the earth—only a new Jersey.

Ladies of the White House have found that their sometimes excessive duties produce a low, weak, tired and tremulous state of the system, and that Iron restores richness and color to the blood, Calisaya bark a natural healthful tone to the digestive organs, and phosphorus mildly stimulates the brain,—all combined in Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic.

The Verdict Unanimous.

W. D. Sult, Druggist, Bippus, Ind., testifies, "I can recommend Electric Bitters as the very best remedy. Every bottle sold has given relief in every case. One man took six bottles, and was cured of Rheumatism of 10 years' standing." Abraham Hare, Druggist, Decatur, Ohio, affirms: "The best selling medicine I have ever handled in my 20 years experience, is Electric Bitters." Thousands of others have added their testimony, so that the verdict is unanimous that Electric Bitters do cure all diseases of the Liver, Kidneys or Blood. Only a half dollar a bottle at

C. A. Wright & Co's

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. The Original LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS. ALWAYS ASK FOR DR. PIERCE'S PELLETS, OR LITTLE SUGAR-COATED PILLS.

Being entirely vegetable, they operate without disturbance to the system, diet, or occupation. Put up in glass vials, hermetically sealed. Always fresh and reliable. As a laxative, alterative, or purgative, these little Pellets give the most perfect satisfaction.

SICK HEADACHE,

Bilious Headache, Dizziness, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the stomach and bowels, are promptly relieved and permanently cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. In explanation of the remedial power of these Pellets over so great a variety of diseases, it may truthfully be said that their action upon the system is universal, not a gland or tissue escaping their sanative influence. Sold by druggists, 25 cents a vial. Manufactured at the Chemical laboratory of WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.

$500 REWARD

is offered by the manufacturers of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, for a case of Chronic Nasal Catarrh which they cannot cure.

SYMPTOMS OF CATARRH. Dull, heavy headache, obstruction of the nasal passages, discharges falling from the head into the throat, sometimes profuse, watery and acrid, at others, thick, tenacious, mucous, purulent, bloody and putrid; the eyes are weak, watery, and inflamed; there is ringing in the ears, deafness, hacking or coughing to clear the throat, expectoration of offensive matter, together with scabs from ulcers; the voice is changed and has a nasal twang; the breath is offensive; smell and taste are impaired; there is a sensation of dizziness, with mental depression, a hacking cough and general debility. Only a few of the above named symptoms are likely to be present in any one case. Thousands of cases annually, without manifesting half of the above symptoms, result in consumption, and end in the grave. No disease is so common, more deceptive or dangerous, or less understood by physicians.

By its mild, soothing, and healing properties, Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures the worst cases of Catarrh, "cold in the head," Coryza, and Catarrhal Headache. Sold by druggists everywhere, 50 cents.

"Untold Agony from Catarrh."

Prof. W. HAUSNER, the famous inventor of Ithaca, N. Y., writes: "Some ten years ago I suffered untold agony from chronic nasal catarrh. My family physician gave me up as incurable, and said I must die. My case was such a bad one, that every day, towards sunset, my voice would become so hoarse I could barely speak above a whisper. Nothing would relieve my coughing and clearing of my throat, almost strangle me. In the morning, Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, in three months, cured me, and the cure has lasted permanently."

"Constantly Hawking and Spitting."

THOMAS J. BUSBY, Esq., Sec. Mut. Life Ins. Co., St. Louis, Mo., writes: "I was a great sufferer from catarrh for many years. At times I could hardly breathe, and was constantly hawking and spitting, and for the last year I could not breathe through the nostrils. I thought nothing could do me good. At last, at my urgent request, I was advised to try Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, and I am now as well as any man. I believe it to be the only sure remedy for catarrh now manufactured, and one has only to give it a fair trial to experience astonishing results and a permanent cure."

Three Bottles Cure Catarrh.

ELI ROBBINS, Bremen P. O., Columbia Co., Pa., says: "My daughter had catarrh when she was five years old, very bad. I saw Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy advertised, and procured a bottle for her, and soon saw that it helped her; a third bottle effected a permanent cure. She is now eighteen years old and sound and hearty."

HARTER'S IRON TONIC

THE ONLY TRUE

Will purify the BLOOD regulate the LIVER and KIDNEYS and RESTORE the HEALTH and VIGOR of YOUTH. Dyspepsia, Want of Appetite, Indigestion, Lack of Strength and Tired Feeling absolutely cured: Bones, muscles and nerves receive new force. Enlivens the mind and supplies Brain Power. Suffering from complaints peculiar to their sex will find in DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC a safe, speedy cure. Gives a clear, healthy complexion. All attempts at counterfeiting only adds to its popularity. Do not experiment—get ORIGINAL AND BEST.

LADIES

Dr. HARTER'S LIVER PILLS Cure Constipation, Liver Complaint and Sick Headache. Sample Dose and Dream Book mailed on receipt of two cents in postage.

THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

Tutt's Pills

stimulates the torpid liver, strengthens the digestive organs, regulates the bowels, and are unequaled as an

ANTI-BILIOUS MEDICINE.

In malarial districts their virtues are widely recognized, as they possess peculiar properties in freeing the system from that poison. Elegantly sugar coated. Dose small. Price, 25 cts.

Sold Everywhere.

Office, 44 Murray St., New York.

We have decided to handle exclusively Pittsburgh CELEBRATED NATURAL GAS WINDOW GLASS which is about equal to French. If your dealer does not keep it, have him do so or order direct of us.

GLASS

N. B. [illegible]

Plate in stock. Orders filled promptly.

Brewster's Pat. Rein Holder

Your lines are where you put them—not under horses' feet. One Agent sold 12 doz. in 6 days; one dealer sold 6 doz. in 10 days. Samples worth $1.50 FREE. Write for terms.

E. E. BREWSTER, Holly, Mich.

Great Bargains

AT

J. S. KINNEY'S!

IN

FURNITURE

OF LATEST STYLES AND BEST WORKMANSHIP.

SUITES of ALL KINDS

Shades, Carpets, Rollers, etc., at very Low Prices for Cash.

FULL LINE OF UNDERTAKING

Wood, Cloth, Metallic Cases, and I have the agency of the new INDISTRUCTABLE MARBLE CASKETS of all kinds, very fine. Prices Reasonable.

TEMPLE, McCLURE & CO.,

Successors to

Wolcott, Temple & Co.,

Wholesale and Retail Dealers in

Lumber, Lath, Shingles, Sash and Doors

AND ALL KINDS OF BUILDING MATERIAL.

Planing, Sawing, Matching to Order

Mill and Yard North of Railroad Depot.

TECUMSEH, MICHIGAN.

R. STEBBINS, Adrian,

Furniture, Carpets, Crockery, Children's Cabs

Picture Frames, Curtains, Fixtures, Etc.

My stock is the LARGEST and best ever shown in Southern Mich., arranged in 12 Ware Rooms covering over 12,000 feet of Flooring in Stebbins' block, and all selected with great care for quality.

It was bought with cash down, enabling me to defy all competition in LOW PRICES for same quality of goods. All goods warranted as represented. I will pay the northern tier of towns to examine our goods and prices.

MY STOCK OF CARPETS IS VERY FINE.

This represents a healthy life, Throughout its various scenes,

Just such a life as they enjoy Who use the Smith's Bile Beans.

Smith's BILE BEANS purify the blood, by acting directly and promptly on the Liver, Skin and Kidneys. They consist of a vegetable combination that has no equal in medical science. They cure Constipation, Malaria, and Dyspepsia, and are a safeguard against all forms of fevers, chills and fever, gall stones, and Bright's disease. Send 4 cents postage for a sample package and test the TRUTH of what we say. Price, 25 cents per bottle. Sold by druggists, mailed to any address, postpaid. DOSE ONE BEAN.

The original Photograph, panel size, of this picture sent on receipt of 10c. in stamps. Address, BILE BEANS, St. Louis, Mo.

J. F. SMITH & CO., PROPRIETORS, ST. LOUIS, MO.

FARMER'S ADVOCATE

THE FARMER'S ADVOCATE is a large, 32 page, 64 column, illustrated weekly agricultural journal, which combines the two publications, the Farmer's Advocate and the Home Magazine, which formerly were issued separately. It is the most complete and best agricultural publication in the world. Its useful and practical articles are worth many times the price of subscription. Its department for the Boys and Girls, Temperance, Miscellaneous Reading, Correspondence, Market Reports, Veterinary, Apiary, Poultry, Dairy, Horticulture, Agriculture, Miscellaneous Selections, Editorial, Home Circle, Hints and Receipts, Prize Essays, Sabbath Reading, Sunday School Lessons, Science, Mechanics, Patents, Law, Medicine, Health, Etc., Etc., Etc., is unsurpassed by any other publication. Subscription price, $1 per annum. Specimen copies free. Address, FARMER'S ADVOCATE, London, Ont., Canada.

A HANDSOME WEDDING, BIRTHDAY OR HOLIDAY PRESENT.

THE WONDERFUL LUBURG CHAIR

Combining a Parlor, Library, Smoking, Reclining or Invalid CHAIR, LOUNGE, BED, or COUCH.

Price $7.00 and up. Send stamp for Catalogue. Exported to all parts of the World.

CHILDREN'S CARRIAGES

All furnished with the Automatic Coach Brake. Lowest Wholesale Prices. Send stamp for Catalogue and Prices.

THE LUBURG MANF'G CO., 146 N. 8th St., Philada.

Toledo Business College

AND SHORT-HAND SCHOOL.

Go to a city for a business education, because business men will patronize home institutions. Board and room $3.00 per week. English Branches, Business Course, Shorthand and Typewriting taught. Fifty-four students have taken positions since August 1, 1886. Special class for young ladies from July 1 to September 1. Circulars free.

M. H. DAVIS, Principal, TOLEDO, O.

KASKINE.

(THE NEW QUININE.)

GIVES
Good Appetite
New Strength
Quiet Nerves
Happy Days
Sweet Sleep.

A POWERFUL TONIC
that the most delicate stomach will bear.
A SPECIFIC FOR MALARIA, RHEUMATISM, NERVOUS PROSTRATION,
And all germ diseases.

THE MOST SCIENTIFIC AND SUCCESSFUL BLOOD PURIFIER. Superior to quinine. Rev. Wm. Lucas, Rector Grace Church, Havana, Ill., writes: "I cordially endorse Kaskine as being just what you claim, an excellent substitute for quinine with none of its bad effects. Mrs. Lucas had a serious form of malaria and was confined to her bed for months. Kaskine put her up and around in a few days, and in a short time cured her."

Living in the malarial districts of Maryland I became a victim of worst forms of malarial fever, drugged myself with quinine and other remedies without avail. I was greatly reduced when I heard of Kaskine. Its curative powers were a medical revelation to me. It cured me and I have not had a return of the troubles. (Prof.) J. D. Bird, B.A., Asst. Chemist, Maryland Agricultural College.

Letters from the above persons, giving full details will be sent on application.

Kaskine is pleasant to take and can be used without special medical advice. $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5.

Sent by mail on receipt of price.

THE KASKINE CO., 51 Warren St., New York

PATENTS F. A. LEHMANN, Washington, D. C. Send for circular.

Try the Largest and Best Equipped PRINTERS' ROLLERS ESTABLISHMENT in the United States.
D. J. REILLY & CO.,
321 and 326 Pearl Street, New York
Prices low. Satisfaction guaranteed. Best references.

DEAFNESS Its causes and a new and successful CURE at your own home by one who was deaf 28 years. Treated by most of the noted specialists without benefit. Cured himself in three months, and since then hundreds of others. Full particulars sent on application.
WM. HIPWELL, No. 41 West 31st St., New York City.

ARE YOU CONSUMPTIVE
Have you Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, Indigestion? Use PARKER'S GINGER TONIC without delay. It has cured many of the worst cases and is the best remedy for all affections of the throat and lungs, and diseases arising from impure blood and exhaustion. The feeble and sick, struggling against disease, and slowly drifting into a grave, will in many cases recover their health by the timely use of Parker's Ginger Tonic, but delay is dangerous. Take it in time. It is invaluable for all pains and disorders of stomach and bowels. 50c. at druggists.

Agric'ltur'l Implement
DEPOT.
C. A. SLAYTON
Is prepared to make lower prices than ever before on first-class farm machinery. My stock is complete, but will only mention a few articles.
PLOWS. SOUTH BEND, BURCH, WIARD, GALE, OLIVER. Walking.
THE CASSADY AND SOLID COMFORT SULKY PLOWS.
Kalamazoo Spring Tooth Harrow,
"ACME" PULVERIZING HARROWS.
CULTIVATORS. Elwood, New Robbins, Albion, Buckeye.
Buckeye, Superior, Monitor, Roller, GRAIN DRILLS
KEMP'S MANURE SPREADER.
Studebaker, Jackson and Flint WAGONS.
GREAT BARGAINS IN Carriages and Platform Spring Wagons.
Headquarters for Lime, Cement, Salt, Coal, Cal. Plaster and Plastering Hair Grain, Flour, Feed, and Field Seeds.

TO PIANO PURCHASERS.
IF YOU WANT TO SAVE MONEY, SEND FOR CATALOGUE OF THE
HARDMAN PIANO
WHICH IS A PHENOMENAL [illegible] SOLD AT HONEST PRICES. [illegible] MODERATE MONTHLY PAYMENTS. [illegible] MOST PERFECT PIANO IN THE WORLD. WRITE FOR PRICES.
DETROIT MUSIC CO. WAREROOMS NOS. 149 & 151 WOODWARD AVE. CHARLES DOTY, HARRY B. WILLIAMS. DETROIT, MICH.
Catalogue of Sheet Music, Musical Merchandise or Band Instruments, mailed free to any address.

Lake Shore & Michigan South Shore & Atlantic R. R.
"THE SOO-MACKINAW SHORT LINE."
The only direct route to Marquette and the iron and copper regions of the upper peninsula of Michigan.
Two through express trains each way daily, making close connections at union depots at all points.
New, Elegant and Commodious
WAGNER PARLOR CARS AND Superb Wagner Sleeping Cars.
Built expressly for this line, on all express trains.
The territory traversed is famous for its EXCELLENT HUNTING AND FISHING.
Tickets for sale at all points via this route. Maps, folders, rates and information, address E. W. ALLEN, General Passenger and Ticket Agent, Marquette, Mich.

THIS PAPER is on file in Philadelphia at the Newspaper Advertising Agency of Messrs. N. W. AYER & SON, our authorized agents.

Tecumseh Herald

TECUMSEH, MICH., SEPT. 15, 1887

MUSIC.

[illegible]
Scoffs we know not thus strangely by it,
Not else to be eyed shall issue a voice,
A low song, calling Fancy, as a friend,
To the green dells in the gay summer time:
And she flits all the way with dancing steps,
Wings have made painters pale, and they go on White as ghosts look at them, and wish call to them
As they leave life's path for the twilight world
Where the dead gather.

—Robert Dale Owen.

JESS.

By H. RIDER HAGGARD,

Author of "King Solomon's Mines," "She," Etc.

What a dreadful thing it would be if the old fool were right after all! Supposing that there were a God, and God were to kill him to-night, and hurry off his soul, if he had one, to some dim place of unending fear! All his superstitions awoke at the thought, and he shivered so violently that the shadow of the shiver caused the outlines of the gigantic form upon the canvas to tremble up and down.

Then, rising with an angry curse, he hastily threw off his outer clothing, and having turned down but not extinguished the rough paraffine lamp, flung himself upon the little camp bedstead, which creaked and groaned beneath his weight like a thing in pain.

Then came silence, only broken by the drip, drip of the rain from the gum leaves overhead and the rattling of the boughs whenever a breath of air stirred them. It was an eerie and depressing night, a night that might well have tried the nerves of any strong man who, wet through and worn out, had been obliged to crouch upon the open and endure it. How much more awful was it then to the unfortunate woman who, half broken hearted, fever stricken and well nigh crazed with suffering of mind and body, waited in it to see murder done! Slowly the minutes passed, and at every raindrop or rustle of a bough her guilty conscience summoned up a host of fears. But by the mere power of her will she kept them down. She would go through with it. Yes, she would go through with it. Surely he must be asleep by now!

They crept up to the tent and placed their ears within two inches of his head. Yes, he was asleep; the sound of his breathing rose and fell with the regularity of an infant's.

Jess turned round and touched her companion upon the shoulder. He did not move, but she felt that his arm was shaking.

"Now," she whispered.

Still he hung back. It was evident to her that the long waiting had taken the courage out of him.

"Be a man," she whispered again, so low that the sound scarcely reached his ears, although her lips were almost touching them, "go, and mind you strike home!"

Then at last she heard him softly draw the great knife from the sheath, and in another second he had glided from her side. Presently she saw the line of light that cut out upon the darkness through the opening of the tent broaden a little, and by that she knew that he was creeping in upon his dreadful errand. Then she turned her head and put her fingers in her ears. But even so she could see a long line of shadow traveling across the skirt of the tent. So she shut her eyes also and waited, sick at heart, for she did not dare move.

Presently—it might have been five minutes or only half a minute afterward, for she had lost count of time, she felt somebody touch her on the arm. It was Jantje.

"Is it done?" she whispered again.

He shook his head and drew her away from the tent. In going her foot caught in one of the guide ropes and shook it slightly.

"I could not do it, missis," he said. "He is asleep and looks just like a child. When I lifted the knife he smiled in his sleep, and all the strength went out of my arm, so that I could not strike. And then before I could get strong again the ghost of the old English woman came and hit me in the back and I ran away."

If a look could have blasted a man, Jantje would assuredly have been blasted then. The man's cowardice made her mad, but while she still choked with wrath a duiker buck, which had come down from its stony home to feed upon the rose bushes, suddenly sprang with a crash almost from her feet, passing away like a gray gleam into the utter darkness.

Jess started and then recovered herself, guessing what it was, but the miserable Hottentot was overcome with terror and fell upon the ground groaning out that it was the ghost of the old Englishwoman. He had dropped the knife as he fell, and Jess, seeing the imminent peril in which they were placed, knelt down, picked it up, and hissed into his ear that if he were not quiet she would kill him.

This pacified him a little, but no earthly power could persuade him to enter thy tent again.

What was to be done? What could she do? For two minutes or more she buried her face in her wet hands and thought wildly and despairingly.

Then a dark and dreadful determination entered her mind. The man Muller should not escape. Bessie should not be sacrificed to him. Rather than that, she would do the deed herself.

Without a word she rose, animated by the tragic agony of her purpose and the force of her despair, and glided toward the tent, the great knife in her hand. Now, ah! all too soon, she was inside of it and stood for a second to allow her eyes to grow accustomed to the light. Presently she began to see, first, the outline of the bed, then the outline of the manly form stretched upon it, then both bed and man distinctly. Jantje had said that he was sleeping like a child. He might have been, now he was not. On the contrary, his face was convulsed like that of one in an extremity of fear, and great beads of sweat stood upon his brow. It was as though he knew his danger, and was yet utterly powerless to avoid it. He lay upon his back. One heavy arm, his left, hung over the side of the bed, the knuckles of the hand resting on the ground; the other was thrown back and his head was pillowed upon it. The clothing had fallen back from his throat and massive chest, which were quite bare.

Jess stood and gazed. "For Bessie's sake, for Bessie's sake!" she murmured, and then, impelled by a force that seemed to move of itself, she crept slowly, slowly, to the right hand side of the bed.

At this moment the man woke, and his opening eyes fell full upon her face. Whatever his dream had been, what he now saw was far more terrible, for bending over him was the ghost of the woman he had murdered in the Vaal! There she was, risen from her river grave, torn, dishevelled, water yet dripping from her hands and hair. Those sunk and marble cheeks, those dreadful flaming eyes could belong to no human being, but only to a spirit. It was the spirit of Jess Croft, the woman he had murdered, come back to tell him that there was a living vengeance and a hell! Their eyes met, and no creature will ever know the agony of terror that he tasted of before the end came. She saw his face sink in and turn ashen gray, while the cold sweat ran from every pore. He was awake, but fear paralyzed him, he could not speak or move.

He was awake, and she could hesitate no more.

HE WAS AWAKE AND SHE COULD HESITATE NO MORE.

He must have seen the flash of the falling steel, and——

She was outside the tent again, the red knife in her hand. She flung the accursed thing from her. That shriek must have awakened every soul within a mile. Already she could faintly hear the stir of men down by the wagon and the patter of Jantje running for his life.

Then she too turned and fled straight up the hill. She knew not whither, she cared not where. None saw her or followed her, the hunt had broken away to the left after Jantje. Her heart was lead and her head a rocking sea of fire, while before her, around her, and behind her yelled all the conscience created furies that run murder to his lair.

On she flew, one sight only before her eyes, one sound only in her ears. On over the hill, far into the rain and night.

CHAPTER XXXIV.

TANTA COETZEE TO THE RESCUE.

After Jess had been set free by the Boers outside Hans Coetzee's place, John was sharply ordered to dismount and off saddle his horse. This he did with the best grace that he could muster, and the horse was tied to a halter and let loose to feed. It was then indicated to him that he was to enter the house, which he also did, closely attended by two of the Boers.

"Are you hungry, rooibaatje?" asked one in English.

John answered that he was.

"Tie his hands behind him, and let us see if he can catch in his mouth, like a dog," suggested one of the gentle youths.

"No, no; make him eat pap with a wooden spoon, like a Kaffir," said another. I will feed him if you have a very long spoon."

Here again was legitimate cause for merriment, but in the end matters were compromised by a lump of biltong and a piece of bread being thrown to him from the other end of the room. He caught them and proceeded to eat, trying to conceal his ravenous hunger as much as possible from the circle of onlookers who clustered round to watch the operation.

Suddenly one of the men remembered about the young fellow whom he had thrown backward off the horse and who was lying very sick in the next room, and suggested that measures of retaliation should be taken, which would undoubtedly have been done had not the elderly Boer who had commanded the party interposed. This man was getting drunk like the others, but fortunately for John he got amiably drunk.

"Let him alone," he said, "let him alone. We will send him to the commandant to-morrow. Frank Muller will know how to deal with him."

John thought to himself that he certainly would.

"Now, for myself," the man went on with a hiccough, "I bear no malice. We have thrashed the British and they have given up the country, so let bygones be bygones, I say. Almighty, yes! I am not proud, not I. If an Englishman takes off his hat to me I shall acknowledge it."

This stayed the fellows off for a while, but presently John's protector went away, and then the others began to get playful. They got their rifles and amused themselves with leveling them at him, and making sham bets as to where they would hit him. John, seeing the emergency, backed his chair well into the corner of the wall and drew his revolver, which fortunately for himself he still had.

"If any man interferes with me, by God, I'll shoot him!" he said, in good English, which they did not fail to understand. Undoubtedly as the evening went on it was only the possession of this revolver and his evident determination to use it that saved his life.

At last things got very bad indeed, so bad that he found it absolutely necessary to keep his eyes continually fixed, now on one and now on another, to prevent their putting a bullet through him unawares. He had twice appealed to the old woman, Hans Coetzee's wife, but she sat in her big chair with a sweet smile upon her fat face and refused to interfere. It is not every day that one gets the chance of seeing a real live English rooibaatje baited like an ant bear on the flat.

Presently, just as John in desperation was making up his mind to begin shooting right and left, the old woman, seeing that matters were getting beyond a joke, came waddling down the room with marvelous activity and threw herself between them.

"There, there," she said, cuffing right and left with her fat fists, "be off with you, every one. I can't have this noise going on here. Come, off you all go, and get the horses into the stable; they will be right away by morning if you trust them to the Kaffirs."

The woman, to John's astonishment and relief, literally bundled the whole tribe of them out of the front door.

"Now then, rooibaatje," said the old lady, briskly, when they had gone, "I like you because you are a brave man and were not afraid when they mobbed you. Also, I don't want to have a mess made upon my floor here, or any noise or shooting. If those men come back and find you here they will first get rather drunker and then kill you, so you had better be off while you get the chance," and she pointed to the door.

"I really am much obliged to you, my aunt," said John, utterly astonished.

"Oh, as to that," she said dryly, "it would be a great pity to kill the last English rooibaatje in the whole British army; they ought to keep you as a curiosity. Here, take a tot of brandy before you go, it is a wet night, and sometimes when you are clear of the Transvaal and remember this business, remember, too, that you owe your life to Tanta Coetzee. But I would not have saved you, not I, if you had not been so plucky. I like a man to be a man. There, be off!"

John poured out and gulped down half a tumblerful of the brandy, and in another moment was outside the house and had slipped off into the night. It was very dark and wet, for the rain clouds had covered up the moon, and he soon realized that any attempt to look for his horse would only end in failure and in his recapture also. The only thing to do was to get away on foot in the direction of Moolfontein as quickly as he could, so off he went down the track across the veld as hard as his stiff legs would take him. He had a ten miles' trudge before him, and with that cheerful acquiescence in circumstances over which he had no control which was one of his characteristics, he set to work to make the best of it. For the first hour or so all went well, and then, to his intense disgust, he discovered that he was off the track, a fact at which anybody who has ever had the pleasure on a dark night of wandering along a so called road on the African veld will scarcely be surprised. After wasting a quarter of an hour or more in a vain attempt to find the path, he struck out boldly for a dark looking mass that loomed in the distance, and which he took to be Moolfontein hill. And so it was, only instead of keeping to the left, when he would have landed up at the house, or rather where the house had stood, he unwittingly bore to the right, and thus went half round the hill before he found out his mistake. Nor would he have found it out then had he not chanced in the mist and darkness to turn into the mouth of the great gorge known as Leuw kloof, where he had once, months before, had an interesting talk with Jess just before she went to Pretoria. It was while he was blundering and stumbling up this gorge that at length the rain ceased and the moon got out, it being then nearly midnight. Its very first rays lit upon one of the extraordinary pillars of balanced bowlders, and by it he recognized the locality. As may be imagined, strong man as he was, John was by this time quite exhausted. For nearly a week he had been traveling incessantly, and for the last two nights he had not only not slept, but had endured a great deal of peril and mental excitement. Had it not been for the brandy Tanta Coetzee had given him she could not have got over the fifteen miles or so of ground he had covered, and now he was quite broken down, and felt that the only thing that he could do, wet through as he was, would be to lie down somewhere and sleep or die as the case might be. Then it was that the little cave near the top of the kloof, the same from which Jess had watched the thunderstorm, came into his recollection. He had been there once with Bessie after their engagement, and she had told him that it was one of Jess' favorite spots.

If he could once reach the cave he would at any rate get shelter and a dry place to lie on. It could not be more than 300 yards away. So he struggled on bravely through the wet grass and over the scattered bowlders, until at last he came to the base of the huge column that had been shattered by the lightning before Jess' eyes.

Thirty paces more and he was in the cave. With a sigh of utter exhaustion he flung himself down upon the rocky floor and was almost instantly buried in a profound sleep.

CHAPTER XXXV.

THE CONCLUSION OF THE MATTER.

When the rain ceased and the moon began to shine, Jess was still fleeing like a wild thing across the plain on the top of the mountain. She felt no sense of exhaustion now or even of weariness; her only idea was to get away, right away somewhere, where she could lose herself and nobody would ever see her again. Presently she came to the top of Leuw Kloof, and in a bewildered way recognized the spot and commenced to descend it. Here was a place where she might lie until she died, for no one ever came there, except now and again some wandering Kaffir herd. On she sprang, from rock to rock, a wild, weird figure, well in keeping with the solemn and titanic sadness of the place.

Twice she fell, once right into the stream, but she took no heed, she did not even seem to feel it. At last she was at the bottom, now creeping like a black dot across the white spaces of moonlight and now swallowed up in the shadow. There before her was the mouth of her little cave, her strength was leaving her at last, and she was fain to creep into it, broken hearted, crazed, and—dying.

"Oh, God, forgive me! God forgive me!" she moaned, as she sank upon the rocky floor. "Bessie, I sinned against you, but I have washed away my sin. I did it for your love, not for myself. I had rather have died than kill him for myself. You will marry John now, and you will never, never know what I did for you. I am going to die, I know that. I am dying. Oh, if I only could see his face once more before I die—before I die!"

Slowly the westering moonlight crept down the blackness of the rock. Now at last it peeped into the little cave and played upon John's sleeping face lying within two feet of her. Her prayer had been granted; there was her lover by her side.

With a start and a great sigh of doubt she saw him. Was he dead? She dragged herself to him on her hands and knees and listened for his breathing, if perchance he still breathed and was not a vision. Then it came strong and slow, the breath of a man in deep sleep.

Should she try to wake him? What for? To tell him she was a murderess and then to let him see her die, for instinct told her that nature was exhausted, and she felt as that she was certainly going—going fast. No, a hundred times, no!

Only she put her hand into her breast and drew out the pass, on the back of which she had written to him, and thrust it between his listless fingers. It should speak to him. Then she leaned over him and watched his sleeping face, a very incarnation of infinite, distracting tenderness and love that is deeper than the grave. And as she watched gradually her feet and legs grew cold and numb, till at length she could feel nothing below her knees. She was dead nearly to the heart.

The rays of the moon faded slowly from the level of the little cave, and John's face grew dark to her darkening sight. She bent down and kissed him once, twice, thrice.

Then at last the end came. There was a great flashing of light before her eyes, and the roaring as of a thousand seas within her ears, and her head sank gently on her lover's breast as on a pillow; and there she died and passed upward toward the wider life and larger liberty, or perchance downward into the depths of an eternal sleep.

Poor dark eyed, deep hearted Jess! Thus was the fruition of her love and this her bridal bed.

It was done. She had gone, taking with her the secret of her self sacrifice and crime, and the night wind in moaning amid the rocks sang their requiem over her. Here she first had learned her love, and here she closed its book.

She might have been a great, and good woman. She might even have been a happy woman. But fate had ordained it otherwise. Women such as she are rarely happy in the world. It is not well to stake all one's fortune on a throw and lack the craft to load the dice. Well, her troubles are done with. "Think gently of her" and let her pass in peace.

The hours grew on toward the morning, but John, the dead face of the woman he had loved still pillowed on his breast, neither dreamed nor woke. There was a strange and dreadful irony in the situation, and one which sometimes finds a counterpart in our waking life, but still the man slept and the dead woman lay till the night turned into the morning and the world woke as usual. The sunbeams slid down to the cave and played indifferently upon the ashen face and tangled curls and on the broad chest of the living peeped round the rocky edge and manifested no surprise, only indignation, at the intrusion of humanity, dead or alive, into his dominions. Yes, the world woke up as usual, and reeked not and troubled not because Jess was dead.

It was so accustomed to such sights.

And at last John woke up too. He stretched his arms and yawned, and then for the first time became aware of the weight upon his breast. He glanced down and saw dimly at first, then more clearly.

There are some things into which it is wisest not to pry, and one of them is the first agony of a strong man's grief.

Happy was it for him that his brain did not give way in that first lonely hour of loneliness despair. But he lived through it, as we do live through such things, and was none and sound after it, though it left its mark upon his life.

Two hours later a gaunt, haggard figure came stumbling down the hillside toward the site of Moolfontein, bearing something in his arms. The whole place was in commotion. Here and there were knots of Boers talking excitedly, who, when they saw the man coming hurried up to see who it was and what he carried. But when they knew they fell back awed and without a word, and he, too, passed through them without a word. For a moment he hesitated, realizing that the house was burned down, and then turned into the wagon shed and laid his burden down upon the saw bench on which Frank Muller had sat as judge upon the previous day.

Then at last he spoke in a hoarse voice, "Where is the old man?" One of them pointed to the door of the little room.

"Open it!" he said, so fiercely that they again fell back and obeyed him without a word.

"John! John!" cried Silas Croft. "Thank God you have come back to us from the dead!" and, trembling with joy and surprise, he would have fallen upon his neck.

"Hush!" he answered; "I have brought the dead with me."

And he led him to where she lay.

During the day the Boers all went and left them alone. Now that Frank Muller was dead there was no thought among them of carrying out the sentence upon their old neighbor. Besides, there was no warrant for the execution, even had they desired so to do, for their commandant had died leaving it unsigned. So they held a sort of informal inquest upon their leader's body, and then buried him in the little graveyard that was planted with the four red gums, one at each corner, and walled in on the hillside at the back of where the house had stood. Rather than be at the pains of hollowing out another they buried him in the very grave that he had caused to be dug to receive the body of Silas Croft.

Who had murdered Frank Muller was and remains a mystery among them to this day. The knife was identified by the natives about the farm as belonging to the Hottentot Jantje, and a Hottentot was seen running from the place of the dead and hunted for some way, but could not be caught or heard of again. Therefore many of them are of the opinion that he is the guilty man. Others, again, believes that the crime rests upon the shoulders of the villainous one eyed Kaffir, Hendrik, his own servant, who had also mysteriously vanished. But as they have never found either of them, and are not likely to the point remains a moot one. Nor, indeed, did they take any great pains to hunt for them. Frank Muller was not a popular character, and the fact of a man coming to a mysterious end does not produce any great sensation among a rough people and in rough times.

On the following day old Silas Croft, Bessie and John Nel also buried their dead in the little graveyard on the hillside, and there she lies, some ten feet of earth only between her and the man on whom she was the instrument of vengeance. But they never knew that, or even guessed it. They never even knew that she had been near Moolfontein on that awful night. Nobody knew it except Jantje, and Jantje, haunted by the footfall of the pursuing Boers, was gone from the ken of the white man far into the wilds of Central Africa.

"John," said the old man, when they had filled in the grave, "this is no country for Englishmen. Let us go home to England." John bowed his head in assent. Fortunately the means were not wanting, although they were practically ruined, for the £1,000 he had paid to Silas for a third interest in the farm still lay, together with another £250, in the Standard bank at Newcastle, in Natal.

And so in due course they went.

And now what more is there to tell? Jess, to those who read what has been written as it is meant to be read, was the soul of it all, and Jess is dead. It is useless to set a lifeless thing upon its feet, rather let us strive to follow the soarings of the spirit. Jess is dead and her story at an end.

One word more. After some difficulty John Nel, within three months of his arrival in England, got employment as a land agent to a large estate in Rutlandshire, which position he fills to this day, with credit to himself and such advantage to the property as can be expected nowadays. And so, in due course, became the beloved husband of sweet Bessie Croft, and on the whole may be considered a happy man. At times, however, a sorrow of which his wife knows nothing gets the better of him, and for a while he is not himself.

He is not a man much given to sentiment or speculation, but sometimes when his day's work is done and he strays down to his garden gate and looks out at the dim and peaceful English landscape below, and then at the wild, star strewn heavens above, he wonders if the hour will ever come when he will once more see those dark and passionate eyes and hear that sweet remembered voice.

For he feels as near to his lost love now that she is dead as he did when she was yet alive, and from time to time he seems to clearly know that if there prove to be an individual future for us struggling mortals he will find Jess waiting to greet him at its gates.

THE END.

Salt a Cure for Falling Hair.

"I am very glad of the opportunity, given me by the query to thank 'Notes and Queries' for the recommendation of dry salt as a cure for falling hair. My hair had come out frightfully for several months, so that I dreaded touching it with a brush. Thinking that salt could do no harm, anyway, and remembering the benefit always derived from sea air and bathing, I tried it, and was surprised at the result, for after three applications—putting on at night and brushing and shaking out in the morning—not one hair came out with the most vigorous brushing. I have used it three or four times a week since the middle of November, and notice a perceptible thickening of my hair and no disagreeable results whatever. The treatment might not be so beneficial to every one, of course, but I have written this fully, feeling that I could hardly say too much in praise of what has been so successful with myself."—Boston Transcript.

I have been a periodical sufferer from hay fever (a most annoying and loathsome affliction) since the summer of 1879, and until I used Ely's Cream Balm was never able to find any relief until cold weather. I can truthfully say that Cream Balm cured me. I regard it as of great value and would not be without it during the hay fever season.—L. M. Georgia, Binghamton, N. Y.

I was afflicted with hay fever for seven years. Ely's Cream Balm cured me entirely. H. D. Callihan, I. & St. L. R. R., Terre Haute, Ind.

The story is told of an old hunter, in Michigan, who lost his way in the woods a number of times while the country was new. At length he secured a pocket compass and its use was explained to him by a friend. But shortly afterward he lost his way again and lay out as usual. When found he was asked why he did not travel by the compass. He did not dare, he said. He wanted to go north, and he "tried to make the thing point north, but it wasn't no use, 'twould shake, shake, shake round and point southeast every time."

Give Them A Chance

That is to say, your lungs. Also all your breathing machinery. Very wonderful machinery it is. Not only the larger air-passages, but the thousands of little tubes and cavities leading from them.

When these are clogged and choked with matter which ought not to be there, your lungs cannot half do their work. And what they do, they cannot do well.

Call it cold, cough, croup, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption or any of the family of throat and nose and head and lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be got rid of. There is just one sure way to get rid of them. That is to take Boschee's German Syrup, which any druggist will sell you at 75 cents a bottle. Even if every thing else has failed you, you may depend upon this for certain.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is a peculiar medicine, and is carefully prepared by competent pharmacists. The combination and proportion of Sarsaparilla, Dandelion, Mandrake, Yellow Dock, and other remedial agents is exclusively peculiar to Hood's Sarsaparilla, giving it strength and curative power superior to other preparations. A trial will convince you of its great medicinal value. Hood's Sarsaparilla creates and sharpens the appetite, invigorates the digestion, and gives strength to every organ of the body. It cures the most severe cases of scrofula, salt rheum, boils, pimples, and all other humors caused by impure blood, Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Headache, Kidney and Liver Complaints, Catarrh, Rheumatism, and that extreme tired feeling.

Purifies the Blood

"Hood's Sarsaparilla has helped me more for catarrh and hoarseness than anything else I ever took." A. BATE, Syracuse, N. Y.

Creates an Appetite

"I used Hood's Sarsaparilla [illegible] blood and to overcome my dyspepsia. It gave me good appetite and seemed to invigorate me." E. M. HALE, Lima, Ohio.

"I took Hood's Sarsaparilla for scrofulous humor, and it began to act in a few days. It cured the humor, and did much more than anything else. It cured the humor, and built me up, toned up the whole body and gave me new life." J. F. NIXON, Concord.

Send for book giving statements of cures.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. Hood & Co., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

FREE PRESS

Detroit Free Press

and The Household.

The Largest, Best and Cheapest of Weeklies.

Ten Pages of Reading Matter in Infinite Variety.

Each issue is a perfect cyclopedia of information. It contains all the telegraphic news, brought down to the hour of going to press. Reliable Crop, Market, Local and State News, Original Editorials, Spicy Event Comments, Original Sketches, Stories of Travel, Science, Industry and Art, Miscellany and Literary Matter, General Miscellany and Choice Selections of Ladies. The Free Press is the Leading and Representative Paper of Michigan.

THE GREAT

ONE DOLLAR PER YEAR.

FAMILY NEWSPAPER

That it is generally regarded as the most desirable and meritorious of Weeklies is shown by the fact that it has by far the largest circulation of any paper published in Michigan. No well regulated family will be without it. Price, only ONE DOLLAR a year.

SPECIAL BOOK OFFER.

We will send The Weekly Free Press for one year and any one of the Books named, postage paid, on receipt of amount quoted.

Every One His Own Lawyer	$1.50
World's Cyclopedia (illus.)	1.00
Popular History of the Civil War (illus)	1.50
The Lives of Our Presidents (illus.)	1.50
What Every One Should Know. A Practical Recipe Book	1.50
Everybody's Paint Book; or, How to Do Your Own Painting and Decorating	1.50
Allison's Webster's Dictionary and Dictionary of Electricity	1.50

DAILY FREE PRESS, $7.00 a Year. DAILY, 5 times a week, $5.00.

SUBSCRIBE NOW—DON'T DELAY.

Premiums given for clubs. Send for Premium List and Sample Copy. Local agents wanted.

The Free Press Co., Detroit, Mich.

FREE PRESS

Tecumseh Herald

TECUMSEH, MICH., SEPT. 15, 1887.

[illegible]

A separate entry could be given to each day's events in recreation [illegible] Bay View was never so crowded as this season and I am not surprised. The very respectable [illegible] are the supreme purpose of life [illegible] and to spend a few days at Bay View is a delightful change from the hot, dusty, fatiguing life of the metropolis. Here [illegible] Bay View is a place where rest and recreation are enjoyed with opportunities for organized work. I think Bay View is answering this desired end most successfully. It is a place I wish everyone could visit. I am now so late that I can only mention, although [illegible] cottages are still [illegible] and the [illegible] for next season and I promise [illegible] Bay View will never be [illegible] Coming upon [illegible] Bay [illegible] & Indiana railroad [illegible] and after passing [illegible] Pe[illegible] the train cut [illegible] quarter [illegible] Bay View, with its pretty [illegible] Wood [illegible] Here one finds every [illegible] to his delight [illegible] and cool, inviting [illegible] fragrant with the perfumes of cedar and hemlock [illegible] refreshing pleasures and special safety. A [illegible] pretty cluster of rustic cottages [illegible] the shore of the bay, and the far-reaching streams in the state are [illegible] minutes distant. Open summer trains and swift steamers are going and coming at all hours, and the day finishes a round of excursions, sailing, rowing and bathing, or one may lazily swing in his hammock in the shade and realize the mellowed and delicious happiness of the [illegible] spot at Bay View. In the season which actually begins about July 4th with the Camp Meeting and ends a month later with the Assembly, the resort is thronged with the good, delightful people in the land. Each season has added to the fame of Bay View and this has been the most prosperous in all its history. In almost every particular it has been 100 per cent. larger than last year. Nor is the advance to stop, for 124 lots have been bought, on which by terms of sale cottages must be built within one year. Over fifty were built this year and 155 families joined the association. No more convincing proof is needed of its recognized advantages and a faith in its future.

During the Assembly period life and enthusiasm reach their highest mark. Old resorters, long in advance, pass to be here then, if at no other time. Strangers will better understand the plan and rare delights of an Assembly from a brief rehearsal of [illegible] and board. [illegible] schools in charge of eminent educators and the platform is graced by the most brilliant talent money can secure. What delightful evenings were those when H. H. Ragan, the stereopticon lecturer, took us about Paris through Picturesque Belgium and up the Rhine through Switzerland. We heard the Schubert quartet's matchless singing, listened to the polished lectures of Wallace Bruce and Homer B. Sprague, attended grand concerts given by the Assembly Chorus, gifted soloists and virtuosos often heard. S. S. Hamill and other famous readers sat under the preaching of Dr. W. W. Ramsey and Dr. A. A. Willetts, and never tired of hearing Bishop Hewitt Miller, the venerable Dean Wright, the cultivated Dr. Fallows and the manly Dr. Wilkins. A three-days Missionary Congress brought the eminent Dr. Pierson, Robert P. Wilder and W. E. Blackstone. On W. C. T. U. Day we heard Mrs. Frances E. Willard, Miss Annie Slade and Mrs. Matilda B. Carse. Two Denominational Days gave us interesting Congregational, Methodist, Presbyterian and Baptist programs. Sweet vesper services, brilliant receptions, music and mirth have enriched those delightful assembly days, and every night when I retired it was with a happy sense that a day of rare privilege had been spent.

TEMPERANCE COLUMN.

Edited by a Committee of the W. C. T. U.

ST. JOHN BEFORE THE STUDENTS.

Governor St. John visited Metropolitan Business College of Chicago on [illegible] and addressed the students [illegible] of the place. Prof. H. M. Powers, [illegible]

This college is located in the very heart of the city, and has an average attendance of [illegible] students. Prof. Powers, the president of the institution, who is a perfect gentleman of the highest character, is ably assisted with [illegible] professors and teachers, all of whom are enthusiastically devoted to the welfare of the students under their charge.

Every branch of practical business is intelligently taught in this institution. Among the more prominent are banking, railroading, real estate, general agency and insurance.

The short hand department is under the efficient management of our friend and fellow Prohibition worker, Prof. J. R. Price. About sixty young ladies and gentlemen are in this department. Mr. Price informs us that about 200 of his pupils now hold positions in the city, and that he has calls for young men faster than he can graduate them.

The moral tone of this institution is excellent.

A more intelligent hard working body of students we have seldom seen in any institution. They are a class of young ladies and gentlemen who appreciate their advantages and are doing their utmost to fit themselves for practical life.

After conducting the Governor through the institution, the pupils were all called to the main hall, and the Governor addressed them as follows.

EX-GOVERNOR ST. JOHN'S SPEECH.

The young man or young woman who makes an honest living will have to work for it. It matters not whether it be by the use of the muscles or brain, it is work all the same.

No young man or young woman can succeed in the world without capital. I don't mean by that that you must have so many dollars in order to win success, for you may start two young men out to-day, to struggle in the battle of life, one with $100,000, without a moral character, and the other with a good moral character and without a penny, each equal in education and in ten years time, the boy who starts out with a good character and without a penny, will have more money and a better standing in the community than will the boy who started with $100,000, but without a character. You show me a young man who is honest, upright, sober and industrious, and I will show you a young man who will not have to hunt for a situation; situations are looking for just that kind of young men.

Let me say to you, that those who desire to employ a young man who is worthy to be trusted, will to find him, and you will find that there is no capital for you in a saloon. (Applause.) Pardon me if I suggest further, that there is more capital, more to recommend a young man in honest hard day's work than there is in all the cigars in Chicago. Remember boys, that there is no manhood, no intellectual force, no moral power in a "two for a nickel" cigar. (Applause.) and remember young women, that there is no capital in a drunken husband; that there is no capital in a young man simply because he smokes and chews tobacco.

NEVER GO TO A SALOON

You young women ought to apply the same rule to the young men of this country, that they

APPLY TO YOU.

Remember, that there is not a young man in the state of Illinois who would select a young woman for a wife if he saw her go into a saloon; there is not a young man in Chicago who would marry a young woman if he saw her going down the street puffing a cigarette or cigar. (Applause.) Now then, if your young women will say that you will marry no young man who visits saloons, your sweetheart will not go there; if you apply the same rule about tobacco that you intend to apply to saloons, he will quit smoking and chewing. If he don't, he is not worthy to be your husband, for if he thinks more of tobacco and beer than he does of you, it's a blessed thing that you find it out before you are married.

Capital, young men and women, that capital which is returning and insures success in life, is not to be measured by the size of your black account; it is to be measured by a life of honesty, sobriety and

PURITY OF CHARACTER.

For remember, that he or she who lives for this world alone and what there is in it, lives for but very little, he or she who never looks beyond this world, has but little to live for, because all we accomplish here, dies and is forgotten by men, but if we lay up that capital which will not be destroyed, that capital which shall live forever, we must base our faith, we must have our actions governed by Him who has the power, when we pass from this earth, to give us life eternal. After all, he or she is rich in the truest sense of the term, who builds, not so much for this world, but who builds for the world to come.

Just one word to you, young men. I ask you to make a promise this afternoon. I don't ask you to put that pledge in writing, but engrave it upon your hearts, and that is, that when you are tempted to go into a saloon or other evil place, before you enter

STOP AND THINK

As you ask the question, what would God have me do now? If your thoughts never reach so high as God, think, boys, of that one who, dying, the Saviour, should be dear to the heart of every young man—think of mother. Think of her whose prayers follow you wherever you go; think of her who would lay down her life in your defense, and ask yourself the question, "What would mother have me do now?" and if you are governed by what your conscience tells you your mother would have you do, you will never enter a saloon, you will NEVER BECOME A DRUNKARD.

Remember, young man, that going into these evil places causes mother to weep, and God counts her tears, and he counts them against you, and you will have them to answer for.

I am here to speak of saloons and their evils; I am not here to speak unkindly of the man who keeps the saloon, for I say to you frankly that in my judgment he is as good as the law which authorizes the business; and, morally, the man who keeps the saloon and the law which authorizes him to keep it, is as good in the sight of God as the church deacon who votes for the law. (Applause.) Now, I thank you, young men and women, for the opportunity of speaking to you thus briefly. I congratulate you upon this institution. It is accomplishing a great work for the State and nation. It sends out a good influence to help pave the way for a useful citizenship, and I trust as I bid you good-bye that God will bless you, and that he will give you strength to carry you through your studies here, and that he may help you to go out into the world determined that your life shall be

SPOTLESS AND PURE.

You are just starting out in the battle of life. Have moral courage. It matters not what opposition confronts you; it matters not what others may say about you. Stand up at all times and under all circumstances and do your duty to God, to your manhood, true to your home, to your native land. (Applause.)

CLOTHING!

Clothing! Clothing!

FALL AND WINTER OF '87 & '88.

STRONG & McNAIR

Are in daily receipt of new and seasonable goods of every variety of style and quality.

1000 Suits just Received.

New Cloths, New Hats, New Underwear, Everything New.

The Largest Assortment in the market. We cannot be undersold. No trouble to show goods.

STRONG & McNAIR.

NEW BEDROOM SUITS
PARLOR SUITS

Patent Rockers, Reed Rockers, New Couches,

And a big stock of Fine and Medium

FURNITURE!

I invite all who are in want of good Furniture to look through my rooms, examine goods and notice the low prices. Remember, I have not moved, as I do not still occupy the largest store on the street of the last 13 years. You are told I don't enjoy the business for want of room. THAT IS SO.

Undertaking a Specialty!

Night Calls, Day Calls, and all kinds of calls promptly attended to. Best styles of Caskets in stock, and something entirely new for the trade.

WM. McCOWEN.

UNION HALL!

STORE.

THE OLD OLD PALACE CLOTHING HOUSE

Has been renovated and filled with an immense stock of

FALL AND WINTER CLOTHING.

FOR MEN, BOYS, AND CHILDREN, AND

GENTS FURNISHING GOODS
FURNISHING GOODS

HATS, CAPS, GLOVES, ETC.

We are Offering MONUMENTAL BARGAINS

IN EVERY LINE OF GOODS.

An Immense Variety in all Departments

The Leading Novelties and Standard Styles of the Season.
Prices the Lowest ever known for First-class Goods.

There will be No Hard Times

IF YOU BUY YOUR CLOTHING OF

GEORGE HEESEN.

Union Hall Block, Tecumseh.

[illegible] Fair, Sept. 19, 20, 21, 22 and 23, 1887. Probably the most interesting Fair ever held in Michigan will be held this year at Jackson. The management has not only taken extraordinary pains to perfect features of the Fair which always have been of great interest, but has added many new ones which will no doubt be greatly appreciated. In view of the fact that great numbers of people will come to Jackson to the Fair will take advantage of the opportunity to do some trading, we have purchased one of the largest stocks of Dry Goods of every description which we have ever had, and particularly so in Dress Goods, Silks and Velvets. We need not mention here how, or why, we are enabled to sell the same qualities at much lower prices than other merchants. It is generally known that for years past we have been the largest handlers of Dry Goods in Central Michigan. An examination of our stock this season will satisfy everybody, who avails themselves of it, that we are very justly entitled to the claim we make of: Selling First class Dry Goods at Lower Prices than any house in Central Michigan" and we have no doubt but that State Fair Visitors will find that it will repay them well to postpone their fall trading until they have looked our stock over. We fully appreciate the fact of the shortage of crops this season and the consequent scarcity of money, and we have shaped everything so that your dollars will go farther for dry goods than they ever did before. For the benefit of those who do not know how our business is conducted, we may say No goods are sold by us except for cash on the spot. This in itself is one reason why we do sell cheaper than others. You will readily see the force of this and other reasons in the prices we will make this fall.

Very Respectfully,

TROMBLY BROS.

153 Main St., Jackson, Mich.

N. B. Our stock of ladies' and children's shawls and every description of wraps, jackets etc. will be found very attractive both in style and prices.

Living Witnesses!

Ask any one who has used Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets as to their merits. They will tell you for pimples, blotches and eruptions disappear, that constipation, that breeder of disorders, is relieved, that the appetite is restored; that the whole system is renovated and regulated by your first conception by those little sugar-coated wonders. Being purely vegetable they are perfectly harmless, being composed of concentrated, active ingredients, they are powerful. Purge and purify the system and disease will be unknown. Of all druggists.

Notwithstanding all the strikes and lockouts, the wages of sin have not been cut down.

It is so.

That, we are daily guaranteeing Kemp's Sarsaparilla to the people. After taking three-fourths of a bottle without effect, we will refund the money. It is the greatest and best remedy in the market for cleansing the blood and giving you a new lease of life. A well known business man informs us he has gained 8 pounds on two bottles of this Sarsaparilla. Price 1.00. For sale by Baker & Hall.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

[illegible] A very desirable house, with [illegible] and soft water in the kitchen, good [illegible] to a reliable par- [illegible] other need apply. R. MORSELEY [illegible] R. R. and Logan sts.

[illegible] PAINTING and paper hanging [illegible]

[illegible] Three second hand sewing machines. Singer sixth drawer, Wheeler & Wilson [illegible] Iowa price. Purchased at sheriff's sale. Will be sold cheap for cash. [illegible] P. SPARKS.

[illegible] FOR SALE. A good [illegible] for sale. ABSAL WALKER.

[illegible] WANTED. The person who [illegible] the week, as head or traveling [illegible] nursery stock. Should apply [illegible] E. C. STORY, Nurseryman, [illegible] N. Y. No experience is necessary [illegible] is furnished free. Steady [illegible] and liberal wages guaranteed to the right parties. [illegible]

WANTED. Four 15 good industrious girls to work in paper and cigar boxes. Will pay [illegible] wages. Steady employment. [illegible] St., south of W. C. R. R. by bridge. NOLL & BLESSING.

FOR SALE CHEAP. The residence formerly occupied by Nathan Morse on Ottawa [illegible] is offered to settle the estate. L. B. WOOD, Executor.

[illegible] RAMS for sale or to be fed and registered. ELLIOTT GRAY.

[illegible] WHEAT. I have a quantity of very [illegible] white Russian wheat for seed. [illegible] any person sending bags to put it in [illegible] bushel. Sample of the wheat at C. [illegible] ALEX. S. FERRARD, Hosmer, Mich.

FARM FOR SALE. I offer my farm in Raisin for sale. It is 40 rods, with good build[illegible] and orchard. Will be sold at a bargain. Call on the premises or at the HERALD office [illegible] GEO. W. SLAUGHTER.

[illegible] BUSHELS OF APPLES wanted at the Tecumseh Fruit [illegible] Highest price paid. Inquire of Geo. Roesen. [illegible] HEESEN.

FOR SALE. I have for sale 60 acres of timber land situated in Madison one of the [illegible] Railways. Parties desiring to buy may find it a bargain. Call at the HERALD office for further information, or address [illegible] Geo. Table, Tecumseh.

TAKE NOTICE. Having decided to move to Tecumseh, I will be greatly obliged if those indebted to me will call at the Shoe Store and make a settlement. Dated Sept. 1st, 1887. E. B. HOUSE.

FOR SALE. A single cutter cheap if taken at once. Enquire on the premises of E. C. TEPPLE.

FOR SALE. The property opposite the Herald office now used as a saloon and also the house and lot next north [illegible] Tecumseh Factory. The title to the [illegible] is all right, and terms and price will be made satisfactory to the purchaser. For particulars inquire at HERALD OFFICE.

FOR SALE. I offer my place for sale cheap. [illegible] west of Abner Wilson's farm on [illegible] in Tecumseh. Good house [illegible] acres of land. For price [illegible] Abner Wilson or on the premises. Household goods [illegible] WILLIAM SMITH.

[illegible] SCUFFLERS. An indispensable [illegible] and gardeners for all seasons. [illegible] Cultivators. Sold from best [illegible] work. W. F. DEWING, Tecumseh, Mich.

WANTED. One agent in each of the following counties, viz: Lenawee, Monroe, Washtenaw, Jackson, to sell my Spring Bed [illegible] Best in health. Over [illegible] Exclusive sale to agent. For [illegible] J. S. KINNEY, Tecumseh.

POMOLOGICAL.

The Washtenaw County Pomological Society held a meeting at Town Hall, Saline, yesterday, and many members of the Southern Washtenaw Farmers' Club were present by invitation. Was also the President of the Washtenaw Agricultural Society. The business meeting in the forenoon was represented by lovers of fruit from Adrian, Manchester, Northfield, Cambridge, Bridgewater, Raisin, and many other towns.

A large table in the shape of an L was set upon the west side and south end of the hall, and such a dinner as only the Patrons of Husbandry are accustomed to prepare, with splendid specimens of the fruits of the season, greeted the crowd of partakers present when noon time came, and was well patronized for even the second sitting enough to spare, even after those had fully sampled and given their full testimony.

The show of fruits was not large, but some fine specimens of the Pear, Peach and Apple varieties were on exhibition.

Some members, who had been selected to prepare articles for the afternoon exercises, were absent, and although much disappointment, the time was well occupied in the discussion of the following questions:

"How do we successfully raise Red Raspberries?"

"How can we best guard against the ravages of the drought?"

These questions brought out many timely remarks upon the rough prunings, stirring the soil, mulching and irrigation.

An invitation was given to unite with the society, and many availed themselves of the opportunity.

Taken all in all, it was a very enjoyable occasion and much praise is due the ladies, D. Woodward, D. R. [illegible] and other fruit men of that town, for their efforts.

The meeting adjourned after accepting, by vote, the invitation given by Sigler of Adrian, to hold the next meeting at his place.

Lake Shore & Mich. Southern will sell excursion tickets at [illegible] to the State Fair at Jackson, [illegible] 21, 22 and 23. A special train will run on the Branch on each day of the fair, leaving Adrian at 8:40 A. M. [illegible] will pass Tecumseh at 8.05

THE TECUMSEH HERALD.

TECUMSEH, MICH., SEPT. 15, 1887.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

[illegible] the State fair next week.

Miss Allie Warren is working at the millinery business in Adrian.

Mrs. Samuel Shute returned from a visit to New York last Monday.

[illegible] Toledo friends last week.

George VanTine has built a new sidewalk in front of his dwelling on Logan street.

Mrs. Wm. Bresie and Mrs. John Crowell have been spending several days at Devil's Lake.

New goods arriving daily, come and see them.

W. & S. W. ANDERSON & Co.

Special trains and excursion rates next week over the Jackson Branch to the State fair. Let everybody go.

Henry Heesen is in Chicago this week with one of Brewer's Brick and Tile machines an exhibition at the Exposition.

Rev. W. Q. Burnett and Rev. Dr. L. Barnes will conduct the services in the M. E. church, on Sunday, Sept. 18th.

The J. VI Club met at the residence of Mrs. John Crowell, in Brownville, last Saturday, and enjoyed a very pleasant time.

Scove Walker, of Brooklyn, has taken a position in Judge Stacy's law office, to read Blackstone and make himself useful.

Rev. T. G. Potter, pastor of the M. E. church, has gone to Saginaw City to attend the session of the Detroit Annual Conference.

Will Gray is getting ready for a brisk fall and winter trade at his knitting works. He is preparing to run his knitters by steam.

Buy your Cloaks early—first choice is best. Come and see our jackets, newmarkets and wraps

W. & S. W. ANDERSON & Co.

At the Presbyterian church next Sunday night the pastor will give (in substance) the reply to his open letter to Robert G. Ingersol. All are invited.

Mrs. N. R. Brown started for Detroit last Saturday to spend a few days. She expects to visit Cleveland and other cities also before returning.

Rev. W. Q. Burnett will preach in M. E. church Sunday morning, and Dr. L. Barnes in the evening, in the absence of the pastor to attend conference.

Madam Marantette, with her celebrated Kentucky saddle and pack horse "Woodlawn" will give an exhibition each day at the State Fair at Jackson next week.

A poem by Maurice Thompson, presenting an Address by an ex-Rebel to the Grand Army of the Republic, will be one of the features of the October AMERICAN MAGAZINE.

Misses Ellen and Lucy Warren and Lettie Warren of Brooklyn, were visiting relatives in the village the first of the week. Miss Lucy will remain several weeks.

George Bangs has been quite busy for several days at Britton, painting houses for Irve. Osborn. He is also giving the touches of the brush, to the fine, new residence erected by John Howard in Raisin.

Heck Bros. have been repairing their sheds in Brownville and fitted one of them up for a storage house for feed, and have also made other improvements to their property in that part of the village.

Apropos of rumored large investments in enterprises on Chinese soil, C. B. Adams will describe in the October AMERICAN MAGAZINE some of the scenery and people of that far distant land, as they appear to the diplomatic circle resident at Peking.

Oscar Palmer's ponies indulged in a little runaway Tuesday. They were hitched on the street when the noon train passed, and they became frightened, broke loose and ran west up Chicago st. and did not stop until they were about two miles out in the country. Strange to relate, nothing was broke but the check strap.

An account of an extremely sad accident comes from near Eldred Station. Yesterday afternoon about 2 o'clock, a young man named Johnson, son of a widow Johnson, living near Kelley's Corners, was driving a young colt, and coming to a railroad crossing near the above named station, he stopped to let an approaching train go by. The colt stood it as he could, but when the engine had passed the crossing, he made a dash toward the moving train, ran close up to it, then suddenly whirling around, threw the young man under the cars, cutting his head open, breaking both legs and cutting one nearly off below the knee. Drs. Porter and McIntyre were immediately sent for, but he died before they could reach him.—Brooklyn Exponent.

Ground has been broken for the new Lake Shore depot at Hudson.

Bert Tribou, of Detroit, spent last Sunday at the old home in Tecumseh.

Prof. Travis of Clinton, gave the HERALD a friendly call last Saturday.

The peach crop within seven miles of Clinton is estimated this year at 7,000 bushels.

The Clinton Woolen Mills already have orders enough to keep them running until Jan. 1st.

The base ball championship during the past week was easily won by the Tecumseh club.

Strong & McNair have a new card in this week's issue which the whole world will read and heed.

The Tecumseh City Band have been engaged to play for the County Fair two days, Thursday and Friday.

Cloaks till you can't rest. Read what W. & S. W. Anderson & Co. have to say on the subject on the first page.

J. G. Roberts has returned from his trip to St. Paul where he went to exhibit his new patent snow plow. His visit was very satisfactory to him.

The Holloway man, who was said to have whipped his horse to death, rises up with the remark that it was a lie, started by one of his neighbors to injure him.

One hundred and three pupils were enrolled in the Tecumseh High School the first week. This is a larger enrollment than ever before had during an entire school year.

The Young Ladies of the M. E. church will serve supper in the church parlors, Friday, Sept. 16th from 5 to 8 o'clock. Come one and all and help us with your dime.

Rollin has fastened the C. J. & M. railroad. There seems to be no longer any doubt that the Ohio line will connect with the Michigan Division in the vicinity of Devil's Lake.

Young men don't forget to look at those beautiful building lots on Patterson street. Now is the time to secure you a home cheap.

J. W. PATTERSON.

The new school board has organized by the re-election of the same officers as held last year, viz.

Moderator—A. W. Mills
Director—Dr. L. G. Nath.
Assessor—O. P. Bills.

The Ladies' Aid Society will serve supper at the M. E. church on Wednesday, Sept. 21, at six o'clock. All are invited, and will be presented with one of their new Japanese napkins.

Next Sunday, Sept. 18th, services at the Universalist church in the morning at 10:30 and in the evening at 7:30. Subject of sermon in the morning, "Spiritual Frontage," text, Daniel 6:10. A discourse in the evening on "Hymn Singing," and with each hymn a brief history. Will sing Henry Ware's hymn the first line of which is "Father in heaven to thee my heart;" Helen Maria William's, beginning, "While thee I seek protecting Power;" Dr. Watt's, "Thus far the lord has led me on;" Alice Cary's, "I cannot plainly see the way;" Charles Wesley's "Jesus, lover of my soul;" closing with the Doxology as used, believed and sung by the Universalists.

At the close of morning service at the M. E. church last Sunday, Dr. Geo. Howell stepped forward and announced that a deficiency of $125 existed to pay up all church obligations for the present conference year, and made an appeal to the congregation to lift the amount. A few $5.00 donations were at once handed in when the subscriptions began to lag. There upon Bro. Burnett took the rostrum and proceeded to administer an aide pathic dose of begging with the most happy effect. Bro. Burnett raked in the names and Dr. Howell recorded them. The fives came in and then the threes and twos and ones. Inside of thirty minutes the entire sum needed was pledged. It was the neatest and most successful job of begging that we have seen done in many a day.

The new fruit evaporating factory north of the creek near the Episcopal church, has commenced active operations. The firm name of the concern is "The Tecumseh Fruit Evaporating Co." The business is owned by Mr. George Heesen and his two sons Dolph and Albert. Mr. Dolph Heesen being the active manager of the business. Building is about 25x40 in size, with a good basement under the west end in which the heating apparatus is placed. The Williams patent evaporator system is used which is claimed to be the best now in use. The apples are first pared and sliced and placed in trays, which are then placed in the evaporator and put through the drying process. They are then packed in boxes and put in the steam chest where the action of the steam bleaches the apples out and leaves them in condition for market. The process is a very simple one, but quite interesting to one who has never seen it. A building is now being erected outside for the storage of apples. Sixteen hands are now employed and the capacity of the factory is about 100 bushels of apples daily.

Miss Hattie Stevens is visiting friends in Detroit this week.

Dr. C. M. Woodward went to Adrian Saturday to attend a consultation of physicians.

David Harrington of Napoleon is visiting his son and with friends in Tecumseh and vicinity.

James W. Patterson has sold the west store in his block to S. W. Anderson for a consideration of $1600.

[illegible] has issued a [illegible] license to [illegible]

Special illumination of Tecumseh Lodge No. 64 F. & A. M. tomorrow (Friday) evening. Work in the 2d degree.

Thomas Smith and wife hereby return thanks to their friends for their help and sympathy in their recent bereavement.

Mr. and Mrs. A. VanAntwerp left their old friends at Tecumseh, last Monday, to seek a home with their children at Denver, Col., and in California.

The infant son of Thomas Smith, of Ridgeway, one year of age, was taken sick the 8th inst. with cholera infantum and after four days sickness died the morning of the 12th.

The Mackinaw line will sell excursion tickets to the Chicago Exposition as follows: Sept 13, 20 and 27, Oct. 4, 11 and 18. Good returning on the following Monday. Rate $4.75 for the round trip.

Mrs. Robert Crosby, and Mrs. Emery Doke and her two children, started to day, at 4.00 P. M. train, for York state to visit their old homes. They intend to spend several weeks among the scenes of their childhood.

An excursion train will run over the Mackinaw line from Allegan to Akron and Kent, Ohio, on Tuesday, Oct. 4th. The occasion is the Olin reunion held at Kent, Oct. 5 and 6. Fare for the round trip only $6.00. The train will pass this station at 8.15 P. M.

Mrs. I. P. Tribou procured last spring a Peter Henderson & Co. plant of their celebrated "Moon Flower." The plant is now in blossom and is a great curiosity. The flowers are beautiful large white blossoms, which open at night and close with the rising of the sun.

A base ball excursion train will run to Detroit via the Lake Shore on Saturday, Sept. 24th. The train will run from Coldwater on the main line and from Manchester on the Branch. It will pass Tecumseh at 8.24 A. M., Clinton 8.43 A. M. Leave Detroit on the return at 7 P. M. The game will be played by the Detroit and New York clubs.

During the past few days men have been engaged in digging holes along the Lake Shore railroad track for the purpose of erecting telephone poles, and yesterday Manager Mason began to raise the poles. He had succeeded in raising one when the "city fathers" ordered him him to let up, and get permission from them. Mr Mason claimed the railroad company owned the land and he had obtained their permission. He went to Adrian to take counsel last night and is expected to begin operations again to-day.

The neighbors and friends of Mr Geo. Hanford, of Raisin, met at his residence on the evening of Sept. 8th, and presented him with a handsome meerschaum pipe. The presentation speech was made by Mr. James Cairns and was responded to by Mr. Hanford in some well chosen words. Refreshments were served by the hospitable hostess and the evening spent in a social way becoming to neighbors and friends. The occasion was Mr. Hanford's forty-ninth birthday.

Peterson's Magazine for October is on hand, and is one of the best numbers of this year of even unusual excellence. The steel engraving is a charming reproduction of Leslie's beautiful painting, "A Maiden Fair to See," and the fashion plates, wood cuts, and designs for the work table are all capital. There is an interesting illustrated article by way of opening, and the stories and poems are exceptionally good. In this number are given the offers to persons getting up clubs for next year, and they are very tempting. Few magazines award premiums that approach the value of the books and engravings Peterson bestows.

The fourth annual meeting of the Library Association was held at the Library rooms on Monday the 12th of Sept 1887. The meeting being called to order by the President, Mrs. A. P. Lee. Mr. Albert Brewer and Mrs. Fred Rosacrans were elected members of the board. Mr. Peter McKinnon was unanimously re-elected. The Association then proceeded to the election of officers for the ensuing year with the following result.

President—Mr. Peter McKinnon.
Vice Pres.—Mrs. S. W. Anderson
Secretary—Mrs. A. P. Lee.
Treasurer—Mr. O. P. Bills.
Solicitor—Miss Clara B. Hayden.

Moved that tickets for library books be sold the ensuing year at the same rate as they were from October 1886 to September 1887. The meeting then adjourned.

COUNTY PIONEER MEETING.

A Stormy Day But a Fair Turn Out and a Pleasant Gathering

The regular annual meeting of the County Pioneer Society was held last Friday at the Congregational church in Tecumseh. The day was stormy, which seriously interfered with the attendance, but enough of the old veterans had assembled by eleven o'clock to call the meeting to order.

President Dewey occupied the chair in the absence of Mr. Kingsley, and Secretary Stiles was kept at home by sickness. The forenoon session was brief but interesting, and was followed by a bountiful dinner which was served by the ladies in the upper room of the church.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

In respect to the memory of Mr. Eli Knight, a pioneer of Franklin whose funeral occurred in the place at two o'clock, the afternoon meeting was postponed until 3 o'clock by common consent, at which time it was called to order and the choir sang "Let every heart rejoice and sing" with good effect.

Rev. Mr. Putnam then offered prayer and all joined in singing "America."

The Pres. then appointed Mr. Colwell, Hon. T. F. Moore, Mr. Griswold and Deacon Cook to name officers for the ensuing year.

The Pres. then read an article on the early settlements at Tecumseh.

The piece was a regular pioneer article, plain and unpolished. We meet with equal rights and in behalf of Franklin all are cordially welcomed. In connection with Mich. from 200 people in 1830 we now have 1,300,000. Schools, churches, etc. are good and practically out of debt should prosper for ages. Primitive settlement of Lenawee Co. we should collect recollections—Indian trails and marked trees—the rude state of nature—converted by the pioneer. 58 years ago he learned to chop in Tecumseh. In 1824 the first gov. land was bought by Austin E. Wing. That was a period of natural beauty, wild flowers and other natural beauties. In 1824 the first school house was built and it was made of unpainted logs 12 ft. square and taught by Mrs. Geo. Spafford. Caleb M. Crosby was the first M. D. in 1827. First saw mill in 1828 Geo. Taylor was the first supervisor in the county. First frame school house was built in 1827. Mr. Noah M. Wells preached the first sermon. In 1828 Jessie Osborn raised the first orchard. In 1831 mail stages ran regularly. In 1832 the truly alarming Black Hawk war opened. In 1833 Mrs. Abi Evans died and Elijah Brownwell preached the sermon. In 1835 the Toledo war broke out and everything was agitated. In 1836 Michigan became a state. The Erie & Kalamazoo R. R. was opened to Adrian in Aug. 1837. The railroad reached Tecumseh soon after. 5220 miles of railroad in the state now. Musgrove Evans was born in 1795 and was a surveyor well educated. Review of fortification near Brownville, supposed to have been made hundreds of years ago. It was also the Indian council place and an interesting description of same. It was a cheerful treat for him to visit the place since 1832. In 1830 he boarded with Musgrove Evans and all who came to Tecumseh. In 1824 Mrs. Harriett S. Evens and Mrs. W. Evens were the first girls married in the Co. Look back 50 years and note the people; they had adversity, but stuck to the line of duty and succeeded. Long live these land marks, laid with industry and virtue and industrious society was the success of the people. At Tecumseh Indian trails centered, hundreds passed annually to British ground in 1812 and 13. In 1832 this pension stopped. It was a beautiful camp, Evans Creek near Tecumseh.

It's fitting to look back and gather inspiration for the present. Better times and easier circumstances and good schools for all. We have seen in common many changes. We have beautiful evidences of our success, but our work is nearly done. No state in the Union is more independent than Michigan with all necessities supplied.

Music by the choir.

Gen'l St. Clair was called on but declined, wishing to hear from some one in Franklin. Mrs. Mills, the first lady who arrived in the county was also called on, but failed to respond.

Hon. Moore was called out and said that he had been in this county 48 years. Located in Medina and was well acquainted with pioneer life. Made mention of the pioneer efforts. He referred to L. S. Cambarn, who was present, and Lake Pierce. Early history, bees, etc., broke up the monotony of pioneer life. The pioneers planted the seeds of our prosperity, and harmony is necessary to preserve it. He believed in religious and educational institutions as a great benefit to the early settlers as well as at present. He came here at 12 years of age. The first evening was a memorable one from the fact that the wolves kept up an incessant howling. Men came from all directions to settle down, many without means. His son owns 700 acres of land in Medina and is one of the most wealthy farmers in the town. I think it is well worth while to meet and talk over incidents of our early times. He was proud of his pioneership and his state. We may well be proud of our institutions.

Societies were formed with some success and met once a year. In 1876 a state pioneer society was organized and meets annually at Lansing. He relished the meetings and the surprises brought out. He almost wished time in store him back and carried to his father going from Pittsfield to Monroe on a pioneer, required seven days to make the journey. He spoke back with sadness and pleasure on the days that have passed. He took a team here in 1824 with Geo'l Brown and others. Had been in Lenawee Co. 60 yrs. this fall. First white male child born in the county or outside of Detroit or Monroe.

Remarks were made by A. J. Kenyon, after which the society gave a vote of thanks to the Congregational church choir and to those who furnished the banquet.

On motion of Mr. Moore the old officers were retained for the coming year.

The next annual meeting will be held in Madison at such time and place as the officers shall decide.

The meeting closed by singing "Auld Lang Syne."

OBITUARY

Eli Knight, whose funeral took place at his residence in Tipton, Friday afternoon, Sept. 9th, Rev. J. M. Greene of Tecumseh officiating. He was born at Byron, N. Y., in 1808, dying the time of his death over 78 years of age. He came to Mich., with his father, Benj. Knight in 1830, and took up the land now the farm and home owned by Ezra Simmons. In 1836 married Miss Millie Wheelan. Their union was blessed with three daughters, all of whom are living. One is the wife of Ezra Simmons, another the wife of Wm. Larkin and the third the wife of Milton Burgess. The deceased lived on the old homestead until 1880, when he moved to Tipton, having purchased the home where he lived when the unwelcomed messenger came hurriedly into his home and called him to his eternal home. His first wife died in 1842 and he married a sister in 1853, Mrs. Julia Billington, who survives him. Has one brother in this life, Orson Knight of Adrian. His departure was sudden, having been taken ill on Wednesday morning, Sept 7th, and breathed his last Thursday about six A. M. He realized that this sickness was his last, days on the flesh, and spoke of it to those he trusted and loved. He was a quiet man, without any enemy in the community in which he lived so many years. A peace maker and a lover of friendship and mankind enjoys the earth. No eulogy is needed, his life tells it all.

The drill at the experimental well on Railroad street is going down through black shale, at the rate of from 60 to 80 feet in twenty four hours. On several occasions yesterday, gas which came from the hole, was ignited, blazing up to a height of from five to ten feet.—Adrian Times of Saturday.

Go to Perry Hosmer's for School Books.

—Legal Blanks at Hosmer's.

—Spectacles of the first quality at Hosmer's.

—If you want a first class watch buy a Rockford of S. P. Hosmer, Tecumseh Agt.

—Our location is the finest,
Our facilities the best,
Our experience the Greatest,
Our Prices Reasonable,
Our Work first-class,
And those who try are always satisfied
Call and see for yourself.

BROWN the Photographer.

—An elegant line of Cabinet frames both for side wall and easel back, for sale very cheap at A. J. Coddington's

—Sewing machines Needles, Oil, and attachments at

M. P. Brown's Art Gallery.

—Call at J. S. Kinney's store and see those fine marble, indestructible caskets on exhibition. Also a new spring bed with elevated head rest. The best in the markets for invalids. Manufactured by J. S. Kinney.

—If you wish any painting, graining, or paper hanging done call on D. Holmes. Good work guaranteed. Terms reasonable. Leave orders at Baker & Hall's or A. A. Wright's, Tecumseh. D. HOLMES.

—A few back numbers of Harper's Monthly, and other Magazines, for sale at one half the regular price, at A. J. Coddington's.

THE GREATEST DISCOVERY

Of the nineteenth century, certainly be said of Papillon Extract of Hay. Skin Cure. The seeds testify to its wonderful curative powers in seemingly hopeless cases of Eczema, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas and every kind of skin diseases. Mr. O. P. Algier, of Hartland, Ohio, tried everything he heard of or saw recommended, and suffered five years with Eczema until he found Papillon Skin Cure, which cured him. Large bottles only $1.00.

For sale by A. S. Doty.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

FRED B. WOOD, ATTORNEY AT LAW. Collections and conveyancing. Office over W. & W. Anderson's store, Tecumseh, Mich.

C. A. STACY, Attorney at Law and Solicitor in Chancery. Office in HAGLE Block, Tecumseh, Mich.

PHYSICIANS.

LEMAN BARNES, M. D. Physician and surgeon. Office over A. S. Mills's drug store. Residence four doors south of depot, Tecumseh, Mich.

J. M. WOODWARD, M.D. PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON. Office at residence, Chicago St.

MISCELLANEOUS.

DAVE BURHAM, Fashionable Barber and Hair Dresser, Shop on Railroad st.

JAMES A. CURRY, Fashionable Barber and Hair Dresser, Shop in Arcade block, Chicago st.

CHAS. A. WALDRON, Veterinary Surgeon. All orders promptly attended to either by mail or in person. Office at residence, one-half mile southwest of Tecumseh.

HOTELS.

BURNETT HOUSE, Toledo, Ohio. This house has been thoroughly refitted, with elevator and other modern improvements, and is a favorite resort for the traveling public. Rates reasonable and graded according to rooms occupied.

CENTRAL HOTEL, ADRIAN, MICH. E. S. AVERY, MANAGER. This hotel is located on South Main st., near the Postoffice, in close proximity to the city. First class accommodations and rates reasonable.

LENAWEE CARRIAGE FACTORY

J. R. HALEY, Proprietor, MANUFACTURER OF And Dealer in

Carriages, Buggies,

SURRIES, SPRING WAGONS, ROADCARTS, SULKIES, CUTTERS, ETC.

Broad Street, TECUMSEH, MICHIGAN

M. L. RICE, UTICA, MICHIGAN, Dealer in High Class Thoroughbred Poultry. Eggs for hatching. Send for Journal of Circular, Free.

W. W. MARSH, Proprietor of Railroad Street Meat Market! Fresh and Salt Meats constantly on hand. GIVE ME A CALL.

LADIES TREATMENT FREE.

Dr. MARY ... NEW TREATMENT for the diseases of women, discovered by that distinguished English Physician and Nurse, who has revolutionized the entire mode of treating this class of complaints in England. Is now being successfully introduced throughout the U.S. Sufficient medicine for one Entire Month's Treatment will be sent free to any lady suffering from any of the diseases, who sends her address and 4 to two-cent stamps to cover postal charges. THIS NEW TREATMENT will positively cure any irregular female disease, and the free trial in many cases sufficient to effect a permanent cure. It is put up in plain wrapper with full instructions for self treatment. Only one trial treatment will be sent to same address. Regular price $1.00. Address GREGG REMEDY CO., Palmyra, N.Y.

SCOTT'S EMULSION OF PURE COD LIVER OIL And Hypophosphites of Lime & Soda. Almost as Palatable as Milk. The only preparation of COD LIVER OIL that can be taken readily and tolerated for a long time by delicate stomachs. AND AS A REMEDY FOR CONSUMPTION, SCROFULOUS AFFECTIONS, ANÆMIA, GENERAL DEBILITY, COUGHS AND THROAT AFFECTIONS, and all WASTING DISEASES OF CHILDREN it is marvellous in its results. Prepared only by Scott & Bowne, New York. SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

TO MACKINAC. SUMMER TOURS. Palace Steamers, Low Rates. Four trips per week between DETROIT, MACKINAC ISLAND, St. Ignace, Cheboygan, Alpena, Harrisville, Oscoda, Au Sable, Port Huron, St. Clair, Grand Haven, Muskegon, Manistee, Marine City. Every Week Day between DETROIT AND CLEVELAND. Special Sunday trips during July and August. ILLUSTRATED PAMPHLETS, Rates and Excursion Tickets will be furnished by your local agent, or address E. B. WHITCOMB, Gen'l Pass. Agent, Detroit & Cleveland Steam Nav. Co. Special Sunday trips during July and August.

Miles B. Stevens & Co. PENSIONS! Abstract Building, DETROIT, MICHIGAN.

TO ADVERTISE and meet with success requires a knowledge of the value of newspapers, and a correctly displayed advt. To secure such information and such advertisement as will enable you to advertise JUDICIOUSLY CONSULT LORD AND THOMAS NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING, CHICAGO, ILLINOIS.

THE MEDICAL CONGRESS.

HIGHLY SUCCESSFUL GATHERING OF THE WORLD'S DOCTORS.

Nearly Three Thousand Physicians Present—Its Scientific Results Believed to Have Been of Great Importance—Assistant Secretary Porter Resigns—A Boycott Case—Gold and Silver Movement.

WASHINGTON CITY, Sept. 12.—The ninth international medical congress adjourned sine die Saturday, after a meeting that has been of valuable service to medical science. Dr. N. S. Davis, of Chicago, who was president of the congress, and chairman pro tem, is an eminent success.

DR. DAVIS.

"In point of numbers," he said, "it has exceeded all past congresses, except that at London in 1881. It had more than double the number of delegates of any of the other seven. It is the ninth congress. Of the other eight, five had less than 1,000 delegates. The sixth, 1,200; the seventh, which was that at London, had a few over 3,000. The eighth, at Copenhagen, had 3,224. The number of delegates to this congress, as ascertained from the register, is 2,750, with the possible difference of half a dozen either way. This, in point of numbers, you see, it is second but of nine. But another thing is to be considered which will show that there are more delegates from abroad here than at any previous congress, London not excepted. Of the 3,000 in London 1,400 were of that great city. Could Washington have furnished 1,400 local delegates the number would have greatly exceeded the number at London.

"To judge definitely of the success from a scientific standpoint, the records must all be compiled. Many of the most distinguished of the foreign delegates, men who are competent to judge, have come to me and said that the work of this congress has been of great scientific value. Among those who have thus voluntarily expressed this opinion, I might name Sir James Grant, of Canada; Dr. Martin, of Berlin, Dr. Hewitt and Professor Phillips, of London."

The feeling existed that the work of compilation was going on rapidly, and he would be disappointed if it was not ready to deliver in nine months, which is three months less than the record."

Before the adoption of a resolution of the congress resolution offered by Dr. Hewitt, of London, on behalf of the foreign delegates, was adopted, thanking President Cleveland for his courtesy and expressing high appreciation of the official labors and personal kindness of the local committee. On the return trip Saturday from Mount Vernon, an invitation was directed to the fact that the name of Dr. Davis, who presided over the congress, had been inadvertently omitted from the resolution. This oversight was much regretted by the foreigners, and was handsomely rectified around the hospitable table spread in the saloon of the steamer. There were toasts and speeches all around.

The visitors were taken on an excursion to Niagara Falls Saturday by their American brethren at an expense of $10,000.

Suing for the Right to Work.

WASHINGTON CITY, Sept. 12.—The first common law conspiracy case ever brought in the District of Columbia, came before the police court here Saturday. It grows out of a Knight of Labor boycott. Nine members of the Washington Musical Assembly, Knights of Labor, are charged by Franz Krauz, with unlawfully combining and conspiring to extort from Kranz $75, on account of fines imposed by the assembly, and with preventing Kranz and thirteen other musicians, by means of a boycott, from pursuing their calling and obtaining employment as musicians. The case went over indefinitely, after fixing bail for the accused knights.

Gold and Silver Export and Import.

WASHINGTON CITY, Sept. 12.—The report of Col. Switzler, chief of the bureau of statistics, shows the following totals of gold and silver movements for the twelve months ended July 31, 1887: Imports of gold coin and bullion, $44,546,391; silver coin and bullion, $15,189,558; total $61,735,949. Exports foreign and domestic gold coin and bullion, $9,021,652; silver coin and bullion, $26,658,196; total, $35,679,848; excess of imports over exports, $26,056,101.

Zinc and Lead in Wisconsin.

GALENA, Ill., Sept. 10.—Two zinc and lead mines have been opened this week in the town of Shullsburg, Lafayette county, Wis., that will yield, according to reliable estimates, 400 tons of ore per month, and which are said to be inexhaustible.

ITEMS OF GENERAL INTEREST.

On the 3rd instant Gen. Crook telegraphed from Rawlins, Wy. T., to the war department that all unauthorized persons have been expelled from the Uinah and Ouray reservations, and that the Utes are all at home and quiet.

Dr. Carver, the famous marksman, shot 4,000 glass balls in 49½ minutes at Dubuque, Iowa, Tuesday.

The inter-state commerce commission will meet at Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 14, to afford American railroads, shippers and parties an opportunity of showing why railroads should not be granted the privilege of shipping a small quantity of merchandise at the same rate as one ton.

The Spanish government has ordered the release of Mr. Doane, the American missionary at the Caroline islands, who was lately arrested by the Spanish authorities there, and imprisoned at Manila.

The New York brokers are moving in the stock exchange for the abolition of the Saturday half holiday.

George Bubear, the English sculler, and Charles E. Courtney, Thursday signed articles at Watkins, N. Y., for a three-mile race for $1,000 a side on the Susquehanna river at Owego, on Wednesday, Sept. 28.

Joseph C. Aspenwall died at Lodi, Wis., Thursday. He was 70 years old, and had preached throughout central Wisconsin for many years.

The general council of the Evangelical Lutheran church in the United States and Canada opened its session Thursday at Greenville, Pa.

Elijah Hayes and wife, an aged couple of Warsaw, Ind., have deeded to Chaplain C. C. McCabe, on behalf of the board of missions of the M. E. church, property valued at $150,000, reserving only an annuity of $7,000. Mr. and Mrs. Hayes have no heirs.

The venerable Hannibal Hamlin, the only living ex-vice president of the United States, will come all the way from Maine to Missouri to attend the G. A. R. encampment. Mr. Hamlin has just completed his 78th year.

Diphtheria threatens to become epidemic at Port Washington, Wis. Eleven cases of the disease and two deaths are reported. All the schools have been closed.

The estimate yield of wheat in Michigan this season is 22,062,649 bushels. The total number of bushels reported marketed to Aug. 1 is 13,809,800.

BASE BALL NEWS.

Scores of the National League Clubs for the Past Week.

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—Before Stocking base ball stock took an upward turn Monday when the champions played a game with the leading league club and defeated them, and it is reported that "Anson" still is hopeful of keeping the pennant in this city another year. He says the club has pulled itself out of worse holes than it is now in, and that the first place has not vanished, the candidate gained a good deal yet. But the Wolverines have a lead that will be hard to catch up with, but they do some mighty poor playing now and, even if Chicago wins all three games of this its last series with its robust competitors, The league scores Monday were: At Detroit—Detroit 7, Chicago 11; at New York—New York 0, Washington ... at Pittsburg—Boston 4, Philadelphia 11.

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—The league clubs which have monopolized the attention of base ball enthusiasts—Detroit and Chicago—played no game Tuesday, and the pennant race stood as they did Monday night—Detroit 62, Chicago 54. The league scores Tuesday were: At New York—New York 8, Washington 4; at Pittsburg—Pittsburg 4, Indianapolis 2; at Boston—Boston 3, Philadelphia 10; at Detroit—no game—rain.

CHICAGO, Sept. 8.—With President Spalding looking on the champions drove a nail in the coffin of their title to the championship very tight at Detroit Wednesday, and doubtless the Chicago base ball manager feels inclined to "sell the club for a yellow dog and throw the dog in the river." Games were played both morning and afternoon, and in both the Chicagos lost, giving Detroit a total of 6 games won to Chicago's 5. This makes the percentages as follows: Detroit, .630; Chicago, .573. The scores in the league were: At Detroit (morning game) Detroit 8, Chicago 2; (afternoon) Detroit 8, Chicago 4; at New York—New York 2, Washington 5; at Boston—Boston 2, Philadelphia 4; at Pittsburg—no game.

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—League scores Thursday were: At Detroit—Detroit 4, Pittsburg 0; at Chicago—Chicago 5, Indianapolis 10; at Boston—Boston 5, New York 0; at Washington City—Washington 6, Philadelphia 7.

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—Rain "toolooed" all but one of the scheduled League games Saturday, and no change occurred in the situation. The results were as follows: At Washington City—Washington ..., Philadelphia 10; at Detroit and Chicago—No game—rain; at Boston—No game scheduled.

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—The winning of two of the three games played by the home club with Indianapolis by the White Stockings does not put the pennant any nearer Chicago, as Detroit won its fifth game, winning also, and nothing but a miracle in fall playing will get Chicago any higher than second, if she does that well. The talk is that the club will have to go to Georgetown next year, as Clarkson, Pfeffer and Williamson are all determined to leave. The papers all lay it to Anson, though it seems hardly just to do so for the loss of the pennant this year, when his club has so often won it. The schedules, including Saturday's playing, in all the base ball aggregations are as follows, National League:

Clubs	Played.	Won	Lost	Per cent
Detroit	103	66	37	.641
Chicago	99	57	42	.576
Philadelphia	101	50	51	.497
New York	103	57	46	.553
Boston	100	55	45	.550
Pittsburg	100	43	57	.430
Washington	100	39	61	.390
Indianapolis	102	30	72	.294

Saturday league playing gave the following scores: At Washington—Washington 3, Philadelphia 17; at Detroit—(Morning game) Detroit 14, Pittsburg 6; (afternoon) Detroit 17, Pittsburg 3; at Chicago—(first game) Chicago 5, Indianapolis 2; (second game) Chicago 13, Indianapolis 5, six innings—darkness; at Boston—Boston 5, New York 2.

CAPTURED THE PRIZE CREW.

How a Cute Canadian Played It on Your Uncle Samuel.

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 10.—The department of customs has been apprised of a trick which has just been played on the American authorities by the captain of the Alfred Adams, a British Columbian sealing schooner. The Adams was seized in Behring's sea last month by the United States revenue cutter Rush, and her seal-skins and fishing tackle were taken away. A prize crew was put on board, and the captain was ordered to navigate the schooner to Sitka.

The captain seemingly obeyed for the time, but after having parted company with the Rush coolly headed the Rush for Victoria, B. C., where she arrived a few days ago. The prize crew could do nothing to compel the captain to proceed to Sitka, as it is understood to have consisted of only two men, and the crew of the Adams, not having been removed, was too strong for them.

Reunion of the "Flying Brigade."

GREENCASTLE, Ind., Sept. 9.—Gen. Wilder's brigade, known during the war as the "Flying Brigade," held a most successful reunion here Thursday. The brigade was composed of the Seventeenth and Seventy-second Indiana, Ninety-eighth and One Hundred and Twenty-third Illinois, and the Eighteenth Indiana battery. One thousand members were present, and each man present was given a silver metal by Gen. Wilder. Maj. E. G. Connelly of Springfield, Ill., Gen. Ben Harrison, Gen. Wilder, and others spoke. The largest number present in any one regiment was the One Hundred and Twenty-third Illinois, Capt. T. E. Wood in command.

Serenaded the Tracklayers.

FORT ASSINIBOINE, M. T., Sept. 9.—The Manitoba railroad extension reached the crossing of Beaver creek, within the Fort Assiniboine station, at sundown Thursday night. The garrison turned out and the Twentieth regiment band greeted the tracklayers with music. Some 25,000 changing hands on the result, most of the betting between the track laying teams by Dec. 5.

BUSINESS NOTES.

The dry goods and clothing firm of Becker & Gratop, of Pelgrim Hill, was closed by the sheriff Tuesday. Liabilities $40,000, assets $37,000.

The Charles Stewart Paper company, of Cincinnati, failed Tuesday. The assets are about $75,000, while the liabilities are figured at $200,000.

An assignment was made to Louisville, Ky., Friday, by Lapp, Goldsmith & Co., liquor and tobacco merchants. Liabilities, $100,000.

The business failures in the United States for the past week, according to R. G. Dun & Co., numbered 152, and for Canada 22—together 174, against 190 the previous week.

Kobbe & Matthews, wholesale cigar dealers at Minneapolis, have failed. The liabilities are not stated.

The North Star Mutual Fire Insurance company, of St. Paul, has decided to wind up its business, owing to heavy losses recently.

Lapp, Goldsmith & Co., liquor and tobacco wholesalers at Louisville, have failed for $100,000, their nominal assets being $30,000.

COERCION'S FIRST BLOOD.

COLLISION BETWEEN THE PEASANTRY AND THE POLICE.

Two of the Nationalists Killed and Several Wounded by a Fusillade of Rifles—O'Brien's Defiance of the Magistrates—His Arrest Ordered.

[illegible] demonstration meeting held at Mitchelstown Friday for the purpose of condemning the course of the government toward Ireland, a conflict arose between the people and the police. The crowd organized an anti-eviction demonstration when the police fired into them, killing two men and wounding several, of the crowd then withdrew, but are constantly receiving reinforcements, and threaten to renew their attack on the constabulary.

The force of police repulsed by the mob was sixty strong and fully armed. The crowd used sticks and stones as weapons and severely injured several of the constables, who forbore to fire upon their assailants. After receiving reinforcements the police advanced upon the crowd and commanded them to disperse. This command was met with a shout of defiance and the mob again rushed at the constables. The officer in command of the police gave the order to fire and six rounds of rifle balls were poured into the crowd. Two men fell dead and several sank to the ground badly wounded, the mob retreating and finally breaking into sections and dispersing. Later, they reassembled and resumed a threatening attitude, but as they made no attempt to attack the police they were not disturbed. There are signs, however, that further trouble will occur before order is restored.

Another account says the government stenographer was endeavoring with the aid of the police to push through the crowd to the front of the platform, when the crowd resented and attacked the police with sticks and stones. Cousins addressed the crowd and succeeded in pacifying them, and then Dillon spoke advising them to treat the police with silent contempt. Dillon's peace rule was nearly won, and when it became an established fact that the Irish forces would be under control of the people instead of their enemies. The speech of Dillon had a decided effect upon the exasperated crowd, and the conflict between them and the police was shortly afterward renewed, the police being driven into their barracks. From this point of vantage the police fired into the crowd, killing one man instantly, fatally wounding another who has since died, and seriously injuring several others. Taking advantage of the demoralizing effect of their fire the police sallied forth from the barracks and charged upon the mob with fixed bayonets. This was more than the crowd could stand, and they made haste to disperse.

LONDON, Sept. 10.—The Daily News, speaking of the affair, says that coercion was not long in bearing its bitterest fruits. The government meant to provoke bloodshed in Ireland and blood has been shed, wantonly and in its most revolting form.

The Post considers that the affair shows conclusively the necessity for the full application of the crimes act to prevent such meetings altogether.

The Times says the blood of the Mitchelltown victims is on the heads of Messrs. O'Brien, Davitt, and Labouchere, whose inflamed and cynical language drove the men against the muzzles of the rifles of the police. This affair will rouse Ireland, but though the leaders have their amusement and profit, the people pay for them with their skins.

The Standard hopes that the spectacle will convince Messrs. Labouchere and Brunner of the goal to which their steps tend before it be too late or they are held guilty for the suffering which will otherwise ensue.

DUBLIN, Sept. 12.—Editor O'Brien spent the early part of Sunday in Ballyblack with Dillon and Harrington. Having received a telegram from Labouchere and Brunner, asking him to accompany them to London, O'Brien went with Harrington to Kingstown where he went aboard the steamer, intending to tell Labouchere and Brunner that he thought it best to remain in Ireland for the present. He was followed aboard by a detective who said he would not arrest him if he would promise not to go to England. O'Brien declined to promise, whereupon he was taken into custody and escorted to the Imperial hotel. There the detective told him he could remain in the hotel all night if he would promise not to make a speech; otherwise he would be taken elsewhere. O'Brien made no promise, and later in the evening, a crowd having assembled in front of the hotel, he stepped upon the balcony and addressed them. In the course of his remarks he said:

"So long as breath remains in my body my voice will not be silent until I am gagged. I would be proud to suffer for the people who honored me at Mitchelstown. When I was at Kingstown today I was told that I would not be arrested if I would not go to England. That shows that the government are beginning to dread us in England."

O'Brien remained at the hotel all night, despite the detective's warning. His appearance and words aroused great enthusiasm among the people. In an interview after the speech O'Brien said that he had not intended to go to England, and was on the boat merely to see his friends off. Neither had he intended to make a speech until the detective mentioned the thing. The failure of the detectives to proceed to extreme measures leads to the belief that he had orders not to incarcerate O'Brien.

Michael Davitt spoke at a public meeting held in Shandon hall in this city Sunday. He declared that he would adopt and reiterate every word and meaning of William O'Brien's speech at Mitchelstown. Davitt denounced the constabulary for shooting in cold blood their own kin, and revised them for being purchased with British gold. He said that Ireland would deserve universal contempt if they submitted to being hunted from their cabins like wild beasts. The greatest enthusiasm was manifested at the meeting, and it is very probable that the arrest of Michael Davitt will result from his speech.

All arrangements have been made for the funeral of the old man who was shot at Mitchelstown on Friday, whose name is Lonergan not Riordan, as formerly reported. Contingents from all the surrounding villages have signified their intention to attend the funeral, and make it an affair of great magnitude.

An immense burst of indignation has been caused by the announcement that the police will not allow the funeral cortege to proceed on its way to the cemetery by the usual route, past the barracks. The Nationalists consider it a great indignity to be compelled to pass through the Protestant section of the town, as they will be obliged to do. The coffin has inscribed on it, "Michael Lonergan, murdered Sept. 9, 1887.—R. I. P."

The vast procession will form early in the afternoon, and is expected to start for the cemetery at 2 p. m. This funeral will be made the occasion of a public demonstration that will be remembered for many days by every one.

SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

DYSPEPSIA

Up to a few weeks ago I considered myself the champion Dyspeptic of America. During the years that I have been afflicted I have tried almost everything claimed to be a specific for Dyspepsia in the hope of finding something that would afford permanent relief. I had about made up my mind to abandon all medicine when I purchased an unknown quantity of Simmons Liver Regulator, by a prominent physician, a friend whom I knew, and concluded to try it. I have now taken two bottles and am satisfied that I have struck the right thing at last. Its beneficial effects almost astonished friends. Unlike all other preparations of a similar kind, no special instructions are required as to what you should or shall not eat. This last alone ought to commend it to all troubled with Dyspepsia.

J. N. HOLMES, Vineland, N. J.

CONSTIPATION

To Secure a Regular Habit of Body without changing the Diet or Disorganizing the System, take SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

ONLY GENUINE MANUFACTURED BY J. H. ZEILIN & CO., Philadelphia.

HAY FEVER! CATARRH is an inflamed condition of the lining membrane of the nostrils, tear ducts and throat, affecting the lungs. An acrid mucus is secreted, the discharge is accompanied with burning sensation. There are severe spasms of sneezing, frequent attacks of headache, watery and inflamed eyes.

Try the Cure, Ely's Cream Balm is applied into each nostril and is agreeable. Price 50 cents at Druggists; by mail, registered, 60 cents. Circulars free. ELY BROTHERS, 235 Greenwich st., New York.

ELY'S CREAM BALM CURES COLD IN HEAD, CATARRH, ROSE-COLD, HAY-FEVER, DEAFNESS, HEADACHE. EASY TO USE. PRICE 50 CENTS. ELY BRO'S, OWEGO, N.Y. U.S.A. HAY-FEVER

THE CELEBRATED 'A. P. DICKEY'S" FANNING MILLS

For Farm and Warehouse use for all kind of Grain and Seeds. These Mills are used in every corner of the civilized world and for cleaning almost everything. They are guaranteed to be superior in all respects to any other Mill made. Address A. P. DICKEY MFG. CO., Racine, Wis. Successors to Dickey & Prime. (This is the Firm that makes the TWO SPECTACULAR TILT ROLLER and "PEERLESS CORN" SHELLER. Their goods are always considered among the best made.—Ed.

PENNYROYAL WAFERS. Prescription of a physician who has had a long experience in treating female diseases. Is used monthly with perfect success by over 10,000 ladies. Pleasant, safe, effectual. Ladies ask your druggist for Pennyroyal Wafers and take no substitute, or inclose postal note for one dollar, in letter, and will send by return mail. Sold by all druggists, $1 per box. Address THE EUREKA CHEMICAL CO., Detroit, Mich. For Sale in Tecumseh by G. ... & Co.

THE STAR, A Newspaper supporting the policy of a Democratic Administration. Published in the City of New York. WILLIAM DORSHEIMER, Editor and Proprietor. Daily, Sunday, and Weekly Editions.

THE WEEKLY STAR, A Sixteen-page Newspaper, issued every Wednesday. A clean, pure, bright and interesting FAMILY PAPER. It contains the latest news, down to the hour of going to press. Agricultural, Market, Fashion, Household, Political, Financial and Commercial, Poetical, Humorous and Editorial. Department of market reports under the direction of trained journalists of the highest ability. Its sixteen pages are filled with good things from its contributors. Original stories by distinguished American and foreign writers of fiction. THE DAILY STAR. The Daily Star contains all the news of the day in condensed form. Its special correspondence in London, in Washington, Albany, Boston, Vienna and Dublin ... At Washington, Albany and other news centers, the Daily Star has special agents employed by the Tri Star, to furnish the latest news by telegraph. Its Dispatches are unsurpassed. The Financial and Market Reports are unusually full and reliable. Special terms and extraordinary inducements to agents and canvassers. Send for circulars.

TERMS OF THE WEEKLY STAR to Subscribers (free of postage in the United States and Canada, outside the limits of New York City): Per copy ... $1 25; Clubs of Ten ... 10 00; Clubs of Fifteen (and one extra to organizer) ... 15 00.

TERMS OF THE DAILY STAR to Subscribers: Every day (for one year including Sunday) ... $7 00; Daily, without Sunday, one year ... 6 00; Every day, six months ... 3 50; Daily, without Sunday, six months ... 3 00.

Address THE STAR, 26 and 28 North William St., New York.

JAS. H. POTTER, Manufacturer of and dealer in all kinds of FURNITURE! Order work a specialty. Turning done to order.

THIS PAPER may be found on file at GEO. P. ROWELL & CO'S Newspaper Advertising Bureau (10 Spruce Street), where advertising contracts may be made for it in NEW YORK.

ESTATE OF JOSEPH W. GRAY.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee. At a session of the Probate Court for the County of Lenawee holden at the Probate Office, in the city of Adrian, on Monday, the 5th day of September, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven. Present, Norman Geddes, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of Joseph W. Gray, deceased. On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of Ira Gray, executor of the last will and testament of said deceased, alleging that he has paid all the funeral expenses and debts of said deceased, and praying that said account may be allowed, and for a assignment of the residue of said estate according to the provisions of said will, to be discharged, and his bond be cancelled. It is ordered, that Monday, the 3rd day of October next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court then and there to be held at the Probate office, in the city of Adrian, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted. And it is further ordered, That said executor give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the TECUMSEH HERALD, a newspaper printed and circulating in said County, for three successive weeks previous to said hearing. NORMAN GEDDES, Judge of Probate. (A True Copy.) A. E. BARAGAR, Probate Register.

ESTATE OF THOMAS B. GOULD.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee. At a session of the Probate Court for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate office, in the city of Adrian, on Tuesday, the 6th day of September, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven. Present, Norman Geddes, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of Thomas B. Gould, deceased. On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of Thomas B. Gould, executor of the last will and testament of said deceased, praying that he be licensed to sell the real estate of said deceased in said petition described, for reasons therein set forth. It is ordered, That Monday, the 3rd day of October next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court then and there to be held at the Probate office, in the city of Adrian, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted. And it is further ordered, That said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the TECUMSEH HERALD, a newspaper printed and circulating in said County, for three successive weeks previous to said hearing. NORMAN GEDDES, Judge of Probate. (A True Copy.) A. E. BARAGAR, Probate Register.

COMMISSIONERS' NOTICE.

IN the matter of the estate of Ira McClure, deceased. The undersigned having been appointed by the Judge of Probate for the county of Lenawee, Michigan, commissioners to receive, examine, adjust all claims and demands against the estate of said deceased, hereby give notice that they will meet for that purpose at the store of S. P. Hosmer, in the village of Tecumseh, in said county, Michigan, on the 11th day of October, and on the 5th day of March, 1888, at 9 o'clock in the forenoon of each of said days, and that six months from the 5th day of September last were allowed by the said court for the creditors of said estate to present their claims for examination and allowance. Dated, September 7th, 1887. S. PERRY HOSMER, GEORGE W. MARSDEN, Commissioners.

MORTGAGE SALE.

ON the 5th day of November, default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage made by Brown mortgaged to William Gallup, of that tract or parcel of land situate in the township of Fairfield, county of Lenawee, state of Michigan known and described as the south half (½) of the north-east quarter (¼) of the south-west quarter (¼) of section ten (10), township number eight south, of range three east, containing forty (40) acres of land be the same more or less, to secure the payment of sixty dollars (60) in one year from date with interest at ten per cent annually. Several payments have been paid on said mortgage among which was one of Seven Hundred Dollars August 1st, 1879, and one of Three Hundred and Forty-one Dollars, July ... said mortgage was on the 5th day of November, 1881 duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for said county of Lenawee in Liber 71 of Mortgages, on pages 681, 682 and 683. Default has been made in the conditions of said mortgage by which the power of sale in said mortgage contained has become operative. There is now claimed to be due and unpaid on said mortgage the sum of Four Hundred and Eighty-one and 1-100 dollars, and no proceedings have been instituted to recover the same at law or in equity. Notice is therefore hereby given that by virtue of said power of sale and of the statute in such case provided, the said mortgaged premises above and in said mortgage described, will be sold at public vendue to the highest bidder, at the east front door of the Court House in the city of Adrian, in said County, on Saturday, the 15th day of November, 1887, at one o'clock in the afternoon, to pay the amount then due on said mortgage, and the interest and charges of this foreclosure, and twenty dollars attorney fee, as provided for by law. Dated August 11, 1887. WILLIAM WEATHERBY, Mortgagee. SALSBURY & O'MEALEY, Attys for Mortgagee.

ESTATE OF MARANDA DEWEY.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee. At a session of the Probate Court for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate office, in the city of Adrian, on Monday, the 5th day of September, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven. Present, Norman Geddes, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of Maranda Dewey, deceased. On reading and filing the petition of Alphonzo Dewey, a son of said deceased, praying that the administration of said estate be granted to Charles Barridge, or to some other person. It is ordered, That Monday, the 3rd day of September next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said court then to be held at the Probate office, in the city of Adrian, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted. It is further ordered, That said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the TECUMSEH HERALD, a newspaper printed and circulating in said County, for three successive weeks previous to said hearing. NORMAN GEDDES, Judge of Probate. (A True Copy.) A. E. BARAGAR, Probate Register.

COMMISSIONERS' NOTICE.

IN THE MATTER of the Estate of Lucy Leonard, deceased. The undersigned have been appointed by the Judge of Probate for the county of Lenawee, commissioners to receive, examine, adjust all claims and demands against the estate of said deceased, hereby give notice that we will meet for that purpose at the office of Charles Partridge, in the village of Tecumseh, in said county, on the 5th day of September, and on the 5th day of March next, at 9 o'clock in the forenoon of each of said days, and that six months from the 5th day of September last were allowed by the said court for the creditors of said estate to present their claims for examination and allowance. Dated, August 11, 1887. CHARLES R. REIDOUT, WILLIAM G. WEAVER, Commissioners.

N.Y. & N.E. SHOE MFRS SELLING AGCY. 182 JEFF. AVE. DETROIT. WRITE FOR PRICE LIST. BOOTS SHOES RUBBERS & FELT

ADVERTISING contracts made for THIS PAPER with us may be left on file with LORD & THOMAS Advertising Agents, Chicago.

D. A. TRASK'S
MAGNETIC OINTMENT.

The Great Healer of all Inflammed Injuries and Disorders.

Is constantly effecting the most wonderful cures, while the unparalleled demand with which it meets, attests its at-once as the greatest medicine of the age for outward application. Those of the most fractious are convinced, and the most skeptical are compelled to believe in the virtues of this great remedy.

WHAT IT CURES.

Burns, Scalds, Cuts, Bruises, Sprains, Burns, Sore Throat, Lameness, Rheumatism, Piles, Inflammation of Lungs and Bowels, Bronchitis, Croup, Salt Rheum, Chilblains, Affection of the Spine, Erysipelas, Nervous Irritation, and all disorders attendant with Inflammation.

It never fails to restore the natural functions of the skin and equalize the circulation of the blood. In this means a controlling power is gained over the most malignant forms of disease. It penetrates to every portion of the human frame; every bone, muscle, vein, nerve and ligament is reached out and made sensible to its soothing and healing influence. Hence it copes readily with internal as well as external diseases.

Over 40 Years,

Ointment has been used by the people throughout the United States, and our confidence in its qualities is such that as we have no space to insert any of the numerous certificates of cures which we have from all parts of the country we simply ask those readers of this notice who have ever used this Ointment, to frankly tell their experience with it to inquiring friends. Not one in a hundred would do this we should be perfectly satisfied with the result. Full directions for use will be found on pamphlet around each bottle.

Price 25 and 40 cents per bottle. Sold by all Dealers in medicine.

D. RANSOM, SON & CO., Prop's
Buffalo, New York.

THE ELDREDGE
"B"
SEWING MACHINE WITH Automatic,
Self-threading
Cylinder
Shuttle.

No. 3.

The ELDREDGE "B" is sold with the guarantee of being the BEST that can be MADE.

AGENTS WANTED.

ELDREDGE MANUFACTURING CO.
363 and 365 WABASH AVE.,
CHICAGO, ILL.

B. F. STEINHOFF'S
Dental Rooms.

OVERBAKER & HALL'S.
GAS FOR EXTRACTING.
THE LOWEST PRICES for THE BEST WORK

PATENTS!

Patents, Trade Marks and Copyrights

Obtained, and all other business in the U.S. Patent Office attended to for MODERATE FEES.
Our office is opposite the U. S. Patent Office, and we can obtain Patents in less time than those remote from Washington.
SEND MODEL OR DRAWING. We advise as to patentability free of charge and make NO CHARGE unless we obtain patent.
Letters sent here to Postmaster, Supt. of Money Order Div., and to officials of the U. S. Patent Office.
For circular, advice, terms and references to actual clients in your own state or county, write to
C. A. SNOW & CO.,
Opposite Patent Office Washington, D.C.

C. A. Wright & Co.,

Wall Paper
AND Decorations.

A. Wright & Co.

SPRAGUE & SON
PATENTS
DETROIT, MICH.

PATENTS OBTAINED in U. S. and all foreign countries. Examinations made. Licenses and assignments drawn. Infringements prosecuted in all Federal courts. Advice and pamphlets free. Scientific expert—validity opinions given. No models required. Established A. D. 1865. THOS. S. SPRAGUE & SON, 37 Congress Street West, Detroit, Mich.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

Excitement in Texas.

Great excitement has been caused in the vicinity of Paris, Tex., by the remarkable recovery of Mr. J. E. Corley, who was so helpless he could not turn in bed or raise his head; everybody said he was dying of Consumption. A trial bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery was sent him. Finding relief, he bought a large bottle and a box of Dr. King's New life Pills; by the time he had taken two boxes of Pills and two bottles of the Discovery, he was well and had gained in flesh thirty-six pounds.

Trial Bottle of this Great Discovery for Consumption free at
C. A. Wright & CO.

The fellow who thinks he can take the whole bakery is very often the one that doesn't do it.

Important to seven out of every ten people.—The moment constipation begins, that moment the blood begins to be impure and poor, and the system to demand the use of Laxador.

An auctioneer does as he is bid, a post-master as he is directed.

If you want to have your baby healthy and beautiful, four things are necessary: Fresh air, good food, bright sunshine and Dr. Bull's Baby Syrup.

Some of our prominent citizens have been cured of chronic rheumatism by that wonderful pain-banisher, Salvation Oil. Price 25 cents.

To purchasers of jewelry we would suggest that circus rings are getting cheaper.

"Why, Jones, what a ho(a)rse you have in your throat!" "Yes, I raised it from a col(d)t in my head. I've too much live stock." "Well, like cures like; Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup will cure you. The Bull will quickly scare the ho(a)rse away."

Fly-time—When the old gentleman invades the parlor, accompanied by a club.

MAKE YOUR OWN BITTERS

One package of STEKETEE'S DRY BITTERS will make one gallon of the best Bitters known, which will cure Indigestion, Pains in the Stomach, Fever and Ague, and acts upon the Kidney's and Bladder, and is the best Tonic known. Can be used with or without spirits. Its far the cheapest remedy known. Full directions on each package. Sold by druggists or sent by mail, postage prepaid. Price only 25 cents. U. S. Stamps taken in payment. Address GEO. G. STEKETEE, Grand Rapids, Mich. This paper will say it is safe to send me money.

The best thing for a snob is a snub.

Chronic Cough and Cold

and all diseases of the Throat and Lungs can be cured by the use of Scott's Emulsion, as it contains the healing virtues of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites in their fullest form. "I consider Scott's Emulsion the remedy par-excellence in Tuberculous and Strumous Affections, to say nothing of ordinary colds and throat troubles."—W. R. S. Connell, M. D., Manchester, O.

The pipe, like music, soothes the savage breast, but not every smoker likes an overchewer.

English spavin liniment removes all hard, soft, or calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavin, curbs, splints, sweeney, stifles, sprains, sore and swollen throat coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle. Warranted. Sold by Baker & Hall, Druggists, Tecumseh Mich.

Itch, mange, and scratches of every kind on human or animals cured in 30 minutes by Woolford's Sanitary Lotion. This never fails. Sold by Baker & Hall, Druggists, Tecumseh Mich.

A fast man is very slow when it comes to paying his debts.

Drunkenness or the Liquor Habit Positively Cured by Administering Dr Haines' Golden Specific.

It can be given in a cup of coffee or tea without the knowledge of the person taking it; is absolutely harmless and will effect a permanent and speedy cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or a habitual drunkard. Thousands of drunkards have been made temperate men who have taken Golden Specific in their coffee without their knowledge, and to-day believe they quit drinking on their own free will. IT NEVER FAILS. The system once impregnated with the Specific it becomes an utter impossibility for the liquor appetite to exist. For full particulars, address GOLDEN SPECIFIC CO., 185 Race st., Cincinnati, O.

If you want to see a wild cat, simply hold up the domestic article by the tail.

Can't Sleep Nights is the complaint of thousands suffering from Asthma, Consumption, Coughs, etc. Did you ever try Acker's English Remedy? It is the best preparation known for all Lung Troubles, sold on a positive guarantee at 10c., 50c.
C. A. WRIGHT & Co., Druggists.

The Homelest Man in Tecumseh

As well as the handsomest, and others are invited to call on Baker & Hall, and get free a trial bottle of Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs, a remedy that is selling entirely upon its merits and is guaranteed to cure and relieve all Chronic and Acute Coughs, Asthma, Bronchitis and Consumption. Price 50 cents and $1.

Don't trifle with any Throat or Lung Disease. If you have a Cough or Cold, or the children are threatened with Croup or Whooping-Cough, use Acker's English Remedy and prevent further trouble. It is a positive cure, and we guarantee it. Price 10 and 50c.
C. A. WRIGHT & Co., Druggists.

FIRES AND OTHER ACCIDENTS.

Louis Streif, of Wilson, Wis., Tuesday, saw that the barn of his neighbor, Mr. Staus, had been struck by lightning, and was burning. He put on his coat and hastened across a field to aid in subduing the flames. He was yet a distance from the scene of the fire, when a bolt struck and instantly killed Streif.

Five men lost their lives by the burning of the Maverick oil works at East Boston, Wednesday.

The railroad shops, machinery, etc., of the Milwaukee road at Yankton, D. T., have been burned. Loss, $50,000.

Deer, Hanna & Co's wooden mills, eighteen miles west of Greenville, Mich., together with a large quantity of lumber, were burned Thursday. Loss, $50,000, insured $1,000.

Severson & Bergson's planing mill at Stoughton, Wis., was burned by fire Thursday. Loss, $10,000; a tramp is thought to have caused the conflagration.

The lights of the observatory at North Yonkers, N. Y., caved in Friday and buried three men under 120 feet of earth.

MRS. HENDRICKS OBJECTS.

The Dead Vice President's Wife Disapproves of Sculptor Parks' Work.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 7.—Parks, the artist, arrived here Friday and exhibited to the monument commissioners and friends of the late Vice President Hendricks the model of the bronze statue of the latter. He has been laboring on it for two years. All are very much satisfied with the artist's success. The base is of pure Carrara marble, executed in Florence, Italy, and is a replica from the model made immediately after Mr. Hendricks's death. It is pronounced perfect. It is of life size, and will be used as a study for the bronze statue, which will be much larger. The monument proper, for which the designs are completed, will be thirty-two feet high, and will cost $25,000. It will be composed of white granite and bronze.

ARTIST PARKS.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 10.—The committee having in charge the erection of a monument to Vice President Hendricks has encountered a serious embarrassment. Sculptor Parks, who has for months been at work on a design for the monument, is now in the city with the result of his labor—a base in marble and a statue in plaster. Many who have seen these have expressed their approval, and have complimented the artist on his success. It appears, however, that Mrs. Hendricks is not so well pleased with the likeness. She said—"The bust is a beautiful piece of marble and doubtless a work of art, but it does not resemble Mr. Hendricks. In looking at it I viewed it under various lights and tried to recognize the resemblance, but I could not see that Mr. Hendrick's expression was there."

MRS. HENDRICKS.

"It has been said that you prefer a shaft to a statue, and that this accounts for your dissatisfaction."

"I have no communication with the committee whatever, and certainly have expressed no preference. I have the highest regard for Mr. Parks as a sculptor, but when called in for an expression of opinion of his work I could not do otherwise than express my conviction. I should be very sorry to interfere in any way with the work of the committee, and certainly have never suggested whether they should erect a shaft or a statue.

To Build a Water-Power Canal.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 10.—The Edison Power and Light company have let a contract for the building of a water-power canal along the rapids of the St. Mary's river at Sault Ste Marie. It is intended to complete the work in sixty days. The canal will be about 2,000 feet long and 70 feet wide, and will be situated between the ship canal and the rapids. The object will be to furnish by the use of immense water power, electric power with which to run elevators, mills and an endless variety of other machinery and an electric light plant.

THE MARKETS.

CHICAGO Sept. 10.

Following were the quotations on the board of trade to-day: Wheat—No. 2 September, opened 69c bid, closed 68¾c nominal; October, opened 70¼c, closed 70c; November, opened 71¼c, closed 71⅛c. Corn—No. 2 September, opened 41¾c; closed 42⅛c asked; October, opened 42¼c, closed 42⅝c asked; November, opened 42⅝c, closed 42¾@43c bid. Oats—No. 2 September, opened 25c, closed 25⅛c nominal; October, opened 25¼c, closed 25½c asked; November, opened 25⅝c, closed 25⅞c. Pork—Year, opened $12.25 bid, closed $12.30 nominal; January, opened $12.75, closed $12.77½ bid. Lard—September, opened $6.55 bid, closed $6.60 bid.

Live stock—The following were the prices at the Union stock yards: Hogs—Market opened active and firm at yesterday's prices, but weakened later, with a decline in prices of 5c; light grades, $5.10@5.40; rough packing, $5.00@5.20; heavy packing and shipping lots, $5.20@5.60. Cattle—Market strong; beeves, $3.00@5.00; cows, $1.40@3.00; stockers, $1.50@3.00. Sheep—Market firm; common to choice natives, $3.00@4.50; lambs, $4.25@5.25.

Produce: Butter—Elgin creamery, 23@24c per lb; select dairy, 17@19c; packing stock, 12½@13c. Eggs—Close candled, 13@14c per doz. Poultry—Chickens, 12c per lb; ducks and turkeys, 8@9c. Potatoes—75@85c per bu. Apples $1.50@2.00 per bbl.

New York.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.

Wheat—Steady; No. 2 red winter September, 79⅝c; do October, 80⅝c. Corn—Dull; No. 2 mixed cash, 52c; do October, 51½c; do November, 50⅝c. Oats—Firmer; No. 2 mixed September, 32½c. Rye—Dull, but steady. Barley—Nominal. Pork—Dull; old mess, $15.50. Lard—$6.90, September and October; $6.85, November.

St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 10.

Wheat—No. 2 red cash, 68½c, October, 70⅛c; November, 72⅞c; December, 73½c. Corn—Firm; cash, 39¼@39½c; October, 39¾c; November, 38⅝c, May, 41⅝c. Oats—Steady; cash, 24⅝@24¾c; October, 24½c; November, 25½c. Whisky—$1.05. Pork—$15.25. Lard—$6.45.

Toledo.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Sept. 10.

Wheat—Easy and quiet; cash 74c; October, 75c; November, 76½c; December, 77½c; May, 82½c. Corn—Steady; cash, 44c; October, 45c asked; May, 46½c. Oats—Firm; cash, 30½c asked. Clover seed—Easy; cash, $1.25; October, $1.30 asked; December, $1.40.

Detroit.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 10.

Wheat—No. 1 white, cash, 73½c; No. 2 red, cash and September, 74½c; October, 74⅝c bid; December, 77½c; May, 81c asked. Corn—No. 2, 44½c. Oats—No. 2, 27c; No. 2 white, 28½c.

Milwaukee.

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 10.

Wheat—Dull; cash, 69½c; October, 70c. Corn—Weak; No. 3, 41c. Oats—Strong; No. 2 white, 28½c. Rye—Higher; No. 1, 48½c. Barley—Stronger; No. 2, 58½c.

YOUTHFUL DEPRAVITY.

CRIMES COMMITTED BY CHILDREN UNDER 15 YEARS OLD.

A Wisconsin Schoolboy on Trial for Murdering a Playmate—A 5-Year-Old Boy Crushes His Sister's Skull—The Haddock Murder Trial Grave Charge Against a Retired Minister—Bald Knobbers.

JEFFERSON, Wis., Sept. 10.—The first case on the criminal calendar of the circuit court, now in session here, is that of George Schroedl, a school boy, charged with the murder of a playmate. The case is the first of the kind that has been tried here. For several days prior to the killing, which occurred on Friday, Feb. 18, 1887, an ill feeling had existed between the alleged murderer, George Schroedl, and Peter Schwellenbach. Returning from school, they engaged in a quarrel, brought on partially through the assistance of other boys. Schwellenbach insulted Schroedl, who told him if he did it again he would stab him. Schwellenbach repeated his act and Schroedl instantly produced a pocket knife and stabbed him to the heart, making a small cut in the apex of the heart. The injured boy walked about a block after he was stabbed and fell dead. Schwellenbach was 14 years old and Schroedl 15.

Murdered by a 5-Year-Old.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Sept. 10.—In Chester county Thursday, Emma Wicker, a colored girl, 14 years of age, was murdered by her 5-year-old brother, Jesse. The children had a quarrel, and the boy, becoming angry, picked up an iron hooker, with which he dealt his sister a heavy blow over the head, crushing her skull. She died in a few hours. This is the fourth murder committed by children in this state during the past six months.

Boy Train Wreckers on Trial.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—George Openshaw, aged 9 years, and Jerome Miller, aged 10 years, the two boys who derailed a train at the Seventeenth street crossing of the Weehawken branch of the Erie railroad, were arraigned Friday morning charged with malicious mischief. Openshaw admitted that he misplaced the switch that caused the derailment. Both boys were bailed in $500 for examination Monday.

MISCELLANEOUS CRIMES.

The Haddock Murder Trial.

SIOUX CITY, Iowa, Sept. 10.—No new developments have as yet been made in the Haddock trial. Of a dozen witnesses examined by the state the stories told have been identical with the testimony in the Arensdorf trial. District Attorney Murphy and the hack driver that took him from the depot that fateful night, were on the stand Saturday. They gave corroborating evidence, showing that the defendant, Munchrath, was near the scene of the tragedy only a few moments before the killing. Leavitt will probably go on the stand soon. The feeling continues to grow that a conviction of conspiracy will result.

A Mysterious Shooting.

GALESBURG, Ills., Sept. 10.—The preliminary examination of George E. Nixon, of Abingdon, charged with the murder of Thomas Cave, occurred in Monmouth Friday, and resulted in his release. James Clark, a brother of the woman whom Cave tried to shoot, was then arrested on suspicion of having killed Cave. It was given out that Cave committed suicide, but the hole in the back of his head is too large to have been made by his revolver, but it is the size of the cartridge of Clark's revolver. The preliminary examination of Clark occurs in Monmouth.

Grave Charges Against an Ex-Official.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Sept. 7.—The examination of ex-Warden Reed of the Stillwater penitentiary, on charges preferred by his successor, Warden Stordock, was begun Tuesday by the state board of charities and corrections. Reed is charged with appropriating supplies, taking money from prisoners, and with criminal intimacy with female prisoners. One murderess testified to the truth of the latter charge, and several others offered circumstantial testimony. The examination will occupy several days.

Arrested on a Terrible Charge.

SCOTTS, D. T., Sept. 10.—W. R. Glenn, a retired minister residing on a farm near Parkston, is lying in jail at Olivet on the terrible charge of attempting a criminal assault on his two daughters. Glenn is over 60 years old, and says the Lord commanded him to commit the act. The girls are over 16, and it was only by their united resistance that the design of their unnatural father was overcome. The act was attempted Wednesday. He would be lynched if the people in this neighborhood could lay hands on him.

Bald-Knobbers Plead Guilty.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Sept. 10.—In the United States court Friday the Douglas county Bald-Knobbers abandoned all defense and nine of them entered pleas of guilty on two separate indictments for violation of the Ku-Klux act of congress. One Bald-Knobber, who was under bond escaped Friday night, and has not been heard from. All the prisoners were remanded to jail. Sentences will be passed next week.

Five Sawmills Destroyed.

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 12.—Five sawmills burned here Saturday night. Loss, $270,000. The fire broke out at 7:40 p. m. and was soon beyond the control of the department. The mills are located on an island near the east side of the Mississippi river, and the fire quickly spread from McMullen & Co.'s mill, where it originated, to the other four, all being consumed. The losses are approximately as follows: McMullen & Co., $50,000; C. H. Smith & Co., $50,000; Eastman, Bovey & Co., $70,000; Call & Weeks, $60,000; Merriman, Barrows & Co., $60,000; total, $270,000. Insurance not yet known.

The St. Louis Encampment.

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—The Grand Army encampment at St. Louis will be attended by about 75,000 veterans of the war, 8,000 of whom, or nearly an army corps, will go from Illinois, on the 30th and 31st inst. Col. James A. Sexton, of Chicago, has been assigned to the command of the Illinois camp, by direction of the department, and has issued to each post in the state a circular under explanatory of the duties and operations to be performed during the encampment.

Dr. St. John Indicted.

CHICAGO Sept. 12.—Dr. St. John, of this city; Capt. John Irwin, of the Canadian schooner Blake, and Levi Dell, of this city, were indicted by the grand jury Saturday for assisting in the escape of W. J. McGarigle, the county boodler. St. John and Dell both gave bail. Capt. Irwin has not been seen yet, as he is probably in Canada, and will stay clear of this part for awhile.

Suspended the Restoration Order.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 9.—A special to The Evening Wisconsin from Eau Claire says the United States land office at that city received an order from Acting Commissioner Stockslager at Washington Friday suspending the restoration of the indemnity lands of the Omaha road until further orders.

A Dressmaker's Experience.

Dear Sir:—As Mr. Hinman, the druggist, told you, I am a great friend of your remedy. I have used it at intervals during the past 12 years. It carried me safely through the critical period of change of life without a single sick day and it did great things.

I always recommend it where I see a case that needs it. It always does splendidly, often accomplishing more than you have ever claimed for it, and more than anyone would readily believe who did not personally know the cases.

I now consider myself well, but I work hard at my business, dressmaking—and when I am tired and nervous a small dose of Zoa-Phora quiets and rests me. I always have it in my house.

Yours truly,
Mrs. Mary C. Chandler.
Battle Creek, Mich., Feb. 20, 1888.
To H. G. Colman, Secretary.

A MAN WHO USES COIT'S PAINT NEVER SWEARS

PAINT

By using COIT & CO'S ONE-COAT BUGGY PAINT Paint Friday, run it to church Sunday. Eight Fashionable Shades: Black, Maroon, Vermilion Blue, Yellow, Olive, Lake, Brown and Wagon Green. No Varnishing necessary. Dries hard with a "shine." One Coat and job is done.

YOUR BUGGY

Tip top for Chairs, Lawn Seats, Sash, Flower Pots, Baby Carriages, Carts, Poles, Furniture, Front Doors, Store fronts, Screen Doors, Boats, Mantles, Iron Fences, in fact everything just the thing for the lady to use about the house.

FOR ONE DOLLAR

COIT'S HONEST

Are you going to Paint this year? If so, don't buy a paint containing water or benzine when for the same money (or nearly so) you can procure COIT & CO'S PURE PAINT that is warranted to be an HONEST, GENUINE LINSEED-OIL PAINT and free from water and benzine. Demand this brand and take no other. Merchants handling it are our agents and authorized by us in writing to warrant it to wear 5 YEARS with 3 COATS or 3 YEARS with 2 COATS. Our Shades are the Latest Styles used in the East now becoming so popular in the West, and up with the times. Try this brand of HONEST PAINT and you will never regret it. This to the wise is sufficient.

HOUSE PAINT

COIT'S FLOOR PAINT Did you ever buy Floor Paint that never dried beyond the sticky point, waste a week spoil the job, and then swear? Next time call for COIT & CO'S FLOOR PAINT 4 popular and suitable shades, warranted to dry hard as a rock over night. No trouble. No swearing. Try it and be convinced.

WONT DRY STICKY

CAUTION! Be careful when painting are offered by Dealers stating that they are about the same as Coit's. Insist on having COIT & CO'S. Genuine Goods. COIT & CO., CHICAGO, Manufacturers.

K. B

KING OF THE BLOOD

The Most Thorough Purifier of the Blood Yet Discovered.

Cures all Humors, from a common tion to the worst Scrofula.

It purifies the Blood.
It invigorates the Liver.
It regulates the Bowels.
It strengthens the stomach.
It gives vivacity in place of lassitude; cheerfulness in place of gloom, and robust vigor in place of debility.

Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Disordered Liver, Constipation, Nervous Affections, General Debility, in short all the numerous diseases and discomforts caused by impure blood are speedily conquered by this powerful corrector, the chief and sovereign of all ancient or modern medical discoveries—KING OF THE BLOOD.

Its name is its best description as it is a royal dispenser of the blessings of health and vanquishes the foes that lurk in the blood.

It banishes PIMPLES, SALT RHEUM, SCALY ERUPTIONS, ULCERS, SCALD HEAD, FEVER SORES, and all SCROFULOUS DISORDERS.

It checks CONSUMPTION in its early stages. It has frequently cured it when advanced.

It disperses TUMORS and CANCERS without the surgeon's knife.

It cures DROPSY, general or partial.

It cures FEMALE WEAKNESS and DISEASE.

It reduces in a safe and effectual manner all swellings, external or internal.

It eradicates the effects of Venerial Disease and Mineral Poisons and establishes a sound constitution.

Many certificates, much further information and full directions to bring, will be found in the pamphlet, "Treatise on Diseases of the Blood," in which each bottle is enclosed.

Price $1 per bottle containing 12 ounces, or 60 doses. Sold by every druggist in medicine.

If your druggist does not happen to have it on hand, request him to order a supply of it for you. It will be cheaper than for you to order direct of us, and less trouble.

D. RANSOM, SON & CO., Proprietors,
BUFFALO N. Y.

WONDERFUL SUCCESS.

ECONOMY IS WEALTH.

All the PATTERNS you wish to use during the year for nothing (a saving of from $30 to $40) by subscribing for

THE TECUMSEH HERALD
AND
Demorest's Illustrated Monthly Magazine

With Twelve Orders for Cut Paper Patterns of your own selection and of any size,

BOTH PUBLICATIONS, ONE YEAR, FOR $3.00 (THREE DOLLARS).

DEMOREST'S THE BEST Of all the Magazines.

CONTAINING STORIES, POEMS, AND OTHER LITERARY ATTRACTIONS, COMBINING ARTISTIC, SOCIAL, TRUE, AND HOUSEHOLD ART.

Illustrated with Original Steel Engravings, Photogravures, Oil Pictures and fine Woodcuts, making it the Model Magazine of America.

Each Magazine contains a coupon entitling the holder to the selection of a pattern illustrated in the fashion department, to that the buyer, and in any of the sizes manufactured, make a pattern during the year of the value of over three dollars.

DEMOREST'S MONTHLY is justly entitled the World's Model Magazine. The Largest in Form, the Largest in Circulation, and the best TWO Dollar Family Magazine issued. 1887 will be the Twenty-third year of its publication. It is continually improved and so conducted as to place it at the head of Family Periodicals. It contains 72 pages, large quarto, 8 x 11½ inches, elegantly printed and fully illustrated. Published by W. Jennings Demorest, New York.

AND BY SPECIAL AGREEMENT COMBINED WITH THE
Tecumseh Herald at $3.00 Per Year.

N. W. AYER & SON
ADVERTISING AGENTS
TIMES BUILDING PHILADELPHIA
Cor. Chestnut and Eighth Sts.
Receive Advertisements for this Paper.
ESTIMATES For NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING FREE
Send 10c. in Stamps for AYER & SON'S MANUAL

RAILROAD TIME TABLES.

L. S. & M. S. RAILROAD.

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	No. 115. Mail.	No. 117. Express	No. 149 Acc.
Jackson	6 15 A.M.	2 25 P.M.	1 00 P.M.
Napoleon	6 36 "	2 48 "	1 47 "
Manchester	6 57 "	3 12 "	3 12 "
Clinton	7 04 "	3 21 "	3 31 "
Tecumseh	7 20 "	3 41 "	4 07 "
Adrian	8 05 "	4 15 "	7 05 "
Detroit	10 05 "	6 20 "	.....
Toledo	1 30 "	8 05 "	.....

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No. 116. Mail.	No. 118. Express.	No. 148. Accom.
Detroit	9 00 A.M.	6 45 P.M.	.....
Toledo	11 40 "	9 00 "	.....
Adrian	10 30 "	8 48 "	6 40 A.M.
Tecumseh	11 05 "	9 15 "	7 20 "
Clinton	11 25 "	9 35 "	7 46 "
Manchester	11 32 "	9 42 "	8 30 "
Norvell	11 50 "	9 58 "	8 55 "
Napoleon	12 00 P.M.	10 07 "	9 05 "
Jackson	12 25 "	10 32 "	10 45 "

☞ Trains run by New Standard of 90th Meridian Time.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Coupon tickets can now be procured at this station over best routes to all principal cities in the United States.

N. S. SATTERTHWAITE, TICKET AGENT.
G. H. WORCESTER, SUPT. DETROIT DIVISION.

Cincinnati, Jackson & Mackinaw R. R.

MICHIGAN DIVISION.

Passenger Time Table.

IN EFFECT AUG. 7, 1887.

GOING EAST. No. 11 Pass	GOING EAST. No. 13 Pass	GOING EAST. No. 1 Pass	Central Time. STATIONS.	GOING WEST. No. 2 Pass	GOING WEST. No. 4 Pass	GOING WEST. No. 12
P. M.	A. M.	P. M.		A. M.	P. M.	A. M.
7 10	10 50	4 45	A...Toledo...Lv	8 20	5 20	6 00
5 40	10 00	3 50	Dundee	9 10	6 10	9 10
4 35	9 35	3 31	Britton	9 45	6 41	10 15
3 35	9 30	3 25	Ridgeway	9 41	6 40	10 35
3 16	9 20	3 16	Tecumseh	9 52	6 52	11 20
2 25	9 07	3 02	Tipton	10 07	7 06	11 45
2 00	8 51	2 50	Clinton	10 22	7 23	12 15
1 30	8 41	2 35	Devils Lake	10 34	7 36	12 35
1 15	8 35	2 28	Addison	10 43	7 46	1 15
12 10	8 20	2 10	Jerome	11 02	8 04	2 10
11 55	8 14	2 02	Moscow	11 11	8 14	2 35
11 23	8 04	1 53	Hanover	11 23	8 25	3 10
10 30	7 35	1 41	Pulaski	11 34	8 30	3 50
9 40	7 30	1 32	Homer	11 54	8 57	4 40
9 00	7 24	1 06	Eckford	12 04	9 09	5 00
8 20	7 10	12 51	Marshall	12 28	9 30	6 00
No. 7						No. 8
P. M.						A. M.
7 50			Marshall			7 15
7 40	6 50	12 42	Ceresco	12 42	9 41	7 26
7 20	6 40	12 23	L Battle Cr'k A	1 03	10 00	7 45
	A. M.			P. M.	P. M.	A. M.
7 01		12 03	Augusta	1 25		8 04
6 54		11 52	Yorkville	1 35		8 15
6 47		11 46	Richland	1 42		8 22
6 36		11 30	Doster	2 01		8 40
6 13		11 15	Monteith	2 20		9 00
5 59		11 04	Fisk	2 30		9 07
5 52		10 58	Kellogg	2 37		9 14
5 45		10 50	L...Allegan...A	2 50		9 25
P. M.		A. M.		P. M.		A. M.

No. 7 and 8 make close connections at Monteith with G. R. & I.

TRAIN CONNECTIONS.

No. 2 connects with the G. R. & I. at Monteith; and at Allegan with the C. & W. M. Ry. for Grand Rapids, Muskegan, and points north. No. 2 makes close connection at Britton with the Wabash & Western Ry. for Detroit, and No. 1 makes close connection with the Wabash & Western Ry. train from Detroit. All trains connect at Toledo with the W. & L. E., C. H. V. & T., L. S. & M. S., Wabash Ry., Pa. Co., and all railroads diverging. Connections are also made at Dundee with the T. A. A. & N. M., at Tecumseh, Jerome, Hanover, Homer and Allegan with the L. S. & M. S. Ry., and at Battle Creek with the C. & G. T. RY.

THE NEW SHORT LINE BETWEEN
CHICAGO & TOLEDO

Commencing Sunday, Aug. 7, the Cincinnati, Jackson & Mackinaw R. R. (formerly M. & O.) in connection with the C. & G. T. R. via Battle Creek, will inaugurate through Pullman palace car service between Toledo and Chicago, making direct connections with roads out of Chicago for the West, Northwest, and Southwest. Train will leave Tecumseh going west 1:20 P.M., arriving in Chicago at 8:15 A.M., returning will leave Chicago at 5:15 P.M. and arrive in Tecumseh at 5:32 A.M. For further particulars in regard to berths, rates, etc., call at city ticket office or F. Allen at depot.

H. R. JOHNSTON, Traffic Manager. T. C. M. SCHINDLER, Gen'l Pass. Agt.
F. ALLEN, Station Agent. A. E. KENNEDY, City Ticket Agent.

TAKE THE WABASH ROUTE.

TRAINS GOING EAST.

LEAVE BRITTON:
*Atlantic Express, limited	4 35	A.M.
Detroit Accommodation	8 00	"
*Niagara Falls and Boston Express	10 00	"
*New York Limited Express	10 21	P.M.
Way Freight	8 45	"

TRAINS GOING WEST.

St. Louis, Indianapolis & Louisville	10 35	A.M.
*Chicago & St. Louis Limited Express	3 10	P.M.
Adrian Accommodation	5 51	"
*Pacific Express, Limited	11 07	"

Trains marked * are daily, all others daily except Sunday.

☞ Limited express trains stop only for R. R. crossing at Britton.

Tecumseh passengers desiring to travel by the popular Wabash make excellent connections at Adrian, and from there can secure through Pullman sleepers to Boston. Through solid train to New York. Solid through trains to Chicago, making direct connections for all points west and northwest. Through coaches and sleepers to St. Louis, making direct connections for all points in Kansas and the great southwest.

Fast Time, Magnificent Equipment, Latest Designs of Chair, Parlor, Sleeping and Dining Cars on all through trains.

H. D. ARMSTRONG, Milch Pass. Agt., Jackson, Mich.
WM. F. BRADLEY, Agent, Adrian.
F. CHANDLER, Gen'l Pass. and Tkt. Agent, St. Louis Mo.

The Great English Prescription.

A successful Medicine used over 30 years in thousands of cases. Cures Spermatorrhea, Nervous Weakness, Emissions, Impotency and all diseases caused by abuse. (BEFORE, indiscretion, or over exertion. AFTER.) Six packages (guaranteed to Cure when all others Fail. Ask your Druggist for The Great English Prescription, take no substitute. One package $1; Six $5, by mail. Write for Pamphlet. Address Eureka Chemical Co., Detroit, Mich.
Sold in Tecumseh, by DR. O. G. FERGUSON.

EYESIGHT—SAVE IT!
Use Proper Spectacles!
Nothing is so much to be regarded as perfect sight, and perfect sight can only be obtained by using perfect spectacles properly fitted. We fit them by a process of our own, with the use of which there is no guessing, but every lens is adjusted to the exact requirements of the eye, by one who has had years of experience in adjusting lenses. Call and examine our stock. Adjusted free by competent persons. Address GEO. B. BURGDEN & CO.

ADVERTISERS
can learn the exact cost of any proposed line of advertising in American papers by addressing
Geo. P. Rowell & Co.,
Newspaper Advertising Bureau,
10 Spruce St., New York.
Send 10 cts. for 100-Page Pamphlet.

THE STATE FAIR.

A MOST ENCOURAGING OUTLOOK FOR ITS ANNUAL EXHIBIT THIS YEAR.

[illegible] Exhibits in All Departments Assured. Attendance Promised at Jackson Sept. 16, 20, 21, 22, 23.

[illegible]

2:00 P. M.—Class 19, 4 year old Stallions, in Harness, Speed Trial.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 20, Examination and Speed Trial of 2 year-olds.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 21, Thoroughbred or Partly Thoroughbred Stallions, any age, to Saddle.

Friday Forenoon, Sept. 23.

9:00 A. M.—Class 22, Thoroughbreds with stock of their get. All work with six of their get. Roadsters with six of their get.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 23, Mares and geldings five years old and over, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 24, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 25, Roadsters five years old and over, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 26, Mares and geldings four years old and over, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 27, Pacing Mares and Geldings, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 28, Roadsters four years old and over, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 29, Stallions, Mares and Geldings, to Harness, Saddle and Wagon.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 30, Mares and geldings five years old and over, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 31, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 32, Roadsters five years old and over, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 33, Mares and geldings four years old and over, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 34, Pacing Mares and Geldings, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 35, Roadsters four years old and over, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 36, Mares and geldings three years old and over, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 37, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 38, Roadsters three years old and over, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 39, Mares and geldings three years old and over, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 40, Pacing Mares and Geldings, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 41, Roadsters two years old and over, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 42, Mares and geldings two years old and over, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 43, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 44, Roadsters one year old and over, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 45, Mares and geldings one year old and over, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 46, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 47, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 48, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 49, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 50, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 51, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 52, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 53, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 54, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 55, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 56, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 57, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 58, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 59, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 60, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 61, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 62, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 63, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 64, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 65, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 66, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 67, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 68, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 69, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 70, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 71, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 72, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 73, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 74, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 75, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 76, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 77, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 78, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 79, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 80, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 81, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 82, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 83, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 84, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 85, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 86, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 87, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 88, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 89, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 90, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 91, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 92, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 93, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 94, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 95, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 96, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 97, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 98, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 99, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 100, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 101, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 102, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 103, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 104, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 105, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 106, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 107, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 108, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 109, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 110, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 111, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 112, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 113, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 114, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 115, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 116, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 117, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 118, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 119, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 120, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 121, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 122, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 123, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 124, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 125, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 126, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 127, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 128, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 129, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 130, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 131, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 132, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 133, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 134, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 135, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 136, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 137, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 138, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 139, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 140, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 141, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 142, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 143, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 144, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 145, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 146, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 147, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 148, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 149, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 150, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 151, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 152, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 153, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 154, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 155, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 156, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 157, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 158, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 159, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 160, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 161, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 162, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 163, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 164, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 165, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 166, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 167, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 168, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 169, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 170, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 171, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 172, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 173, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 174, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 175, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 176, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 177, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 178, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 179, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 180, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 181, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 182, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 183, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 184, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 185, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 186, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 187, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 188, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 189, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 190, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 191, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 192, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 193, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 194, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 195, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 196, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 197, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 198, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 199, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 200, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 201, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 202, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 203, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 204, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 205, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 206, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 207, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 208, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 209, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 210, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 211, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 212, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 213, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 214, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 215, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 216, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 217, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 218, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 219, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 220, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 221, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 222, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 223, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 224, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 225, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 226, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 227, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 228, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 229, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 230, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 231, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 232, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 233, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 234, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 235, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 236, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 237, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 238, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 239, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 240, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 241, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 242, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 243, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 244, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 245, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 246, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 247, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 248, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 249, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 250, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 251, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 252, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 253, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 254, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 255, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 256, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 257, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 258, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 259, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 260, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 261, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 262, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 263, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 264, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 265, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 266, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 267, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 268, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 269, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 270, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 271, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 272, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 273, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 274, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 275, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 276, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 277, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 278, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 279, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 280, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 281, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 282, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 283, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 284, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 285, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 286, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 287, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 288, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 289, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 290, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 291, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 292, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 293, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 294, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 295, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 296, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 297, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 298, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 299, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 300, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 301, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 302, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 303, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 304, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 305, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 306, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 307, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 308, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 309, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 310, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 311, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 312, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 313, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 314, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 315, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 316, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 317, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 318, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 319, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 320, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 321, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 322, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 323, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 324, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 325, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 326, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 327, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 328, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 329, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 330, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 331, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 332, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 333, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 334, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 335, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 336, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 337, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 338, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 339, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 340, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 341, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 342, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 343, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 344, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 345, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 346, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 347, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 348, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 349, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 350, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 351, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 352, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 353, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 354, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 355, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 356, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 357, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 358, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 359, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 360, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 361, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 362, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 363, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 364, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 365, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 366, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 367, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 368, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 369, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 370, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 371, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 372, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 373, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 374, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 375, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 376, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 377, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 378, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 379, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 380, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 381, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 382, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 383, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 384, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 385, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 386, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 387, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 388, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 389, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 390, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 391, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 392, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 393, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 394, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 395, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 396, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 397, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 398, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 399, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 400, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 401, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 402, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 403, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 404, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 405, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 406, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 407, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 408, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 409, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 410, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 411, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 412, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 413, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 414, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 415, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 416, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 417, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 418, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 419, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 420, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 421, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 422, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 423, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 424, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 425, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 426, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 427, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 428, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 429, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 430, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 431, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 432, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 433, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 434, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 435, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 436, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 437, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 438, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 439, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 440, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 441, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 442, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 443, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 444, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 445, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 446, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 447, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 448, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 449, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 450, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 451, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 452, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 453, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 454, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 455, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 456, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 457, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 458, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 459, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 460, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 461, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 462, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 463, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 464, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 465, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 466, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 467, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 468, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 469, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 470, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 471, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 472, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 473, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 474, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 475, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 476, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 477, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 478, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 479, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 480, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 481, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 482, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 483, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 484, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 485, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 486, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 487, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 488, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 489, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 490, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 491, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 492, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 493, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 494, Roadsters under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 495, Mares and geldings under one year old, to Harness.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 496, Pacing Stallions, to Harness and Saddle.

[illegible] P. M.—Class 497,

The Tecumseh Herald.

VOL. XXXVIII.—NO. 37. TECUMSEH MICHIGAN, THURSDAY MORNING, SEPTEMBER 22, 1887 WHOLE NO. 1915

300 New CLOAKS
New CLOAKS

Jackets, Newmarkets, Wraps, Plush Sacques, Misses' and Children's Garments.

JUST OPENED.

NEW DRESS GOODS

ARRIVING DAILY,

NEW CARPETS.

NEW GOODS IN EVERY DEPARTMENT.
COME AND SEE THEM.

J. & S. W. Anderson & Co's.

'87 For Season of '87

We shall continue to handle the celebrated

GARLAND

STOVES and RANGES.

And the Genuine

ROUND OAK

The unprecedented demand for these justly popular goods renders it almost impossible for the manufacturers to supply the demand. Call early and supply your wants and avoid delay.

SATTERTHWAITE BROS. & BOYD.

Everything on the

BOOM-BOOM

AT THE

GRAND CENTRAL SUPPLY STORE.

GROCERIES,
CROCKERY,
GLASSWARE,
TEAS, SUGARS,
SPICE.

PRICES LOWER THAN EVER.

HENRY McCLURE.

J. D. WOLF, Pres. H. M. TEMPLE, Sec'y and Treas. S. W. TEMPLE, Vice Pres. and Gen'l Mgr

THE OHIO & MICH. COAL & MFG. CO.,

COAL.

LUMBER LATH AND SHINGLES

MANUFACTURERS OF

Doors, Sash, Blinds, Mouldings,

Scroll Work, Turned Work,
Modern Interior Finish.

GET ESTIMATES BEFORE BUYING.

OFFICE CORNER R. R. AND SHAWNEE STS.

Yards and Factory on Pearl and Shawnee sts., near L. S. & M. S. Depot.

TECUMSEH, MICH.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

RIDGEWAY RAMBLES.

E. B. Pocklington is improving the appearance of his house on West St. with a coat of paint.

The masons are plastering the library this week.

Chas. Kirpton is in Adrian this week attending Circuit Court, as juryman.

A little infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Lisher died Tuesday morning with whooping cough.

C. L. Young, train dispatcher at Holland, Mich., who has been spending a few days at his old home, started Tuesday in company with his mother for a visit with relatives, in York State.

Arthur Reynolds and sister of La Sell, were the guests of their sister, Mrs. F. J. Temple, last week.

John Peters and Lou Merritt of Petersburg, spent Sunday at the home of Prof. and Mrs. J. D. Huston.

Weddie Bush, after storing his bursting and fishing equipments, and secured a boarding place for his favorite dog Mike, with friends at Port Huron, left for his home at Brooklyn, N. Y., last week, and will attend school the coming year.

The President of the church social informs us that the pumpkin pie festival will be held the first of Oct. Full particulars given next week.

Our ball team go to Milan next Saturday, Sept. 24th, to play the return game.

Mrs. John Arner spent several days at Tecumseh last week with relatives and friends.

We are glad to learn that our old schoolmate and friend, C. A. Sharp, has a position as stenographer for a firm in Dayton, Ohio.

Ambrose Arner had a narrow escape from being seriously hurt last week while driving Dr. Loree's horse to a light wagon, near Britton. The horse became frightened at the cars on the C. J. & M. R.R. and ran away a short distance and collided with a wagon which threw the horse, wagon and driver into the ditch, and broke the rack more or less, and ruining one wheel of the wagon he collided with.

Mrs. E. N. Miller of Homer, stopped with Mrs. S. V. Miller Tuesday evening, she was on her way to Toledo and Detroit for a new stock of millinery goods for her fall business at Homer.

Last Saturday the Clinton base ball team visited our club on the home diamond, and it proved to be one of the best games of the season. There were visitors from Adrian, Tecumseh, Clinton, Norvell, Wolf Creek, Saline, Milan, Britton and Holloway. Last but not least, was a gentleman from N. Y. state, who it is said had pools from $1 to $5 on our team, and made it quite lively for any one who had the sand to show up their quarters during the game. Everything passed off satisfactory, and as the regular catcher was not able to take his place in the box second baseman Palmer stepped in line and completely paralyzed the spectators in his professional movements behind the bat. It was his first attempt, and it is plain to be seen that practice will make him one of the best catchers in the State. The visiting battery consisted of Coddling and Muir. Sinclair and Coddling. The home battery were Huston and Palmer. Score by innings:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Clinton	0	3	0	5	0	1	0	3	2	—14
Ridgeway	0	0	1	8	0	7	2	4	*	—22

Time 3:44. Umpire Boecker.

BRITTON BUDGET.

Elmer Osgood has moved into his new house.

Phill Beckler went to Chicago last Tuesday. Expects to be gone some time.

A car load of hogs were shipped Friday by the same parties.

The masons are at work on George Buchanan's house, he expects to have it finished by the middle of next month.

There was no ball game on the grounds Saturday. The Holloway nine could not come.

Gripton Bros. cane mill is running now, but they are not crowded as they were last fall.

Arthur Lee has hired out to Osgood Bros. by the month and will work in the cider mill this fall.

Our Band will attend the Adrian fair on Thursday if nothing happens; they have received an invitation.

Cornelius Hoagland in coming home from Tecumseh Monday, with a load of lumber, his team became freightened at a bunch of shingles falling from the load, and ran away; he was thrown to the ground and quite badly bruised. The team was stopped one-quarter of a mile below the village.

ONSTED ODDS.

One town or more a week appears now to day. Frank Skinner is taking in chickens, and the town is well lined with teams he took in about 800 lbs. On Monday last he took in between five and six thousand pounds. He ships to New York city.

On the 11th inst., Charles Jessup, Jr. and Miss Lydia Ayres were married, and after a short bridal trip have returned to their home in Springville.

On Wednesday last Onsted was the scene of another conflict on the diamond. The North Rome and Junction Clubs met here and had a trial of skill, the North Rome boys taking the lead.

Bently & Rogers combined show and concert passed through town last week on their way to Springville. Those that attended it say it was very good.

Our shooting match on Saturday last, came near being a failure as the Rome shootists did not show up. But our boys were bound to shoot somebody, so they choose sides and the losers to pay for the birds. The Rome boys were most of them busy with their seeding was the reason of their not putting in their appearance. Come again some other time, boys; there are lots of birds left.

The farmers are nearly all through seeding in this vicinity; quite a number are husking corn and they all complain of a short crop this year.

The Whitney Family is billed for North Rome on Friday the 23d; if we are to judge by the size and quantity of their bills, it will be worth seeing.

There is some talk of getting the Horton and Wolf Creek clubs to play on the Onsted grounds in the near future.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.

VILLAGE OF TECUMSEH,
Council Room, Sept. 9, 1887.

Adjourned session. Present the entire council, except Messrs. Heck and Kingan.

Minutes of preceeding meeting read and approved.

REPORTS OF OFFICERS.

Sexton reported 7 adults and 2 infant interments, and sale of two lots in August—accompanied by Treasurer's receipt for $50 interment fees. Accepted and filed.

Street Commissioner reported 38 days team labor (20 by corporation team) and 61 days hand labor in Aug. Accepted and filed.

NEW BUSINESS.

The following bills were presented and reported to finance committee:

D. T. Hall, advertising for bids for water tank in Evening News	$1 10
Jas. Dunnigan, draying	10 00
Milan Sage, lumber	40 05
O. & M. Coal and Mfg. Co., coal	93 68
" " " " lumber	86 88
T. R. Kyle, marshal	7 05
W. C. Jordan, street commissioner	49 00

And the following for street labor: Dell Hubbard, $7 40; Jas. O'Riley, $7 50; Geo. Snell, $7 50; M. Ames, $6 30; P. Bangs, $1 25; A. Packard, $7 87; D. Packard, $10; John Carr, $1 60; O. Packard $3 23; B. Snell, $1 75; C. Nichols, $1 25; C. Skinner, $1 25; F. Herning, $7 50; Burt Spafford, $2 50; Robert Owens $8 75; Jas. Patterson $3 75; Wm. Powell, $1 25.

The street commissioner further reported the expense of building sidewalks as heretofore directed by the council by special resolution, as follows:

Lots on Pearl street, described in said resolution, owned by J. W. Wooden, $23 98; Reese, $18 39; Wyrill, $11 56; and on Logan street, lots owned by Joseph Russell and Thos. Lowry $2 89 and E. M. Gray, $11 23. Accepted and filed.

On motion the Recorder was directed to levy an assessment against each of said lots as in said resolution described at the expense of such walk as reported by the street commissioner.

Mr. W. S. Derby now appeared before the council and in behalf of the U. S. Wind Engine and Pump Co., of Batavia, Ill, and made the following bid for erection of water tank:

Tank 30 feet diameter and 16 feet staves of clear white pine, with roof of best shingle, substructure of 24 posts on stone walls—according to plans and specifications submitted, 30 pd. in one pipe and elbow, cut off valve, valve box and T handle, proper pump connections, $2500.00. Tank on same plan and specifications but of selected common pine, $2280.00.

After a lengthy discussion and in consideration that no other bid has been received after much advertising and correspondance, and the exceedingly dilapidated and rotten condition of the present tank, the council, [illegible] the proposal [illegible] first above made.

Council then adjourned.

FRED. B. WOOD,
Recorder.

REAL ESTATE TRANSFERS.

Following are the real estate transfers in this county, as recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, for the week ending Sept. 14:

CLINTON.

Orson W. Heath to Darwin M. Bainbridge, $800.

Darwin M. Bainbridge to Leslie J. Leet, et al. $650.

RIDGEWAY.

Alonzo Titsord to Chas. J. Downing, land on sec 36, $600.

TECUMSEH.

James W. Patterson to Seaton W. Anderson. Land in village, $6,000.

PROBATE COURT.

Following is the record of business transacted at the probate court for the week ending Sept. 17, 1887:

Estate of Melinda J. Ferguson, minor; bond filed; letters of guardian issued; late guardian's account allowed and he discharged and his bond cancelled.

Estate of Robert Smith, deceased; petition for probate of will; hearing September 26th.

Estate of Anton Spielman, deceased; commissioners' warrant and report and affidavits of publishing and posting commissioners' notice filed.

Estate of Francis Jordan, deceased; commissioners' warrant and report and affidavits of publishing and posting commissioners's notice filed.

Estate of Moses Elmer, an alleged incompetent person; petition for appointment of guardian filed; hearing September 19.

Estate of John Underwood, deceased; notice of and application for an appeal to the circuit court from decision of commissioners' on claims; bond on appeal; order allowing an appeal.

Estate of Erastus S. Hawks, deceased; warrant and inventory filed.

Estate of Elizabeth Harley, an alleged incompetent person; petition for appointment of guardian; hearing September 26.

Estate of Thomas B. Gould, deceased; commissioners' warrant and report and affidavits of publishing and posting commissioners' notice filed; petition for licence to sell real estate; hearing Oct. 3.

Estate of Tompkins D. Jermain, minor; guardian's additional bond filed and approved.

Estate of William P. Silvers, deceased; petition for probate of will, hearing October 3.

Estate of Fred F. Bixby, minor; release of guardian filed; order of discharge and bond canceled.

Estate of Lucy Ann Hoadley, deceased; affidavit of publication filed; administratrix's final account; order allowing account; assignment; distribution.

In the matter of Wm. Henderson, an indigent insane person; application for admission to asylum filed; order of hearing; affidavits of service of notice of hearing and testimony taken and filed, order for admission.

Estate of John H. Hawks, et al., minors; nomination of guardian filed; order of appointment; bond filed; letters of guardianship issued.

Estate of Henry McClure, deceased; affidavit of publication; administrator appointed; bond filed; letters issued; order appointing appraisers and commissioners.

Estate of Cindarilla Stowell, deceased; affidavit of publication, administrator appointed; bond filed, letters issued; order appointing commissioners.

Estate of Addison Hardenburg, deceased; petition for allowance for support of widow and family filed; order of an allowance.

Estate of Joseph W. Gray, deceased; petition for allowance of final account filed, hearing October 3.

In the matter of Joseph Clark, a dependent child; certificates of physicians taken and filed; order for admission to state public school.

Estate of Irving E. Amer, an incompetent person; petition for license to sell real estate; hearing October 3.

Estate of David Hatch, deceased; arguments of counsel concluded; order of continuance until October 3d, for decision.

In the matter of James Brown, a dependent child; application for admission to state public school; order of hearing, testimony taken and filed; order of admission to school.

Estate of Julia Davis, an incompetent person; report of sale of real estate; affidavits of publishing and posting notice of sale; order of confirmation.

Estate of Orin Hiscock, deceased; notice of and application for an appeal to the circuit court from the decision of commissioners on claims; bond on appeal; order allowing an appeal.

Estate of Mary J. Cook, an incompetent person; affidavit of service of notice of hearing, and testimony taken and filed; order appointing guardian; bond filed; letters issued.

Estate of Mary E. Hawkins, deceased; petition for appointment of administrator; hearing October 10.

Estate of Theodoric Luther, deceased; warrant and inventory filed.

Estate of Frances A. Whipple, deceased; affidavit of publication filed; order of continuance until September 10, at 10 o'clock a. m.

Estate of John W. Piper, deceased; affidavit of publication; executor's final account; order allowing account; assignment in accordance with will; receipt filed; discharge.

Estate of Gladys E. Drew, minor; affidavit of publication; license to sell real estate; oath before sale and bond on sale filed.

Estate of Lauria Axtell, deceased; affidavit of publication; will proved and probate bond filed; letters issued; order appointing appraisers and commissioners.

Estate of Phebe Hulda Bailey, deceased; affidavit of publication; order of continuance until September 26, at one o'clock p. m.

Estate of Levi B. Rupell, deceased; affidavit of publication; will proved and probate bond $2,500.

A MERCHANT'S OPINION.

Mr. B. F. Nourse, General Western Agent Royal Baking Powder Co., writes: "I have never found so great results from physicians' prescriptions and attendance upon our children, as I have after a few days use of Papillon (extract of flax) Skin Cure. I cannot describe to you nightly what it has done for us, but can say that years of treatment have not accomplished what Papillon has done after a few applications." Large bottles only $1.00.

For sale by A. S. Doty.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From our regular correspondent.

Washington, July 20, 1887.

It is well that the eyes of the nation are now directed on Philadelphia, where are assembled the chief men of the country to testify anew their admiration of and devotion to the cardinal principles of American liberty, as embodied in that Constitution, which the old world apostle of republicanism, Gladstone, pronounces the most perfect work of man at a single stroke, of which time has proved the almost inspired wisdom and patriotism of its far-seeing founders, who builded wiser than they knew. As the Centennial of the Declaration of Independence put our people to pondering on the spirit and teaching of our charter of liberty, so will the celebration of the Constitutional Centennial invest with new interest, and induce them to studiously analyze the principles of the Constitution of the United States.

There is much speculation as to the successor of Ex Assistant Secretary of State Porter; though nothing is known it is considered probable that the new official, as did his predecessor, will hail from the South. Mr. Bayard, it is said, claims the right to name his Assistant, owing to their intimate official and personal relations, being also mindful of his unpleasant experience with his last associate, with whom he had no friendly parting.

The Surveyor General, of Arizona, reports extensive land grants, engineered by the railroads in the interest fo their own stockholders, and other speculators, and involving an area of 80x100 miles of land in that Territory. These valuable lands will doubtless be reclaimed by the Government and opened to entry for bona fide settlers.

The chief of the forestry division of the Agricultural Department, after a careful survey, estimates that the forests owned by the Government represent a capital of $250,000,000, and the annual loss thereon by fire is $8,000,000. To avert this loss, the Surveyor proposes that the Government make accurate surveys of the wooded areas and withdraw it from sale or pre-emption, and that experienced foresters be employed to protect this property from burning, as well as from the destructive inroads of timber depredators. These suggestions seem practical and worthy of serious consideration by Congress.

The Commissioners have not yet completed the revision of the Civil Service rules, upon which they have been engaged quite a while, in the effort to adjust them to existing circumstances in the several departments. It is not improbable that the age limit—a feature that has provoked most criticism—will be modified in such a manner as to remove all the objections that have been urged against it.

It has been arranged that clerks in the departments who desire to do so, can go home to vote, provided the time then lost is deducted from their annual leave, or if none is due them, leave without pay, will be granted a few days. This rule applies to members of all parties.

The sixth weekly opening of bids for the sale of four and a half per cent bonds to the Government, took place on the 14th inst. Acting Secretary Thompson officiating. The amount offered being five millions, of which over [illegible]

The annual report of the Commissioner of Pensions shows that at the close of the last fiscal year there were [illegible] pensioners on the roles, [illegible] having been added during the year on original certificates—the largest number on record in a single year. The average annual amount of each pension was $[illegible]. In closing his report, the Commissioner makes several suggestions and recommendations.

The next statute to grace the Capitol's great collection of marble works of art, will be the monument to the most patriotic French [illegible] Lafayette. Congress has appropriated $[illegible] for the purpose, and the contracts have been very appropriately awarded to French artists. The design is for a square imperial pedestal of granite, surmounted with a [illegible] figure of Lafayette, and the base of the statue is to have the [illegible] of four Freedmen who were prominent in the war of the American Revolution.

Some Foolish People

Allow a cough to run until it gets beyond the reach of medicine. They often say "Oh, it will wear away." But in most cases it wears them away. Could they be induced to try the successful medicine called King's Balsam, which we sell on a positive guarantee to cure, they would immediately see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial size free, at Baker & Hall.

THE TECUMSEH HERALD

Issued Every Thursday Morning

H. S. C. STACY.

Office in the New HERALD Building, one door East of the Opera House, Tecumseh, Mich.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

One year, [illegible] in advance, [illegible]
Six months " " [illegible]
Four months " " [illegible]

Papers will be stopped at expiration of time paid for, when notice to the contrary is given, or payment may be delayed.

ADVERTISING RATES.

Business notices, five cents a line for each insertion.

Special notices, fifty cents an inch for each insertion.

Rates on general advertising or contracts made known on application at the publishing room.

Entered at the postoffice at Tecumseh, Mich., as second class matter.

TECUMSEH, THURSDAY, SEPT. [illegible]

ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE.

The Next Reunion To Be Held at Toledo in September, 1888.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 15.—At Thursday morning's session of the Society of the Army of the Tennessee the committee appointed to select a place and time for holding the next reunion, reported in favor of Toledo, Ohio, Sept. 13 and 14, 1888, and the report was adopted. The committee on the next orator reported Col. Gilbert A. Pierce with Gen. Smith D. Atkins as alternate, and their action was also indorsed. The committee to select a permanent location for headquarters, and the selection of that or some other point as a place for all annual meetings, reported first in favor of a permanent headquarters at some central location until a two-thirds vote of the society changed that location. It was adverse to fixing any one point at which the society would be obliged to hold its annual meeting. The report was adopted, and Cincinnati made the headquarters, the annual expense of such not to exceed $300. The officers of the society resident at Cincinnati were authorized to select rooms.

Gen. Green B. Raum read resolutions of condolence and respect prepared by a committee in honor of Gen. John A. Logan. They review his record and qualities as a soldier with words of the highest praise, as well as his earnest support of President Lincoln in a vigorous prosecution of the war. The resolutions recommend the erection of a statute at the national capital to perpetuate the memory of the dead hero. Sympathy was extended to Mrs. Logan and family. Gen. W. T. Sherman was elected president.

THE CRIMINAL CALENDAR.

The last of the Bald-Knobber cases were disposed of Tuesday, when Preston and Roberts were found guilty of intimidating witnesses, etc.

The latest distinguished American arrival at Montreal is Frank C. McNeary, who recently disappeared from Portland, Me., somewhat suddenly, with money and bonds belonging to a savings bank with which he was connected.

At Hillsboro, Mo., Wednesday, Nathan Young shot his divorced wife, and after an ineffectual attempt upon his sister's life committed suicide. Young was formerly a respectable man, but is said to have been driven to desperation by his wife's infidelities. Her injuries are not serious.

"Rocky" Morgan, one of the Cleveland fur robbers, was arraigned at Ravenna, Ohio, Wednesday, on a charge of murdering Detective Hulligan, and entered a plea of not guilty. His alleged confederates, Coughlin and Robinson, also pleaded not guilty to the same charge; the trials will take place in October.

At Gray, Ohio, on Wednesday a mob attempted to take Joseph Dixon, a colored man, from the jail, for the purpose of lynching him. Failing to gain entrance, they fired the jail and jail was burned in the water thrown upon the flames by fire department. His crime was the shooting of Ella Day, a young white woman, injuries mortal and he is dead.

Popular Education.

We sympathize with the feeling which often leads critics to assert that no child born in this country need grow up in ignorance, and yet it is a fact that many people who have learned to read and write have never taught themselves to think. A man who suffered from chlorosis, consumption, bronchitis, scrofula, or liver complaint, might reach till his eyes dropped out, now these and many other diseases have been cured by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, but if he did not take the lesson to himself and test the virtues of this great medicine, his time would be thrown away.

—Little Dot laughing—"Why, Dick, what's the matter?" Little Dick—"I'se most dead. I just took some awful stuff." "That what your mamma put on the table?" "Yes, she put it there in a cup, and I did not to touch it 'cause it was for pudding, an' when she went out I took a great big swallow, an' it's castor oil." "Yes; she said you ought to take some, an' I told her how to fix it."

LOST.—"I don't know where. I can't tell when. I don't see how—something of great value to me, and for the return of which I shall be truly thankful, viz: a good appetite."

FOUND.—"Health and strength, pure blood, an appetite like that of a wolf, regular digestion, and by taking that popular and peculiar medicine, Hood's Sarsaparilla. I want everybody to try it this season." It is sold by all druggists. One hundred doses one dollar.

—"Hello, Bill! What's the matter of your birthday?" "Whole lot. Got up late for breakfast, an' got gimme a scoldin'; pa gimme a lecture for breakin' a window; grandpa gimme a letter to put in the postoffice and grandma gimme a whippin' for forgettin' it; sister gimme a shoe to take to the shoemaker's. Jim Black gimme a proof with a pin an' I got kept in after school for goderin' an the teacher gimme two pages of spellin' to learn before I went home. Say, it's a good thing a feller doesn't git born every week, ain't it?"—Burlette.

Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures when every other so-called remedy fails.

THE HALTER THEIR DOOM.

ILLINOIS SUPREME COURT SAYS THE ANARCHISTS MUST DIE.

Complete Concurrence of All the Judges in the Matter of Points of The Fateful Decision—Scene in the Court When the Words of Doom Were Spoken—Justice Magruder Makes the Announcement.

OTTAWA, Ill., Sept. 15.—The supreme court to-day filed a decision affirming the decision of the criminal court of Cook county in the case of the eight imprisoned Anarchists, which means that the following must hang: August Spies, Michael Schwab, Samuel Fielden, Albert R. Parsons, Adolph Fisher, George Engel, Louis Lingg, Oscar W. Neebe.

JUSTICE MAGRUDER.

Neebe must serve fifteen years in the penitentiary. The date of the execution is Nov. 11 next.

At 9:30 o'clock Justice Magruder began the announcement of the decision in the case. Just before the opening of court every one seemed to have a feeling that something was going to happen. Before the hour for convening the court, lawyers and reporters seemed to have that feeling, and conversed with each other in subdued tones. Even Barker, the janitor, who has waited upon every justice of the supreme court that sat upon the bench in Ottawa, tiptoed around in opening and dusting the court room, as if he was afraid of breaking the deadly stillness that pervaded the entire building. Deputy Smith faltered and his voice trembled as he pronounced the "hear ye, hear ye."

SPIES.

As the justices filed into the court-room, headed by Chief Justice Sheldon, they appeared more dignified than ever. The chief justice waved his associates to their seats even more stately than his wont, his nod to the sheriff was more stiff, and his "Open court" less audible than on the previous days of the term. Justice Magruder appeared flushed and nervous as he entered the court-room, the cause of which was evidenced a few moments later when Chief Justice Sheldon turned to him and, in a voice which would have been inaudible save for the deathly stillness which pervaded the room, said: "Justice Magruder, have you any announcement to make?"

PARSONS.

The flushed appearance of the justice changed to that of pallor, and his voice was husky as he responded: "In August Spies and others against the people of the state of Illinois, No. 39, a judgment docket." The chief justice nervously turned the leaves of the court docket to the case indicated, when the justice read the decision of the court in the Anarchists' case.

As he commenced reading he regained his composure. His voice was clear and distinct until the order fixing the death penalty was reached, when his reading became labored, his voice husky, and his manner showed it was with the greatest emotion that he performed the duty, he had been delegated by his associates to perform.

FIELDEN.

In this case the judgment of the court below is affirmed as to all the plaintiffs in error. An opinion has been prepared setting forth the reasons for the affirmance of the judgment. The opinion is now handed to the clerk to be filed by the clerk. Chief Justice Sheldon started to fix the date of execution when Judge Mulkey interrupted, said: "It is my intention to offer a separate opinion, as I should have done. I desire to avail myself of this occasion to say that while I concur in the conclusions reached and also in general views entertained in opinion filed, I do not wish to be understood as holding that the record is free from error, for I do not think it is. I am nevertheless of the opinion that none of the errors complained of are of such a serious character as to require a reversal of the judgment. In view of the number of defendants tried, the great length of time occupied in trial, the vast amount of testimony offered and admitted by the court, and the almost boundless range the court was required to cover, the wonder is not to me that better or more satisfactory work was not done, and of more serious character."

SCHWAB.

I, for one, after having fully examined the evidence and given the questions arising on it my very best thought, with an earnest and conscientious desire to faithfully discharge my whole duty, I am fully satisfied that the opinion reached vindicates the law and does complete justice between the people and the defendants, fully warranted by the law and the evidence."

Chief Justice Sheldon made the following announcement: "In this case the court orders that the sentence of the criminal court of Cook county on the defendants in the indictment of August Spies, Michael Schwab, Samuel Fielden, Albert R. Parsons, Adolph Fisher, George Engel, and Louis Lingg, be carried into effect by the sheriff of Cook county on Friday, Nov. 11 next, between the hours of 10 o'clock in the forenoon and 4 o'clock in the afternoon of that day."

ENGEL.

The opinion in the case was written by Justice Magruder of the Chicago district, and is an exposition of the law and previous interpretations thereof by eminent jurists in this country, as well as of the court's bearing upon the alleged and perhaps real errors in the record. In this work he was ably helped by each of the other six distinguished judges, who made him their spokesman and through him expressed their unanimous decision. The opinion covers 350 pages closely written manuscript and contains about 50,000 words.

The condemned Anarchists did not depend upon what they term capitalistic press for authentic news of their fate. Within a few moments after the decision was announced Carl Azwansig, editor of The German Herald, and pronounced sympathized with the reds, appeared in the telegraph office in tow of a couple of his political friends and dictated a dispatch informing the reds that no hope remained for them. It was addressed August Spies, county jail.

WILL TAKE IT HIGHER.

Capt. Black Will Appeal to the United States Supreme Court.

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—A reporter was Capt. Black's first informant of the adverse decision of the supreme court. During the first few moments occupied in giving the Anarchists' senior counsel the dread information his face was a study. His under jaw dropped down, the right hand went up to his forehead with a lightning-like jerk, and the captain gasped: "Is it possible? Seven men to hang! Well, the surprise is great, but the disappointment is far greater. The only remaining course for us to pursue is by taking the case to the United States supreme court. I shall immediately go before the supreme court at Ottawa and ask for reasonable time to secure a certified transcript of the record for presentation to the supreme court at Washington. Such proceedings are rare, but I haven't any doubt of the court's decision on that point," and Capt. Black rose and paced the floor with long strides, refusing to speak further. Clearly Capt. Black has made his clients' case his own, and he was as much excited as though his own fate had been decided.

When the news was learned by Spies through a telegram from Ottawa the other condemned men crowded around him and cried:

"What is it, Spies?"

"Sentence sustained," was the brief and expressive answer given, and instantly the last faint spark of hope that long has been glimmering in the bosoms of the Anarchists was extinguished.

Fielden and Spies, brother of August, received a dispatch from Ottawa as soon as the decision of the court was announced. He hastened to Capt. Black's office and there met Nina Van Zandt and her mother, Mrs. Engel and a half dozen more friends of the condemned men, who had also received dispatches from Ottawa. They all had come to Capt. Black for some ray of hope and consolation.

Nina looked ghastly, tears stood in her eyes, and her face was white and drawn. Tears were streaming down the cheeks of poor little Mrs. Engel, and all of the others looked as or worse than they have at any time since the trial began. Indeed, the verdict of the jury in Judge Gary's court was not the blow to the Anarchists and their friends that the decision of the supreme court has been. Capt. Black looked pale and sorrowful and the entire party was a sad one.

Their Business Booming.

Probably no one thing has caused such a general revival of trade at C. A. Wright & Co's Drug Store as giving away to their customers of many free trial bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. Their trade is simply enormous in this very valuable article from the fact that it always cures and never disappoints. Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Croup, and all throat and lung diseases quickly cured. You can test it before buying by getting a trial bottle free, large size $1. Every bottle warranted.

C. A. Wright & Co.

BOSTON girl—"Tell me, my friend, do you admire Hawthorne?" New York girl—"Oh, my, yes! I think it is great. When we were at Saratoga, I used to drink two big glasses of it every morning before breakfast."

"Ah me!" sighed Potts, "I'm tired of living."

"The world is hollow, ambition's vain."

"Come now," said his chum, "I know the symptoms:

It's all your liver—that's very plain.
You need not suffer, for help is easy;
Pierce's Pellets go right to the place,
A friend to the bilious. I might call them—
There's nothing better: they'll suit your case."

Potts ceased his sighing and bought the Pellets.

No more he mourneth his hapless lot!
His face is cheerful, his heart is lightsome,
His melancholy is quite forgot!

IMPORTANT.

When you visit or leave New York City, save Baggage Expressage and carriage Hire and stop at the Grand Union Hotel, opposite Grand Central Depot. Elegant rooms fitted up at a cost of one million dollars, reduced to $1.00 and upwards per day. European plan. Elevator. Restaurant supplied with the best. Horse cars, stages and elevated railroads to all depots. Families can live better for less money at the Grand Union Hotel than at any other first class hotel in the city.

To be Absolutely Certain of most things is difficult, but if the united testimony of people in every walk of life, for more than a quarter of a century, be good evidence, then dyspepsia, loss of appetite, headache, wakefulness and debilitation, from whatever cause, may be cured by Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic.

The treatment of many thousands of cases of those chronic weaknesses and distressing ailments peculiar to females, at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., has afforded a vast experience in nicely adjusting and thoroughly testing remedies for the cure of women's peculiar maladies.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, is the outgrowth, or result, of this great and valuable experience. Thousands of testimonials, received from patients and from physicians who have tested it in the more aggravated and obstinate cases which had baffled their skill, prove it to be the most wonderful remedy ever devised for the relief and cure of suffering women. It is not recommended as a "cure-all," but as a most perfect Specific for woman's peculiar ailments.

As a powerful, invigorating tonic, it imparts strength to the whole system, and to the womb and its appendages in particular. For overworked, "worn-out," "run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," housekeepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequaled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

As a soothing and strengthening nervine, "Favorite Prescription" is unequaled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, exhaustion, prostration, hysteria, spasms and other distressing, nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the womb. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a legitimate medicine, carefully compounded by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate organization. It is purely vegetable in its composition, and perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the system. For morning sickness, or nausea, from whatever cause arising, weak stomach, indigestion, dyspepsia and kindred symptoms, its use, in small doses, will prove very beneficial.

"Favorite Prescription" is a positive cure for the most complicated and obstinate cases of leucorrhœa, excessive flowing, painful menstruation, unnatural suppressions, prolapsus, or falling of the womb, weak back, "female weakness," anteversion, retroversion, bearing-down sensations, chronic congestion, inflammation and ulceration of the womb, inflammation, pain and tenderness in ovaries, accompanied with "internal heat."

As a regulator and promoter of functional action, at that critical period of change from girlhood to womanhood, "Favorite Prescription" is a perfectly safe remedial agent, and can produce only good results. It is equally efficacious and valuable in its effects when taken for those disorders and derangements incident to that later and most critical period, known as "The Change of Life."

"Favorite Prescription," when taken in connection with the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and small laxative doses of Dr. Pierce's Purgative Pellets (Little Liver Pills), cures Liver, Kidney and Bladder diseases. Their combined use also removes blood taints, and abolishes cancerous and scrofulous humors from the system.

"Favorite Prescription" is the only medicine for women, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee, from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. This guarantee has been printed on the bottle-wrapper, and faithfully carried out for many years.

Large bottles (100 doses) $1.00, or six bottles for $5.00.

For large, illustrated Treatise on Diseases of Women (160 pages, paper-covered), send ten cents in stamps. Address,

World's Dispensary Medical Association,
663 Main St., BUFFALO, N. Y.

HARTER'S IRON TONIC

THE ONLY TRUE

Will purify the BLOOD, regulate the LIVER and KIDNEYS and RESTORE the HEALTH and VIGOR of YOUTH. Dyspepsia, Want of Appetite, Constipation, Lack of Strength and Tired Feeling absolutely cured. Bones, muscles and nerves receive new force. Enlivens the mind and supplies Brain Power.

LADIES Suffering from complaints peculiar to their sex will find in DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC a safe, speedy cure. Gives a clear, healthy complexion. All attempts at counterfeiting only adds to the popularity. Do not experiment—see Otis's Ads. on BIRDS.

Dr. HARTER'S LIVER PILLS Cure Constipation, Liver Complaint and Sick Headache. Sample Dose and Dream Book mailed on receipt of two cents in postage.

THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

Tutt's Pills

stimulates the torpid liver, strengthens the digestive organs, regulates the bowels, and are unequaled as an

ANTI-BILIOUS MEDICINE.

In malarial districts their virtues are widely recognized. They possess peculiar properties in freeing the system from that poison. Elegantly sugar coated. Dose small. Price, 25cts.

Sold Everywhere.

Office, 44 Murray St., New York.

We have decided to handle exclusively Pittsburgh CELEBRATED NATURAL GAS WINE. A Glass of it is about equal to French [illegible]. If your dealer does not keep it, [illegible]

[illegible] Pat. Rain burner [illegible]

A. S. PREWETT, Hollis, Mich.

SALESMEN WANTED. Permanent position guaranteed with SALARY AND EXPENSES PAID. Any determined man can succeed with us. We offer ancient goods to beginners. Stock complete, including many fast selling specialties. Outfit free. Address, (Name this paper.) BROWN BROTHERS, NURSERYMEN, Chicago, Ill.

THIS PAPER may be found on file in Philadelphia at the Newspaper Advertising Agency of Messrs. N. W. AYER & SON, our authorized agents.

Great Bargain

AT

J. S. KINNEY'S

IN

FURNITURE

OF LATEST STYLES AND BEST WORKMANSHIP.

SUITES of ALL KINDS

Shades, Carpets, Rollers, etc., at very Low Prices for Cash.

FULL LINE OF UNDERTAKING

Wood, Cloth, Metallic Cases, and I have the agency of the new INDISTRUCTA MARBLE CASKETS of all kinds, very fine. Prices Reasonable.

TEMPLE, Mc CLURE & CO.,

Successors to

Wolcott, Temple & Co.,

Wholesale and Retail Dealers in

Lumber, Lath, Shingles, Sash and Doors

AND ALL KINDS OF BUILDING MATERIAL

Planing, Sawing, Matching to Order

Mill and Yard North of Railroad Depot.

TECUMSEH, MICHIGAN.

R. STEBBINS, Adrian,

Furniture, Carpets, Crockery, Children's Carriages

Picture Frames, Curtains, Fixtures, Etc.

My stock is the LARGEST and best ever shown in Southern Mich., and is arranged in 12 Ware Rooms covering over 12,000 feet of Floor in Stebbins' block, and all selected with great care for quality.

It was bought with cash down, enabling me to defy all competition in W. PRICES for same quality of goods. All goods warranted as represented. It will pay the northern tier of towns to examine our goods and prices.

MY STOCK OF CARPETS IS VERY FINE.

This represents a healthy life, Throughout its various scenes,

Just such a life as they enjoy Who use the Smith's Bile Beans.

Smith's BILE BEANS purify the blood, by acting directly and promptly on the Liver, Skin and Kidneys. They consist of a vegetable combination that has no equal in medical science. They cure Constipation, Malaria, and Dyspepsia, and are a safeguard against all forms of fevers, chills and fever, gall stones, and Bright's disease. Send 4 cents postage for a sample package and test the TRUTH of what we say. Price, 25 cents per box, mailed to any address, postpaid. DOSE ONE BEAN. Sold by druggists.

The original Photograph panel size, of this picture sent on receipt of 10c. in stamps. Address BILE BEANS, St. Louis, Mo.

J. F. SMITH & CO., PROPRIETORS, ST. LOUIS, MO.

A HANDSOME WEDDING, BIRTHDAY OR HOLIDAY PRESENT. THE WONDERFUL FLUBURG [illegible]

Send for Business Catalogue

INTERNATIONAL SCHOOL

Go to a city for a business education, because business men will patronize home institutions. Board and room $2 per week. English branches, business course, Shorthand and Typewriting taught. Fifty-four students have taken positions since August 1, 1888. Special class for young ladies from July 1 to September 1. Circulars free. M. B. DAVIS, Principal, Toronto, Ont.

rgain

EY'S

URE

WORKMANSHIP.

L KINDS

Prices for Cash.

ERTAKING

cy of the new INDISTRUCTI
. Prices Reasonable.

URE & CO.,

e & Co.,

rsin

Sash and Do

G MATERIAL

hing to Ord

road Depot.

CHIGAN.

Adrian,

, Children's C

fixtures, Etc.

in Southern Mich. and is 100 feet of Flues in t care for quality.

ly all competition in W warranted as represen owns to examine

S VERY FIVE.

a life as they enjoy
the Smith's Blue Beans.

The original Photograph
panel size of this picture sent on receipt of 10c. i stamps. Address,
BILL BEANS,
St. Louis, Mo

ting
Kidtipa-
guard ones,
sam-
. Price, 25 cents per bott
CAN. Sold by druggists.
s, ST. LOUIS, MO.

Lozenges.

will patronize home insti
rse, Shorthand and Typew
L. Free. Special class for Gir
D. DAVIS, Principal, Toronto, Ont.

WARDMAN
PIANOS

WRITE FOR PRICE

DETROIT
CHARLES PO
HARRY K. FIS
MUSIC CO
DETROIT, MICH.

Catalogue of Sheet Music, Musical Merchandise or Band Instruments, matled free to any address.

R HOLIDAY PRESENT.
GE.

Toronto, Can.

ASKINE.

(THE NEW QUININE.)

GIVES
Good Appetite
New Strength
Quiet Nerves
Happy Days
Sweet Sleep.

A POWERFUL TONIC
For the most delicate stomach will bear.
A SPECIFIC FOR MALARIA,
RHEUMATISM,
NERVOUS PROSTRATION,
And all germ diseases.
The MOST SCIENTIFIC AND SUCCESSFUL BLOOD PURIFIER. Superior to quinine. Rev. W. H. Ingram, Rector Grace Church, Ravenna, Neb., writes: "I cordially endorse Kaskine as, I believe, what you claim, an excellent substitute for quinine with none of its bad effects. My wife had a serious form of malaria and was confined to her bed for months. Kaskine restored her health and strength in a few days, and in a short time cured her of the malarial districts of Maryland I have seen cases of worst forms of malarial fever, which had resisted quinine and other remedies, cured by Kaskine. I was greatly reduced when I commenced the use of Kaskine. Its curative powers were a marvel to me. It cured me and I have not had a return of my troubles. (Prof.) J. Ward, B.A., Asst. Chemist, Maryland Agricultural College.
Letters from the above persons, giving full details will be sent on application.
Kaskine is pleasant to take and can be used without special medical advice. $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5.
Sent by mail on receipt of price.
KASKINE CO., 34 Warren st., New York.

PATENTS F. A. LEHMANN, Washington, D. C. Send for circular.

Try the Largest and Best Equipped
PRINTERS' ROLLERS ESTABLISH'NT
in the United States.
D. J. REILLY & CO.,
321 and 323 Pearl Street, New York.
Prices low. Satisfaction guaranteed. Best references.

DEAFNESS Its causes and a new and successful CURE at your own home by one who was deaf 20 years. Treated by most of the noted specialists without benefit. Cured himself in three months, and since hundreds of others. Full particulars sent on application.
ADDRESS, No. 41 West 31st st., New York City.

IF YOU CONSUMPTIVE
Have Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, Indigestion! Use PARKER'S GINGER TONIC without delay. It cured many of the worst cases and is the best remedy for all affections of the throat and lungs, and diseases arising from impure blood and exhaustion. The feeble sick, struggling against disease, and slowly drifting to the grave, will in many cases recover their health by timely use of Parker's Ginger Tonic, but delay is dangerous. Take it in time. It is invaluable for all pains and disorders of stomach and bowels. 50c. at Druggists.

Agric'ltural Implement
DEPOT.
O. A. SLAYTON
is prepared to make lower prices than ever before on first class farm machinery. My stock is complete, but will only mention a few articles.
PLOWS. { SOUTH BEND, BURCH, WIARD GALE, OLIVER. } Walking.
THE CASSADY AND SOLID COMFORT SULKY PLOWS.
Kalamazoo Spring Tooth Harrow,
"ACME" PULVERIZING HARROWS.
CULTIVATORS { Elwood, New Robbins, Albion, Buckeye. }
Buckeye, Superior, Monitor, Roller, } GRAIN DRILLS
KEMP'S MANURE SPREADER.
Milebaker, Jackson and Flint
WAGONS.
GREAT BARGAINS IN Carriages and Platform Spring Wagons.
Headquarters for Lime, Cement, Salt, Coal, Cal. Plaster and Plastering Hair Grain, Flour, Feed, and Field Seeds.

Lake Shore & Michigan Southern R. R.
THE SOO-MACKINAW SHORT LINE!
The only direct route to Marquette and the iron and copper regions of the upper peninsula of Michigan.
Now throughout each way daily, making close connections at junction points at all points.
New, Elegant and Commodious
WAGNER PARLOR CARS
AND
Superb Wagner Sleeping Cars.
Built expressly for this line on all express trains.
The territory traversed is famous for its
UNSURPASSED HUNTING AND FISHING.
Tickets for sale at all points via this route. Maps, folders, rates and information, address E. W. ALLEN, General Passenger and Ticket Agent, Marquette, Mich.

THIS PAPER is on file in Philadelphia at the Newspaper Advertising Agency of Messrs. N. W. AYER & SON, our authorized agents.

THE DUKE OF MARLBOROUGH.

Bill Nye Calls Upon His Grace and Writes an Interview.

I HAVE just terminated a pleasant call upon the Duke of Marlbro at his lodgings. I write his name Marlbro because that is the name he pronounces it here at Newport. In the language of my naturally cultured friend, Mr. Rankin, the aristocratic pronunciation would lead us to Marlborough, with three grunts, while, in fact, Marlbro, the correct pronunciation of the name, is short and to the point. I told him I had known the Marlbros in Maine ever since I was a boy, but we didn't feel above them then, and it would be a poor time to begin now at my time of life to look down on people just because I now wrote pieces for the paper, many of which were afterward printed. We always thought that the Marbros or Marlboroughs, of Maine, got their name from burrowing in the mud along the Piscataquis, I said.

Then I chattered on with him for an hour or two without seeming to dark him up at all. "Duke," said I at last, "I know what the matter has been with you—you are socially ostracized. I knew it as soon as I came into the room. You cannot disguise it from me. You are suffering from social ostracism and it is breaking you down. The social demands made by America upon an imported social wreck do not give said wreck time to eat his meals and obtain a necessary amount of rest. I suppose there is nowhere in the world a climate that is so trying on a person who is suffering from social ostracism as that of my native land. In other climes they give a social outcast rest but here he gets absolutely no rest what ever."

A long pause ensued here, during which I could hear Marlbro's reason tottering on its throne. After waiting three-quarters of an hour, by my watch, and failing to see that my remark had shed even a ray of sunshine, where erstwhile all was gloom and chaos, I gave him my address and told him that if, in the future, he ever derived any beneficial effects from the above joke, I would be glad to have him communicate with me. And even if I were to die before he could truly say that he had been benefited by this joke and grappled with its keen, incisive nub, my grateful mother would be tickled almost to death to know that he had taken it to pieces and put it together again and found out how it was built and laughed at its ingenious mechanism.

I conversed with the duke for some time about the way his visit to Newport had depressed the price of real estate, and offered him the freedom of New York, hoping that he could depress the price of real estate there so that I could buy some.

NYE TIMING THE DUKE

"But," said I, assuming an air of perfect repose as I flung myself on a low couch in such a way as to give a faint view of my new red socks, "you will find it different in New York. Social ostracism there will not materially affect the price of real estate in the neighborhood of the postoffice. In fact, Marlbro," said I, counting him earnestly for a moment through the bottom of a cut glass tumbler, "there is not enough English social ostracism in New York to supply the demand. Come to our young and thriving town, a town that is rich in resources and facilities, a town that threatens to rival Omaha as a railroad center, a town where a Board of Health has been a common nuisance for over a year, a town where you can ride on the elevated trains and get yours if punched in the iron gate by the guard or go down to Wall street and get into the stock market, a town where a man like Henry S. Ives can buy about $7,000,000 worth of stuff that he can't pay for, while a poor man who goes into a general store to buy a pair of cat mouts is followed up by a private detective for fear he may run his finger into the molasses barrel and then lick it surreptitiously." "Come on, duke," said I, growing more talkative as the fumes of his $32 liquor rose to my surprised and delighted brain; "come on to New York and take me with us and get on to our ways."

"If you will give us a whirl, duke," said I, selecting an umbrella from the decorated crock in the hall and coming back to where he still sat, "you will be pleased and gratified with us, and if you can spare time to come over and see me personally I would try to be as cordial and chatty as you have been with me. No man ever entertained me as you have or sat and exchanged line through the bottom of an old milk-can for two hours, to be forgotten again to me. Marlbro, if you will [illegible] you may desperate."

I then took him out to the house with me, a just 12 pass by and lost sight away. Shortly after I got back from my lodgings, [illegible] seven and one-eighth room, a lucky face for duke, wearing a heavy colored derby, the gift of me a note from Marlbro in which he said he hoped that in case I ever [illegible] public dinner I would [illegible] in my poor, weak way, I think I have got so.—New York World.

Soothing Her Nervousness.

Nervous Old Lady (to conductor of the train) "What's that noise I hear jumping up the hill, young man? It makes me nervous." Conductor (reassuringly) "You mean the noise, madam, the axle is all right. It was a tramp throwing a brick and smash thru a car window to get passengers out with better views of the death."—New York Sun.

Dr. Letter.

From [illegible] of its worth,
A little [illegible] on earth,
An [illegible] sky,
Believing that [illegible] worth,
A written line [illegible] earth
But as I read, a sudden, solemn thrill
Flung over me. A cold skin to quill
And cords we [illegible] strain, in vain,
Leapt into life and [illegible] at will,
Assume slight sapling on a wind swept hill.
It told me naught I had not known before;
That letter. Yet a tiny, flutter in my breast
Till the weathered, worn willful worn heart had scope
For gauzy wings, whose rosy texture wore
The golden gleets my early fancies bore.
My lips grew pale where sheers are wont to sit,
Tears fill the eyes I thought too fierce to weep.
And all my pride two words can overleap—
For only two the letter has in it,
But potent, paralyzing: "Please Remit."
—Tid Bits.

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE.

It Misleads Two Eminent Lawyers in an Albany Boat.

The following story is told of a couple of Gotham lawyers, well known in Troy, who went down on the evening trains, one from the North Woods and the other from the Berkshire hills, and met on the deck of the steamer shortly after she had left her dock.

"Hello, Brown," said Black, "glad to see you. Got a room?"

"Half a one," replied Brown. The other half, judging from an overcoat and satchel I found there, appears to be occupied by some old haysed who will probably snore all night and make life miserable for me."

"Just my case," returned Black, "only I should imagine from his effects that my room mate is a tramp."

"Such being the state of affairs, suppose we see if we can get one of the rooms together and let the farmer and the tramp enjoy the other," said Brown.

"Agreed," assented Black, and they started down to the purser's office and stated their grievance. The purser looked carefully over his books and then remarked, with assumed gravity:

"I am sorry for you, gentlemen, but as Mr. Black appears to be already sharing Mr. Brown's misfortune, and vice versa, I will be unable to do anything for you."

Mutual apologies followed, and when quiet had been restored Brown accounted for the seedy appearance of his belongings by explaining that he had driven several miles that morning through the mud, and Black laid the blame for his rusty looking bag on his wife, who had mended a broken strap with a hair pin, and then they went to their room and sampled a portion of the contents of both bags.—Troy Times.

STORY ABOUT JACK COLLINS.

How, When Stranded, He Raised Funds to Reach Home.

Jack Collins, the Detroit light weight, played with a theatrical company last spring, and as a natural result was left stranded in one of the upper counties of this state, having only enough cash in his pocket to buy a nickel cigar. He sat on the hotel veranda smoking this and thinking how far off Detroit was, when a man drove up in a buggy, jumped out of his vehicle and said:

"Young man, it is needless to inform you that I am from the headwaters of Fighting creek and that I am going to give you the worst mauling any human being ever received! I'll give you two minutes in which to pay."

Collins was in the mood for a set-to, and he instantly hoisted sail and went in for all he was worth. In three minutes the man who hived up the creek struck his flag. When allowed to get up he asked:

"Did it tire you any?" "Not a bit, sir."

"Could you do it any day in the week?"

"Yes, or any hour in the day."

"Yes, I guess you could. Do you want to leave town?" "I do."

"Where for?" "Detroit."

"All right. I'll go in and pay your bill and then buy you a ticket. I'm an awful fighter, I am, but when I can't lick a man I hire him to leave the town, and that keeps me boss. Here's $5 extra if you go this afternoon."

And it was on that cusp's money that Collins got back home without parting up his watch.—Detroit Free Press.

A Narrow Escape.

A couple of negro whitewashers at the market were condoling with each other yesterday morning when a white man stepped up, bent over and felt around their heels, and rose up with three $10 gold pieces in his hand.

"Dropped in there an hour or so ago," he explained as he jingled them under their chins and walked off.

The two men looked at each other for a long time, and then one observed:

"Rastus, dar hain't no luck in dis world for us, shore. We was walkin' right on dat gold an' didn't know it."

"Reckon it's de clothes of de Lawd," humbly replied the other. "If we'd a found dat money we'd a bin so stuck up ober it dat de Lawd would hev had to send de cholera an' end to take de vanity outen us. It was a narrow escape, Brudder Smith."—Detroit Free Press.

Wonders of Nature and Art.

American Tourist—Oh, yes, oh, yes, I visited Paris, of course.

Great Traveler—Did you see the Alps?

"Yes, no."

"There is a remarkable object in the Irish Alps. It is on the Italian side, and no matter what language you speak the cicerone always comes back with an Italian accent."

"Well, I must be wonderful."

"Well, scientists agree that it is not more wonderful than the fact that Americans who have been in Paris a week always come back with a French accent."—Omaha World.

Advice by Charles Dudley Warner.

"In making up a party for a travelling excursion," said Charles Dudley Warner to a friend who was planning one, "be always sure to have it include at least one ignorant woman. She will ask all the questions you are ashamed to ask or think you don't need to ask, and you will share the benefit of a vast deal of information you would otherwise lose."—The Epoch.

Not Easily Frightened.

[illegible] fun with [illegible]—You [illegible] dat, eah?

Reporter—A[illegible]

Tailor—What if you don't yer hed a coat like dat?

Reporter—I think I'd wash it.—Tid Bits.

Couldn't Scare Her.

He (before the wedding)—You are sure you won't be nervous at the alter?

She—If you [illegible] a [illegible] I never have been yet [illegible].

Another Way of Looking at It.

Cook—Shure [illegible] Zulu's just [illegible] bitin' the [illegible] off my [illegible] by [illegible].

Mistress—Dear [illegible]! How [illegible] fully an [illegible] [illegible] was a [illegible] boy, Mary?—Life.

Told About Dr. Bethune.

The late Dr. Bethune once asked a morose and misanthropic man how he was getting along. The man replied: "Oh, sir, I am one of those who take no interest in life, the meanest of God's creatures."—The Epoch.

THE CHAMPION LIAR.

The snake liar and the fish liar, both bowed in their gray old age,
Came traveling back from their journeys wide, from the earth wise pilgrimage.
A tear drop stood in the snake liar's eye, and the fish liar groaned in pain,
And a death like look of infinite grief came over the face of the twain.

"I cannot compete with the modern lie," the sad eyed snake liar said,
"Its limitless length and breadth and depth, and I wish that I were dead;
For I stand a pigmy with a shame faced look
Beside the towering giant gaze of the eye
Of the newspaper affidavit liar with his circulation lie:

"For the snake liar and the fish liar, and the horse tale peddling sway,
And the easy going liars who work by the job, and the lazy jobs who work by the day,
The traveling liar and inhabitant liar, and liars of every [illegible]
And liars who lie for the fun of the thing, and liars who lie for a fee.

"The horse liar, the peach crop liar, the sea serpent liar and all;
With their wide, untravelled wastes of cheek, and their soulless seas of gall,
All bend the knee to the sceptered sway of this crowned and peerless one;
And the Father of lies looks tenderly down on his most accomplished son."—Tid Bits.

CASHING A CHECK.

How a Gentle, Lovely Buffalo Woman Went About It.

A gentle, lovely woman entered a Main street bank yesterday. She wanted a check cashed, so she went to the receiving teller's window and thrust the check in. The teller shoved it back. "Next winder," said he. "Next winter! I can't wait till next winter," exclaimed the lady. "I said next winder," shouted the teller, "w-i-n-d-o-w, winder: t'other winder." "Oh, yes, but this is the receiving window, isn't it?" "Yes, but you can't get any money here." "But I'm going to receive it, ain't I?" "Not here you ain't; go to t'other winder, lady, he'll fix you."

The lady was still uncertain, but she went and shoved t'other check. The polite official thrust it back. "It's not indorsed, madam," said he. "Not indorsed! What does that mean?" "Is your name Tucker?" "Praps it is and praps it isn't. What business is that o' yours?" "Is this your name on the face of this check?" "Yes, it is." "Well, you've got to indorse it." "That's what you said before. What do you mean?" "You must write your name across the back of it." "But my name's on it already." "Not on the back." "On the front." "That ain't enough; it must be across the back." "Oh, well, gi' me it."

She took it and carefully wrote her name upside down across the bottom of the check, and handed it in. "You indorsed it wrong, madam." "How'd I know how you wanted it?

WOMAN CASHING A CHECK.

Why didn't you tell me?" "I thought I did; here, write your name across the top, so," and the teller patiently showed her, and with much grudging she complied. The teller thereupon cashed her check with two silver dollars. "I ain't going to take these," she said. "Gi' me bills." The teller sighed and gave her two $1 bills, whereupon she picked up her parasol and departed.—Buffalo Courier.

Some Hackneyed Names.

The casual visitor had dropped in to talk with the editor and opened by saying: "I wonder why newspaper correspondents generally select such old style and hackneyed names as Vagitus, Observer and Citizen."

"I don't know. Twenty-five minutes?"

"Yes, and Vox Populi."

"And Justitia."

"And Junius."

"And Witness."

"I have brought you an article that may come in handy on a dull day."

"What name did you sign?"

"Mere Anon."—Lowell Journal.

Extravagance in Dress.

Husband of Literary Woman—How are you coming on with your magazine article? Literary Woman—I've got it almost finished.

"What is it about?"

"It deals with the extravagance in dress of fashionable women."

"What are you going to do with the money you get for it?"

"I'm saving up to buy me a seal skin sacque."—Texas Siftings.

An Unjust Suspicion.

Mrs. Jones has been very silent all through breakfast. "John Smith, you talked in your sleep last night about a Mrs. Ford. I have never heard you say that she was a dear. Are you the father of a family?" Meekly and humbly he said: "Jane, I had been to the theatre."—Mrs. Ford, my dear, is a dress.

Wife—Jehu, now I'll me send you some [illegible] to coffee.—Harper's Bazar.

But Two Painters in the World.

An [illegible] of Worcester said to him: "Mr. M. Whistler, I only know of two painters in the world."

"Why, sir," said Mr. Whistler, [illegible] "Who are the other two, sir?"—The Epoch.

He Spoke.

He spoke and I felt my face grow pale,
And I felt my [illegible] grow [illegible]
[illegible]
The [illegible] I felt [illegible] heard.
I felt [illegible] the [illegible] way,
The [illegible] I felt [illegible] heard,
Lady [illegible] I felt [illegible] way,
Stretched [illegible] Lenny.

He spoke again, and I felt I say
I felt [illegible] say
And I felt I must the time [illegible] man,
I remembered that I [illegible] say

And [illegible] I say [illegible] I knew,
He was [illegible] a [illegible] day
Who waved [illegible] and a day
He made me the [illegible] I just told him so.
—Tid Bits.

A SNAKE FARM.

Virgin Illinois Prairie Devoted to Snake Raising by Wholesale.

The great snake farm at Galton, Ills., consists of forty acres of virgin prairie owned by Col. Dan Stover, and is a short distance from town. There are thirty-seven mounds of earth on the farm, prepared in such a way that the snakes use them for nests, and there are about ten or twelve nests to the mound. The colonel says that each nest turns out about a [illegible] rattlers each year, so the stock is increasing rapidly. He has a contract with a Philadelphia patent medicine firm that is making a rheumatism cure and furnishes them 250 snakes a year at $2.25 each. No snake less than four feet long is accepted. Last year 708 snakes were sold, his customers being scattered through a number of states. As much care is taken of the young snakes as if they were human. [illegible]

"FED BY THE CHILDREN."

The newly hatched snakes, if not properly cared for by their mother, are taken to the colonel's home, located in one corner of the lot, and there fed by the children, who catch bugs for them about the garden and street. Sometimes the eggs were hatched out under the stove. A half dozen very large snakes, with their fangs drawn, are kept about the house as pets. They are excellent mousers, much better than cats, the colonel says. The colonel wanders about his farm, taking no other precaution against his reptiles than to wear a pair of thick boots. When a reporter called on him the colonel complained that the neighbors did not come to visit him very often, and that his wife didn't like that much, for she was fond of company, but, on the whole, since there was plenty of money in the business they were very well content.—Omaha Herald.

AT THE HOME PLATE.

High Ball—Seventy-five cents admission to grand stand.—Washington Critic.

The opinion of a winner on the result of a ball game is apt to be one sided.—New Orleans Picayune.

A hot ball is not to be particularly dreaded if a man is hungry and it is a fish ball.—Boston Courier.

"Where is my boy to-night?" sang a Burlington mother. Probably at the bulletin board watching for the baseball returns.—Burlington Free Press.

Players of the League baseball clubs have formed a brotherhood to assert their rights. They ought to be well posted on strikes.—Philadelphia News.

A Nashville paper says that "the cream of the base ball club should be found in the catcher." but it is sometimes found in the butter.—Norristown Herald.

No wonder that all the girls are dead gone on the game of base ball—especially the girls of uncertain age, who have posed as disinterested "watchers" all their lives.—Hartford Sunday Journal.

Milton touched up the extremes tolerably well in "L'Allegro" and "Il Penseroso," but he should have lived to see a Detroit editor following the variable fortunes of his base ball team.—Chicago Herald.

Telling a Woman's Fortune.

A fortune teller can hit a woman's case nine times out of ten. "You've had sickness and trouble. You have some property left to you. You do not have full confidence in your husband. Beware! He is deceiving you!" You have a very gentle nature. Everybody loves you. You have had trouble with a relative. It was not your fault. In warmed a blue-eyed woman, with a mole on her left cheek. She was make you tell her [illegible] again."—Detroit Free Press.

Honor to Whom Honor.

Waiter—Everything satisfactory, sah? Guest—Perfectly.

"Fried eggs, everything right, sah?"

"This is just what I would have ordered as I ordered."

"You sah, I might if I could do, sah. Didn't know but maybe you might like to offer a small fee, sah?"

"I'll do it if you deserved."

"Yes, sah."

"Here, take it."—Omaha World.

Mendin' Matters.

[illegible] Famous [illegible] teacher—Sa[illegible] Pumpe[illegible] [illegible] looked.

[illegible]

"I S[illegible] Billy Whitacre sa[illegible]

[illegible] Sa[illegible] as great a [illegible]—Tid Bits.

Not a Bad Outlook.

"You must understand, Mr. Dumley, in seeking the hand of my daughter," said the old man, "that she will bring you nothing until after my death."

"I understand, sir," responded Dumley hopefully, "but you must bear in mind, my dear sir, that you are getting well on in years."—Harper's Bazar.

An Obliging Applicant.

Housewife (to tramp)—Sir, there is one thing I want to say to you. The last girl had a fellow of coming into the parlor and playing on the piano without asking, she felt like it. You never play the piano, do you?

"No, mum. But I think I could learn with a little assistance from you."—Washington Critic.

That Monument Fund.

W. P. Dressed Gentleman to ticket seller at elevated station—In returning change will you be good enough to give me five copper cents instead of the nickel?

Ticket Seller—Hurrah! Here's another New Yorker going to contribute to the Grant monument.—Texas Siftings.

He Hadn't.

"Well, my little boy," he said to his neighbor's son, "so you've got home, eh?"

"Yes, sir."

"Been out in the country rusticating?"

"No, sir, we've been out in the country living on grandpa's folks."—Detroit Free Press.

Hay Fever.

For twenty years I have been severely afflicted with hay fever. While I was suffering intensely I was induced, through Mr. Tichenor's testimonial, to try Ely's Cream Balm. The effect was marvelous. It enabled me to perform my pastoral duties without the slightest inconvenience, and I have escaped a return attack. I pronounce Ely's Cream Balm a cure for hay fever.—Rev. [illegible], Pastor, Elizabeth, N. J.

The story is told of an old hunter in Michigan who lost his way in the woods a number of times while the country was new. At length he secured a pocket compass and its use was explained to him in a trice. But shortly afterward he lost his way again and lay out as usual. When found he was asked why he did not travel by the compass. He did not dare, he said. He wanted to go north, and he "tried to make the thing point north, but it wasn't no use, it would shake, shake, shake round and point southeast every time."

In Brief, And To The Point.

Dyspepsia is dreadful. Disordered liver is misery. Indigestion is a foe to good nature.

The human digestive apparatus is one of the most complicated and wonderful things in existence. It is easily put out of order.

Greasy food, sloppy food, bad cookery, mental worry, late hours, irregular habits, and many other things which ought not to be, have made the American people a nation of dyspeptics.

But Green's August Flower has done a wonderful work in reforming this sad business and making the American people so healthy that they can enjoy their meals and be happy.

Remember:—No happiness without health. But Green's August Flower brings health and happiness to the dyspeptic. Ask your druggist for a bottle. Seventy-five cents.

Home Evidence

No other preparation has won success at home equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla. In Lowell, Mass., where it is made, it is now, as it has been for years, the leading medicine for purifying the blood, and toning and strengthening the system. This "good name at home" is "a tower of strength abroad."

People of Lowell

It would require a volume to print all Lowell people have said in favor of Hood's Sarsaparilla. Mr. Albert Estes, living at 28 East Pine Street, Lowell, for 15 years employed as boss carpenter by J. W. Bennett, president of the Erie Telephone Company, had a large running sore come on his leg, which troubled him a year, when he began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. The sore soon grew less in size, and in a short time disappeared.

Praise Hood's Sarsaparilla

Jos. Dunphy, 214 Central Street, Lowell, had swellings and lumps on his face and neck, which Hood's Sarsaparilla completely cured.

Mrs. C. W. Marden, wife of the Fire Assistant Fire Engineer, of Lowell, says that for 16 years she was troubled with stomach disorder and sick headache, which nothing relieved. The attacks came on every fortnight, when she was obliged to take her bed, and was unable to endure a ray of light. She took Hood's Sarsaparilla, and after a time the attacks ceased entirely.

Many more might be given had we room. On the recommendation of people of Lowell, who know us, we ask you to try

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1, six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. Hood & Co., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

FREE PRESS

The Weekly Detroit Free Press

and The Household.

The Largest, Best and Cheapest of Ten Pages of Reading Matter in Infinite Variety. Weeklies.

Each issue is a perfect encyclopedia of information. It contains all the news of the week brought down to the time of going to press. Foreign News, Home News, Political Review, Market Reports, Special Correspondence, Editorials, Local and State News, Original Sketches, Poetry, General Miscellany and Selections from the Literary Gems. Miscellany and Literary Matter with the Household supplement for the ladies. The Free Press is the Leading and Representative Paper of Michigan.

THE GREAT

ONE DOLLAR PER YEAR.

$1. E PLURIBUS UNUM 1883 $1.

FAMILY NEWSPAPER

That it is generally regarded as the most desirable and meritorious of Weeklies is shown by the fact that it has by far the largest circulation of any paper published in Michigan. No well regulated family will be without it. Price, only ONE DOLLAR a year.

SPECIAL BOOK OFFER.

We will send The Weekly Free Press for one year and any one of the Books named, postage paid, on receipt of amount quoted.

Every One Its Own Lawyer	$1.50
World's Cyclopedia (Haas)	1.50
Popular History of the Civil War (Haas)	1.50
The Lives of Our Presidents (Haas)	1.50
What Every One Should Know. A Cyclopedia of Modern Facts	1.50
Everybody's Paint Book; or, How to do Your Own Painting and Decorating	1.50
Allibone's Webster's Dictionary and Dictionary of Electricity	1.50

DAILY FREE PRESS, $7.00 a Year.
DAILY, 3 times a week, 5.50 "

SUBSCRIBE NOW—DON'T DELAY

Premiums given for clubs. Send for Premium list and sample copy. Local agents wanted.

The Free Press Co., Detroit, Mich.

FREE PRESS

Tecumseh Herald

TECUMSEH MICH., SEP 27 1887

A FOREDOOMED FAILURE

The taxation of mortgages in this [illegible] The last legislature provided the machinery, which goes into operation September 27, and it only remains for the registers of deeds and the assessing officers to do their duty under the law, when every mortgage held on Michigan property by residents of the state will be assessed.

Each register of deeds is required to make in books furnished by the state for the purpose of the county, the residence of all mortgagees, and to send by April 15, 1888, to the register of deeds of the county in which the mortgagees reside, their names, together with the amounts held. This list the register of deeds will turn over to the proper assessing officer. No mortgage failing to give the name and residence of the mortgagee can be recorded. The register of deeds is to list all mortgages held in and including 1880, which have not been discharged. For this work he is to receive from the county treasurer 10 cents for each description.

The law has one good feature. It will show just how many mortgages have been put on Michigan property since 1879, and which are not discharged. A bill to have the labor bureau do this work was defeated as a waste of money, but the idea of assessing mortgages took with the grangers, and they voted almost solidly for the bill that looked to this end.

The effect of the law will be to have mortgages on Michigan property held by non-residents. The money owners of Detroit will appoint agents in Cleveland, Chicago, New York and other financial centers in whose names the mortgages will be made out. For the first year or two, before the mortgagees have had time to transfer their mortgages or have neglected to do so, the amount of taxes received from mortgages will probably be increased. After that no more—and probably less—will be paid on mortgages than on the present system. It will not pay the cost of collecting the information.

The taxation of mortgages is a double burden on the mortgagor, who first pays taxes on the real property and then, through an increased rate of interest pays it over again on the mortgage. By no case is the mortgagee reached. The rate of interest charged is always plus the tax and the trouble the tax causes.

John Jones is a farmer. He has a 160 acres of good land, worth $12,000. On it is a mortgage held by Smith, of $8000. The assessor values Jones farm at $8,000, on which Jones pays 2 per cent., or $160. Then the assessor turns around and assesses the mortgage $8,000. If the ruling rate of interest is 5 per cent., Smith charges 8 per cent. interest for the loan—5 per cent. for the money, 2 per cent. for taxes and 1 per cent. for trouble. So Jones pays the assessor direct $160, pays the assessor through Smith $640, and pays Smith $80 for the trouble—a total of $1400. Is it any wonder that Jones after a time loses his farm? Yet Jones clamors for the taxation of mortgages. Jones is an ass.

This process has been going on for years, resulting in the borrowers growing poorer and the loaners growing richer. The most helpless have had to bear a double burden of taxation, and they have fallen under it so rapidly that the independent farmers is giving way to the tenant farmer and the small manufacturers have been swallowed up by the larger ones. In this act to smell out mortgages the legislature has benefited no one, except registers, who get ten cents a description, and the money lenders, who will stiffen rates to pay for the increased trouble in evading the tax.—Evening News.

HOW WE EDUCATE OUR FOREIGN POPULATION.

The legalizing of the liquor traffic confuses the consciences of foreigners coming to our country. We try to educate and elevate them, teaching them that the crimes resulting from the liquor traffic are wrong, punishing them if they commit them. Then, for the payment of money, we give them the authority of the state to go into the very business that leads men to commit these crimes.

For instance, Patrick arrives here from Ireland. If he gets drunk and noisy, we arrest him and the law imposes its penalty. But we allow him, by the payment of a sum of money, to have the legal right to make John and Mike drunk.

Now Patrick must reason some thing like this: "This is a queer country. If I get drunk, they lock me up and fine me. But I can make just as many other men drunk as I choose, and the city and state take part of the money that comes from the business.

Queer country, surely! Wrong to get drunk. Right to make other people drunk. Shut up in jail, if I get drunk. Protected by the law in making other fellows drunk.

Illustration—Pat Flanigan in Court. "Patrick Flanigan," said the District Attorney, one day in court, "stand up and plead guilty or not guilty to the charge the Commonwealth hath preferred against you."

When Pat had complied with the request thus made by the officer of the law, the Attorney proceeded to read from a paper in his hand a very graphic description of a certain transaction in which Pat had been engaged a few days before.

"What say you, Sir, you, guilty or not guilty?" asked the Attorney.

"Divil a bit of it, I think, sir, but you see, it was on to me," said Pat, looking at the court, "just I had have a drop of a new, bit Saturday was a week, and I danbe jist wat I did, for ye see I was stavin' sick, on the meanest corn whiskey yer Honor ever tasted."

"But Patrick, we never taste it," said the Judge, while a smile lurked in ambush behind the grave judicial countenance.

"Sure, now, don't ye thought" said Pat, with a look of mingled surprise and incredulity—"don't ye thought Well, thin, yer ought to jist once, to know how to pity a poor fellow that does. Sure yer Honor grands liv'ows, and how do ye know the mischief yer doin' to honest men lik mesiff, unless ye take a drink now and tain—just to see how it acts, and to know how it makes a man behave insself?"

"Who gave you the liquor, Patrick?" asked the Court, on a voyage of discovery.

"Well, I don't kit wat's his name," said Pat, not honorable to turn informer, while a gleam of true native humor twinkled in his eye. "But I know I seed a little ass hangin' behind the door. Ye see, Judge, I was wroughtin' for the city on the streets, just close by, and I was drouthy, and it was so handy, I went in an' took a drink that orteni to have hurt a baby; and in tin seconds I was crazy drunk—an' I dreamt that I was at Donnybrook fair, an' that's all I remember till nixt mornin' when I was boardin' at Sheriff Ryan's hotel."

"But," said the Court, "you are charged with perpetrating an aggravated assault and battery on Mr. S., the hotel keeper."

"Well, yer Honor," said Pat, "if I did, I only gin him back jist vat's in his own whiskey, an' if yer Honor hadn't give him a license, I wouldn't 've been drunk; an' if I hadn't bin drunk, I wouldn't 've got into the fight, and if I hadn't got into the fight, I wouldn't 've bin here this mornin' onyhow."

This was a process of reasoning new to the court. It was a self-evident truth dressed in plain clothes, and while the law was with the Court, Pat evidently had a long logic, and he here summed up the mischief of the license system in a few sentences.

Scores of men are made drunk every day, just because it is so easy to obtain liquor. The law places it in reach of every man. On the streets of our towns and cities are hung notices of "Choice Liquors," "Cool Lager," "Ale," and "Fancy Drinks," to tempt the laboring man to come in and spend his money for strong drink, that his family needs for bread. On the path he must walk to and from his daily occupation he sees these temptations on every side. The licensed saloon and grog shop afford him every facility to become a drunkard. His appetite, renewed and kept alive by indulgences, urges him on. There is no obstacle in his road to ruin; on the other hand that road is opened and made plain and easy by the law. What wonder is it then that the rum shops flourish while the families of their victims starve?

$3.00 FOR 50 CENTS.

The Most Generous Offer Made by any Business Firm in the World.

In order to advertise "Mellin's Food" in this district the following offer is made to the readers of our paper. On receipt of fifty cents we will deliver at our office, or mail to any address, two beautiful lithoed water color engravings and a copy of "Sunshine for Little Children," edited by the Rev. J. Henry Smythe, D. D., a magazine crowded with charming pictures and exquisite stories for the Little Ones. These two engravings are by Ida Waugh, the greatest of American Artists, whose radiant child faces are known in every quarter of the globe. These pictures, of the rarest excellence, represent lovely infants, with faces as beaming as the morning. They are now selling in New York city at one dollar apiece. Artists pronounce them to be works of unusual merit. We offer both, with the large and beautiful "Sunshine," for only Fifty Cents. "Mellin's Food" is advertised only on the inside of the "Sunshine" covers. No advertising is on either of the engravings. Over two and a half million copies have been sold this year without a single complaint. All orders should be sent directly to the office of this paper. Samples of the "Sunshine" and Pictures can be seen at our establishment.

Hudson expects a third railroad before another summer.

THE COUNTY FAIR.

The fair management have seen fit to rearrange the speed department and this year without doubt, will be seen one of the finest contests of speed ever exhibited at a county fair in Southern Michigan. First is stallions any age, $75, followed by colts two years old purse $30, colts under four years old purse $30, colts under five years, purse $25, horses that never gave a heat to 2:40 purse $75, 2:40 purse, $150, horses, free, purse $150, horses, pacers, purse $75, running race $75. These purses will bring a large number of entries and make this line of attractions very attractive indeed.

The poultry fanciers will find a new building 24x40 feet, erected for their use, and furnishing a more commodious for a better exhibit in this line than has ever been shown at our county fair.

The fruit department is in the hands of the horticultural society, which is a guarantee that it will be good. In each line of exhibits the officers and members have been working unceasingly for the best display possible, and the prospects are exceedingly promising.

The managers have arranged to have the famous cyclorama of the battle of Gettysburg exhibited, under an immense pavilion, during the fair, at a reasonable admission fee. This is an oil painting 360 feet in length and 50 feet in heighth. The subject of the picture is the "Famous charge of Pickett's division," on the union lines, during the afternoon of the third day of the battle. Every brigadier of Pickett's division was killed or wounded. Out of twenty four regimental officers only two escaped unhurt. It was the turning point of the war, and a bitter crushing defeat to the confederates. The many Michigan boys in blue, who were in this great battle, and their friends will take pleasure in viewing the life-like scene. This is the same cyclorama that is at the state fair from Chicago.

The Tecumseh band of twenty pieces has been engaged to furnish the music. The fact that this organization is one of the best in the state, is a sufficient guarantee of the excellent entertainment in this line. We understand, too, that every band of the county, as well as the civic societies and fire department of the city, are all invited. Last, but not least, is the prospective base ball tournament. It is expected that the various clubs of the county, Wolf Creek, Onsted, Hudson, Ridgeway, Sand Creek, Blissfield and others will participate. Four grand gala days at the county fair.

N. W. AYERS & SON'S AMERICAN NEWSPAPER ANNUAL FOR 1887,

Contains a carefully prepared list of all Newspapers and Periodicals in the United States and Canada, arranged by States in Geographical Sections, and by Towns in alphabetical order. Under this head is given the name of the paper, the issue, general characteristics, year of establishment, size, subscription price and circulation, also the names of Editors and Publishers, and the street address (when known) in all cities of about 50,000 population.

It enumerates the various Press and Editorial Associations throughout the United States and Canada together with lists of their Officers.

It contains a list of all Newspapers inserting Advertisements, arranged in States by Counties, with the distinctive features and circulation of each paper.

Also complete lists of all the Religious or Agricultural Periodicals, of Medical, Commercial, Scientific, Educational, or any other of the class publications, as well as of all Publications printed in foreign languages, and a vast amount of general and statistical information of practical value to almost every business man.

One of its chief features will be of a carefully prepared description of every County in the United States, setting forth its location, area, adjoining navigable streams, the character of its surface, the nature of its soil, its leading crops and manufactures, its County-seat and population. A similar, but more elaborate discriptive heading, is appended to each State, Territory, and Canadian Province. The county headings show, from the United States census of 1880, the number of manufacturing establishments of all kinds at that time, the amount of capital invested in them, the number of hands employed, and the value of annual products. The State headings show in addition to the foregoing the amount paid in wages, and the value of the raw material used.

These headings are subject to constant and careful revision. The growth and development of the various sections is noted and embodied in them from year to year, thus forming a valuable compendium of the physical features and the agricultural and manufacturing resources of the country.

It gives the population of every State, Territory, County and County-seat, of all the large Cities and towns, and of almost every place in which a Newspaper is published, taken either from the United States census of 1880, or from the State census of 1885, in every instance where such census was taken, or from recent careful estimates.

It also gives the number of votes polled in each State, Territory and County by the Republican, Democrat, Prohibition and Prohibition parties.

Among its exhaustive and interesting tables are those showing the Cities, Towns and Villages of the United States [illegible] thousand and upward, arranged in alphabetical order, how many Dailies there are in each State, in how many of these Newspapers are published, in how many Towns of each State papers exist, and how many of these towns are County seats, and how many Newspapers there are in each town; if in the country, or in any of its great divisions, or in any State, Territory or Canadian Province, how many copies of each issue, with a comparative statement of the increase, in 1887 over 1886.

CRUSHED BY THE CARS.

About 7:30 o'clock, last evening, a young man named Alfred Naylor boarded way freight train No. 85, a short distance east of the city, while the train was under motion and rapidly approaching a bridge across the Lake Shore railroad. The train carried, beside its ordinary cars, some coaches used as specials between this city and Jackson, during the progress of the state fair. Upon one of these Naylor swung himself. Before he could get to a place of safety he was struck by one of the posts of the guard frame, which stands a short distance east of the bridge. The blow threw him back against the car, cutting a gash in his head, and causing him to lose his hold and fall to the ground. The wheels of the coach passed over his right leg, just above the ankle, nearly severing it.

Naylor had dragged himself some little distance before his cries for help were heard by Mrs. L. T. Lochner, who lives near the place where the accident occurred. That lady promptly secured assistance, and carried the wounded man to her home. The Drs. Stephenson were summoned and found that amputation was necessary, the operation being performed about four inches below the knee.

The unfortunate man, who is about 22 years of age, is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Naylor, and has recently been in the employ of Ed. Townsend. No fatal results are anticipated.—Adrian Times of Wednesday.

Save the Children. They are especially liable to sudden Colds, Coughs, Croup, Whooping Cough, etc. We guarantee Acker's English Remedy a positive cure." It saves hours of anxious watching. Sold by C. A. WRIGHT & CO., Druggists.

The Housekeeper for October will contain a full account of the wedding of the manageress of that paper, in the Minneapolis, Minn., Exposition, on the evening of Sept. 28, together with accurate descriptions and illustrations of the participants' wedding dresses and presents. A copy of this issue will be mailed free to any of our lady readers sending their address to THE BUCKEYE PUB. CO., Minneapolis, Minn.

DON'T FAIL TO TRY IT.

J. C. Barrows, Kalamazoo, Mich., testifies: "For more than five years, a member of my family has been afflicted with Hay Fever, culminating late in the fall in a hacking cough. Every remedy proved futile. Not half a bottle of Papillon (extract of flax) Catarrh Cure had been used before the cough entirely disappeared, and general relief followed. 'It is simply wonderful.'" Large bottles only $1,00

For sale by A. S. Doty.

FULL WEIGHT PURE

DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER

MOST PERFECT MADE

Used by the United States Government. Endorsed by the heads of the Great Universities as the Strongest, Purest, and most Healthful. Dr. Price's the only Baking Powder that does not contain Ammonia, Lime or Alum. Sold only in cans. PRICE BAKING POWDER CO. NEW YORK. CHICAGO. ST. LOUIS

N. W. AYER & SON
ADVERTISING AGENTS
TIMES BUILDING PHILADELPHIA
Cor. Chestnut and Eighth Sts.
Receive Advertisements for this Paper.
ESTIMATES For NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING at Lowest Cash Rates FREE
Send 10c. in Stamps for AYER & SON'S MANUAL

CLOTHING

Clothing! Clothing!

FALL AND WINTER OF '87 & '88

STRONG & McNAIR

Are in daily receipt of new and seasonable goods of every variety of style and quality.

1000 Suits just Received

New Cloths, New Hats, New Underwear

Everything New.

The Largest Assortment in the market. We cannot be undersold. No trouble to show goods.

STRONG & McNAIR

NEW BEDROOM SUITS
PARLOR SUITS!

Patent Rockers, Reed Rockers, New Couches

And a big stock of Fine and Medium

FURNITURE!

I invite all who are in want of good Furniture to look through my rooms and examine goods and notice the low prices. Remember, I have not moved back, but still occupy the largest store on the street for the last 13 years. You are told I don't enjoy the business for want of room. THAT IS SO.

Undertaking a Specialty!

Night Calls, Day Calls and all kinds of calls promptly attended to. New styles of Caskets in stock, and something entirely new for the times.

WM. McCOWEN.

BIG BARGAINS IN BOOKS AND BIBLES

AT

CODDINGTON'S.

UNION HALL STORE

The old Palace Clothing House

Has been renovated and filled with an immense stock of

FALL AND WINTER

CLOTHING

FOR MEN, BOYS, AND CHILDREN, AND GENT'S

FURNISHING GOODS

HATS, CAPS, GLOVES, ETC.

An Immense Variety in all Departments

GEORGE HEESEN,

UNION HALL BLOCK. TECUMSEH.

TEMPLE, McCLURE & CO.,

Successors to

Wolcott, Temple & Co.,

Wholesale and Retail Dealers in

Lumber, Lath, Shingles, Sash and Doors

AND ALL KINDS OF BUILDING MATERIAL.

Planing, Sawing, Matching to Order.

Mill and Yard North of Railroad Depot.

TECUMSEH, MICHIGAN.

ING
ing!
E '87
cNAR
seasonable goo
nd quality.
Received
Underwe
W. undersold. No troub
cNAIR
M SUITS
SUITS!
S, New Couch
nd Medium
URE!
k through my rooms a member, I have not
on the street for joy the busi-
S SO.
ecialty!
tly attended to.
new for the times.
VEN.
OKS AND
BLES
STORE
g House with an immens
TER
NG
AND GENT'S
GOOD
S, ETC.
ety
artments
SEH,
TECUMSEH.
E & CO.,
& Co., n and Doo
ATERIAL.
ng to Order.
Depot.
IGAN.

AMUSEMENTS.

OPERA HOUSE, TECUMSEH.

3 NIGHTS 3

Commencing Thursday Eve'ng, SEPT. 22, '87.

the appearance of the celebrated actress and peerless beauty,

Miss Marie Brainard

assisted by Mr. S. S. SIM

a strong company of talented artists in a grand repertoire of plays.

Monday evening, the grand scenic production of

QUEENA

Friday Eve., Sept. 23d. The Double Life

Saturday Eve. Sept 24, The Two Orphans

Opera to suit all. 15c, 25c, and 35c. Reserved seats at Adamsons.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

FOR SALE.—A first-class mill business, cuts or mills two thousand dollars a year. Apply to JAMES W. PATTERSON.

NOTICE.—All persons indebted on the late firm of Coryell & Gripton will oblige a favor by settling at the earliest date. Very respectfully, CORYELL & WILLIAMS. Ridgeway, Sept. 2, '87.

HORSES FOR SALE.—One mare and a good four-year old colt. Enquire of Wm. Hall, on the state road east of Grange Hall.

FIFTY DOLLARS buys a good, two and three horse power engine. Forty-five dollars buys a good one horse tread power. Fifty dollars buys a splendid Saddle Pony, with saddle and bridle. Twenty-five dollars buys a spring buggy. Five Jersey Heifers for sale cheap. Four year old colts in stock for sale on private terms. Peaches and pears, and 30 Angora Bucks for sale. JOHN T. LAKE, Clinton, Mich.

FOR RENT.—A very desirable house, with hard and soft water in the kitchen, closet and hen house. Rent low to a reliable party. None other need apply. R. MORRISON, Cor. R. R. and Logan sts.

GO KALSOMINING and paper hanging leave orders with R. MORRISON.

FOR SALE.—Three second hand sewing machines, 1 Singer leather machine, 1 Wheeler Wilson tailoring machine. You can buy the machine at your own price if purchased at once. One painted buggy in good repair, $25; 2 cabinet wall show cases, cost $[illegible], for $5. G. P. SPARKS.

FRESH MILCH COW for sale. A good, young, gentle, half Jersey cow for sale. Good work horse. Inquire of Wm Smith or ABNER WILSON.

DISSOLUTION.—The firm of Coryell & Gripton is this day dissolved by mutual consent, Chas. Gripton having sold his half interest in the business to Henry J. Williams. The new firm of Coryell & Williams will pay all debts and collect all bills due the old firm. CORYELL & GRIPTON. Ridgeway, Mich., Sept. 12, '87.

AGENTS WANTED.—Any person who is employed or desiring work as local or traveling agent for our celebrated nursery stock should apply at once to Jones E. Whitney, Nurseryman, Rochester, N. Y. No experience is necessary. Our new outfit is furnished free. Steady work the year round, and all stock warranted to reach purchaser in good condition.

WANTED.—30 or 15 good industrious girls to work on cigar boxes. Will pay good wages and guarantee steady employment. Inquire at Jackson st., south of M. C. Ry bridge, Jackson, Mich. NOLL & BLESSING.

FOR SALE CHEAP.—The residence formerly occupied by Nathan Morse on Ottawa st. Must be sold to settle the estate. E. B. WOOD, Executor.

BERKSHIRE RAMS for sale, registered and unregistered. ELIJOTT GRAY.

SEED WHEAT.—I have a quantity of very choice Red Mediterranean wheat for seed. Will keep any person sending bags to put it in proper bushel. Sample of the wheat at C. Scott's. ALEX. SAUERBARD, Homer, Mich.

FARM FOR SALE.—I offer my farm in Tecumseh for sale. 40 acres with good buildings and orchard. Will be sold at a bargain. Call on the premises or at the HERALD office for particulars. GEO. W. STACY.

50,000 BUSHELS OF APPLES wanted at the Tecumseh Fruit Preserving Co's. Highest cash price paid. Enquire of Geo. Heesen or DOLPH HEESEN.

FOR SALE.—I have for sale 61½ acres of timber land situated in section one of the town of Ridgeway. Parties desiring to buy may have either the timber alone, or both together. For further information enquire of GEO. PRICE, Tecumseh.

TAKE NOTICE.—Having decided to move from Tecumseh I shall be greatly obliged to all who are indebted to me if they will call at Wm. Burgess's law office and make a settlement as soon as possible. Tecumseh, July 7th, 1887. R. B. HOUSE.

FOR SALE.—A desirable residence corner of Pearl and Shawanee sts. Enquire on the premises. P. C. TEMPLE.

FOR SALE.—The property opposite the Exchange office now used as a saloon and restaurant, and also the house and lot next north thereof, including the brick factory. The title to the property is all right, and terms and payments will be made to suit purchaser. For particulars inquire at HERALD OFFICE.

FOR SALE.—I offer my place for sale cheap, consisting of 10 acres, just west of Abner Wilson's farm on the Turnpike, in Tecumseh. Good house, barn and two acres of land. For price, etc., call on Abner Wilson or on the undersigned on the premises. Household goods will be sold. WILLIAM SMITH.

WEED SCUFFLERS.—An indispensable tool for farmers and gardeners for attaching to horses and other cultivators. Made from best steel, and warranted to work. W. P. DEMING, Tecumseh, Mich.

WANTED.—One agent in each of the following counties, viz.: Hillsdale, Monroe, Lenawee and Lenawee, to sell my Spring Bottom elevated head rests. Best bed made. Covered by Patent. Exclusive sale to Agent. For terms apply to J. S. KINNEY, Tecumseh.

T. G. Potter returned yesterday from conference meeting at East Saginaw. He will remain in charge of the church here.

W. & S. W. Anderson & Co., have taken the vacant store east of and adjoining their present location, and occupy the same at an early day. Increasing business renders this move to their store room necessary.

A Hudson young lady got things arranged for an elopement, when her brother interfered and made a persuasive argument that the elopement was declared "off" for the evening. It is a good thing sometimes for a young lady to have a big brother, but the little brother, oh, he's a terror.—Adrian Press.

THE TECUMSEH HERALD.

TECUMSEH, MICH., SEPT. 22, 1887

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

Whitney family Sept. 24.

Remember the Whitney family Sept. 24th.

The fall campaign of church suppers has fairly opened.

Another Big dance at Armory Hall next Saturday, the 24th.

Mrs. John Orr spent Sunday and Monday at Ann Arbor.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Smith, of Adrian, were in the village Saturday.

Mrs. James Tenant, of Dundee, was visiting friends in town Saturday.

J. D. Arner, of Ridgeway, was the guest of G. W. Jackson's family last Sunday.

Mrs. John Freeman started Tuesday for Kansas for an extended visit with friends.

New goods arriving daily, come and see them.

W. & S. W. ANDERSON & Co.

Knouse & Hanley have rented the Lilley House barn, and will run a first-class feed stable in the future.

A scheme is on foot for the band to give concerts once a month at the Opera House during the winter.

Arthur Hall, a graduate of our last High School class, has taken the school in district No. 7, of Blissfield.

Ald. Lawrence, of Adrian, will remove to Austin, Texas, in November to take charge of a new hotel that has just been erected there.

Mrs. Garlic nee Flora Campbell, of Chicago, stopped off at Tecumseh last week for a few days. She is on her way home from New York.

The Whitney family give a first class circus and stage performance and all should be on hand to see the fun, Saturday, Sept. 24th.

The Young People's supper given at the M. E. church last Friday evening was a great success financially and otherwise. The proceeds amounted to about $21.

A postal from John R. Clark announces the fact that his time is all filled until next February. He left home on the 14th for Nova Scotia to fill an engagement for forty meetings.

The Manchester Enterprise was twenty years old last week, and celebrated the event by issuing a double sheet. It was the best single issue of the paper ever put forth from the Enterprise office.

The Century Magazine will commence in the November number a series of papers of Siberia and the Exile System, which promise to be of great interest. The Century is always abreast of the times.

Farmers wishing to move into town should not fail to examine those beautiful building lots on Patterson street. These lots will be sold at auction on Saturday, Oct. 8th.

JAMES W. PATTERSON.

The Ministerial Association of Tecumseh will meet at the study of the M. E. church, at 10 A. M. next Monday. A review of "Progress and Poverty" by Henry George will be given by Rev. L. M. Belden, of Raisin.

F. ADKINS, Sec.

Volume one, number one of the Clayton Journal is at hand. The first issue is a very creditable sheet indeed. The question is whether the patronage will be liberal enough to enable the publishers to keep up such a paper permanently.

Miss Nora Martin started last Thursday for her home in Kansas. A letter from her this week contains the pleasing news that she was united in marriage the next day after her arrival in Wichita, to Horace Thorpe, a former resident of this place, but who now resides in that city.

The Tecumseh ball ground was the scene of a hard contest last Saturday afternoon. The struggle was between the local nine and Holloway's best nine. The home club strove manfully for the victory but were crushed. The score stood 25 to 23. If we are not mistaken this is the 17th consecutive vic— defeat, isn't it boys?

Manager Sutton has secured attractions at the Opera House for three nights this week, commencing this evening: Miss Marie Brainard assisted by S. S. Slimpson and a strong company, will produce the play "Queena." Friday evening, "The Double Life" and Saturday evening "The Two Orphans." Admission 15c., 25c. and 35c. Seats can be secured at Adamsons.

Jack Frost has been winking around this part of the country, and Joe Sage is looking after the winter comfort of those who wish to make home happy, with his Champion Door Attachments and Weather Strips. Joe says if we have got to be sinners at all, for goodness' sake let us be agreable sinners, interesting sinners, intelligent sinners, entertaining sinners, well-dressed sinners, warm sinners, any sort of sinners but miserable sinners. The Door Attachments will make the home cheerful at a trifling cost—we tried them last winter and consider them just the thing. Drop Joe an order and he will please you.

Hudson's gas well is down 1700 ft.

"Queena" at the Opera House tonight.

John C. Rapp, of Adrian, has obtained a pension.

Nannie Frazer went to Flat Rock last Tuesday visiting.

J. W. Crane leaves home this week for a few days visit in Chicago.

Nellie Lawrence has gone to Chicago to study music, for a season.

Clara Waldron has gone to Ypsilanti to attend the Normal school the coming year.

The new Monroe Co. fair will be held this year Sept. 27th, 28th and 29th, week after next.

Brewer's foundry is shut down today and the dirt underneath the boiler is undergoing repairs.

Chas. Cummins has rented his house in this village and will remove to Chicago where he will live in the future.

O. P. Bill arrived home last Saturday from his sojourn at Harbor Point. He considers himself proof against hay fever now.

Buy your Cloak early—first choice is best. Come and see our jackets, newmarkets and wraps.

W. & S. W. ANDERSON & Co.

C. L. Waring, of Holland, was visiting at the old home in Ridgeway last week. The HERALD acknowledges the favor of a call from him.

Al. Lawrence has sold his cigar box factory to Harry Tansley, who will conduct the business in the future, and will no doubt make a success of it.

Miss Nellie Conklin who is one of a large Tecumseh party taking in the state fair to day, will go from there to Lansing, to spend a few days with Mrs. A. M. Henry.

Fred Deuel has brought his steamer home from Sand Lake and placed it on the Globe Pond. He will steam up regularly on Saturday, and on other days when parties desire it.

Macon Grange will meet in regular session on Thursday the 29th inst. at 7:30 o'clock P. M. A good attendance is requested, as important business will come before the meeting.

M. J. MARTIN, Sec.

The W. C. T. U. are expecting to have the noted temperance speaker, Volney B. Cushing at this place early in October. The date of the lecture etc. will probably be announced in next week's HERALD.

Mrs. Wm. Richards returned last Friday from an extended sojourn of several weeks in New York state and will settle down in the old home for a while. Her many friends in Tecumseh are glad to welcome her back.

The celebrated Whitney family are billed to give one of their combined stage and arepic shows in this village this week Saturday, Sept. 24. Two performances will be given—afternoon and evening—under a tent located in the field next to Bill's residence. This company was here two years ago and gave a very pleasing performance, and they are stronger than ever this year.

Last evening a lady was heard to remark, "I don't see how I could keep house without Demorest's Monthly," and as we found the October number of this publication on our desk this morning, we gave it a more careful examination than usual to see what makes it so popular. It is certainly very beautifully gotten up, and the handsome illustrations are not chosen alone for their beauty, and to merely "fill up," but are made for a purpose, either to instruct or amuse. But even greater than its artistic merit is its helpfulness; and after going through its numerous Departments, we can well see what a friend it must be in the household: for it has information and amusement for every member of the family. If you are undecided what to take the coming year, send 20 cents for a specimen copy of Demorest's Monthly and let it speak for itself. Published by W. JENNINGS DEMOREST, 15 East 14th Street, New York.

A valuable paper upon the hygiene of water will be one of the features of HARPER'S MAGAZINE for October. Dr. Titus Munson Coan, whose special studies in connection with balneology rank him as an authority, writes of "The Curative Uses of Water" in all its medical guises. It is peculiarly refreshing to read from a physician that "of all curative agencies water is the readiest, and not the least effective," and that thermal waters as baths are "among the most valuable cures which the physician has at hand; they represent, indeed, with the adjunct influences of climate, exercise, etc., the highest potency of the curative uses of water." The tardy appreciation of these baths, especially for nerve diseases, has permitted Europe to greatly surpass this country in facilities for the water cure resorts, although we have equally natural appurtenances for their use. Dr. Coan explains the workings of these baths, and gives practical counsel as to the best way of deriving the full benefit of nature's favorite medicine from the internal and external uses of water in hot, temperate, and cold baths, and thermal springs.

Ada Ames left on the morning train for Albion to visit her friend, Belle Gritches.

Misses Roe and Bertha Temple started yesterday for their home in St. John for a few weeks visit. The latter expects to remain there.

A new clerk is at the Lilley House desk, Mr. Tom Moffett, formerly of the Stowell House, Jackson, also of the Albion House, Albion.

Harry Hanford has been circulating around among his Tecumseh and Franklin friends this week. He is now filling a lucrative position in Cincinnati.

Remember the great actress, Miss Marie Brainard opens tonight at the Opera House, in "Queena." She is supported by S. S. Simpson and a strong company.

Judge Howell has resigned his position as Circuit Judge, and Col. R. A. Watts has been appointed to fill the vacancy. He will serve only until Jan. 1st next, when Judge elect Lane's term will begin.

Co. C. elected the following new officers last week:

President—C. A. Rowland.
Vice Pres.—E. A. Doke.
Sec'y.—W. J. C. Hastings.
Treas.—Thos. Kyle.
1st. Ser.—Chas. Crossman.
Serg't at Arms.—Theo. Wood.

John T. Clark expects to leave here about the first of October for Detroit where he will engage in the business of raising and dealing in horses. He will leave some of his Jersey cattle here on the farm and we shall probably receive a visit from him occasionally. Success to him in his new venture.—Clinton Local.

The new firm of Spayde Bros. open this week a large stock of clothing and Gent's Furnishings in the old Kies Bros. store. They have been engaged in the same line of business for some time at Chicago, and are young men of sterling character and thoroughly posted in that line of trade. We welcome them to the business circles of Tecumseh and trust they may find that their lines have fallen in pleasant places.

The reports to the Michigan weather service indicate temperature above the normal for the past seven days, with slight frosts in Gratiot, Barry, Genesee and Hillsdale counties, but no damage. The rainfall has shown but slight deficiency from the weekly average, and the effect on seeding has been favorable with more than the average of sunshine. Plowing and seeding are nearly finished, and corn cutting is in progress. There are reports of a very general dropping of fall fruit.

One of the stringent laws passed by the Legislature, which takes effect this month, provides that any girl between the ages of 10 and 17 years, or boy between the ages of 10 and 16 years, who shall run away or willfully absent himself or herself from school he or she is attending, or from any house, office, shop, farm or other place where such person is legitimately employed to labor, or shall frequent saloons or other places where intoxicating liquors are for sale, or shall be found lounging upon the public streets or public places of any city or village, against the command of his or her parents or guardian, or shall without the permission of his or her guardian, attend any public dance, skating rink or show, shall be deemed to be a truant and disorderly person, and upon conviction shall be sentenced, if a boy, to the Reform School at Lansing, until 17 years of age, and if a girl, to the Reform School for Girls at Adrian until 21 years of age.

MENSING'S EVAPORATOR WORKS.

A pressure of business has prevented our visiting at an earlier day the fruit evaporator factory of Henry Mensing & Co., which is located in the old rink building on Logan street. Yesterday afternoon, however, we took a slice of an hour to drop over there. We found Mr. Mensing in and he showed us around the establishment. We were quite surprised to witness the amount of work done, the affair being much more extensive than we had supposed. Nearly the entire floor of the rink building is covered with apples, and the dried fruit after it is prepared for the market. There are two large evaporators, both of which are kept in constant use and steam chests to match. They have six paring machines of the Eureka Power pattern No. 80, which are considered the best paring machines now made. A large number of hands are employed to slice and finish the apples for the drying crates and then the packing process requires much labor. Forty hands are now on their pay roll and their weekly labor account exceeds $200. They are now consuming about 250 bushels of apples daily and are receiving fruit faster than they can take care of it. No marketing has yet been done but they apprehend no trouble in finding ready sale for all their dried product. Apples cured by this process are standard goods in any city market. They will undoubtedly run the factory until Dec. 1st, and if the supply of fruit is not exhausted they may continue operations until the first of January.

CLIPPINGS AND CONDENSATIONS.

A Morenci cow stood under a tree, lightning struck the tree, and when the owner of the cow went to milk he found that the animal had been killed.—Morenci Observer.

Mrs. Joseph T[illegible]r, the lady who fell and broke her ankle at the Farmers' Picnic, has been compelled to have the foot amputated, and is in danger of losing her life.—Hudson Post.

A Mrs. Johnson died near Ithaca three years ago. The household clock stopped with her heart. It has been still as death till a day in Twelve ago when it struck and commenced going again without human agency.

According to a new law, passed at the last session of the legislature, justices of the peace are authorized to draw orders for witness fees directly on the county treasurer. By the old plan the accounts first had to go before the board of supervisors before they could be paid. The change is a good one.

THE AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST for October, 1887, offers to its readers a great variety of instructive and interesting reading. Over forty writers, many of whom are prominent experts in their special branches of agriculture and horticulture, contribute to its pages.

Things as well as dreams often go by contraries. For a week or two past it has been reported that the Jackson Tribune was about to become an organ of the liquor dealers in this city, but to-day it made its appearance as a prohibition organ, edited by C. L. Toner. Well, life is full of changes and surprises.—Jackson Citizen.

During the recent season of low water in the river a large crop of first class logs were raised from the bed of the river and landed, many of which have remained buried in the water for a long term of years. They are now being hauled to the saw mill of Col. Long to be converted into lumber and timber.—Dundee Reporter.

A Hudson brute, named Richard Race, and commonly called "Happy Jack," took in the encampment in this city, leaving his wife and five children at home. One child died of starvation, while the others in the family were sick and nearly famished. In some countries they would tie such a villain to the tail of a hard-kicking mule.—Adrian Times.

A few days ago the children of R. Ely, who lives back of Litchfield, began playing with a game bag he had brought in after a hunting expedition and thrown on the floor. They found his powder flask, and the three little ones thought they could have some fun throwing grains of powder into the fire. A terrible explosion resulted, and all three were horribly burned, but it is not thought they will die.—Hudson Post.

The concluding race for the silver cup, offered by the Manitou boat club, was sailed at Sand Lake Saturday, the yachts Ethel C. and Mayflower, each of which already had two races to its credit, contesting. The course was twice around the lake. Half way around the second circuit the peak halyards of the Ethel C. were broken, and the Mayflower which at that stage had a time lead of 30 seconds, finished alone, completing the distance in 1 hour and 11 minutes, the fastest time made on the lake this season. I. H. Finch sailed the Ethel C., while the Mayflower, which carried off the cup, was handled by its owner, J. W. Helme, jr.

"Your paper is picking up decidedly within the past few weeks," said a business man the other day, "and you can't help but get the benefit of increased number of subscribers." Words of that kind are received with gratitude, but when the scribe broached the subject for an adv. from the aforesaid business man, he turned a deaf ear, and growled that "it didn't pay." Without a liberal advertising patronage no paper can succeed. While there are a few merchants who believe in "printer's ink," we are sorry to see that others believe only in the "marking pot method," and display their ingenuity with the brush on board fences and the broad side of a barn.—Blissfield Advance.

Mr. Tim Hughes was awakened about half past one Friday morning by the furious barking of his large dog, which was stationed inside the house. Going to the door Tim saw a strange man standing near a partially opened window from which he had removed the screen. Tim asked the unknown what in sheol he wanted, but concluding that he did not have time at that late hour of the night to stop and hold a conversation with a man so scantily attired as was Tim, the unknown departed in a hurried manner. The dog bounded out of the door and took after him, and when the canine returned it was evident from the pieces of pantaloons he brought back with him that the would be burglar would have to carry a newspaper carelessly spread out behind, should he have occasion to move in fashionable circles before he had time to interview the tailor.—Jonesville Independent.

ADRIAN DIST. M. E. MINISTERS.

The appointments for the Adrian District have been announced by the Detroit conference as follows.

ADRIAN DISTRICT—F. J. JOSLIN, P. E.

Addison, O. F. Winton; Adrian, E. H. Morgan; Ann Arbor, W. W. Ramsay; Blissfield, W. J. Clack; Carleton, [illegible]; Cambridge, J. H. McIntosh; Clayton, E. F. Pierce; Clinton and Macon, A. W. Stacker; Deerfield and Petersburg, D. H. Ransdell; Dexter, to be supplied by S. H. Adams; Hudson, George E. Wager; Dundee, J. [illegible]; Grass Lake, J. M. Kerridge; Hudson, A. D. Sterns; Jasper, F. E. Pearce; Jonesville, G. W. [illegible]; Lake Zurich, Sylvan Harvey; Palmyra, Manchester and Sharon, W. S. [illegible]; Pittsford supplied by Milan and Oakville, M. H. Bartram; Monroe, R. W. Washburn; Morenci, D. R. Shook; Munith and Ellenburg, T. H. Hooker; Napoleon and Brooklyn, C. E. Webb; Palmyra, A. R. Bain; Riga, W. H. Benton; Saline, B. H. Yokum; Stony Creek, M. H. McKinney; Tecumseh, T. G. Potter; Waterloo, C. L. Church; Weston, R. L. Cone.

The Chicago Inter-State Exposition.

The great Inland City of America now comes to the front with its Fifteenth Consecutive Annual Inter-State Exposition of the products of Science, Industry and Art, opening Wednesday, Sept. 7, and closing Saturday, Oct. 22.

The Mammoth Building is now crowded with exhibits from almost every part of the civilized world, illustrating every department of human activity, with its latest and best products. It is impossible to do this great collection justice by noticing it in detail. In some important respects it has never been equaled at any temporary exhibition, and in scarcely any respect has it ever been excelled. All railway and transportation lines give reduced rates to visitors, and there is every indication that the usual attendance of about 500,000 will be well nigh doubled. It certainly will be if the intelligent, enterprising, well-to-do people of the Northwest properly appreciate the opportunity it affords.

While a well was being bored on the farm of Enos Palmer, about a mile and a half south of Britton, last Tuesday, a considerable quantity of gas made its appearance, and the boring was stopped. It continued to come, so the well was piped, and in the evening the gas being ignited, blazed up in good shape. Potatoes, they say, were cooked from the heat, and the community is in high glee over the discovery. The well is only thirty five feet deep. They talk of boring deeper.—Britton Eagle.

—Mrs. N. R. Brown has returned from Cleveland and now has the finest stock of millinery goods of every description that can be seen in town. The latest styles in shades and trimmed goods, and also a fine assortment of embroidery silks—every color and grade. Call and inspect.

—Reduced Prices for 30 days, at Coddington's.

—Books, fancy box stationery, ladies purses, hand bags, picture frames, albums, etc. at rock bottom prices for the next 30 days to make room for fall goods at C. Coddington's.

—Picture frames and albums at reduced prices at Coddington's.

—Go to Perry Hosmer's for School Books.

—Legal Blanks at Hosmer's.

—Spectacles of the first quality at Hosmer's.

—If you want a first class watch buy a Rockford of S. P. Hosmer, Tecumseh Agt.

—Our location is the finest,
Our facilities the best,
Our experience the greatest
Our Prices Reasonable,
Our Work first-class,
And those who try are always suited
Call and see for yourself.
BROWN the Photographer.

—Go to Coddington's for books and stationery at greatly reduced prices for the next 30 days to make room for fall trade.

—Big bargains in bibles, albums and fancy books for the next 30 days at Coddington's.

—An elegant line of Cabinet frames both for side wall and easel back, for sale very cheap at A. J. Coddington's.

—Sewing machines, Needles, oil and attachments at M. P. Brown's Art Gallery.

—Call at J. S. Kinney's store and see those fine marble, indestructible caskets on exhibition. Also a new spring bed with elevated head rest. The best in the market for invalids. Manufactured by J. S. Kinney.

—If you wish any painting, graining or paper hanging done call on D. Holmes. Good work guaranteed. Terms reasonable. Leave orders at Baker & Hall's, or C. A. Wright's, Tecumseh. D. HOLMES.

—A few back numbers of Harper's Monthly, and other Magazines, for sale at one half the regular price, at A. J. Coddington's.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

[illegible] Attorney at Law, Office over W. [illegible] Anderson's store, Tecumseh, Mich.

J. A. STACY, Attorney at Law and Solicitor in Chancery, Adrian, Mich.

PHYSICIANS.

ZENAN BARNES, M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office and residence [illegible]

J. M. WOODWARD, M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office at Dean's Drug Store.

MISCELLANEOUS.

DAVE BACHUS, Fashionable Barber and Hair Dresser, Depot Street, Railroad.

JAMES A. CURRY, Fashionable Barber and Hair Dresser, Depot Street, Railroad.

THOS. A. WALDRON, Notary Public and Conveyancer. Office promptly attended to. Office at residence, Chicago Street, Tecumseh, Mich.

HOTELS.

BURNETT HOUSE, Tecumseh, Mich. This house has been thoroughly refitted, with elevator and other modern improvements, and is a favorite resort for commercial travelers. Rates reasonable and graded according to rooms. [illegible]

CENTRAL HOTEL, ADRIAN, MICH. [illegible] Proprietor. Rates $2 per day. Special rates to commercial travelers. [illegible]

M. L. RICE,
OTTICA, MICHIGAN,
Dealer in High Class Thoroughbred Poultry. Eggs for hatching. Send for Illustrated Circular, Free.

W. W. MARSH,
Proprietor of
Railroad Street Meat Market!
Fresh and Salt Meats constantly on hand.
GIVE ME A CALL.
LADIES TREATMENT FREE.

[illegible] & Co., Pulaski, N.Y.

SCOTT'S EMULSION
OF PURE COD LIVER OIL
And Hypophosphites of Lime & Soda
Almost as Palatable as Milk.
[illegible]
FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

TO MACKINAC.
SUMMER TOURS.
Palace Steamers. Low Rates.
From Toledo as follows:
DETROIT, MACKINAC ISLAND.
[illegible]
DETROIT AND CLEVELAND.
[illegible]
Detroit & Cleveland Steam Nav. Co.

Miles P. Stevens & Co.
PENSIONS! Attorneys, Detroit
DETROIT, MICHIGAN.

ADVERTISERS
can learn the exact cost of any proposed line of advertising in American papers by addressing Geo. P. Rowell & Co.
Newspaper Advertising Bureau
10 Spruce St., New York
Send 10cts. for 100-Page Pamphlet.

TO ADVERTISE JUDICIOUSLY
CONSULT LORD AND THOMAS
NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING, CHICAGO ILLINOIS.

OUR MAGNA CHARTER.

ITS CENTENNIAL ANNIVERSARY FILLS PHILADELPHIA WITH PEOPLE.

The Industrial Parade a Success—President Cleveland Arrives and Assists Governor Beaver at a Reception—Deference to Cardinal Gibbons, Supreme Court Broken Again—President and Wife Serenaded—The Fleet Takes a Hand in the Festival.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 19.—According to good police of such things there are 100,000 strangers in this city, called hither by the celebration of the United States Thursday was the opening day, and the weather was simply perfect. The city is literally a flutter of bunting, with patriotic devices thrown all over town, and the "Cradle of Liberty" rocked itself to sleep Thursday night with the consciousness of having put in a good day's work at patriotic enjoyment.

JOHN A. KASSON.

The visiting judges of the United States supreme court were entertained at breakfast in the Academy of Music by about 200 lawyers of this city. Mr. McMurtrie presided. On his right were seated Chief Justice Waite, Judge Paxson, of the supreme court of Pennsylvania, Justice Harlan, Governor Beaver, Justice Bradford, and Judge Strong. On his left were Justice Miller, ex-Attorney-General Brewster, Judge Hare, States Attorney General Kirkpatrick, and Judge Matthews, of the supreme court. The menu was a gastronomic masterpiece. The card was in the shape of a legal paper, with the regular heading of "Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, ss." Under the heading was a list of the "Justices of the Supreme Court of the United States," at the top of which was an excellent portrait of the late Chief Justice Waite.

Among the toasts were many distinguished guests. The toasts were by "The Supreme Court of the United States," "The Constitution of the Federal Union" and "The American Lawyer," the chief justice responding to the first.

Of course the most conspicuous attraction was the industrial parade, which was conceived by Gen. A. L. Stewart, who was grand marshal of the day, and the gentleman who have so successfully managed the celebration generally—John A. Kasson, president of the committee; Amos R. Little, chairman executive committee, and Hampton L. Carson, secretary, had seats on the reviewing stand opposite the Union League club on Broad street. To say there were thousands of people in the streets is to say what everybody knows, and it would be a waste of words to describe the enthusiasm. Large numbers appreciated the theatricals in progress on the cars, and they were so numerous that the police had to clear a passage for the parade. Well, the parade started, march and countermarch, and when it was over it had taken a good deal of time to do it. The parade was composed of the following divisions:

CHIEF JUSTICE WAITE.

First division, Gen. Wesley Merritt, commanding, with Gen. Hancock and staff, Gen. Ruger and staff, Gen. Beaver and staff, Gen. Pennypacker and staff, Gen. Wilson and staff, Gen. Sickles and staff, Gen. Dana and staff, Gen. Ludlow and staff, Gen. Sherman

The Great Healer of all Inflamed Injuries and Disorders.

It is constantly effecting the most wonderful cures, while the unparalleled demand with which it meets stamps it at once as the greatest medicine of the age for outward application.

The most incredulous are convinced, and the most skeptical are compelled to believe in the power of this great remedy.

WHAT IT CURES.

All Sores, Cuts, Bruises, Sprains, Burns, Sore Throat, Lameness, Rheumatism, Piles, Inflammation of Lungs and Bowels, Bronchitis, Croup, Salt Rheum, Chilblains, Affection of the Spine, Erysipelas, Nervous Irritation, and all disorders attendant with Inflammation.

It never fails to restore the natural functions of the skin and equalize the circulation of the blood. By this means a controlling power is gained over the most malignant forms of disease. It penetrates to every portion of the human frame; every bone, muscle, vein, nerve and ligament is searched out and made sensible to its soothing and healing influence. Hence it copes readily with internal as well as external diseases.

Over 40 Years,

this Ointment has been used by the people throughout the United States, and our confidence in its qualities is such that as we have no space here to insert any of the numerous certificates of cures which we have from all parts of the country, we simply ask those readers of this notice who have ever used this Ointment, to frankly state their experience with it to inquiring friends, but one in a hundred would do this we should be perfectly satisfied with the result. Full directions for use will be found on pamphlet around each bottle.

Prices 25 and 40 cents per bottle. Sold by all dealers in medicine.

D. RANSOM, SON & CO., Prop's
Buffalo, New York.

THE

ELDREDGE

"B"

SEWING MACHINE WITH Automatic, Self-threading Gjinder Shuttle

No. 3.

The ELDREDGE "B" is sold with the guarantee of being the BEST that can be MADE.

AGENTS WANTED.

ELDREDGE MANUFACTURING CO.

363 and 365 WABASH AVE., CHICAGO, ILL.

B. F. STEINHOFF'S

Dental Rooms.

OVER BAKER & HALL'S

GAS FOR EXTRACTING.

THE LOWEST PRICES for THE BEST WORK

PATENTS!

Caveats, Trade Marks and Copyrights

Obtained, and all other business in the U.S. Patent Office attended to for MODERATE FEES.

Our office is opposite the U. S. Patent Office, and we can obtain Patents in less time than those remote from Washington.

SEND MODEL OR DRAWING. We advise as to patentability free of charge, and make NO CHARGE unless we obtain patent.

We refer here to Postmaster, Supt. of Money Order Div., and to officials of the U. S. Patent Office. For circular, advice, terms and references to actual clients in your own state or county, write to

C. A. SNOW & CO.,
Opposite Patent Office Washington, D.C.

Wall Paper AND Decorations.

A. Wright & Co.

SPRAGUE & SON PATENTS DETROIT, MICH.

PATENTS OBTAINED in U. S. and all foreign countries. Examinations made. Licenses and assignments drawn. Infringements prosecuted in all Federal courts. Advice and pamphlets free. Scientific expert. Validity opinions given. No models required. Established A. D. 1865. Thos. S. Sprague & Son, 37 Congress Street West, Detroit, Mich.

GOLD fields are scarce, but those who write to Stinson & Co., Portland, Maine, will receive free, full information about work, which they can do, and live at home, that will pay them from $5 to $25 per day. Some have earned $50 in a day. Either sex, young or old. Capital required. You are started free. Those who start at once are absolutely sure of making little fortunes. All is new.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

Brace Up

You are feeling depressed, your appetite is poor, you are bothered with Headache, you are fidgetty, nervous, and generally out of sorts, and want to brace up. Brace up, but not with stimulants, spring medicines, or bitters, which have for their basis very cheap bad whiskey and which stimulate you for an hour, and then leave you in worse condition than before. What you want is an alterative that will purify your blood, start healthy action of Liver and Kidneys, restore your vitality, and give renewed health and strength. Such a medicine you will find in Electric Bitters, and only 50 cents a bottle at

C. A. Wright & CO.

The fellow who thinks he can take the whole bakery is very often the one that doesn't do it.

A celebrated artist in town has just finished a new sign, it reads: Use Laxador, the golden remedy for all liver diseases. Price only 25 cents.

An auctioneer does as he is bid, a post-master as he is directed.

"When we two parted, I felt that I had taken cold," said Thomas Takeeintune, "and next morning I was indeed. But a 25 cent bottle of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup fixed me up."

Contentious women are slaves to headache; but twenty-five cents spent for a bottle of Salvation Oil will restore harmony in the household.

To purchasers of jewelry we would suggest that circus rings are getting cheaper.

The many remarkable cures Hood's Sarsaparilla accomplishes are sufficient proof that it does possess peculiar curative powers.

A fast man is very slow when it comes to paying his debts.

An infallible sign of physical decay is sleepiness; if this is dangerous in an adult, it is deadly in early childhood. Dr. Bull's Baby Syrup will always assist in comforting the baby. Price 25 cts.

MAKE YOUR OWN BITTERS

One package of STEKETEE'S DRY BITTERS will make one gallon of the best Bitters known, which will cure Indigestion, Pains in the Stomach, Fever and Ague, and acts upon the Kidney's and Bladder, and is the best Tonic known. Can be used with or without spirits. Its far the cheapest remedy known. Full directions on each package. Sold by druggists or sent by mail, postage prepaid. Price only 25 cents. U. S. stamps taken in payment. Address GEO. G. STEKETEE, Grand Rapids, Mich. This paper will say it is safe to send me money.

The best thing for a snob is a snub.

Chronic Cough and Cold

and all diseases of the Throat and Lungs can be cured by the use of Scott's Emulsion, as it contains the healing virtues of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites in their fullest form. "I consider Scott's Emulsion the remedy par excellence in Tuberculous and Strumous Affections, to say nothing of ordinary colds and throat troubles."—W. R. S Connell, M. D., Manchester, O.

The pipe, like music, soothes the savage breast, but not every smoker likes an overchewer.

Fleming's spavin liniment removes all hard, soft, or callous lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavin, curb, splints, sweeney, stifles, sprains, sore and swollen throat, coughs, etc. Save $100 by use of one bottle. Warranted. Sold by Baker & Hall, Druggists, Tecumseh Mich.

Itch, mange, and scratches of every kind on human or animals cured in 30 minutes by Woolford's Sanitary Lotion. This never fails. Sold by Baker & Hall, Druggists, Tecumseh Mich.

Drunkeness or the Liquor Habit Positively Cured by Administering Dr. Haines' Golden Specific.

It can be given in a cup of coffee or tea without the knowledge of the person taking it; is absolutely harmless and will effect a permanent and speedy cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or an alcoholic wreck. Thousands of drunkards have been made temperate men who have taken Golden Specific in their coffee without their knowledge, and to-day believe they quit drinking on their own free will. IT NEVER FAILS. The system once impregnated with the Specific it becomes an utter impossibility for the liquor appetite to exist. For full particulars, address GOLDEN SPECIFIC CO., 185 Race st., Cincinnati, O.

If you want to see a wild cat simply hold up the domestic article by the tail.

Can't Sleep Nights is the complaint of thousands suffering from Asthma, Consumption, Coughs, etc. Did you ever try Acker's English Remedy? It is the best preparation known for all Lung Troubles, sold on a positive guarantee at 10c., 50c.

C. A. Wright & Co., Druggists.

The Homelieist Man in Tecumseh

As well as the handsomest, and others are invited, to call on Baker & Hall, and get free a trial bottle of Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs, a remedy that is selling entirely upon its merits, and is guaranteed to cure and relieve all Chronic and Acute Coughs, Asthma, Bronchitis and Consumption. Price 50 cents and $1.

Don't trifle with any Throat or Lung Disease. If you have a Cough or Cold, or the children are threatened with Croup or Whooping Cough, use Acker's English Remedy and prevent further trouble. It is a positive cure, and we guarantee it. Price 10 and 50c.

C. A. Wright & Co., Druggists.

STILLWATER'S SENATOR.

Some of E. W. Durant's Jokes Told at Long Branch.

E. W. Durant, Stillwater's senator and joker, has been on a summer trip to the seashore with his wife, and if the stories that come floating in from Long Branch are all true he had a good time. One day at table a big mosquito of the Jersey breed lighted on the senator's hand. With an expression of horror and amazement on his countenance the senator beckoned to a waiter and inquired:

"What is this animal?"

"What is it? Why, it's a skeeter. Didn't you ever see a skeeter?" replied the waiter.

"Kill it," commanded Durant.

The waiter obeyed.

"Remove the corpse."

The waiter gave the senator's hand a brush with a napkin.

"Well, I never saw anything like that before," solemnly remarked the gentleman, who had been fighting mosquitoes at Stillwater all his life.

On another occasion at table Mr. Durant observed sitting near him quite an old gentleman, accompanied by a pretty young lady, who he correctly surmised was the old gentleman's bride. They were on their wedding trip. The senator gave his wife the wink and began to guy the ill assorted pair.

"Are you enjoying your wedding trip with me," he remarked to Mrs. Durant, "as well as you did the one you took with your first husband?"

He heard the old gentleman mutter between his teeth: "That's a devil of a question to ask a woman in this place."

The Stillwater senator gained fresh inspiration from this, and the way he played the game of a second husband on a wedding trip was a surprise to the whole table. The old man and his darling, however, failed to relish it, and blushed with an intensity that caused the ice cream to melt.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

A little girl, who wanted to describe the absent mindedness of her uncle, said: "His remember is so tired that he has to use his forget all the time."—Boston Journal.

"Mamma," said little Flossie, who was more or less busy at her morning toilet, "can I kiss Fido on the nose?" "Yes," replied the indulgent mother, who was feeding Fido a French chop, "but not until you are dressed, dear, and have your face washed."—New York Sun.

"What a splendid parrot that is of Brown's! So intelligent, you know!" "Intelligent! Why, one would almost think him human. He repeats everything he hears."—Boston Traveler.

In the island of Sumatra a flower grows which is nine feet in circumference and weighs fifteen pounds. When a Sumatra dude goes to the theatre he has his boutonniere brought in by an able bodied valet.—New York Tribune.

In the west "razzooper" has taken the place of the word boom.

The manager of a Los Angeles newspaper sent out the following notice on a postal card: "The real estate boom has robbed us of our editor, printer and office boy, and the manager having opened a real estate office, it has become necessary to suspend the publication of this journal until all hands have become millionaires, which, of course, will be in the near future. Until then fraternally yours."—Exchange.

Long John Wentworth, of Chicago, says "the summers nowadays are nothing. On June 28, 1842," he continues, "I was living on the Cooley farm, near where Kinsley's restaurant now stands. It was so hot that we had to hang the thermometer in the well and keep fanning it to prevent it from bursting."—Exchange.

Mr. Carter Harrison was one day talking about the boys of Chicago whom he knew. After naming scores of them and dwelling on the characteristics of each he said: "And then there's my boy Cato." For a moment he paused and then added: "Well, Cato Harrison's the only boy in Chicago whom I don't know!"—New York Tribune.

A President's Prevention.

Cashier—Mr. Trafs, I wish a vacation. A friend of mine is to be married at Montreal the last of next week, and I hope to be present at the wedding.

Bank President—Very well, I'll see if we can arrange it.

C.—Thank you.

B. P. (returning to his private office and accosting his secretary)—William, I wish you to call in Mr. ——, the expert accountant who examined the bank's books last year, and tell him I will require his services for a few days; and also step to Finkerton's and have them send to me one of their most capable and trustworthy detectives.—Boston Budget.

A Tiresome Evening.

Omaha Girl—Isn't Mr. De Blank funny?

Omaha Youth—I noticed you seemed to think so.

"Why, he has kept us laughing half the evening. Didn't you enjoy his witty?"

"I found it very tiresome."

"Tiresome? Oh, you don't mean it. I know you have a keen appreciation of humor. Why didn't you enjoy Mr. De Blank's jokes?"

"Well, the fact is, he takes the same funny paper that I do."—Omaha World.

Sufficiently Descriptive.

A wee maiden, as many other small children have done, had the misfortune to fall down stairs the other day, and in handling at the foot that part of the anatomy commonly denominated the "funny bone" came in contact with the wall with more force than was calculated to make a comfortable impression. On being picked up and asked if she was hurt, she rubbed her arm for a moment and said: "No, but my elbow is awful 'dizzy.'"—Buffalo Courier.

Down at Long Branch.

Highwayman—Hold up your hands! Bill, cover him with that ere gun. Now, sir, shell out.

Gambage (with a hollow laugh)—My dear fellows, I've been here four weeks.

Bill (in the business)—Let him pass, Jim. He ain't got nothin' valuable about him.—Philadelphia Call.

A Poor Excuse Is Better Than None.

Jack—Ethel, I'm ashamed of you. I saw that Frenchman in the conservatory kissing you repeatedly. Why didn't you tell him to stop?

Ethel—I couldn't, Jack.

Jack—You couldn't? Why not?

Ethel—I can't speak French.—Judge.

By Moonlight.

Mr. B.—I think I fancy guitar music best by moonlight; don't you think it lovely?

Miss L. (of Chicago)—Ay, yes; his waltzes are certainly divine, are they not?—Judge.

Loves Her for Her Worth.

Jeggs thinks his girl the pride of earth—
He pictures her in glowing colors,
And loves her for her modest worth
(Said to be thirty thousand dollars).
—Tid Bits.

OPENING A CAR WINDOW.

Burdette Tells of Masculine Efforts to That End.

The poorest man in the car—she is always the one who gets you into scrapes if she can—leans the window down there is a frantic exchange of glances, distracting sighs, spasmodic squirmings and one, and red, and three resolute shoulders nearly dislocated in the people behind her. At the sundry intervals of intelligence [illegible] fit to burden the area of a woman's face, she opens the window by dint of a sudden jerk of her power upon it, or the window frame with the tips of her fingers and trying to grant the car. The gods always provide a man to help a pretty woman. Half a dozen men spring to her assistance. The lucky fellow lifts his hat, says "May I?" in his Billingsgate tone, laboriously measures how far he will be knowing the little trick of the complicated catch of a car window, does the little trick and lifts, says: "This one seems to work rather reluctantly," and gives a lift that brings the blood to his head. Begs pardon and slaps up close to the window, gets a grip with both hands, gives a yank that makes everything turn black and crimson before his bloodshot eyes, tugs with the desperation of manness when he hears the other passengers grant for him in mockery; examines the catch and lifts again, till he hears his spine crack; his face is so hot he wants to die; he tries to be pleasant, but one more tug that bursts all the blood vessels in his brain settles him; he swears at the window between his teeth, the woman draws herself up in insulted dignity and requests him to go away, and as he leaves a brakeman comes carelessly along, reaches out for the window without looking at it as he passes, and tosses it clear up to the roof as he shouts, "Asylum! All out for Asylum!" And one man wants to get out and stay out.

"A FELLOW OF MOST EXCELLENT FANCY."

A correspondent, writing from the shore of the loud sounding sea, says he "passed an hour on the sea sands watching the cool beryl green waves frothing into foam flowers as they broke on the snowy beach of hard white sand." Well, maybe he did; maybe he did. You see he only passed an hour when he saw all that; after about two days he could see more. He could begin to discern, as through a glass darkly, masses of slimy kelp that get around the bathers' necks and make them think the sea serpent has hold of them. He could see the blue gray sole of the castaway overshoe; and the red rusty wreck of the indestructible bustle, the ham bone bleaching whiter than foam flowers; he could hear the far reaching voice of the sweet south wind stealing across a bank of stranded weakfish, stealing and giving odor; he might see the man who had lost his store teeth in the cool, beryl green waves, and is looking for a good place to die. See things! Why, after he has been there two days he can see things in his bed that for stimulating properties are as much wakinger than the beryl green waves as a cork of old rye is than a tablespoonful of laudanum. If the correspondent really wants to see really startling things at the seashore he doesn't want to float around on the alabaster sands watching the beryl green waves; he wants to sneak around and take a peep in at the kitchen windows. Then he can tell what he sees, and it will be mighty interesting, even with the beryl green business left out.—New York Star.

Definitions.

A boy once said that dust is mud with the juice squeezed out.

A fan we learn from another juvenile source is "a thing to brush warmth off yourself," and a monkey "a small boy with a tail," said "what makes your potatoes taste bad when you don't put any on," and ice, "water that staved out late in the cold and went to sleep."

A school boy, asked to define the word scow, answers thus:—"It means when a feller don't mean to cry and it bursts out in spite."

A youngster was asked to give his idea of the meaning of "responsibility," so he said: "Well, suppose I had only two buttons on my trousers, and one came off, that's responsibility would rest on the other button."

Tadpole's Jury as to the body of man suggests that the foot which she has the smallest larger," is to satirize many of our "intelligent fellow-countrymen."

A good definition of a "Phariseer" is "a type. Men who use long prayers and short weights," of a bunkum, "one who agrees with everybody," and of a tyrant, "the other version of somebody's hero."

A lady's idea of a bald-headed girl was "an open mushroom umbrella with two pink handles," and a Parisian's of chess "a humane substitute for hard labor."

This soup, according to an Irish mendicant, is "a quart of water boiled down to a pint to make it strong."

A walking stick may be described as "the old man's strength and the young man's weakness," and an umbrella as "a fair and fair weather friend who has had many ups and downs in the world."—London Exchange.

Birth and Other Marks.

First Stranger—Your face is strangely familiar to me, sir. Have you a strawberry mark on your left arm?

Second Stranger—No, sir; but I have a rope mark on my neck.

First Stranger—I knew I had seen that face before! I met you in Dakota.—New York Sun.

It Would Do as Well.

Caller—Were you about to go out, Mrs. Perkins?

Mrs. Perkins—Yes, but don't let that hurry you away.

Caller—Oh, it isn't of the slightest consequence. I'll leave my card.—Tid Bits.

How to Manage Conductors.

"When I want the horse car to stop in front of the house instead of going to the next corner," said a lady famous for her tact, "I call the conductor to me in a very confidential way, and say, 'Would you be kind enough to ask your man to stop his horses in front of the Westminster?' and he is so delighted to have it appear that he controls the driver that he will do it for me every time."—The Epoch.

Found an Old Friend.

COLOMA, Mich., Dec. 3, 1885.

Gentlemen:—One of your circulars came to my notice to day, and it reminds me of an old and very valuable friend that saved my life 12 years ago, and because I had not needed its help since I had almost forgotten it. I was [illegible] years old and suffering from [illegible] and derangement; I coughed [illegible] miserable as any one could be [illegible]. A lady who knew the cause [illegible] persuaded my mother to [illegible] Z-a-Roma—it was called [illegible] Friend then. Before I had [illegible] bottle my cough and chills [illegible] I kept on and used two bottles and they brought me out all right. I [illegible] married and am now the [illegible] of three nine pounders, children. [illegible] that I owe a great deal to Z-a-Roma. I hope it will become well known, and that every woman and girl who needs it will use it. If you will send me some circulars I will give them to acquaintances, and do all I can to help you. Yours truly,

MRS. LAURA FURMAN,
Kalamazoo, Mich.

PAINT

By using COIT & CO'S OVERCOAT BUGGY PAINT. Paint Friday, run it to Church Sunday. Eight transparent shades. Black, Maroon, Vermilion Blue, Yellow, Olive Green, Brewster and Wagon Green. No Varnishing necessary. Dries hard with a "shine." One Coat and job is done.

YOUR BUGGY

Top, Top for Chairs, Lawn Seats, Sash, Flower Pots, Baby Carriages, Garden Picks, Furniture, Floor Decks, Store fronts, screen Doors, Boats, Mangles, Iron Fences, in fact everything. Just the thing for the ladies to use about the house.

FOR ONE DOLLAR

COIT'S HONEST

Are you going to Paint this year? If so, don't buy a paint containing water or benzine when for the same money (nearly 50 per cent more) COIT & CO'S PURE PAINT that is warranted to be an HONEST, GENUINE LINSEED-OIL PAINT and free from water and benzine. Demand the brand and take no other. Merchants handling it are our agents and authorized by us in writing to warrant it to wear 5 YEARS with 3 COATS or 3 YEARS with 2 COATS. Our Shades are the latest styles used in the East now becoming popular in the West, and up with the times. Try this brand of HONEST PAINT and you will never regret it. This to the wise is sufficient.

HOUSE PAINT

COIT'S FLOOR PAINT Did you ever buy a Floor Paint that never dried beyond the sticky point, waste a week spoil the job, and then sweat your time and temper? COIT & CO'S FLOOR PAINT is popular and suitable shades, warranted to dry hard as a rock over night. No trouble. No waiting. Try it and be convinced.

WON'T DRY STICKY

A MAN WHO USES COIT'S PAINT NEVER SWEARS

K. B

KING OF THE BLOOD

The Most Thorough Purifier of the Blood Yet Discovered.

Cures all Humors, from a common Pimple to the worst Scrofula.

It purifies the Blood.
It invigorates the Liver.
It regulates the Bowels.
It strengthens the stomach.
It gives vivacity in place of lassitude; cheerfulness in place of gloom, and robust vigor in place of debility.

Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Disordered Liver, Constipation, Nervous Affections, General Debility, in short all the numerous diseases and discomforts caused by impure blood are speedily conquered by this powerful corrector, the chief and sovereign of all ancient or modern medical discoveries—KING OF THE BLOOD.

Its name tells its best description as it is a royal dispenser of the blessings of health and vanquishes the foes in the blood.

It Banishes PIMPLE, SALT RHEUM, SCALY ERUPTIONS, ULCERS, SCALD HEAD, FEVER SORES and all SCROFULOUS DISORDERS.

It checks CONSUMPTION in its early stages. It has stopped it when advanced.

It dispersed TUMORS and CANCERS without the Surgeon's Knife.

It cures DROPSY, general or partial.

It cures FEMALE WEAKNESS and DISEASE.

It proves to a safe and effectual manner all swellings, external or internal.

It eradicates the effects of Venereal Disease and Mineral Poisons and establishes a sound constitution.

Many certificates, much further information and full directions for using, will be found in the pamphlet, "Treatise on Diseases of the Blood," in which each bottle is wrapped.

Price $1 per bottle or 6 bottles for $5, containing 12 ounces, or 50 doses. Sold by druggists in medicine.

If your druggist does not happen to have it on hand, request him to order a supply of it for you. It will be cheaper than for you to order direct, and less trouble.

D. RANSOM, SON & CO., Proprietors,
BUFFALO, N. Y.

WONDERFUL SUCCESS.

ECONOMY IS WEALTH.

All the PATTERNS you wish for one year for nothing (a saving of from $5 to $10) by subscribing for

THE TECUMSEH HERALD

Demorest's Illustrated Monthly Magazine

With Twelve Orders for Cut Paper Patterns, or your own selection out of any size.

BOTH PUBLICATIONS, ONE YEAR FOR $3.00 (THREE DOLLARS).

DEMOREST'S THE BEST Of all the Magazines.

CONTAINING STORIES, POEMS, ESSAYS, SCIENCE, HISTORY, ART, FASHION, MUSIC, ETC., ETC.

Illustrated with original Steel Engravings, Photogravures, Oil Colors, and fine Woodcuts, making it the Model Magazine of America.

Each Number contains Patterns for Ladies' Dresses, Children's Dresses, Embroidery, Fancy Work, Cooking, Etc., Etc., Etc.,

TWO HUNDRED PEOPLE KILLED

LEARNING TO RUN HIS OWN ENGINE.

[illegible] collector: "By the way, I'm seen making a collection of photographs lately. Friend Dunstable: P. C.—Yes. And that reminds me, will you kindly let me have one of your photographs?"

Buckle's Arnica Salve.

The Best Salve in the world for cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. FOR SALE BY C. A. Wright & Co.

A station, is being made at Devil's Lake, Lenawee county, to build up a resort with the name changed to Cheesekan. This may be designed as an introduction to the Devil to Cheese it, so far as the name is concerned; still this last name will strike many as more fiendish than the other one. Lansing Republican. ☞ We suggest the name Metcan, a chief of the tribes who once dwelt on the shores of Devil's Lake, as a more appropriate and euphonious name for the new village. Hudson Gazette.

Old and reliable Medicines are the best to depend upon. Acker's Blood Elixir has been prescribed for years for all impurities of the blood. In every form of Scrofulous, Syphilitic or Mercurial diseases, it is invaluable. For Rheumatism, has no equal. C. A. Wright & Co., Druggists.

A train of ten coaches went up the Branch yesterday morning to the State Fair.

An auctioneer thoroughbred is a man, postmaster as he is directed.

MARRIED.

WELLS—HITCHER.—At the residence of the bride's mother, Tipton, Sunday afternoon, Sept. 5th, by Rev. H. A. Putnam, Mr. Willie C. Wells and Miss Libbie Pitcher.

LETTER LIST

Tecumseh.

Remaining uncalled for in the Postoffice at Tecumseh, Sept. 20, 1887:

Humphrey, Mr. John. Lahm, Miss Mary
Stations, Mr. James.

Persons calling for letters in the above list will please say "Advertised."

C. A. STACY, P. M.

TIME SCHEDULE.

MAIL CLOSES		MAIL ARRIVES
	L. S. & M. S.—SOUTH
7:00 a.m.		7:20 a.m.
3:20 p.m.		3:40 p.m.
	NORTH
10:45 a.m.		11:05 a.m.
		9:15 a.m.
	C. J. & M. R.R.—WEST
9:45 a.m.		10:00 a.m.
		7:22 p.m.
	EAST
2:[illegible] p.m.		9:35 a.m.
2:[illegible] p.m.		3:00 p.m.

C. A. STACY, P. M.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER Absolutely Pure.

COMPLEXION VIOLA CREAM

Without injury positively removes Freckles, Liver moles, Pimples and blemishes of the skin. It is not a wash or powder to cover defects, but a remedy to cure. Sold by Druggists. Geo. Barbara & Co., Prop's, Toledo, O.

STEKETEE'S HERBS

BEST FOR THE BLOOD, LIVER, KIDNEYS, or VITIATED BLOOD.

WORN BY LADIES EVERYWHERE.

MAKE YOUR OWN BITTERS.

A four ounce package of Steketee's Herbs (any one of the 21 kinds) will cure Indigestion, Pains in the Stomach, Costiveness, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, and all the Liver Kidney and Bowel Troubles, and make without spirits half gallon of Bitters. Price only 25 cents. Each package with full directions. Sent by mail on receipt of price. Address

GEO. C. STEKETEE,
89 Monroe St., Grand Rapids, Mich.

MENTION THIS PAPER.

HALL'S

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years Doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure now on the market. It is taken internally in doses from ten drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circular and testimonials. Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

☞ Sold by druggists, 75 cts.

CATARRH CURE.

ESTATE OF GARRETT ATEN.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee—ss.

At a session of the Probate Court for the county of Lenawee, holden at the Probate office in the city of Adrian, on Saturday, the 17th day of September, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven.

Present, Norman Geddes, Judge of Probate.

In the matter of the estate of Garrett Aten, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition, duly verified of Charles Burridge administrator with the will annexed upon said estate, praying for license to sell the real estate of said deceased in said petition described for cash as therein set forth.

It is ordered That Monday, the 17th day of October next, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said court then to be holden at the Probate office, in the city of Adrian, and show cause if any there be, why the prayer of said petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the TECUMSEH HERALD, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

(A True Copy.)

NORMAN GEDDES, Judge of Probate.

A. F. BARBOUR, Probate Register. 26p2

ANIMAL CATCHING DEVICE

Will catch a bear, wolf, deer, fox, coon, mink and all other varmints, and not injure the fur. It can be set in a minute, and will last a lifetime. Cost but a few cents. Can be made by any person who can saw a piece of board and drive a nail. Any person can make from $5 to $10 per day with it. Any person who will write to us can learn how to make it, and we will also send them a sample of the fur of the animals it catches, free. Good recommendations. For particulars address

GIBBONS BROTHERS, Publishers,
Detroit, Mich.

FOR THE NEW YEAR!

Arrangements have been made for the

Michigan Farmer

STATE JOURNAL OF AGRICULTURE.

[illegible] for 1887, and many [illegible] Mich. Farmer [illegible] Good [illegible] For particulars address

GIBBONS BROTHERS, Publishers,
Detroit, Mich.

—THE—

ECHO.

THE BEST AND THE CHEAPEST WEEKLY PAPER PUBLISHED.

THE NEW HOME STORY PAPER

56 COLUMNS 56

Sparkling Stories, Mirthful Miscellany

—AND—

The Cream of Literary Currency.

The regular price of THE ECHO is a Dollar a Year. It is furnished with the HERALD at $2.00 a Year, and every subscriber to both papers is entitled to a choice from the Dollar Department of the Echo Premium Book List, the book selected being sent free, postpaid to any address anywhere in the United States.

Send postal for sample copy of the paper and the book list.

Address

THE ECHO,
DETROIT, MICH.

Agents for The Echo are wanted everywhere upon liberal terms.

WONDERFUL SUCCESS.

ECONOMY IS WEALTH.

A TRIFLE EXPENDED [illegible]

THE TECUMSEH HERALD

Demorest's Illustrated Monthly Magazine

With Twelve Orders for Cut Paper Patterns of your own selection and of any size.

BOTH PUBLICATIONS, ONE YEAR, $3.00 (THREE DOLLARS).

DEMOREST'S THE BEST Of all the Magazines.

CONTAINING STORIES, POEMS, AND OTHER LITERARY ATTRACTIONS, COMBINING ARTISTIC SUBJECTS, AND HOUSEHOLD NEWS.

Illustrated with Original Steel Engravings, Fashion Plates, Oil Pictures, and fine Woodcuts, making it the Model Magazine of America.

Each Month [illegible] the holder [illegible] of the fashion [illegible] of the [illegible] during the [illegible] DEMOREST'S MONTHLY is [illegible] World's Model Magazine. The [illegible] Largest in Circulation, [illegible] Family Magazine formed. [illegible] proved and so extensively [illegible] of Family Periodicals. It [illegible] quarto, 8x12½ inches [illegible] Published by W. Jennings Demorest, New York.

AND BY SPECIAL AGREEMENT COMBINED WITH THE

Tecumseh Herald at $3.00 Per Year.

PAINT

THAT NEVER WEARS, CRACKS OR SCALES

with a [illegible] YOUR BUGGY

FOR ONE DOLLAR

COSTS HONEST

[illegible]

THE CELEBRATED "A. P. DICKEY'S" FANNING MILLS

For farm and warehouse use, [illegible] world, and [illegible] everything. They are guaranteed to be superior in all respects to any other Mill in the [illegible]. Address

A. P. DICKEY MFG. CO.,
Racine, Wis.

Successors to Dickey & Powell.

(This is the Firm that makes the TWO SECTION CAST IRON FIELD ROLLER and "PEERLESS FORK" SHELLER. Their goods are always considered among the best made.)—Ed.

THIS PAPER is on file in Philadelphia at the Newspaper Advertising Agency of Messrs. N. W. AYER & SON, our authorized agents.

TRADE MARK REGISTERED.

DRS. STARKEY & PALEN COMPOUND OXYGEN NOT A DRUG

1529 Arch Street, Phila'd'a, Pa.

A Well Tried Treatment.

[illegible] Lost Manhood, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Hay Fever, Headache, Debility, Constipation, Neuralgia and all Chronic and Nervous Diseases.

The Compound Oxygen Treatment, Drs. Starkey & Palen, who for years were associated with the late Drs. Pettigrew & Hatfield, Physicians to the Queen, Dr. Wm. Hammond, Surgeon-General U. S. Army, Hon. Wm. Windom, Secretary of the Treasury, Hon. Wm. Lawrence, Editor New Orleans Bulletin, Ala., Judge R. L. Avery, Springfield, Ill., Mrs. Mary A. Livermore, Boston, Mass., Judge R. S. Avery, of N. Y. City, Mr. [illegible], Editor Phila. Chronicle, Phila., Mr. Frank [illegible], Editor Phila. Times, Phila., Hon. [illegible], Ex-Governor, Harrisburg, Pa., Edward I. Wilson, Broadway N. Y., Ed. Philadelphia Photographer, Prince C. Lyon, Walker's, Hawaii, Sandwich Islands, Alexander Kennedy, Jerusalem, Palestine, Mrs. Dr. Ortega, Tehuantepec, Zacatecas, Mexico, Mrs. Emma Cooper, Pueblo, Spanish Boundaries, Central America, [illegible] Consul Gallinas, Mexico, Mrs. V. Ashburn, Red Bluff, Cal., Earl of Longford, Northumberland, England, Joseph Kirk, Powell, New South Wales, and thousands of others in every part of the United States.

[illegible] Its Work of Action and Results is the [illegible] of a new machinery in 200 pages, published by Drs. Starkey & Palen, which is given to all inquirers full information as to their remedy, the curative agents and process of action of Compound Oxygen. Surprising results are claimed in a wide range of chronic cases. Many of them being abandoned by other physicians. Just as important as the origin and development of the Oxygen Compound, an interesting book of 200 pages, sent free by mail, or further will be glad to send to any address on application. Read the testimony.

DRS. STARKEY & PALEN,
No. 1529 Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

THE superiority of Coraline over horn or whalebone has been demonstrated by over [illegible] years experience. It is more durable, more pliable, more comfortable, and NEVER BREAKS.

The immense sale of these Corsets is now over 7000 daily.

Beware of worthless imitations boned with various kinds of cord.

None are genuine unless "Dr. Warner's Coraline" is printed on inside of the steel cover.

FOR SALE BY ALL LEADING MERCHANTS.

WARNER BROS., 357 & 359 State Street, CHICAGO, ILL.

THE AMERICAN MAGAZINE.

BEAUTIFULLY ILLUSTRATED.

This Magazine portrays American thought and life from ocean to ocean, is filled with pure high-class literature, and can be safely welcomed in any family circle.

PRICE 25c. OR $3 A YEAR BY MAIL.

Sample Copy of current number mailed upon receipt of 25 cts.; back numbers, 15 cts.

Premium List with either.

Address

R. T. BUSH & SON, Publishers,
130 & 132 Pearl St., N. Y.

CORNICE BRACKETS

LAKE SUPERIOR TRANSIT COMPANY

THE CELEBRATED HAMBLETONIAN STALLION

GIPSY CHIEF

[illegible] EXCHANGE HOTEL.

[illegible] afternoon and Saturday [illegible] the balance of the time [illegible] address the proprietor

CHAS. KOERNER,
River Raisin, Mich.

FREE PRESS

THE WEEKLY FREE PRESS and The Household.

The Largest, Best and Cheapest of Weeklies.

Ten Pages of Reading Matter in Each Issue of Great Variety.

Each issue is a perfect encyclopedia of information. It contains the Telegraphic Reports, Editorials, Market Reports, Letters from Eminent Writers, Selections, Stories, Sketches, Poetry, Scientific Articles, Agricultural Matter, and an unequaled Literary Miscellany. The Household department is the best ever issued. The Free Press is the Leading and Representative Paper of Michigan.

THE GREAT ONE DOLLAR FAMILY NEWSPAPER

$1. E PLURIBUS UNUM 1883 $1. ONE YEAR.

That it is generally regarded as the ablest and meritorious of Weeklies I say is the fact that it has by far the largest circulation of any paper published in Michigan, and a regulated family will be without it. Price ONE DOLLAR a year.

SPECIAL BOOK OFFER.

We will send The Weekly Free Press one year, and any one of the Books named, postpaid on receipt of amount quoted.

Every One His Own Lawyer	$1.50
Wheeler's Cyclopedia (illus.)	1.50
Popular History of the Civil War (illus.)	1.50
The Lives of Our Presidents (illus.)	1.50
What Every One Should Know. A Practical Medical Book	1.50
Everybody's Paint Book; or, How to do Your Own Painting and Decorating	1.50
Webster's Dictionary and Dictionary of Electricity	1.50

DAILY FREE PRESS, $7.00 a Year.
DAILY, 3 times a week, 3.50

SUBSCRIBE NOW—DON'T DELAY

Premiums given for clubs. Send for Premium List and Sample Copy. Local agents wanted.

The Free Press Co., Detroit, Mich.

FREE PRESS

THE STAR

A Newspaper supporting the Principles of a Democratic Administration.

Published in the City of New York.

WILLIAM DORSHEIMER,
Editor and Proprietor.

Daily, Sunday, and Weekly Editions.

THE WEEKLY STAR,

A Sixteen-page Newspaper, issued every Wednesday.

A clean, pure, able and interesting FAMILY PAPER.

Agricultural, Mechanical, Fashion, Household, Political, Financial and Commercial, Poetical, Humorous and Editorial.

THE DAILY STAR.

TERMS OF THE WEEKLY STAR.

TERMS OF THE DAILY STAR.

DELAND'S CAPITOL SAL-RATUS SODA

For Baking Purposes Best in the World

ADVERTISING contracts made for THIS PAPER, which may be on file with LORD & THOMAS, Advertising Agents, Chicago.

The Tecumseh Herald.

VOL. XXXVIII.—NO 18. TECUMSEH MICHIGAN, THURSDAY MORNING, SEPTEMBER 29, 1887 WHOLE NO. 1916

HOSIERY SALE.

Saturday Morning

A general clearing out sale of Children's and Gent's Wool Hosiery!

FIRST CHOICE IS BEST.

COME EARLY.

W. & S. W. Anderson & Co's.

'87 For Season of '87

We shall continue to handle the celebrated

GARLAND

STOVES and RANGES.

And the Genuine

ROUND OAK

The unprecedented demand for these justly popular goods renders it almost impossible for the manufacturers to supply the demand. Call early and supply your wants and avoid delay.

SATTERTHWAITE BROS. & BOYD.

B DeWOLF, Pres. H. M. TEMPLE, Sec'y and Treas. S. W. TEMPLE, Vice Pres. and Gen'l Mgr

THE OHIO & MICH. COAL & MFG. CO.,

COAL.

LUMBER LATH AND SHINGLES

MANUFACTURERS OF

Doors, Sash, Blinds, Mouldings,

Scroll Work, Turned Work, Modern Interior Finish.

GET ESTIMATES BEFORE BUYING.

OFFICE CORNER R. R. AND SHAWNEE STS.

Yards and Factory on Pearl and Shawnee sts., near L. S. & M. S. Depot

TECUMSEH, MICH.

UNION HALL STORE

The old Palace Clothing House

Has been renovated and filled with an immense stock of

FALL AND WINTER

CLOTHING,

FOR MEN, BOYS, AND CHILDREN, AND GENT'S

FURNISHING GOODS

HATS, CAPS, GLOVES, ETC.

An Immense Variety in all Departments

GEORGE HEESEN,

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

RIDGEWAY RAMBLES.

Corn husking has begun.

T. H. Temple and wife rejoice over a new comer at their house Sunday. It is a boy.

Dan Allen wears a smiling countenance over the fact that he has become grandpa, as a little girl came to the home of his son, Frank Allen, of Tecumseh, on Tuesday night.

The rain last week Thursday morning, kept quite a number in the village from attending the State fair.

Minnie Montgomery of Clinton, spent Sunday at the home of Marcie Kelley.

Mrs David McNair, of Tecumseh, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Sharp, last week one day.

Dean Loree went to Flat Rock last Wednesday on business.

Geo. Arner left Tuesday night o the flyer for Chicago to visit his sister Miss Jessie Patton, for a few days a take in the sights and scenes of the city.

C. L. Lowe, Dan Allen, Geo. D. Arner and J. D. Arner, went to Adrian Monday and Tuesday as witnesses in the suit of Geo. C. Pocklington and W. H. Birdsell, in the circuit court. A judgement of $7800 and costs, and attorney's fees of $25.00 was rendered by the court in favor of Mr. Birdsell.

Tiede Harris of Tecumseh called on Mrs. John Arner and family, Sunday afternoon.

Miss May Bodine, assistant P. M. at Manchester, was the guest of Lou Arner over the Sabbath.

Mrs. Merrett of Hillsdale, is making her daughter, Mrs. Huston a visit at present.

Richard Cadmus left Friday of last week for a few days vis with relatives at Matawan. Those frequent visits to that part of the State must mean something more than merely to see relatives, Richard.

William Wilson and wife visited relatives at Hanover last week Thursday and attended the state fair at Jackson, Friday.

R. T. Bush and wife of Brooklyn, N. Y., arrived Saturday evening and will spend a few weeks at the home of Mrs. Bush's mother, Mrs. Hall.

At last those ties that have been piled up near the Depot ever since the railroad was built, have been taken away and used, the departure of which improves the appearance of the depot grounds wonderfully.

A new single harness belonging to G. P. Waring was taken from his possession last Tuesday night. Warning is hereby given against buying or storing the same and a liberal reward will be given for its return.

Our base ball team expect to play the Norvell team on the Clinton diamond this week Saturday P. M.

The pumpkin pie festival which we spoke of last week, will be held at the home of the President, Mrs. W. R. Wilson next week Friday evening, Oct. 7th. Mrs. Wilson wishes you all to remember that supper will be served from 5 to 10 o'clock P. M. She does this for the convenience of the older people who wish to attend can do so earlier in the afternoon and have supper and return home at their pleasure. As Mrs. Wilson will spare no pains to make it an enjoyable time for all it is hoped that everybody will attend and let her know by their presence that her efforts are appreciated. Supper will be served for 15cts each, or 25cts. a couple. Good music, vocal and instrumental will be furnished during the evening.

Last Saturday our ball team went to Milan and played the return game of the season. There were quite a good many of those interested in base ball amusement that went to witness the game. Our boys were furnished a good dinner by the Milan team at the Babcock Hotel. The game was called by umpire Thorp, at 2:30, and everything passed off very quiet and satisfactory on both sides. Our team had the lead in the first part of the game, but lost their grip in the third innings by a fumble made by the second baseman and an accident which happened to the catcher. The battery held their credit at a premium, but the defeat laid in the field. Our team acknowledge their defeat and respect the Milan team very much for the gentlemanly courtesy shown them. We understand the Milan team will play the return game on our diamond in the near future. The score stood:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Milan	0	2	1	2	0	2	3	2	—13
Ridgeway	2	1	0	0	0	0	2	3	—11

Time, 2:30.

MACON CENTER.

On Wednesday evening of last week a large gathering of relatives, neighbors and friends met at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Asel Russell, to witness and participate in the marriage festivities of Nellie M. Freer, daughter of Mrs. Russell, to Leon L. McRoberts of Mason, Mich. Although the night was dark and stormy without, all was bright and cheerful within, there being about one hundred guests present to witness the happy event. At precisely seven o'clock, Miss Vina Underwood with her usual cheerful way commenced playing a wedding march.

In the meantime the couple soon to be united made their appearance, taking their position under a beautiful arch composed of evergreens and roses, from which was suspended the emblem of good luck, the horse-shoe.

The Rev. L. DeLamater of Mason, a personal friend of the groom, quietly and impressively delivered the marriage ceremony. While the bride and groom were receiving the congratulations of their many friends, tables were quickly arranged and all were soon seated to a bountiful repast to which ample justice was done, after which the tables were removed and the time for awhile was spent in social intercourse, jesting, and music. At a proper time the bride was escorted to an upper room where her friends had arranged a grand display of wedding remembrances for her reception. Time and space will not permit me to speak of them separately as they were numerous and useful and some of them beautiful and costly.

When the time came for dispersing it was raining quite hard, but one after another quietly left for their homes until more than one half were gone. The rest of the company waited and kept waiting for a slack up that did'nt come. The mirth and jollity of the stayers will make the night of Sept. 21st. 1887, one long to be remembered. Morning finally came and with it about twenty five were still found waiting for—for breakfast, and they got it before going home.

ONE WHO STAYED.

WEDDING BELLS.

Invited guests to the number of 150 or more came together at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. A. Russell of Macon, on the 21st., to be present at the marriage of their daughter, Miss Nellie Freer and Mr. Leon McRoberts of Mason. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. DeLamater of Mich. conference M. E. church at Mason. The bride is a grand daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Freer and of Mr. and Mrs. George Pocklington, Sen., all pioneers of Lenawee county, and all yet living to enjoy the twilight of age in contentment and happiness. Although left an orphan at an early age by the death of her father, Mr. Alva Freer, Miss Freer has been reared tenderly by her mother and grandparents, and has always been regarded by her friends and associates as one of the good girls; and her worth and wealth of intelligence, goodness and virtue, fully qualify her to become queen of her own household. Mr. Leon McRoberts is the only son of an only son. His grandfather left his highland home in Scotland at an early age and found his way to Michigan, where as a pioneer of Ingham county he laid the foundation for a future. All the appointments upon this their wedding occasion, were perfect, and commendation was freely bestowed by the host and hostess for the pleasure and completeness of their entertainment.

The wedding gifts were both numerous and valuable, aggregating in value to $400, including $25 in gold from grandpa Pocklington. The gift of the older McRobert consists of a good improved farm with dwelling ready furnished, near the city of Mason, where Mrs. McRobert and her husband will be most happy to receive calls or visits from any of their numerous friends from Ridgeway or elsewhere.

Incidentally it is worthy of remark that Miss Freer is one of a class in the Sabbath school who were members of the same infant class and who have ever continued together as a class, without the death of one, and she is the first of the number to break ranks for the holy bans of matrimony.

BRITTON BUDGET

Everybody is going to the fair.

Emma Underwood is home on a visit.

Mrs. Chas. Hoagland is recovering slowly.

Morris Britton came home from his Petoskey trip last Saturday.

Mortis Harrington and Scott Sherman left for Sanford, Midland Co., last Monday.

Phil. Beckler has bought a house and lot in Chicago and will move there soon.

The key in the grinder of Gripton & Bros. cane mill broke last Thursday and they had to shut down for a day or two.

The dance that was to be in Exel by Hall last Friday night, was not much of a success. There was only a few numbers sold.

If the Ridgeway nine had got one or two more of the Britton boss players to play with them at Milan, they would not have got beat. He could not hold the ball so he had to take the field.

Eleven pound boy at Wm. Morrison's, which makes things lively there.

ONSTED ODDS.

Opposition is the life of trade. A new Doctor arrived at the home of Doc. Ross one day last week. Doc. is around amongst the Boys with the Cigars. Doc. will be able to play Ball now he has an assistant.

Frank Lowden is home on a visit from the North Woods. He reports everything booming, wages large and men are scarce.

Mrs. David Sickner has gone on a visit to Alma, Gratiot Co. Dave has been at work there for some time; her many friends mourn her absence even for a short time.

The Franklin base ball club came down on Saturday and gave our boys a little practice. The score stood 37 to 12 in favor of our boys.

Squirrels and Woodcock are all the go at present and the boys are having great sport in the woods; guns are popping in every direction.

Charles Stephenson leaves on Monday next for Detroit, where he will attend school the coming winter.

J. W. Russell is putting a cellar under his house. He says if he had to dig another cellar after the house was built he would not dig it.

THE DRIVE WELL PATENT.

We clip the following items from the Grange Visitor of Sept. 15th.

And we still get letters asking what to do about paying royalty on driven wells. Answering that question by letter is getting rather monotonous. We can think of no better answer now than advising the treatment one of these bull-dozers received in a neighboring county. He proposed serving a notice of infringement on a farmer and was as promptly served with a notice to leave the premises. Declining, he was collared and led into the highway with an injunction that may serve him for future use. Again we say—Pay no man $10 royalty or any other sum. The State Grange of Michigan will defend in court contributors of one dollar to its Defense Fund, be they Patrons or not. We say this much on our own responsibility, as that is what it proposed to do and did do in 1881. There will soon be a meeting of the Executive Committee when such action as is deemed necessary will be taken.

THE DEFENSE FUND.

We received a few contributions to the Defense Fund since the late decision of the United States Court invited the royalty hunters to again invade the State. We have also received a letter from a brother Patron objecting to a continuation of the plan adopted in 1881 by the Executive Committee of the Michigan State Grange, which gave us such a good Defense Fund that the collectors of royalty soon found that their collections would no longer pay their board bills, and they left. This office is without instruction from the Executive Committee. Until instructed by the State Grange we shall continue to receive and receipt contributions to the Defense Fund sent us from any quarter and shall assume that such protection as the State Grange is able to afford will be extended to each and every contributor to the Driven Well Defense Fund. The action of the State Grange though its Executive Committee was protective not only to Patrons but to farmers and all classes of society, for driven wells were and are still in general use. Accepting contributions from all classes increased the fund and by this general co-operation made large payments from interested Patrons less necessary, and in the outcome gave the general public increased confidence in the value of the Order of Patrons of Husbandry. The course adopted before worked well and we now see no reason to adopt any other. There are men who will stand back and expect to profit by our organization without extending aid in any way. This can't be helped. Every community has men who want their neighbors to pay their taxes and so far society has failed to wholly protect itself against those who selfishly seek to obtain an advantage. The Grange is broad in its principles and policy—It has accepted and adopted the spirit of progress which has characterized this century and we believe that fact is a most hopeful indication of its successful future.

Thief Arrested.

The news was received with the greatest satisfaction by the community that he had terrorized; but the dread of a disease that is stealing away a loved and valued life, is an achievement that should inspire heart-felt gratitude. Chiliness, cold extremities, depressed spirits, and extremely miserable sensations, with pale, wan features, are the results of disordered kidneys and liver. Arrest the cause at once by taking Dr Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is a purely vegetable detective, that will ferret out and capture the most subtle lung or blood disorder. Druggist.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSONS.

Lesson for October 2

THE CENTURION'S FAITH—MATT. viii, 5-13.

NOTES.—"Capernaum."—The site of this famous city of Galilee is probably Tel Hum, as it is now called, a ruin three miles from the place where the Jordan empties into the Sea of Galilee. These ruins are large and allow for the large synagogue and town there.——"Centurion."—A Roman officer who commanded one of the sixty companies of a hundred each, into which the Roman legion was divided.——"Beseeching him and saying."—According to Luke, who tells the story more fully, the centurion did not come himself, but sent messengers to Jesus, and the whole communication was through them. What one does through another he will be fairly said, in a brief narrative, to himself. Luke also says that he was highly commended by the Jews, as having built them a synagogue. It would not follow from this necessarily that he was a proselyte, and yet this is not unlikely.——"I also am a man under authority, etc.—Here the meaning is that as the centurion was a man under authority, bound to come and go as ordered, and as he had servants who had to do the same, so diseases were, under Christ, and had to obey him when he spoke the word, and that word of authority he asked for.——"I have not found so great faith."—while the faith was great, it could not have been especially enlightened. This centurion was apparently a heathen, who had been stationed among the Jews, who found that they had a purer teaching than his own, that the learning of their great rabbies, who had a famous seat at Capernaum, was of a higher character than that of the Roman priests and augurs, and who was moving toward the light. "Many shall come from the east and the west."—Many born heathen, who have had faith in Christ, while many born Jews, to whom the promise of the Messiah had come and to whom it specially belonged, should be cast out for rejecting Christ.——"With Abraham." This indicates something more than the beginning of the kingdom. It includes its completion in its final glory. "The sons of the kingdom." To whom it was first promised and offered.——"The outer darkness."—Outside of the brilliancy of the feasting room. They had come to the room expecting to be admitted, but had been cast out. The figure contrasts Heaven and Hell.

INSTRUCTION.—The Roman centurion, the chief man in Capernaum, perhaps the richest man there, was one of the first to accept Christ. The Gospel is for men of position as well as for the poor. The Bible speaks well of centurions. Three are mentioned, and all of them favorably.

Strict discipline, such as soldiers are under, is good for a soldier or for a child. By obeying one learns to command.

Kindly and gratious dispositions may be looked for even in the heathen. Such will be ready to accept the Gospel when it is offered to them, as was this centurion.

The centurion loved, his servant. Doubtless the servant was faithful. Kindly relations between employer and employed depend most on mutual kindness and respect. A good master is pretty sure to have a good servant; a poor mistress has a poor servant.

If any man in Capernaum might have felt himself worthy to patronize the poor Teacher, it was the great centurion. But to his conspicuous for his modesty. Of all men he felt himself the most unworthy, when of all men Christ pronounces from the most worthy. Humility is one of the proofs of worthiness.

Trust in Christ, called faith, is the new religious principle brought out for the first time clearly in the New Testament. It includes everything else. It is chiefly a humble accepting of God as revealed in Jesus Christ, as the authoritative guide and Saviour of our souls. It includes submission, obedience and discipleship. It is the teachable spirit which gladly shows his will.

Jesus rules the world by his word. He is king by nature. He controls diseases even at a distance. Here was no faith on the servant's part, and no chance for imagination work. It was the centurion's faith, and Jesus was absent when the healing took place.

Go I will judge us by our individual lives, and not according to our ancestry or culture. Many heathen may accept Christ instantly from the words of missionaries, or from some report of Christ which they do not fully understand, and may enter into the kingdom of Heaven, while teachers and scholars in Christian Sunday schools will be shut out. Only the humble, teachable, believing heart can enter the kingdom.

THE TECUMSEH HERALD.

Issued Every Thursday Morning

BY [illegible] STACY

Office in the New HERALD Building, one door East of the Opera House, Tecumseh, Mich.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

One year, cash in advance, $1 50
Six months " " 75

Twenty five cents will be added to the subscription price for every three months that payment may be delayed.

ADVERTISING RATES.

Business locals, five cents a line for each insertion.

Special locals, fifty cents an inch for each insertion.

Rates on general advertising or term contracts made known on application.

Entered at the post office, Tecumseh, Michigan, as second class matter.

TECUMSEH, THURSDAY, SEPT. 26.

It is said that the Michigan salt manufacturers are not in the alleged great out of a salt pool, organized in Pittsburg. In that case Michigan holds all the trumps, and can take in the pot whenever she chooses.

The Adrian Times, very pertinently says:

"The Times cannot see enough in the Mrs. Cleveland-Foraker incident in Philadelphia, to make a campaign on, and it goes farther to say that even if Mrs. Cleveland is really guilty as charged, she had great provocation.

If the new process of sorghum extraction is all that Mr. COLMAN says it is, every young man will be able to supply his best girl with unlimited molasses candy at a trifling expense. And should molasses candy be substituted for ice cream, all the girls will be sweeter and so much less cost, that the matrimonial statistics will double.

Like the casting away of the revenue from coffee and tea in 1872, the removal of the tax on sugar, which gives us our easiest and next to largest single item of revenue $51,778,948, at an annual cost of less than ninety cents per head, is now pressed forward, to avert the repeal of other taxes which are desired to operate an incidental and private benefit by enhanced prices to the domestic consumers of a large domestic product."—Daniel Manning.

The Lansing Republican is responsible for the following.

GRAND RAPIDS, Sept. 24.—Gov. Luce, who is in the city attending the fair, corrects the statement that he is a one term Governor. He says, in an interview: "That item has absolutely no foundation. Neither here nor there," said the governor, tapping first his heart and then his head, "have I settled the matter. Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof is my motto. I believe that candidates of '88 should be left till '88. You may say positively that I have not made up my mind on the subject."

The Michigan salt manufacturers will not join the national association, as indicated by the press dispatches from Pittsburg. The proposed national association is on the same plan as the Standard Oil and other trust companies, which would virtually compel salt manufacturers to put their property in the hands of the association. Nearly all the salt works in this state are operated in connection with lumber mills, being entirely different from the eastern methods of manufacturing. The president of the Michigan Salt association, which controls the salt product in this state, says the national association movement was started last June at a conference held at Syracuse which he attended, and after informing himself of the nature of the proposed organization he declined to even recommended Michigan manufacturers to consider the project.

The papers are reporting that at the Philadelphia reception recently "When Presidents Cleveland presented Gov. Foraker—the two having already exchanged formal bows—to Mrs. Cleveland, the latter gave him the cut direct; and when Mrs. Foraker was presented Mrs. Cleveland coldly inclined her head and stared. Subsequently she cordially greeted all who were presented to her, shaking them by the hand." Some of the newspapers think Mrs. Cleveland oughtn't to have done so. Possibly not. But the lady must have entirely obliterated the women, when she would greet with smiles a man who had proved himself no gentleman by comparing her husband, the President, with a dog, in a public speech,—preferring the dog—and then presented himself for social recognition by reason of the political position he had disgraced by his malicious vulgarity.

What are Suppositories?

A. G. Rose, from New London, Conn., writes: Send me two boxes of your Kemp's Pile Suppositories by mail. Our druggist is out. They are for a friend. I tried everything without help, but the suppositories cured me.

The treatment is new and within reach of all, and would advise the affected to give them a trial. For sale in Tecumseh by Baker & Hall, at 50c per box.

GEN. PRYOR WON OVER.

CAPT. BLACK EXPLAINS MATTERS TO HIS SATISFACTION.

The Lawyer Says He Does Not See How an Application for a Writ of Error in the Anarchists' Case Can Be Refused—Was Influenced in Contributing Her Husband's Letter.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Capt. Black, who arrived from Chicago Thursday night, was at the office of Gen. Roger A. Pryor at 11 o'clock Friday forenoon to present the case of the condemned Anarchists to the lawyer with a view of carrying the case to the United States supreme court. Gen. Pryor had said that he would not join the board, but the interesting story Capt. Black had to tell made the thoroughly convinced man of Capt. Black was not prepared to make the plunge yet. He had a long talk on the subject of the trial with Capt. Black, and he will confer with his partner.

The gentleman in question is Judge Gray. When Capt. Black came out of the Judge's chamber the face was wreathed in smiles. He would only say, however, "I have won Gen. Pryor over, having explained everything to his satisfaction and convinced him of the justness of our side."

Gen. Pryor said, "I am convinced that the points taken by Capt. Black are excellent, and that an application for a writ of error will be granted. I do not see how the application can be refused, and we all not lose a moment in carrying the case to Washington. I say we, for I am now associated with the case. I am [illegible] that we can obtain the writ in time to prevent the execution of the condemned men. In no judgment formed from what Capt. Black states, the records show so many errors that no great exertion will be required to reverse it. The unexpected may happen, of course, but I have no fears."

BLOODTHIRSTY HERR MOST.

The Rampant Anarchist's Harangue at Cooper Union, New York.

New York, Sept. 24.—At a meeting of Anarchists and Socialists at Cooper Union Monday night, the principal speaker was Herr Most. During his harangue about the

HERR MOST'S HARANGUE.

Chicago Anarchists he said: "Friends and Anarchists, is it unlawful to have free speech in this country? What are these men guilty of? Are they thieves or murderers? (cries of 'no' no!) They fought against the murdering police and robbing capitalists. Seven policemen were killed, and they want seven of our brothers' lives—a life for a life. You can not allow that hanging to take place. Arm yourself, and for every drop of blood that is spilled from our friends let it cost a human life. I am not alone an Anarchist, but also a Revolutionist. The capitalists shall be the first to suffer. No one shall escape his just dues. The twelve jurors, judges, and detective spies will not sleep very soundly at present. Let them beware. [Wild yells and cheers from the crowd.] The time is approaching when we will be forced to use firearms. It must come, so be prepared. [Bedlam of cheers.] I warn them not to take the lives of our martyrs in Chicago. I demand that they be set free. Let there be a second revolution."

Editor Schevitch and others made speeches of similar character.

Anarchists Distributing Circulars.

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—A circular of deep red Anarchistic tendencies is being circulated in Chicago. It is headed "To the Workingmen of the United States of North America," and denounces the decision of the supreme court in upholding the decision of the lower court in the Anarchist cases. The circular refers to Capt. Bonfield as "the notorious police bandit," and condemns and vilifies Judge Gary with about equal vigor. The circular is signed "The Federation of Trades Unions," and was printed in New York. Capt. O'Donnell, of the West Twelfth Street station, has telephoned all over the city to have any and all persons found distributing the circular arrested.

Mrs. "Anarchist" Parsons Arrested.

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—Mrs. A. Parsons, the wife of the condemned Anarchist, was arrested Friday afternoon for circulating her husband's "Appeal to the American People." She was released from durance vile after a detention of about an hour, Business Manager Billfield, of The Arbeiter Zeitung, giving security for her appearance for trial. Mrs. Parsons says she believes she has a right to do all she can to help her husband when he is condemned to death. Her arrest was made under an ordinance prohibiting the circulation of any kind of circulars without a license.

HAVING A BIG TIME.

Odd Fellows and New York Veteran Firemen Parade in Denver.

DENVER, Colo., Sept. 23.—The veteran firemen of New York paraded Thursday, and Odd Fellows in attendance upon the sovereign grand lodge paraded in the afternoon. It is estimated that over 5,000 men were in line in the Odd Fellows' parade. The Seventh Regiment band gave an open air concert on the river front park, which was attended by nearly all the visitors, and from 12,000 to 15,000 citizens.

The session of the grand lodge Thursday was taken up with the discussion of the appeal of the Alexander Morton and U. S. Grand lodges and the encampment of Delaware in which it was decided to favor the Morton lodge. An invitation to hold the next session in Columbus, Ohio, signed by Governor Foraker, Mayor Bruck and the president of the chamber of commerce, was read. No action was taken.

BUSINESS NOTES.

A fresh issue of 41,000 shares of stock by the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railway company, $4,100,000 par value, was announced Monday at New York.

J. V. Lislet & Co., retail grain dealers at Detroit have failed for about $[illegible],000.

It was stated Tuesday in New York that a loan of from $8,000,000 to $10,000,000 was about to be made by a third mortgage on the property of the Northern Pacific Railway company.

Joseph Baum & Co., wholesale dealers in general merchandise at Meridian, Miss., assigned Thursday. The liabilities and assets are $350,000 each.

A BIG CELEBRATION.

York, Pa., Commemorating the 100th Anniversary of Its Incorporation.

YORK, Pa., Sept. 23.—Business was suspended and flags by the thousand were floating in the breeze Friday. It was the 100th anniversary of the incorporation of this quaint and historic old city, and the event was commemorated by religious exercises, military, parades, bonfires and all the rejoicing that is possible on occasions of this character. The revolutionary days marked the most important in the history of the place, and the patriotism and devotion shown by the residents of York throughout that pregnant period was as conspicuous as it was finally glorious and triumphant. A hundred and odd years ago this city had but 400 habitants, but was a flourishing village even during the revolutionary epoch. During the winter of 1777 and the spring of 1778 the sessions of congress were held in the old York court house. There, the articles of confederation were adopted. Here President George Washington stopped in 1790 while on his way from Mount Vernon to Philadelphia.

YORK'S OLD COURT HOUSE.

SIX MONTHS FOR EDITOR O'BRIEN.

Harrington Creates a Scene in Court and Leaves in a Huff.

MITCHELLTOWN, Sept. 24.—At the trial of William O'Brien Friday Harrington declared that a deliberate attempt had been made to suppress Constable O'Sullivan's report of O'Brien's speech. Carson, prosecuting barrister, replied that the observation was a pure fabrication on Harrington's part. Harrington, greatly excited at this, exclaimed: "You lie!" Magistrate Eaton here interposed and said "I can not permit such remarks to be made in this court. If you repeat them you will be removed from the room." Harrington retorted excitedly, "You get full trouble yours if I'd remove myself." I want nothing to do with this farce." An excited crowd followed the car in which O'Brien was taken to court. They yelled and hooted at the police and soldiers, who marched with fixed bayonets. Dillon and some priests, however, kept the people within bounds.

The testimony was all from policemen and all from memory, there being no written notes. O'Brien received an ovation from the people when he arrived, and received a number of bouquets from English ladies who were present at the trial.

William O'Brien was found guilty of the charge against him. The accused was sentenced to three months' imprisonment. Notice of appeal from the judgment of the court was given.

Mr. O'Brien, in his speech of defense, said the crown was guilty of having suppressed evidence favorable to him. The crown had withheld, for instance, the notes made by the head constable of the defendant's speech. In these notes, he said, was recorded his statement that the Irish party would give the land bill fair play. Continuing, Mr. O'Brien justified his defense of the Kingstown tenants on the ground that the evictions against them were commenced just on the eve of the passage of the land bill, and that an attempt was made to defraud the poor, wretched tenants of the benefits of the measure. He admitted that he had advised the tenants not to give up without resistance, and that he had declared that, before God and man, they were justified in defending their homes.

An End to Bone Scraping

Edward Shepard, of Harrisburg, Ill., says: "Having received so much benefit from Electric Bitters, I feel it my duty to let suffering humanity know it. Have had a running sore on my leg for eight years; my doctors told me I would have to have the bone scraped or leg amputated. I used instead, three bottles of Electric Bitters and seven boxes Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and my leg is now sound and well."

Electric Bitters are sold at fifty cents a bottle, and Bucklen's Arnica Salve at 25c. per box at

C. A. Wright & Co.

IMPORTANT.

When you visit or leave New York City, save Baggage Expressage and carriage Hire and stop at the Grand Union Hotel, opposite Grand Central Depot. Elegant rooms fitted up at a cost of one million dollars, reduced to $1.00 and upwards per day. European plan. Elevator. Restaurant supplied with the best. Horse cars, stages and elevated railroads to all depots. Families can live better for less money at the Grand Union Hotel than at any other first class hotel in the city.

The Duty of State Legislatures.

Legislation should be effected in every State regulating the sale and use of the many poisons resorted to by women in their desperation to obtain beautiful complexions, while there exists in Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic every requisite necessary to accomplish the object without injuring the health or endangering life.

Old lady to grocer's boy.—Don't you know, boy, that it is very rude to whistle when dealing with a lady?

Boy.—That's what the boss told me to do, mum.

Old Lady.—Told you to whistle?

Boy.—Yes'm. He said if we ever sold you anything we'd have to whistle for the money.

Tired Feeling

Afflicts nearly every one in the spring. The system having become accustomed to the bracing air of winter, is weakened by the warm days of the changing season, and readily yields to attacks of disease. Hood's Sarsaparilla is just the medicine needed. It tones and builds up every part of the body, and also expels all impurities from the blood. Try it this season.

A fast man is very slow when it comes to paying his debts.

"Lay thy sweet hands in mine," he said, but she only remarked that she had neuralgia and must hold her head. He gave her Salvation Oil and now he holds her sweet hands by the hour.

WHAT AILS YOU?

Do you feel dull, languid, low spirited, without energy or ambition, or nervous, irritable, restless, sleepless, and indescribably miserable, both physically and mentally, experiencing every day some new form of misery? Have you a dull, heavy pain in the back, with frequent headaches, dizziness, weakness of the kidneys, and high colored or scanty water? Do your kidneys trouble you? Are you troubled with constipation, or bowels alternately loose and costive? Do you have sudden rushes of blood to the head, with burning heat, followed by chilliness? Do you have sudden attacks of sharp, cutting pain, like stabbing with a knife? Do your feet and ankles swell? Do you have spots before the eyes, with dizziness? Is your sleep broken and unrefreshing? Are you troubled with nightmare? Do you have a dry, feverish skin? Do you have a frequent desire to shift from place to place, with a general feeling of misery, weakness, and discomfort? Do you have a cough, with more or less phlegm? Do you have sudden flushes of heat, with profuse perspiration? Do you have a peculiar sensation of something creeping over the skin, with nervous irritation? Do you have a bitter taste in the mouth? Do your ears ring? Do you have a buzzing sound in the ears? Do you have shooting pains across the joints? Do you have a dull, pulsating pain in the back? Do you have a sudden feeling of fear, or of impending calamity?

If you have all, or any considerable number of these symptoms, you are suffering from that most prevalent of American maladies, Dyspepsia or Torpid Liver, Associated with Dyspepsia, or Indigestion. The more complicated your disease has become, the greater the number and diversity of symptoms. No matter what stage it has reached, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will subdue it, if taken according to directions for a reasonable length of time. If not cured, complications, multiply and Consumption of the Lungs, Skin Diseases, Heart Disease, Rheumatism, Kidney Disease, or other grave maladies are quite liable to set in, and, sooner or later, induce a fatal termination.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery acts powerfully upon the liver, and through that great blood-purifying organ, cleanses the system of all blood-taints and impurities, from whatever cause arising. It is equally efficacious in acting upon the kidneys, and other excretory organs, invigorating, strengthening, and healing their diseases. As an appetizing, restorative tonic, it promotes digestion and nutrition, thereby building up both flesh and strength. In malarial districts this wonderful medicine has gained great celebrity in curing Fever and Ague, Chills and Fever, Dumb Ague, and kindred diseases.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

CURES ALL HUMORS,

from a common Blotch, or Eruption, to the worst Scrofula. Salt-rheum, "Fever-sores," Scaly or Rough Skin, in short, all diseases caused by vitiated blood are conquered by this powerful, purifying and invigorating medicine. Great eruptions have rapidly been cured by its benign influence. Repeated testimonials have proved its power in curing Tetter, Eczema, Erysipelas, Boils, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, Hip-joint Disease, "White Swellings," Goitre, or Thick Neck, and Enlarged Glands. Send ten cents in stamps for a large Treatise, with numerous plates, on Skin Diseases, or the same amount for a Treatise on Scrofulous Affections.

"FOR THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE."

Thoroughly cleanse it by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and good digestion, a fair skin, buoyant spirits, vigorous strength and bodily health will be restored.

CONSUMPTION,

which is Scrofula of the Lungs, is arrested and cured by this remedy, if taken in the earlier stages of the disease. From its marvelous power over this terrible fatal disease, when first offering this now world-famed remedy to the public, Dr. Pierce thought to give it the name of calling it his "CONSUMPTION CURE," but abandoned that name as too restrictive for a medicine which, from its wonderful combination of tonic, or strengthening, alterative, or blood-cleansing, anti-bilious, pectoral, and nutritive properties, is unequaled, not only as a remedy for Consumption, but for all Chronic Diseases of the Liver, Blood, and Lungs.

For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Shortness of Breath, Chronic Nasal Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, Severe Coughs, and kindred affections, it is an efficient remedy. Sold by Druggists, at $1.00, or Six Bottles for $5.00.

Send ten cents in stamps for Dr. Pierce's book on Consumption. Address,

World's Dispensary Medical Association,
663 Main St., BUFFALO, N. Y.

HARTER'S IRON TONIC

THE ONLY TRUE

Will purify the BLOOD regulate the LIVER and KIDNEYS and Restore the HEALTH and VIGOR OF YOUTH. Dyspepsia, Want of Appetite, Indigestion, Weakness, Nervousness, Want of Energy, Nervous Headaches, Diseases peculiar to Females, Sleeplessness, Pain in the Side and Back, Nervous Prostration, Debility, Loss of Vitality, Impotency, Premature Decay, Wasting Diseases, Chills and Fever, Malaria, Intermittent Fever, Ague, Boils, Eruptions, Blotches, Pimples, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Scaly or Rough Skin, in short, all diseases caused by vitiated blood are conquered by this powerful, purifying and invigorating medicine. Great improvements have rapidly been made by its benign influence. Repeated testimonials have proved its power in curing Tetter, Eczema, Erysipelas, Boils, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, Hip-joint Disease, "White Swellings," Goitre, or Thick Neck, and Enlarged Glands. Send ten cents in stamps for a large Treatise, with numerous plates, on Skin Diseases, or the same amount for a Treatise on Scrofulous Affections.

LADIES: HARTER'S IRON TONIC is safe, speedy cure. Gives clear, healthy complexion. All attempts at counterfeiting only adds to its popularity. Do not experiment—get ORIGINAL AND BEST.

Dr. HARTER'S LIVER PILLS Cure Constipation, Liver Complaint, Sick Headache. Sample Dose and Dream Book mailed on receipt of two cents in postage.

THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

Tutt's Pills

stimulates the torpid liver, strengthens the digestive organs, regulates the bowels, and are unequaled as an

ANTI-BILIOUS MEDICINE.

In malarial districts their virtues are widely recognized, as they possess peculiar properties in freeing the system from that poison. Elegantly sugar coated. Dose small. Price, 25cts.

Sold Everywhere.

Office, 44 Murray St., New York.

CARTER WHITE LEAD.—We have in stock this unrivaled brand of strictly pure white lead, which is warranted to cover one-third more surface than any other White Lead in the market. Send sample order and prove this statement.

GLASS!

We have decided to handle only PITTSBURGH UNBRAKED NATURAL GAS WINDOW GLASS, which is about equal to Plate. If your dealer does not keep it, have him do so or order direct of us. Also have stock of fit. Polished Plate in stock. Orders promptly filled.

WM. REID,
[illegible] and 175 Larned Street west, DETROIT.

Blessed's Patent Bolt

You measure where you want them—not under foot. One Agent sold 36 in 3 days, one dealer sold 4 doz. in 5 days. Samples worth $5.00 FREE. Write for terms.

E. E. BREWSTER, Holly, Mich.

SALESMEN

WANTED. Permanent positions guaranteed with SALARY AND EXPENSES PAID. Any intelligent man can succeed with us. Peculiar advantages to beginners. Stock complete, including many fast selling specialties; outfit free. Address, stating this paper, BROWN BROTHERS, NURSERYMEN, Chicago, Ill.

THIS PAPER is on file in Philadelphia at the Newspaper Advertising Agency of Messrs. N. W. AYER & SON, our authorized agents.

Great Bargains

AT

J. S. KINNEY'S

IN

FURNITURE

OF LATEST STYLES AND BEST WORKMANSHIP.

SUITES of ALL KINDS.

Shades, Carpets, Rollers, etc., at very Low Prices for Cash.

FULL LINE OF UNDERTAKING

Wood, Cloth, Metallic Cases, and I have the agency of the new INDISTRUCTIBLE MARBLE CASKETS of all kinds, very fine. Prices Reasonable.

TEMPLE, McCLURE & CO.

Successors to

Wolcott, Temple & Co.,

Wholesale and Retail Dealers in

Lumber, Lath, Shingles, Sash and Doors

AND ALL KINDS OF BUILDING MATERIAL.

Planing, Sawing, Matching to Order

Mill and Yard North of Railroad Depot.

TECUMSEH, MICHIGAN.

R. STEBBINS, Adrian,

Furniture, Carpets, Crockery, Children's Carriages

Picture Frames, Curtains, Fixtures, Etc.

My stock is the LARGEST and best ever shown in Southern Mich., arranged in 12 Ware Rooms covering over 12,000 feet of Flooring. Stebbins' block, and all selected with great care for quality.

It was bought with cash down, enabling me to defy all competition in LOW PRICES for same quality of goods. All goods warranted as represented. It will pay the northern tier of towns to examine our goods and prices.

MY STOCK OF CARPETS IS VERY FINE.

NEW BEDROOM SUITS
PARLOR SUITS

Patent Rockers, Reed Rockers, New Couches

And a big stock of Fine and Medium

FURNITURE

I invite all who are in want of good Furniture to look through my rooms, examine goods and notice the low prices. Remember, I have not moved back, but still occupy the largest store on the street for the last 13 years. You are told I don't enjoy the business for want of room. THAT IS SO.

Undertaking a Specialty!

Night Calls, Day Calls, and all kinds of calls promptly attended. Styles of Caskets in stock, and something entirely new for the

WM. McCOWEN.

A HANDSOME WEDDING, BIRTHDAY OR HOLIDAY PRESENT.

THE WONDERFUL

LUBURG CHAIR

Combining a Parlor, Library, Smoking, Reclining or Invalid CHAIR, LOUNGE, BED, or COUCH.

Price $3.00 and up; send stamp for Catalogue. Shipped in parts of the Children's Carriage.

Also Manufacturer of the Automatic Couch. Special Wholesale Prices. Send stamp for Catalogue.

LUBURG MANF'G CO., 187 W. Fifth St., Cincinnati, O.

Toledo Business College

AND SHORT-HAND SCHOOL.

Go to a city for a business education, because business men will patronize home institutions. Board and room $2.50 per week. English Branches, Business Course, Shorthand and Typewriting taught. Fifty-four students have taken positions since August, 1886. Special class for those from July 1 to September 1. Circulars free.

M. H. DAVIS, Principal, Toledo, O.

rgain

EY'S

URE

WORKMANSHIP.

KINDS.

Prices for Cash.

ERTAKING

cy of the new INDISTRUCT
Prices Reasonable.

URE & CO.,

e & Co.,

Sash and Doo

G MATERIAL

hing to Orde

oad Depot.

CHIGAN.

Adrian,

, Children's Ca

ixtures, Etc.

in Southern Mich.
000 feet of Flooring
t care for quality.

fy all competition in L s warranted as represe towns to examine

IS VERY FINE.

M SUIT
SUITS

rs, New Couch and Medium

URE!

o look through my
Remember, I have store on the street fo
't enjoy the busi-
AT IS SO.

Specialty!

promptly attended ntirely new for the

OWEN.

OR HOLIDAY PRESENT
UL
G CHA

Smoking, Reclining or
C. BED, or COUCH.
Catalogue. parts of the

'S CARRIAG

ATASKINE.

(THE NEW QUININE.)

GIVES
Good Appetite
New Strength
Quiet Nerves
Happy Days
Sweet Sleep.

A POWERFUL TONIC
SPECIFIC FOR MALARIA, RHEUMATISM, NERVOUS PROSTRATION,
And all germ diseases.
MOST SCIENTIFIC AND SUCCESSFUL PREPARATION, superior to quinine.
Rev. Theo. Locke, Rector Grace Church, Ravenna, writes: "I cordially endorse Kaskine as what you claim, an excellent substitute for quinine with none of its bad effects. I had a serious form of malaria, and was confined to her bed for months. Kaskine put me on my feet in a few days, and in a few weeks in the malarial districts of Maryland I was free from all symptoms of worst forms of malarial fever. I have prescribed it with quinine and other remedies without avail. I was greatly reduced when I took Kaskine. Its curative powers were a revelation to me. It cured me and I have not had a return of the troubles. (Prof.) J. Ward, B.A., Asst. Chemist, Maryland Agricultural College."
Letters from the above persons, giving full details, will be sent on application.
Kaskine is pleasant to take and can be used without special medical advice. $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5.
Sent by mail on receipt of price.
KASKINE CO., 54 Warren st., New York.

PATENTS F. A. LEHMANN, Washington, D. C. Send for circular.

To the Largest and Best Equipped CRACKERS' ROLLERS ESTABLISH'NT in the United States.
D. J. REILLY & CO.,
321 and 326 Pearl Street, New York.
Prices low. Satisfaction guaranteed. Best references.

DEAFNESS Its causes and a new and successful CURE at your own home by one who was deaf 28 years. Treated by most of the noted specialists without benefit. Cured himself in three months, and since hundreds of others. Full particulars sent on application.
STAGE, No. 41 West 31st st., New York City.

TO CONSUMPTIVE
Young Men with Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, Indigestion or Consumption: Use PARKER'S GINGER TONIC without delay. It has cured many of the worst cases and is the best remedy for all affections of the throat and lungs, and diseases arising from impure blood and exhaustion. The feeble and aged find it invigorating, strengthening against disease, and slowly drifting into the grave, will in many cases recover their health by the timely use of Parker's Ginger Tonic, but delay is dangerous. Take it in time. It is invaluable for all pains and disorders of stomach and bowels. 500. at druggists.

Agricultural Implement DEPOT.

C. A. SLAYTON

Is now prepared to make lower prices than ever before on all kinds of farm machinery. My stock is complete, but will only mention a few articles.

PLOWS. { SOUTH BEND, BUROH, WIARD, GALE, OLIVER. } Walking.

THE CASSADY AND SOLID COMFORT SULKY PLOWS.

Kalamazoo Spring Tooth Harrow,
"ACME" PULVERIZING HARROWS.

CULTIVATORS { Elwood, New Robbins, Albion, Buckeye. }

Buckeye, Superior, Monitor, Roller, } GRAIN DRILLS

CHEMP'S MANURE SPREADER.

Studebaker, Jackson and Flint WAGONS.

GREAT BARGAINS IN Carriages and Platform Spring Wagons.

Headquarters for Lime, Cement, Salt, Coal, Cal. Plaster and Plastering Hair Grain, Flour, Feed, and Field Seeds.

TO PIANO PURCHASERS
IF YOU WANT TO SAVE MONEY SEND FOR CATALOGUE OF THE WARDMAN PIANO
THIS IS A PHENOMENAL OFFER. SOLD ON HONEST MERIT. NO AGENTS. NO STORE RENT. NO MIDDLEMEN. NO STOP, STAY, ATTACHMENT MAKE. THE MOST PERFECT PIANO IN THE WORLD. WRITE FOR PRICES.
WARDMAN, PECK & CO. DETROIT, MICH.

DETROIT MUSIC CO. CHARLES DOBSON, HARRY B. WILLIAMS, DETROIT, MICH.
Dealers in Sheet Music, Musical Merchandise and Band Instruments, mailed (postpaid) on application.

The South Shore & Atlantic R. R.
THE SOO-MACKINAW SHORT LINE.
Only direct route to Marquette and the iron and copper regions of the upper peninsula of Michigan.
Through express trains each way daily, making close connections at union depots with all points.
New, Elegant and Commodious
PALACE WAGNER PARLOR CARS AND Superb Wagner Sleeping Cars, expressly for this line, on all express trains.
The territory traversed is famous for its GAME, FOLLED HUNTING AND FISHING.
Tickets for sale at all points via this route. Send for folders, rates and information. O. W. ALLEN, General Passenger and Ticket Agent, Marquette, Mich.

THIS PAPER is on file in Philadelphia at the Newspaper Advertising Agency of Messrs. N. W. AYER & SON, our authorized agents.

THE LIME KILN CLUB.

Resolutions Passed on the Death of an "Alverage Man."

As soon as Elder Toots had ceased trying to rough up the vest buckle he confiscated in West Virginia the year the war broke out, and Whalebone Hawker and Peebles Smith had settled on the date of the discovery of America as 1721, the wind-jys were put down and Brother Gardner said:

"Gentlemen, we—[illegible]

I yesterday received a letter containin' the information that Krokus Desplaines, an honory member, living at Griffin, Ga., had expired from orth away. Has any member anythin' to offer?"

Judge Cranver offered a resolution of sympathy for the bereaved widow and fatherless children.

Syntax Johnson moved that a vacuum be declared in mourning for the space of sixty days.

The Rev. Pentstock moved that what was the Lime Kiln club's loss, was the deceased brother's eternal gain.

Buckingham Jones suggested that the club contribute the sum of $5,000 to erect a monument with an angel perched on top.

"Gemlen," said the president as he waved them down, "I knew Krokus well. In fack, he am de only man who ever stole my dog. He has eaten at my house, an' I has slept in his an' booken breakfuss in the highest second class hotel. We shall adopt a skedule about as follows: We am grieved dat Krokus has passed away, but would he have amounted to shucks had he lived?

"He was kind to de poor, but he stole chickens from de rich.

"He was honest an' upright, but he neber had a chance to trade hosses or beat a street kyar company.

"He had many vartues, but they were offset by many vices. While he would have established an orfun asylum if he had de money to do it, he invariably tried to pay his dues wid trade dollars or counterfeit nickles.

"While we hope he am better off, we shan't be ober anxious to inquar fur him when we reach de nex' world.

"Gem'len, Krokus Desplaines was an average man. He lived in de average way, mixin' de good an' de bad till you couldn't allus tell wheder to find him leanin' over de front gate or lyin' on de grass behin' de barn. He had his good an' his bad tracks, an' we shan't praise de fust an[illegible] If he am better off we are [illegible] If he has gone to any wu-ke[illegible] am our solom dooty to feel as [illegible] how. Any resolushuns in [illegible] wife an' children am so much talk away fur he was too lazy to support a wife an' consekently nebber got married. We will hang a cheap piece o' crape on de door an' forgive him de six shillin' dues he owed de club."—Detroit Free Press.

THE MAN FROM MUD CORNER.

He Has an Experience with a Philadelphia Hotel Clerk.

Mr. Wheatcorn (from Mud Corner, Arkansaw)—As I was just passing through the city I thought I would stop and see the professh. There's me and Amanda, Tommy, George, Abimelech and the twins, Amanda's sister and aunt and my friend Towser, of Butternut Hill.

Hotel Clerk—For heaven's sake, what do you want?

Wheatcorn—I want a room, of course. Best you've got, with four windows and plush furniture. I'm no low down pauper.

Hotel Clerk—Only one left—$100. Front! show the gentleman to—— (Wheatcorn faints and is swept out.)—Philadelphia Call.

The Man for the Work.

New York Editor—Want a position, eh? How many years' experience have you had?

Applicant—I never worked on a newspaper, but I have been ten years in literature.

"What sort?"

"I have written over a hundred dime novels."

"I see. Lively imagination, eh?"

"Yes, sir."

"Ever been in Washington?"

"Once, twenty years ago."

"Know how the White House looks?"

"Oh, yes."

"Well, sit down and write up a long interview with the President."—Omaha World.

One Landlord's Way.

"Well, old fellow, [illegible] all these years since I saw you last?"

"Got married, settled down, and am running a hotel out in Michigan. You know how I like to hunt and fish."

"Certainly. Do you have good hunting and fishing where you live?"

"Best places, and when a man comes to buy it he's looking for a place to hunt and fish, he can't help but buy it. If he can't do either I strike him for his money in advance. It is a good business, for I have a waiter board."—New York Tribune.

Our Royal Heathen Guests.

Prince Kalpakan from Bindostan,
With complexion of orange and yellow
And Prince Lacka from Timbuctoo,
With [illegible]
And the Ambishuck, with his leathery cheek
And the Princess Kaka-Hai,
And Sing-Sing-Bang, with all of their cousins
From Bedlam and Delphi,
And the king of Guinea, who at home plays "Simon Says"
With possessions and babies,
And the chief of the Gaseurs, who each morn devours
A baby, regardless of grunts
And the queen of the Mingoes, who eats with her fingers,
And drinks soup out of a pan—
All these are the creatures regarded as "features"
On the modern society plan.
Be they brown, or magenta, or red, they can enter
Our prim social ranks just the same;
Though they eat with a shingle, they freely commingle
With our people of fashion and fame.
With high royal poses, with rings in their noses,
They flaunt at receptions and fetes,
And gives us the fidgets when with their tendigits
They shovel their food from their plates.
We can't be disloyal to men who are royal,
We must flatter and honor a king,
But were these royal caitiffs American natives,
We'd send them all off to Sing Sing.

—S. W. Foss in Judge.

BILL NYE ON HOTELS.

He Tells a Story on Griswold, the Fast Contributor.

America has made many gigantic strides, aside from those made at the battle of Bull Run, and the people spent much of their time pointing with pride to her remarkable progress, but we are prone to lend too much upon our advant[illegible] as a summer resort and our advent[illegible] the presidency for more important improvements, like the elevated railway [illegible] American hotel.

Let us, for a moment, look at the great changes that have been wrought in hotels during the past century. How marked has been the huge venery and how wonderful the advancement. Everything has been changed. Even the soap have been changed. Even the bath, consisting of a long and lean wife with an iron rod, [illegible] and a rattlesnake (or at the other, have taken the place of the Indian, voice and a bite in each rear elm club. In the olden days we were compelled to fill down with [illegible] stones, now we can, [illegible] the hands of a receiver, but always calm, smooth and blameless.

A great many droll characters and bright, shrewd men are met with among hotel proprietors wherever you go. "The Fat Contributor" was lecturing once in the state of Kentucky, and had occasion to take dinner at a six bit hotel. After the meal Mr. Griswold stepped up to the counter, took out a bale of bank notes, which he had received for his lecture the evening before, and asked what might be the damage.

"Three dollars," said the blue grass gentleman, who had buttoned his collar with a tenpenny nail, while he looked at "Gris" with a pained expression.

"Yes, but a man ought to be able to board here a week for $3. The whole house didn't cost more than $80 or $85. What's your game in charging me $3 for a wad of hominy and a piece of parched pork?"

"Well, sir," said the urbane landlord, as he put out the fire at a distance of twenty feet by emptying his salivary surplus on it, "I need the money!"

"I NEED THE MONEY."

The frankness and calm, candid manner of the man won Mr. Griswold, and he took a dram of he thought so well of it enough. The landlord said he ought get along with that. Then Griswold opened his valise and took out a large brunette bottle of liniment marked "for external use." He passed over to the landlord a dram of liniment that this stuff worked as well on the insides as it did on the outside. In a few minutes the liniment of the "Fat Contributor" and the liniment of the landlord had merged into each other, and a true lily feeling sprang up between the two men which time has never effaced. I have often thought of this and wondered why it is that hotel men are not more open and cordial with their guests. Many a time I have paid a large bill grudgingly when I could have done it cheerfully if the landlord had told me he was in need.—New York World.

Death Cuts Down All, Great and Small.

A party of hotel men in the Auditorium lounged on Monday were discussing the recent deaths of Messrs. Hunting and Smith, and hoping that the destroyer would not visit their ranks for some time to come, when one of the party said:

"There are several hotel keepers in town whose death, I am sorry to say, is only a question of time."

"Who are they?" eagerly inquired the others.

The first gentleman repeated names which were greeted with expressions of sorrow and regret.

"But I didn't know they were sick," thoughtfully remarked one of the party.

"They are not sick."

"What's the matter with them then?"

"Nothing."

"Well, I——"

"As I said, their death is only a question of time."

And solemn silence appeared and mingled with the crowd.—Hotel Mail.

DEACON BURDETTE.

He Explains His Views of Life on Week Days.

HOW TO MAKE KEYNS' SPELLS.

Mrs. Winkegood (wearily)—I must see a physician, dear. I have such bad spells every day. Mr. Winkegood (impatiently)—Bah, so has the typewriter girl at the office and she's bright as a cricket all the time. Livelier she is the worse spells she has.

HE LACK INFORMATION.

"Are you the cow?" asked the boarder from town, pausing before the pump. "No," replied the pump, speaking through his nose, like a true American, "I am the milk maid. Haw, haw, haw." And next morning the awe-stricken guest ate his meal in silence, nor once complained when he found a water spider in his cream.

"LOOK PLEASANT, YOU VILLAIN."

Some plausible person a week ago told us of a story that is told of Frederick of Russia. The king had a way of going around like a common mortal and holding brief conversations with his subjects which were pretty sure to terminate in some decidedly unpleasant remark by the monarch. One day he paused to speak to a Jew, but the wary Hebrew took to his heels. The king pursued, and after a brief chase overtook the flying subject. "Why did you run away from me, rascal?" "Because," frankly admitted the Hebrew, "I was afraid." "Fritz" hit him a tremendous whack with his cane. "Villain!" he roared, "I don't want to be feared; I want to be loved."

RIGHT FROM THE VIAL.

A scientific journal has an article headed, "How to Taste." We haven't had time to read it, but our own idea is that it depends a great deal on what you are going to taste. If it is quinine or castor oil or anything of that sort it won't require any previous training or a university education to enable you to taste all you want of it in one brief, hasty swallow. The poor immigrant, who is still sitting on a green trunk in Castle Garden and hasn't been in this country long enough even to make the oration at the constitutional centennial or get on the police, can taste it with one hand tied behind him, just as easily as John L. Sullivan or President Elliot or any other man of science. But if it is something real good; something that you like better and get less of than any other man in America, you want a neck a yard long, full of all sorts of back stops and dampers all the way down. That is the theory of an unlettered man who tastes by main strength and natural selection, and if fair Science thinks she has a better way we'd like to trot her one heat, anyhow, just for fun.

A COLD DAY IN SEPTEMBER.

Family man, in great haste, rushes into drug store—"Gimme pawd'n—chemist's. "Can you put this up for me right away? In an awful hurry." Drug store man reads prescription and turns pale. "I'm afraid I can't do it today, sir; I—I think we are out of some of the ingredients." Man of family takes back paper and reads:

"Half a dozen safety pins;
Three nutmegs;
A pound of West Chester butter;
One quart cider vinegar;
Two yards white flannel;
A paper of needles;
A box of Rough on Rats."

This was the shopping list his wife had given him. Then the prescription for himself that he had got from the doctor must have been the paper he threw out of the window. Thus does Jane W. Nemesis, avenger at law, keep her glassy eyes nailed upon the man who needs the most watching.

A WANING PLAGUE.

"Abigail" wants to know what is the best way to rid a room of flies. "Go into the next room and try to read, Abigail; they'll follow you, every last buzzing, crawling, tickling beggar of 'em.

THE ONE YOU SHOULD WRITE FIRST.

"Let me tell you," said the contributor, "about my first poem." "I haven't time," said the editor, gently, but with a tinge of weariness, "but I'll sit here all night if you'll tell me about your last one."—Brooklyn Eagle.

Chaffed the Wrong Man.

A citizen who had just laid down $900 for a span of carriage horses was driving out Woodward avenue the other day when he met a farmer coming in with a load of apples. Desiring to chaff the stranger a bit he drew up and inquired:

"Say, how'll you trade teams?"

The farmer halted, got down from his vehicle, looked the team over and slowly replied:

"Waal, by gosh!"

"What's the matter?"

"If you hadn't stopped me I wouldn't have knowed the team.

"Did you ever see these horses before?"

"I did! Why I raised 'em! Sold 'em both to a horse trader in town three weeks ago. That nigh one has the traces, and the other is a critter and has two spots. I'll trade with you for $75 and that's allowing $25 apiece more on your hosses than I got."

The owner of the "spotters" hasn't seen a peaceful hour since that meeting.—Detroit Free Press.

Unfounded Fears.

Friend (to young author)—How is your new book going, Charley?

Young Author (anxiously)—It's going like—like—I've already given away five hundred copies.

Friend—Five hundred copies! Why I don't wonder you look blue. I was afraid you wouldn't be able to give away more than half that number.—New York Sun.

An Unbuttoned Cherry.

A youngster sat watching his mother, who was putting cherries. She had taken several pitted ones to eat, but finally passed him one without removing the stone. He at once handed it back to her with the remark: "If you can't do a thing right don't do it at all."—Columbus (O.) Dispatch.

Better Than the Dictionary.

"What's a sinecure, Bobby?" asked Robbie of his elder sister.

"It's what a person who don't work enjoys," was the wise reply.—The Epoch.

Lessening.

Boy—Don't be alarmed, miss, it's only his play. If he was to swallow yer little dog he'd only be foolin'.—Life.

An Improvement.

Cigar Dealer—I have something new in cigarettes I want to show you, Mr. Dumley.

Dumley—What is it, tobacco?—New York Sun.

THE PUMP SNAKE

A Reptile Who Is of Great Use in Dakota, They Say.

In central Dakota, on the Missouri bottoms, there exists one of nature's strangest freaks. The settlers term it the "pump snake." How it came there or where it came from is yet unknown. It first made its appearance in Emmons county in the spring of 188[illegible]. A full grown pump snake measures [illegible] inches in diameter. They are of gregarious habits, roaming the prairies in large herds, as many as 300 having been counted in a single flock. In dissecting one of these reptiles there is found a tube which extends from the roof of the jaw to the extremity of the tail, and terminating in an opening. This tube is about two inches in diameter, and lined with a tough, yielding substance similar to rubber. The pump snake is easily tamed so as to allow the milk of man. The inhabitants in the section frequented by them in large numbers.

A farmer on Cut Tail creek has a flock of twenty pump snakes trained to a remarkable degree of proficiency. At the dinner of a whistle the snakes assemble on the banks of the creek. The leader (there is always a leader to a herd of these snakes, who is chosen by two thirds majority) dashes into the water of the creek, leaving only the extremity of its tail on the bank. Another snake immediately grasps the end of the leader's tail in its jaws, a third snake takes hold of the second snake's tail in a similar manner, and so on until there is a continuous line of snakes joined end on, extending to the water troughs in the cattle yards, 300 feet away. The leading snake commences to swallow or pump the waters of the creek, which passes through the long line of snakes as it would through a hose and falls in a heavy stream into the trough.

This agriculturist told of an extraordinary circumstance which occurred a short time ago. While working in the field near his home he observed flames issuing from the roof of his barn. Wild with excitement he hurried to the burning building, only to see that it was a hopeless task for himself alone to attempt to extinguish the flames. In despair he gazed on the work of destruction; suddenly he heard a loud rustling in the tall grass, whence issued his herd of pump snakes on the run. The leader buried himself into the creek, the rest instantly adjusting themselves, heads and tails, from the creek to the burning building. The last snake, standing on its head, waved its long and flexible body, from the tail end of which issued a stream of water that was thrown with terrific force on the burning building. Back and forth dashed the tail end of that living hose, squirting the water where it would do the most good, while the loud pumping of the leader could be heard above the roar of the conflagration. Within fifteen minutes the last spark was out. Then, and not until then, did the pump snakes quit work. They were completely exhausted, the leader having fainted away. The main part of the building and its contents were saved, thanks to the presence of mind of these wonderful snakes.

The territorial government is becoming awakened to the extreme usefulness of these interesting creatures, and laws are to be enacted to protect the pump snake.—Dakota Cor. Chicago Inter-Ocean.

Too Much Interest in Medical Exhibits.

The other morning a newspaper reporter was instructed to get a list of the various exhibits of the Medical congress. Full of the fire of youth and careless of the difficulties he was to encounter, he armed his pencil and sallied out. The first exhibit he encountered was a tremendous crowd of people around a little defenseless urn containing cocoa, which was being passed around in Lilliputian cups.

"Are you a doctor?" asked the gentleman in charge.

The reporter admitted that he wasn't, but he had an uncle who was. This entitled the reporter to a cup of cocoa, which he took in one small sized convulsive swallow with great gusto.

Passing a man with the prettiest, most tastily decorated stomach pump it had ever been his privilege to gaze upon, the reporter reached the pepsin stand, where he took enough pepsin to enable him to digest the cocoa. A small sample of cod liver oil was presented and taken as a preventive for consumption. Ever busy was cordial and free hearted, and the reporter's gastric apparatus was treated to some remedy for heart trouble for a change. Up to the time he stopped keeping count he imbibed his alimentary canal with a dozen baby foods, seven different kinds of tonic, any one of which was warranted to make your hair curl; two glasses of orange wine and a dose of Bromo Cafeine. He also took a look through a microscope and a couple of electric shocks.

It was 5 o'clock in the afternoon when a man, who called himself a "representative journalist" was found groping wildly about the hall.

"Anything we can show you?" asked one of the affable exhibitors.

"Yessiree; show me a man wot has got the stomach pump."—Washington Critic.

The Evolution of Slang.

The growth of slang, the vari ty stages is interesting and [illegible] Fifty a long time it has been a single fancy to play on a word to the exclusion of [illegible] Then [illegible] things in vogue [illegible] "Fourth pair, o."

Next some [illegible] thought to remarking to [illegible] "I was at the [illegible] last night, and [illegible] named Tapioca."

"Why?"

"Because Tapioca is a pudding," i. e., a soft thing, or easy certainty.

Now the first expression has been carried to so long an [illegible] that numbers pour at the quip without exactly knowing why.—Buffalo Express.

As It Is in England—Perhaps.

Parsonby—Yes, they should have a Dr. Twitinger—Yaas. No necessity to give it time, d'ye know.

Pensiby—Suppose we play a game of billiards, Gus.

Dr. Twitinger—Wouldn't really do, Awfilaw. Let us stay and keep the common people in countenance. The poor devils will be pleased to know that we are looking at them.—Philadelphia Call.

A Mild Sort of Reproof.

A traveler, being in a coffee house with some people who was largely drawing on the credulity of the company, said:

"Where did you say all these wonders happened, sir?" asked a gentleman present.

"I don't exactly say," replied the traveler; "but some where on the continent—Russia, I think."

"I should rather think it a-ly," returned the other.—Unidentified.

A Likely Story.

"Did you read about burglars stealing a large amount of money from the guests at a summer resort in the Catskills?"

"I read it, but I don't believe it."

"Why not?"

"Because no guest at a summer resort has any money to be stolen at the close of the season. The landlord has got it all."—Exchange.

Hay Fever.

For twenty years I have been severely afflicted with hay fever. While I was suffering intensely I was induced, through Mr. Tichenor's testimonial, to try Ely's Cream Balm. The effect was marvelous. It enabled me to perform my pastoral duties without the slightest inconvenience, and I have escaped a return attack. I pronounce Ely's Cream Balm a cure for [illegible]—Rev. [illegible], Pastor, Elizabeth, N. J.

"I wish things was shared out evener," said a Cincinnati boy, watching the colored man at the house opposite washing the sidewalk. His fond mamma was about to commend his sympathy with the poor working people, when he astonished her by adding with emphasis: "Then we could have a colored man and a hose!"

To enjoy good health, you must always have abundant sleep; this can generally be secured by the use of Bull's Cough Syrup, unless you have a crying baby, in which case Dr. Bull's Baby Syrup will greatly assist.

Britton has struck gas.

Give Them A Chance

That is to say, your lungs. Also all your breathing machinery. Very wonderful machinery it is. Not only the larger air-passages, but the thousands of little tubes and cavities leading from them.

When these are clogged and choked with matter which ought not to be there, your lungs cannot half do their work. And what they do, they cannot do well.

Call it cold, cough, croup, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption or any of the family of throat and nose and head and lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be got rid of. There is just one sure way to get rid of them. That is to take Boschee's German Syrup, which any druggist will sell you at 75 cents a bottle. Even if every thing else has failed you, you may depend upon this for certain.

The Oft Told Story

Of the peculiar medicinal merits of Hood's Sarsaparilla is fully confirmed by the voluntary testimony of thousands who have tried it. Peculiar in the combination, proportion, and preparation of its ingredients, peculiar in the extreme care with which it is put up, Hood's Sarsaparilla accomplishes cures where other preparations entirely fail. Peculiar in the unequaled good name it has made at home, which is a "tower of strength abroad," peculiar in the phenomenal sales it has attained.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

is the most popular blood purifying medicine before the public today for purifying the blood, giving strength, creating a keen appetite.

"I suffered from weariness and low spirits, and also had eczema on the back of my head and neck, which was very annoying. I took one bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and I have received so much benefit that I am very grateful and I think it good to speak a good word for this medicine." Rev. J. S. SNYDER, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Purifies the Blood

Henry Ehrts, Campbell street, Kansas City, had scrofulous sores all over his body for fifteen years. Hood's Sarsaparilla completely cured him.

Wallace Beck, of North Bloomfield, N. Y., suffered [illegible] years. [illegible] was almost [illegible] to give up business. He was cured by [illegible] and is now in perfect health.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1. Hood's Sarsaparilla Prepared only by C. I. Hood & Co., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

FREE PRESS

The Weekly DETROIT FREE PRESS and The Household.

The Largest, Best and Cheapest of Weeklies.
Ten Pages of Reading Matter in Infinite Variety.

Each issue is a perfect cyclopedia of information. It contains all the latest news brought down to the hour of going to press. Reliable Market Reports, Crisp and Comprehensive Editorials, Local and State News, Original Sketches, Stories of Travel, and Adventure, Original Stories, Current Miscellany and unequaled selection of General Miscellany and Literary Matter, with THE HOUSEHOLD supplement for the Ladies.

The Free Press is the Leading and Representative Paper of Michigan.

THE GREAT

ONE DOLLAR. $1. $1. $1. PER YEAR.

E PLURIBUS UNUM 1883

FAMILY NEWSPAPER

That it is generally regarded as the most desirable and meritorious of Weeklies is shown by the fact that it has by far the largest circulation of any paper published in Michigan. No well regulated family will be without it. Price, only ONE DOLLAR a year.

SPECIAL BOOK OFFER.

We will send The Weekly Free Press for one year and any one of the Books named, postage paid, on receipt of amount quoted.

Every One His Own Lawyer	$1.80
World's Cyclopedia (illus.)	1.60
Popular History of the Civil War (illus.)	1.50
The Lives of Our Presidents (illus.)	1.50
What Every One Should Know. A Practical Recipe Book	1.50
Everybody's Paint Book; or, How to do Your Own Painting and Decorating	1.50
Allison's Webster's Dictionary and Dictionary of Electricity	1.50

DAILY FREE PRESS, $7.00 a Year.
DAILY, 3 issues a week, 3.50 "
SUBSCRIBE NOW—DON'T DELAY.
Premiums given for clubs. Send for Premium List and Sample Copy. Local agents wanted.
The Free Press Co., Detroit, Mich.

FREE PRESS

Tecumseh Herald

TECUMSEH, MICH., SEP. 29, 1887.

A GIGANTIC MINING ENTERPRISE.

A River Turned Out of Its Bed.

Without doubt one of the greatest mining achievements of modern engineering is the construction of the Big Bend Tunnel on the Feather river, situated in Butte Co., California.—Feather river is formed by the North, Middle and South Forks, which rise in the Sierra Nevada Mountains in Plumas Co., run southwestward, unite in Butte Co., to form the main Feather.

The river, including the forks, is 250 miles long, and enters Sacramento river at Verona, Sutter Co., about 20 miles above the city of Sacramento.

It is well known among gold miners, that the richest and most productive gold mines of California have been the beds of rivers; and the "Feather" stands pre-eminent as to richness whenever it has been possible to work it. In fact old miners have known it for years under the name of "The Golden Feather."

Prof. Horace C. Burchard, late Director of the United States Mint, in speaking of the gold producing river beds of California, says: "They are the natural sluices of thousands of square miles of auriferous ground, the wash from which has been distributed on the beds, bars, and benches, where, by a natural process of concentration, the gold was redeposited in such manner that it was easily accessible to the early miners." The bars, which at low water are dry, are exposed to the operation of the miners, and from many places in the bed of the river—where it was possible to turn the river out of its channel by means of dams and canals, or flumes—the miner soon found the ways of abstracting the precious metal from the sand and gravel in which it rested. The Big Bend of Feather river, however, whose gravel deposits have been estimated in value from $100,000,000 to $150,000,000, has hitherto baffled the skill of man to rob it of its treasure. This vast amount of wealth has been guarded and preserved for ages by the minimum constant flow of one hundred thousand miner's inches of water rushing through a narrow canon of from 1,500 to 2,000 feet deep, which rendered it impossible to wing dam or flume. Yet while nature has seemingly placed impregnable barriers against man's encroachments, she provided at one point at least, a way whereby these obstacles could be overcome through the intervention of modern engineering skill.

There is a little stream running through Dark Canon, which empties into the West Branch of the Feather and from there into the main Feather. Dark Canon is several feet lower than the bed of the main Feather, at the point where Big Bend begins. A tunnel was commenced in Dark Canon and a bore 12x16 feet drilled through a spur of Big Bend mountain a distance of 12,907 feet, or nearly two and one-third miles in length, out to the mountain side of Feather River, at the upper end of the Bend. Just below where the upper end of the tunnel taps the river a dam was constructed which is to force the water through the tunnel into Dark Canon, out of which it will flow into the West Branch, and then into the main Feather again. This will leave about fourteen miles of the river bed exposed to sight during the season of low water, which is from seven to nine months in the year.

This stupendous undertaking required the services of one hundred men, working night and day, for about five years, and has just recently been completed. At the head of the tunnel six gates of iron and steel, 4½ by 8 ft, will let the water in or keep it out. In times of high water the gates will be closed, and the river will run along its old bed, to be turned out of its course and through the tunnel at low water.

The past yield, from those parts of the Feather accessible to mining operations, is sufficient evidence that the most sanguine anticipations of the projectors of this grand enterprise will be fully realized. The famous old Cape Claim, below Big Bend, yielded $989,000 in forty-two working days, and from 3,300 lineal feet of half-worked river bed. In fact, the river channel, both above and below the Bend, has proven itself immensely rich.

The President of the Big Bend tunnel and Mining Company, and the largest stockholder therein, Dr. R. V. Pierce, who is, perhaps, of all others, most entitled to credit for the successful termination of this great undertaking, being fully satisfied with the feasibility of the plan from its inception, he has with an unstinting hand supplied the funds for the prosecution of this enormously expensive work, and his confidence and liberality will soon meet its reward.

The Doctor has been, and now is, connected with very many other important matters. In the fall of 1877, he was elected to a seat in the New York State Senate, and in 1878, he was placed in nomination for Congress, and was elected by a decisive majority.

He is President of the Buffalo Loan, Trust and Safe Deposit Company, one of the foremost banking institutions in the city of Buffalo. But he is perhaps best known as President of the "World's Dispensary Medical Association" [illegible] "Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute." This institution is situated on Main and Washington streets, Buffalo, N. Y., having a frontage on both streets. The design of the Invalids' Hotel is to furnish a home to those desiring private treatment of the most skilled chiefs, especially to those suffering from chronic and surgical diseases. It is not a hospital, but a pleasant, remedial home, furnished with every comfort, and the most approved sanitary, medical and surgical appliances, which study, experience, invention, and the most liberal expenditure of money can produce. There are eighteen skilled physicians and surgeons constantly at the Hotel, and a corps of efficient and trained nurses. The Doctor is also the inventor of several well known medicines, which are compounded at the World's Dispensary. The efficacy of these medicines is undoubtedly what led to the idea and ultimate establishment of the Invalids' Hotel. Very many who were using these remedies of Dr. Pierce's found them so beneficial that they began to send applications for personal treatment, and these appeals becoming so numerous, the Doctor concluded to erect his Invalids' Hotel. The Big Bend Tunnel Company is fortunate in having so progressive a man as Dr. Pierce as their President.

The money expended in the construction of the tunnel does not represent all the capital involved. More than a hundred claimants to mining grounds on the bars, banks and river bed had to be bought out acquiring title to this vast extent of rich mining grounds. Boarding houses have been constructed along the river roads and tracks have been built; a substantial bridge erected across the West Branch of the river, and what was an unbroken wilderness, around the vicinity of the tunnel, when the Company commenced operations, is now a thriving village with good dwelling houses, a general store, a hotel, and a schoolhouse. A post-office has also been established here, and a telephone line built to Oroville, sixteen miles distant.

AUCTIONS.

Now is the time to buy a Home Cheap. Ten Beautiful Lots on Patterson st., in the village of Tecumseh will be sold at auction on Saturday, Oct. 8th, 1887, at one o'clock P. M. These lots are all six rods front by twelve deep. They are situated in the growing part of the village, and are bound to increase in value. Terms of sale—Fifty Dollars down; balance can be paid any time in three years at the buyer's option. Ben. Reynolds, Auctioneer. JAMES W. PATTERSON.

Stephen Scofield will sell at Auction one mile east of the village of Tecumseh, on the old Adams farm, on Tuesday, Oct. 4th, 1887, at 12 M., sharp, the following property: One span sorrel mares; 1 two year old colt, past; thoroughbred shorthorn cow and calf, thoroughbred shorthorn bull, spring calf, 4 breeding sows, 16 pigs, 40 ewes, 20 yearlings, 3 work horses, 20 shropshire lambs, quantity corn fodder, 10 acres corn in shock; 250 bush. oats, 50 bush. shelled corn and corn in the ear, 30 acres wheat on the ground, 25 tons of hay, 3 good milch cows. Walter A. Wood Binder, nearly new, and Mower, wheel cultivator, five-tooth and three-tooth cultivators, roller, swell box cutter, turkeys, chickens. Terms of sale.—All sums of $5 and less, cash; all sums over $5, 12 mos. credit with approved notes at 7 per cent. interest. Ben Reynolds, Auctioneer.

Acker's Blood Elixir is the only Blood Remedy guaranteed. It is a positive cure for Ulcers, Eruptions or Syphilitic Poisoning. It purifies the whole system, and banishes all Rheumatic and Neuralgic pains. We guarantee it. C. A. WRIGHT & CO., Druggists.

The Tecumseh base ball club have played 17 games this season and won—well, wait till the next game.

GOT THE BEST OF THE DOCTOR.

W. F. Beyer, Garretsville, Ohio, says: "My wife has been troubled with Catarrh a long time, but have, with what remedies we had, and what the doctor could do, kept the upper hand of it until this fall, when, everything failed. Her throat was raw as far as one could see, with an incessant cough when I invested my dollar in a bottle of your Papillon Catarrh Cure as a last resort. To-day she is free from cough, throat all healed and, entirely cured." Papillon (extract of flax) Catarrh Cure effects cures when all others fail. Large bottles $1.00.

For sale by A. S. Doty.

The front of Jones & Hazlett's store has been much improved by a new coat of paint.

The Hudson Post cries out for more correspondents and hen eggs. Truly the active mind of man seldom or never rests satisfied.

THE BEST PHYSICIANS OUTDONE.

J. A. Crawford says: "I have had the worst form of Eczema two years, and found no relief from some of our best physicians who have made this disease a specialty. I was persuaded to try Papillon (extract of flax). The relief I received was like a charm and I am well. I think Papillon one of the blessings of the age." Try Papillon (extract of flax) Skin Cure when all others fail. Large bottles $1.00.

For sale by A. S. Doty.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.

VILLAGE OF TECUMSEH,
Council Room, Sept. 13, 1887.

Regular session—Present the President and Messrs. Ames, Kennedy, Kilgan and Janes.

A. E. Kennedy was appointed recorder pro tem.

NEW BUSINESS.

The following bills were presented [illegible]

mitted:

Thos. Elliott, blacksmith, $20.85; C. E. Good, printing, $1.00; and for following fire [illegible] box: Root, Mich., $2.75; Hulp, Owens, [illegible] E. Herring, $2.75; 1882 Hubbard, $10; A. [illegible] Jas. O. Riley, Ben Joe O'Riley, Jr., [illegible] Neth, $12.00; Dell Packard, $5.25; Oscar Packard, $7.50; Royal Seely, $2.50; Jas. Patterson, $2.00; M. Ames, $6.00; Thos. Kanes, Jno. Kane, Jno. Beebe, $2.50; R. of Saint, $9.50; City Owens, $2.50; Burt Spafford, $5.25.

The finance committee reported favorably upon all of above claims. Accepted and adopted and orders directed drawn for the several amounts.

Council then adjourned until Sept. 20th, 1887, at 7:30 P. M.

A. E. KENNEDY,
Recorder pro tem.

VILLAGE OF TECUMSEH,
Council Room, Sept. 20, 1887.

Adjourned session. Present the entire council, except Mr. Ames and the recorder.

A. E. Kennedy was appointed Recorder pro tem.

NEW BUSINESS.

Complaint having been made of the sidewalk on Evans street, along east line of Bidwell's block, the marshal was instructed to notify the owner to build a new sidewalk before the next meeting of the Council.

The following bills were presented and referred to the finance committee:

Whitenack Bording & Co., bill rendered, $2.64.
H. Brewer & Co., bill rendered, $1.80; Satterthwait Bros. & Boyd, bill rendered $2.74.

W. S. Derby representing the U. S. wind engine and Pump Co, presented the following contract and specifications for water tank.

CONTRACT FOR WATER WORKS.

This agreement made and entered into this twentieth day of September, 1887, by and between the United States Wind Engine & Pump Co. of Batavia, County of Kane, State of Illinois, a corporation duly organized and doing business under the laws of said State, and the Village of Tecumseh, County of Lenawee, State of Michigan, party of the second part.

Witnesseth.—

That for and in consideration of the agreements herein binding the second party, the first party herein agrees to construct an elevated tank with connections complete as per attached specifications and accompanying plans, which specifications shall be considered a part of this contract, the same as if written herein.

The first party further agrees to guarantee the work and material furnished by them as provided for above, for the term of one year from the time of completion thereof, excepting as to damage caused by fire, lightning, cyclones or other elements of a like character that may cause damage to adjacent property.

In view of these agreements on the part of the party of the first part, the said second party agrees to pay to the first party for the completion of the work as above specified, the sum of twenty five hundred ($2500) dollars, said amount to be paid as follows, When all material entering into the work shall have been delivered and work commenced, the said second party agrees to make a payment of One Thousand ($1000) Dollars. As soon as the work shall have been completed and found to be constructed according to the said plans and specifications and finally accepted by said second party, the balance of the money then due shall be paid to said first party within thirty (30) days from the date of such acceptance.

It is mutually agreed between the parties hereto, that the date of acceptance shall be as early as practicable after the completion of the work.

SPECIFICATIONS COVERING ERECTION OF WATER TANK.

FOUNDATION.

The Foundation for Tank shall consist of seven (7) stone walls being 3 ft. 8 inches wide at base, 18 inches wide at top, 5 feet high and 18 feet long, as shown by foundation plan. The masonry in the foregoing shall be of a good quality of boulder, having proper beds and suitable for this class of work. Each wall shall be provided with a coping of sand stone, all as shown by drawings attached. The above foundations are to be substantially built and capable of sustaining the weight to be imposed thereon.

SUB-STRUCTURE FOR TANK.

The trestle or sub structure supporting the tank shall be of sufficient height to give the tank an elevation of sixteen (16) feet to its bottom from the top of masonry, or sufficient to bring it on a level with the old tanks. More particularly described, this sub-structure shall consist of the following: seven (7) 12x12 sills; resting on the foundation walls properly imbedded in cement; twenty-one (21) upright posts 12x12; five (5) cap sills 12x14, all as shown in elevation drawing. At the top and bottom of each of the twenty-one (21) upright posts shall be cast iron plates or caps 12x14 and ¾ thick, each plate having two spurs one (1) inch in diameter on each side of plate. Holes of the proper size shall be bored into the ends of the posts and into the sills to receive these spurs. The sub structure shall be properly braced with sixteen (16) sets of 6x8 braces, and the same being held into position by sixteen (16) 1 girt rods, the same being provided with nut and cast washer on each end. At the point of intersection each set of braces shall be securely bolted with ¾ bolts. There shall be twelve 6x10 ties firmly held in position by as many 1 girt rods between the twelve outside posts and the ones opposite to which they stand. The object of these ties is to prevent any possible buckling of the twelve outside posts.

TANK, TANK SUPPORT, ROOF AND FROST PROOF FINISH.

The tank shall be made of 3 clear, soft, white pine; the staves shall be sixteen (16) feet long and not to exceed eight (8) inches in width, and the bottom thirty (30) feet in diameter. The hoops shall be made of the best quality of band iron and of the following sizes: 1 hoop, 6x3-16; 1 hoop 5½x3-16; 3 hoops, 5x3-16; 3 hoops, 4½x3-16; 3 hoops, 4x3-16; 2 hoops, 3½x3-16; 1 hoop, 3x3-16; Total, fourteen hoops. Each hoop shall be provided with three sets of lugs and bolts for fastening. The tank shall be machine made having sawed joints which must be perfect, the crozing in the staves being cut on a circle to conform to the shape of the tank bottom. 4x12 main joist shall rest on the 12x14 cap sills of the number and length to form the octagon platform as shown by plan of support. On top of these main joist shall be laid a matched flooring, and on this flooring and directly over [illegible] of the bottom of the tank, shall be placed the 3x6 sub joist of the number and length also indicated in the plan of support. A water-table shall be formed around the base of tank, being covered with dressed and matched flooring. 2x8 joist shall be used over tank, supported at centers by an 8x8 post, projecting two (2) feet beyond tank to form a finish for roof. The roof shall consist of 2x4 rafters, being covered with 1 inch common boards surfaced one side and the best quality of Star A Shingles.

A roof ornament shall be placed at the apex of roof, being supported by four brackets, and an indicator properly placed in position for the purpose of registering the quantity of water contained in the Tank.

The ends of the 4x12 main joist under Tank, and 2x8 joist over Tank, shall have plancher, facier and moulding finish. Beneath the 2x8 joist over Tank there shall be a ceiling of ⅞th dressed and matched flooring. A manhole shall be cut through the roof so that there will be no leak, provided with suitable cover, and a double trap door shall be made through the ceiling over tank.

The Frost Proof Finish shall be constructed as follows: A thick layer of thin mortar shall be flowed on the flooring beneath Tank, also over ceiling above Tank thereby filling all cracks and crevices, thus forming non-conducting packings and dead air spaces.

The Frost Proof Boxing for pipes leading to and from Tank, shall consist of three sets of boxings as follows: There shall be a double inner boxing consisting of 4x4 corners and matched flooring, the other one being made by ceiling or siding up on the inside of the eight posts surrounding the pipes with matched flooring and tarred paper, all as shown by drawings herewith. Suitable trap doors shall be provided for the purpose of giving access to the pipes.

A neat ladder shall be constructed to lead from the ground to the water-table, thence extending from base of Tank to roof, also from man-hole to bottom of Tank on the inside, all in accordance with the plan herewith.

Painting: All exposed surfaces, except roof, shall be dressed and painted with two good coats of Mineral Paint.

Pipes and Fittings: There shall be properly placed in position a 6 inch Tank Connection for Cast Iron Pipe, together with three lengths, (36 feet), of 6-inch 30 pound Pipe; with Elbow, Gate Valve, Valve Box, T Handle for opening Valve and the special Fittings required with which to connect the principal street main.

There shall also be provided and placed in position suitable Pipe and Fittings with which to connect Pump and Tank. There shall also be placed in position for temporary use the necessary Pipe and Fittings for the purpose of transferring such water as will gravitate from the old to the new Tank.

All excavating for Pipe work is to be done by the village.

General: It is the sense of these Specifications to cover the work complete, with connections to the point where the principal main will be extended. The same is to be done in a first-class and workmanlike manner and subject to the approval of the official under whose supervision it is erected.

On motion the President and Recorder pro tem were directed to execute said contract for the council.

On motion the President and Recorder pro tem were appointed a committee to procure the tank site.

UNFINISHED BUSINESS.

The finance committee reported favorably upon all of above claims presented. Accepted and adopted and orders directed drawn for the several amounts.

Council then adjourned.

A. E. KENNEDY,
Recorder, pro tem.

"My only Family Medicine."

"I have been a user of Simmons Liver Regulator for many years, having made it my own Family Medicine. It is a pure, good and reliable medicine. My mother before me was very partial to it.

"I find the Regulator very safe, harmless and reliable as a Family Medicine, and have used it for any disorder of the system and found it to act like a charm. I believe if it was used in time it would prove a great preventive of sickness. I have often recommended it to my friends and shall continue to do so.

"REV. JAS. M. ROLLINS,
"Pastor M. E. Church, South, Fairfield, Va. "To J. H. Zeilin & Co., Philadelphia."

Used by the United States Government. Endorsed by the heads of the Great Universities as the Strongest, Purest, and most Healthful. Dr. Price's the only Baking Powder that does not contain Ammonia, Lime or Alum. Sold only in cans. PRICE BAKING POWDER CO. NEW YORK. CHICAGO. ST. LOUIS.

MARRIED.

DEUEL—AMES.—At the residence of the bride's parents in Tecumseh, by Rev. J. M. Gelchell on Tuesday evening, Sept. 27, 1887, Mr. Finley B. Deuel and Miss Florence A. Ames, both of this place.

TRANN—HEESEN.—At Tecumseh, at the residence of the bride's father, Wednesday night, Sept. 28th, by Rev. Wm. H. Babbitt, John L. Trann, of St. Louis, Missouri, to Miss Della Heesen, of Tecumseh.

TIME SCHEDULE.

MAIL CLOSES.		MAIL ARRIVES.
	L. S. & M. S.—SOUTH.
7:00 a.m.		7:20 a.m.
3:20 p.m.		3:40 p.m.
	NORTH.
10:15 a.m.		9:15 a.m.
	C. J. & M. R.R.—WEST.
9:35 a.m.		10:00 a.m.
		7:02 p.m.
	EAST.
9:15 a.m.		9:35 a.m.
2:35 p.m.		3:00 p.m.

C. A. STACY, P. M.

N. W. AYER & SON
ADVERTISING AGENTS
TIMES BUILDING PHILADELPHIA
Cor. Chestnut and Eighth Sts.
Receive Advertisements for this Paper.
ESTIMATES For NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING FREE
Send 10c. in stamps for AYER & SON'S MANUAL

ADVERTISING contracts made for THIS PAPER, which is kept on file with LORD & THOMAS, Advertising Agents, Chicago.

THIS PAPER is on file in Philadelphia at the Newspaper Advertising Agency of Messrs. N. W. AYER & SON, our authorized agents.

CLOTHING
Clothing! Clothing!
FALL AND WINTER OF '87 & '88
STRONG & McNAIR
Are in daily receipt of new and seasonable goods of every variety of style and quality.
1000 Suits just Received
New Cloths, New Hats, New Underwear
Everything New.
The Largest Assortment in the market. We cannot be undersold. No trouble to show goods.
STRONG & McNAIR

TO MAKE ROOM FOR OUR FALL STOCK OF
GLASSWARE. GLASSWARE. GLASSWARE. GLASSWARE.
CHINA CHINA
GLASSWARE. GLASSWARE. GLASSWARE. GLASSWARE.
We will sell best English White Ware
Plates, 50c to 80c per doz.
Pitchers, 10c to 35c each.
Toilet Sets, $1.90.
56 Piece Tea Set, $2.50.
H. E. ANDERSON

BIG BARGAINS IN BOOKS AND BIBLES
AT CODDINGTON'S.

ING
hing!
OF '87 & '88
McNAMARA
seasonable goods and quality.
Received
ew Underw ew.
be undersold. No tru
McNAIR
FALL STOCK OF Z.
ERSON
GLASSWARE
GLASSWARE
NA
White Wa
OKSA
BLE
ON'S.
THE LIGHT-RUNNING
EWHOME
VING MACHINE
FECT IN EVERY PARTICULAR
SEWING MACHINE CO. ORANGE, MASS.
30 UNION SQUARE, N.Y.
ATLANTA, GA. SAN FRANCISCO, CAL. ST. LOUIS, MO.
PAPER is on file in Philadelphia at the Newspaper Advertising Agency of Messrs. N. W. AYER & SON, our authorized agents.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

FOR SALE.—A first-class milk business. Sales of milk two thousand dollars a year. Apply to JAMES W. PATTERSON.

NOTICE.—All persons indebted to the late firm of Coryell & Gripton will confer a favor by settling at the earliest date. Very respectfully, CORYELL & WILLIAMS.
Hudgeway, Sept. 9, '87.

[illegible] horse power engine. [illegible] buy a one horse-tread power. Fifty-five [illegible] buys a splendid Saddle Pony, with saddle [illegible] bridle. Twenty-five dollars buys a single buggy. Five Jersey Heifers for sale cheap. [illegible] year old driving mare for sale on private [illegible] peaches and pears, and 30 August Pigs [illegible]. JOHN T. LAKE, Clinton, Mich.

TO RENT.—A very desirable house, with hard and soft water in the kitchen, good [illegible] and here no [illegible]. Rent low to a [illegible]. For other [illegible] apply. M. MORRISON.
Cor. R. R. and Logan sts.

FOR KALSOMINING and paper hanging leave orders with R. MORRISON.

FOR SALE.—A good, young, gentle, half Jersey cow for sale. Also [illegible] horse. Inquire of Wm. Smith or ABNER WILSON.

DISSOLUTION.—The firm of Coryell & Gripton is this day dissolved by mutual consent, Chas. Gripton having sold his half interest in the hardware store to Henry J. Williams. The new firm of Coryell & Williams will pay all debts and collect all bills due the old firm.
CORYELL & GRIPTON.
Tecumseh, Mich., Sept. 12, '87.

AGENTS WANTED.—Any person who wants paying work as local or traveling agent for warranted nursery stock should apply at once to James E. Mattney, Nurseryman, Rochester, N. Y. No experience is necessary. A complete outfit is furnished free. Steady work the year round, and all stock warranted to go in good condition.

FOR SALE CHEAP.—The residence formerly occupied by Nathan Morse on Ottawa street. Must be sold to settle the estate.
F. B. WOOD, Executor.

SHROPSHIRE RAMS for sale registered and unregistered. ELLIOTT GRAY.

SEED WHEAT.—I have a quantity of very choice Diehl-Mediterranean wheat for seed. Will ship to any person sending bags to put it in at $1.00 per bushel. Sample of the wheat at C. A. Slayton's. ALEX. SHERRARD,
Homer, Mich.

FARM FOR SALE.—I offer my farm in Newburg for sale—149 acres with good buildings and orchard. Will be sold at a bargain. Enquire on the premises or at the HERALD office for particulars. GEO. W. STACY.

10,000 BUSHELS OF APPLES wanted at the Tecumseh Fruit Evaporating Co's. Highest cash price paid. Enquire of Geo. Heesen or DOLPH HEESEN.

FOR SALE.—I have for sale 61¼ acres of timber land situated in section one of the town of Ridgeway. Parties desiring to buy may have either the timber alone, or both together. For further information enquire of
GEO. PRICE, Tecumseh.

FOR SALE.—The property opposite the HERALD office now used as a saloon and residence, and also the house and lot next north. Owners furniture factory. The title to the above property is all right, and terms and payment will be made to suit purchaser. For particulars enquire at HERALD OFFICE.

FOR SALE.—I offer my place for sale cheap, located just west of Abner Wilson's farm on Macon turnpike, in Tecumseh. Good house, barn and two acres of land. For price, etc., etc., call on Abner Wilson or on the undersigned on the premises. Household goods will also be sold.
WILLIAM SMITH.

STEEL SCUFFLERS.—An indispensable tool for farmers and gardeners for attaching to horses and other cultivators. Made from best steel and warranted to work.
F. P. DEMING, Tecumseh, Mich.

WANTED.—One agent in each of the following counties, viz.: Hillsdale, Monroe, Washtenaw and Lenawee, to sell my Spring Bed with elevated head rest. Best bed made. Covered by patent. Exclusive sale to Agent. For terms, apply to J. S. KINNEY, Tecumseh.

Geo. S. Tiffany is engaged this week putting a hot water furnace into C. A. Slayton's residence.

The Whitney family gave a good performance last Saturday evening to a full house. The trapeze and horizontal bar performance was especially fine and the stage performance was up to the average.

While the Lake Shore freight was switching cars on Hayden's side-track last evening, a little child carelessly fell on the track in front of the train when it was backing up. Conductor Stout happened to be on the cars and reached down from the side of the front car and threw the child out from danger, but in doing so his head struck a telegraph pole and he received a terrible scalp wound, but is on duty to-day.

ORANGE BLOSSOMS.

The residence of George Heesen was the scene of a happy social event last evening upon the occasion of the nuptials of Mr. John L. Trana and Miss Julia Heesen. A merry company of nearly one hundred and fifty guests assembled at early eventide, and the time was whiled away in social converse until the hour for the ceremony arrived. Promptly at eight o'clock the happy couple appeared and took their position beneath a floral bell suspended from the ceiling of the bay window in the South parlor. A brief but impressive marriage ritual was pronounced by Rev. W. H. Babbitt, and the usual congratulations followed. Dancing and music succeeded until supper were surfeited. An array of wedding gifts, rich, costly and rare, adorned the parlor tables, many of which came from abroad, and which the bridal pair will treasure during all their future years as remembrances of their many dear friends who are fondly. They took the night flier on the Mackinaw line for Chicago where they will spend a brief honeymoon, thence proceed to St. Louis, Mo., where their future residence will be. The groom lived in Tecumseh at one time and is held in high esteem by his acquaintances here. The bride is a graduate of our High School, a young lady endowed with rich intellectual and womanly accomplishments, a pride of the social circle in which she moved and the idol of her father's home. Sincere are the regrets and tears are the kind speeds that will follow her as she bids farewell to the parental roof to seek a new home in a western state.

THE TECUMSEH HERALD.

TECUMSEH, MICH., SEPT. 29, 1887.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

The Monroe County fair takes place this week.

[illegible] plant fail to advertising.

I. S. Osborn is building another new house at Britton.

President Cleveland will make his western trip on a special train.

H. E. Anderson is always up with the times. Read his new card on the 4th page.

The Tecumseh band are in attendance upon the County fair to-day and to-morrow.

The Blissfield gas well is down about 800 feet. Water is delaying the work considerably.

Vocal and instrumental music have been added to the curriculum of the Hudson High School.

The new firm of Spayde Bros. have a new announcement on the 8th page, which will repay careful perusal.

Lincoln Stevens started for Chicago Tuesday; where he expects to take a position in a telegraph office of that city.

Mr. and Mrs. Hudson Conkling started for Chicago last Tuesday. They took the fast train on the C. J. & M.

Mrs. C. A. Stacy left home on Tuesday, for a few day's visit with her son George at Elgin Ill. She may call on friends in Chicago during her stay.

The heavy rain of last Thursday seriously interfered with the "big day" at the state fair. Many Tecumseh people who intended to go, remained at home.

"Uncle Daniel" T. Lewis was eighty years old last Tuesday. He was in town on Monday and gave the HERALD a call, and seems as young as he was twenty years ago.

Two notable events took place last Tuesday. The new liquor law and the marriage license law went into effect on that day. But this town seems to move along about the same as before.

The M. E. church of Tecumseh, is to be congratulated on the return of Rev. T. G. Potter to this charge. Mr. Potter has done a good work here for the past two years and the conference did a wise thing in returning him.

The Marie Brainard troupe appeared two nights last week at the Opera House. The troupe is a very good one, and the two plays given here were finely presented. They certainly deserved a better house.

W. D. Meeker, of Chicago, is shaking hands with his old Tecumseh acquaintances this week. He still holds his position as cashier of the North Chicago street Railway company, and is likely to remain as long as he wishes to. He has become a fixture there.

Detroit lost two games to Philadelphia last week, and Chicago has won three straight games of Washington. Detroit has a good lead, the figures being 71 won and 40 lost. Chicago has lost 43 and won 64. Detroit can lose the pennant, and possibly may, but it is hardly probable.

M. P. Brown, the popular photographer, is arranging his business to leave Tecumseh about Nov. 1st to take up his residence in southern California. To close out his large stock of frames and albums he offers them at a great sacrifice. Parties desiring pictures from old negatives, or new sittings, should secure them at once.

Cultivate in your children the habit of reading. We know of no better way to offset the evil influences surrounding them than to furnish them with interesting and instructive reading matter. The long winter evenings are approaching, when they will have an opportunity to store away a large amount of useful knowledge. Give them a chance to do so. Subscribe for the HERALD at once.

Members of the G. A. R. and W. R. C. tendered Mr. and Mrs. A. Spayde a surprise on Wednesday evening of last week, and it was a surprise in every particular. Mr. Spayde was invoicing goods, while Mrs. Spayde was out for an evening's call, and a good deal of reconnoitering had to be done before the latter's wherabouts was discovered. The evening was passed very pleasantly, the large number in attendance showing the esteem in which the family is held by members of the above organizations. The Cornet Band tendered a serenade during the evening.—Homer Index.

Rev. W. J. Stoutenburg, died suddenly at his home in Marlette of heart disease on the 23d inst. He was editor of the Marlette Leader, and was at one time pastor of the Presbyterian churches at Tecumseh and Monroe, and has preached considerably since. He was popular and well-known throughout the state, and leaves a wife and three children. He was 53 years of age. The deceased was a favorite during his residence in Tecumseh, and has a host of old friends now living here who will learn of his demise with heartfelt regret.

L. L. Bates, wife and daughter have been visiting a few days in Jackson.

Mrs. Oscar Palmer has been visiting friends in Jackson during the past week.

Mrs. Will Anderson and children have been visiting relatives in Mendon the past week.

Ladies ask your grocer for Absolute Spices, 100 per cent pure. Put up in ¼ and ½ lb. paper boxes.

Dr. L. Barnes is now prepared to attend to calls in the country. He has built a new barn back of his residence, purchased a horse and buggy and other necessary articles.

H. F. Whitmore, who has been spending several weeks with his sister Mrs. J. M. Erskine, has returned to Columbus, N. Y., taking with him a horse purchased of Garlinghouse Bros.

Bert Farran, of Raisin, has accepted a position in the public schools of Michigamme. Bert has done himself credit in Raisin. We wish him success in his new field.

The annual report of the Commissioner of Pensions for 1887 is at hand. It contains a vast amount of valuable statistical matter. Lenawee County has 731 pensioners, who received during the last fiscal year $28,587.

The High School graduating class of next June has seven members, viz: Mamie Osborn, Minnie Rector, Mary Adkins, Milburn Keyser, Claude Van Tine, Clarence Monaghan, Eugene Tremaine. It is a good class and we trust they will all hang on.

The Daily Ypsilantian has been swung to the breeze by Smith and Powers, the proprietors. It is a seven column folio, well edited and a model of typographical excellence. The residents of the "Queen City" owe it to themselves to give the new venture a liberal support.

"Unexpected goodness from Improbable Places and Conditions," subject of next Sunday morning's sermon at 10:30 at the Universalist church. Text, John 1.46. Mr. A. A. Stearns, of Cleveland, O., will speak in the evening at the usual hour on "A Higher Education." Don't miss hearing Mr. Stearns. All welcomed.

Attention is called to the advertisement of Wm. Reid, Detroit, Mich., Carter White Lead. This Lead is corroded by a new process, being first reduced to atoms, and the lead is warranted to cover one-third more surface than any other White Lead. Mr. Reid stands ready to prove this statement.

A late number of the Lowell, Mass. Times speaks very favorably of the "Floy Crowell Co.," which played at the opera house in that city, and made special mention of Mr. Asa Stevens, who is a member of the company. We are glad to hear that he is making such favorable progress in his profession. The company is playing the comedy, entitled "Jess."

Mrs. Carrie M. Saviers of St. Louis, Mrs. Mary Church of Detroit and Mrs. Hattie Brooks of East Saginaw, daughters of Mrs. Perley Bills, have been spending the past week at the old home, enjoying a family reunion. Mrs. Church and family start next week for a trip to Europe.

Boom! Boom!! Boom!!! Wake up every body and look out for the boom. If you would belong to Gideon's Band, stick your money into land. Your fortune is at once begun when you buy a lot of Patterson. These lots are full size, six rods front by twelve deep. They are located on Patterson street in the healthiest and most desirable part of the village and will be sold at public auction on Saturday, Oct. 8th.

JAMES W. PATTERSON.

We, the undersigned, agree to close our respective places of business at half past seven o'clock each evening, from October 3d, 1887 to April 1st 1888, except Saturdays and Holiday week. We also agree to pay 25c each month to apply on expense of ringing Council bell, for signal to close.

Dated at Tecumseh, Sept. 27th, 1887.

Satterthwaite Bros. & Boyd.
W. & S. W. Anderson & Co.
Strong & McNair.
Whitenack, Bordine & Co.
Geo. Heesen.
Wm. McCowen.
J. S. Kinney.
M. E. Gainsley.
Spayde Bros.
W. V. Wimple.
H. Nyland.
Harris & Hitesho.
Wilson & Son.

Mr. and Mrs. Alva Spayde and daughter Bessie, left yesterday for Tecumseh, where Mr. Spayde, in company with his brother, W. G., will open a clothing house. Mr. Spayde has been a resident of this place for several years, during which time being the senior member of the firm of Spayde & Linn, clothiers and dealers in boots and shoes, Mr. Spayde having special charge of the clothing department, the firm doing a fine business, the house becoming a leading business institution here. The people of Tecumseh are to be congratulated upon the accession to their midst of a live, wide awake business man and his estimable family who will take with them to their new home the well wishes of a host of friends.—Homer Index.

The shipments of celery from this station are increasing every day.

Jeremiah Hendryx went to Chicago last Tuesday for a few days stay.

Levi Hayden started for Boston this morning where he will attend school.

Mrs. Ida Hale, returned last Saturday from a visit to relatives east.

Remember James W. Patterson's Auction sale of village lots next week Saturday.

The Band took the morning train this morning with a full complement of men to attend the County fair.

Will H. Hayden took a header from his bicycle one day last week and has been nursing a dislocated elbow since.

Our friend John L. Trana, had the honor of procuring the first marriage license in this county, under the new law.

The deaf-mute son of Hiram Westcott was taken to the deaf-mute school at Flint last Monday, where he will receive an education.

Mrs. Ed. Snedicor started Monday for Cleveland. She expects to be gone several weeks visiting friends in that city, in Akron and other places.

Chas Albaugh, and Burt Garlinhouse have shipped in a car load of very fine potatoes which they are selling out to the farmers. They came from Western New York.

W. A. Richards of Milwaukee paid Tecumseh a flying visit last Tuesday. He is now engaged in the mining business and report says he has struck it rich.

The M. E. church of Addison, have received ninety-eight new converts within the past year. They should have managed to gather in two more and made it an even hundred.

Four coach loads full of passengers for the County fair went down the Branch this morning, and teams without number were passing through the village between 7 and 10 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. N. Gowdy have returned to Monroeville Ohio, to reside, where they formerly lived. Their daughter, Mrs. Earl, will also live with them. Their many friends will regret exceedingly to have them leave Tecumseh.

The South-eastern Michigan Christian Conference will convene at the Ridgeway Christian Church in Lenawee county on Thursday at 10 o'clock, A. M., Sept. 29, 1887. All are cordially invited to participate in our deliberation. H. SHORT, Sec.

Workmen are engaged putting in the heating and ventilating appliances at the Clinton woolen mills, and larger and more powerful electric lights are being substituted for those first used in the weave room, the first lights tried not being powerful enough for the weavers, who required a very bright light.

Prohibitionists have obtained injunctions against seven saloons in Dubuque, Iowa, and are so encouraged with their success that they have applied for similar proceedings against forty-seven others. The applications come before the district court next month. Strong hopes are entertained of being able to close up all the saloons, and the keepers of such places are very uneasy.

SCRIBNER'S MAGAZINE for October has for its leading article a richly illustrated description of "The Paris School of Fine Arts," by Henry O. Avery, who is a graduate of that institution, and therefore writes from abundant knowledge and with true appreciation. The article opens with a brief sketch of the founding and growth of the school, describes the architectural beauties of the buildings, and gives an interesting insight into the methods of instruction, and the system of prizes which creates such intense competition among the one thousand students. The illustrations were made from the handsome photographs of the buildings which are exclusively made by the French Government.

HYMENIAL.

The many friends of the Hon. William H. Wiggins, of Adrian township, have noticed that his ordinarily friendly smile and greeting have gradually changed, of late, to a sort of ecstatic chuckle and self congratulatory grin, and a more convulsive clutch of the numerous hands which are daily extended to him to shake. They are able to account for this now, and, in a limited degree, join with the ex-representative in felicitations. At 7:30 o'clock last evening, at the house of Rev. J. S. Holmes, Mrs. Sarah A. Stevenson became Mrs. William H. Wiggins. Nobody could say enough good things about the groom to satisfy his friends, who know him, and a higher compliment could not be paid the bride who is a daughter of Hon. A. D. Hall, of Tecumseh, than to say she is eminently worthy of her husband. The happy couple left for Jackson on their wedding trip last evening.

The above is clipped from the Adrian Times. The HERALD begs leave to add its hearty congratulations.

Get rid of that tired feeling quick as possible. Take Hood's Sarsaparilla, which gives strength, a good appetite, and health.

CLIPPINGS AND CONDENSATIONS.

September is nearly gone and Clayton has'nt received an oyster yet.

Clayton claims to own fifty acres of the best onions in the state. Whew!

John Exelby has sold his interest in the Exelby House at Britton, to his brother George.

[illegible] son, has been chosen as Presiding Elder of the Detroit district.

Ridgeway and Wolf Creek will have it out on the Lawrence Park diamond at Adrian, Oct. 1st or 8th.

The Knights of Labor will hold a rally on Saturday next, Oct. 1st, at Brazee's Landing, Devil's Lake.

L. E. Wheeler, of Ionia, expects soon to obtain a position as scenic artist in one of the Chicago theaters.

The session laws of 1887 have been received at the office of the County Clerk and are ready for distribution.

Receiver Payne is awaiting the arrival of the promised per cent, wherewith to partially reimburse the Adrian savings bank depositors.

The Blissfield base ball club will not enter in the tournament during the county fair, because they cannot raise the $10 necessary to deposit before competing.

The conundrum now is: Will the village side walks be repaired before snow flies? This subject has got to be a chronic one, but nevertheless is a very pertinent one.—Blissfield Advance.

Postmaster Stearns' horse was put in the pound, this morning, for being loose on the street.—Adrian Times.

Well, well. How does it happen that a Lenawee County editor owns a horse? Has Bro. Stearns lost a rich uncle lately?

Joseph Exelby had his clover seed thrashed out Tuesday and had an immense yield for the amount of clover. From one load he got 9 bushels and 31 lbs. of seed. Jas. Shurtz's machine did the work in just 50 minutes and made four stops during the time.—Britton Eagle.

If country newspapers were to publish the names of subscribers who take, read and enjoy and are gratified by, yet refuse to pay for their home papers, the reputation of most communities for moral honesty would depreciate twenty per cent. An editor's labor is seldom esteemed or compensated.—N. Y. Sun.

To which business college will we send the young man? is an important question among parents at the present time. We answer, The Grand Rapids Business College. It is not excelled for thoroughness by any similar institution in the country. Send for COLLEGE JOURNAL. Address, C. G. Swensberg, proprietor, Grand Rapids, Mich.

As Cornelius Hoagland was coming from Tecumseh Monday afternoon with a load of lumber and shingles, when opposite Robert Housman's one of the bunches of shingles that he was sitting on rolled and threw him off, and another bunch following fell on him hurting him quite badly. His horses took fright at his falling and ran away, scattering the lumber and shingles along the road as they ran through Britton but luckily doing no damage.—Britton Eagle.

The editor of the Quincy Herald is also a preacher. Through the columns of his paper he says: "We will marry the first licensed couple who apply to us, free of charge; send them a copy of the Quincy Herald one year for nothing, and if they are not then satisfied, we will throw in a good-sized chromo in the bargain. As to the baby, that will be a future contingency." We know Kittridge and believe that he will do as he agrees.

The immense crowds of people who attend the state fair gives proof of the advantage Jackson has over other places where it has been held. Every facility is afforded exhibitors and spectators in reaching the fair, by freight, express or passenger train, without change, cheaply and quickly. There is no doubt but that should a vote be taken on it, Jackson would be selected by a large majority of the people. The grounds are ample, and there is no city in the state that can accommodate people as well in every way as Jackson; their hotels are large and well kept, and her citizens are willing to do their part towards entertaining visitors.

"Yusef," of the Detroit Free Press, in his report of the State Fair, has this to say of a well known Clinton resident.

Mr. H. D. Cutting, of Clinton, is a machinist, who diverts himself with bees and honey, and has been for a number of years a regular attendant on the state fairs. He is a brother to the editor, Cutting, who made such a rumpus in Mexico a little over a year ago. Conversing with the apiarian about bees he said that a colony would produce sixty to one hundred pounds of honey every year; there are instances reported of 500 pounds, but such things are abnormal. Some beemen reckon the product of five hives to outvalue the product of six cows, and altogether bees are very profitable insects to have about a farm.

OBITUARY.

Died, Sept. 18th, 1887, at the home of her daughter, at Ypsilanti, Elizabeth Graves wife of the late Wm. Graves, of Tecumseh. Services were held at Ypsilanti and the remains were brought to Tecumseh for interment, services also being held at the Presbyterian church, of which she was a member since 1843. Mrs. Graves was born in Delaware county, N. Y., [illegible] ly 81 years old. She was a conscientious consistent christian and after a long illness her death was peaceful and full of Heavenly trust. The angel for her was not bitter or the waters cold. Eight children mourn the loss of one of the truest kindest mothers God ever gave, and now we strive to think of her, not as, when worn and suffering, or as lying in the grave over which the Spring flowers will bloom but as clothed in heavenly raiment and beloved by angels to the endless glory of those who love Him. Her beautiful life and death dwells like a benediction in the memory of her children and friends. A precious memory always. May those who loved her so tenderly have grace given them to overcome their earthborn sorrow, remembering the tender "Good night," she gave them all, and the happy "Good morning" which awaits them at the door of Heaven.

To the choir who were early friends of our mother, and whose kindness was a beautiful tribute to her memory, to the officiating clergyman and all other friends, the family are very grateful.

The County fair this week is panning out well. Tuesday and yesterday were both good days. To-day and to-morrow are expected to be better.

Since Americans are about preparing to invest their money in improving the ways of China, a description of that ancient country and its very old fashioned people seems timely. C. B. Adams, in THE AMERICAN MAGAZINE for October, meets this want with an illustrated article portraying the crowded life of Peking and its vicinity, as seen by an American resident long connected with the United States Legation.

A singularly attractive frontispiece graces the October Magazine of American History. It is a spirited portrait of Daniel Webster, never before published, from a painting in the Long Island Historical Society, accompanied by a clever character study in the body of this excellent monthly, written by Hon. S. G. W. Benjamin, late United States minister to Persia. A galaxy of accomplished authors contribute to the October issue. Ex President Andrews, of Marietta College, discusses a topic of surpassing present interest, "The admission into the Union of Kentucky, Tennessee, Ohio." There are some bright and readable short papers in Minor Topics, Notes and Historic and Social Jottings, and several able book reviews. This popular magazine leads in every important branch of history. Price, $5.00 per year. New York City: 743 Broadway.

—Men, Youths, Boys and All,
Short and solid, lean and tall,
Who need a suit of clothes this fall,
We do invite you now to call,
For we are rolling on the ball,
And you are sure to make a haul,
What'er you purchase, great or small,
If you trade at Union Hall.
GEO. HEESEN.

—Great Bargains in Remnants at W. V. Wimple's Shoe Store.

—See those Misses High Cut Grain School Shoes at W. V. Wimple's.

—Childrens' Spring heel shoes in Pebble Goat, Cur. Kid, and Bright Dongola, at W. V. Wimple's.

—Mrs. N. R. Brown has returned from Cleveland and now has the finest stock of millinery goods of every description that can be seen in town. The latest styles in shapes and trimmed goods, and also a fine assortment of embroidery silks—every color and grade. Call and inspect.

—Reduced Prices for 30 days, at Coddington's.

—Books, fancy box stationery, ladies purses, hand bags, picture frames, albums, etc. at rock bottom prices for the next 30 days to make room for fall goods at Coddington's.

—Picture frames and albums at reduced prices at Coddington's.

—Our location is the finest,
Our facilities the best,
Our experience the Greatest,
Our Prices Reasonable,
Our Work first-class,
And those who try are always suited.
Call and see for yourself.
BROWN the Photographer.

—Go to Coddington's for books and stationery, at greatly reduced prices for the next 30 days to make room for fall trade.

—Sewing machines Needles, oil, and attachments at
M. P. Brown's Art Gallery.

—Call at J. S. Kinney's store and see those fine marble, indestructible caskets on exhibition. Also a new spring bed with elevated head rest. The best in the market for invalids. Manufactured by J. S. Kinney.

—A few back numbers of Harper's Monthly, and other Magazines, for sale at one-half the regular price, at A. J. Coddington's.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

[illegible] WOOD [illegible] Collections and conveyancing. Office over W. [illegible]

C. A. STACY, Attorney at Law and Solicitor in Chancery. Office in Kerrer's Block, Pittsfield, Mich.

PHYSICIANS.

[illegible] BARNES, M.D. [illegible]

H. WOODWARD, M.D. [illegible] SURGEON. [illegible]

MISCELLANEOUS.

HATT MAGHAN, [illegible] Dealer and Hair Dresser, [illegible]

JAMES A. CURRY, Manufacturer and Dealer in [illegible] Harness, [illegible]

[illegible] WATSON [illegible] Office in Kerrer's Block, [illegible]

HOTELS.

BURNETT HOUSE. [illegible] This [illegible] has been thoroughly refitted and refurnished throughout, with elevator and other modern improvements, and is a favorite house for the travelling public. Rates reasonable and graded according to rooms occupied.

CENTRAL HOTEL, ADRIAN, MICH. [illegible] Proprietor. [illegible] Depot, near the post-office. One best [illegible] in the City. First class accommodations and rates reasonable.

LENAWEE CARRIAGE FACTORY

J. R. HIALEY,

MANUFACTURER OF

Carriages, Buggies,

SURRIES, SPRING WAGONS,

ROADCARTS,

SULKIES, CUTTERS, ETC.

Repairing.

TECUMSEH, MICHIGAN

M. L. RICE,

UTICA, MICHIGAN,

Dealer in High Class Thoroughbred Poultry. Eggs for Hatching. Send for Illustrated Circular, Free

W. W. MARSH,

Proprietor of the

Railroad Street Meat Market!

Fresh and Salt Meats constantly on hand.

GIVE ME A CALL

LADIES TREATMENT FREE.

DR. MARY A. CURRIER'S NEW TREATMENT for the diseases of women, endorsed by the most distinguished physicians and nurses, who have witnessed its marvelous results in curing the worst cases in from 1 to 3 days. This class of complaints has hitherto been deemed incurable. Hundreds have suffered long and died who might have been cured by this new treatment. Hundreds now living bear testimony to its wonderful curative powers. Pamphlet with full particulars, testimonials, etc., sent free. Address DR. MARY A. CURRIER, 204 Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill.

NEW TREATMENT for positive cure of Gleet, Stricture, Leucorrhœa, Spermatorrhœa, Impotence, Nervous Debility, Lost Manhood, Premature Decay, Wakefulness, Blood Diseases, Diseases of the Urinary Organs, Piles and Rupture. Regular price $10. Address GREGG REMEDY CO., ATLANTA, N.Y.

SCOTT'S EMULSION OF PURE COD LIVER OIL And Hypophosphites of Lime & Soda

Almost as Palatable as Milk.

The only preparation of COD LIVER OIL that can be taken readily and tolerated for a long time by delicate stomachs.

AND AS A REMEDY FOR CONSUMPTION, SCROFULOUS AFFECTIONS, CHRONIC COUGHS, DEBILITY, COLDS, CHILDREN, DELICATE PERSONS, and all WASTING DISEASES, it is unrivaled. Prepared by SCOTT & BOWNE, New York.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS

TO MACKINAC.

SUMMER TOURS.

Palace Steamers, Low Rates.

Four trips per week, in Excursions.

DETROIT, MACKINAC ISLAND.

Two large steamers, Alpena, Parrysville, and Gold Shell leave Port Huron, St. Clair, Cleveland, Detroit, Manistique.

Every Week Day between

DETROIT AND CLEVELAND.

Sundays trips during June and August.

OUR ILLUSTRATED PAMPHLETS, containing full information, Maps, etc., furnished by your ticket agent, or address

E. A. WHITCOMB, Gen'l Pass. Agent, Detroit & Cleveland Steam Nav. Co.

N. W. AYER & SON ADVERTISING AGENTS TIMES BUILDING PHILADELPHIA

Cor. Chestnut and Eighth Sts.

Are the Advertisement Agents for this Paper.

ESTIMATES for NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING at Lowest Cash Rates FREE

Send 10c. in Stamps for AYER & SON'S MANUAL

MOVING ON ST. LOUIS.

FRIENDLY INVASION OF THE BIG BRIDGE CITY BY VETERANS.

Advance Guards of the Great Host That Will Attend the G. A. R. Encampment Received with Loud Acclaim—Californians Keeping Open House—Preparations for the Festivities—Description of the Decorations.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 27.—If the pulse of many of the city reporters pounded to spasmodic action from Monday morning until Friday night, it was a great pity they learned of the Sunday editions. It was a pity because, if it was a pity, the reporters, poor fellows, did not have time to do anything else but chase after the vanguard of the veteran army and keep up with the procession. Every hotel, every boarding house, every private residence, every vacant house, every tent, even and to the very last inch of every foot of ground, was occupied by the veterans. Arrangements had been made with boarding houses in the vicinity of each of the parks used for camps to furnish meals to the troops at a very low rate, but even extraordinary efforts have been required so that the soldiers will not suffer for what is most a scarcity of drinking water will be placed in each park and every necessary convenience provided, including guards to protect the tents and baggage. The tents and straw are free, and the expense of camps alone has been over $20,000.

Washington park, situated in the heart of the city, has been set aside for the use of the Kansas veterans, who will come from 1,000 to 1,500 strong. Over each of the four entrances to this park handsomely decorated arches have been erected, with the word "Kansas" on each. This park has also been day, girl at a park. Huzzas from thousands of throats greeted them as they alighted from their trains, and the marched to their respective headquarters under huntersloo arches and through miles of gaily decorated streets was one continual ovation. It was a great Sunday and a memorable one for those of its guests who had fought and bled that the union might be preserved.

G. A. R. BADGE.

The train that carried the Wisconsin delegation was the first to arrive. The clock in the city had just striking 8 when it came to a full stop in the Union station. There were thousands inside and as many more outside. Seventeen of the boys in blue, forming the special escort to Governor Rusk, alighted from the forward car. Nine of them were minus an arm, two had but one leg apiece, and two were very lame. Back of them followed the following formed the governor and his staff, as their eighteen formed in line, was the Milwaukee contingent of Milwaukee, and as it moved off, escorted at their head, a volume of cheers rent the air and fairly shook the roof of the station. The ovation was repeated when the Wisconsin arrived in front of the Lindell, and a thousand more was given when the escort of the governor and his staff, with the crowd of boys in blue, marched through in single file.

In the ladies' parlor a local committee was in waiting to receive the boys. "Have you any thing you want to do for us?" said Col. D. P. Dyer, the spokesman. "If you don't see anybody to do it, report." The governor promised a unfurling of strategy would be speedily served.

Forty counsellors from Albany, Utica, Syracuse and Buffalo, in court of Department Commander Theodore P. Troubridge, came in on the Empire. With them were a score of members of the Women's Relief Corps. A congregation of the contrabands from New York state will be here. On the same train was a delegation of twenty from the convention of the ex-Prisoners of war held in Chicago last week, with G. W. McIntosh, of the city, at its head. They will present to the national encampment the resolutions adopted by the convention urging the granting of special pensions to ex-prisoners, and will make a strong plea in all.

Six hundred boxes of wine and two carloads of fruit and light refreshments were in the baggage cars on the rear end of the train that brought in the California delegation. The delegation of one of the Dakotas, Nevada, Arizona, and a military company that has been brought into existence by the Sunday claims were represented in the delegation, and a joker could scarcely be unnoticed. The quarters were at a premium, and with Liebig, four hundred boxes of the wine were opened to the public, and a committee was dispatched to notify the proprietors of other hostelries that the California boys were keeping open house. Still another account was appointed to escort and wait on a Grand Army delegation from Arizona. Few of them needed a second invitation, and for the rest of the day and evening standing on the hotel quarters and their appearance was a genuine. There are many who will remember in the delegation, to the wife of Department Commander Rusk, Department Commander G. S. Salomon and wife and Adjutant General Stewart, who telegraphed [illegible] Sherman for a room. The question, they

EXPOSITION AND MUSIC HALL.

[illegible] Kansas and Nebraska veterans [illegible] additional [illegible] arrived [illegible] day. Their trains [illegible] within [illegible] hours of each other. The Californians arrived [illegible] Their headquarters were at each other's headquarters.

I met, [illegible] with many of the delegations, [illegible] in making good [illegible] that a [illegible] to express any [illegible] the national encampment and the [illegible] of the city. [illegible] the question of the Wilkinsburg accident. No Cleveland leaders were arriving over the route of the marching [illegible]. At first, this [illegible] Monday morning [illegible] Maxwell Tribune. Arrangements were made to run for permission to bring the banners of the California, Kansas and other departments on cars attached to the opposite buildings from their headquarters, but in each case a refusal was returned, and attention was called to a city ordinance which imposes a penalty of $5 per day for hanging over the street line any flag or banner, other than the stars and stripes. This law the mayor intends to strictly enforce. The twenty-first national encampment will convene Wednesday.

Making due allowance for possible detentions of veterans, it is estimated that the attendance of members of the G. A. R. and Army of the Tennessee will reach [illegible] to speak [illegible] of members of [illegible] who will be attracted to the city by the occasion. St. Louis has made elaborate preparations to receive, accommodate and entertain this tremendous influx of visitors. As early as last February a committee composed of a number of leading citizens was organized to carry out the arrangements for the encampment, and an appeal being made to the business men of the city nearly $100,000 was raised in one day for voluntary contributions. That the hospitality of the city could not prove equal to the occasion, if it was called on to entertain twenty times the number of guests, was not to be thought of. Accordingly, every [illegible] was put to work, and to-day they stand ready to receive their guests. Arrangements have been made with boarding houses in the vicinity of each of the parks used for camps to furnish meals to the troops at a very low rate, and where there were not sufficient culinary utensils have been provided, so that the soldiers will not suffer for what is most a scarcity of drinking water will be placed in each park and every necessary convenience provided, including guards to protect the tents and baggage. The tents and straw are free, and the expense of camps alone has been over $20,000.

Washington park, situated in the heart of the city, has been set aside for the use of the Kansas veterans, who will come from 1,000 to 1,500 strong. Over each of the four entrances to this park handsomely decorated arches have been erected, with the word "Kansas" on each. This park has also been provided with a large tent for national headquarters, and the tents of the headquarters of each department. It will be the center of information. The veterans of Illinois, over 7,000 in number, will occupy Lyon park, in the southern part of the city, as well as Concordia park adjoining. Missouri's 5,000 soldiers have been assigned to Hyde park, the Iowa veterans to Carr park, the visitors from Nebraska to Jackson place, those from Indiana to St. Louis park, and a miscellaneous assortment from other states to Lindell park.

GRAND TRIUMPHAL ARCH.

The decoration of the different halls where meetings and entertainments will be held, and the streets, has been executed on the most elaborate scale. The halls at the Lindell, the merchants' exchange, and the exposition building, where the sessions of the encampment are to be held, are literally lined with flags, bunting, shields, pictures of generals, and varieties of military decorations. The halls where the local posts of the G. A. R. will hold their receptions day and night are also lavishly decorated. The greatest feature of the decorations, however, is the arch which spans Olive street where it is crossed by Twelfth. The arch is sixty-eight feet in height. In the center, just above the key stone is an illuminated equestrian painting of Gen. Grant, of large size, with a shield and flags artistically grouped beneath it. Above the painting, on top of the arch, is a group, a charioteer with chariot and four horses. From the top of each end of the arch is immense flag floats in the breeze, while at the base of each flag staff is a group, the one on the south side being a soldier standing by a cannon, and the one on the north side is a sailor and sailor gun. A few steps east of the arch is the reviewing stand, adorned with flags, drapery of bunting, eagles, medals of the G. A. R. badges, etc., on which the commander-in-chief, Gen. Lucius Fairchild, will stand, with such distinguished veterans as he may see fit to invite, and review the veterans as they march by the stand.

ST. LOUIS BRIDGE.

The street decorations, however, will pale into insignificance by the side of the illumination. Along Fourth street, Broadway, Olive street, Locust street, Washington avenue, and Franklin avenue run continuous lines of gas jets with globes of red, white and blue on each side of the street, with great trees of colored lights at intervals of twenty feet. Broadway is separated from Clark avenue to Franklin avenue by fifteen immense triumphal arches, transparencies in the center of each bearing and each bearing appropriate inscriptions. On Washington avenue and Olive street the arches are of different patterns and colors. On Fourth street, at the intersection of Olive street, an arch has been erected with an illuminated picture of Grant, and on the same street at the intersection of Washington avenue is another arch bearing an illuminated picture of Lincoln. A triple arch at Fourteenth street and Washington avenue is surmounted by a huge figure of the American eagle, spreading gas jets, and hundreds bring the total to [illegible]

FIRES AND OTHER ACCIDENTS.

[illegible] at Ottawa, Ill., was destroyed by fire Monday afternoon, [illegible] at Albion, Mich., recently, [illegible] several business places has caused of [illegible]

In the [illegible] of the week upon the occasion of Lord Dufferin's departure at Quebec, Sept. 19, [illegible] were expended. They are [illegible] in the history of [illegible] in the Dominion.

Almost [illegible] Bellaire was burned in Friday morning. Loss, $[illegible]; insured for [illegible] cent. Cause, [illegible]

Cypress Wax [illegible] flour mill at Albany was destroyed by fire Wednesday night. Loss, $[illegible]; insured for [illegible]

Fish & Cowell's [illegible] Dubuque, Ill., [illegible] destroyed Monday morning. Loss, $[illegible]; insured for [illegible]

The hospital [illegible] of the village of Sanford, Fla., was [illegible] out by fire. Loss, $[illegible]

Sanford, Fla., was visited by a fire Friday morning that destroyed almost every business house of consequence in the place. The loss will reach $200,000, with very little insurance.

THE PRESIDENT'S TOUR.

OFFICIAL STATEMENT OF TIMES OF ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE.

What Places He Will Visit and How Long He Will Stay—The Treasury Takes a New Departure in the Bond Business to Reduce the "Stringency"—Complaints [illegible]

Washington, Sept. 27.—The following is a statement of the principal points of the proposed trip of President Harrison, as settled at Washington, from the various sources. The route lies through Cleveland and there Friday, Saturday, Sunday, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, the 4th, 5th, 6th, 7th and 8th, and the parties of the party will be the president, Mrs. Harrison, Secretary Tracy, Postmaster General Wanamaker, Secretary Proctor, Mr. Wilson S. Russell, of Buffalo, N. Y., his former law partner, and Mr. Joseph Bryson, of New York, who was a member of his military staff while governor.

The party will leave Washington by the Pennsylvania railroad Friday, Sept. 30, at 10 p. m., arrive at Indianapolis Saturday, Oct. 1, at 11 a. m. Leave Indianapolis Saturday, Oct. 1, at 3 p. m., arrive at Terre Haute Saturday, Oct. 1, at 5:30 p. m. Leave Terre Haute Saturday, Oct. 1, at 6:35 p. m., arrive at St. Louis Saturday, Oct. 1, at 12 o'clock on night. Leave St. Louis by the Chicago & Alton railroad Tuesday, Oct. 4, at 11 p. m., arrive at Chicago Wednesday, Oct. 5, at 9 a. m. Leave Chicago by the Chicago & Northwestern railroad Thursday, Oct. 6, at 10 a. m., arrive at Milwaukee Thursday, Oct. 6, at 1 p. m. Leave Milwaukee Friday, Oct. 7, at 9 a. m., arrive at Madison Friday, Oct. 7, at 1 p. m. Leave Madison by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road Monday, Oct. 10, at 9 p. m.; arrive at St. Paul Monday, Oct. 10, at 8:30 p. m. Leave St. Paul Tuesday, Oct. 11, at 12 noon; arrive at Minneapolis Tuesday, Oct. 11, at 1 p. m. Leave Minneapolis by the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha railroad Tuesday, Oct. 11, at 8 p. m.; arrive at Omaha Wednesday, Oct. 12, at 11 a. m. Leave Omaha by the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad Wednesday, Oct. 12, at 12 noon; arrive at St. Joseph Wednesday, Oct. 12, at 5:15 p. m. Leave St. Joseph Wednesday, Oct. 12, at 5:45 p. m.; arrive at Kansas City Wednesday, Oct. 12, at 8:15 p. m. Leave Kansas City by the Kansas City, Fort Scott & Gulf railroad Thursday, Oct. 13, at 11 p. m.; arrive at Memphis Friday, Oct. 14, at 6 p. m. Leave Memphis by the Louisville & Nashville railroad Saturday, Oct. 15, at 1 p. m.; arrive at Nashville Saturday, Oct. 15, at 11 p. m. Leave Nashville by the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis and Western & Atlantic railroad Monday, Oct. 17, at 11 a. m.; arrive at Atlanta Monday, Oct. 17, at 11 p. m. Leave Atlanta Wednesday, Oct. 19, at 12 o'clock midnight; arrive at Montgomery Thursday, Oct. 20, at 8 a. m. Leave Montgomery by the Kennesaw and Western North Carolina routes Thursday, Oct. 20, at 3 p. m.; reach Washington, Saturday, Oct. 22, at 6 a. m.

No stops will be made except at the points above mentioned, and in no instance can the time given to cities where stops are to be made be extended. The fact that the journey is timed to meet hotel engagements will prevent any exceptions to this determination, but through the day, in passing all places of any considerable size the train will be run at a very slow rate of speed. All reception committees have been requested to meet the president at their respective cities instead of en route, as has been proposed in some instances. This is to enable the party to get as much rest and quiet as possible while traveling.

As the suggestion of the president, much proposed speech-making at the places to be visited has been abandoned, and [illegible] important feature in the programme [illegible] place will be carriage rides about the cities over previously announced routes, which will gratify his desire to see the [illegible] their population and [illegible] president without their [illegible] attending crowds from [illegible] stations.

Formal acceptances of the invitations to these cities will now be made, [illegible] having been impossible on account of uncertainty as to the route and dates.

AN OFFER FOR BONDS.

The President Has a Price Fixed for Their Purchase—The "Stringency."

Washington City, Sept. 27.—The following circular has been issued, signed by the secretary of the treasury:

"On and after this date the government will purchase bonds called for Oct. 8, 1887, at the office of the secretary of the treasury, to be applied to the sinking fund, United States 4½ per cent. bonds of 1891, and 4 per cent. bonds of 1907, issued July 14, 1870, and Jan. 20, 1871, upon the following terms: The 4½ per cent. bonds will be accepted at $1.04 during the above stated period, and the 4 per cent. bonds during the remainder of the present month at $1.25 and from Oct. 1 to Oct. 8, 1887, at $1.04, which prices include accrued interest to date of purchase. The aggregate amount of both classes of bonds which will be accepted with at the time above stated is not to exceed $1,000,000. Offers should state the specific character of the bonds, whether registered or coupon. No further bids for bonds provided in circular No. 94, dated Aug. 5, 1887, will be received after this date. Interest due Oct. 1, 1887, on United States bonds, amounting to about $[illegible], will be paid on the 20th inst. with accrued interest."

The above circular is said on good authority to have resulted from suggestions from the president. It has been his desire for several days to have a fixed price announced by the government for the various classes of bonds, and late Wednesday evening he determined to have his plan carried out. This said he did without specifically saying it would be carried out Wednesday, that no action would be taken until the return of Secretary Tracy to Washington.

This measure is believed to have been adopted to remedy the stringency of money, of which much is complaining comes from New York. A telegram from the Philadelphia president of the American Exchange National Bank, one of the most conservative and [illegible] universally, enterprise and activity in the country, who has served a decade and for all the money and has scattered it over a very large [illegible] extent as in former years, has [illegible] causes for [illegible] the country [illegible] the [illegible] treasury. They have the money [illegible]

Interviews continued by many other men in the financial world who were questioned on the subject, though William Dowd, of the Bank of North America, gives another cause, the action of western reserve agents which are withdrawing the cash, and keeping it out of New York. All agree that the administration can remove the trouble by buying bonds.

Mrs. Angie F. Newman, at Lincoln, Neb., Friday, was unanimously elected a delegate to the central conference of the M. E. church, to be held at Brooklyn, N. Y., next May. She is the first lady on whom that honor has been conferred.

SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

DYSPEPSIA

[illegible] the world's [illegible] champion Dyspeptic of America. During the years that I have been afflicted I have tried every [illegible] claimed to be a [illegible] Simmons Liver Regulator by a [illegible] I have used [illegible] I have [illegible] a single word [illegible] as to what I should or should not eat. This fact [illegible] testimonial [illegible] Dyspepsia.

J. N. HOLMES, Vineland, N. J.

CONSTIPATION

To Secure a Regular Habit of Body without changing the Diet or Disorganizing the System, take

SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

The GENUINE manufactured by J. H. ZEILIN & CO., Philadelphia.

CATARRH

ELY'S CREAM BALM CURES COLD IN HEAD, CATARRH, ROSE-COLD, HAY FEVER, DEAFNESS, HEADACHE. PRICE 50 CENTS. ELY BROS. OWEGO, N.Y. U.S.A.

HAY-FEVER

ELY'S CREAM BALM

Cleanses the Nasal Passages, Allays Pain and Inflammation, Heals Sores, Restores the Senses of Taste and Smell.

Try the Cure.

A particle is applied into each nostril and is agreeable. Price 50 cents at Druggists; by mail, registered, 60 cents. ELY BROS., Owego, N. Y.

[illegible]

A [illegible]

[illegible]

Daily, Sun [illegible]

A [illegible]

[illegible]

THE STAR, [illegible] New York.

THE CELEBRATED

'A. P. DICKEY'S" FANNING MILLS

For Farm and Warehouse use for all kind of Grain and Seeds. These Mills are used in every corner of the civilized world, and for cleaning almost everything. They are guaranteed to be superior in all respects to any other Mill made. Address

A. P. DICKEY MFG. CO., Racine, Wis.

Successors to Dickey & Pease. Sole Manufacturers of the TWO SECTION CAST IRON SEED ROLLER and "FEARLESS CORN" SHELLER. These goods are widely considered among the best made.

PENNYROYAL WAFERS.

Prescription of a physician, who has had a life long experience in treating female diseases. Is used monthly with perfect success by over [illegible] Pleasant, safe, effectual. Ladies ask your druggist for Pennyroyal Wafers and take no substitute, or inclose postage for sealed particulars. Sold by all druggists, $1 per box. Address THE FIPPEN CHEMICAL CO., DETROIT, MICH.

JAS. H. POTTER,

Manufacturer of all kinds of

FURNITURE!

Under work a specialty. Orders done to order.

THIS P[illegible] NEW YORK.

ESTATE OF GARRETT ATEN.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee.

At a session of the Probate Court for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate office, in the City of Adrian, on Saturday, the 17th day of September, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven.

Present, Norman Geddes, Judge of Probate.

In the matter of the estate of Garrett Aten, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of Charles Burridge, administrator, with the will annexed, upon said estate, praying for license to sell the real estate of said deceased in said petition described or so much thereof as may be necessary for the payment of debts, legacies, and expenses of administration, as set forth in said petition.

It is ordered, That Monday, the 24th day of October next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be held at the Probate office, in the City of Adrian, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of said petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the TECUMSEH HERALD, a newspaper printed and circulating in said County, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

A True Copy.

NORMAN GEDDES, Judge of Probate.

A. H. BARNUM, Probate Register.

ESTATE OF JOSEPH W. [illegible]

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee.

At a session of the Probate Court for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate office, in the City of Adrian, on Monday, the [illegible] day of September, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven.

Present, Norman Geddes, Judge of Probate.

In the matter of the estate of Joseph [illegible], deceased.

On reading and filing the petition of [illegible], executor of the last will and testament of said deceased, alleging that [illegible] and expenses and debts of said deceased, and the expenses of administration, have been paid, and praying that said executor may be allowed an assignment of the residue of said estate in accordance with the provisions of said will, and that he may be discharged and his bond cancelled.

It is ordered, That Monday, the [illegible] day of October next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be held at the Probate office, in the City of Adrian, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of said petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the TECUMSEH HERALD, a newspaper printed and circulating in said County, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

NORMAN GEDDES, Judge of Probate.

A True Copy.

A. H. BARNUM, Probate Register.

ESTATE OF THOMAS R. G[illegible]

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee.

At a session of the Probate Court for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate office, in the City of Adrian, on Tuesday, the [illegible] day of September, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven.

Present, Norman Geddes, Judge of Probate.

In the matter of the estate of Thomas R. [illegible], deceased.

On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of Thomas R. [illegible], executor of the last will and testament of said deceased, praying that he may be licensed to sell the real estate of said deceased in said petition described, for reasons therein set forth.

It is ordered, That Monday, the [illegible] day of October next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be held at the Probate office, in the City of Adrian, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of said petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the TECUMSEH HERALD, a newspaper printed and circulating in said County, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

NORMAN GEDDES, Judge of Probate.

A True Copy.

A. H. BARNUM, Probate Register.

COMMISSIONERS' NOTICE.

[illegible] deceased.

The undersigned, [illegible] were appointed by the Judge of Probate of the County of Lenawee, Michigan, commissioners to examine and adjust all claims and demands against the estate of [illegible] deceased, we do notice that we will meet for that purpose at the store of S. [illegible], in the village of Tecumseh, Lenawee county, Michigan, on the first day of October, 1887, and on the ninth day of March, 1888, at 9 o'clock in the forenoon of each of said days.

Dated August 31, 1887.

CHARLES [illegible], WILLIAM G. [illegible], Commissioners.

MORTGAGE SALE.

[illegible] of November, 1871, John [illegible] executed to William Wealthy [illegible] a certain mortgage on that tract or parcel of land situate in the township of Palmyra, county of Lenawee, and described as follows, viz: [illegible] quarter of section twenty-eight, south, of range three [illegible] forty-six acres of land more or less, to secure the payment of seven hundred dollars in one year from date with interest at ten per cent. annually, which said mortgage has been duly recorded, and upon said mortgage there was one of Seven Hundred Dollars, dated 1879, and one of Three Hundred and [illegible] dollars, dated [illegible], said mortgages on the 5th day of November, 1881, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the county of Lenawee in Liber [illegible] of mortgages, pages 681, 682, and 683, default has been made in the conditions of said mortgage by which the power of sale in said mortgage contained has become operative. There is now claimed to be due and unpaid on said mortgage the sum of [illegible] hundred and eighty-six and [illegible] cents, and no proceedings have been instituted to recover the same at law or in equity. Notice is hereby given that, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, the said premises described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy said mortgage, with the interest and costs of sale, will be sold at public vendue, at the house of [illegible], in said village of Tecumseh, on the [illegible] day of November, 1887, at [illegible] o'clock in the afternoon of said day, subject to the right of redemption in the heirs or assigns of said mortgagor.

Dated August 31, 1887.

JERRY BOSHER, Assignee of Mortgage.

WILLIAM W. [illegible], Attorney for Assignee.

MORTGAGE SALE.

[illegible] of November, 1871, John [illegible] executed to William Wealthy [illegible] a certain mortgage on that tract or parcel of land situate in the township of Palmyra, county of Lenawee, and described as follows, viz: [illegible] quarter of section twenty-eight, south, of range three [illegible] forty-six acres of land more or less, to secure the payment of seven hundred dollars in one year from date with interest at ten per cent. annually, which said mortgage has been duly recorded, and upon said mortgage there was one of Seven Hundred Dollars, dated 1879, and one of Three Hundred and [illegible] dollars, dated [illegible], said mortgages on the 5th day of November, 1881, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the county of Lenawee in Liber [illegible] of mortgages, pages 681, 682, and 683, default has been made in the conditions of said mortgage by which the power of sale in said mortgage contained has become operative. There is now claimed to be due and unpaid on said mortgage the sum of [illegible] hundred and eighty-six and [illegible] cents, and no proceedings have been instituted to recover the same at law or in equity. Notice is hereby given that, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, the said premises described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy said mortgage, with the interest and costs of sale, will be sold at public vendue, at the house of [illegible], in said village of Tecumseh, on the [illegible] day of November, 1887, at [illegible] o'clock in the afternoon of said day, subject to the right of redemption in the heirs or assigns of said mortgagor.

Dated August 31, 1887.

JERRY BOSHER, Assignee of Mortgage.

WILLIAM W. [illegible], Attorney for Assignee.

N.Y. & N.E. SHOE MFRS. SELLING AGCY. 182 JEFF. AVE. DETROIT. WRITE FOR PRICE LIST. BOOTS SHOES RUBBERS & FELTS

ADVERTISING contracts made for THIS PAPER, which is kept on file with LORD & THOMAS, Advertising Agents, Chicago.

DR. A. FRASER'S MAGNETIC OINTMENT.

The Great Healer of all Inflamed Injuries and Disorders.

It is constantly effecting the most wonderful cures while the unparalleled demand with which it meets, stamps it at once as the greatest medicine of the age for outward application.

The most incredulous are convinced, and the medical profession are compelled to believe in the virtues of this great remedy.

WHAT IT CURES.

Bruises, Cuts, Bruises, Sprains, Burns, Sore Throat, Lameness, Rheumatism, Piles, Inflammation of Lungs and Bowels, Bronchitis, Croup, Salt Rheum, Chilblains, Affection of the Spine, Erysipelas, Nervous Irritation, and all disorders attended with inflammation.

It never fails to restore the natural functions of the skin and equalize the circulation of the blood. This means a controlling power is gained over the most malignant forms of disease. It penetrates every portion of the human frame; every bone, muscle, vein, nerve and ligament is reached and made sensible to its soothing and healing influence. Hence it copes readily with internal as well as external diseases.

Over 40 Years.

This ointment has been used by the people throughout the United States, and our confidence in its qualities is such that as we have no space to insert any of the numerous certificates of cures which we have from all parts of the country we simply ask those readers of this notice who have ever used this ointment, to frankly test their experience with it to inquiring friends. If one in a hundred would do this we should be perfectly satisfied with the result. Full directions for use will be found on pamphlet around each bottle.

Prices 25 and 50 cents per bottle. Sold by all dealers in medicine.

DR. RANSOM, SON & CO., Prop's
Buffalo, New York.

THE ELDREDGE "B"

SEWING MACHINE with Automatic Self-threading Bobbin Winder and Shuttle.

No. 3.

The ELDREDGE "B" is sold with the guarantee of being the BEST that can be MADE.

AGENTS WANTED.

ELDREDGE MANUFACTURING CO.
363 and 365 WABASH AVE., CHICAGO, ILL.

B. F. STEINHOFF'S Dental Rooms.

OVER BAKER & HALL'S.
GAS FOR EXTRACTING.
ITS LOWEST PRICES for THE BEST WORK

PATENTS!

Patents, Trade Marks and Copyrights

Obtained, and all other business in the U.S. Patent Office attended to for MODERATE FEES.

Our office is opposite the U. S. Patent Office, and we can obtain Patents in less time than those remote from Washington.

MODEL OR DRAWING. We advise as to patentability free of charge and make NO CHARGE unless we obtain patent.

We refer here to Postmaster, Supt. of Money Order Div., and to officials of the U. S. Patent Office. Our circular, advice, terms and references to actual clients in your own state or county, write to

C. A. SNOW & CO.,
Opposite Patent Office Washington, D.C.

Wall Paper AND Decorations.

A. Wright & Co.

SPRAGUE & SON. PATENTS DETROIT, MICH.

PATENTS obtained in U. S. and all foreign countries. Examinations made. Licenses and assignments drawn. Infringements prosecuted in all Federal courts. Advice and pamphlets free. Scientific expert validity opinions given. No models required. Established A. D. 1865. THOS. S. SPRAGUE & SON, 37 Congress Street West, Detroit, Mich.

FIELDS are nearly, but those who write to Stinson & Co., Portland, Maine, will receive free, full information about work which they can do, and live at home, that will pay them from $5 to $25 per day. Some have made $50 to a day. Either sex, young or old. Capital not needed. You are started free. Those who start at once will surely make fortunes. All is new.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

A little girl came home from her grandmother's one day with a very full account of an elegant lunch party that grandmamma was giving. Surprised that she had known nothing about it before, mamma made inquiries, only to find that no such thing had taken place. Questioned in regard to imaginative effort, Mabel answered plausibly: "Why, mamma, sometimes you make up stories to amuse me, and I thought I'd see if I couldn't make up a story for you?"

Is Consumption Incurable?

Read the following: Mr. G. H. Morris, Newark, Ark., says: "Was dowell with Abscess of Lungs, and friends and physicians pronounced me an Incurable Consumptive. Began taking Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, am now on my third bottle, and able to oversee the work on my farm. It is the finest medicine ever made."

Jesse Middleward, Decatur, Ohio, says: "Had it not been for Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption I would have died of Lung troubles. Was given up by doctors. Am now in best of health." Try it. Sample bottles free.

C. A. Wright & CO.

Robert—Gimme some pie.

Mamma (reprovingly)—"Gimme some pie." What else do you say?

Robert—And hurry up about it.

MAKE YOUR OWN BITTERS

One package of STEKETEE'S DRY BITTERS will make one gallon of the best Bitters known, which will cure Indigestion, Pains in the Stomach, Fever and Ague, and acts upon the Kidney's and Bladder, and is the best Tonic known. Can be used with or without spirits. Its far the cheapest remedy known. Full directions on each package. Sold by druggists or sent by mail, postage prepaid. Price only 25 cents. U. S. Stamps taken in payment. Address GEO. G. STEKETEE, Grand Rapids, Mich. This paper will say it is safe to send me money.

When invited to dinner Nature wonders what she will get to eat. Culture wants to know what she shall wear.

Chronic Cough and Cold

and all diseases of the Throat and Lungs can be cured by the use of Scott's Emulsion, as it contains the healing virtues of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites in their fullest form. "I consider Scott's Emulsion the remedy par excellence in Tuberculous and Strumous Affections, to say nothing of ordinary coids and throat troubles."—W. R. S. Conneli, M. D., Manchester, O.

English spavin liniment removes all hard, soft, or calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavin, curbs, splints, sweeney, ringbone, sore and swollen throat coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle. Warranted. Sold by Baker & Hall, Druggists, Tecumseh Mich.

Itch, mange, and scratches of every kind on human or animals cured in 30 minutes by Woolford's Sanitary Lotion. This never fails. Sold by Baker & Hall, Druggists, Tecumseh Mich.

The life insurance system will not be complete until some plan of insuring the life of the life company is perfected.

Drunkeness or the Liquor Habit Positively Cured by Administering Dr Haines' Golden Specific.

It can be given in a cup of coffee or tea without the knowledge of the person taking it; is absolutely harmless and will effect a permanent and speedy cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or a alcoholic wreck. Thousands of drunkards have been made temperate men who have taken Golden Specific in their coffee without their knowledge, and to day believe they quit drinking on their own free will. IT NEVER FAILS. The system once impregnated with the Specific it becomes an utter impossibility for the liquor appetite to exist. For full particulars, address GOLDEN SPECIFIC CO., 185 Race st., Cincinnati, O.

Trying to make her country cousin presentable at table, a city young lady said: "Now, Lem, when pie is served, you must not use your knife in eating it." "Gosh, all hemlock, Tody, I never do; I allers takes my piece er pie right into my hand when I eat it." That settled Lem.

If you would enjoy your dinner and are prevented by Dyspepsia, use Acker's Dyspepsia Tablets. They are a positive cure for Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Flatulency and Constipation. We guarantee them. 25 and 50 cents.

C. A. WRIGHT & Co., Druggists.

The Boston Transcript asks: "Have we too many mouths to feed?"

Not knowing the editor of the Transcript personally, we are not certain how many mouths he has. As for ourselves, we find one mouth all we care to control.

A Sensible Man

Would use Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs. It is curing more cases of Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Croup and all Throat and Lung Troubles, than any other medicine. The proprietor has authorized Baker & Hall, to refund the money if after taking three-fourths of a bottle, relief is not obtained. Price 50c and $1. Trial size free.

Babies that are fretful, peevish, cross, or troubled with Windy Colic, Teething Pains, or Stomach Disorders, can be relieved at once by using Acker's Baby Soother. It contains no Opium or Morphine, hence is safe. Price 25 cents. Sold by C. A. WRIGHT & Co., Druggists.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

It is not considered polite to ask Consul Brigham how the Mexicans strike him.—Pittsburg Chronicle.

The man who is always claiming that heaven is his home is always the last one to go.—Rochester Post-Express.

A preferred creditor is one who never asks for his money.—New Orleans Picayune.

"Time expires, man dies," was the reason a country postmaster gave for notifying a publisher to discontinue sending his paper to a certain address.—New York Telegram.

"Isn't it dreadful," asked Miss Lilyfond, "to run over a man?" "Yes, indeed, mum," replied the stoker of the express. "It jolts the engine up worst nor a cow."—New York Telegram.

A man who pleads drunkenness as an excuse for crime expects to get off on a mental alibi.—New Orleans Picayune.

A great many people hold theories who can't hold their tongues.—Oil City Blizzard.

Nashville will not permit a policeman with a red mustache to live it. It is called conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman.—Detroit Free Press.

"Are you getting much practice yet?" asked an old physician of a young friend who had recently started. "Yes, sir, a great deal, thank you," replied the young beginner. "I am glad to hear it. In what line does your practice lie particularly?" "Well, sir, particularly in economy!"—New York Telegram.

A preacher was complaining of the littleness and inattention of his congregation, when an old deacon spoke up and said: "Hungry sheep will look up to the rack if there is hay in it."—Richmond Religious Herald.

This is the festive season of the county fair, when the big pumpkin vies with the pretty country girl for the attention of the crowd, and gets left every time, world without end.—Old City Derrick.

The feast of imagination—Having no dinner, but reading a cookery book.—New York Telegram.

Emile Zola received $60,000 from his pen last year. There is a hog raiser in Kansas who got twice that much from his pen. He is beating Zola on his own ground.—Denver Republican.

England threatens to get financially even with Buffalo Bill and his Wild West show by setting Gilbert and Sullivan to write a comic opera as a take off on its popularity, and sending a banditti company to this country to work American pockets.—Buffalo Express.

This is about the time when he comes along with smiling face and outstretched hand and says: "Hullo, old man, have you got home again?" How surprised he would be were you to say: "No, I haven't got home yet. I am still at Bar Harbor."—Boston Courier.

The gondoliers of Venice will get their price because they can make travelers very uncomfortable when left on the doorsteps of palaces. There is no walking home in Venice, and the stranger does not know which way to swim.—New Orleans Picayune.

"Sir," said a gentleman in a crowd, "do you know that you are pushing me unnecessarily?" "Sir," said the gentleman addressed to the party immediately behind him, "do you know that you are pushing the gentleman ahead of me unnecessarily?" Then he turned to the first speaker and said, "I've passed it down the line."—Harper's Bazar.

A boarding house proprietor announces that his prices have touched bedrock. Persons who have slept in his house assert that the beds conform to the prices.—New Haven News.

Long Island is in the shape of a fish, remarks a learned exchange. While on the subject of shapes, we might as well add that Manhattan island is in the shape of a shark.—Minneapolis Tribune.

If the train robbers of Arizona have so terrorized the settlers that they dare not testify against the gang, the territory may claim the proud distinction of being the Italy of America.—San Francisco Bulletin.

The racing and baseball season will be over in a few weeks. "Snapper" Garrison and the curve pitchers will go into winter quarters, and congress and the tragedians will have a chance.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Back Again.

Back again from the ocean's shore,
Back from the mountain's lakes and rivers,
Back again to the city's roar
With stronger lungs and healthier livers.

Back again with faces tanned and brown,
Parents, children, maids and nurses,
Back to the social life in town
With brighter eyes and lighter purses.

Back to the counting room and school,
Back to the boxes where we employ us,
Back, for September nights are cool
And the pesky flies no more annoy us.

Back again with the same old lies
Of the fish we caught—their weight and measure,
Back to deplore with many sighs
The money spent on our summer's pleasure.

—Boston Courier.

Not the Work.

"How much will you charge to go up to my house and black a small—a very small—stove?" he asked of one of the colored brigade at the market.

"Jist as much as I would to black a large—a very large—stove, sah."

"But it won't take so much blacking nor rubbing."

"No, sah, but dose flings doan' count. It's gittin' me away from the market an' deprivin' me of de chance fur religious discushun dat I charge fur."—Detroit Free Press.

A Dutiful Son.

Teacher (of spelling class)—Tommy Traddles, you may spell cigarette.

Tommy Traddles (somewhat ill prepared)—Well-er-my pa won't let me thmoke "em, an' I don't think he'd care to have me thpell 'em.—New York Sun.

Bill Nye in the Barber's Chair.

Barber—You are very bald, Mr. Nye.

Nye—That's so.

Barber—What was the cause of your baldness?

Nye—The top of my head grew faster than my hair.—Texas Siftings.

A STORY ABOUT INGALLS.

The Sharp Tongued Senator and His Burly Constituent.

A constituent of Senator Ingalls, a rough looking fellow of the cowboy type, sent in his card to the senator at the Capitol one day last winter, and then seated himself in the Senate room to await the senator's arrival. When Mr. Ingalls appeared some one else engaged him in conversation. At its conclusion he started to traverse the chamber, having apparently forgotten the purpose for which he had quitted it. At that moment the cowboy seized him.

"Is you a senator?" he inquired.

Senator Ingalls disengaged himself and answered with unusual dignity:

"I have the honor, sir."

"Do you know old Ingalls, of Kansas?" was the next interrogatory.

The senior senator from Kansas and president pro tem. of the United States senate gave the fellow a piercing look to see if he was in earnest. He evidently satisfied himself of that point, for he answered immediately:

"Oh, yes; we're very well acquainted."

By this time quite a crowd of senators and senate employes had gathered around the two men.

"Well, then," continued the visitor, "I wish you would tell him I am about tired of waiting for him, and if he doesn't hurry out here pretty soon I'll make it d—— lively for him when his next election comes around."

"Do you know Ingalls?" inquired the Kansas senator, with an air of indifference.

"I do not," was the response.

"Have you any idea what he looks like?"

"No, but I'm told he's as ugly as the old Nick."

"Do you suppose he is as ugly as I am?" was Mr. Ingalls' next interrogatory.

"Well, I don't know," said the fellow with great deliberation, "but I expect you crowd him mighty close."

At this point Mr. Ingalls made his escape into the senate chamber, trying to look responsive to the roars of laughter which followed him; and his constituent wonders to the present day why it is he couldn't get an interview with his senator, but declares with much emphasis that "he'll make it hot yet for old Ingalls," when the next senatorial election takes place in Kansas.—New York Tribune.

Popular Science in Philadelphia.

Some men have a remarkable way of explaining things. Two strangers were standing in front of the Traction cable station on Sansom street, and one man was explaining to the other the operation of the machinery. "The old thing works like this," said he. "You notice that big wheel?" "Yes." "Well, there's a dewfunny on the side that's connected with a magigger that's out of sight. When the steam is turned on a dingus ketches hold of the cable and presses it against the wheel; then a cast iron flip flap does something that I don't quite understand, and the cable rests off them thingumbobs. Understand?" "Quite," said his friend, gravely; "but what is the use of that goldenluke at the far end?" "That is a sort of twistxcentis that keeps the cable from kinking." "I'll tell the folks at home about this," remarked the second man, evidently very much pleased. "Let's take something." And they did.—Philadelphia Call.

Omaha's Notion of It.

New York Broker—Is there room for another street in it?

New York Financial Editor—Yes, I can get in a few lines.

"Well, I've just consummated a stock deal."

"All right, I'll put it in. Did you make anything?"

"Yes sirree, I made $17 by the operation."

"Very well, I'll announce that Mr. Blank, the coming Napoleon of Finance, cleared $2,000,000 yesterday by a shrewd deal."

"That's the idea. How much?"

"Ten dollars."—Omaha World.

A Soul for Music.

"Do you love music, Mr. Featherly?"

"Passionately, Miss Clara," he replied. "I am not a musician myself, but there is no one, I think, who enjoys and appreciates it more."

Then a little German band came along, and as the strains of "White Wings" trembled on the evening air, the look of rapture which came over the young man's face told more than ever words could ever hope to tell how fond he was of music.—New York Sun.

Exceptions Prove the Rule.

Blinks—I don't believe a woman ever read a novel without looking at the last chapter first to see how it turned out.

Omaha Girl—I have, many a time.

"Perhaps some one had already told you how they turned out."

"No, no one knew."

"No one knew?"

"No. They were published serially in the magazines."—Omaha World.

The End of My Vacation.

Though the days are so balmy, the heavens so blue,
To the mountains and streams must I bid an adieu;
In the heyday of autumn must I reappear
At the desk and be bullied by Brown, the cashier!

Yes, time's up. I must go, my vacation is over,
Over stupid account books again I must pore
There's no help for it, none, the firm won't brook delay
I must pack my portmanteau and hasten away

Though the leaves of the forest are tinging with gold,
And woodland and meadows fresh beauties unfold,
I must hie me to Gotham—what's worse, when I'm there,
To a narrow hall bedroom and boarding house fare

On nature's sweet features I gaze with a sigh,
And the tear drop unwonted creeps into my eye
Must I lose her with autumn's first bloom on her cheek?
Yes, I must, or else lose fifteen dollars a week

Then farewell to green meadows and forest clad hills!
Farewell to bright lakelets and murmuring rills!
Farewell to fresh butter, fresh eggs and hot cakes,
And away to my landlady's vulcanite steaks!

—W. R. Barber in Judge.

Is This What Ails you?

Do you have dull, heavy headache, obstruction of the nasal passages, discharges falling from the head into the throat, sometimes profuse, watery, and acrid, at others, thick, tenacious, mucous, purulent, bloody and putrid; eyes weak, watery, and inflamed; ringing in the ears, deafness, hacking or coughing to clear the throat, expectoration of mucous matter, together with scabs from ulcers; voice changed and nasal twang; breath offensive; smell and taste impaired; is there a sensation of dizziness, with mental depression, a hacking cough and general debility? If you have all or any considerable number of these symptoms, you are suffering from Nasal Catarrh. The more complicated your disease has become, the greater the number and diversity of symptoms. Thousands of cases annually, without manifesting half of the above symptoms, result in consumption, and end in the grave. No disease is so common, more deceptive and dangerous, or less understood, or more mischievously treated by physicians. The manufacturers of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy offer, in good faith, a reward of $500 for a case of this disease which they cannot cure. The Remedy is sold by druggists, at only 50 cents.

"All I have to say about the paper is that the editor is getting terribly dull," said an old subscriber. "You think the editor is getting dull do you?" rejoined the occupant of the splint-bottomed editorial chair.

Yes, sir. I do, most emphatically."

"Well, I'll call up the next scissor grinder that comes along.

Found an Old Friend.

COLOMA, Mich., Dec. 3, 1885.

Gentlemen:—One of your circulars came to my notice to day, and it reminds me of an old and very valuable friend, one that saved my life 12 years ago, and because I had not needed its help since, I had almost forgotten it. I was 16 years old, and suffering from menstrual derangement: I coughed continually and had chills every day; I was as miserable as any one could be and live. A lady who knew the cause of my illness persuaded my mother to have me use Zoa-Phora—it was called Woman's Friend then. Before I had used one bottle my cough and chills ceased. I kept on and used two bottles and they brought me out all right. I afterwards married and am now the mother of three nice hearty children. I feel that I owe a great deal to Zoa-Phora. I hope it will become well known, and that every woman and girl who needs it will use it. If you will send me some circulars I will give them to acquaintances, and do all I can to help you. Yours truly,

MRS. LAURA FURMAN,
Kalamazoo, Mich.

The oyster season has again opened.

From almost every section of the State come reports of a general improvement of the health of our people due no doubt to the influence of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup which costs only 25 cents.

PAINT

By using COIT & CO'S ONE-COAT BUGGY PAINT. Hand Painted and one coat only. Eight fashionable Shades. Large Sample Card of Blue Velvet, Carriage Paint and Varnish Brushes, Circulars, etc., free. Price $1.00 with a "shine." One Gallon and Brush, $1.00.

YOUR BUGGY FOR ONE DOLLAR

COIT'S HONEST

Are one coat work, dry in one hour, do not blister, do not fade, do not chalk, do not crack, do not rub off, do not need varnish, do not need a fair day, do not need a dry place, do not need a good brush, do not need a good painter, do not need a good mixer, do not need a good thinner, do not need a good anything, but are a good paint, ready to put on, and last a long time. COIT'S ONE-COAT BUGGY PAINT is warranted to wear PONY SLEIGHS, PHAETONS and the grand coal tube no more. Measure carefully and send for a Gallon, or half Gallon, if you want to warrant it to wear a Carriage, Phaeton or Sleigh. Enough to paint a Sleigh and to do the work, no more or less. Do not be deceived by imitations. Insist on having COIT'S HONEST PAINT and you will never regret it. This is the way it is sold:

HOUSE PAINT

COIT'S FLOOR PAINT. Did you ever see a Floor Paint that never dried beyond the sticky point, even a week, and did the job, and then swear? If not, then call for COIT & CO'S FLOOR PAINT. A popular and useful article, warranted to dry hard as a rock over night. No trouble. No swearing. Try it and be convinced.

A MAN WHO USES COIT'S PAINT NEVER SWEARS

WONT DRY STICKY

CAUTION

Coit & Co., Sole Manufacturers, Chicago.

K. B

KING OF THE BLOOD

The Most Thorough Purifier of the Blood Yet Discovered.

Cures all Humors, from a common blotch to the worst Scrofula.

It purifies the Blood.
It invigorates the Liver.
It regulates the Bowels.
It strengthens the stomach.
It gives vivacity in place of lassitude; cheerfulness in place of gloom, and robust vigor in place of debility.

Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Disordered Liver, Constipation, Nervous Affections, General Debility, in short all the numerous diseases and discomforts caused by impure blood are speedily conquered by this powerful corrector, the chief and sovereign of all ancient or modern medical discoveries—KING OF THE BLOOD.

Its name is its best description as it is a royal dispenser of the blessings of health and vanquishes the foes that lurk in the blood.

It banishes PIMPLES, SALT RHEUM, SCALY ERUPTIONS, ULCERS, SCALD HEAD, FEVER SORES, and all SCROFULOUS DISORDERS.

It checks CONSUMPTION in its early stages. It has frequently cured it when advanced.

It disperses TUMORS and CANCERS without the Surgeon's knife.

It cures DROPSY, general or partial.

It cures FEMALE WEAKNESS and DISEASE.

It reduces in a safe and effectual manner all swellings, external or internal.

It eradicates the effects of Venerial Disease and Mineral Poisons and establishes a sound constitution.

Many certificates, much further information and full directions to cure, will be found in the pamphlet, "Treatise on Diseases of the Blood," in which each bottle is wrapped.

Price $1 per bottle or six bottles for $5, containing 12 ounces, or 50 doses. Sold by druggists in medicine.

If your druggist does not happen to have it on hand, request him to order a supply or if for you it will be cheaper than for you to order direct us, and less trouble.

D. RANSOM, SON & CO., Proprietors,
BUFFALO N. Y.

RAILROAD TIME TABLES.

L. S. & M. S. RAILROAD.

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	No. 115. Mail.	No. 117. Express	No. 149 Acc.
Jackson	6 15 A.M.	2 25 P.M.	1 00 P.M.
Napoleon	6 36 "	2 48 "	1 47 "
Norvell	6 46 "	2 57 "	2 05 "
Manchester	6 57 "	3 10 "	2 12 "
Clinton	[illegible]	3 21 "	9 04
Tecumseh	7 20 "	3 41 "	4 07 "
Adrian	8 08 "	4 15 "	9 05 "
Detroit	10 05 "	6 20 "	.....
Toledo	9 20 "	5 05 "	.....

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No. 116. Mail.	No. 118. Express	No. 148 Accom.
Detroit	7 30 A.M.	3 15 P.M.	.....
Toledo	9 40 "	7 00 "	.....
Adrian	10 38 "	8 47 "	5 05 A.M.
Tecumseh	11 05 "	9 15 "	7 20 "
Clinton	11 16 "	9 25 "	7 46 "
Manchester	11 25 "	9 40 "	8 30 "
Norvell	11 32 "	9 58 "	8 55 "
Napoleon	12 01 P.M.	10 07 "	9 05 "
Jackson	12 23 "	10 35 "	9 45 "

Trains run by New Standard of Detroit Time.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Coupon tickets can now be procured at this station over best routes to all principal cities in the United States.

N. S. SATTERTHWAITE,
TICKET AGENT.
G. H. WORCESTER, SUPT. DETROIT DIVISION.

Cincinnati, Jackson & Mackinaw R. R.

MICHIGAN DIVISION.

Passenger Time Table.

IN EFFECT Aug. 7, 1887.

GOING EAST. No. 14 Pass	No. 8 Pass	No. 1 Pass	Central Time. STATIONS.	GOING WEST. No. 2 Pass	No. 4 Pass	No. 12
P. M.	A. M.	P. M.		A. M.	P. M.	A. M.
7 10	10 50	4 15	A...Toledo...L	8 20	5 20	6 00
7 30	10 40	4 32	Dundee	9 10	6 10	6 50
4 35	9 35	3 31	Britton	9 25	6 31	10 15
3 35	9 30	3 25	Ridgeway	9 41	6 40	10 39
3 16	9 20	3 16	Tecumseh	9 52	6 52	11 20
2 25	9 07	2 02	Tipton	10 07	7 08	11 45
2 00	8 54	2 50	Onsted	10 22	7 23	12 15
1 30	8 41	2 35	Devils Lake	10 34	7 36	12 33
1 15	8 35	2 28	Addison	10 43	7 46	1 35
12 10	8 20	2 10	Jerome	11 02	8 04	2 15
11 55	8 14	2 02	Moscow	11 11	8 14	2 35
11 23	8 04	1 53	Hanover	11 23	8 25	3 10
10 30	7 55	1 41	Pulaski	11 34	8 36	3 50
9 40	7 36	1 22	Homer	11 54	8 57	4 40
2 00	7 21	1 05	Eckford	12 05	9 09	5 00
8 20	7 10	12 54	Marshall	12 28	9 30	6 00
No. 7						No. 5
P. M.						A. M.
7 50			Marshall			7 15
7 40	6 50	12 42	Ceresco	12 42	9 41	7 26
7 20	6 40	12 23	L Battle Cr'k A	1 03	10 00	7 45
	A. M.				P. M.
7 01		12 03	Augusta	1 25		8 00
6 54		11 52	Yorkville	1 35		8 15
6 47		11 46	Richland	1 42		8 25
6 20		11 30	Doster	2 01		8 40
6 13		11 15	Monteith	2 20		8 60
5 59		11 04	Fisk	2 30		9 05
5 52		10 58	Kellogg	2 35		9 15
5 45		10 50	L...Allegan...A	2 50		9 25
P. M.		A. M.		P. M.		A. M.

No. 7 and 8 make close connections at Monteith with G. R. & I.

TRAIN CONNECTIONS.

No. 2 connects with the G. R. & I. at Monteith; and at Allegan with the C. & W. M. Ry. for Grand Rapids, Muskegon, and points north. No. 4 makes close connection at Britton with the Wabash & Western Ry. for Detroit, and No. 4 makes close connection with the Wabash & Western Ry. train from Detroit. All trains connect at Toledo with the W. & L. E., C. H. V. & T., L. S. & M. S., Wabash Ry., Pa. Co., and all railroads diverging. Connections are also made at Dundee with the T. A. A. & N. M., at Tecumseh, Jerome, Hanover, Homer and Allegan with the L. S. & M. S. Ry., and at Battle Creek with the C. & G. T. RY.

THE NEW SHORT LINE

BETWEEN

CHICAGO & TOLEDO

Commencing Sunday, Aug. 7, the Cincinnati, Jackson & Mackinaw R. R. (formerly M. A. C. R.) connection with the C. & G. T. R. R. via Battle Creek, will inaugurate through Pullman Palace car service between Toledo and Chicago, making direct connections with roads out of Chicago for the West, Northwest, and Southwest. Train will leave Tecumseh going west 1:32 P.M., arriving in Chicago at 8:15 A.M. Returning will leave Chicago at 8:15 P.M. and arrive in Tecumseh at 5:30 A.M. For further particulars in regard to berths, rates, etc., call at city ticket office of the Allen at depot.

F. ALLEN, Station Agent.
A. S. KENNEDY, City Ticket Agent.
H. B. JOHNSTON, Traffic Manager.
T. C. M. S. GINDLER, General Pass. Agt.

TAKE THE WABASH ROUTE.

TRAINS GOING EAST.

LEAVE BRITON:
*Atlantic Express, limited ... 4 36 A.M.
Detroit Accommodation ... 8 00 "
Niagara Falls and Boston Express ... 10 09 "
*New York Limited Express ... 10 21 P.M.
Way Freight ... 5 00 "

TRAINS GOING WEST.

St. Louis, Indianapolis & Louisville ... 10 37 A.M.
*Chicago & St. Louis Limited Express ... 3 10 P.M.
Adrian Accommodation ... 5 51 "
*Pacific Express, Limited ... 11 07 "

Trains marked * are daily, all others daily except Sunday.

The limited express trains stop only for B. H. crossing at Britton.

Tecumseh passengers desiring to travel by the popular Wabash make excellent connections at Adrian, and from there can secure through Pullman sleepers to Boston. Through solid train to New York. 2 solid through trains to Chicago, making direct connections for all points west and northwest. Through coaches and sleepers to St. Louis, making direct connections for all points in Kansas and the great southwest.

Fast Time, Magnificent Equipment, Latest Designs of Chair, Parlor, Sleeping and Dining Cars on all through trains.

H. D. ARMSTRONG, Mich. Pass. Agt., Jackson, Mich.
WM. F. BRADLEY, Agent, Adrian.
F. CHANDLER, Gen'l Pass. and Tkt. Agent, St. Louis Mo.

The Great English Prescription.

A successful Medicine used over 30 years in thousands of cases. Cures Spermatorrhea, Nervous Weakness, Emissions, Impotency and all diseases caused by abuse, (EARLY) indiscretion, or over-exertion. (AFTER) Six packages Guaranteed to Cure when all others Fail. Ask your Druggist for The Great English Prescription, take no substitute. One package $1. Six $5, by mail. Write for Pamphlet. Address Eureka Chemical Co., Detroit, Mich.

Sold in Tecumseh by DR. GEO. FERGUSON.

EYESIGHT—SAVE IT!

Use Proper Spectacles!

Nothing is to such demand as perfect sight, and perfect sight can only be obtained by using perfect spectacles properly fitted. Send 50 cent stamps for test-types and instructions, with the use of which those whose vision is impaired can make their own adjustments, and receive by mail a pair of Spectacles or Eye-glasses suited to any condition of sight. Address GEO. B. BRIGDEN, Optician, 106 Main St., Norwich, Conn.

ADVERTISERS

can learn the exact cost of any proposed line of advertising in American papers by addressing Geo. P. Rowell & Co., Newspaper Advertising Bureau, 10 Spruce St., New York. Send 10cts. for 100-Page Pamphlet.

ITEMS OF GENERAL INTEREST.

Dr Laws, president of the Missouri state university, has been [illegible] from the Prohibition party of that state because he owns a hotel in Kansas City in which a bar is operated on.

The national Republican committee will meet at Washington early in December to fix the date and location for the national convention.

A Washington special says that the dry weather has so damaged corn in Illinois that they will produce half a crop.

Prince Philip Orleans, the oldest son of the comte of Paris, is about to start on a journey around the world. He will proceed by way of India, Japan, San Francisco and New York.

A large quantity of dynamite has been discovered in the wreck near Key West, Fla. It is supposed to have been placed there by Cuban filibusters.

The claims made for damages by the slaughter of the [illegible] reached the aggregate of $[illegible]. Two more suits were filed Tuesday.

Elias B. Washburne, of Galena, who is a patient in Geneva, was attacked Wednesday morning with congestion of the brain, and is lying in a critical condition at his residence in Chicago.

The last Ohio legislature repealed the statute authorizing the establishment of separate schools for colored pupils. The attempts of the colored children to secure a admission to the white schools have created great commotion in various parts of the state, and in some places the schools have been closed.

A letter from Henry M. Stanley, the African explorer, dated June 25, has been received in London.

Elisha A. Robinson, the wholesale grocer of Chicago, whose testimony was of great value to the state in the Beedle case, has made restitution to Cook county by handing over $15,000.

Madam Otto Goldschmidt (Jenny Lind) is dangerously ill at London.

The management of the Pittsburg Base Ball club has offered President Spalding, of the Chicago Stockings, $[illegible] for the release of Anson. Mr. Spalding will not entertain the offer. He says Anson is not for sale.

Resolutions denouncing the supreme court decision in the Anarchist cases have been adopted by the German Harness Makers' the Wagon Makers', and the International Brewers' and Malsters' unions of Chicago.

BASE BALL NEWS.

Scores of the National League Clubs for the Past Week.

CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—Following is the league base ball record for Monday: At Pittsburg—New York 8, Pittsburg 5; at Detroit—Philadelphia 10, Detroit 1; at Chicago—Chicago 6, Washington 0; at Indianapolis—Indianapolis 10, Boston 9.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—Chicago made another game on Boston at Indianapolis, but the lead is so great that nobody expects it to be overcome. Philadelphia is in good position for second place, and is playing for it hard, so that the Bostonians will have to rub their eye if they get the only position that now seems in doubt. The league games Tuesday were: At Pittsburg—New York 7, Pittsburg 5; at Indianapolis—Boston 7, Indianapolis 6; at Chicago—Chicago 5, Washington 0; at Detroit—Philadelphia 5, Detroit 2.

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—The scores of the National league base ball clubs Wednesday were: At Indianapolis—Indianapolis 4, Boston 0; at Pittsburg—New York 5, Pittsburg 0; at Chicago—Chicago 12, Washington 3; at Detroit—Exhibition, Detroit 9, Philadelphia 5—five innings.

CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—The scores recorded by National league base ball clubs Thursday were as follows: At Brooklyn—Morning game, Washington 4, Brooklyn 2; afternoon game, Washington 7, Brooklyn 2; at Chicago—Chicago 2, Boston 1—eight innings, darkness; at Detroit—Detroit 9, New York 0; game called, darkness; at Pittsburg—Pittsburg 1, Indianapolis game postponed—rain.

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—No negotiations have been undertaken for a series of the National League Ball clubs for next season. The controversy culminated in a determination of the teams directly interested, this to play the games here anyhow and then leave the question to the League management. Consequently the games were played Friday with the determination to close up all local games during the series. The league games Friday were as follows: At Pittsburg—Philadelphia 5, Pittsburg 0; at Indianapolis—Indianapolis 5, Washington 4; at Detroit—Detroit 3, New York 0; at Chicago—first game, Chicago 9, Boston 2; second game, Chicago 4, Boston 1—eight innings, darkness.

CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—It is learned that Chicago's base ball aggregation will worry its [illegible] to get the league to recognize the postponed games played here Friday and Saturday. One of them was a tie, and in the other two the ex-champions were [illegible] defeated by Kelly's nine. It is quite [illegible] that Anson [illegible] second place [illegible] Philadelphia. The [illegible] is as follows:

| | | |

The Tecumseh Herald.

VOL. XXXVIII.—NO 19. TECUMSEH MICHIGAN, THURSDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 6, 1887 WHOLE NO. 1917

"Don't Wait"

But Buy Your Cloak Now While the Assortment is Complete.

Also, DRESS GOODS!

Stock All In. Can show you an Elegant assortment of BRAID and JET TRIMMINGS.

Also, Floor Oil Cloths!

W. & S. W. Anderson & Co's.

'87 For Season of '87

We shall continue to handle the celebrated

G·A·R·L·A·N·D

STOVES and RANGES.

And the Genuine

ROUND OAK

The unprecedented demand for these justly popular goods renders it almost impossible for the manufacturers to supply the demand. Call early and supply your wants and avoid delay.

SATTERTHWAITE BROS. & BOYD.

B. DeWOLF, Pres. H. M. TEMPLE, Sec'y and Treas. S. W. TEMPLE, Vice Pres. and Gen'l Mgr

THE OHIO & MICH. COAL & MFG. CO.,

COAL.

LUMBER LATH AND SHINGLES

MANUFACTURERS OF

Doors, Sash, Blinds, Mouldings,

Scroll Work, Turned Work, Modern Interior Finish.

GET ESTIMATES BEFORE BUYING.

OFFICE CORNER R. R. AND SHAWNEE STS.

Yards and Factory on Pearl and Shawnee sts., near L. S. & M. S. Depot.

TECUMSEH, MICH.

UNION HALL STORE

The old Palace Clothing House has been renovated and filled with an immense stock of

FALL AND WINTER

CLOTHING,

FOR MEN, BOYS, AND CHILDREN, AND GENT'S

FURNISHING GOODS

HATS, CAPS, GLOVES, ETC.

An Immense Variety in all Departments

GEORGE HEESEN,

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

RIDGEWAY RAMBLES.

Green Apples are plenty in the markets at this writing with a heavy cold.

The rain last Saturday closed a postponed game of ball between our team and the Norvell team which was to take place on the Clinton diamond.

Eb. Hinkley of Milan, spent Saturday with friends in the village, returning home Sunday.

Several of our young ladies who attended the fair last week at Adrian report a big time; "that is right girls, go it while you are young and free from care."

The type setter made our report last week of the judgement rendered by the court in the suit of Geo. C. Pocklington vs. W. H. Birdseed, read $7,800 instead of $78.00.

Dr. D. W. Loree Detroited Thursday of last week.

Geo. Dibble of North Adrian, was in the village last Saturday evening, shaking hands with old friends.

Prof. Martin Palmer of Flat Rock, was home over Saturday, looking hearty and reports everything lovely at the Rock.

Four teams went to Saline Friday of last week and moved the new pastor's household effects, over which they are at present busy settling in their new home. We, in behalf of the friends, extend a hand of welcome and friendship.

Rev. W. J. Clack and family left for their new home at Blissfield the forepart of the week. Their stay of three years here has made them some warm friends, who with us wish for them a pleasant future in their new home.

Miss Lou Merritt of Petersburg, Sundayed with her sister, Mrs. J. D. Huston and husband.

Mr. and Mrs. William Riggs spent several days at Saline last week, attending the Washtenaw County fair at Ypsilanti.

Miss Mary Arner and Mrs. Morris Kelley left Monday for a visit with relatives at Hastings, Mich. Mrs. Arner will visit her son Sammie, who is agent at Sullivan, and will spend some time with her niece, Nellie Heath at Hartfield, Mich.

Next week Wednesday afternoon the pews of the M. E. church will be rented. Also bids for a Sexton will be received. The W. F. M. S. will hold their monthly meeting in the lecture room of the church at the same time and will furnish refreshments for the occasion.

That Piano up West Street requires the attention of a certain piano tuner rather frequent it seems. But ——— says sudden changes in the weather will effect the tone of the wires.

Remember the Pumpkin Pie social at Mrs. W. R. Wilson's Friday evening of this week. Supper 15cts. a piece, or 25cts. a couple. Supper will be served from 5 to 9 o'clock P. M. Let every body turn out and spend a pleasant evening

HOLLOWAY HASH.

Better have waited till this week. Fred, and went up in the balloon; then the x would not have been broken. Petersburg weight must be solid though precious.

Mrs. Gillis is visiting in Coldwater after enjoying the fair.

May Middleton, of Dover, enjoyed the Sabbath with her friend, Esther Binns.

Mrs. Irish has visited her great grand daughter, Vera J. Begel, and gone to Oceana county.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Hall are both on the sick list. A half brother of Mr. Hall is visiting him from Ohio.

As little May Culbertson was viewing the ball game on the fair ground last week, a ball hit her, injuring her quite seriously.

Mr. and Mrs. John Gordon attended the fair last week—in their mind; the train being a little too slow for him on Thursday, and a little too fast for her on Friday.

Owing to the rain on Saturday, the base ball game was postponed, and judging from the disappointed faces one would think that both clubs would have beaten, had it not been for the unwished for shower.

A game of ball is to be held here next Saturday, between the kid nine and a Macon club.

William Brainard and family, also, Dr. Begel and family, attend Free Methodist conference at Spring Arbor, this week.

A party of hunters gay, started out on Tuesday morning from here. Game was scarce but of good size, judging from the number of shot Al. Machaut picked out of his whiskers.

A very pleasant impromptu musical was held at A. Machaus' Tuesday evening.

THE NEW LIQUOR LAW.

The new liquor law went into effect Sept. 23rd. The principal things within the new law relative to saloon keepers and druggists are as follows.

When saloons are closed proprietors must not keep screens or curtains near the front door to obstruct the view of the bar from the street. Penalty, $100 fine or less, or 90 days in jail.

They must not sell liquor to students of any public or private institution of learning in the State, nor allow students to play cards, dice or any games of dance in saloons, under the same penalty.

They must not adulterate liquors nor offer for sale liquor known to be adulterated, under penalty of not less than $50 nor exceeding $500 or imprisonment of not less than 10 days. They must not sell in quantities of more than three gallons or one dozen quart bottles under a retail license, or less than that amount at one time under a wholesale license.

A license of $300 must be paid for selling malt liquors only; formalt and spirituous liquors at retail, $500; for spirituous at wholesale, the same, and for spirituous liquors at wholesale and retail $800.

Druggists can sell liquor on physicians' prescriptions only. They must record the name of every purchaser in a blank book kept for that purpose, and the aforesaid book must be open to all persons for examination during all business hours. The penalty for the first violation is not less than $100 fine; for a second offense, in addition to the penalty the offender shall be debarred from selling liquor anywhere in the State for five years.

Brewers or brewers' agents will not be accepted as sureties on saloonkeepers' bonds. The law on that point is explicit.

All places where liquor is sold, except drug stores, must be closed at 9 o'clock P. M., and not opened before 7 A. M. The word closed applies to back doors, side doors and all other doors opening into barrooms. Officers are charged with the duty of closing all places found open after legal hours. Common councils have the option of allowing saloons to remain open until 11 P. M. and open at 6 A. M. Arrest for violation of this section can be made without a warrant.

Officers are required to visit all saloons and barrooms at least once a week to learn if any provisions of this act are violated.

FRANKLIN & CAMBRIDGE FARMERS' CLUB.

PENTECOST, Sept. 25.—The regular meeting of the Franklin and Cambridge farmers club, was held at the farm residence of Mr. John Stafford, Sept. 23. The usual number of members were in attendance. After order was called by President Love, and miscellaneous business transacted, the charge of the meeting was transferred to the chairman on programme, Mr. Stafford. Instrumental music by Mr. J. B. Ayers and Miss Anna Stafford, was the opening feature of the program, which proceeded as follows.

Remarks by H. C. Daniels.
Select Reading—J. B. Ayers.
Song—Miss Billmire.
Essay—Mrs. M. L. German.
Select Reading—W. Rogers.
Vocal Duet—Miss Billmire and Mr. Monighan.
Recitation—Miss Claudia Case.
Instrumental Solo—Miss Stafford.
Vocal Duet—Miss Billmire and Mrs. Marr.

The discussion of the question, Resolved, That farming does pay, was next taken up. As the affirmative speaker was absent, H. C. Daniels was requested to speak for that side. After discussion by different farmers, it was decided in favor of the negative.

The majority of speakers thought that farming, conducted in the best manner possible, pays hardly three per cent. on the capital invested at the present time. Others thought the constant improvements and repairs made on a farm, together with the living and profit made, pays one for time, capital and labor invested.

The next meeting will be held at Mr. F. Bradley's. The question for discussion is, Resolved, That it pays to raise wheat at the present prices. Affirmative, J. S. Smith; negative, M. E. Case.

The committee on program for next meeting is to be T. M. Cumburn, F. Bradley, J. S. Smith.

NORTH EAST FRANKLIN.

Good equinoctial weather this. The frolicsome breezes vex the huskers, uncover haystacks, and seek with might and main to blow into space the hair and ears of pedestrians.

Mrs. Abe Hunt is visiting relatives in Illinois. Mr. Hunt will follow her this week, taking in the fair at Chicago on his way.

Mrs. Wesley Pawson's mother is visiting her sister and brother-in-law from Cambridge.

Rodman Taylor has been seriously ill but is able to be about again.

Much sympathy is felt for Mr. and Mrs. Will Witherell who buried their babe on Sunday. The little one had been ailing for some time but was not supposed to be in danger until a few days ago.

MR. EDITOR.—Can you give us the information in regard to a law passed by our legislature last spring, doing away with the old County Board of Examiners of Schools and appointing something—we would like to know what—in its place?

ONSTED ODDS.

Another new arrival in town. It is a fine boy and will call Verne Greenleaf daddy when he gets old enough to talk.

The dancing portion of the town called at Dave Corwin's new house, a few nights ago for an old fashioned house warming. Those who attended report having a good time.

The rain prevented the boys having their weekly shoot, on Saturday last.

We have at least one energetic man in town. If he cannot ride he will walk. One of our merchants wanted to go to Toledo, and as the train would not stop for him, started on foot, but overtook the train nearly half a mile from town, and was finally persuaded to ride the rest of the way.

The heavy wind and rain on Sunday night did a considerable damage to the farmers, blowing down corn shocks, and stripping what few apples they had from the trees.

Report says that Levi Williams is selling off his spare stock, etc., from the farm, preparatory to moving to Adrian this fall. Hate to see you go Levi, but wish you good luck wherever you may go.

The men who have been engaged in getting out square timber near Saud Lake crossing, will operate in our neighborhood the coming winter. It will be a good time for some of our farmers to get rid of their surplus timber.

Frank Skinner shipped a full car load of poultry from here on the 4th inst. He had to put ten crates on top of the car in order to send all he had away. Frank is doing a rushing business in the Fowl line.

THE COUNTY FAIR.

The county fair held at Adrian last week was carried through four days according to program. The weather however, was more or less stormy every day which made it disagreeable for visitors and must have materially lessened the attendance.

The total number of entries was 2800, fairly divided among the various departments. The show of vegetables and garden products was rather slim but in most other branches the display was up to the average. The base ball games drew a fair crowd, and the fakirs outside the gates picked up a good many spare dimes.

During Thursday and Friday the Tecumseh City Band attracted a good deal of attention and formed one of the best features of the program on those two days. The receipts of the four days will meet all liabilities and leave a balance on hand. The management is certainly to be congratulated on this result, considering the unfavorable weather encountered during the fair.

The annual report of Pension Commissioner Black shows that there were at the close of the year 406,007 pensioners, as follows: 294,445 army invalids, 85,010 army widows, minor children and dependent relatives, 3,281 navy invalids, 1,975 navy widows, minor children, and dependent relatives, 1,069 survivors of the War of 1812, and 11,831 widows of those who served in that war, 7,503 survivors of the war with Mexico, and 895 widows of those who served in that war. There were added to the rolls during the year, 55,194 new pensioners, and 2,707 whose pensions had been previously dropped were restored. The names of 17,677 pensioners were dropped. The aggregate annual value of all pensions is $52,824,641, an increase of like value for the year of $8,116,833. The amount paid for pensions during the year was $73,465,581, an increase over the previous year of $9,669,750. The amount paid to 44,019 new pensioners during the year upon first payment was $25,166,990; 1,091,260 pension claims have been filed since 1861, and 676,948 have been allowed; 55,194 original certificates were issued, a greater number than ever before in one year.

Many men are poor simply because they deposit their loose change in the saloon instead of the savings bank.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSONS.

LESSON III. OCTOBER 9.

THE TEACHER SCRIBE.

NOTE.—"Great multitudes, without him."—To whom he had been preaching in parables all day, according to Mark, and from whom he wished to escape for rest.—"To the other side."—To the east or southeast of the lake.—"A scribe."—The scribes were the scholars, students and copyists of the Law.——"Master."—Implying that Jesus was recognized as a wise teacher.—"Son of Man."—A designation taken from Daniel vii. 13, and often used by Christ to emphasize his brotherhood with men.——"Not where to lay thy head."—Since entering on his ministry he was a wandering teacher with no home.——"Another of the disciples."—This implies that the scribe was, in a sense, a disciple; here, not one of the twelve, but of the multitude that accepted him like the Seventy whom he sent out two and two.——"Leave the dead to bury their own dead."—Perhaps his father was not dead yet, but only expected to die. If he were already dead the son was probably absent at the time and the burial must have already taken place, and he wanted to go and take part in the general mourning which would consume a week more. We must not consider that Christ would have objected to paying respect to one's father's memory. He only put the language very strongly to teach the man that God's business was paramount to every other. This he by means, leave the dead in sins to bury the bodies of the dead.——"He was asleep." The disciples in the boat were probably those whose business was fishing, and who were thus familiar with the management of boats. Jesus was a carpenter, and would naturally not help in the care of the boat, and might well be asleep.——"Why are ye so fearful?"—The other evangelists make Jesus say this after he had calmed the storm. It makes no difference to the effect on us whether it was before or after, or both.

INSTRUCTION.—The same Jesus who welcomed the multitudes avoided them. One cannot keep at work all the time. Suitable time must be given to rest and sleep. After a period of hard work Jesus took a short vacation in the desert or mountain.

But so far as we are informed of our Lord's vacations he spent them in meditation and prayer. After hard work he slept, even in a storm, but his waking hours of rest were given to communion with God. We make a great mistake if we do not similarly improve at least a portion of our periods of rest.

The scribe apparently did not know his own mind. He was quick and eager without apprehending how serious a thing is consecration to God. Christ seems to have repelled him, but really what he said was: "Do you understand the seriousness of this consecration? It means privation; it may mean death. Don't put your hand to the plow and then turn back." One should not accept Christ lightly. It is the most solemn thing we can do.

We have to make no such sacrifices for Christ. We shall probably not have to leave our homes; but are we willing to? Does our consecration mean that we give up everything to God?

The other disciple was not so eager as the scribe. He needed to be encouraged rather than repelled. If some people make up their mind too quickly, others are too slow. They are all the time thinking of something that may interfere. They would become Christians, but this or that other thing must be considered, first. Christ's answer to that is that nothing must be considered first. There is no other duty to father, mother, wife or child, that must stand in the way of a Christian consecration.

If it seems to us that Jesus lacked in kindness, or in recognition of filial duty in this command to the man who wished to bury his father, then we misinterpret the passage. Christ never would have that disciple or any other fail to obey the fourth commandment.

The disciples were in no danger with Jesus in the boat. Once in a storm Julius Cæsar calmed his affrighted soldiers with the words: "Fear not; this ship carries Cæsar." Where Jesus is we need not fear. It is those without him that are in danger.

Christ asked the disciples why they were so fearful and he gave the answer, that they were "of little faith." Those who have great faith need not fear. Even death will not be to them an object of fear. They can triumph in it.

Jesus is divine. One who can calm the waves, can control the storms, is divine. Here is proof enough of his divinity. And we notice that he does it by his own word of power.

THE TECUMSEH HERALD.

Issued Every Thursday Morning

BY S. C. STACY.

Office in the New HERALD Building, one door East of the Opera House, Tecumseh, Mich.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

One year, cash in advance,	$1 50
Six months " "	75
Twenty-five cents	50

Twenty-five cents will be added to the subscription price for every three months that payment may be delayed.

ADVERTISING RATES.

Business locals, five cents a line for each insertion.

Special notices, fifty cents an inch for each insertion.

Rates for general advertising on fixed contracts made known at the counting room.

Entered at the postoffice at Tecumseh, Michigan, as second class matter.

TECUMSEH, THURSDAY, OCT. 4.

And now it is said that Napoleon's bones have been stolen. What sacrilege shall we prepare for next?

Sons of great men all remind us
We may into office climb
Or, departing, leave behind us
Kids who will in course of time.—Chicago Times.

The mugwumps helped the Democrats into power and it behooves the latter not to kick the "mugs" too hard. The Democrats may want another boost when it is everlastingly too late.

The Chicago Herald, in many respects one of the finest newspapers in the country, has doubled its size to a seven-column quarto. The price remains the same, two cents a copy. The Herald has been a phenomenal success and keeps the other Chicago dailies hustling.

The Chicago jail ought to be patented to prevent other localities imitating its peculiarities. McGarigle, the boodler, got away safely with Sheriff Matson, and the other day two more prisoners escaped while the sheriff was out of town. It seems to be all the same, either with or without the sheriff.

The path of the Salvation Army has been marked with scandals all over the country, but the climax seems to have been reached in Georgia, where a series of disasters has completely broken up its organization. Four families were wrecked in Atlanta by the army, and it caused three wives to desert their husbands in Augusta, creating such a scandal that no one will attend its meeting. Religious intoxication is just as dangerous as any other abuse.

The Englishmen are so astounded at the decisive victories of the Volunteer that they cannot believe that the Thistle was in good racing trim. They are not foolish enough to suspect that there was any foul play, but they suggest that her bottoms must have been in bad condition, or that she was improperly ballasted. The Standard says: "That she should be beaten by four miles in one race and two in the next on her merits is not to be credited." The Englishmen evidently will have to revise all their opinions about yachts.

A St. Louis paper printed, last Sunday, a verbatim report of all the debates that occured at the secret sessions of the Grand Army encampment. As some of the speeches were bitter in tone, and as the entire discussion was decidedly warm, it is likely that the report will create something of a sensation, not only among the Grand Army men who regarded the proceedings as absolutely safe from public knowledge but also among all in the country who are interested in the pension question. The report makes more than eleven columns.—Here is a newspaper enterprise for you.

Speaking of his candidacy for 1888, Gov. Luce said at Jackson the other day:

"There is an item going the rounds which says that I have announced that I should not be a candidate again. That item has absolutely no foundation. Sufficient for the day is the evil thereof," is my motto. I believe that the candidate of 1888 should be left until '88. No, you may say positively that I have not made up my mind on that subject."

You may put it down that Luce will be renominated but whether he will be reelected is another thing. The Farmer governor has made a few blunders that have not made him any votes.—Blissfield Advance.

About this time look out for mangled fingers and general dislocation. In the early summer the small boy's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of swimming, and drowning accidents are staple items in all the papers. Now the shooting season has opened, and the small boys who have not been drowned yearn for guns and chippy birds. They and small boys of an older growth blaze away at anything that has wings. The shooting season is the surgeon's and the small boy's joy, and the birds don't seem to mind it much.

TWO KINDS OF POLITICS.

NEW YORK DEMOCRACY AND MASSACHUSETTS REPUBLICANS

Get Before the People for the Autumn Mobilization of Voters. Their Tickets and Platforms—Irving Hall Excluded from the New York Convention.

Ames Renominated.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 29.—The credentials committee of the Democratic state convention was in session at Tuesday night, and until 4 a. m. Wednesday morning, and in order that the business might be ready when the convention met, the committee did not call it to order until 11:30 a. m. Wednesday. The report of the credentials committee was then presented. It shut out Irving Hall entirely, and was unanimously adopted. The county Democracy and Tammany divided the seventeen seats of New York city evenly between them. The temporary organization was made permanent. Another recess was then taken, and at 1:18 the convention again reassembled, and the platform was read by ex-Governor Dorsheimer, the convention first passing resolutions in memory of Samuel J. Tilden, Horatio Seymour, Vice President Hendricks, and Gens. McClellan and Hancock, and another indorsing the administration of the national treasury by Daniel Manning.

The platform declares for a reduction in national taxation of $100,000,000 annually, the reduction to be made in such a manner as to subserve the interests of capital and labor employed in American industries. The reduction or removal entirely of the taxes on imported raw materials is urged first and with them those which increase the cost of necessaries of life to the laborer. It urges the adoption of measures advocated by Manning and Hewitt for simplification and economy in collecting the customs revenue, lauds the Democracy for the action of congress in reclaiming railway lands, and declares it the true friend of all who come to this country to assume the proper duties of citizenship, and considers the laws now regulating immigration sufficient if they be enforced; advocates and approves of the civil service laws, state and national, but suggests that they be submitted to a popular vote; declares that the Democracy has faithfully remembered the soldiers of the union, and more liberally provided for them than the Republicans had done; sympathizes with Ireland; favors a ten hour law for laborers, and a law requiring the payment of wages to day laborers weekly, also all legislation calculated to benefit workingmen; heartily indorses the administration of Governor Hill and President Cleveland, and pledges the president the strong and unwavering confidence and support of the Democracy of New York, and favors a revised excise law and opposes all sumptuary enactments.

The platform was unanimously adopted with tumultuous cheers, and the following state ticket was nominated: For secretary of state, Frederick Cook; for comptroller, Edward Wemple; for state treasurer, Lawrence L. Fitzgerald; for state engineer, John Bogert.

The usual votes of thanks were then adopted and the convention adjourned sine die.

GOVERNOR AMES RENOMINATED.

Proceedings of the Massachusetts Republican Convention.

BOSTON, Sept. 29.—There were 1,027 delegates present at the call of the roll of the Republican state convention which was called to order Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock. The organization was rapidly effected, with E. W. Rockwell, of Pittsfield, for chairman, and the committees were promptly ready to report. The platform committee reported a series of resolutions which advocate a protective tariff, liberal appropriations for naval reconstruction, internal improvements, national aid to education, and liberal pensions to war veterans; also, to reduce the surplus by a reduction of internal revenue taxation; declare for revision of the internal revenue system, and consideration of the tariff on sugar, with improved administration of the customs laws, especially in regard to under-valuations; demand an honest ballot and condemn the systematic suppression of the Republican vote on the south and recent unblushing frauds in the north; pledge the party to maintenance of civil service reform in the state, and approve of its application and extension in national administration; denounce the Democracy for practically destroying the efficacy of the law by administering it in a hostile spirit, and declare that party an advocate of the doctrine "to the victors belong the spoils;" demand the cessation of compulsory silver coinage, the passage of a national bankrupt law and the upholding of our fishing rights; advocate a thorough restriction of the liquor traffic and the continued enactment of progressive temperance measures, together with the submission to the people of a prohibitory amendment to the constitution.

The platform was adopted without a dissenting voice and the following state ticket put in the field: For governor, Oliver Ames; for lieutenant governor, J. Q. A. Brackett; for secretary of state, H. B. Pierce; for state treasurer, A. W. Beard; for state auditor, C. R. Ladd; for attorney general, A. J. Waterman.

The convention then adjourned sine die.

MAY TAKE THEIR "TODS."

Tennesseans Not Yet Ready to Strangle the "Demon."

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 1.—Returns from fifty-six counties, some of which are semi-official, give the Anti-Prohibitionists a majority of 9,856. From the present indications the state will go west by 18,000 majority. Davidson county gave 2,802 majority against the proposed amendment. It will be several days before the official vote of the state will be reached.

BUSINESS NOTES.

The Lincoln, Neb., Fire Insurance company has failed after one year's business. The loss to stockholders, it is said, will reach $100,000. A receiver will be appointed.

Knapp, Stout & Co., Tuesday sold their saw mills, pine lands, and lumber interests along the Red Cedar river to the Mississippi Logging company for $6,500,000.

The report of the receiver of the insolvent cattle firm of Swan Bros., made Thursday at Cheyenne, Wy. T., shows assets of $869,969.72. The inference is that if forced sales are not made, creditors will be paid in full.

The appraisement of the property of Robert Hare Powell & Co., and Robert Hare Powell's Sons & Co., who failed Aug. 29, has been finished. The assets amount to $4,238,064.40; liabilities, $1,700,000.

A receiver has been appointed for the Sewerage and Sewage Utilization company, of New York, on a judgment for $85,921. The company was incorporated in 1883, with a capital stock of $500,000.

At New York, Thursday, the receiver of the defunct firm of Mitchell, Vance & Co., gas fixtures, reported to a meeting of creditors actual assets of $504,558, with liabilities of $1,230,525.

LOVERING FOR GOVERNOR.

Massachusetts Democrats in Convention Assembled Nominate a Ticket.

WORCESTER, Mass., Sept. 29.—Tuesday opened bright and pleasant for the Democratic state convention. Although 11 o'clock was the hour for which the state convention was called, at that time the hall presented a bare appearance. At 11:30 Chairman Patrick A. Collins, of the central committee, with the convention was called to order by Mr. Collins. Sacrificing Alger then read the call, after which a temporary organization was effected with P. A. Collins, chairman, and A. H. Alger, secretary. The committees were then appointed. Chairman Collins then appointed a committee to escort Mr. French, the chairman of the committee on permanent organization, to the platform. He was received with great applause. Mr. French made a brief speech. When Mr. French had closed his address nominations were called for and the ticket was made up as follows: For governor, H. B. Lovering, Lynn; lieutenant governor, Walter E. Cummings, of Pittsfield; secretary of state, John F. Murphy, of Lowell; treasurer, Henry Thatcher, of Yarmouth; attorney general, John W. Corcoran, of Clinton; auditor, William F. Cook, of Springfield.

A Sound Legal Opinion.

E. Bainbridge Munday Esq. County Atty., Clay Co., Tex says: "Have used Electric Bitters, with most happy results. My brother also was very low with Malaria Fever and Jaundice, but was cured by timely use of this medicine. Am satisfied Electric Bitters saved his life."

Mr. D. L. Wilcoxson, of Horse Cave, Ky., adds a like testimony, saying: He positively believes he would have died, had it not been for Electric Bitters.

This great remedy will ward off, as well as cure all Malarial Diseases, and for all Kidney, Liver and Stomach Disorders stands unequaled. Price 50c. and $1.

C. A. Wright & Co.

A Boy's Prayer.—Omaha Mamma—There, now, stop chattering and say your prayers.

Little Son—Make sister shut up, so I can. Say, mamma, can't—

"I told you to stop talking."

"I know. Can you—"

"Say your prayers."

"Yes, I'm goin' to. Now I laymedowntosleep I prayth' Lordmysoultokeekifishouldiedbeforeiwake I pray'th Lordmysoultotakesaymamma, can you move your ears?"

Remarkable Surgery.

The science of surgery has made such wonderful progress in modern times, that the most intricate and delicate and delicate operations are now undertaken and carried to a successful issue. There are now several well authenticated cases of what is known as pneumotony, that is to say, the removal of diseased portions of the lungs in cases of consumption. While, however, this delicate operation has sometimes been successfully performed, the risks attending it are so great, and the chances of recovery so slight, that it is seldom resorted to. The safest plan in consumptive cases is to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This will always cure the disease in its earlier stages, thoroughly arresting the ravages of the terrible malady, by removing its cause and healing the lungs.

"Here is a letter for you, madam." The mistress took it and looked at it. "It looks like a bill," said she.

"Arrah no, madam, it can't be a bill. Sure they don't send bills through the post office."

"What makes you think that?"

"Well, madam, down at the post office I see a sign, an' it's got printed on it "Post no bills."

The New Prize Story

is eagerly sought for, read with pleasure or disappointment, is then tossed aside and forgotten. But ladies who read of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, read it again, for they discover in it something to prize—a messenger of joy to those suffering from functional derangements of any of the painful disorders or weakness peculiar to their sex. Periodical pains, internal inflammation and ulceration, readily yields to its wonderful curative and healing powers. It is the only medicine for women, sold by druggist, under a positive guarantee from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. This guarantee has been printed on the bottle-wrapper, and faithfully carried out for many years.

"I wish things was shared out evener," said a Cincinnati boy, watching the colored man at the house opposite washing the sidewalk. His fond mamma was about to commend his sympathy with the poor workingmen when he astonished her by adding with emphasis: "Then we could have a colored man and a hose."

An Imperative Necessity.

What pure air is to an unhealthy locality, what spring cleaning is to the neat housekeeper, so is Hood's Sarsaparilla to everybody, at this season. The body needs to be thoroughly renovated, the blood purified and vitalized, the germs of disease destroyed. Scrofula, Salt rheum, and all other blood disorders are cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla, the most popular and successful spring medicine.

Colleges do the best they can for young men. They teach them what to think and how to think it. They furnish everything the young man needs except brains.

A Lady's Unfortunate Experience.

Was that of one of our acquaintances who suffered from scrofula, a yellow complexion, and distress of the stomach for years before using Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic, which finally cured her.

IMPORTANT.

When you visit or leave New York City, save Baggage Expressage and carriage Hire and stop at the Grand Union Hotel, opposite Grand Central Depot. Elegant rooms fitted up at a cost of one million dollars. $1.00 and upwards per day. European plan. Elevator. Restaurant supplied with the best. Horse cars, stages and elevated railroads to all depots. Families can live better for less money at this hotel than at any other first class hotel in the city.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. The Original LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS. ALWAYS ASK FOR DR. PIERCE'S PELLETS, OR LITTLE SUGAR-COATED PILLS.

Being entirely vegetable, they operate without disturbance to the system, diet, or occupation. Put up in glass vials, hermetically sealed. Always fresh and reliable. As a laxative, alterative, or purgative, these little Pellets give the most perfect satisfaction.

SICK HEADACHE,

Bilious Headache, Dizziness, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all disorganizations of the stomach and bowels, are promptly relieved and permanently cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. In explanation of the remedial power of these Pellets over so great a variety of diseases, it may truthfully be said that their action upon the system is universal, not a gland or tissue escaping their salutary influence. Sold by druggists, 25 cents a vial. Manufactured at the Chemical Laboratory of WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.

$500 REWARD

is offered by the manufacturers of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, for a case of Chronic Nasal Catarrh which they cannot cure.

SYMPTOMS OF CATARRH. Dull, heavy headache, obstruction of the nasal passages, discharges falling from the head into the throat, sometimes profuse, watery and acrid, at others, thick, tenacious, mucous, purulent, bloody and putrid; the eyes are weak, watery, and inflamed; there is ringing in the ears, deafness, hacking or coughing to clear the throat, expectoration of offensive matter, together with scabs from ulcers; the voice is changed and has a nasal twang; the breath is offensive; smell and taste are impaired; there is a sensation of dizziness, with mental depression, a hacking cough and general debility. Only a few of the above named symptoms are likely to be present in any one case. Thousands of cases annually, with a manifesting half of the above symptoms, result in consumption, and end in the grave. No disease is so common, more deceptive nor dangerous, or less understood by physicians. By its mild, soothing, and healing properties Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures the worst cases of Catarrh, "cold in the head," Coryza, and Catarrhal Headache. Sold by druggists everywhere, 50 cents.

"Untold Agony from Catarrh."

Prof. W. HAUSNER, the famous medium of Ithaca, N. Y., writes: "Some years ago I suffered untold agony from catarrh. My family physician gave me up as incurable, and said I might die. My case was such a bad one, that every day towards sunset, my voice would become so hoarse I could barely speak above a whisper, my coughing and choking at times almost strangle me. By the use of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy in three months I was a man, and the cure has lasted ever since."

"Constantly Hawking and Spitting."

THOMAS J. [illegible], St. Louis, [illegible] from catarrh for three years. Nostrils almost stopped up, hardly breathe, at times [illegible] and spitting, [illegible] could not breath through the nostrils, thought nothing could do him good. Finally was advised to try Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, and I am now a well man. I consider it to be the only sure remedy for catarrh manufactured, and I have had ample proof in my own case. I have had a fair trial to experience astonishing results and a permanent cure."

Three Bottles Cure Catarrh.

ELI ROBBINS, Runson P. O., Columbia Co., Pa., says: "My daughter had catarrh when she was five years old, very badly. I saw Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy advertised, and procured a bottle for her, and soon saw that it helped her; a third bottle effected a permanent cure. She is now eighteen years old and sound and hearty."

HARTER'S IRON TONIC

THE ONLY TRUE

Will purify the BLOOD, regulate the LIVER and KIDNEYS and RESTORE the HEALTH and VIGOR of YOUTH. Dyspepsia, Want of Appetite, Indigestion, Lack of Strength and Tired Feeling absolutely cured. Bones, muscles and nerves receive new force. Enlivens the mind and supplies Brain Power.

LADIES Suffering from complaints peculiar to their sex will find in DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC a safe, speedy cure. Gives a clear, healthy complexion. All attempts at counterfeiting only adds to its popularity. Do not experiment—get ORIGINAL AND BEST.

Dr. HARTER'S LIVER PILLS Cure Constipation, Liver Complaint and Sick Headache. Sample Dose and Dream Book mailed on receipt of two cents in postage.

THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

Tutt's Pills

stimulates the torpid liver, strengthens the digestive organs, regulates the bowels, and are unequaled as an

ANTI-BILIOUS MEDICINE.

In malarial districts their virtues are widely recognized, as they possess peculiar properties in freeing the system from that poison. Elegantly sugar coated. Dose small. Price, 25cts.

Sold Everywhere.

Office, 44 Murray St., New York.

CARTER WHITE LEAD. We have in stock this unrivaled brand of strictly pure White Lead, which is warranted to cover one-third more surface than any other White Lead in the market. Send sample order and prove this statement.

GLASS!

We have decided to handle exclusively PITTSBURGH CELEBRATED NATURAL GAS WINDOW GLASS—which is about equal to French. If your dealer does not keep it, have him do so or order direct of us. We also have SILVER IC Polished Plate in stock. Orders promptly filled.

WM. REID.

Sand 75 Larned Street west, DETROIT.

Brewster's Pat. Rein Holder

You lines are where you put them—not under the seat. One Agent sold 12 for his first hour; one dealer sold 6 dozen in 2 days. Samples worth $5 FREE. Write for terms.

E. E. BREWSTER, Holly, Mich.

DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER

MOST PERFECT MADE

No Ammonia, Lime, Alum or Phosphates

Scene in one of the Departments of the PRICE BAKING POWDER COMPANY'S MANUFACTORY, THE LARGEST IN THE WORLD. Canning Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder.

TEMPLE, McCLURE & CO.,

Successors to

Wolcott, Temple & Co.,

Wholesale and Retail Dealers in

Lumber, Lath, Shingles, Sash and Doors

AND ALL KINDS OF BUILDING MATERIAL.

Planing, Sawing, Matching to Order

Mill and Yard North of Railroad Depot.

TECUMSEH, MICHIGAN.

E. R. STEBBINS, Adrian,

Furniture, Carpets, Crockery, Children's Cabs

Picture Frames, Curtains, Fixtures, Etc.

My stock is the LARGEST and best ever shown in Southern Michigan, arranged in 12 Ware Rooms covering over 12,000 feet of Floor in Stebbins' block, and all selected with great care for quality.

It was bought with cash down, enabling me to defy all competition as PRICES for same quality of goods. All goods warranted as represented. It will pay the northern tier of towns to examine our goods and prices.

MY STOCK OF CARPETS IS VERY L

NEW BEDROOM SUITS

PARLOR SUITS

Patent Rockers, Reed Rockers, New Goods

And a big stock of Fine and Medium

FURNITURE

I invite all who are in want of good Furniture to look through my rooms, examine goods and notice the low prices. Remember, I have not moved back, but still occupy the largest store on the street for the last 13 years. You are told I don't enjoy the business for want of room. THAT IS SO.

Undertaking a Specialty!

Night Calls, Day Calls, and all kinds of calls promptly attended. Best styles of Caskets in stock, and something entirely new for the

WM. McCOWEN

A HANDSOME WEDDING, BIRTHDAY OR HOLIDAY PRESENT

THE WONDERFUL LUBURG CHAIR

Combining a Parlor, Library, Smoking, Reclining CHAIR, LOUNGE, BED, or COUCH, Price $7.00 and up. Send stamp for Catalogue.

CHILDREN'S CARRIAGES

All furnished with the Automatic Coach Brake, at our Wholesale Prices. Send stamp for Catalogue.

LUBURG MANF'G CO., 146 N. 8th St., Phila.

E'S
EAM WDER
me. Alum or Phosphate of the Departments of the
DER COMPANY'S MANUFACTORY
GEST IN THE WORLD.
rice's Cream Baking Powder.
URE & CO.,
le & Co.,
lerpin
Sash and Doo
NG MATERIAL.
ching to Ord
ilroad Depot.
CHIGAN.
S, Adrian,
ry, Children's Ca
s, Fixtures, Etc.
own in Southern Mic
r 12,000 feet of Floori great care for quali to defy all competition goods warranted as rep
r of towns to examine ices.
S IS VERY F
OM SUI
R SUIT
ckers, New Y
Fine and Med
TURE
tune to look through my roo ices. Remember, I have argest store on the street fo
I don't enjoy the busi-
THAT IS SO.
a Specialty!
calls promptly attended
ing entirely new for th
COWEN
DAY OR HOLIDAY PRE DERFUL
URG CH
brary, Smoking, Reclining
OUNGE, BED, or COUCH and up. Send stamp for Catalogue.
REN'S CARR
e Automatic Coach Pa
Send stamp for catalogue.
146 N. 8th St., Phil

KASKINE.
(THE NEW QUININE.)

More Strongly Vouched for Than any Other Drug of Modern Times.

A POWERFUL TONIC
at the most delicate stomach will bear.
SPECIFIC FOR MALARIA,
RHEUMATISM,
NERVOUS PROSTRATION,
And all germ diseases.
THE MOST SCIENTIFIC AND SUCCESSFUL
FOOD BITTER. Superior to quinine.
Inherited neuralgia made life a torment to me for many years I had suffered greatly from dyspepsia. The attacks were often so severe I could not eat or sleep, and was totally unfitted for business. A few doses of Kaskine greatly relieved me. Its continued use cured me. It gave me sleep, health and a restful life. I believe in Kaskine.—J. J. Benson, 141 N. Pearl st., Albany, N. Y.
Hon. Seldon Thompson, the oldest and one of the most respected citizens of Bridgeport, Conn., writes: "I am ninety years of age, and for the last three years have suffered from malaria and the effects of quinine poisoning. I recently became acquainted with Kaskine which broke up the malaria and increased my weight 22 pounds.
Letters from the above persons, giving full details, will be sent on application.
Kaskine is pleasant to take and can be used without special medical advice. $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5.
Sent by mail on receipt of price.
KASKINE CO., 54 Warren st., New York.

PATENTS F. A. LEHMANN, Washington, D. C. Send for circular.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Cleanses and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. Cures scalp diseases and hair falling. 50c. at Druggists.

HINDERCORNS.
The safest, surest and best cure for Corns, Bunions, &c. Stops all pain. Ensures comfort to the feet. Never fails to cure. 15 cents at Druggists. Hiscox & Co., N. Y.

MARVELOUS
MEMORY
DISCOVERY.
Wholly unlike artificial systems.
Any book learned in one reading.
Recommended by Mark Twain, Richard Proctor, the Scientist; Hons. W. W. Astor, Judah P. Benjamin, Dr. Minor, etc. Class of 100 Columbia Law students; two classes of 200 each at Yale; one at University of Penn. Phil., and 400 at Wellesley College, and 3 large classes at Chautauqua University. Prospectus post free from
PROF. LOISETTE, 237 Fifth Ave., New York.

DEAFNESS Its causes and a new and successful CURE at your own home by one who was deaf 28 years. Treated by most of the noted specialists without benefit. Cured himself in three months, and since cured hundreds of others. Full particulars sent on application.
T. S. Page, No. 41 West 31st st., New York City.

Agric'ltur'l Implement
DEPOT.
C. A. SLAYTON
is prepared to make lower prices than ever before on first-class farm machinery. My stock is complete, but will only mention a few articles.

PLOWS, { SOUTH BEND, BUROH, WIARD, GALE, OLIVER. } Walking.

THE CASSADY AND SOLID COMFORT SULKY PLOWS.
Kalamazoo Spring Tooth Harrow,
"ACME" PULVERIZING HARROWS.
CULTIVATORS { Elwood, New Robbins, Albion, Buckeye.
Buckeye, Superior, Monitor, Roller, } GRAIN DRILLS
KEMP'S MANURE SPREADER.
Studebaker, Jackson and Flint
WAGONS.
GREAT BARGAINS IN Carriages and Platform Spring Wagons.
Headquarters for Lime, Cement, Salt, Coal, Cal. Plaster and Plastering Hair Grain, Flour, Feed, and Field Seeds.

Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic R. R.
"THE SOO-MACKINAW SHORT LINE."
The only direct route to Marquette and the iron and copper regions of the upper peninsula of Michigan.
Two through express trains each way daily, making close connections at union depots at all points.
New, Elegant and Commodious
WAGNER PARLOR CARS
AND
Superb Wagner Sleeping Cars,
Built expressly for this line on all express trains.
The territory traversed is famous for its
UNEXCELLED HUNTING AND FISHING.
Tickets for sale at all points via this route. For maps, folders, rates and information, address, E. W. ALLEN, General Passenger and Ticket Agent, Marquette, Mich.

N.Y. & N.E. SHOE MFRS. SELLING AGCY.
182 JEFF. AVE. DETROIT.
WRITE FOR PRICE LIST.
BOOTS, SHOES RUBBERS & FELTS.

TO ADVERTISERS and meet with success requires a knowledge of the value of newspapers, and a correctly displayed advt. To secure such information as will enable you to advertise JUDICIOUSLY CONSULT LORD AND THOMAS NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING, CHICAGO, ILLINOIS.

FOR HONOR'S SAKE.

By B. L. FARJEON.

Author of "Great Porter Square," "The Bright Star of Life," Etc.

PART THE FIRST.

THE TRIAL OF EDWARD LAYTON.

CHAPTER I.

A STRANGE DECISION.

This morning, at the central criminal court, Mr. Justice Fenmore resumed the trial of Edward Layton for the willful murder of his wife, Agnes Layton, on the morning of the 26th of March, by the administration of poisonous narcotics in such quantities as to produce death. Extraordinary as was the excitement caused by yesterday's proceedings, the public interest in this mysterious murder was intensified by the strange decision arrived at by the prisoner on this the third day of his trial.

The Attorney General, Mr. J. Protheroe, Q. C., and Mr. Standing conducted the case on behalf of the crown.

The widely spread rumor that an episode of a startling character was impending received confirmation immediately upon the entrance of the prisoner in the dock. He presented a careworn appearance, and while the usual formalities were in progress it was observed that he and his counsel (Mr. Bainbridge, Q. C.) were in earnest consultation, and it appeared as if the learned gentleman was endeavoring to overcome some resolution which the prisoner had formed. At the termination of this conversation Mr. Bainbridge, turning to the bench, said:

"I have to claim your lordship's indulgence for a statement which I find it necessary to make. It is in the remembrance of your lordship that on the first day of this trial the prisoner was undefended, being, as it appears, resolutely determined to defend himself. Yesterday morning—that is, upon the second day of the trial—I informed your lordship that the prisoner had been prevailed upon by his friends to intrust his defense to me. Being satisfied in my own mind that nothing would occur to disturb this arrangement—which I venture to say was an advisable one—I did not feel called upon to mention that the prisoner's consent to accept legal aid was very reluctantly given. That this was so, however, is proved by what has since transpired. Both in writing and by word of mouth the prisoner now insists upon conducting his own case, and has distinctly informed me that he will not permit me to act for him. I am empowered to say that his decision is not in any sense personal to myself. It is simply, and regrettably, that he has resolved not to be defended or represented by counsel. In these circumstances I have no option but to place myself in your lordship's hands.

Prisoner—My lord——

Mr. Justice Fenmore.—Silence. Your counsel will speak for you.

Prisoner—My lord, I have no counsel. I am defending myself, and no person shall speak for me.

Mr. Justice Fenmore—Prisoner at the bar, it is my duty to tell you that the decision at which you have arrived is grave and unwise.

Prisoner—Of that, my lord, I am the best judge.

Mr. Justice Fenmore—You may not be. It is scarcely necessary for me to point out to you, a man of intelligence and good education, that there are points in every case, and especially in a case so momentous as this, which an unjudicial, or, to speak more correctly, a mind not legally trained, is almost certain to overlook.

Prisoner—I understand your lordship, and I thank you; but if my acquittal of the terrible crime for which I am now being tried is to be brought about by legal technicalities, I shall prefer not to owe my release to those means. It is better than any man here—and I am, indeed, the actual murderer be present—know whether I am innocent or guilty, and in the course I have determined to pursue I am acting in what I believe to be my best interests. Your lordship has referred to me as a man of intelligence and good education. These qualifications will sufficiently serve me, but I do not rely upon them alone. I have really had some sort of legal training, and as I assuredly know that I shall conduct my own defense in a manner which will recommend itself to my heart and my conscience, so do I believe that, if I choose to exercise it—and I suppose most men in my position would so choose—I have legal knowledge sufficient for my needs. The learned counsel who has addressed your lordship has put the matter most fairly. My consent that he should defend me was reluctantly given, and I reserved to myself the right to withdraw it. He has mentioned that this withdrawal is not personal to himself. It is true. To him, above all others, would I intrust my defense, were it not that I have cogent and imperative reasons for trusting no man. I shall not displease one so earnest and high minded as he when I state that he once gave me his friendship, and that I felt honored by it. Your lordship will pardon me for this statement, the admission of which I feel to be unusual in such a case. I have made it only for the purpose of emphasizing his correct view. My lord, I stand upon my rights. I will conduct my own defense."

The trial was then proceeded with.

CHAPTER II.

THE EVIDENCE OF JAMES MOORHOUSE, COACHMAN.

The first witness called was James Moorhouse, whose manner when he was called forward to with great interest, as likely to tell heavily either for or against the prisoner. He is a sturdy man of middle age, with an expression of intense earnestness in his face, and although he gave his evidence in a perfectly straightforward manner, it was apparent that his sympathies were with the prisoner.

The Attorney General—Your name is James Moorhouse?

Witness—It is, sir.

The Attorney General—Were you in the prisoner's employment?

Witness—Yes, sir.

The Attorney General—In what capacity?

Witness—As his coachman.

The Attorney General—For how long were you so employed?

Witness—For a matter of three years.

The Attorney General—Are you a teetotaler?

Witness—Yes, sir.

The Attorney General—During the three years you worked for the prisoner were you in the habit of driving him out regularly?

Witness—Yes, sir; pretty nearly every day.

The Attorney General—Were you the only coachman in the establishment?

Witness—I was, sir.

The Attorney General—Being in his employment so long you are, I suppose, perfectly familiar with his figure?

Witness—I am, sir; without hearing his voice, I should know him in the dark.

The Attorney General—You are sure of that?

Witness—Quite sure, sir.

The Attorney General—Is your eyesight good?

Witness—It is very strong. I can see a longish way.

The Attorney General—You have been in the habit of driving the prisoner often at night?

Witness—Yes, sir.

The Attorney General—And your eyes, therefore, have got attuned to his figure, as it were?

Witness—Yes, sir.

The Attorney General—You have had to look out for him on dark nights from a distance?

Witness—I have had to do that, sir.

The Attorney General—When the people were coming out of the theatre for instance?

Witness—Yes, sir, and at other places as well.

The Attorney General—Therefore, it is not likely you could be mistaken in him?

Witness—It hardly possible, sir.

The Attorney General—You remember the night of the 25th of March?

Witness—Yes, sir, and the day too.

The Attorney General—Why do you include the day in your answer?

Witness—Because it was the hardest day's work I have done for many a year.

The Attorney General—The hardest day's driving, do you mean?

Witness—Yes, sir. I was on the box from 11 o'clock in the morning till an hour past midnight.

The Attorney General—Driving your master, the prisoner?

Witness—Yes, sir.

The Attorney General—And no other person?

Witness—Not till evening, sir. It was about——

The Attorney General—We will come to the particulars presently. You were not driving all the time?

Witness—No, sir; the horses couldn't have stood it.

The Attorney General—Do you mean that there were stoppages?

Witness—Yes, sir.

The Attorney General—Did the prisoner usually work his horses so hard?

Witness—Not at all, sir. He was a good master to man and beast.

The Attorney General—Why do you look so frequently at the prisoner?

Witness—I can't tell you, sir, except that I shouldn't like to say anything to hurt him.

The Attorney General—But you are here to speak the truth.

Witness—I intend to speak it, sir.

The Attorney General—For reasons which you have given, your remembrance of what occurred on the 25th of March is likely to be exceptionally faithful?

Witness—For those and other reasons, sir.

The Attorney General—Now, commence on the morning of that day. What were your first instructions?

Witness—To be ready with the carriage at 11 o'clock.

The Attorney General—You were ready?

Witness—Yes, sir.

The Attorney General—In what way did you fix the time? By guessing?

Witness—By my watch, sir—the best timekeeper in London.

The Attorney General—At 11 o'clock, then, you were on the box, waiting for your master?

Witness—Yes, sir.

The Attorney General—He came out to you?

Witness—Yes, sir.

The Attorney General—Did he tell you immediately where to drive to?

Witness—Not immediately, sir. He stood with his hand on the carriage door, and seemed to be considering.

The Attorney General—Did he remain long considering?

Witness—For three or four minutes, sir, which seemed a longish time.

The Attorney General—And then?

Witness—Then he told me to drive to Finchley.

The Attorney General—What address did he give you?

Witness—None in particular, sir. He said, "Drive to Finchley, on the road to High Barnet. I will tell you when to stop."

The Attorney General—Well?

Witness—I drove as directed, and when we were about midway between Finchley and High Barnet he called to me to stop.

The Attorney General—Were you then at the gate, or in front of any house?

Witness—No, sir. We were on the high road and there was no house within twenty yards of us.

The Attorney General—Are you familiar with the locality?

Witness—No, sir. I am not.

The Attorney General—You had never driven your master there before?

Witness—Never, sir.

The Attorney General—Would you be able to mark the point of stoppage on a map of the road between Finchley and High Barnet?

Witness—I will try, sir, but I shouldn't like to be positive.

(A map was here handed to the witness, who, after a careful study of it, made a mark upon it with a pencil.)

The Attorney General—You will not swear that this is the exact spot?

Witness—No, sir.

The Attorney General—But to the best of your knowledge it is?

Witness—Yes, sir, to the best of my knowledge.

The Attorney General—The prisoner called to you to stop. What then?

Witness—I drew up immediately and he got out.

The Attorney General—What were his next instructions?

Witness—He told me to wait for him and to turn the horses' heads.

The Attorney General—Toward London?

Witness—Yes, sir.

The Attorney General—Did he say how long he would be away?

Witness—About five or ten minutes, he said.

The Attorney General—In point of fact, how long was it before he returned?

Witness—Thirty-two minutes by my watch.

The Attorney General—You always time yourself?

Witness—Yes, sir, always; it's a habit.

The Attorney General—Did he make any remark upon his return about his being more longer than he expected?

Witness—No, sir; he seemed to be occupied with something.

The Attorney General—Occupied in thinking of something?

Witness—Yes, sir.

The Attorney General—When he left you, in what direction did he go?

Witness—He walked on toward High Barnet till he came to a lane in the road. He went round that, and I lost sight of him.

The Attorney General—Did he return the same way?

Witness—No, sir; he startled me a bit.

The Attorney General—How?

Witness—I was looking out for him in the direction he had taken, when I suddenly heard him speak at my elbow.

The Attorney General—How do you account for it?

Witness—He must have taken a short cut back across some fields. If I had seen him [illegible] but I was standing in the road, and there was a hedge, more than man high, on the side he came back to me.

The Attorney General—What did you do when he reappeared?

Witness—I prepared to start.

The Attorney General—Did he say [illegible] immediately where to drive to?

Witness—No, sir. He stood considering, just as he did when we first set out.

The Attorney General—And then?

Witness—He told me to drive back the way we had come, but not to drive too quickly.

The Attorney General—You did so?

Witness—Yes, sir.

The Attorney General—Where did you next stop?

Witness—Midway between Finchley and Cricklewood.

The Attorney General—At a house?

Witness—No, sir; at a part of the road, where there were no houses.

The Attorney General—He called to you, as before, to stop?

Witness—Yes, sir. He got out, and said, "Moorhouse, meet me here in about an hour or an hour and a quarter." I said, "Yes, sir," and I asked him whether I should bait the horses at an inn we had passed half a mile down the road. He did not answer me, but walked quickly away.

The Attorney General—Can you say why he did not answer you?

Witness—No, sir, except that he did not hear me.

The Attorney General—You spoke distinctly?

Witness—Yes, sir.

The Attorney General—Have you observed, at any time during your employment, that he was at all deaf?

Witness—No, sir; but he seemed, the whole of that day, to have something on his mind which kept him from thinking of anything else, or attending to it.

The Attorney General—After he walked quickly away, what did you do?

Witness—As I had more than an hour to spare I drove back to the inn I spoke of and baited my horses, and had a bite of bread and cheese myself.

The Attorney General—Anything to drink?

Witness—A bottle of ginger beer.

The Attorney General—Timing yourself as usual, were you back on the spot you left the prisoner at the end of the hour and a quarter?

Witness—To the minute.

The Attorney General—Was he waiting for you?

Witness—No, sir. I saw nothing of him for another two hours.

The Attorney General—Did he return by the road he quitted you?

Witness—No, sir. He came back another way.

The Attorney General—As before?

Witness—Yes, sir; as before.

The Attorney General—What time was it then?

Witness—Seven o'clock.

The Attorney General—Was it getting dark?

Witness—It was already dark, sir, and beginning to drizzle.

The Attorney General—What were the next instructions?

Witness—To drive to the Metropolitan Music hall, Edgeware road.

The Attorney General—You drove there?

Witness—Yes, sir, and my master got out.

The Attorney General—Saying what?

Witness—Moorhouse, he said: "I don't know how long I shall remain here. It may be an hour or only a few minutes. Keep near."

The Attorney General—You obeyed his instructions?

Witness—Yes, sir. I kept within hail, and my master came out at half-past nine.

The Attorney General—Alone?

Witness—No, sir. He was accompanied by a man.

The Attorney General—A young or an old man?

Witness—I can't say.

The Attorney General—But you saw him?

Witness—Only his back. They walked away from the carriage.

The Attorney General—There is generally something in the gait of a man which, within limits, denotes his age—that is to say, as whether he is young or old? Cannot you be guided by that fact?

Witness—No, sir. I paid no particular attention to him. It was my master I was chiefly observing.

The Attorney General—You have not the slightest idea as to the age of the man who came out of the Metropolitan Music hall with the prisoner.

Witness—Not the slightest, sir.

The Attorney General—Did you observe nothing particular as to his dress? Was there any peculiarity about it?

Witness—I observed nothing particular about him. Whatever I might say of the man, paying such little attention to him, wouldn't be worth much.

The Attorney General—I recognize that you are giving your evidence in a very fair manner, and if I press you upon any point it is for the purpose of assisting your memory. You recollect that the prisoner on that night wore a coat of a distinct pattern?

Witness—Yes, sir. He had on an ulster with a Scotch check, which couldn't be mistaken.

The Attorney General—What was it lined with?

Witness—With blue cloth.

The Attorney General—He wore this ulster when he entered the music hall?

Witness—Yes, sir; and when he came out of the music hall.

The Attorney General—It is this which makes me think it likely you might have observed some distinguishing mark in the dress of the man who came out with him?

Witness—I have nothing in my mind, sir, respecting his dress.

The Attorney General—Very well. I will no longer press it. As to his height?

Witness—As well as I can remember, he was about the same height as my master.

The Attorney General—Did you notice the color of his hair, or whether it was long or short?

Witness—No, sir.

The Attorney General—If it had been long white hair, you would most likely have noticed it?

Witness—In that case, yes, sir.

The Attorney General—We may assume, then, that he had not long white hair?

Witness—I think I am safe in saying that much.

The Attorney General—Or white hair at all?

Witness—I shouldn't like to commit myself positively. If his hair had been white and short, I don't think it would have escaped me.

The Attorney General—Did he and the prisoner walk out of sight?

Witness—No, sir. They walked to the corner of a street, and stood there talking for a little while—I should say for fifteen or twenty minutes. Then the man went away, down the street, which hid him from me, and my master returned to the carriage.

The Attorney General—While they were talking, their backs were still turned to you?

Witness—Yes, sir.

The Attorney General—Was their anything observable in their manner of conversing? Were they calm? Did they remain perfectly still?

Witness—No, sir. My master was calm enough, but his companion appeared to be very excited. My master seemed to be trying to persuade him to do something.

The Attorney General—From their attitude, should you have assumed that his arguments prevailed?

Witness—I can't possibly say, sir.

The Attorney General—Well, then the man went away and the prisoner returned to you. What were his next directions?

Witness—To drive to Bloomsbury square, and stop where he directed me.

The Attorney General—You did so?

Witness—Yes, sir. When we reached the square in Queen street he pulled the check string, and I stopped there. He got out of the carriage and looked about him.

The Attorney General—As if in search of some person?

Witness—Yes, sir.

The Attorney General—Did he make any remark to you?

Witness—He said, "If you see a young lady in a gray cloak pass by, you can tell her I am in the square."

The Attorney General—Did he remain with you after that?

Witness—No, sir; he walked right round the square. When he came up to me he asked if I had seen a young lady dressed as he had described. I told him no, I hadn't, and he bade me keep a sharp look out, and left me again."

The Attorney General—To walk round the square again?

Witness—Yes, sir. He walked round three or four times, I should say, and every time he came up to me he asked me if I was sure I had not seen the young lady; if I was sure she had not passed me. I gave him the same answer as I did before, and he left me again. He could not have been more than half way round when I saw a lady in a gray cloak coming my way. She was walking hurriedly, and looking about her. I advanced to speak to her, but she started back the moment I made a step toward her, and ran to the other side of the road, and crossed into the square at a distance from me. I should have gone up to her had I not been afraid to leave my horses; but seeing that she began to walk round the square in the opposite direction my master had taken, I was satisfied that they must meet.

The Attorney General—In point of fact, did they meet? Relate what you saw that bears upon it.

Witness—A little while afterward I saw them together, talking to each other. They did not walk on the pavement close to the houses, but on the side, close to the railings. I don't know how many times they made the circle of the square, but they must have been away about twenty minutes or so. Then they came up to me together, and my master opened the door of the carriage, and the lady got in. When she was inside he said to me that there was no occasion for me to mention what I had seen, or that he had spoken to me about the lady.

The Attorney General—All this time was it raining?

Witness—Yes, sir.

The Attorney General—Did they have umbrellas?

Witness—Neither, of them, sir.

The Attorney General—They must have got wet?

Witness—They couldn't help getting wet.

The Attorney General—Did they seem to mind it?

Witness—They didn't say anything about it.

The Attorney General—While they were walking round the square, did they meet any persons?

Witness—A few passed them and they got out of their way, it seemed to me.

The Attorney General—As if they desired to avoid observation?

Witness—Yes, sir.

The Attorney General—That would be a reasonable construction to put upon the circumstance of their walking, during their conversation, on the least frequented side of the square, near the railings?

Witness—Yes, I think so.

The Attorney General—Although the neighborhood is a fairly busy one during the day, are there many people passing through Bloomsbury square at night?

Witness—Not many, I should say.

The Attorney General—The square is not very well lighted up?

Witness—Not very.

The Attorney General—Did you see a policeman while you were waiting?

Witness—One, and only once.

The Attorney General—Did he speak to you?

Witness—No, sir.

The Attorney General—He passed on through the square?

Witness—Yes, sir.

The Attorney General—Reference has been made to an ulster of a peculiar pattern which the prisoner was in the habit of wearing. You said it was an ulster which could not be mistaken. Are you certain of that?

Witness—Quite certain.

The Attorney General—Is it within your recollection how long the prisoner has worn this ulster?

Witness—He had it made last year.

The Attorney General—Would you recognize it if you saw it?

Witness—Oh, yes.

The Attorney General—Is this it? (Ulster produced.)

Witness—Yes, that is it.

The Attorney General—You swear to it?

Witness—I do.

The Attorney General—You have said that the prisoner came out of his house wearing this ulster. Now, on the occasion you have described, when the prisoner left his carriage and returned to it, was this ulster ever off his back?

Witness—He wore it all the time.

The Attorney General—You are positive he did not at any time leave you with this ulster on, and return wearing the other?

Witness—I am positive of it.

The Attorney General—After the lady got into the carriage, and the prisoner told you there was no occasion for you to mention what you had seen, or that he had spoken to you about the lady, what did he do?

Witness—He told me to drive to Prevost's restaurant, in Church street, Soho, and then he got into the carriage.

The Attorney General—At any time during the night did you see the lady's face?

Witness—Not at any time.

The Attorney General—Were you familiar with Prevost's restaurant?

Witness—No, I had never been there, and I was in doubt where Church street was. I had to inquire my way.

The Attorney General—Could not the prisoner tell you?

Witness—I asked him, and he said he could not direct me.

The Attorney General—However, you found the restaurant?

Witness—Yes.

The Attorney General—And then?

Witness—My master and the lady entered the restaurant.

The Attorney General—What did your master say to you?

Witness—He [illegible] door.

The Attorney General—Did you know what time it was when you drew up at the restaurant?

Witness—It was 10:50.

The Attorney General—How long were you kept waiting?

Witness—Exactly an hour and five minutes.

The Attorney General—That will bring it to five minutes to 12?

Witness—Yes, sir.

The Attorney General—Did the prisoner then come from the restaurant?

Witness—Yes, accompanied by the lady.

The Attorney General—It was still raining?

Witness—Raining hard now.

The Attorney General—Did he appear hurried? Was he excited?

Witness—His movements were very hurried, which I thought was due to the rain, and perhaps to his having had a little too much wine. He opened the door of the carriage quickly, and the lady jumped in, to avoid the rain, I suppose. My master got in quickly after her.

The Attorney General—But he gave you instructions?

Witness—All he said was, "Home!"

The Attorney General—Calmly?

Witness—No, sir. Although he only said one word, I noticed that his voice was thick. It was because of that I suspected he had taken a little too much wine.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

Hay Fever.

I have been a great sufferer from hay fever for 15 years, and have tried various things without doing any good. I read of the many wondrous cures of Ely's Cream Balm and thought I would try once more. In 15 minutes after one application I was wonderfully helped. Two weeks ago I commenced using it and now I feel entirely cured. It is the greatest discovery ever known or heard of.—Duhamel Clark, Farmer, Lynn, Mass.

The Indian summer seems to be off its reservation, with a slim prospect of its ever coming back again.

Give Them A Chance

That is to say, your lungs. Also all your breathing machinery. Very wonderful machinery it is. Not only the larger air-passages, but the thousands of little tubes and cavities leading from them.

When these are clogged and choked with matter which ought not to be there, your lungs cannot half do their work. And what they do, they cannot do well.

Call it cold, cough, croup, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption or any of the family of throat and nose and head and lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be got rid of. There is just one sure way to get rid of them. That is to take Boschee's German Syrup, which any druggist will sell you at 75 cents a bottle. Even if every thing else has failed you, you may depend upon this for certain.

Vocal and instrumental music have been added to the curriculum of the Hudson High School.

Found an Old Friend.

COLOMA, Mich., Dec. 3, 1885.

Gentlemen:—One of your circulars came to my notice to-day, and it reminds me of an old and very valuable friend, one that saved my life 12 years ago, and because I had not needed its help since, I had almost forgotten it. I was 16 years old, and suffering from menstrual derangement: I coughed continually and had chills every day. I was as miserable as any one could be and live. A lady who knew the cause of my illness persuaded my mother to have me use Zo-Phora—it was called Woman's Friend then. Before I had used one bottle my cough and chills ceased. I kept on and used two bottles and they brought me out all right. I afterwards married and am now the mother of three nice hearty children. I feel that I owe a great deal to Zo-Phora. I hope it will become well known, and that every woman and girl who needs it will use it. If you will send me some circulars I will give them to acquaintances, and do all I can to help you. Yours truly,

MRS. LAURA FURMAN,
Kalamazoo, Mich.

Salt Rheum

The agonies of those who suffer from severe salt rheum are indescribable. The cleansing, healing, purifying influences of Hood's Sarsaparilla are unequaled by any other medicine.

"I take pleasure in recommending Hood's Sarsaparilla, for it has done wonders for me. I had salt rheum very severely, treating me over nearly my entire body. Only those who have suffered from this disease in its worst form can imagine the extent of my affliction. I tried many medicines, but failed to receive benefit until I took Hood's Sarsaparilla. Then the disease began to subside, the disappeared, and now I am entirely free from the disease. My blood seems to be thoroughly purified, and my general health is greatly benefited." LYMAN ALLEN, Sexton N. E. Church, North Chicago, Ill.

Agonizing Itch and Pain

"My son had salt rheum on his hands and the calves of his legs, so bad that they would crack open and bleed. He took Hood's Sarsaparilla and is entirely cured." J. B. STANTON, Mt. Vernon, Ohio.

From 108 to 135

"I was seriously troubled with salt rheum for three years, and receiving no benefit from medical treatment I decided to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. I am now entirely cured of salt rheum, my weight has increased from 108 lbs. to 135." MRS. ALICE SMITH, Stamford, Conn.

If you suffer from salt rheum, or any blood disease, try Hood's Sarsaparilla. It has cured many others, and will cure you.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

Tecumseh Herald

TEMPERANCE COLUMN.

OUR HOMES DEMAND PROHIBITION AND THE BALLOT SECURES IT.

[illegible] days after the fair closed. The Ohio W. C. T. U. had a [illegible] hall there last year, and [illegible] simplicity this means. Keeping the [illegible] of [illegible] from them. The world [illegible] in this county.

We append the names of a few more Adrian subscribers.

W. S. Wilcox, Abel Whitney, N. S. [illegible] Jr., Dr. Todd, Mrs. [illegible] Beaman, D. D. Sullivan, Chas. Hi[illegible] Geo. J. F. Baker, Chas. W. Sc[illegible] and a large number of others.

DEATH OF JOHN B. FINCH.

The following dispatch appeared in Tuesday's papers:

John B. Finch, of Nebraska, the well known temperance advocate, [illegible] died on the train to Boston, and died shortly after his arrival.

